H.C. Ellsgood, a surgeon, was in the balcony at Lord Bagot's on the day of the funeral. At the contest at Cumberland-gate he waw ten soldiers and an officer come through to clear the way; several stones were thrown at them; at the time the hearse passed through, one man, who was guarding the hearse, received a stone on the stomach; the soldiers were repeatedly struck; the mob seemed, shortly after, quiet for a few minutes, which led witness to think the Riot Act was reading; saw several shots fired.

The Inquest was adjourned.

The Inquest was adjourned.

On Friday the Jury re-assembled.—J. P. George, resides about 100 yards from Cumberland gate; heard the people cry out, when the offices approached the gate, "D—a hlm, unhorse him;" the most pressed upon him, and he used his sword to keep them off; their vinkence was partigularly directed against him, and from the blows the witness saw him receive from stones and brick-bats, he must have been a good deal hurt.

Liout. Edmund Park, of the Blues, when passing through Comberland-gate, some stones were thrown, which were directed particularly to the Life Guards; when the hearse was turned into the proper direction, a shower of stones fell upon it, thrown by the mob, and many of the Life Guads were struck.

Cornet Thomas W. Gordon of the Blues confirmed the previous witness—the conduct of the Life Guards, in his opinion, was very good, they acted with great forbearance.

After examining a witness, named Scott, the Jury retired, and after remaining out for 25 minutes returned, finding a verdict of— Wilful Murder against a Life Guardeman, to us unknown as ADJOURNED INQUEST ON RICHARD HONEY .- The Jury met on Monday, at two o'clook, to resume the inquiry into the circum-stances connected with the death of this person.

The evidence was then resumed. It consisted principally of a repetition of that given by the former witnesses, in respect of the movements of the precession, and the obstacles thrown in the way of its progress by the Committee and the mob. There was considerable variation in the testimony of the several witnesses, as to the manner in which the unfortunate man met his death. We therefore merely give the substance of their testimony as te what they called the attack of the soldiery.

Brook Page, a French furniture polisher, stated that the people closed Kensington Gate, and would not let the funeral pass through. The soldiers began to chop away at the people's bands, till one of their swords broke short in two at the handle. At Cumberland Gate, he saw a large party of horse soldiers, the Life Guards clearing the way in a most desperate manner, riding and flourish-ing their swords, cutting and dashing in such a manner as caused ang their swords, curting and dashing in such a manner as caused many stones to fly. The first person who fired (as far as his recollection served) was an officer. After being pushed about for some time, he began to examina himself, to find whether he was hurt. Said the witness, "I found my hat shot through the crown in two places, and a shot in the coat, (which he exhibited.) I was a soldier, and aboard a man of war, but I never was in such a phillelus as that; I have been called, and I have fired in the air, but never fired as a part of the part of the such as a soldier. at a man in my life."

W. D. Jones stated, that when he got into the Park, he heard a great hallooing; the people had closed the gates; the soldiers struck the people with the flats of their swords. The people kept errying out something like "Butelors," "Piccadilly Butchers."
He afterwards heard some shots fired, the swords were then in the scabbards; they had their oarbines; soon after he saw an immense quantity of mud and stones thrown; then firing; he saw neither mud nor stones thrown by fore; he then moved on to Cumberland Gate; he there saw an officer fire, but could not tell whether any were bound, devosed nothing material.

Aungier Peacock Cropley, a young man, whose head and arm

The next witness was William Greig, of the City-road, A long confused Conversation took place, in which Mr. Henson, Mr. Alder-War, thiman, the Coroner, and almost the whole of the Jury, art. The witness also occasionally joined in.

In the course of the discussion, such as it was, the witness said, When I saw the soldiers attacking the people, I said to Sir Robert Raker, that I would hold him answerable.

A Juror .- Surely, Mr. Coroner, this ought to be taken as evi-

The witness observed, that Sir R. Baker said that the procession was to go through the city, and authorised him to tell this to Sheriff Waithman and Lord Hood; and be added this very important fact:

I must also say, that Sir R. Baker, on that day, acted towards me in a most gentlemanly manner. He behaved kimself like a man of feeling, and, I may say, like an Englishman." The rest of this witness's examination consisted of convenations with Sir R. Baker as to the route the procession was to take, but he spoke nothing to the fact for which the Jury met to inquire.

Josiub Deane stated, that when he pessed through Cumberland Gate, he saw a young officer cutting at the people. The witness said, "I spoke to the efficer, and said, There was no use in such violence.

it was merely slaughtering the people. He said, D--n you, keep out of the way, or else you shall feel the weight of this," flourishing at the same time his sword; and then he galloped very quickly towards Cumberland Gate." The soldiers were cutting at those who wards Cumberiand Units. The same officer went up to the gate, and called to the soldiers to charge and clear the mob. At this time the people called out in very indignant language, and proceeded to pelt the soldiers with mud and dirt; but whether with stones or brickbats, I cannot say. The officer turned back, and I followed him; and, when he got nearly opposite Cumberland-street, he fired, over his left arm, a pistol or some other loaded thing.

At this moment the Coroner stated that he had just received from

Mr. Hobbouse an answer to a letter which he had written to the Home Department in the morning, relative to the determination which the Jury had then come to. The answer of Mr. Hobbouse, as read by the Coroner, was, in substance, as follows:—

"Six—I have received your letter, intimating that the Jury intend to appear at the Kulghtsbridge barracks to morrow, as matter of right, and not of favour. I have laid the papea before Lord Bathurst, by whom I am directed to acquaint you, that, as a Jury have no such right, no order will will be made on the subject. I have further to inform you, that, as it would be found inconvenient to assemble the regiment at half past eleven o'clock, they will be mustered at two o'clock p. m. to morrow."

This letter excited an extraordinary sensation among the greater part of the Jury. Much warmth of feeling was expressed; at length a calm succeeded, for the Coroner read to the Jury a letter which he was about to send to Mr. Hobbouse, in unswer to the one last he was about to send to Mr. Hobbouse, in answer to the one last

This letter affording satisfaction, was immediately assented to, and forwarded to the Home Office.

The examination of the witness was then continued.

Before the officer fired, there was much hooting and hissing in the place. Immediately on the firing of the pistol, there was general cry of "shame! shame! murder!" 'Piccadilly butchers; and expressions of that description. The officer had a pale face, and quite a boyish look.

Bennington, a mariner, gave similar testimony to that he gave last week on the Inquest on Francis, who died in St. George's Hospital.—The Inquest was then adjourned.

The Inquest re-assembled on Tuesday at the Old King's Head, Three witnesses, Denyer, Pinkington, and Curtis, were then ramined, but stated nothing material.

John Somerville was at Cumberland-gate at the time of the proession, saw a man lying on the road wounded, and accompanied him to a surgeon's shop, where he died; did not know who shot him; saw several soldiers fire; saw no one fire at the deceased.

A card was then given to the witness, and he was directed to apply at the Barracks for admission.

Mr. Waithman-Now, Sir, there are two persons who have just returned, and who were refused admission because the Coroner was not with them; you, Sir, came here a quarter of an hour ago, and assured us that the witnesses would be admitted, and yet your authority is immediately set at nought.

Coroner—There must have been some mistake.

Mr. Waithman—You are always disposed to put the best construction upon every thing; certainly, you act in a most christian-

Coroner-I wish that I could return the compliment. (Laughter.) W. Jones returned, and said he had attended at the Barracks and waited for some time. He was treated very civility by the soldiers; the officers indeed ran about at if they wanted to elude observation. About half-past five o'clock was conducted where the men were drawn up, and was desired by the Commanding Officer to walk through the ranks. There were four divisions drawn up. In going up the first rank saw an officer, and paused for a moment hat he was the gentleman who fired on the day of th funeral. Not feeling convinced that he was the man, did not wish at the time to say he was. After seeing all the men, requested the Commanding Officer to allow him to look at that officer again; but was refused by the Commanding Officer, who said his orders were imperative that the witnesses were only to see the troop once. The Magistrates protested against this, and insisted that I must be permitted to see that officer again. Mr. Birnie, in particular, on the part of his Majesty's Government, Insisted the witness should see the officer again, and he saw him again, but could not swear to him there was, however, a strong resemblance to the person.

John Pooke.—I have been at the barracks and inspected the re giment; I saw a person there whom I pointed out to be the man with whom I had a conversation on Tuesday.

W. Cleaver spoke to the identity of the officer in nearly similar terms; he thought, however, the officer's complexion was rather light.

W. Pinkerton who saw the troops on parade could not identify any one.

W. Alexander, 14 years old, (described by Mr. Waithman as a most clear-headed boy, who would not say a word too little, or a word too much), as he passed up the ranks saw a young officer, and pointed at him; one of the soldiers asked what witne by pointing, told him that was the man that aimed and fired at a man at Cumberland-gate; Mr. Birair desired witness to put his hand upon the horse's head, and he did; was quite certain, positive-ly sure, that was the man who fired at Cumberland-gate; the officer had not boots up to his kness on the day of the funeral, nor had he to-day; he was a young man, about 18 or 22; he appeared to be of a light complexion; when witness pointed him out he turned white, and when he touched his horse's head he turned red and laughed; they asked witness if he wished to go round again, but he said there was no occasion, he was quite sure by his face, and by having these boots knew him to be the man.

W. Montague was in the Barrack-yard, but could not swear to Josiah Dean.—I saw the troops, observed to the soldier that was with me, there was a officer I knew very well, but I thought be must be this last day or two in a hot elimate, his countenance was so completely different to what I had ever seen it. When I got to the bottom I turned to the right to impact the hinder file, turned round at the top, and went down the rear rank at the other side. I was met at the bottom by Mr. Birnie, Mr. Stafford, and some officers of the Guards. I told them I could not identify the person. I expected every felicity would be given to the witness es, but instead of that the troops were drawn up as if to prevent any one from re-cognizing them. The men were their cleaks on the 14th of August, my oath, that the officer whom I knew, and pointed out, had (I think) rouge or some colouring upon his face.

William Spratt.—I viewed the troops; cannot tell which of the wo officers I saw shot Hency, but I am certain one of them shot him; I then looked at them again, but they were so much alike my difficulty was the same; at first I god my hand up to point at the first I saw, but did not wish o do so until I should see all.

After some further observations the Inquest was adjourned. On Wednesday the Inquest was resumed.

Thomas Amens. - Jam Lieutenant and Adjutant of the 1st Regiment of Life Gu'ards. The seldiers' orders were to aid the Civil Power, and to zarch to Kensington. Pifty-six men, Capt. Oakes, Lleut. Storey, and Lieut. Hall, composed the detachment. were two ether officers on duty appointed to take charge of the gates. On this duty there were Lioutenant Terry and Lioutenant Gore, with two detachments of twelve-men each, and three corporats, with nine man each. I was on duty yeareday at the barracks, at Knightshridge, and I saw every one of the witnesses inspect the troops; I saw the witnesses stop occasionally and look at the officers; there were more officers in the yard than the five I mentioned; the whole regiment was ordered out; the manes of the sally and look officers pointed out by the witnesses were taken down by the Magistrate, Mr. Birnie; I was directed yesterday to follow the wituses, and I took down their names; some of the officers pointed. out vesterday by the witnesses were among those on duty on the 14th; the witnesses did not all fix upon one man: between the dismissal of one witness and the introduction of the next witness and an officer ever changed his position. There were 5 captains, 15an older ever changed its posterior. I have were a captains, to-subaltering, and 267 men, besides quarter-masten, drawn up yes-kerday. Every person on duty on the 14th were present, with the exception of those who were so wounded by the brickbats that they could not attend. Two of the man had their shoulders broken, onehad his leg broken, and another was so desperately wounded in the face, that the surgeon could not until yesterday, decide whether he would not have a lock jaw. I now declars, that the statements of the witnesses, "as they appear in the Papero this merning, with respect to their being obliged to look at one side only going mp, and on the other only on coming down the line, were false. Thirty-seven men were returned as wounded; the soldiers stated that they were wounded by brick-bats or stones; some of the horses were were wounded by brick-bats or stones; some of the horses were burt, but not severely. I believe all officers and men rode thesame horses yesterlay as they did on the 14th; I think the-first witness saw the men about balf-past three; it was not dark before the inspection was concluded. I did not see any witness examined in the barracks. Mr. Birnie conducted every witness, and only asked him his name, which was taken down; I. never saw a man laugh at the witnesses, and I had my eyes as strict as possible upon the men; I don't know at which gates Lieuts... Ferry and Gore took their stations on the 14th; I am not awarethat any stratagem was practised to disguise the officers; I ama-convinced no such dishenourable practices were resorted to.

Richard Birnie, Esq. attended on the preceding day at the horse-barracks to see that the witnesses had free access to examine the officers and soldiers. The commanding officer, Colonel Carendials, assured witness that officers and mea, accounted in the same manner as on the 14th, were then drawn up; some gentle-men came with tickets, but there was no name in some of them, and that was the reason for not admitting some; the witnesses were all admitted and put in one room. The men were formed into four ranks open order, and the witnesses were called out one by one; witness accompanied them down the lines; so did Mr. Ruinsford generally; saw one or two witnesses looking right and left, and said keep your eyes steady on one rank, you shall see them all; that was the reason of using the expression keep your eyes to the right; any witness who after seeing one rank wished to view it again was allowed to do so; though three or four of the witnesses. wished to make a second examination; wherever the witnesses wished to identify any person he stopped, and the Commanding Officer directed the Adjutant to take down the names of the person Officer directed the Adjutant to take down the names of the persons so identified; asked the Commanding Officer publicly, in the presence of each witness, whether all the officers and men who were on duty on the 14th, were then present on the same horses and in the same order as on the 14th? and the Commanding Offices regularly assured that they were, with the exception of one private, who was lying in the hospital; did not take down the names of the persons identified; don't think Mr. Rainsferd did; only knew ones who was identified, and that was Lieut. Story.

The witnesses had considerable doubt between two men. Illd not recollect the names of the two officers; Sir Henry Torrens was of opinion that every facility to identify the officers ought to be given opinion that every laterity to kentify the onkern ought to be given to the witnesses, and it was given.

F. C. Humbert, who resides at the Hyde Park Hotel, identified an officer of the Life Guards on duty, near Cumberland-gate, to be Mr. Gore; saw a great many stones and bricks thrown by the mole at the Guards who were attempting to open the gates; saw one soldier knocked off his horse, and several struck. At Camberland-gate I saw the bridles of the leaders selzed by some of the med; all. this time brickbats and stunes were flying; I saw the Guards, after some difficulty, turn the hearse again tewards Edgeware-read; I can recollect seeing several soldiers struck by the mob; Phothcod one man in particular who was struck twice on the back by brick-bats; I saw Lieut. Gore; the officer who commanded, struck systemal times, no less than five or six times with stones and brickbats; E should think this was full ten minutes before the firing commenced; a should think this was full ten minutes before the firing commenced; when the soldiers first fired, I plainly perceived that several of them fired in the sir, particularly those who fired the fint-round; from the crowded state of the streets, if the soldiers had not fixed in the air more persons would certainly have been killed. From what I saw before the firing commenced, I cortainly think the live's of the soldiers were in danger.

In the course of this witness's examination, which was at some length, but not to the point, he stated that he did not see Lieut. Gore fire at all on the day of the procession.

M. Caldie, porter at the same hotel, spoke to sceing a wounded man carried by the hotel, and saw a soldier on the ground, and some of the soldiers struck by brick-bats.—The Inquest voss adjourned.

On Friday the Inquest resumed and enamined voveral witnesses.

Among them was Mr. Stafford, the chief clerk at Bow-street police office, who stated, that with meaner to the

Among them was Mr. Stafford, the chief clerk at Bow-street police office, who stated, that with respect to the, witnesses identifying any of the soldiers, they spoke very don't lingly on the subject. Jones said, Cornet Eletcher seemed likes the person, but he added, "Mind, I don't mean to swear to him." Pooke said, looking at Hartley, a private, "This is like the officer to whom I spoke." Cleaver said, he had only a flast reo', lection of Lieut. Gore.—Spratt did not identify one. Montague pointed out Fitton, a private. Alexander, the boy, looking at Liev',t. Gore, said, "I saw him five the pistol just before I saw the man dead." Mr. Gowran, pointing to Lieut. Cox, said, "I believe, from his statuse and looks, for I ealy got a glimpse of him, that that is the man." None of the other witnesses identified rany one. Mr. Stafford said, that every facility was given to the vitnesses to inspect the troops.

Adjutant Thoraes Engine confirmed the previous witness as to the inspection of the troop's; it was Lieuts. Perry and Gore who were inspection of the troop's; it was Lieuts. Perry and Gore who were out on the day of the funeral, with a detachment of 13 men each; he understud Lieut. Gore was at Cumberland-gate.

R. R'symond s'poke to the disturbance between the officers and oldie's, but sai'd nothing to the fact of the death of Honey.

F. Scott ss' w an officer shoot the deceased, he was a slender

Young map, about one or two and twenty, a fullish face, rather diokish about the mouth, rather lightish whishers and bair very light, as he thought. Did not bear the Riet Act read; thought the 1907-0 on which the officer rode was rather a darkish bay; did not see any stones or brick-bets thrown.

Thomas Rutherford, bat-man to Lieut, Gore, stated, that it was What for officers going on duty to take their pistols; but lieut. Gore never had a pistol belonging to him since he joined the regiment, being such a young officer; neither had he his closk on that day; he was ordered to command the party at Cumbedani-gate.

Christopher Fordge, Corporal, of the lat Life Guarda, was stationed at Cumbedani-gate.

tioned at Cumberland-gate with thirteen soldiers, the Commandingofficer was Lieut. Gore; in the contest about absting the gat his horse got his head out, and he was obliged to return to barract eks. The mob resailed him with stones while he was leading his horse away, and be was obliged to remount; Lieut. Gore had neither pisto's nor cloak. He is rather of a ruddy complexion, his built light; witness's horse bled five quarte, the wound seemed to have been inflicted with a knife.

The Inquest was adjourned till Monday, and summer issued for Six B. Bal, or, and the Hon. Colonel Coverdish.

NOTICES TO CORRESPONDENTS.

We find it impossible, from the multitude of con who favour us from all parts of the kingdom, to insert a tenth part of the letters we approve; and, therefore, when we have not room for their insertion, we shall, through the Notices to Correspendents, endequeur to answer our friends, and give our readers the spirit of those contributions which we are unable to insert in ful.

We are requested by an inhabitant of Environ to vindicate that place from the charge of wearing black—in thirty-one car ringes, which were at the Church of that parish on Sunday last. all the persons (except a very few of the least respectable) were not in black, particularly the ladies.

A correspondent informs us, that there is a salary annexed to the office of Lord Mayor's Fool, and that Lond Mayon Tuonen, in his love for retremenment and desire for abolishing deputies, Agrandertaken to efficiate personally during his Mayorally, Q, BUT NO QUEENITE, has been received; his information will do arranged and modified when the happy pair return from their hymeneo-funereel trip.

A countryman, seeing the Queen's funeral in Suffolk, asked where it was going j... To Herwich said an undertaker."...." thought moshup you were going to Bury," answered the routle mog".—A striking instance of rural grief.

We are requested by an inhabitant of Kiddhuminatum to dis-avon, for the mejority of the residents, the act of putting the Church into mourning for the Queen.—An order has been given Church into mourning for the Queen.—An order has been given (duether correspondent fells us) by the Ractor of St. Paul's, Cowent Garden, Da. RANDOLPH, to admit no strangers into seats oko ure not drest in black. We notice these, as destred. Ab LONDON very few of the places of worship are disgraced by emblems of grief. Shoreditch and Kensington shale conspicuous in their grief. We trust that the Bishors of discesses keep their open upon these things.

We quite agree with C.S. We have received many laughable letters, criticising the account of the Queen's funeral which appeared in the Times; we insert one, of no less than seven, not so much in preference to the others, at that it arrived first.

We think we know "Roaun Bacon's" Foster-father; but though we have no doubt he believes it, we think it a little too highly-

We have three correspondents who sign themselves VERAX. any one of them will apply to all three but we wish they would change their designations

PRO REGE ET JUSTITIA tells us of a loyal elerk dismissed com an effice in which three or four Radicals are retained. We press this subject again forcibly on the notice of those to whom emplalment is confided.

Nautious, C. T., Jenny Bull—one who can see through a smill-stone, Paddy Dunlbany, and Anti-Tantuppe, are received. "A constant reader, but not a constant admirer," will find on manuer for his scrupulous friends, who think they do a duty to Government by wearing black, in page 294.

The matters P. S. alludes to shall be well sifted and prepared. and the letters to Waithman and Lushington shall not be forgotten.

S. G. will perceive we have embodied his communications of last meek with other things on the same subject.

An enemy to Radicals apologises to us for being obliged to wear black, because he has no other coat smart enough to wear than a black one—a black coat does not go for much, but hatbands and repers do. We have to epologise to Solomon Suckler for not acknow. ledging his favour.—Our thanks are also due to an Old-Fashion-BB Church of England Woman.

We will publish the document a Jonn Bulk man calls for the Mosas IN THE BULL-nushes, in meither letter, is au fait at the ubjects.—The whole story of LADY HOOD is a blunder. Titus's letter is a very good one, but all thinge not pressing pust stand over for a week or two.

must stand over for a m A CONSTANT READER AND ADMIRER will, we think, not disapprove of the mode we have tehen of availing ourselves of his

nts.
A SPECTATOR informs us, that the TRAVELLER newspaper suys that seventeen shot holes are to be seen in the walls at Cumberland-gate. If any body will take the trouble to examine them, it will be found that they are not shot-holes; and the old woman, who sells fruit at the gate, (as good evidence as Mr. Doloraine Jones's mother) says that the holes have been there six months, and many of them two years. The same correspondent was at the end of nberland-street wh m the procession passed, and sow the outregeous attack upon the soldiers, and says he did not think t possible for any men to have borne so much insult and assess without having much somer acted on the defeaters. We trust he will go before the inquest.

"Radical advice to a Queen Comort" will have a place when me have a niche to spare. We beg to inform Quiz, Jonethat as Lord Mayors are elected at Michaelmas, we reserve am gove for that period. We are requested to state, that the story of flage being heleted elf-mast high, on the day of the Queen's funeral, by m that Mn. Busparous mas not the Church-warden tolle us that Mn. Busparous mas not the Church-warden the caused the black flag to be hoisted over the Boyal Standard at Horslyat least he says the active Church-warden is a Mr. Archen, a violent Queenite and Radical, and, moreover, he believes him to hold a situation under Government. We thank Preping Ton: we shall not fell to worry Godiva. CALBAR's balled to comments two light for the occasion:

S. E.'s hints to the Executors are reserved for their return.

The tailor on horseback in the Queen's funeral procession, dressed in the Highland dress, was, we confess, drell; but we did not see the fellows in bress hate, and we think the simple Vorkremands iron-ical. We have availed ourselves of some of CLEOMENES' kinds ing Corrector, about Barrer Beaumont are received. It appears, that BARRER assumed the name of BRAUMONT, because he was expecting a waying , Schammen, of that Mile. Beaumont, who is the daughter of Schammen, of the daughter of loyal Tavistock-street, (and not VECKERY,) to descended of loy parents, and possesses loyal principles, and was only forced into coisiting Brandenburgh once, by her known to take her. We are induced to say this, in justice to her connexions. F.K.S. tells us, that BERUMONT is not one of their body; but suggests, that he belongs to the Society of Arts: We have no doubt of his being an A.S.S.

ALCHYMY, from Harwich, tells us, that the London Papers which state that the Queen's funeral "did not pass through the principal streets, but took the nearest road to the jetty," speaks falsely; for he says, " that the procession avoided the nearest and best road to the jetty, for the sake of passing through the principal streets." He also observes, that these Papers mention, that it foul shitch from a Ludy in the boats, at the moment by another: and the same Correspondent begs most unequivocally to state, that the Rev. Mr. Bull, the Curate of Harvich, did not attend the Rector to the rea-ride with the coffin

ANTI-DELUSION has arrived safe. J.W., D.D., and our numerous correspondents about DELOR.
AINE JONES, will see we have anticipated them.

The history of LORD HOOD and the Black Cook shall not be

We are sorry we have not room for the Narrative of the Funeral Procession on the 14th inst.

We thank an "Englishman bund norm,"—he can too late for a place, but he will see we have adopted his idea. M.B. S.X. will perceive we have not asked questions about the Sheriffs-we have made statements.

The CAMBRIAN CURATE in our next; -and Testy shall not be forgotten. The subject to which P. Q. South-end, refers shall be treated at large very CARDINAL GONSALVI, and the QUEEN's application to him.

are safely received.

L. L. L.'s promised favours will be thankfully received. We must apologise to our advertising friends: we have before mentioned that Advertisements, in order to insure insertion, should be sent early in the week—as it is, we had only room for those which appear.

PRICE OF STOCKS AT THE CLOSE, SATURDAY. Although there has been a great quantity of business transacted during the last week, yet the fluctuation has been very trifling compared to several weeks preceding; and there seems to be a steadiness in the Funds which was not anticipated by those most interested in a decline. The news from Russia and Turkey con tinue very contradictory, yet the general impression upon the minds of the public seems to be, that there will be no war between those two countries, and upon this persuasion the fundholders seem to have acted; this may account for the present high prices of the public Securities, although no doubt the favourable prospects in this country tend to strengthen the confidence of the fundholders.

The fluctuation in Consols during last week has not been above the per Cent., and the continuation from the present to the next account remains at about 1 per Cent. Consols opened yesterday morning at 761 for Money and the Account, and closed at 1 per Cent. lower. Wednesday, the 29th instant, is account day, and although the speculations during the present Account have been immense, yet it is not expected that a single defaulter of consequence will be declared.

The foreign securities maintain their prices as steadily as ou own. The French 5 per Cents. have been, since our last number as high as 88 fr. 85 cents, and were on Wednesday at 88 fr. 25 cents The exchange upon London at one month is 25 fr. 55 cents, and at three months 25 fr. 40 cents. The Neapolitan continues at 69,

Reduced Ann. 76# # | Navy 5 per cent 108# 9# | Rxchaquer Bills ... 46 5 | India Bonds .... 60 61 Consols..... 76 4 per Cents.... 954 | Omnium ...... FRENCH FUNDS

$ per ct. Div. 22 March 88-25 | Bank Sh Div. 1 July 1542-50 Recon. Div. 22 March 99-45 | Ex. Lond. 1 mo. 25 55 3 mo. 25-40

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET, onday. August 27, will be performed the Mountaineers;

On Monday, August 27, will be performed the Meuntaineers; Octavian, first time) Mr. Conway; Floranthe, Mrs. Chatterley; with an interlude, and coolate for Dinner.—Tuesday, Foutainbleau, with an Interlude, and High life below Stairs.—Wednesday, Exit by Mistake, with (first time this leason) Dog-days in Bond-atreet.—Thursday, a favourite Opera and other intertainments.—A new Farce, in Two Acts, will be produced on Saturday.

A Monday's Edition, containing the latest News, the Stock List e London Markets, and the State of the Country Markets by the morning's post, is published at Three e'clock.

JOHN BULL.

LONDON, August 26.

THE enthusiasm with which his MAJESTY was hailed apon his arrival in Ireland, seems hourly to increase;we never read more cheering-more gratifying accounts, than those which daily arrive from DUBLIN.

This exhibition of popular feeling does not by any means please either the TIMES or CHRONICLE: the former endeavours to ridicule the glowing descriptions of the Irish papers, and censures, as absurd diction and imagery, that which, if pleaded by THE Irish Barrister, they would laud

The Chronicle, diffident of its ability, or conscious of its impotence, with all the desire to run down Loyalty, fills its columns with abuse of the IRISH, taken at second-hand from the TRAVELLER and IRISHMAN; and these worthy papers, passing over the practical illustrations of national devotion to our beleved King, quibble upon words and expressions, in order to ridicule a nation, whose quick spirits and glowing fancies induce them to speak the feelings of their hearts, in the language of enthusiasm.

We wonder, while the Queen's friends pass uncensured by the Old Times, for writing serious nonsense, that the Irish may not be forgiven for a few blunders.

But one thing offends the Times, even more than the rapturous reception of the King-it rankles in the Cockney's heart—it disappoints his dirty malice—it falsifies his prophecies—it destroys his calculations—we mean the applause and selut bestowed upon THE MARQUESS OF LON-DONDERRY.

In yesterday's paper, after quoting the Irish papers, they call the attention of their readers to the reception of the Marquess of Londonderry at the Theatre, "who was greeted with loud and roiterated cheers."

In the first place, why this should surprise them, surprises us. The reception the Noble Marquess met with on the day of the Coronation here, was equally marked and flattering—but then IRBLAND—has been so ill-used by him-" that after this," says the Old Times, " our Irish brethren will henceforth, if required, embrace with delight the pillory or the cat-o'-n ne-tails."

No body required the Irlsh nation to receive LORD LON-DONDERRY as they have done—it has been a spontathe coffin was lowered, announced the excited sympathy of her neous tribute to his Londship—they feel the injustice of feelings upon the occasion; whereas the shrich was that of a the calumaies with which he has been loaded by the Londard who happened to be in a wherry, which was run foul of don Radicale, and have resolved to sive a wrong of their don Radicals, and have resolved to give a proof of their feelings towards their countryman—nay, supposing that the necessary measures taken at times by his Lordship, might have been temporarily unpopular, the OLD TIMES, who praises the QUEEN for her "sweet spirit of forgiveness," cannot be angry that a reconciliation has taken place.

> In our last we mentioned that the Queen had disposed of her Italian property—thus: the VILLA at Como is mortgaged for its full value to CARLENS, the banker-the BARONA is given to BERGAMI, and the VILLA VITTORIA, at Pesaro, to his Excellency's daughter.

> A difficulty arises about the sealed box left by her MA-JESTY, and directed to the care of Mr. Obicino, (Mariette's partner,) which has not yet struck the Executors.

> With respect to Legacies -not pecuniary-Executors are bound to have valuations made of them for the purpose of ascertaining the duty payable on them, and the Executors are moreover bound to take from the Legatee the amount of such duty, with, and for which they the Executors are personally responsible.

> Now if the sealed box in question be bequeathed (for bequest it is) to Signor Obicino " or any other stranger in blood to the deceased," duty at 10 per cent. is payable on its value—the necessity of ascertaining such value is evident, and the consequent charge against the executors personally for the duty inevitable, such duty not being legally recovered by them from the legatee.

> We have made it our pusiness to ascertain the correctness of the accounts given in the TIMES of the death (and previous conversation) of the Queen, and we are enabled to contradict the whole of them from the best authority.

> No conversation took place between the Queen and Dr. Holland, as represented in that paper; for six hours before her death the Queen did not speak to any one. Nor from the state of the disorder was she able to do so: indeed had she been well enough to have made the speeches put into her mouth by the radical press, she must, no doubt, have been well enough to have received the sacrament.

> The TIMES promised to publish an important disclosure which the QUEEN made before her death-but it has not done so :- the disclosure was made to DR. LUSHINGTON, in the presence of four other persons, and has been by him (we believe) communicated to the Earl of Liverpool-it is of the first importance to her Majorty's character. We abstain from laying it before our readers, because we might do so prematurely—suffice it to say, that when it is known the persecutions of the QUBBN will be seen in their true light.

> In describing the effect of her Majesty's death upon her people at Brandenburgh House, the Times says,

> " Even to the last fatal moment, spite of evidence to the contrary, all had hoped, and many had trusted, that she, their friend and mistress! would recover. The sobs of the women were loud and unrestrained; the men covered their faces with their hands, and wept. It was long before any thing like regularity could be restored."

Now, we say, so far from any such sobs or shrieks having been heard or seen, there never was more indifference displayed than in the people in the house, on this occasion: the only person who cried at all was the Moor, and the only person apparently much affected without crying, was Hieronymus.

This we state from authority, and we should be glad to see the TIMES produce a refutation of what we say, signed by any three of the medical attendants.

As a glaring and easily attainable proof of the wav in which the the QUBEN'S memory is appreciated in her own family, we have only to remark that the female servants, (we do not allude to LADY HOOD or LADY ANK) the inferior servants of Brandenburgh House, have not thought it necessary ordinarily to wear black.

THE Radical Papers have teemed, this week, with virulence and invective, called forth by the death of the two rioters, Honey and FRANCIS, on the day of the Queen's

With respect to the state of the mob upon that day, and its pacific disposition, and quiet character, the facts of their piling up stones, digging trenches across streets, blocking up avenues with waggons, throwing mud and flints, tearing up posts and railings, the cry of "City, or Death!" hooting, hissing, shouting, and groaning, are, we should think, tolerably satisfactory evidence.

As to the conduct of the Life Guards, we have no hesitation in saying, it was, as it ever has been on like escasions, the most exemplary. Is it to be supposed, that in a tumultuous, nay, we would call the rabble who choaked the streets or Tuesday se'nnight, a revolutionary mob, -soldiers, whose brows have been crowned with laurel, who rede ever the flower of Napoleon's army, and swept them from the face of the earth, are to sit still to be pelted with missiles, a single blow of which might be mortal, and not de their duty? We are only surprised that many more lives have not been necessarily forfeited to the public tranquillity, in so disgraceful a tumult.

The want of decision in SIR R. BAKER's conduct was shameful and disgraceful in the highest degree: he had his orders to execute; and had no business to make promises to any set of men, and most certainly not to a Committee of the QUEEN's partisans. It is mistaken humanity to yield to the wishes of such miscreants as those to whom this Knight conceded the point of carrying the QUBEN by the road pointed out to him by Government-not that we ! attribute his flinehing to any tender feeling for other

The officious interference of the Sheriff of the County, throughout the whole of the affair, should be marked with the greatest attention.

That an advertizing, ticketing linen-draper, should be counsellor for the relation of Mr. Honey, at the request of a Paddington lunatic, is only comical; but that the Sheriff, who, by Statute 13 Hen. IV. c. 7, is liable to a penalty of one hundred pounds to the KING, for every person he fails to arrest, who are in any riot, rout, or assembly, in his presence, should become a party to the affair, by examining witnesses, seems to us to be rather a more serious offence. for which, we trust, he will be made to answer before the proper tribunals.

To the conduct of this man we most earnestly call the attention of the public. As Sheriff, he enquires whether the Riot Act was read, when the reading of it was his positive duty. As Sheriff he conducts a cause in which he is a witness, although, as Sheriff, he ought to know that it has been ruled that no witness can be an advocate. As Sheriff he calls evidence, examines, and cross-examines; if he succeeds in getting a verdict of Manslaughter against any one of the noble fellows whose gallantry and high feeling have excited his grovelling spleen, who impannels the Jury ?-he, as Sheriff. But the aim is not that-we can see deeper into the affair than many of our neighbours;if a verdict of Murder were returned by a Jury of his impanneling, who HANGS the culprit, and GETS THE FEE? -The Sheriff.

We should have thought that LORD KENYON'S remark from the Bench, that "MR. WAITHMAN was a man upon whose testimony he should not choose to pin his faith," and the scouting he got in the Insolvent Debtor's case, would have made him cautious how he dabbled in Courts. We would ask this meddling fellow, whether, had two of the soldiers been killed (and it is not quite certain yet that one of the wounded men will recover) he would have felt the humane impulse which has driven him to interfere with Honey's inquest?-We can answer for him-certainly not.

We are sorry to find the Chronicle drivelling fast into thorough-paced Radicalism: and to see the meanness with which they insinuate their mischief. They tell us, that " a subscription, they are glad to hear, is opened for the widows and children of the men who were killed by the military.

At the time this was written, only one man was dead. and the sum total of casualties now, is Two. The TIMES has found out now, that HONEY, who was a journeyman bricklayer, was a very respectable young man, of an amiable character, and his relations were of most decent appearance !- If, instead of being a journeyman bricklayer, he had worn His Majesty's uniform, and had done his duty, he would have been neither respectable, decent, nor amiable.—It is really too disgusting.

But one thing seems quite overlooked in the midst of all WAITHMAN'S patriotism and philanthropy.

The grief and commiseration of all Paddington is excited for two fellows who were rioting, and crying out, "City or death!" and who were shot in the very act of violating the laws; but nothing like common sorrow or common notice is bestowed upon THIRTY-SEVEN of the Life Guards, who were desperately wounded: five of these gallant fellows are still languishing in the Hospital; one had his leg broken, and we grieve to say, the symptoms have assumed a most dangerous appearance; another was struck in the face with a sharp brick-bat, and only on Thursday night hopes were entertained of his life. And these men—these heroes, to whom, in common with their noble co-mates in arms, MR. WAITHMAN owes the quiet possession of his one or two houses in Fleet-street, (the taxgatherer can now tell us which) and to whom every mis-creant who assailed them on Tuesday is indebted for the British privilege of throwing mud at his betters; these men are to be neglected and slighted, while a couple of ragamuffins are to be quoted upon us as martyrs, and in addition to the unfortunate THISTLEWOOD and the IN-JURBD QUEEN, we are to be treated with the mournings of the mob for the slaughtered HONEY!!!

Of the Jury, we would now say a word. The Jury upon a Coroner's Inquest are chosen in this way:—the Coroner sends his precept to the constables, head-boroughs, and beadles of the parish in which the death happens, commanding them to summon twenty-four able and sufficient men of their parish to attend him to inquire into the cir-cumstances of the death; and these able and sufficient men are then selected at the discretion of the constable or men are then selected at the discretion of the constable or beadle, or whoever the acting personage of this description in the parish may happen to be. The Coroner's Jury which sat upon Francis, was composed of eleven persons, out of the parish of St. George's, who all voted for Sir Francis Burdett, at the Westminster elec-tion. The politics of one, resident at Chelsea, cannot so easily be ascertained.

Now, we are very far from supposing, that politics can interfere with the impartiality of Juries; indeed, some recent circumstances shew, that they do not: but we must observe, that considering the question at issue, on this inquest, most materially, vitally, capitally, (they would have it), affect the Life Guards, care should have been taken not to have selected for a Jury all the avowed friends and supthe strength of their principles, they have either volun-teered, or been called by the Sheriff. Upon the evidence of one, who assumed to be of a better class than the generality of them, we have a few words to-day. We quote our savourite oracle, the Times:-

"Twenty-first witness, WILLIAM DELONAINE JONES, called— I live at No. 9, Richmond's-buildings, Soho-square; I am not an inhabitant of London, but merely on a visit from the City of Oxford; I am in College, but have not taken any degree. Buidence-Times, Aug. 21.

Now this, Mr. DELORAINE JONES SWEARS-DELORAINE JONES is lugged forward by Waithman as a respectable person; for the class of society to which the spectators of the funeral belonged may now be easily ascertained by the persons called as witnesses.

MR. WAITHMAN saw a little fat, fair, though nastylooking, effeminate fellow shewing symptoms of shirt— (a very favourable criterion with the Radicals)—and being a judge of linen, the learned Sheriff jumped as high as the sea captain thought SIR WILLIAM CONGREVE would, when he heard that one of his rockets had killed a whale, at finding MR. DELORAINE JONES, an Oxford Scholar from Oxford College!—(this is precisely the way in which the Cockney Alderman designated that which he mistook for an Oxford man)—and up he drags him.

"I," swears MR. DELORAINE JONES, "I live at No. 9,

"Richmond Buildings, Soho-square; I am not au inhabit-"ant of London, but merely on a visit from the City of Oxford—I AM IN COLLEGE, but have not taken any

Mark this first assertion of the MOST respectable witness. MR. WILLIAM DELORAINE JONES is NOT a Member of the University of Oxford; whon a child he was a singing boy at Christ-Church. His mother, MRs. LAWNE, keeps a confectioner's stall in NEW College Lane; she serves the College and Common Room of Jesus, and the Common Room (and part of the College) of BRAZEN NOSE with cakes and fruit.

WILLIAM DELORAINE JONES, Esq. has been (as he says) in College very often—that is in JESUS, and has as often brought the basket of fruit round to men's rooms as his mother, who, however, has warned all her customers to cash-up to nobody but herself.

WILLIAM DELORAINE JONES, Esq. talks of knowing an Officer in the Life Guards—much in the same way, we suppose, as PETER MOORE first knew the FOX family; and we are free to admit, that if MR. DELORAINE JONES ever received an invitation to dinner from a gentleman, he never failed to wait upon him. Amongst other respectable names, perhaps this most respectable witness may remember that of MOSTYN, and the ungentle expulsion he (JONES) met with from JESUS Common Room, for asking twice for payment of the same little bill.

MRS. LAWNE is a respectable body in her line, and will, no doubt, be mortified at her son's exposure.—
His father-in-law, LAWNE, will not feel so much, for he (a journeyman saddler) has quarrelled with WILLIAM DELORAINE, who is on a visit to London in hopes of obtaining some employment.—Let it be always remembered that this person is the principal witness on the score of respectability against the Life Guards.

We make no remark upon other points of his life and character, for there is no need—all Oxford knows what we mean.

Those who remember the Manchester riots will see, that the same arts have been resorted to, the same lies invented, nay, the same words used, as those which the party adopted in the carrying on of that superlative HUMBUG. The success of this, cannot, however, equal that of Manchester, for we are on the ipot. We know what happened, and the great mass of the people killed, is neither more nor less than Two. It is also highly gratifying to be able to refer to the OLD TIMES upon the present occasion, because, when they are satisfied, the rest of the world must, we are quite sure, be convinced that every thing is right; and they admit, that they believe the troops were justified in firing.

We might, perhaps, not improperly add, that a great proportion of the mob on Tuesday se nnight, were armed with bludgeons loaded with lead, girt with leathern thongs round their waists, and there is little doubt but that a much greater number of them would have been prepared in the ame manner, had two or three days more been granted to

LADY HOOD to get the dresses ready!

Notorious it is, that no interruption to the order of the funeral procession could have taken place, had the head of the Police, (who evidently has no head of his own) done his duty. His conduct must be enquired into to satisfy HIS MAJESTY'S loyal subjects—a Magistrate incompetent in times of difficulty, either from moral or physical imbecility to enforce the Laws and Ordinances of the Government, is the most dangerous character in the country. SIR R. BAKER knows, that the barriers in Church-lane, Kensington, might have been swept away in five minutes; nay, subsequently to abandoning that, SIR R. BAKER knows, that he was told that a party should go round and secure the Kensington-gate of the Park inside; and he knows that he declined the offer of service.

We have heard of a speech made to the soldiers by Ma-JOR-GENERAL WILSON, which, we cannot give credence to. HE, a soldier himself—a General—it cannot be true—if it be, it should remain neither unnoticed, nor unpunished. rmy, we believ tary law, even when out of employ. And at all events, the PENSION which his wife and family emjoy from the Crown is, we conclude, at the pleasure of the Crown, revokeable.

There seems to be a most strange misapprehension of the law as far as regards the power of dispersing mobs by force. In the Morning Chronicle of Friday is the following passage:—

"The soldier who presents to fire, except in self-defence, is guilty of murder in the eye of the law, if he happen to kill any one. The reading of the Riot Act, and the requisition of the Marietzate, can slone authorize him to fire, except on such as ocporters of SIR FRANCIS BURDETT, to whom this gallant corps are indebted for the nick-name of Piccadilly Butchers, which he bestowed upon them previously to putting his own into the regiment.

Of the Witnesses, we shall say little: their political feeling appreciately in their evidence; and it is clear that, upon defence. Now, that the soldiers on fluty on the 14th did fire in self-defence, and that they are, therefore, on that ground, most fully excused from the consequences, appears very clearly from the evidence already given before the Coroner's Inquest. There is, however, in fact, no necessity for their having recourse to that plea to clear themselves from any criminal charge; they would, in strict law, without any reading of the Riot Act, and if no attack had been made on themselves, have been fully justified in firing, or using any other violent means to quell a riot so rebellious and daring as the one on that day.

The following quotation from Hawkins's Pleas of the Crown, B. 1. c. 65. § 11. will shew what the law on this point was before the Riot Act was passed:—

"Also it is certain that any private person may lawfully endenvour to appease all such disturbances by staying those whom he shall voor to appears an such disturnances by staying those whom he shall see engaged therein from executing their purpose, and also by stopping others whom he shall see coming to join them; for, if private persons may do thus much, as it is smost certain they may, towards the suppressing of a common affray, surely, d fortiori, they may do it towards suppressing a riot; also, it hath been holden, that private persons may arm themselves in order to suppress a riot; from whence it seems clearly to follow that they may also made uses of whence it suppressing of it if there has a record. also make use of arms in the suppressing of it, if there be a n sity for their so doing,' He then cautions persons against doing this hastily, and in common cases, and adds-

"Such violent methods soum only proper against such riots as seasour of rebellion, for the suppressing whereof no remedies can um of senere." be too sh

Now there can, we think, be no doubt that the audacious attempt to obstruct the funeral of the Queen, and the consequent riot on the 14th of Aug. savoured of rebellion as much as any riot well could. By the common law, every citizen has a right to suppress such a riot by force; and we need only quote the opinion of LORD LOUGHRO-ROUGH, when Attorney-General in 1790, to prove that a soldier has that higher in common with respect to the private that a soldier has that higher in the private that a soldier has the higher in the soldier has th soldier has that right in common with every other private individual. Being asked by the King his advice as to the legality of employing soldiers to put down the riots of that period, he replied, "I hold it, Sir, to be perfectly justifiable for any citizen to repel force by force, and a soldier is not less a citizen because intrusted with arms for the defence of the lives and property of his fellow-subjects." This opinion, it is well known, was promptly acted upon, and the riots, which, to the foul disgrace of the Govern, ment and the metropolis had been allowed to rage. ment and the metropolis, had been allowed to rage, unchecked, for several days, were instantly suppressed.

With regard to the reading of the Riot Act, on which so much stress is laid, it should be known that the reading of that act is in no case necessary to authorise the dispersing of a mob by force; ner, indeed, dees the act give any power to any person or class of persons to use force on these occasions more than was possessed by every one at common law, although it enacts severe penalties against the rioters. The effect of reading the Proclamation required by that statute, is simply this, that persons not dispersing within one hour after it has been so read, instead of being guilty of a misdemeanor, only as they were by the common law, are guilty of felony without benefit of clergy.

Some remarks, the tendency and weight of which must be pretty well understood, were made in our last publication respecting the pretended obligation of His Serene Highness, the late Duke of Brunswick to his sister, the PRINCESS of WALES.

As the busy and interested persons who made a tool of that unfortunate Princess for their own purposes, during her life, appear to wish to keep up the ball, if they are not completely without feeling or sense of propriety, and all regard for her memory and character, it may not be amiss to let them understand that, now the case is altered.

Whilst the Queen was alive some of her actions were too disgraceful to be made public; they must have led to a degree of shame, and perhaps punishment, that would have been hurtful to the feelings of those who unfortunately were connected with her, by ties that could not be broken. The prejudices of mankind make the disgrace of one of a family reflect upon the whole, and nobody knew that, better than the late Queen: it was that knowledge which made her bold, and encouraged her to insult these who could have covered her with shame.

Every thing in nature, however, has a limit, and it is for those who pretend exclusively to watch over her interests to reflect on what they are doing The reasons for forbearance are not the same as they were, and a departure from the line of conduct hitherto acted upon will not be attended with such disagreeable consequences, as during her life-time it would have been.

MR. BROUGHAM may now be asked why the answer. the bill in Chancery never was put in? He said it would be done "as soon as there was time?

Nay, Dr. LUSHINGTON and Mr. WILDE must be questioned as to the acknowledgment. The QUEEN left no means untried to obtain payment of the bond from her nepheros, (poor as they are) during her life. The sum of £15,000 is not a trifling one, likely to have escaped her AUSTIN is likely to get as residuary legatee.

The public must know the history of this Bond (as it is called:)—it is no vision—no fable—no calumny; the Bill is on the file of the Chancery Court-visible-tangiblelegible; and before they go any further, the Executors of the Queen are bound to give the nation some explanation

Some very perplexing questions may be put to other persons, and they shall be put if people must go radically to work to prove that the departed Princess was not an injured Queen.

As a ferment is excited in the nation, and the good and well-meaning are led into error by bold assertions, it may become necessary to take steps that will be disagreeable.

The honourable principle of Englishmen to take the part of those whom they think oppressed, may be enlisted in a wrong cause through false impressions, for

What can we reason but from what we know?"

It is of little importance what perverse and factious men think, but it is highly important to prevent them from leading the loyal and well intentioned into error, and if a review is seriously but impartially taken of what is already known of the life and conduct of the departed Queen, she will be found to have been guided by a spirit that defied public opinion, and a carelessness of the common decencies

Faction was enlisted in her service as a substitute for that support, which a contrary line of conduct would have provided without effort or intrigue; she was at last caught in the web herself had wove. Her life was embittered by the reflection of what she might have been, and by the constant intrusion of a person who first led her into error, then became necessary to her schemes, and latterly usurped a kind of dictatorial authority over all her affairs. To an ambitious wilful woman, could any situation be more distressing?

Those who engraved injured on the plate that was intended for the coffin of the Queen, should have either inserted the names of those by whom she was injured, or have given an explanation in small letters at the bottom. The Queen's Will would best serve to indicate who those

We have received several communications upon the subject of the present Court mourning, and we confess we have been not a little surprised to observe that many persons, who, in the life-time of the Queen, expressed the utmost disapprobation and abhorrence of her character and conduct, and opposed themselves strenuously to the des perate faction by which she was supported, have now, with a strange apparent inconsistency, put on the outward signs of grief, in common with the Radicals, and those who are known by the name of " the Queen's friends."

This, however, seems to have arisen from an idea that the mourning was to be GENERAL, as was the case on the death of the late excellent Queen Charlotte; but nothing can be more mistaken than this notion. The official order on that occasion was, " that all persons should put themselves into decent mourning;" but, on the present occasion. the order for mourning is WHOLLY CONFINED to the

It is necessary for the public to be fully aware of this distinction, because many persons, wishing to act in conformity with general etiquette, and in obedience to high authority, have been led into the error of supposing that they should violate the rules of propriety and duty, if they omitted on the present occasion to dress themselves in black. It is also important in other respects that the error so imbibed should be clearly pointed out, since the cause of radicalism thus, through inadvertency, derives strength and encouragement. The factious writers of the day avail themselves of these outward appearances of sorrow, declaring with exultation that they are indicative of public feeling, and of the tribute paid to the virtues of departed Majesty. Persons, therefore, wishing to avoid such imputations as these, and to be distinguished from as vile a party as ever disgraced a civilised country, should be assiduously careful at this time NOT TO WEAR BLACK.

ORIGINAL LETTER.

TO LADY HOOD. (Private and confidential.) Tours, Aug. 21, 1821.

My DEAR LADY HOOD,—You cannot conceive the amazement which MARIA and I felt at seeing your correspondence with LORD LIVERPOOL in the newspapers;—the idea of our poor, dear, silly JANE writing to a Premier quite over-

We (who are here upon our return from Spain) thought the letters, at first, libels upon our friend, but we find them generally supposed genuine, so do let me ask you some questions about them.

Of course, you did not care three straws about the QUEEN indeed, after her conduct with your Lord, nobody could imagine you did; and neither WILLIAM nor I can quite understand how you first gave into the thing, because, though you are not rich, yet your economy (of which you gave us some practical illustrations when we were down with you at Whitley Abbey) would enable you to make it out uncommonly well with your income.

I am afraid (although it is rather late in life) that you have got into a flirtation with HOBHOUSE, or some of those friends of her Mejesty who were about the house. Surely they must have had some influence, or how could you not only change your principles, but even your SEX to oblige them? HOB-HOUSE, to be sure, is woefully ugly, but then he was once a friend of our dear, dear BYRON—and BYRON wrote BEPPO and Juan, and we must love him, Jane, and all that he has ever loved; not but I have always heard that Byron kept up his acquaintance with Новноизк that he might act mon-hey to his Lordship's bear.

What I mean by changing your sex is, that in the letter to Lord Liverpool, which they vow is yours, you are made to say—" Consequently, neither LADY ANNE HAMILTON "Lord Hood, nor myself, and several other Gentle-"MEN, could think it requisite to be in such haste to order

" their mourning."

Now, my dear JANE, could you have written this? As far as the had English goes, in the latter part of the paragraph, I could suppose you might be guilty of it, because your propensity for darming stockings, and mending other parts of your domestic drapery, has, from childhood, superseded any other attainment; but that you should talk of yourself and several other GENTLEMEN, I confess alarms me, lest either the influence of your late mistress should have induced her hangers-on to change their nature as well as their principles, or that, in your old age, your faculties have rapidly declined.

WILLIAM says, "Tell JANE if she wrote that letter she must have been smelling the QUEEN's Maraschino." But then he is satirical; and he made out a capital story of your sitting drinking punch at some ale-house on the road to Harwich with the funeral. I know you will forgive him, for he sincerely esteems you, and so do I, and most cordially hope that you are not embroiled in all this horrid

Then, JANE, they make you say, "I dictated every word of this letter to myself." This, if put in plain English, means, "I said to myself, says I, write a letter, and say so and so;" —and really that style appears suited to the matter and man-ner of the correspondence with which you are charged. But the papers make you say another thing, which inclines me to think still more strongly that you cannot be the authoress of the Letters published; they make you say, "It was ever the the Letters published; they make you say, "It was ever the "QUEEN's desire to have no soldiers, but to be attended and "guarded solely by the hearts of HER people." And pray, my dear JANE, who may HER people be? Your friend, poor WOOD, swore she never called us HER people, and so did she herself, and yet they make you do it. HER people were the domestics of BRANDENBURGH-House, who from their want of money or meanness of disposition, condescended to take her wages and eat her bread. Thank GOD there are but few of the English nation so debased or degraded!

But pray, JANE, how did you happen to know and venture to pronounce, if there were no soldiers, that "there would not be any disposition to tumult?" Have you the gift of second sight advancing upon you as you are losing the first?

How could you venture to pronounce to the Prime Minister what would happen ? I should as soon have taken you for a conjuror as a politician; and, as WILLIAM says, we do not suspect you of associating with the leaders of faction, or the disreputable animals at whom we laughed so heartily some years ago at the chairing of SIR FRANCIS BURDETT.

A friend told us you were quite a love of that man with the foreign orders, whose brother writes in the TIMES newspaper. ILSON is not his name? But we could not conceive v that had to do with it, for, if I mistake not, he is a Major-General in the English army, and was Aid-de-Camp to the King many years; besides, poor Mrs. Wilson, who they call Lady Wilson, (out of joke, I suppose), told me herself, that the KING had been graciously good enough to grant her a pension for life, on account of the dreadful calamity with which she is afflicted; so that it is quite impossible this Mr. WILson could have known any thing about the mob.

All this confusion only makes the matter more perplexing:

do therefore write as soon as possible; or, perhaps, now you are out of place, (I speak ministerially,) you and your dear twaddle of a Lord will come over here. Tours is uncommonly cheap, and very pleasant; and we bathe at night in the Loire, with lanthorns tied to our legs, and you will really find it very agreeable; and the £500 legacy (when paid,) will last you here three or four months admirably.—Maria and William desire their best love, and I am, dear JANB, your affectionate friend.

To the VISCOUNTESS HOOD. Pray come to us.

REDUCTION AND ECONOMY.

LOCAL and domestic events engross the public mind so completely at this moment, that we have little chance of exciting any interest by observations upon foreign affairs, and we should therefore, have declined for the present any allusions to the situation of the GREEKS, were it not that the Morning Chronicle forces us to take notice of some of its assertions and observations.

We should observe, that the Chronicle is losing its energy, and the talent which it formerly evinced, is fast fading. Instead of original matter, its columns are filled with quotations from Radical Provincial Papers, and its attacks upon Government are conveyed through the medium of letters from

Two of these letters, which have appeared during the course of the week, we cannot avoid pointing out to our readers. The first is on the subject of the Greeks, and contains the following passage :-

"Are they to be butchered like the beasts of the field, without "one helping hand being held out to save them? And is it because our impotent, pusillanimous Ministers are afraid to interfere, that Great Britain (the Parent and Protector of Liberty) is to make no "effort to sustain ber character, no attempt to convince the world that she is not stupidly indifferent to the cause of freedom and of Greece? With shame and mortification does every generous mind look back to the heroic conduct of our ancestors. Who that has read the history of the Crusades, Tasso's Jerusalem, and the annals of our valiant King Richard Cour de Lion, but must be ashamed of the conduct of the Government at the present moment; for if we are to believe their scribes, they not only refuse to assist the Greeks with arms or money, but they are en-deavouring to neutralize the Emperor of Russia."

Now, is it to be believed, that this really appeared in the Morning Chronicle, after the most pressing arguments for economy and reduction; after dividing the House of Commons eleven times in one night, in quarrels for sixpences—can we believe that the organ of the Opposition is angry because we do not "assist the Greeks with ARMS and MONEY

Can we imagine it possible, that the Morning Chronicle, the mouth-piece of the Whigs, can call the present Ministers "impotent and pusillanimous," because they decline embroiling the country in difficulties and expenses?

We remember some speeches of EARL GREY, upon the subject of the aid afforded to the Spanish Patriots, and we think they ran thus:-

" I have already said, it was not a sudden coullition, that should "have led us to depart from those principles of economy which I have so often recommended. • • • If neither of those things existed, (spirit in the Spanish people, or authority in their Go-vernment,) or if the one existed without the other, it was the very acme of madness in His Majesty's Ministers, under such circum-"stances, to lavish, as they have dose, the resources of the country of the Chryslan Monarch, turns the vilest things into the most valuable.

"try. • • • His Majesty's Ministers, on the 16th of December, or thought proper to advise His Majesty to issue that celebrated where the universal abould, by this delicate rule, be compelled to abstain free.

" Spanish nation; which bound this country to a cause, which, according to every information, was at that time actually hop But I cannot but disapprove of this gratuitous pledge, so-"lemnly proclaimed to the world under such circumstances; a "pledge which could not be of any service to Spain, and might be of considerable inconvenience to this country."—April 21, 1800.

Putting out of the question the prophetic talents of the great Whig leader, so conspicuously displayed in the above extract, we would ask the Morning Chronicle if economy was so strenuously recommended at a moment when we were engaged in a mighty war, and when the cause of Spain was our cause -and when, if that cause had not been supported, we should have been groaning, in less than two years, probably, under the despotism of NAPOLEON-why we should now, while at peace with all the world, "gratuitously pledge" ourselves to the Greeks? or why does the Chronicle condemn neutrality at present, with as much violence as he advocated it before?

Need we answer?-No.-Ministers supported hostility in one case, and neutrality in the other; and opposition being the only object, the very Ministers who were called foolhardy, lavish, and extravagant, for humbling France, and tranquillizing Europe, are now called pusillanimous and impotent, for declining, without any cause whatever, to lavish money and lives in support of the Greeks.

The second letter upon retrenchment at home, is so good, that we cannot choose but insert it. Let any rational man (if he have patience) read the Chronicle, for the last six months, when it talks of public economy, and then imagine that, to be the Paper in which the following article appeared on Thursday:-

To the Right Hon. the Earl of Liverpool.

My Long,— It is with deep regret that I obtrude myself on your Lordship's notice, but as the subject on which I shall venture to offer a few remarks is of essential importance to a numerous a meritorious class of men, I shall not suppose for a moment that you will consider it beneath your attention.

It is rumoured that His Mujesty's Government have it in contem-plation to reduce the emoluments of all civil departments as nearly proposing this period as the basis of their proceedings, I feel assured that they have been misted by false information, fera palpable act of injustice could never receive their sanction, wer could a measure so injurious to the interests of hundreds have met with their approbation, if its fate had depended on its own merits.

approbation, if its fate had depended on its own merits.

In the year 1797, it is a matter of notoriety, that most, if not all civil situations, were greatly underpoid, and it is scarcely necessary to adduce any other argument in support of this assertion, than the simple fact, that in many offices the salaries had not been increased for twenty or thirty years previously to that period. This circumstance, I am convinced, must have escaped your Lordship's observation; for you could never wish it to be understood that you consider money as valuable now as it was fifty or sixty years ago. But admitting for a moment that this was the case, let us consider the subject in another point of view. A young man, after an expensive education, accepts a situation is a public man, after an expensive education, accepts a situation is a public office, (to which only a small salary is annexed) on the implied office, (to which only a small salary is annexed) on the implied condition that his own good conduct will, after a certain number of years, insure him a comfortable maintenance. He marries on these expectations; it is with difficulty that be supports himself and family on his limited income. At this critical moment an order comes down from the Treasury, dureting that a large per centage (in addition to the Land-Tax) be deducted from his mixerable pitches and sumine his future promoters. In reduction the supports tance: and running his future prospects, by reducing the superior situations in his department (after the death of their present possessors) to so low a scale, that all his future hopes of comfort are sessors) to so low a scale, that all his future hopes of comfort are annihilated, and not a ray of consolution displays itself to enliven the dark and dreary perspective. This, my Lord, is not a case which exists in the imagination alone;—on inquiry you will find that the sketch is but feebly drawn. To comment upon it would be to insult your feelings of justice—to offer any further observations would be useless. I leave it with confidence in your Lordship's hands, and have the honour to remain, with great respect, my Lord, your Lordship's most obedient humble servant,

AMICUS JUSTITIES."

Hardly any remark is necessary upon the consistency of this sinking journal.

Observe, the first paragraph tells us, that "the Hirelings of Government," "the Clerks in Office," "the Myrmidons of the Ministers," "the Clerks of the Treasury and Admiralty, who are engaged to fill the Theatres and applaud the King,"
"the Puppies in place," &c. &c. of whom the Chronicle most freely talks, are "a numerous and meritorious class of men." We know they are, but we never have heard the Chronicle say so before.

LORD LIVERPOOL, in whose commendation the Chronicle has never been very active that we know of, has the case "put with confidence into his hands," and he is called upon to prevent " a measure so injurious to the interests of hundreds"—of hundreds of place-men—courtiers—and syco-phants—is not this capital?

But then the Chronicle and the Times have said, how unjust to cut off under-clerks and leave the superiors untouched—mark what the Chronicle says now—after drawing a picture of what a junior clerk may hope to rise to by good conduct, the Chronicle says—" his prospects are ruined by —(what do our readers think—) by reducing the SUPBRIOR situations in HIS DEPARTMENT, to which he had hoped to

But better than all this the Chronicle has found out that till the last increase of salary, all public situations were underpaid; and they put it to LORD LIVERPOOL as an act of ustice not to retrench th

One only reason can be found for all this, that retrenchments have actually commenced to an immense amount; and we have little doubt, if HIS MAJESTY shews a feeling of impartiality towards the Catholics, during his visit to Ireland. the Chronicle will turn round, and take for its motto, Church and King, and no Popery.

Some very conscientious and charitable people seem to think, that now the QUEEN has paid the debt of nature, it is almost sinful to allude to her conduct while living. They appear to hold, not only that imperfection dies with the body, but that vice itself is transmuted to virtue by the change of condition; and that the touch of death, like that of the Phrygian Monarch, turns the vilest things any allusion to the tyrants, the profligates, the traitors, or the murderers, of former days, because they are dead; and in writing history, scrupulously omit noticing any but excellent men and virtuous women. This, as history is one continued libel upon human nature, would lighten the labours of the historian very materially.

If, however, when the QUEEN died, the efforts of the party, of which she was the avowed leader had ceased, our observations should have ceased too; and better would it have been for them to have suffered her name to have faded from our memories, than have continued—nay, increased their foolish and intemperate zeal to such an extent, that it becomes an imperative duty, in justice to wives and daughters yet unborn, to counteract its effects.

As we have before answered, when taxed with severity we did not begin; and these observations are called for by a vote of the Common Council of the City of London, dated Aug. 13, 1821;—those observations are made in no spirit of hostility towards the dead, but rather in a hope of being serviceable to the living.

We would, in the first place, observe, quoad—the importance of the vote—that the Corporation of London does not speak the sentiments of the City. It is impossible it should; for it neither knows nor appreciates them. Unfortunately for the respectability of London, Civic honours and Civic offices are sensitively avoided by the leading citizens of the present day. To shew that the respectability of London is not in the Corporation, we need only observe, that HUMPTY DUMPTY has been twice Lord Mayor, and that MR. SHERIFF WAITHMAN, a retail advertizing linen draper, is the Magnus Apollo of that neglected but irascible body.

But it is a body, and assumes a tone. We hear of swords of state in black scabbards, and maces muffled with crape. and sword-bearers, and train-bearers, and the whole of the et ceteras of a Court, all of which, when people do not know exactly the sort of people who are its component parts, sound importantly, and require a little plain fact to unmask

Let us examine the value of the vote, as it stands, and, without looking at the number, rank, principles, or avoca-tions of those, individually, who collectively give it to the world, endeavour to throw as much light upon it as possible. "THORP, Mayor.—A COMMON COUNCIL holden in the Chamber of the Guildhall of the City of London, on Monday, the 13th day of August, 1821, "Resolved ununimously, That this Court feels it a melancholy and irrewisfible ditty to express its despest concern and affliction at the premature and ever-to-be lamented Death of her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Caroline. The eminent virtues she possessed, the amiable and unaffected condescension of her manners, the habitual kindness and benevolence of her disposition, and the vigour and intelligence of mind she displayed on the net trying occasions, her regard for the rights and liberties of the people, and the warmth of affection she evinced for the British nation, would of themselves have called for expressions of gratitude to her memory and sorrow for her loss. But when this Court calls to mind the painful and distressing vicissitudes of her eventful life, from the period she first lande in this Country, under the most flattering and auspicious circumstances, and centemplates the demestic afflictions and the series of percesutions which, in unrelenting succession, she has undergono—it cannot but record its highest admiration of the temper, the unshaken firmness and magnanimity, with which she met and defeated, if not destroyed, the malice of her per--and that to the last moments of her life she displayed the same secutors—and that to the last moments of her life one dispinyou the same fortifude with Christian resignation, forgiving all her enemies, and when under the weight of her complicated wrongs and sufferings, sinking into the arms of Death, she halled him as a friend, in the hope of exchanging those scenes of sorrow and trouble for a Crown of Glory and Immortality.

scenes of sorrow and trouble for a Crown of Giory and immortantly.

"Resolved unanimously, That this Court is anxious to do honour to the Remains of her late Majesty Queen Careline; and, in the event of the Royal Corpse passing through this City, they feel it their duty to attend the Funeral Procession at Temple Bar, and through the City.

"WOODTHORPE."

That the Queen's death is ever to be lamented by the majority which passed this vote, we do not mean to deny, because, for them she was a political leader, far superior in power to Hunt or Hobhouse, Wilson, Wooler, and WADDINGTON; and insomuch their grief is natural, and their gratitude praiseworthy; but the following catalogue of moral excellencies we must look at a little closer, lest when our daughters and wives read it, they may try back to the Delicate Investigation and the evidence before the Lords to ascertain how the departed Lady gained such a character; and, if we do not undeceive them, haply adopt similar measures to obtain similar praise, which would to any decent family prove an indelible disgrace and an insurmount-

"The eminent virtues she possessed,"——without yet talking of her vices, let us ask the Common Council what were the virtues of the late Queen?

ADOPTING BILLY AUSTIN, (a circumstance, full of doubt and mystery, but which must shortly cease to be so,) was called an act of-charity: we doubt it, because, according to evidence adduced at the time, it appears that her meeting with the child was accidental, and that it had no particular claim to her notice—except, a natural mark similar to one which the daughter of LADY DOUGLAS (who was older than AUSTIN,) had upon her, and at which for some months previous to the Queen's taking him, she had been in the habit of looking with great attention. WILLIAM AUSTIN'S mark has, as he has grown up, worn out.

Taking this occurrence altogether in the most favourable way, and admitting it to be an act of charity instead of maternal duty—charity is but one virtue, though we are told it covers a multitude of sins; and this is but one instance of the practice of it, unless, indeed, we could call the condescension of fitting up CAPTAIN MANBY'S cabin, and presenting him with a silver lamp, by so humble a name ner other virtues were it is really painful to say

To look so far back in search of this as the year 1802, may be thought unnecessary, and we shall therefore pass over the witnesses who might be called to speak to her virtuous conduct at that time; nay, we will only observe upon the whole of the incidents of that period, that the witness her Majesty piqued herself upon, as clearing her of all the accusations then made against her, MRS. LIBLE, the sister of the MAR-QUESS of CHOLMONDELY (whose kindness and attention to ir Majesty are never to be forgotten,) says, speaking of the Queen's conduct to CAPTAIN MANBY, in order to clear her friend and mistress, 4 she behaved to him only as any woman would who likes flirting; I should not have thought any married woman behaved properly, who should have sense, what could behaved as her Royal Highness did to CAPTAIN MANRY. rights and liberties?

"I cannot say whether her Majesty was attached to CAP"TAIN MANBY, ONLY say, it was a flirting conduct."
The same person, MRS. LISLE, upon whose favourable testimony not a shadow of imputation has been attempted to be cast, observes also upon the same occasion, "at LADY "SHEPPIELD'S, Her Royal Highness paid more attention to MR. CHESTER, than to the rest of the company. I knew " of her Royal Highness's walking out alone twice in the "morning with him; but her attentions to him were not uncommon, not the same as to CAPTAIN MANRY!"

We do not intend to go into details, or say a word of ourselves, but merely repeat the evidence of her Royal Highness's own witnesses.

"I remember," says MRS. LIBLE, "MR. now LORD HOOD, "there, and the Princess going out airing with him alone in "MR. Hood's little whiskey, and his servant was with them; MR. Hood drove and staid out two or three hours more than once-three or four times; MR. Hoop dined "with us several times, once or twice he slept in a house in the garden !"

Subsequently, we are told that "the PRINCESS and MR. HOOD very frequently went out in a forenoon, and remained out for four or five hours at a time; that they "rode in a gig, attended by a boy, (a country lad), servant " to MR. HOOD, and took with them cold meat; that they " used to get out of the gig and walk into the wood, leaving the boy to attend the horse and gig till their return."

We shall only observe here, that we conclude it to have been upon the ground of this particular sort of familiarity that LORD HOOD appointed kimself Chamberlain on the day of the funeral—vice BERGAMI absent. At all events it satisfactorily accounts for the love and respect LADY HOOD feels for her "dear departed Queen," unmixed with the pal-try consideration of the five hundred pounds legacy.

Quitting the period at which her Majesty's virtues, at most, appear negatively, we will recall the testimony of her Majesty's OWN witnesses last year, in the House of Lords, omitting all the intermediate facts of hiring the Bayswater Laundry; of her Majesty's Sunday evening parties; the long and assiduous attentions of LORD HENRY FITZGERALD; the pleasantries of BROWNLOW NORTH, or the interludes of poor MAT LEWIS.

MR. HOWNAM, a Knight of ST. CAROLINE, and her Majesty's personal friend and principal witness, is asked, in the House of Lords the following questions,-to which he gives the accompanying answers:-

"Did you ever see her Royal Highness perform at the Theatre at Villa d'Este?

YES!!!

" Did her Royal Highness dance?

" With whom?

" With every one indiscriminately!" Who played Harlequin?

LOUIS BERGAMI!

"Will you swear her Royal Highness was not Columbine? " No, I cannot say ... I cannot say she was not. I think that on one occasion she performed the part of an automaton.

"What do you mean by the part of an automaton?

"The story was (but it is so long ago, I hardly recollect it) that of a man who wanted to sell an automaton—a woman that might be seemed up to ANY THING, in which the purchaser was DISAPPOINTED .- It was a story of her Royal Highness's COMPOSING!

"And the Princess was the automaton ? "I think she was-in fact she WAS!!!

Let our readers observe we dispassionately place the evidence of her own witnesses before them, without a remark, and merely as matter of history .-- Again, therefore, let us hear MR. HOWNAM :-

Do you believe that BERGAMI slept under the tent?

"I have already said so!"
"I beg to ask MR. HOWNAM, whether, as a married man, he would object to MRS. HOWNAM sleeping in that way " in a dark tent with a male person in it?

" I trust every man will look at the conduct of his wife WITHOUT MAKING COMPARISONS."

Without one syllable of comment, we would merely ask, in how much, upon the faith of her own witness, are the EMINENT VIRTUES of her late Majesty proved?

" The amiable and unaffected condecension of her manners." Certainly, we admit that to elevate a courier into an associate—to take a man from behind her chair, and place him by her side—to sleep week after week under the same tent in the dark with him—to become the "friend" of HUMPTY DUMPTY—to ride with him through the streets—to institute a Catholic Order, and make her footing Grand Master of itto love the society of MRS. WILDE and MRS. BARBER BEAUMONT, and Mrs. WAITHMAN, and LADY LINDORSE, are indubitable marks of amiable and unaffected condescension, and such as we hope and trust a QUBEN of ENGLAND and a Protestant Princess will never be found likely to practise again.

"The kindness and benevolence of her disposition." Of this we (who are not of the Common Council) have no direct knowledge. We confess we never have heard any particular instance of either; and i we may judge by the silent contempt with which she has treated all those who have sacrificed their prospects, characters, and respectability be borne out in their tribute to her memory even in this part of it. "The vigour and intelligence of aind she displayed on the "most trying occasions."—We shall only observe, that with respect to the former, her shrick and distracted rush out of the House of Lords, on seeing a witness ap-pear again her, are not the strongest proofs of the vigour of her mind; and for the latter, thather intemperate and absurd visit to Westminster Hall and Abbey is by no means illustrative of its intelligence.

" Her regard for the rights and leerties of the people, and "the warmth of affection she expressed for the British nation."

This is so ridiculous as to be postively laughable. How, when, and where, had she loved u could she have shewn her regard for our rights?-What;an it mean?-We only ask the most inveterate party-man who has one grain of sense, what could QUBEN CAROLINE have to do with our

The Times, in its lament for her death, says, now the destinies of the country are wound up in a puny girl, as if the QUEEN's life had any thing to do with the succession: and, considering they were praising female excellence, the allusion to the punygirl, (who happens to be a remarkably fine child,) was not so civil; but even the nonsense of The Times is not so barefaced as that of the Common Council.

As for the QUBEN'S affections (which certainly were disposeable) they were unequipocally bestowed upon foreigners: it is in evidence, that whereever the QUERN found English people on the Continent, she studiously avoided them. Were this not the case, why should LADY CHARLOTTE CAMPBELL and LADY CHARLOTTE LIND-SAY have been removed to make way for COUNTESS OLDI and Countess Vassali; or Mr. Keppel Craven and SIR WILLIAM GELL have given place to Antonio Antaldi and Bartholomew Pergami. Nay, the very last act of her life bespeaks her feetings; for she desires in her will, that she may not even be buried in this country.

To follow the Court of Common Council through the hacknied jingle of "unrelenting persecutions," &c. would be only to go over the ground which has been gone over a thousand times; and upon that subject we shall merely ask the Common Council, whether, if the QUEEN of ENGLAND had conducted herself in a manner fitting her station, any ground for the proceedings which have taken place could have been found. The Common Council will perhaps remember the defences at first set up for her MAJESTY—that she had been playing tricks on purpose to deceive her ener and The Times " ventured to pronounce that the affair of BERGAMI would make all Europe laugh more than they had done since the French Revolution, when laughing went out

But such defence never was brought forward, THE TIMES and the lawyers fought the battle in a much more serious manner, and nothing very comical appeared in the business after all; and as to persecutions—when it is recollected, that independently of things too horrid to be detailed which might have been, and yet may be, brought forward, the acknowledgment, alleged to have been signed by the late Duke of Brunswick, for fifteen thousand pounds, and demanded by the Queen of the Executors of her brother, wholly slipped her memory—it will perhaps appear to the Common Council, that if there had been appear to the Common Council, that if there had been appear to the Common Council that if there had been the control of the Council that if there had been than the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed by the late that the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if there had been signed to be the council that if the council that if there had been signed to be t any spirit of persecution in the Government, they mig have taken more serious measures against her Majesty than any which ever were adapted.

Of the last paragraph we will say nothing—that the end of the QUEEN's life was firm, and her conversation collected, we state to be false. The fine speeches put into the QUEEN'S mouth, she was incapable of making when in good health; and for the Christian-like termination of her existence, we refer to her paid eulogists, and repeat, as we first said, when we saw not one word of religion in the whole detail. that it was appalling and terrible; and so far from breathing the spirit of forgiveness, the last words she was able to utter were those of discontent and dissatisfaction, at the little effect her mob popularity had upon the principles and feelings of the country at large.

Far be it from us to say a word which we do not feel to be necessary. The eulogium upon her Majesty is sent forth to the country, an acknowledged document, to be read and felt; it is, therefore, a bane to the loyalty and morality of the people, and requires its antidote. So far from keeping the discussion about the QUEEN alive, we would wish all party feeling to cease with her existence; but so long as her brawling partizans choose to insult us with her praises, so long shall we feel it our painful duty to counteract its effects by the application of that sovereign remedy. TRUTH.

TO JOHN BULL.

DEAR JOHN,—As many of your readers may wish to know something of the rank and dignity of the Reverend Gentleman who had the honor to supplant the great Doctor Parr, and all the rest of her late Majesty's clerical friends in the arduous and delicate duties attendant on a death-bed, and of administering balm to her wounded spirit, be it known unto all, that the Right Reverend John Page Wood, is a member of Trinity College, Cambridge; where he lately passed muster for his first degree with the universal credit of being a genuine chip of the old block.

Whether envy prevented the young gentleman from obtaining employment or a title in his own diocese, or whether the strictness of the Bishop of London's examinations were considered an encroachment upon religious liberty, I know not. But certain it is, that without any preferment, title, or employment in the Diocese of Norwich, he applied for ordination to the "great friend of civil and religious liberty all over the world," and was ordained Descon by him on the 17th of last June, adding another to the many instances of that benevolent Prelate's favor to persecuted candidates for orders, who have fled from the tyranny or old-fashioned preciseness of their regular Bishops.

And now, my dear John, I hope you will have the candour to confess, that there was no foundation for insinuating that the young gentleman was not in orders when he was summoned to the sick-bed of her Majesty, for he was actually a Descon, six weeks old.

Three hundred pounds per annum, or 16s. 5d. per diem, sas not to be everlooked even by the disinterested friendship of the bustling Alderman. That the Reverend Gentlema was not qualified to perform the important duties of his station; that as Deacon he could not administer to the dying victim of her faction the consolation of the HOLY SACRA-MENT of the Church, was no fault of his. Time will mend this defect, if the natural properties of the parent-work do not too powerfully interpose at his next examination.

The novel title of Descon Chaplain to Majesty, and the want of all experience in his profession were amply com-pensated by the means it afforded of keeping from the Royal Sufferer troublesome intruders, who like the Priests of Vol-TAIRE, might have divulged more than it is prudent to submit to the public ear. I should further add, that young Mr. Wood, never was her Majesty's Chaplain, nor was ever called so till after her death.

I am, dear John, your constant reader,

TO JOHN BURE.

MY DEAR JOHN.—You must know that a Radical friend of mine took it into his head last week to send me an Old Times of the 15th inst, and as it was the first favor of the kind I had received from him, I naturally expected some important information from the said newspaper; and in good truth, I was not disappointed. For amongst the many extraordinary passages relative to the funeral of her late MAJESTY, was the

"The people who at Cumberland-gate had been cut down and want in their endeavours to turn the procession out of the bye-paths chosen by the Government into the open public street, now made a second and more successful attempt to effect the Inuable "object of having the Quann carried through the metropolis, &c."

We have certainly arrived at a new zera, and it really must have been a most amusing and gratifying sight to have witnessed the efforts of those numerous persons so recently " cut down and shot," to keep up with the procession; we have generally been in the habit of supposing that when people are shot or even cut down they evince no great earnestness to bawl out "Queen for ever," or run a race with Life Guards, but wonders do not stop here. The Times is so wouderful an engine that it can make "the very Heavens weep in sympathy with the hearts of the English people."

Now, I appeal to you, whether it was by any means polite of the clouds to soak all their fellow mourners, for departed excellence, through and through; in one sense certainly it might be considered as a favour, for my friend (Queen's man as he is) confesses that the majority of these heart-stricken mourners did not appear to have made any application of the pure element to their faces for at least a month previously.

Had not the time been thus specified, one might have supposed the distupon their faces at the funeral was a kind of preconcerted substitute for crape; yet, I must not do them the injustice to believe that all the attendants were unable to afford that more regular and expensive kind of mourning, as from the property lost on that day, it is very likely that crape was no unusual covering for the countenances of a great proportion of the grief-evineing group.

Of the rest of the affair, old Mr. Times gives no very favorable idea, when he asserts that he saw hundreds of "women bearing without a murmur the rude assault (I conclude of # the ungentle rain) to which they were every minute subject from the want of common tenderness on the part of the "men." Now, I should have supposed that this indifference to the ladies had proceeded from the absorption of the he-mourners feelings, had I not read on, but I find these gentle -amiable—quiet—deeply-stricken-with-grief-heroes, are very soon after " pelting the soldiery with mud and stones!"

Another strong instance of their scute sensibility was afforded dispatheir quietly suffering the poor innocents who strewed the showers to "walk bare-headed, and bear the rail with cheer-Miness," (rather an anti-funereal expression by the way Mr. Times,) but above all things, I cannot sufficiently admire that unequivocal, unquestionable proof of the real gentility of the horsemen, (on which the Times lays such stress,) which was given at the turnpike, as I know nothing but by report, perhaps, " bilking a turnpike," is now considered the last finishing stroke for a complete gentleman, else I am at a less to know why it is quoted-

Pray, MR. BULL, pardon this intrusion on your patience, I live in the country, which by the way will account for the lateness of this communication, and the idea of a London correspondent is so delightful that I quite lose myself; but pray let me give you a little piece of definice, " (easys the precious Times,) and we'defy the most malevolent of her Majesty's enemies to contradict the fact, that during the whole course of the procession from Whitechapel to Romford, there was scarce a house which the body passed, in which several females did not bestow the tribute of a tear to the memory of their beloved Queen,"-here's a triade of bombast—here's a noble defiance! for myself, I confess, that the neighbourhood of Whitechapel, is not the one I should choose for a refutation of any fact stated by the Times, a refunction only to be procured by going into every house and addressing every female, "pray, Ma'am, did you cry for the Queen?" "Pray, Miss, did you shed tears to the memory of departed excellence?" Oh, John, the individuals who write and talk as the Times does, have been the Queen's MEAL ENEMIES. Well, indeed, might that unhappy dupe of designing men have had inscribed on her coffin, when she reflected on the disgrace they had been the means of heaping

"HERE LIES THE INJURED OF BENGLAND. For to them and their paymasters are attributable all the exposures which cover her name with obloquy, and cloud her memory with disgrace.

August 20, 1821.

THEATRE.

HAYMARRET .-- Q'Keefe's whimsical opera of Fontuinbleau has been revived at this theatre with good success.

This piece, though the humour is in some parts obsolete, is replete with whim and equivoque, and, however ungrateful it may seem to the singers to say so, would, if cut down into a farce, without music, be most admirable fun. We are surprised that this mode of treating it was not adopted, and the so, from seeing, or rather hearing that the original songs are retained in the representation.

As a matter of munical taste, we certainly should not venture to put Suffice, Amnosti, or any of the veteran school against the modern showy composers, such as Bismop of BRAHAM. but we do admire consistency even in so trivial a thing as the getting up of an opera.

Ether FORTALBBEAU was on open worth getting up, or not: if it were not, because the fashion of music has changed since its first appearance, why not have cut it into a broad farce, and omitted the songs. The substitution of new songs in old opperss is a custom orseping on space, and a very bad custom it is a because, instead of having that, which in the judgment of CVE when or Blood or having that or the six of the si of O'ABEPE or BICKERSTAFF was fit and proper for the aituations of their own pieces, we have things thrust in wholly inapplicable to the drama, at the discretion of singers, who, for the most part, have no judgment at all.

We remember hearing BRAHAM, at Druty Lane, sing some of Moore's sweetest sentimental songs, in Hawthorn things in themselves intrinsically beautiful, and sweetly sung by him, but as much out of character as a hornpipe by Hamilton a strathspey by Macbeth. Mr. Leon Lee, in the same opera of Love in a Village, at the Haymarket, introduced new songs; and so indeed, without quoting particular instances, do all the singers of the day, not excepting the very best of them.

We have heard of little children who could read only out of their own books, and in little children it is a failing very venial; but if singers can sing only the two or three songs they happen to have known from infancy, we will back Mar. VAN BLATTERMAN'S piping bulfinches against any of them. At what formerly were the Oratorios, we have now Italian scenas and polaccas, and Spanish boleros, and English bellads, because certain ladies (who shall be nameless) cannot sing HANDEL's songs. This reason for banishing the works of that magical master is somewhat weak we confess; but we would, upon our principle of consistency, decidedly abstain from Oratorios in Lent altogether, if we could not have his sacred and soul-stirring music performed.

In Fontainbleau, MISS CAREW (who looked remarkably well) sang an Italian song for the edification of the pit and galleries; and at the moment she was about to be married to a lord with a large fortune, favoured us with Moone's exquisite ballad about "Poverty's evil eye,"-the words of which are wholly out of place; add to which, it was written for, and originally sung in, the opera of "M. P." by that sweetest of all English ballad-singers MRS. BLAND, whose voice and style it is not always judicious to remind one of. MISS.CAREW also sang a modern duett with MR. LEONI LEE, who, on his part introduced other "roundelays" suited to his voice. MISS CORRI, too, gave us "di tanti palpiti" in a very pretty style, but whether with the original words, or an English translation of them, we were prevented by her mode of pronunciation from ascertaining. Indeed, to give the vocal ladies and gentlemen their due, they do all they can to hide any little inconsistency between the dialogue and songs, by rendering the poetry completely unintelligible, which, most cases, is conferring a very important favour upon the modern authors into the bargain.

MRS. TAYLEURE, who played MISS BULL with great spirit, introduced seven or eight songs, and sang them all in rapid succession, and gave us a dance into the bargain. She is a very smart actress, and has a great deal of fun about her; her dancing was easy, and yet spirited, and met with much applause.

JONES, in Lackland, was all that Lackland lacks; but Oxberry was not so good as usual, in Squire Tally-ho: he appeared to us to be rather imperfect; this produced a nervousness, which necessarily mars broad comedy, where, if the mind be not quite at ease about the words, all attempts to make effects are hopeless.

DECAMP was gay and animated in Colonel Epaulette, but it is strange, old stager as he is, that he should have appeared throughout the piece, with a Brutus head, when the whole plot turns upon his not being able to "go off without pow-der." In a similar manner, the joke of SIR JOHN BULL upon LACKLAND's first interview with him, in black stockings and white shoes, fell harmless, because JONES wore white stockings and black shoes.

WILLIAMS and MRS. PEARCE were very good BULLS, and MRS.JONBE made a nice bustling Landlady; -would we could extend our praise to MR. J. RUSSELL's Lapsche; but, alas! it must not be. He was imperfect in the dialogue, wretched in the dialect, and mistaken in the character; indeed, the only thing he appeared to have studied was, to be mattentive. We remember one period, at which, as a miniature copy of MA. THEWS, we inclined favourably to MR. RUSSELL; but every time we see him, he loses ground; and we can assure him, he has very few acres left to risque. We would advise him to pull up in time, and take pains in his profession; -if he do, and e diligence, we have little doubt but that he may yet retrieve the steps he has lost, and at some considerable distance of time, possess about a tenth-part of the ability he fancies himself to have now.

In criticising the performance of Fontainbleau, we cannot choose but notice the hand, or rather benditti of this theatre. To play at a little hop upon the carpet at an old lady's house in the country, at Chrismas, they would be quite competent; but to get through Operas seems to be a little beyond their mark, and their attempts in that department in justice call for

A gentleman, whose name we do not know, who played a character in Fontainbleau, the name of which we never heard, but who was dressed in a regimental coat, with facings on the cuffs, and with none on the collar, sang a song of the meaning of which we are as perfectly innocent as we are of the other attributes of his character; but which from the execrable way in which it was played, appeared to us to be a musical description of a quarrel between an oyster-seller and a couple of drunken tumpeters: towards its conclusion the disturbance increased considerably, and the singer strained his very heart-strings to summount the hubbub of the fiddlets. So that what with his effort on the stage, and their clucking and squeaking in the orchestra, it gave us a perfect idea of the noise which might be occasioned by a mischievous schoolboy in disturbing a well peopled hen-roost at night.

For these and other reasons equally obvious, but which we will not here explain, we would suggest the omission of all the vocals and instrumentals; and we are quite sure, divested of their equivocal aid, Fontainbleau would become very popular with the laughter-loving audience of the Little Theatre.

We cannot close our remarks on the Haymarket for the week without noticing perhaps one of the cleverest pieces of performance seen on a rage; we mean that of Jones and MRS. CHATTERLY, it a little drama called A Day after

JONES is so well known, that we need merely say he played, to say he played excellently; but the lady is yet new to the audience, and her acting on Wednesday demand the highest praise: it was arch, animated, vivacious, and elegant, and though we are not very easily pleased, we were delighted with it, and think it but justice to her great merits to call public notice to her in his character, should the rapturous applause she met with induce; the manager to repeat the entertainment.

LONDON MARKETS

CORN EXCHANGE, FRIDAY, Acc. 24.

We have had a fair supply of Wheat since Monday, in addition to a great part of that day's arrival, which remained over on account of its interior quality: the weather also containing remarkably fine, occasioned a great duliness in the sales, at a decime of about 2s. per quarter. Barley, Beans, and Pess are each about 1s. per quarter lower, and Oats have declined in value from 1s. to 2s. per quarter, the arrival this week being considerable. In other articles we have no alteration to notice.

RETURN PRICE of GRA	IN, on board Shap, as mades.
Essex Red Wheat (new)	Maple

AGGREGATE AVERAGES, AUG. 11.
Wheat, 55s 3d—Rye, 34-11d—Barley, 263-64—Oats 20s 7d—Beane 31s 6d—Peas, 34s 1d—20s 0d.

PRICES OF GOLD AND SILVER. COURSE OF EXCHANGE.-FRIDAY, Aug. 24. | COURSE OF EXCHANGE.—FRIDAY, Aug. | Amsterdam | 12 17 C.F. | Tricate | Amsterdam | 12 18 | Bilboa | .353 | Rotterdam | 12 18 | Bilboa | .353 | Seville | .354 | Seville | .355 Cadir..... 36 Rurcelena . 35 Gibraltar . 39 Genoa . 43 Malta . 45 Dalarma . 116 Palermo ...16 Oporto ... 50

COMMERCIAL REPORT, FROM AUGUST 20, TO AUGUST 25, INCLUSIVE.

9 per cent.

That indisposition towards business, attended by the gradual depreciation in the value of produce, which we have so long been under the necessity of chronicling, must now be reiterated. "Low and safe prices" have had a seducing and destructive influence upon the trading community; however, these terms begin to be regarded with indifference, as all calculation is defeated in contemplating their realization. Some years ago the circulars abounded with "the great purchases made on speculation," but now the word speculation is exploded from the mercantile vocabulary; indeed, all traders adhere most scrupulously in circumscribing their purchases, which are burely adequate to their immediate wants, and thus clearly demonstrating an entire absence of confidence.

B. P. Sugars have pressed heavily on the market, and all qualities are lower-Browns from 1s. 6d. to 2s. per Cwt.; the quotations for these are 53s, to 56s.; Middling 57s. to 62s.; Good and Fine 63s. to 70s. - Foreign Sugars have experienced a very considerable decline; Strong Whtte Havannahs 45s.; and Middling 42s. per Cwt.—In Refined Goods very little business has been transacted; the following prices of Coffee stamp a depreciation upon the previous currency of about 4s. per Cwt. upon Plantation, and 1s. to 2s. upon foreign descriptions: Jamaica ordinary 98s. to 101s.; Good to Fine Ordinary 102s. to 109s.; Middling 111s. to 118s.; Good to Fine Middling 120s. to 134s..; St. Domingos 110s .- Leeward Island Rums are held with rather more firmness; Proofs command is. 4d. per Gallon; in Jamaicas no variation. - The operations in Cotton are more extended than for several weeks before, viz. 2,500 Bengals 5% to 6%; 500 Shrats 64 to 74; 150 Madras 64 to 7; 590 Pernams 121 to 181, in Bond; and those duty-paid are 100 Boweds 94 to 10; 100 Demeraras 111 to 13; 100 Minas 111; a few Smyrnas, attempted by auction yesterday, were principally taken in at 84.—Advices from Liverpool state that the Importers of Cotton are pressing their stocks, which has afforded buyers an opportunity of coming in upon rather easier terms. In the course of the week Yellow Candle Tallow was sold at 43s. 6d. but there is now some demand, and 44s, is the exact point.—But little business has taken place in Indigos since the last sale, and in the value of this commodity scarcely any alteration can be stated.

PRICE	ef the	PUBLI	C FUN	D9.		•
STOCKS. Bank Stock. 3 per Cent. Reduced 3 per Cent. Consols. 3 per Cent. Consols. Consols for Aecount. 4 per Cent. Consols. 5 per Cent. Navy. Bank Long Anhuities. India Bonds Exchequer Bills, 2d. Ditto, 24d. Osmium	Mon. 2364 764 874 764 956 LQ84 194 99 p	7 Tapes 2361 77 758 871 768 96 1082 192 ———			P. Holiday.	236] 6 76] 1 76] 6 87] 76] 1 95] 1 10a 9] 196 1 4 6 6

BIRTHS.

On Saturday se'nnight, the Lady of Philip John Miles, Esq. M.P. Leigh lourt, near Bristol, of a daughter. Court, near Bristol, of a daughter. On the 18th just, at Exten, Hants, the Ludy of Captain Shale

On the 14th instant, at Tenby; the Lady of Lieut,-Colonel Northey, of twin

MARRIAGES.

MARRIAGES.
On the 20th inst. at Bath, Harry Scott Gibb, Esq. of the Boyal Artillery, to Ramsay Eliza, daughter of the late Colodel Couper.
On Menday last, R. H. Rearden, Esq. of the 56th Regiment, to Mark'daughter of Robert Reed Cunningham, Hsq. late of Seabank, Ayrabire.

On the 23d inst. aged $2, at his seat, Gubbins Park, Herts. Thos. Kemble, Enq. P. aosd at the head of the first brokerage bouse in the City, his virtoes alone complexously. A rigid adherence to rectifude marked all his operations, accompanied by an openness of disposition and accessible deportment tions, accompanied by an openness of disposition and accessible deportment seldom united.

On Saturday se'anight, at Southampton, Sir Henry Wm. Carr, E.C.B. Lieut.-Col. in the 3d Regiment of Guarda.

On Wednesday, in Hortford-street. Elizabeth, wife of Lord Henley, and damphter and coheiress of Lord Chancellor, Northington.

On the 20th Inst. at Ormond House, near Bath, Ellen Augusta, the daugh-ten of Major General Juckson.

LONDON: Printed and Published by R. T. WEAVER, et No. 11, JOHNSON'S COURT, FLEET-STREET, where only Communications to the Billion, (post-put) are to

JOHN

RIJI

" FOR GOD, THE KING, AND THE PEOPLE!"

No. 38.

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1821.

Price 7d.

NEW MUSIC.—THE CORONATION.

THE OVERTURE, with the favourite AIRS in the GRAND CORONATION, as performed with unbounded applause at the Theatre Royal, Drury-Lane, composed and arranged for the Piano Forte, by T. Cooke, price 3a.—Published and sold by Chappell, and Co. Music Sellers to His Majesty, No. 50, New Bond-street.

MUZART'S and ROSSINI'S OPERAS, FOREIGN EDITIONS.

JUST imported, by T. BOOSEY and Co. 28, Holles-street, Oxford-street, arranged for the Piano Forte, with Italian and German words, and elegantly printed on fine paper, the COMPLETE OPERATIC WORKS of MOZART, in 10 vols. price $1. 8s. Each Opera may be had separately, at the following prices: Don Juan, IL—Figaro, IL 5s.—It Flauto Magico, 15s.—Titus, 10s.—Cose fan tutte, IL 5s.—Homeseo, IL 6s.—L'Enlevement du Serail, IL 2s. 6d.—Il Direttere, 7s. 6d.—Opera Sones not contained in his known Operas, IL. Also, the following OPERAS by ROSSINI: II Turco in Italia, 38s.—La Gazza Ladra, II, 10s.—Tancred, II, 10s.—L'Italiani in Algieri, II. 19s.—Elizabeth, II. 5s.—L'Ingano Felice, 15s.—Othello, II. 5s. A Second Supplement to T. Boosey and Co. 3 General Catalogue, containing their late extensive Importations, is just published, price 1s.

NEW MUSIC. JUST FUBLISHED.

MR. EMBIN, Vocul Composer.—This Gentleman, who has so rapidly risen in the public favour, on account of the beautiful melody and sweetness of his compositione, has lately favoured the musical world with the following elegant Ballads, the increasing demand for which fully justify the Publishers in the expectation they anticipated of the public approval. "THE FIRST ROSE OF SUMMBIC," an original Ballads, sung by Mrs. Salmon, at the New Argyll Rooms, with the most distinguished applause, price 2s. "THE SUN OF TO-MORROW SHALL DRY UP THY TEAKS," Ballad, sung by Mrs. Salmon, at the New Argyll Rooms, with the most distinguished, sung by Mrs. Ashe, at the Bath Concerts, with the highest opposation, price 2s. "THE SUL OF THE LAND OF MY YOUTH," Ballad, sung by Mrs. Ashe, at the Bath Concerts with the most e of Kent, 17, Old Boud-street, where may be obtained every new Musical Publication of merit.

The following Books just published by W. Wright, 46, Fleet-street, and may be had of all Booksellers.

In 12mo, price 7s. boards, a New Edition of THE BEAUTIES of the MODERN POETS, being Selections from the Works of Byron, Scott, Campbell, Rugers, Crabbe, Colman, Southey, Moore, Wordsworth, Montgomery, Coleridge, &c.; including many Original Pieces never before published: and an introductory view of the modern Temple of Fame. By D. CAREY.

II.

KEARSLEY'S TAX TABLES, for 1822.

Price 1s. 6d. a New Edition of KEARSLEY'S TAX TABLES, for 1822, containing the Acts lately passed relating to the Queen's Anunity, Beer and Ale, Publicans, Steam Engines, Altorneys and Solicitors, Bills of Exchange, Husbandry Horses, and Compositions for Assessed Taxes.

III.

TO MAGISTRATES AND SOLICITORS.

Price 8s. boards,

A COMPENDIOUS ABSTRACT of the PUBLIC GENETAL ACTS passed in the 2d of Geo. IV. being the Second Session of the Seventh Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Iyeland; with Notes and Comments. By T. W. WILLIAMS, Esq. of the Inner Temple, Barrister at Law.

Published by James Carpentar, Old Band-street.

THE WINE AUTRO

Published by James Cargentar, Old Band-street.

THE FINE ARTS.

A BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY of PAINTERS and ENGRAVERS, from the revival of Fainting and the alleged discovery of Engraving by Finignerra.—By MICHABL BRYAN.

In this work is given two indexes, alphabetical and obviouslegical; and the introduction comprises a brief account of the Painters of Antiquity. It also centains rive Plates, exhibiting the particular Marks and Monograms used by the different Engravers; together with a List of their works, in two thick volumes, in 4to, price 51.5s. in boards; and on superfine reyal gaper, 91.

January (1988) and the price 51. 5s. in beards; and on superfine reyal gaper, 91.

2. A New and Compendious TREATISE of ANATOMY, and PROPORTIONS of the HUMAN HODY, adayted to the Arts of DESIGNING, PAINTING, and SCULPTURE, illustrated by Copper plates.—By W. J. WELLS. Price 5s.

3. The MEMOIRS of COUNT GRAMMONT, illustrated with 64 Pertraits, beautifully engraved by SCRIVEN, from original Pictures, in 2 vols. 5s. op. price 31. 13s. 6d. and in 4to. with proof impressions of the Plates, 61. 6s. Datto in French, 2 vols. 8vo. 31. 13s. 6d.

4. A PORTRAIT of THOMAS MOORE, Esq. from a Picture by M. A. FHEE, Esq. R.A. engraved in the line manner, by Mr. JOHN BURNET. Price II. 1s. proof, II. 11s. 6d.

5. A PORTRAIT of THOMAS LORD CLIFFORD, Lord High Treasurer to Charles II. Engraved by Mr. SCHUVEN, from a Miniature by SAM, COOPER. Price 18s. 6d. proof, 15s.

6. A SMALL wHOLE-LENGTH TORTRAIT of HENRY HOWARD, EARL of SURRY, engraved by SCRIVEN from the original Picture by Holbeln, in the King's Collection at Windser, price 12s. proof impressions, 18s.

Published by James Carpenter, Old Bond-street,
A DDRESS to a YOUNG LADY, on her Entrance into the World.

Second Edition, in 2 vols. price 12s. in boards.

CONTENDS:—On reading the Scriptures; on the Sabbath; on Truth; on Happiness, and exercise of Virtue; on Virtue of Mind; on Pride, as inimical to the milder Virtues, and destructive of anniable Affections; on Butles of Children to Parents, and the Happiness consequent of their Observance, &c. &c. &c.

2. An ESSAY on LIGHT READING, as it may be supposed to influence moral conduct and literary taste. By the Rev. EDW. MANGIN, M.A. price Ss. in bounds.

3. A COLLECTION of Enigues, Character, Transpositions, &c., &c. Fifth

2. A COLLECTION of Enigmas, Ungrados, Transpositions, vol. 2. Belition, price 4s. in boards.
4. NOURJAHAD, by Mrs. SHERIDAN. A New Edition. price 3s. 6d beards.

5. The WORKS of SALLUST, translated into English by the late AR-THUR SIURPHY, Eng. with a Life of Sallust, by T. M. 8vo. price 9s. in boards, on royal paper, 12s.

HEBREW GRAMMAR.

HEBREW GRAMMAR.

Just published, by SAMUEL BAGSTER, No. 15, Paternoster-row,
A HEBREW GRAMMAR. By the Rev. FRED. NOLAN;
Price 2s. 6d. Where may be had, the GREEK, LATIN, CHALDEE,
SYRIACK, FRENCH, ITALIAN, SPANISH, and GERMAN Grammars,
2s. 6d. cach, forming, with the VOCABULARY now at Press, a POLYGLOTT GRAMMAR, in which the Genius of the principal Ancient and Modern Languages is explained, upon an uniform plan, and by a new and eimple principle of Analysis, applied to the improvements of the latest and most approved Grammarians.

, by the most esteemed London Makers .- Messrs. KENT, UNS, by the most esteemed London Makers.—Messis. KENT, AVERY, and VINCENT, No. 63, Bond-street, corner of Brock-street, over-square, beg to acquain Noblemen and Sportsmen, they have now for SALE, the best and most extensive STOCK of Double and Single Barrelled GUNS in the Kingdom; among which are about 160 of Joseph and John Manton's, and a proportionable Assortment of all the other approved Makers, viz. Wm. Smith, Purdy, Moore, Stavens, Wilkinson, Mortimer, Egg., Forsyth, Nock, Clark, &c.; the whole of which are warranted, and if not approved, may be exchanged within twelve months. Also Travelling, Holster, and Pocket Pistols, from 14s. a pair upwards. The greatest price given for all kinds of Fire Arms, Swords, &c.

WATCHES.—J. ACKLAM respectfully solicits the attention of those Persons in want of a good WATCH, to his extensive Collection now on Sale, of every description and price, both new and second-hand, which, on inspection, will appear to be little more than half the original cost. The particular attention he exerts in the selection of the best workmanship, esables him to offer to Purchasers the peculiar advantage of 18 months trial.—J. A. has likewise for Sale a variety of Ladies' Gold Watches, from Three Guineas supeards.

Old Watches, Plate, or Jewellery taken in exchange, or purchased, 423, Strand, Corner of Bedford-street.

BLACKWOOD'S EDINBURGH MAGAZINE, No. LIII. and BLACKWOOD'S EDINBURGH MAGAZINE, No. LIII. and No. LIV. for AUGUST, 1821.

Contents of No. LIII.:—I. Hore Germanice, No. 12. The Pilgrimage, a Drama, by the Baron la Motte Fouque.—II. Ode on the Olden Time.—III. Norsels of Nelody.—IV. Lamb's Translation of Catullus.—V. The Florida Pirate.—VI. On the probable Influence of Moral and Religious Instruction on the Character and Situation of Seamen, No. 2.—VII. Inch. Keith Beacon.—VIII. The Invocation.—IX. The Landscape.—X. The Wanders of Connenght.—KI. Biegy on a Country Maden.—XII. The Sons of Moosilim.—XIII. Sit Thomas Browne's Letter to a Friend.—XIV. The Plague of Durkness, a Dramatic Scene from the Exodus.—XV. The Last Plague.—XVI. On Paslim-Signing in our Charches, with some Observations upon the proposed "Additional Paslimody."—XVII. The Forgers.—XVIII. Works preparing for Publication.—XIX. Monthly List of New Publications.—XX. Monthly Regis'er, &c.

Contents of No. LiV:—I. Epicile Preliminary.—II. The Steam-Boat, No. 6. (Voyage Third; Tale 16: A Jeadle Brans in Love. Part Second: The Preparations. Part Third: The Forenation—III. Account of a Coronation Dinner at Sdinburgh.—IV. The Voyages and Travels of Columbus Secundus; Chapters 7, 8, 9, and 16.—V. Paulliar Epistle to Christopher North, from an Old Friend with a New Face, Letter I. On Houg's Memoirs.—VI. The Modern British Drams. No. 1. The Fatal Unction: a Coronation Tragedy. By Leslius ***2**2**2**2**2**1. The Muses Welcome to the ligh and Myghtle Prince James, &c.—XI. Remarks on Bishop Corbet's Poens.—XII. Olde on the King's Landing in Ireland.—XIII. A Welcome to the ligh and Myghtle Prince James, &c.—XI. Remarks on Bishop Corbet's Poens.—XII. Olde on the King's Landing in Ireland.—XIII. A Velcome to the ligh and Myghtle Prince James, &c.—XI. Remarks on Bishop Corbet's Poens.—XII. Olde on the King's Landing in Ireland.—XIII. A Velcome to the ligh and Myghtle Prince James, &c.—XI. Remarks on Bishop Corbet's Poens.—XII. A Repastulatory Round Robin from Fourteen Contributors.—XIX. The Finish.

Printed for T

THE BRITISH REVIEW, No. XXXV. published September 1,

THE BRITISH REVIEW, No. XXXV. published September 1, contains the following Articles:

I. Hints for conducting Sunday Schools, by the Committee of the Sanday School Hockety of Ireland.—II. Mrs. Graham's Life of Nicholas Poussin.—III. Wilks on the Necessity of a Church Establishment.—IV. Capt. Parry's Journal of a Voyage for the Discovery of the North West Passage.—V. Present State of the Greek Church in Russla.—VI. Mrs. Hannah More's Bible Rhymes.—VII. Reports from the Commissioners respecting the Public Records of the Kingdom.—VIII. Dr. D'Ogly's Life of Archbishop Sancreft.—IX. Captain Lyon's Travels in Northern Africa.—X. Dudleys Dissertation on the Identity of the Rivers Niger and Nile.—XI. An Autumn near the Rhing.—XII. Bishop of St. David's Vindication of the Disputed Passage of St. John.

London: Printed for Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, Paternoster row; and Hatchard and Son, Piccadilly; of whom may be procured the former Num-bers of this Review.

bers of this Review.

In the Press, and will speedly be published, a New Edition, carefully corrected throughout, of

THE CLBRICAL GUIDE, or ECCLESIASTICAL DIRECTORY; containing a complete Register of the Prelates and other Dignitaries of the Church; a List of all the Benedices in Eugland and Wales, arranged alphabetically in their several Counties, Dioceses, Archdeaconries, &c. The Names of their respective incumbents, the Year wherein they were instituted, the Population of the Parishes, Value of the Livings, Names of the Parisms, &c. &c. And an Appendix, containing Alphabetical Lists of those Benefices, which are in the Patronage of the Crown, the Bishops, Deans, and Chapters, and other Public Bodics.—Printed for F. C. and J. Rivington, No. 62, St. Paul's Church-yard; and No. 3, Waterloo-place, Pall-Mall.

Just published, handsomely printed in one volume, 8vo. price 13s. in boards, the Second Edition of PRACTICAL LECTURES upon the GOSPEL of ST. JOHN,

PRACTICAL LECTURES upon the GUSFEL of ST. JOHR,
Part I. comprising the first six Chapters.—By the Rev. JOHN ROGERS
PITMAN, M.A. Alternate Morning Preacher at Belgrave and Berkeley
Chapels: and alternate Evening Preacher at the Foundling and Magdalen Hospitals.—Sold by F. C. and J. Rivington, 62, St. Paul's Ohureh-yard, and 3, Waterloo-piace, Pall Mail; Cadell, Strand: Hatchard, Piccadilly: Ogle, Duncan, and Co. Holborn; and Rice, Mount-street, Berkeley-square; of whom may be had, by the same Author, price 7s. bound,
2. The Second Edition of EXCERPTA ex varils ROMANIS POETIS qui in Scholis rarius lagunatur.

in Scholis rarius leguntur.

Just published, price in boards, 21. 2s. the Seventh 4to. vol. of

Just published, price in boards, 2l. 2s. the Seventh 4to. vol. of THE WORKS of the Inte Right Hon. EDMUND BURKE, containing Specches in Westminster Hall on the Impeachment of Mr. Hastings. With an Introduction addressed to Lord Viscount Mikon, by the BISHOP of ROCHESTER.—Printed for F. C. and J. Rivington, No. 62. St. Paul's Church yard, and No. 3, Waterloo-place, Pall Mall.

N. B. An 8vo Edition is in the Press, forming the 13th and 14th Wolumes of Mr. Burke's Works. The 4th, 5th, and 4th notate Volumes may be had to complete that Edition, and the Works in 12 octavo volumes, price, in boards, 6l. A few Copies of Vols. IX. to XII. of the octavo Edition, on royal Paper, may be had to complete that Edition.

Just published, nearly printed in a small volume, price 3s. half-bound, TAMILIAR DIALOGUES on interesting Subjects, intended for the Amusement and Instruction of young Ladies in their Hours of Leisure, on Suudays.—By a EADY.—Printed for F. C. and J. Bivington, No. 62, St. Paul's Church-yard, and No. 3, Waterloo-place, Pall-Mall.

Just published, handsomely printed, in 1 vol. 87d. price 8s. boards, AN ACCOUNT of a NEW PROCESS in PAINTING. In Part I. containing—Hemarks on its general Correspondence with the Peculiarities of the Venetian School.

Part II.—Supplementary Details, explanatory of the Process: with Miscellaneous Observations on the Arts of its Sixteenth Century.—Printed for F. C. and J. Rivington, No. 62, St. Paul's Church-yard, and No. 3, Waterloonlace Pall Mall.

place, Pall Mall.

Just published, in Fro. price 14s.

OLIVER CROMWELL and HIS TIMES. — By THOMAS

CROMWELL. With a Postrait, from an Original Painting in the Author's possession, a Fac-Simile of Cromwell's Signature and Seal to the Warrant for Beheading Charles I. Original Memoirs of his Descendants, Letters, and other interesting Documents.—Printed for John Warren, Old Roud-street.

Just published, in 8vo. price 8s. bds.

A N ESSAY on the STUDY of MODERN HISTORY.—By JAMES SHERGOLD BOONE. Student of Chalcock.

Just published, with coloured Plates, in 12mo.

NOTES relating to the MANNERS and CUSTOMS of the CRIM TARTARS. Written during a Four Years' Residence among that People,—By MARY HOLDERNESS.—Printed for John Warren, Old Bond-street.

Bond-street.

LIBRARIES SYSTEMATICALLY ARRANGED & CATALOGUED.

or VALUED.

J. BARRINGTON respectfully offers his services, either in Town or Country, to such of the Nobibity or Gentry as may have occasion for an ARRANGEMENT, &c. of their respective LIBRARIES, or the completion of their imperfect Sets of Works.

127 Parcels of Books or discarded Duplicates bought or exchanged.

352 Strand.

SHIRKE'S SHARSPEARE, No. 2. SMIRKE'S SHARSPEARE, No. 2.

Just published,
TLLUSTBATIONS OF TAMING, OP THE SHBBW, being the Second Number of ILLUSTBATIONS OF SHARSPEARE, from Pictures painted expressly for this Work by BQBERT SMIRKE, Eq. R.A. Engraved in the finest style by the most Eminent Historical Engravers. The Play illustrated is published at the same time.

No. 3. "Merry Wives of Windser," will appear in November.

Printed for Rodwell and Martin, New Bond-street; and sold by Colnaghi and Co. Cockspur-street, and the priscipal Booksellers in the Infied. Kingdom.

ECLIPSE, MARGATE STEAM-PACKET.—For the BENEFIT PULIFSE, MARGATE STEAM-PACXET.—For the BENEFIT of R. B. WATTS, Steward.—R. B. Watts most respectfully acquaists his Friends and the Public in general, that he has engaged the above elegant and commodious Vessel for WEDNESDAY, Sept. 5th, 1s21, for the purpose of conveying passengers from London to Margate; on which occasion be earnestly sollaits the honour of their Company, assuring those Ladies and Gentlemen who may favour him with their patronage, that nothing on his part shall be wanting to render them comfortable and happy during the Excursion.

Fares -Chief Cabin, 14s.; Fore Cabin, 12s.

I OAN of MONEY.—The Advertiser is enabled to advance Money to any extent, at moderate Interest, whether on Freehold, Copyhold, Leasehold, Funded, or other sample Security; and assures these who may honour him with their confidence, that they will experience treatment the most caselid, liberal, and explicit, though similar basiness is semantiaged viewed with mistrust, from the mal-practices of disreputable people.—Letters addressed (post paid) to A.B. care of Mr. Bower, 5, Inner Temple-lane, Fleet-street, will be immediately replied to; where a Card of Address may be obtained.—Reversions are purchased.

Just published, by G. and W. B. Whittaker, Ave Maria-lane, printed in a neat pocket size, price is. each, PINNOCK'S COUNTY HISTORIES. Each County is published separately, and is therefore complete in itself; containing a compendious and accurate account of its Histery and Topography, its Antiquities, natural and artificial Curiosities, local Peculiarities, Commerce, Manufactures, &c.; comprising also the Biography of its most Eminent P. roons, and much other useful information; and each County illustrated by a neat and correct Travelling Man.

much other useful information; and each County illustrated by a neat and correct Travelling Map.

N. B. For usefulness and cheapness Pinnock's County Histories are unequalled. Nearly all the Counties of England are now published, and the remainder are in great forwardness. When finished, they will form the most complete and serviceable History and Topography of Great Britain ever presented to public notice.

"They are well adapted to refresh the memory; and there is no one prome of his native country, but must feel a secret pleasure that its treasures, beauties, and interests, are so ably and so familiarly defineated, and brought within the reach of the humblest individual."—Vice Literary Chronicle and Weekly Review,

HEALTH and LONGBUITY.

Just published, by G. and W. B. Whittaker, Ave Maria-lane, price only 98.
DINNOCK'S CATECHISM of MEDICINE; or; Golden Busies for the Preservation of Heakth and the Attainment of Long Life.

"It appears to me that Adults might be greatly benefited by the instruction these books contain, as well as the younger branches of seciety,"—The foregoing observation was made by the Lord Chancellor, when, in his judicial capacity, he granted an Injunction against certain partice who had pirated several of Pinnock's Catechisms; and the truth of the remark is fully exemplified in the Catechism of Medicine, &c. It is, is fact, an invaluable compendium on one of the most important subjects that can occupy the human mind; and no person, whatever his age or situation may be, ought to be without it.

PINNOCK'S CATECHISMS.

MESSRS.G. and W. B. WHITTAKER, Ave-Maria-lane, beg to announce that New Editions of the following CATECHISMS, considerably enlarged and improved, have just issued from the Press (price 8d.

derably enlarged and improved, have just issued from the Press (price Meach):

The First Catechism for Children, Worth Edition.

Pinnock's Catechism of Astronomy, Righth Edition.

Pinnock's Catechism of Botany, Sixth Edition.

Bible and Goapel History, Sixteenth Edition.

Catechism of Botany, Sixth Edition.

English Grammar, Thirdenth Edition.

French Grammar, Fourth Edition.

Latis Grazmar, Third Edition.

General Knowledge, Tenth Edition.

British Biography, Sixth Edition.

Classical Biography, Fourth Edition.

Natural History, Fifth Edition.

Geometry, Seventh Edition.

Mythology, Tenth Edition.

Music, Sixth Edition.

Geography, Twenty-sixth Edition.

History of England, Twenty-seventh Edition.

"Being led to look into these Works, we have been pleasingly, amputing at the variety and accuracy of the information they coitain, within as small a compass, and in so excellent a form; and we must say, that more convenient, accurate, well arranged, and proper publications, were never committed to general observation. —Literary Grazetta.

Just published, price 3s, by G. and W. B. Whittaker, Ave Maris-lamp, New

Just published, price 3s, by G. and W. B. Whittaker, Ave Maris lane, a New

THE MORAL POETICAL MISCELLANX; consisting of a variety of choice Selections from the most approved Authors, a systemetically arranged.

"This is a most desirable complication for Surniay reading; but, at the same time, not of so serious a complexion as to unfit it for its more general application—a Puetical Class-Book.

Just published, price 5a, 5d, by G. and W. B. Whittaker, Ave Maria-lang.

THE LITERARY and SCIENTFIC CLASS-BOOK; completing of Three Hundred and Sixty-five Reading Lassens; adjusted to the wire of Schools, of both Sexes, for every Bayin the Year; within Thomass Questions for Examination.—By the Rev. JOHN MLANTES, Author of the Elements of Ecclesiastical History, &c.

"This volume is at once calculated to inform the Jodgment, and discipling the heart; and in this view it will be duly estimated by every intelligent. Parent and Teacher. Every Lesson is of a literary or assentice characteristic the whole arranged in systematical order, and salivened by the beauties of ancient and modern poetry."

WANTS A SITUATION, as WET NURSE, or in a Nursery, a YOUNG WOMAN, whose Husband is on the Contleant. with a good breast of milk, (being her first child) and can be well recommended; has an objection to Town or Country. Personal application to Mrs. R. No. 18, Charlton-streef, Somers Town, or by letter, post paid. No office-keeper needs

OR THE TRETH .- A DENTIFRIGE, which, although it has not the absurd pretensions of "generating ensemble," or "coursting; the gums to coral," will be found to possess every requisite that can reasonably be expected. These artisles are perfectly innocent in their composition, and pleasant in their application, being the result of many years actual protein.—Also a TINCTURE that is warranted to afford relief in all cases, and in most will permanently remove the TOOTH ACHE.—Propared by J. GRAY, Surgeon and Dentist, No. 25, Old Burlington-street, Loudou, price 2s, 9d, and 4s. 6. each bettle of Tincture, and 3s, each box of Dentifrice-May also be ind.of.4ff. Johnston, 68, Corollil; sir. Sounder, 65, 68, denoted the price of the control of the

LAST NIGHT'S GAZETTE.

BANKRUPTCIES SUPERSEDED. WARREN, G. Bath, cheese and bacon-factor.
HARRIS, T. B. Hinckley, Lettestershire, borier.
SPENCE, J. Yarm, Yorkshire, grocer.
DRIVES, N. Stainshridge, Glosscatershire, clathler.

WHI VISE, N. Mainehridge, Glomecaterehire, clathler.

BANK RUFTS.

WRIGHT, C. Ludgage bill, vine-merchant.

HARTLAND, J. (iloucester, Mercer.

BOYMAN, R. Manchester, grocer.

BETHELL, W. V. Liverpool, merchant.

THOMAS, R. Boebiale, Lassashire, but manufacturer.

MARSHMAN, R. Love-lane, cloth-factor.

DAVIS, S. Butts, Staffordshire, maltater.

CASSELS, R. Martin's-lane, Cannon-street, wine-merchant.

BIRD, T. Solthul-Lodge, Warwickshire, casl-dealer.

BRAMMALL, D. Whitehouse, Sheffield, ale-manufacturer.

TUESDAY'S GAZETTE.

PARTNERSHIPS DISSOLVED.

PARTNERSHIPS DISSOLVED.

Kitching and Smith, Binjey, plumbers and glaziers.—W. and J. Balley, Oxford-street, bedstead-makers.—Brooks and Nicholson. Bishopsystestreet-Without, cheesemongers.—Ryder and Warren, Edale, Derbyshire, cotton-spinners.—Hobb's and Field, Snow's-felds, leather-dressers.—Hobbay and Gold, Birmingham, factors.—Ridgway, Cresswell, and Ridgway, Huddersfield, woolstaplers.—Congreve and Howell, Islington, cheesemospers.—W. and J. Brown, Chester, auctioneers.—Brooke, Smith, Brooke, and Firth, London, merchants.—Chittey and Campbell, Castle-street, Leicester-square, jewellers.—Stevens and Hammett. Plymouth. rope-makers.—Halin, Daniell, and Fixsen, Old Fish-street-hill, sugar-bakers.

BANKRUPTCY SUPERSHDED.

WANT, J. Russell-place, surgeon.

WANT, J. Russell-place, surgeon.
BANKRUPTS. ASITTON, J. Knutsford, veterinary-surgeon.
BEDFORD, T. Bristol, stationer.
BELL, J. Hampsteed, victualler.
GREENHOUSE, W. Ludlow, tanner.
HILLARY, J. P. Mark-lane, wine-merchant.
MARSMAN, R. Love-lane, cloth-factor.
SEATON, R. Wenthridge, cotton-spinner.
JONES, A. W. New Brentford, corn-merchant.

Sept. 1, W. M. New Brentford, corn-merchant.

DIVIDENDS.

Sept. 1, W. H. Tuesly, High-street, Borough, iron-merchant.—Sept. 18, J. Garton, Myton, Kingston-upon-Huil, lighterman.—Sept. 25, T. Little, New-castle-upon-Tyue, linen-draper.—Sept. 19, W. H. Marshall, Holme on Spalding Moor, Yorkshire, miller.—Sept. 18, W. Kirk and W. Breughton, Leeds, merchants.—Sept. 18, M. Fischer, Leeds, merchant.—Sept. 20, T. Stammers, and W. S. Button, Sudbury, and T. Odkin, Colchester, millers.—Sept. 19, W. Twigg, Sheffield, plumber.

CERTIFICATES—Sept. 19

Twigg, Sheffield, plumber.
CERTIFICATES—Sept. 18.
J. Stocks, Aldersgate-street, salesman.—G, Fowler, Collumpton, hosier.—
B. Hardwick, Birmingham, builder.—N. Mence, Worcester, brewer.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE

PARIS, Aug. 25 .- The Royal Family waited on the King this morning to congratulate him on the occasion of the fête; their Royal Highnesses breakfasted with His Majesty, and during the repast the infant Duke de Bourbon and Mademoiselle were introduced into the Royal apartment.—The Duke of Wellington paid his respects to the King.

A letter from Constantinople states, that the stipulations insisted on by Russia are extremely moderate; they consist of four items-Protection and respect for the Christian religion and its Ministers; Secondly, the re-establishment of those churches which have been demolished; Thirdly, protection for such of the Greeks as have not taken part in the insurrection; Fourthly, the freedom of the Russian trade in the Straits and Seas under the dominion of the Porte, according to former treaties.

An express has arrived from Vienna, announcing the favourable result of the negotiations between Russia and the Porte. The period for deliberation allowed to the Porte by Russia expired on the 26th of July, on which day Baron Strogonoff repaired to the Divan, and demanded an answer. The Grand Seignior assured the ambassador he should be put in possession of the documents in twenty-four hours; in the mean time he had the satisfaction to acquaint him that it contained "a perfect acquiescence in the wishes of the Court of St. Petersburgh," Strogonoff would not wait, demanded a passport, and in a few hours set sail. An express was instantly dispatched by the Porte to St. Petersbugh with the answer to the Russian manifesto, and complaining, in forcible terms, of the conduct of Strogonoff, to whom was attributed the greater portion of the massacre and bloodshed which had taken place in the Turkish empire.

PIEDMONT, Aug. 3.—A Convention has been concluded between our King and the Austrian Government, by which 12,000 Austrian troops are to occupy, till the 22d September, 1822, certain districts, to be relieved every four months with Milanese troops.

THE KING.

On Thursday se'nnight His Majesty honoured the Lord Mayor and Corporation of Dublin with his presence at dinner, in the magnificent apartment, constructed at the rear of the Mansion House, for the purpose of this entertainment. The room is circular; it is was hundred feet in diameter, without may support for the roof but the external walls. At a quarter past six, the several Corporations entered through a side door. The King's principal servant, accompanied by four other state servants, in splendid liveries, took up their stations behind the splendid throne prepared for His Majesty. At seven, the guests who did not form His Majesty's suite, entered at another side door, and were accommodated by the respective stewards. The gallery was completely filled with the female rank and beauty of the metropolis, whose brilliant fancy dresses and Zowering plumes, formed a splendid coup d'ail. The whole commany being seated (the two centre tables were appropriated excompany being seated (the two centre tables were appropriated exclusively for the invited guests), a general buzz announced His Majesty's approach, when he entered the room. Exactly opposite to where the King entered was placed, what Sir W. Scott would call a date, raised about two feet and a half above the level of the floor; from the door at which His Majesty entered, until he ascended the Throne, the whole line was laid down with superfine scarlet cloth, Throne, the whole line was laid down with superfine scattet cloth, which, with the Throne itself, and the table particularly appropriated for His Majesty and suite, was grand and magnificent. When "His Majesty approached, the assembly rose, and the military band struck up the grand national authem of "God save the King," His Majesty walked up the room with towering dignity, supported by the Lord Mayor; His Majesty's suite, and the Dignitaries most fillustrious in rank, occupied the Royal table. Grace was said by the Lord Primate; and the whole of the guests then resumed their seats. The Lord Mayor helped His Majesty to soup, but some persons on His Majesty's left wishing also to be helped, and being too sons on His Majesty's left wishing also to be helped, and being too far from the Lord Mayor, His Majesty, in the most condescending manner, took the ladle, and helped the Lord Lieutenant, Prince Raterhamy, and the Lord Chancellor, and some others. When His Majesty had finished his soup, he took his glass, and immediately challenged the Lord Mayor, and the Lord Lieutenant; they instantly rose and bowed to His Majesty, who drank to both their healths.—
The King's table was laid out with a most superb service of plate. Upon the King's right were—the Lord Mayor, the Primate, the Arehbishop of Dublin, the Archbishop of Tuam, the Archbishop of Cashel, Lord Sidmouth, the Chief Justice, Lord Norbury, the Chief Manon Age. On his left, the Lord Lieutenant. Patters Rettenburg Baron, &c. On his left, the Lord Lieutenant, Prince Esterhazy, the Lord Chancellor, the Marquis of Londonderry, Marquis Conyngbeing removed, the Lord Mayor rose, and proposed the health of "Our most gracious Sovereign, who had honoured this day his Corporation of the City of Dublin with his presence."—The whole my most enthusiatically drank to the health and long life of company most enthus materially drank to the health and long me of the beloved Sovereign. His alignify, at this moment, rose, and having bewed in the most gracious manner to those about his table, and the first term of the first and to the Corporation and visitors below him, and also to the fair visitors who graced the circular gallery, sat down amidst thunders whiters was graced tas circular gainery, sat down amidst inuscers well applause. The band immediately struck up the National Antièrem, and the whole rocal strength of the city, including Miss Stephens, Miss Cheesa, Mr. Duruset, Mr. Beskord, and others, joined in chorus, which appeared to give great satisfaction to His Majesty, as he kept time most accurately with his hand upon the table, and expensed his approbation more than once to the Lord Lieutenant and Lord Mayor. The Lord Mayor next gave "The Duke of York and the Army," and subsequently. " the Duke of Clarence and the Navy," both of which toasts were received with acclamation.— The next toast included all the Members of the Royal Family, - His Majesty expressed to the Lord Mayor, who was his host upon this occasion, his delight and surprise at the splendid preparations that had been made for his inception. The Lord Mayor made his humble acknowledgments to His Majesty.

His Majesty, after having most conditionally taken wine with all those immediately about handwitted, at a few minutes before ten o'clock, attended by the Lord Hayor, and all the Great Officers of State. The National Anthem was again played on His Majesty's leaving the room. In a minute or two, the Lord Mayor returned, accompanied by Lord Sidmouth, the Marquis of Londonderry, the Marquis Conyngham, and many other Noble Peers. chair on which his Majesty sat, was now removed from under the canopy, and the Lord Mayor's chair being removed into the canopy, and the Lord Mayor's chair being removed into the placs of that which had been previously occupied by His Majesty, the Marquis of Londonderry took his seat on the Lord Mayor's right, and Lord Sidmouth on his left. The Marquis of Conyngham, the Chief Justice, and the other Chief Judges, took their respective stations, when the Lord Mayor gave "The glorious 12th, 17th, and 23d of August," being the auspicious days of His Majesty's landing, public entry, and honouring the Corporation of the City of Dublin.—This toast was bailed with renturous appliance, and it was -This toast was bailed with rapturous applause, and it was many minutes before the Lord Mayor, although standing, could obtain a hearing, to announce the health of Lord Sidmouth, which was drank in a bumper, the whole company standing.—Lord Sidmouth rose, and in a very neat and emphatic speech, thanked Lord Mayor and Corporation for the honour they had done him. thanked the

The Lord Mayor next proposed—" The health of the Marquis of Londonderry."

This toast was enthusiastically drank with three times three Contrary to usual custom, they remained standing, every eye being fixed with intense interest upon the Noble Marquis.

The Marquis of Londonderry rose, amid considerable cheering. He said that he deeply felt the kindness which the company had just shown to him. He always felt proud in being an Irishman. He could assure the company that he wanted ability to express the sentiment which he cherished. Feeling the highest attachment to his native country, he had always looked upon those moments as the xiost delicious of his life, when public business enabled him to visit it. If these were his wishes upon ordinary occusions, what must have been his pride and gratification now, when he saw his Sovereign in the heart of the country, surrounded by all classes of his people, and receiving the highest and most unequivocal testimonies of kyalty and affection. The reception His Majesty met the moment he touched the Irish shore, was characteristic of the people. He landed, unaccompanied by a single soldier, and was followed to his palace by crowds, amongst whom only one sentiment prevailed; it was one of devotion to the Monarch, and attachment to the Throne. The sentiment pervading the Irish people, was one of the greatest blessings which Providence could confer upon their Sovereign. That same sentiment was cherished in that room; they all felt one common attachment towards the Monarch; he could assure them it was reciprocal; the King felt the warmest affection for them. He (Lord Londonderry) always felt a pride in being an Irishman, for he always knew the virtues of his countrymen. Whatever differences of opinion might have existed amongst them about particular points, there was always something about them of openness and generosity, which could not but exalt the national character. There was something wanted to create a union of sentiment among the people—they wanted the presence of the Sovereign to compose the public mind, and to create that union which has been so happily effected; they felt at that moment the happiness of such a union—the people were united in one common nappiness of such a union—the people were united in one common bond of attachment to the Sovereign. He for himself was too deeply intermixed with the history of the country, not to feel the warmest interest for her welfare; what had passed during the last month must increase that interest. He must, with truth, assure them that this was the most delicious repast at which he had ever had the hoaour of being present. To the Lord Mayor great public thanks were due; to him in no small degree might be stributed the thanks were due; to him in no small degree might be attribut hlessings of the unanimity they now enjoyed. If they had a Chief Magistrate of a character less determined, and of manners less conciliatory, those blessings would not perhaps have been attained. Causes of irritation might be promoted, instead of being, as they happily were, dissipated, he hoped for ever. He had felt too much pride as an Irishman to suppress a sentiment of exultation on this coasion. The Sovereign landed here in a manner unusual, from his easerness to reach their shores. From motives of delicacy he withdrew himself for a short time from the eyes of his people, but the testimonies of public affection he met with upon his entrée into the capital, were as great as the most sanguine anticipations could have formed. That reception came from a people of warm hearts and commanding minds. If they looked coolly at their situation, they had reason to be thankful for the blessings of Providence, which he boped would increase among them. He was delighted, though not surprised, at their conduct. He knew there was a dignified generosity about Irishmen that would have been displayed on the King's first arrival among them. king's first arrival among them. He could assure them that that was not the last visit which the King intended to pay them. The 12th August, 17th, and 23d, were days which would be imprinted upon the hearts of Trishmen. He hoped they would be long looked and the state of the st upon as days auspicious to her happiness and peace. Firm attachment to the King was the best promoter of the interests of the country. He trusted that his Illustrious Master would enjoy a long life, and have frequent opportunities of coming amongst them. The Noble Marquis concluded a most eloquent and energetic address, by drinking the health of the Lord Mayor, and other gentlemen. This speech was received with immense applause.

The Lord Mayor next gave the health of the Marquis Conyngham, who returned thanks in a neat and appropriate speech. His Lordship next gave the health of Sir William Curtis.

Sir William stood up and returned thanks. He expressed his gratitude for the very high and unexampled bonour that had been conferred upon him. He entreated that Assembly, whom he wished to look upon, not only as countrymen, but friends and brothers, to believe, that, however a portion of the Press of the Sister Country might attempt to oppose the Government and the Constituted Au-thorities, yet the great bulk of the people were true and firmly attached to the King and Constitution; he wished to God that the disaffected in England could only witness the unanimity and enthusiasm with which the people of Ireland received the Monarch; they would be convinced how futile and impotent any petty endeavours of theirs would be to shake the loyalty of the Empire. Sir William it applanses.

The Lord Mayor now rose, and gave, emphatically, "Our Most Gracious Sovereign George the Fourth, the King of Ireland." The band again played "God save the King, and the company se

His Majesty went on a visit for a few days to Slane Castle, and arrived in Dublin on Monday at five o'clock. His Majesty proceeded to the Castle, drest, and went to the College to dinner.

THE ARMY .- On Tuesday, the 28th instant, the 2d, or Queen's Royal Regiment of Infantry, commanded by Lieutenant-Colouel Jordan, were seen at Brighton by his Royal Highness the Commander in-chief and the Adjut.-General of the Forces; when his Royal Highness was pleased to express his perfect satisfaction as to the appearance and discipline of the corps, which, it is to be re-membered, has just returned from the West Indies, where it suffered most severely from disease and climate.

The transport, the Dispatch, has brought from Alexandria, several colossal pieces of antiquity, discovered by M. Belzoni, in Egypt. The long: expected Sarcophagus of Alabaster, found in the Egyptian tomb, at Thebes, is now at Deptford; it was brought over by a

AFFRAY AT KNIGHTSBRIDGE

Mr. Sheriff Waithman has addressed the following letter Lord Bathurst :—
"My Lond—I consider it my duty to apprise His. Mid it outrage of the vernment, through your Lord hip, of a violent outrage of the public peace committed by some individuals of the Life Guards, at Knights-bridge, yesterday, and of an attempt at assassination upon me perwhile in the exercise of my duty as Sheriff of Middlesex, as the head of the civil power of the county.

"Your Lordship thought proper to direct the Lord Mayor on Saturday to take the necessary measures to preserve the peace of the city, during the intended funeral of Honey and Francis; and al-though no such caution was addressed to the Sheriff, as conservator of the public peace of the county, I felt it my duty to direct the Deputy Sheriffs of the city and county to order out the constables of the divisions nearest to, and through which the funeral was expected to pass; and also to attend in person with proper officers, to-prevent or quell any tumuit or disorder.

"Conceiving that, under the existing irritation of the people, and the circumstances for which they had assembled, some insult might be offered to the Life Guards in their barracks, I disposed of the constables chiefly in that vicinity, and actually ranged a body of them in front of the barracks, with instructions to apprehend every individual who should attempt to commit any outrage or disorder.

"The funeral, in consequence of these precautions, passed the barracks in an orderly and quiet manner, marked by no other peculiar circumstance than that of a brick being thrown from the barracks, which fell near my horse, and wounded, as I am informed, a young girl. My admonitions, and the presence of the constables, succeeded, however, in repressing the irritation this wanton act wa calculated to excite.

"When the procession had passed, and while the roa i continued to be crowded with people, the gates of the barracks were thrown open, and the avenues filled with the soldiers. The people, as might have been foreseen, gathered round the spot, and expressed their displeasure. A tunult seemed inevitable. I requested to speak with the officer on duty, but without effect: and at length, by repeated expostulations with the soldiers, I succeeded in pre-by repeated exposituations with the soldiers, I succeeded in prevailing upon them to retire and close the gates.

"Some time after, upon returning to the same spot, I saw a number of soldiers running from the wicket gate, and pursuing the people on the causeway. Finding an affray actually commenced, I sprung my horse upon the causeway, interposed between the parties, and succeeded in separating them. While thus engaged, a soldier, with whom I had before been exposituating, and who was therefore acquainted with my official situation, started forward as therefore acquainted with my official situation, started forward at a man and knocked him down. At the same time, while using my utmost endeavours to prevail upon the soldiers to retire into the barracks, and the people to desist and keep the peace, the bridle of my horse was violently seized, on the one side by a young officer in undress, and on the other by the soldier whose violence I had just noticed, who together endeasoured to throw my horse over the causeway; and I only succeeded in extricating myself by striking the soldier with my stick, and making my horse plunge. Immediately several of the soldiers rushed at me with their swords drawn, and one actually loaded his carbine, and directed it towards me, but was, as I have been informed, knecked down by one of the constables. Further mischief was prevented by the interposition of some military officers of higher authority, and the soldiers at length retired into their barracks,

"My Lord, these circumstances require no comment. critical conjuncture the soldiers were left to their own exasperated feeling, and manifested a lawless spirit. The civil power under my direction was fully adequate for the preservation of the peace among the people, but not to encounter an armed soldiery. I had no communication from His Majesty's Government, nor could I obtain an interview with any of the officers of the regiment; and when I directed some of the constables to represent to the officers, in the most respectful terms, my desire that the soldiers should be kept within the barracks, the message returned was, That the Sheriff might be d—d, they would not make their men prisoners for him; and I feel assured, that had I not interposed with the civil power, and even risked my own life, a frightful slaughter must have easued. Of subordination to civil authority the soldiers appeared to be wholly unconscious, and that authority, in my person, was repeatedly insulted and grossly outraged.

"It would, my Lord, be as needless as presumptuous in me, to attempt to instruct your Lordship and his Majesty's Government in the nature of the constitutional authority under which I attended yesterday, or the right I possessed in my official character to have claimed the aid and assistance of those very military to suppress transle who have most thin contains. mult, who have, upon this occasion, in open defiance of the civil authority, been the promoters of it; nor need I add one word in authority, been the promoters of it; nor seem and one word in aggravation of the enormity of the offences committed: the offenders can, some of them, be identified, and I trust your Lordship will cause immediate and effectual means to be adopted to bring them to justice, as a salutary example to others.— I have the honour to be, my Lord, your Lordship's obedient, humble servant,

"Bridge-street, Aug. 27, 1821. R.
"The Right Hon. Earl Bathurst, &c. &c." R. WAITHMAN.

"Whitehall, Aug. 28, 1921.
"Sin,—I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 27th instant, relative to a riot which took place at Knightsbridge on Sunday last. I had, before the receipt of your letter, given directions for an inquiry to be made into the circumstances of this transaction, in consequence of representations made to me, which I am bound to say differ in many essential particulars from the statement which I have received from you.

"I cannot refruin from expressing my regret and surprise, that when the civil power under your direction was fully adequate (as you state) for the preservation of the peace among the people, a mob should have been permitted to remain in a continued state of riot, after the soldiers had been withdrawn within their barracks, until the Riot Act was read by Mr. Conant, and the rioters dispersed by the peace officers under his immediate orders; and I do not understand that in the execution of this duty he received any assistance from you.—I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,
"Mr. Sheriff Waithman."

" BATHURST."

Preparations are making for His Majesty's reception at his Palaces in London, on the 5th of September. His arrival in town is expected between that day and the 7th inclusive. He will remain only six days in London, prior to his departure for Hanover.

His Mujesty has appointed the Hon. John Wodehouse to be Lieutenant and Vice-Admirat of Norfolk, in the room of the late Lord Suffield.—Sir Robert John Hurvey is appointed one of the Re-ceivers-General for Norfolk, in the room of John Petre, Esq. re-

The naval commands at Jamaica and the Leeward Islands are to be consolidated, and given to Sir C. Rowley, at present employed at the former place; and Admiral Fahie, at the latter place, will be removed to the command at Hulifux.

During the time the mob were collecting at Hammersmith last Sun'ay, to attend the burial of the two men, who were killed in the riots at the Queen's funeral. Mr. Gomme (brother to the Churchwarden) with two young ladies, were most audaciously robbed by some villains; Mr. Gomme lost a valuable gold warch and seals, one young lady had her reticule stolen, containing her purse and INQUEST ON HONEY.—On Monday the Coroner resumed the inquiry into the death of Richard Honey, who was shot while rioting at Cumberland-gate on the day of the Queen's funeral. Mr. Adolphus attended as Counsel; some objections were taken by the Jurors to the attendance of the Learned Gentleman, though none had been previously urged to the inserterence of the Sheriff.

Mr. Adolphus maintained that he had a right to be there a Counsel for those in whose behalf he appeared. He protested against the presence of the Sheriff, who, being a Magistrate superior to the Coroner, had yet interfered and endeavoured, by examining witnesses, and by various means, to influence the Jury, so as to lead them towards a certain verdict. He seemed to forget that in the event of that verdict being given, he who now interfered as a partisan, would have to strike the Jury who must try the case.

Sir R. Baker, Knight, was then sworm, and requested to give a narrative of what he knew of the events of the 14th. He then gave the following statement:—" I joined the procession at Kensington. It was proposed to go along Church-lane, Kensington, the Gravel Pits, Tyburn Turnpike, Edgware Rond, and the New Rond. Its not proceeding in that line was in consequence of the obstructions placed at the end of Church-lune, Kensington. I proceeded on to Kensington Park-gate, considering myself at liberty to take the mearest road to that which had been prescribed, in case of any little turnings which were intended to be taken being obstructed. When we got to Kensington Park-gate, a party of the Life Guards came out of the Park in aid of the Civil Power. I rode into the Park with the intention that the procession should follow; but the gates were immediately closed by the mob. The few constables were there endeavoured to open them, but they were immediately overpowered by the mob, and the gates were again shut. Some of the Life Guards then attempted to force them open. The mob immediately began to pelt them with stones and mud, and after 's conflict which lasted a considerable time, I succeeded in getting through the gates with my horse. Considering that it would be very dangerous to the attendants in the procession who were in carpass through the gates while this was going on, sented that the procession should move on through Knightshridge to Hyde Park-corner, and accordingly it did so. there we found the Park gates obstructed and also the end of Parkdane to which I had advanced. I stopped there while the commanding officer of the Life Guards sent to the Horse Guards for further orders. After I had been there some time I was informed that the gates at Hyde Park had been opened, and that the hearse and carriages that followed it had passed into the Park. I therefore passed through Down-street, with two or three carriages that had preceded the heurse, and got into the Park at Chesterfield-gate, and overtook the other part of the procession. As I rode up the Purk I heard the report of pistols tswards Tyburn-turnpike; when I got to Cumberland-gate these reports had censed, and the procession was going on towards the Edgware-road; I saw there so of timber and iron, which appeared to have been placed there as an obstruction; I then passed on with the procession up the New Road; I knew nothing of the affray; that was over before I up; the soldiers did not fire by my orders, nor by those of any other Magistrate, to my knowledge.

By Jurors.—I was sent for to Kensington in consequence of the obstruction. The military, by my orders, came out to aid the civil

A Juryman asked from whom the witness hud received his orders? Mr. Adolphus mid, the question was irregular, and could not be put. A Juryman complained of the interruption given by Mr. Adolphus After some attercation, Bramination resumed—The Commander of the military had the conducting of the procession; I did not give orders respecting the route by which the procession should advance; I did not order the procession in any way to proceed up to Hyde Park; I did not read the Riot Act, because the effect of reading the Riot Act is to make It a capital felony for any persons to remain on the spot, for one hour after it is read, and I had no intention of sitting for an hour in any given place for that purpose; it being my object to get the procession on as quickly and as quietly as I could.

Examined by Mr. Adolphus.— The conducting of the procession was given to the Officer of the military escort, and not to me excepting when I arrived at Kensington; I was to go as pear to the prescribed route as I could; at Kensington there was an obstruction; an immense number of people were there as every where else where the procession passed; the conduct of these persons was the reverse of quiet and orderly; it was violent, disoracts was the reverse of quiet and orderly; it was violent, disorderly, and outrageous in the extreme; as far as I had an opportunity of observing the conduct of the military, I think it was perfectly good; they were very much insulted in my presence; I saw a great many stones thrown at them and mud; I was struck myself by the mud; the soldiers showed no disposition to revenge it, but they endeavoured to force open the gates by cutting with the back or edge of the sword, I do not know which, at the hands of those ere holding them; I had some conversation with an Officer of the Guards. I did not use the expressions if any thing should be done or any thing should happen, I will take the responsibility on myself.

Juror thought it had been stated that Sir Robert Baker said be would take it upon his own responsibility.

The minutes were referred to, and it appeared that Croney had stated Sir R. Baker to have said that he wished the procession to go along Piccadilly, and would take it upon himself. The notes taken by the Coroner's Clerk were to the same affect.

Examination resumed .- Doyou not know Mr. Greig? There was a person on horseback, who was particularly anxious about the pro cession going on to the city, and who frequently came up and addressed me. I did tell him, that "I thought we should be obliged to go through the City; and that, if we did so, we must pass down St. James's-street to Pell-mall, as it was market day at the Haymarket, and we could not get along that way. I do not recollect his saying any thing about Mr. Waithman or Mr. Hume, or my giving him authority to go and tell them any thing. I would fur ther explain to account for my not recollecting the precise words I might use, that at the time this person addressed me, there were five or six other persons speaking to me on all sides. I desired that person to use his influence to prevent any disturbance at Carlton House.—The line of the procession was never altered by the free will of those conducting it; but, in obedience to a force, which, in his opinion, he could not resist without serious mischief to the soldiers, to the crowd, and to the persons attending on the funeral, many of whom were females, who had been shut up for hours in carriages, and kept in a state of alarm.

By a Juror. The procession went into the Park without my knowledge. We were then not going into the City, but waiting for further orders. Had no reason to doubt that a man was sent by the Officer commanding the escort, to the Horse Guards; did not know of his own knowledge that he returned with orders; I conceived when at Kensington, that it was my duty to lead the procession as near the prescribed route as possible, and that I was accountable for any deviation from it. It was in consequence of apprehended danger that I consented to the procession going another way; I communicated that apprehension to the Commander of the escort; I do not remember receiving any particular answer but I understood that he was willing to go any way that I should I believe Captain Bouverie of the Blues was the Commander; I was willing to go any way that was practicable; I certainly did not order the procession to go through Hyde Park; I saw nothing of the affray near Cumberland-gate; when I camp up the gates were shut, or the passage was obstructed,

The evidence being read over to Sir R. Baker, he requested that the following might be added :-

" I do not know what orders the Officer of the Life Guards had received originally, but he informed me afterwards that he had peremptory orders to keep to the prescribed route; I do not know who it was that turned the bearse into the Park ; I at liberty to send for more soldiers if I thought necessary.

Hon. Hen. Frederick Compton Cavendish was then called in and worn.—He deposed as follows:—I am Lieutenant-Colonel of the Guards; of my own knowledge I know nothing of the death of the deceased; I know nothing but by report.

Examined by a Juror—Captain Oakes commanded the detach ment on duty on the 14th; the subalterns under his command wen Lieutenant Sterey and Sub-Lieutenant Hall; there were four detachments besides; one of them was under the command of Lieut. Terry; that was stationed at Kensington Park-gate; they all went different sta out of the Barracks at the same time; I know the tions; Lieut. Gore commanded the detachment at Cumberlandgate; a corporal commanded at Hyde Park-gate; Lieut. Gore's detachment consisted, I believe of 13 men; I include all besides the Lieutenant; at Grosvenor-gate another corporal commanded the same at Stanhope-street-gate; I believe no officer assisted Lieut. Terry; no officer assisted Lieut. Gore at Cumberland gate when I speak of the 13 meh in Lieutenant Gore's detachment. speak to the best of my belief; I believe Lieutenant Terry left Kensington Park-gate, and came in front of the Barracks; I sent him with a message to Captain Oakes; Captain Oakes was then in Piccadilly, near Hyde Park Corner; I don't know the name of the trumpeter in Lieutenant Gore's, detachment; I do not know whether the gutes were shut at the time of the interruption; when I went there I found them half closel; express information was given to the officers that they were to act under the Civil Power; I do not know whether Lieut. Gore had pistols or not; I do not know whether he had any lent him; Lieut. Gore is tall, dark, rather thun otherwise. IIn answer to a question from a Juror as to the colour of Lieut. Gore's bair, the gullant Colonel answered, " It is much the colour of your own."]—Lieut. Gore is perfectly qualified to carry pistols; I cannot say how long he has been dismissed by the Riding Master; I really do not know the name of the trumpeter have been in the regiment only about three weeks or a month; joined it on the day of the Coronation.

By Mr. Adolphus.—I saw most of the troops go out on the 14th appeared free from hurt; they mustered well; they were clean and well accoutred, and their horses were in good condition on their return 36 of the men were sent to the Hospital, eight of whom remained; their clothing was covered with mud and dirt; ] mean that of the whole of them; I know the list of the hurt by the Official Report from the Surgeon; the eight were absent at the next parade; I saw one of the horses cut under the throat, apparently with a cutting instrument; Lieut. Gore is, in my judgn feetly competent for his situation.

A Juryman asked, whether the cut which had been given to one of the soldier's horses might not have been given by the sword of another soldier

The Coroner thought the question very irrelevant. It might as well be said, that one of the soldiers might have cut off one of the men's heads.

Here Mr. Waithman and the Juryman spoke together; the former supported the question, and the latter persisted in desiring that it might be answered.

Colonel Cavendish -" It is possible, certainly, but very impro-Juryman to Mr. Adolphus-I see you think it a silly question, and you laugh at me for putting it.

Mr. Adolphus—" Not I, indeed, Sir.. If you were a Counsel, I should laugh heartily; but as you are a Juryman, I hope I know Examined by another Juror The Officers were accourred as they ought to be on a field-day; on field-days they sometimes carry pisiols and sometimes not; the orders were that they were to go out as on a field-day; they were not particularly ordered to carry pistols; they do not always carry ball cartridge on field-days; the orders were what we call field-day orders.

By Mr. Adolphus—Lieut. Gore wassent to take care of the Gate, without any allusion to the Civil Power; I ordered the soldiers to turn out, as is usual, when we are to assist the Civil Power; I was not present when the ball carridge was given out; I do not know whose duty it is to give out the ball carridge; I cannot tell the name of the corporal of Lieut. Gore's troop, or the names of the mea; I ordered so many men to each troop.—Adjourned.

On Wednesday, the inquest was resumed:—John Heywood, Corporal of the 1st Life Gaurds, was with the party consisting of two Corporals, ten privates, one officer and a trumpeter, on the day of the Queen's funeral. On that day, Lieut. Gore had no cloak.— Witness asked the Lieutenant to accept his, but he declined; and, lifting up his sabredash, said, "my servant has sent me out without cloak or pistols."—He then described the contest about opening and shutting the gates, at which he said, they were saluted with a shower of brickbuts and stones by the mob, and the witness was hit on the temple by a brickbut, which made him deaf and blind for In removing, with the assistance of the Police, two waggors, posts, and gratings, which blocked up the Edgeware-road the witness was "hammered" with brickbats and stones. To disse the mob, they were obliged to use the flats of their swords did not see the officer and trumpeter in conversation; beard no people cry " there go two butchers together." attended was a boy named Bishop, about 18 or 20. Witness beard no firing till they got to the Edgeware-road.

A letter was read from Colonel Lyon, stating, that certain persons summoned, were out of town, but would receive orders to attend as seen as possible.

The Trumpeter, R. Farman, belonging to the H. troop, was examined, but could not state who the Trumpeter was, who went out with the troop on the day in question.

R. Aldiss, a wood turner, assisted in picking up Money when he was shot, but could not telt the person who fired. Did not observe any persons throwing stones, nor to the best of his recollection, hear a murmur.

William King, a house painter, (a pensioner, receiving 161. per annum, in consequence of having lost an arm in the service, while on board the Peacock, in an engagement with the Hornet), saw stones thrown by some hundreds of the mob, towards the Life Guards; he afterwards stopped near Honey; the mob had then ceased to throw stones; he saw an officer, whose horse's head was towards Cumberland-gate; this officer turned round wantonly towards the people, and presented his pistol over his bridle-arm, and the deceased fell; he stood so close to the man, that he did not know whether the contents were lodged in himself, or the deceased! After discharging his pistol, he rode immediately among the soldiers. He was a very young man, and wore no clock or mantle. Saw him afterwards ranged in Cumberland-street; saw him conversing with the trumpeter and a private with great familiarity, and occasionally laughing; should know him again. Neither himself nor the de-ceased had been throwing storous at the time the shot was fired, nor was he irritating or hooting the soldiers at that time. The mob had ceased to throw stones for five minutes. Did not see Honey clap his hands, and say, " the City! the City!"

Corporal Coulson of Capt. M'Niel's company, stated that several soldiers were wounded on the 14th. Could not state the number of men under Lieut. Gore, nor whether a trumpeter went with them, nor the names of the men, but could get them by Friday. | quest adjourned till Monday,

Mr. Ex-Sheriff Parkins was then examined, and entered into a long history of his travels on that day. He was frequently inter-rupted by some of the Jury, but Mr. Parkins told them their rules were noting to him; so they let him go on in his own way. He stated conversations which he had with the Hon. Mr. Bennett, Mr. Hobbouse, Lord Hood, &c. and his being sent in consequence of special mission to the Earl of Liverpool, to state to his Lordship the total impossibility of getting through Church-Lane, Kensington. At Fife-House, he met Mr. Willimott, who said his Lordship was not within, but promised to communicate the fact to Lord Liverpool. After much rapidity and verbosity, Mr. P. at length arrived at Cumberland-gate, where the mob were screaming and yelling horribly, and using the most abusive language; saw many thrown; saw then a soldier pursue a man with a flag, and cut hims down. He then described some firing that took place, but nothing that related to the death of Honey. The soldiers behaved with great temperance and forbearance—the soldiers were cruelly pelted. -be did not see a single decent person throw a stone.

Two other witnesses (Horn, servant to Mr. Parkins, and Wheeldon, an apprentice to a coach-carver) were examined, but nothing was elicited from them .- The Inquest was then adjourned.

On Friday the Inquest was resumed. Previous to entering on Jury and Mr. Adolphus entered into some discussion as to the necessity of his attendance, and the non-attendance of Lieut.
Gore, who was stated by one of the Jury to be in Paris. It was suggested on that account to adjourn, but not persisted in.

Mr. Poland, Mr. Bentham, and James King were then exemined; they knew nothing of the death of Honey, and little or nothing else of the matter.

Richard Montague Onker, Captain in the 1st Regiment of Life Guards, commanded a party on the day of the precession; knew nothing of the death of Honey; Lieutenaut Gore had the command of the detachment at Cumberland-gate; he does not belong to the witness's troop nor does witness know whether Lieutenant Gore has leave of absence; did not hear the Riot Act road $ previous to reaching Oxford-street was assailed with brick-bats an stones, and at Cumberland-gate so violently that he was astonished how the men could keep on their horses; from that moment the lives of the men were in constant and imminent danger. The witness then described the route, the difficulty of opening the gate, and stated, that he considered he was acting under the orders of Sir Robert Baker, Kat. but as that magistrate expressed to witness his intention of conducting the procession through the City, and it did not accord with the orders which he had received, he (the witness) did not feel justified in conducting it that way. Understood from Sir R. Baker that the deviation was his own, and contrary to the orders of Government. The Jury could have but a vague the orders of Government. The Jury could have but a vague idea of the attack on the military; there were thirty-seven on the surgeon's list; two sent from the ground perfectly incapacitated; but, upon further examination, forty-one men were found to be ded; and eight horses were also wounded. He thought most of them were wounded before the firing, which took place in conequence of a volley of bricks. The steadiness and regularity of the men was far greater than witness could have expected under such an attack; brickbats were thrown violently at witness at Kansington; after that the mob shouted through Kensington "Victory? victory! thank God we have beat them once!" At Grosvenor-gate the attack of stones was repeated, which continued to Cumberland-gate; at that moment it was so violent that he apprehended the werst. consequences; be entered Oxford-stroot under a shower of brickbate! and arriving at Tyburn-gate, found a mob on both flanks, one behind the iron rails, and another behind a barrier, formed by a waggon or a piece of timber; a barrier was formed behind the turnpike-gates; they were attacked simultaneously from three positions; entire submission would have been to sacrifice every man, soon arrested the progress of the brickbats from the gate and Edgware-road; were attacked from behind the iron railing in the Park, and the men having no other mode of defending themsolves, the pistol became the only alternative; the pistols were directed to the air, with a view rather to intimidate than to retaliate injury; having removed the waggons in the Edgware-road, the procession then proceeded; witness then retired, being informed by the Magistrate that there was no further occasion for the military.

A variety of questions were put by Jurers, in saswer to wh Captain Oakes said, he was not wounded but severely struck by missiles—one brick-but struck his head, and but for his helmet would have broken it.

On Capt, Oakes retiring, all the Jurors rose, and expressed the pleasure which they had received from the handsome and gantle-manly manner in which that gentleman had given his evidence.

Lieut. Gore stated, that he is a Sub-Lieutenant in the 1st Regiment of Life Guards; knew nothing relating to the death of Honey was on duty at Cumberland-gate with twelve men and a trumpeter; discovered shortly after resolving Cumberland-gate, on fifting up his sharraque, that he had neither clouk nor pistols; did not horrow any pistols on the day of the funeral; could not tell the names of the men, nor that of the trumpeter; had no recollection of any conversations with the trampeter on that day; might have said a word or two; he rode at some distance: did not think any man offered him the loan of a pistol, believe a man offered his cleak.

On the day of impaction was a second and offered his cleak. On the day of inspection was present in the same dress and wore on the day of the funeral; was not in Cumberland-street with his party, and the trumpeter by his side; saw some of the men firing that day in the air. The witness then salated the conversation which passed between Mr. Humbert and himself, on e funeral, which went to confirm that gentlem testimony. Witness said—"I received several blows, one of which struck me on the knee; and one on the instep, the effect of which I still feel; my herse was also repeatedly struck: I was not at all alarmed; I was doing my duty; I observed the stones coming from the corner of the wall, near Park-lane; and I also saw heicks pulled off by the people from various parts of the wall; there was also a party behind the Park-palisadoes, particularly active in throwing stones from the corners—right and left of Cumberland-street; but they came indeed from all quarters, so that I conceive the people must have carried them in their pockets; the soldiers. were assailed for seven or eight minutes with fired; they bore this pelting patiently; I think they, bore it too

A Juror said, that there were several persons outside the room. who expressed a desire to see the gootleman then under examina-tion, and they added that they should know the man who show the

Lieut. Gore, with great good-humour, said, " Oh, Gentlemen, I am perfectly willing to undergo the scrutiny of any of the witnesse. It was decided that these persons should not be admitted.

Several of the Airors said, "We have every reason to be satisfied not merely with Lieut. Gore's evidence, but with the monner in which he has given it."

The Coroner said, he wished to add his approbation to that of the Jurors; nothing could be more creditable to the young gentleman than the candour and manly feeling that had guided his conduct throughout the detail of his evidence.

Lieut. Gore having signed his deposition, bowed to the Coroner and the Jury, and retired.

Corporal Coulson gave in the names of the men cut on the day of the funeral. King and some other witnesses then came forward to say that they could identify the parson who abos Honey. The Iu-

OTICES TO CORRESPONDENTA

We purposely delay all matters relative to the Mourners till their return.—Any thing from P.S. we shall attend to with

We shall be obliged to the lady, who sold the shawl to Waith man, to favour US with her name—it shall not be published.

Taveo; yuureo; will find that several reprints of No. III. have been published and sold, but as to No. XII. it will be republished an Tuesday. If we can assist him with No. 111, we will give him a note in the correspondents.

Brow the mass of communications with respect to WAITHMAN we are unable this week to select any. We have published the trials, as avant couriers to the body of evidence against him, and we trust, leaving the strongest to the last, to finish the subject shout Michaelmas-day, when he is to be proposed as LORD MAYOR We will make the enquiry JOHN DOE suggests, and will, in the een time, thank him for any further communication. We will notice the work ORTHODOX mentions, which we think highly reprehensible, and unworthy the respectable publisher who gives it to the world.

oes it to the worth. A Truk Briton's communication will be attended to. Mam is excellent—but is it not a little too sharp?

Our friend in Cumberland will see that he is wrong as to the right of the gentleman in question.
We should like to hear again from Conningnam.

Mancus is received.
We thank H. D.—in the present instance he must be mistaken so letter sent to us at floe o'clock on Saturday could have been moticed—the Paper was at press at the time.

The letter of LADY B., which aur correspondent WHIM-WHAM-monnous wishes us to insert; could not have a place, as we will weafter satisfy him.

We cannot it mber up our pages with the praises b WAITHMAN now, in the Times. In that paper of the 24th of December, 1796, ore these words:—" WAITHMAN and HODGSON "are the only two BRAWLERS of opposition who could get in, "though six new condidates on the same side were started."

A correspondent tells us, that the Foreman of Houne's Inquest was heard to say on the day of the riot, waving his hat, " We have goined a greater victory-than the battle of Waterloo."—While we are upon this subject, we trust that proper enquiry will be made into the way in which the two Juries were summoned; we know all the particulars, and if some legal notice is not taken of it, we shall publish them—we, however, do not wish to anticipate the constituted authorities.

The letter about the " poor clerks" shall not be forgotten.

Mr. Sherty's Parking provokes us to expose him. We think him so very silly, that he can do no harm; and cortainly from the way in which he abuses Waithdran in all places behind his back, his public association with him is a proof of folly and indecision too ridiculous to be anyry with. But if this philanthropies and patriot does not stop in time, the complaints of MRS. FOR GILL and SISTER NANNY must be given to the world—ten shillings per week is a small stipend for seven persons to exist upon even at CARLIALE; and we think an universal lover of mankind might east an eye of kindness towards his own connexions, before he stood forward as the champion of neglected virtue and national WAG is nasty.

We lament that we have not room for Anistidus.

We are obliged to our correspondent from Hanwell. R. H. is able, but we want nothing but facts, wherein he is some what searty.

We will not fail to do all we can to promote, at all sounts, the pegative wish of E. R. C.

Our thanks are due to W.B.

We know MR. CHITTY's opinion on the case submitted by our Nottingham friends—we have no doubt that it is law, but are quile sure it is not justice.

JOHN TRUEMAN shall have no reason to complain of our laxity. No. XII. of JOHN BULL will be republished on Tuesday, and No. XXXVI. containing the original Letter to HUMPTY DUMPTY, TOMKINS'S LOTTERY.

TOMKINS'S LOTTERY.

TOMKINS respectfully informs the Public that the OFFICIAL LIST of the DRAWING of his PICTURE LOTTERY being now furnished by the Commissioners, the Trustees have issued their Order for the Delivery of the Prises; which may be had on presenting the Tickets at No. 84, New Bond-street; between the Hours of Ten and Six o Clock every Day (Sundaya-mospied).

Sept. 1st, 1821.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.

On Monday, Sept. 3, will be performed the Mountaineers; Octavian, Mr. Conway. After which, Match-Making, and Rortune's Frolic.—Tuesday, Fentainbleau, Match-Making, and other Entertainments.—Wednesday, The Tracedy of Venice Preserved; the part of Belvidera by a Young Lady, being her first appearance; with other Entertainments.—Thursday, first time at this Theatre) The Marriage of Figaro; Count Aimaviva, Mr. Jones; Forelle, Mr. Leoni Lee; Figaro, Mr. De Camp; Antonio, Mr. Tayleune; Cherabine, Mrs. Cherick; With other Entertainments.

A Monday's Edition, containing the latest News, the Stock List, the London Markets, and the State of the Country Markets by that ng's post, is published at Three e'clock.

PRICE OF STOCKS AT THE CLOSE, SATURDAY.

Although endeavours have been made to depress the public secuzities, yet these designs have been frustrated by the general favourable appearances of public affairs. Various have been the rumours, circulated no doubt by speculators, of a war between Russia and Tarkey. We observed in our Monday's Journal, that the effect was expected to be only temporary, and it has at length ended, as we expected, in the total cessation of all hostile acts on the part of either Power. Wednesday was account day, but there were no de-Saulters, notwithstanding the immensity of business which has been transected during the late account; and Thursday was pay day, ed over without defaulters. On the latter day, th news of the Sublime Porte having acceded to the requests of 'Russia caused a rapid rise in the Funds of upwards of 11 per cent. during the day, and they have since continued to look favourable.

Consols opened yesterday morning at 754 for Money, and 764 for the Account, and after a little fluctuation closed at 75% for Money, and 761 for the Account.

The letters from France, and the other parts of the continent, speak favourably of their public securities. Neapolitan stock contimues at 69, and French 5 per Cents 88 fr. 10 cents. The Exchange on London at one month 25 fr. 55 cents, and at three months 25 fr. 40 cents.

Reduced Ann. 76½ †
Consols.... 76½ †
Dit Acct 76½ † 6½ †
4 per Cents.... 96½ ↓ Navy 5 per cent 106 Exchequer Bills .... India Bonds ..... Omnium .....

FRENCH FUNDS 5 per ct. Div. 22 March 88-25 | Bank Sh Div. 1 July 1542-50 Recon. Div. 22 Marca 99-45 | Ex. Lond. 1mo. 25 55 3mo. 25-40

JOHN BULL.

LONDON, SEPTEMBER 2.

We are quite sick and tired of the proceedings of the Inquest upon HONEY—the Oldham trick is very stale now, and the only way in which we shall be inclined to notice the proceedings is, by scrutinizing the Jury-and most of all, the conduct of Mr. WAITHMAN in collecting them.

There is a point of law connected with the subject which induces us to preserve silence until these magnanimous legislators shall have delivered their verdict.

The OLD TIMES published yesterday an account of the Queen's funeral, in which we find that the crying and sobbing disorder raged particularly during the ceremony.

We find, too, that a paragraph, which we quoted from the TIMES about the State Cabin of the GLASGOW, is more of a LIE than we thought it. We believed it to be false only in certain particulars, but if that which follows is in the smallest degree true, the former description in the same paper must have been false aftogether.

The Times said they had been favoured with a " VIEW " of the State, Cabin, into which the coffin, containing the "Queen's remains, was conveyed ON ITS ARRIVAL on " board: it had been PREVIOUBLY prepared by a number " of workmen from the King's upholsterers. The whole " interior of the cabin was entirely covered with black cloth—a bier, about four feet high, was raised under a a canopy about six feet long, and four feet wide, edged "with black fringe, and ornamented with tassels. The " corpse was placed on the bier, covered with the pall, and " the CROWN and cushion placed on the pall. The walls "were decorated with sconces and candelabras with wax " candles; on each side of the coffin were four escutcheons, " and a hatchment was placed against the head of the coffin, "upon which the royal arms were emblazoned-on each " aide of the corps were three massive silver candlesticks, " SIX feet high, with long and thick wax tapers. There " were seven trestles on each side of the apartment, which " were sat upon by the officers of the Lord Chamberlain's " department as the body lay in state—the apartments had " an imposing effect. SIR GEORGE NAYLER has left his " state habiliments in England, as it would not be proper " for him to wear them in a foreign country."

We quoted this from the TIMES into No. 36 of this Paper, only to laugh at the Times for putting long wax tapers into candlesticks six feet high, in a room, the height of which is about six feet seven-but all the rest was so circumstantial, that as "they had been favoured with a view of it," we were satisfied all was right.

Judge, then, the horror we felt on reading, in the SAME PAPER, yesterday, these words:

"From the needless and indecent haste with which its depart " ture from England was pushed on, there was, as might be "expected, on board the several ships—an absence of much "material preparation—it was not until TWO HOURS AFTER w the Coffin had been shipped, that LORD and LADY HOOD, " LADY ANNE HAMILTON, and the other mourners" (the bride and bridegroom) " reached the GLASGOW, and even at that time " all was confusion and unreadiness -Black cloth was hastily " nailing up in the Cabin, where the body was to be deposited! Now, it will be observed, that long before the sailing the TIMES had been favoured with a view of an apartment imposingly effective, which had been previously fitted up by the King's upholsterers; and yet two hours after the body was on board they were hastily nailing up black cloth!

Let our readers take these stories which way they like, and then believe as much more of the account of the Queen's funeral as they please.

But mark!-the same paragraph tells us "that Sir "George Nayler has left his state habiliments in England. "because it would not be proper for him to wear them in "a foreign country."

There we have a fact, and a reason together.—The Times of yesterday, wishing to insinuate that SIR GEORGE NAY-LER, at Brunswick, was angry at some change in the procession proposed (GOOD GOD!) by CAPTAIN HESSE!!! as more respectful to the Queen, tells us, in these words, that he " threw aside his gorgeous coat of heraldry, asserting that "he would not wear it. In a few seconds he seemed vi-" sited by a sudden thought that a herald without a coat "might, in the eyes of a stranger, lose his importance, he "therefore magnanimously decided to suppress his disapprobation, and put on his coat.

That is, he put on the coat he had left in England, which he had no right to wear abroad, because there were strangers present!

If we did not know what decided lies the Times tells, we should feel irritated against the "Brunswickers" for the unfeeling mode in which they received the corpse; for the Times tells us, that " from the double rows of willows on " each side of the road were suspended lamps of various " colours-GREEN, RED, and YELLOW; in the distance " were seen the illuminated houses of Brunswick, adding, " by the fantastic variety of their architecture, to the pic-" turesque beauty of the scene."

To be sure the Times tells us of the stifled sobs and trickling tears of the "dense mass,"-(dense enough, if they could be caught weeping for Queen CAROLINE) down for the eddest enhibitis A general illumination is, in our view of the thing, a strange demonstration of sorrow. We observe, however, that the crowd was so great and so rioteus, that " remenstrance " was fruitless," and " the CAVALRY were ordered to clear the way: this they did with equal dexterity, promptitude, and care: at the same instant three bodies of them moved forward, as from three sides of a triangle to a point, and completely cut off the multitude from the door."

We are glad to find the TIMES so well pleased with the introduction of military into the funeral procession of the injured Queen. One word more, and we have done.

The TIMES, speaking of the embarkation of the corpse at Harwich, says, it was swung indecently (or words to that effect) into the boat, by a crane at the end of the jetty. Yesterday the TIMES says, that " the naked unpalled " coffin was (at Stadt) boisted by hand (without even the " assistance of A CRANE) from the barge to the Quay."

Did one ever hear such doltish stupidity, such palpable contradictions, such grovelling nonsense? We know very little about the Queen's coffin; but of one thing we are quite sure, that it would require the assistance of A CRANE to swallow the lies of the TIMES.

WE have had occasion to notice the Rev. Mr. Bowman Hutchins as a Clergyman, who prayed for the Quee during her life; but we are now called upon to bring him under the eye of the public, and more especially of his diocesun, for having preached a sermon in the Church of Grately in Hampshire, and in the Church of Penton in the same county; touching her late Majestu's life and conduct, which was couched in the most improper language, and full of the most indecorous observations.

After dwelling upon the virtues of her character and the sublimity of her death, he likewise expatiated upon the unpleasant sensations, which some future day will strike home to those who will say, "We are guilty concerning "our sister, in that we saw the anguish of her soul when " she besought us, and we would not hear, therefore, is this " distress come upon us.."

What a fit companion is this application of Scripture to her Majesty's dying observation upon the advantages of her mob popularity! Both her Majesty and the Parson seem equally to have lamented the deafness of the people to her beseechings.

To shew the empty vanity of the preacher, and what his aim and object were in preaching this sermon, it is only necessary to add, that he sent the account of the whole affair, with his embellishments of "crowded church," "excessive heat," "mute attention," "fine oratory," &c. in his own hand to the Salisbury and Winchester Journal, which paper published the whole piece of bombast, headed thus :- " From the Rev. A. B. Hutching." How like an ass must this self-puffer have looked when he read it.

The village of HAMBLEDON, near HORNDEAN in the same county, is also represented as a most violently radical place: the exposition of mames (which sught to be respected) we certainly wish to abstain from; but if persons of condition lend themselves to faction, and endeavour to delude their inferiors, their inferiors shall be taught to weigh the merits of their deceivers in a just balance; and if the highest are to be debased in the eyes of the lowest, the first who suffer shall be those who try to bring the system into fashion.

MR. WILLIAM DELORAINE JONES.

WE have received the following letter from MR. W. D. JONES, the principal witness on the Inquest on the body of HONEY; which, we think, will prove highly satisfactory to the public, and especially to the party at whose particular desire he was brought forward:-TO JOHN BULL.

SIR,—Being desirous that the word Radical should not be coupled with my name, and conceiving myself injured by an article which appeared in your paper of last week, and trusting you will be ready to redress the injury, which I consider myself to have sustained by it, I have taken the liberty of suggesting the following remarks :-

In the first place allow me to observe, that a great part of the article alluded to, is completely destitute of truth; but as that can be no fault of yours, as of course you write nothing but what is communicated to you, it is not my intention to enter into any long explanation, but leave it to those who made the communication to reconcile, as they can to themselves, the aspersion cast upon me. It does not require much penetration to see through and detect th metives that induced them so to do.

Am I to be blamed and traduced, because the papers (perhaps) to serve party feelings, or from mistake, put words in my mouth, which, in FACT, I NEVER SAID?

To some it may appear a love of public justice; but don't believe it, Sir: those that would wish to cast any odium upon me, or my evidence, do it not for the love of justice, but to serve their own base and ill-natured ends; they will not do it publicly in their own name, but are happy to get any respectable paper to be the organ of their slander. I trust, Sir, you will attach what credit to it, it deserves .-

Not to be tedious, I refer you to my evidence. I believe you will there find, that I stated nothing, but what was impartial; indeed, it was with great reluctance I came which counteracts his other falsehoods, or we should set it forward at all, nor should I have done so, if I HAD NOT

EBBN COMPELLED; I NEVER SAID, that I was a member of the University, but merely an inhabitant of Oxford. I was surprised to see the next morning in several of the papers, that I had been made an Oxford student! an honor which I never could lay claim to, for such an assertion I trust have been aware, might be very easily contradicted, as the Oxford University Calendar has the names of each individual member; I took some pains to deny it, and was happy to find that it was generally corrected by the papers the next day.

You may recollect, Sir, I said in my first day's examination, that I begged the people near me not to use violence and, that a Life Guardsman good naturedly assisted let to remove from the danger that every moment threatened, so that I can have no cause of complaint against the Guards; the next day after coming from the Barracks, I was asked, if I considered myself detained as a prisoner, my roply was, that I certainly did not, for I met with nothing but politeness; all that I complained of, was the closeness of the room.

You must be aware, Sir, that it was not for me to breach my opinion before the Jury UNASKED? I was examined only relative to what I saw, not what I thought. If my opinion be asked, I should say, THAT THE SOLDIERS WERE ILL-USED, THAT THEY WERE JUSTI-FIED IN ACTING AS THEY DID, AND THAT ALL THROUGH THE BUSINESS THEY EVINCED GREAT MODERATION. In conclusion, I beg leave to say, I consider myself as belonging to no party, nor do I wish to be considered a witness against the Life Guards, for be it remembered, I Was thrust forward against my own inclination. I spoke only to resemblance, which leads me now to suppose, that, instead of it being an officer, it must have been a private that I saw fire, for the person I took it to be, I NOW KNOW WAS NOT IN TOWN AT THE TIME.-I am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

W. D. JONES.

London, Aug. 29, 1821.

THE OLD TIMES.

It may be satisfactory to political speculators to understand, that the Old Times is "in the market" again; and that would be a curious enough calculation which could ascertain the nature of the principles, to the support of which it is likely next to be applied.

We have, in the course of years traced it through the hands of the STOCK EXCHANGE—GOVERNMENT—OPPOSITION—HIGH CHURCH—DEMOCRACY—OF THE PITTITES AND ANTI-PITTITES—LORD ST. VINCENT—LORD WELLES-LEY—the FRENCH REGICIDES—LOUIS XVIII.—RADICALISM, and—THE QUEEN; and each, in turn, with the exception of the first, has been left in the lurch, when supply has been called for ineffectivity.

has been called for ineffectually.

Whether the sudden stoppage of disbursements so copiously made from Brandenburgh House, or the diminished sale which those disbursements were intended to counterbalance, have contributed to bring the venal paper to a sense of its impolicy, may be hereafter ascertained, by the disclosures of that wise, and worthy Alderman, who was her "Majesty's

We reckon rather surely upon some most whimsical developments, because the unfortunate HUMPTY-DUMPTY is now reduced to the necessity of telling all he knows, in order to prove, against her Majesty's will, (dead or alive) that he was in her entire confidence!

With respect to the change of the TIMES, little doubt can be entertained; indeed, if any were to linger in the mind, it is only necessary to turn to its patriotic columns, to see hew it is labouring to back out of a cause it originally took up, in compliance with the vote of a majority of One of its proprietors, and which, for a year and a half, it has been bolstering up by every species of false reasoning, false statements, and false grammar.

The first symptom of change is its beginning to admit, that Government ought to possess some power; and that some respect ought to be paid to its authority. It attempts to separate the Woods and the WAITHMANS from the HUNTS and the HONES; and to split hairs upon the degrees of patriotism between the WILBONS and the WATSONS—the tag-rag of HAMMERSMITH, and the bob-tail of SMITHFIELD.

LUSHINGTON may throw off WOOD, yet WOOD has secrets. 2s tell—and in low cunning will beat the long-headed Doctor; but HONE and WOOLER have more suit-craft in their dirty little fingers than WILSON, MOORE, HOBHOUSE, or all the WOODS, WILDES, OLDIS, and HAMILTONS, have sltogether in the joint stock company of the whole faction, and will not so easily be cast admit as the OLD TIMES would have them to be.

To read the TIMES, when deprecating the intended funeral of FRANCIS and HQNEY, the rioters, was beyond measure ridiculous. It talks of the mob, and the people, slightingly; when it is notorious that the mob have been its only supporters (except the QUEEN); and to us, the baseness of turning round upon their dupes, seems almost to surpass the crime of having first played upon public credulty, by appealing, from every principle of honour to the lowest improvement of the most degraded class of civilized society.

ignorance of the most degraded class of civilized society.

"may be true that the Hobboures and the Wilsons have not the means to soothe or satisfy the rapacious and craving appetite of the Old Times, and in getting rid of the vermin he has been hired to breed into life and notice, we must look for a little foundering; but, that this hireling print should dare to insult even its own readers by designating the dirty-shirt Committee—(those GENTLEMEN who arranged the cavalcade attendant on the remains of the Queen) as being "Too respectable!"—(Heaven save the mark!)—to be ordered of co-operation with those who arranged the procession in honour of the rioters, is really beyond our utmost expectation.

Was not MR. HONE placed by these respectable gentlemen in one of her Majesty's mourning coaches, while poor HUMPTY-DUMPTY was not thought worthy of a place, except by the favour of MR. BAYLEY?—Are not HENRY HUNT, Esq. late of Middleton Cottage, but now of Ibecketter Gaol, and Doctor Watson, of God knows where, at least equal to that dealer in diaper and hawker of huckaback, Waithman?—and is not Waddington as aristocratic in name and family as either Wilson or Moore?

But this disavowal in the TIMES, independently of the barbarity of the thing, is HUMBUG. Was not WAITHMAN, after all, the Jack-pudding of the rioters' funeral, as well as of all the muddy and bloody revels at that of the QUEER?—Were his followers to be distinguished from those of WATSON, or WADDINGTON—Day, does not the Placard for the funeral expressly state, that the persons setting it on foot, were those who had often rallied round the Queen-addressed her, and hissed her hand? THERE IS NO DISTINCTION, except a most invidious one on the part of the Cockney print; nay, were the Alderman's followers distinguishable from the followers of WATSON AND CO.?—Did they not pass from the hands of the one-to those of the other? And was not the train laid in Smithfield; fired at Knightsbridge?

Who did ALDERMAN WAITHMAN, the Sheriff, mean by WE, when, on the day of the QUEEN'S funeral, he wrote a dispatch to the RIGHT HONOURABLE the LORD MAYOR. and said—"WE have succeeded in turning the procession?" Did he mean the Civil power—the posse comitatus, the military, or the mob, or his friends, or WATSON'S friends, we ask—and ask for information? Who did the Sheriff mean by WE, in announcing to the CHIEP MAGISTRATE of LONDON, that a riotous revolutionary mob had succeeded in bullying the head of the Police out of his sense, and the execution of the district of the

Is there any man so inveterately stupid or prejudiced, as to believe that any of the partizans of the QUEEN were her partizans for love of her, or respect towards her?—That there have been thousands of ignorant persons led astray, we are quite ready to admit, by the arts and falsehoods of the Radical press, and the exertions of certain individuals, but we really cannot imagine that any person accustomed to look at the subject at all, can ever have been deceived upon this point. Let it be recollected, that the same men who hung together in the QUEEN'S cause; have pursued the same line of conduct with equal zeal and manimity long before the

Have we not seen the same men arrayed in Spa-fields?—Have we not seen the same men actually employed in forming a triumph for Henry. Hunt?—Have we not seen the same men rapturously joining in the chairing of John CAM Hobbous ?—Does any body believe that they care one straw about the object they nominally uphold, or the idol they affect to worship?

QUEEN was ever brought forward.

It must be allowed that a QUEEN, in the hands of a rabble, is a great card, and her loss may therefore, as far as her intrinsic value to their cause goes, afflict them more deeply than if half a dozen WATSONS, WILSONS, HOBHOUSES, HUNTS, WAITHMANS, Or WADDINGTONS, had been swept from the face of the earth; and in so much we believe that they are really sorry. But to prove, if any farther proof were wanting, how careless of consistency, truth, respectability, and reasoning, these opponents of our Government and enemies to our Constitution are, let us only observe, that the same persons who have led the addresses to the QUEEN, have followed her hearse, and mourned for the rioters, placarded all London with a notice of General Mourning for NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE.

"Oh that mine enemy would write a book!"—WILSON has written a book, and, though it never sold, it exists. Let the advocates of WILSON, and the friends of the QUEEN read that book about NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE—his murderings, his slaughterings, his poisonings, his treacheries, his cowardice, &c. &c. all glowingly depicted, all described with the greatest warmth and energy—and then let them look at the placard for a general monrning for him upon the walls of London, stuck up by the QUEEN'S friends, of whom this very WILSON is a leader.

Will not this satisfy the country of the truth of our assertion—that it matters not with the mob, who or what the pretended object of popularity is, THE REAL AIM IS ALWAYS THE SAME? and for this reason we disbelieve the dirty-shirt Committee, when they disclaim any connection with the funeral of the rioters, and sneerat the TIMES for its affected deprecation of it. There was an effect to be made, and a disturbance to be created, and as for the dignity of the Queen's cavalcade (putting her out of the question) it is impossible that men, who have dragged HUNT in triumph, and held up the tail of such a thing as HOBHOUSE, could have been sahamed of following an honest journeyman brickleyer to the grave, particularly as their own Paper has told us, that he was of a most respectable family, and amiable habits.

To recur once more to the OLD TIMES; it will be recollected (for it never can be forgotten) that the main argument in defence of the late Queen, set up by this liberal and unbiassed journal, went to set aside facts, and to establish her Majesty's innocence upon the hardihood with which she faced her accusers, and the magnanimity with which she maligned all evidence that could be brought against her.

It designated her under the elegant and classical term of a "true Brunswicker," for assailing her judges, vilifying Parliament, and exciting popular indignation against all the public authorities, when they simply proposed to afford her the legal means of exculpating herself, if possible, from the charges which were echoed from one corner of Europe to the

It is true that the unbribed portion of the press attached to this magnanimous mode of proceeding, a motive of a very different nature; they inferred, "that fear, and nothing "else, could make a man fly ont, and attempt to BULLY HIS "JUDGES—that fear and fear ONLY—the fear of his "CLIENT'S DETECTION could induce an ADVOCATE to "importune for a verdict before facts are thoroughly in-"vestigated."

Something very like this the independent press and the real voice of the country did say, and did repeat from day to day, and the clamorous advocate of the TIMES, under the tutelage of her Majesty's Almoner, dealt out daily columns of invective against all who dared to draw such an inference from such conduct. But, gentle reader, the paragraph we have just quoted is not from the NEW TIMES, the Post, or the COURIER! No; it is (the Alderman Almoner being beyond seas) selected from the OLD TIMES.

From the OLD TIMES is that paragraph extracted ?—from the very advocate himself, who, for eighteen months, in total disregard of ALL MACTS, laboured to uphold the innocence of the Queen, because "she flew out and attempted to "BULLY her Judges—because she importuned for a verdict before facts were thoroughly investigated,"

She is gone—and with her the Junas who bore the beg.

Maria Theresa WILSON has written a letter to the MORNING CHRONICLE, stating, that he gave up the PENSION we alluded to in our last number, and which, he says, "HIS" MAJESTY was graciously pleased to grant, in the kindest "manner, to his children." This shews that he remembers the kindness of HIS MAJESTY, which, we confess, we did not suspect.

But the best part of the joke is the way in which the faction talk of John Bull. They are all in a compact one with another not to take it in, and they cannot resist the temptation of seeing it; so that, when they have any occasion to notice it publicly, for fear they should be suspected of breaking their engagement, and buying it (which they all do) they talk of "a paragraph in John Bull, which has been brought under their notice." This is capital, and reminds us of an anecdote concerning us, related of My LORD MORLEY and SIR JOSEPH COPLEY: the Earl, speaking of Bull, said, "It is an infamous paper, SIR JOSEPH, and I always set may face against it."—"So do I," replied SIR JOSEPH, "EVERY" SUNDAY MORNING!"

MORNING CHRONICLE.

THE Morning Chronicle began on Monday to attack us for what we said in our last number respecting an important disclosure made by the QUEEN on her death-bed to Dr. LUSHINGTON, and renewed the charge on Thursday.

It is pleasant to see the old Chronicle angry, and we laugh outright to hear that Paper call us "wretches who have prostituted our pen to gratify the inclinations of our patrons," for, while it affects a knowledge of what is going on, it betrays its ignorance most deplorably. We HAVB NO PATRONS BUT THE PUBLIC; and if the MORNING CHRONICLE means to assert that this Paper ever received one shilling from Government, one favour, one advertisement—we say of the Chronicle as the Chronicle is pleased to say of us—"it lends itself to the GROSSEST FALSE-HOODS." Nay, of all the public Papers in London John Bull was the only Paper to which even the favour of a ticket for the Coronation was not granted.

We apologize to our readers for this digression in favour of ourselves and return to the Chronicle of Monday; it says, speaking of our last number—

"It is alleged that the QUEEN disclosed to Dr. LUSHINGTON, in the presence of four other persons, that WILLIAM AUSTIN Was her own son, and that this disclosure was communicated by Dr. LUSHINGTON to the EARL OF LIVERPOOL. In an affidavit lately made before Mr. Alderman Venables, by a person of the name of WHITAKER, respecting the manner in which he had been treated by some Life Guard soldiers, it was stated that a serjeant "made use of the most filthy and beastly language, respecting the late QUEEN and ALDERMAN WOOD, and said the latter was a disappointed Hadical, in consequence of the Quann leaving him nothing in her will; and that the Queen, on her death-bed, had admitted that WILLIAM AUSTIN was her son. I replied flatly that it was a downright falsehood."—" Flatly enough," says this calumnious journal, " for how should WHITAKER know? We will swear that Wood is a disappointed Radical; and we do not believe that (although) Dr. Lushington and four other persons who were in the room at the time with him, will deny either roundly or flatly as Mr. WHITAKER did, the QUEBN's admission about Bibly." In another paragraph the falsehood is stated even more circumstantially.

"That Dr. Lubringson, if a disclosure of this kind had been made to him, would exert himself as he has done to affix on, her Majesty's coffia the inscription, in which she is termed no injured Queen, will be believed by none who know any thing of his character. But Dr. Lubrington is at this time out of the country, and the vile calumniator has availed himself of his absence, in the hope that before the lie can be contradicted by him, it may obtain an extensive circulation."

Now, before we proceed to reply to the charge of having alleged that BILLY AUSTIN is the QUEEN'S son, we must say a word or two about DR. LUSHINGTON, to shew, as we think, that the argument adduced by the Chronicle, against the fact of the disclosure, (supposing it to have taken place) is not quite so powerful or convincing as the arguments of the Chronicle generally are.

"Nobody who knows any thing of DR. LUSHING-TON's character, could suppose that he would exert himelf to affix an inscription on her MAJESTY's coffin, in which she is termed an injured Queen, if he had known of this circumstance."-What! did DR. LUSHINGTON ever believe the QUEEN to have been injured or oppressed? Did DR. LUSHINGTON think the QUEEN innocent?-Had he any esteem, any respect, any affection for her? When we consider that he saw her writhing in the agonies of death, neglected even by her hired servants—that he saw her DIE-at twenty minutes after ten o'clock at night, and that, in ten hours and eighteen minutes from that time he led his blooming bride to the altar at Hampstead Church, we confess we are sceptical. We know nothing of DR. LUBHINGTON; -the Morning Chronicle, it seems, does; but we are surprised to find them lay so much stress upon the coffin-plate juggle, which (as they know) was a trick for effect, and might have been played officially by the executors, in obedience to some authorized instructions of the deceased; but most of all we are surprised that they should stickle for DR, LUSHINGTON's delicacy or squeamBut with respect to our statement—the paragraph above quoted says, "it is alleged" so and so; and the following extract from Thursday's Chronicle goes further:—

"In the last number of John Bull, as we have before observed, At is more than insinuated that Wm. Austin is the son of her late. Majesty; she is even affirmed to have proclaimed the fast on her death-bed. As a measure of public policy, it becomes the duty of his Majesty's Law Officers to institute proceedings against the author of a calumny as mischievous as it is infamous. We have only to suggest, that the King, then Prince of Wales, was within the four scas; the necessary legal presumption will at once present itself to our readers. They will not also be slow to perceive the infinite mischiefs with which it might at some future time be attended. Many of the Tory party may remember the jokes respecting access, which at one period they were pleased to circulate, and may be the better disposed to relish the very ingenious malice of John Bull."

Now we have read very carefully BULL of last week, and we can find no such allegation—no such affirmations as are here mentioned: the words in our Paper are these:—

"The Times promised to publish an important disclosure which the QUEEN made before her death—but it has not done so. The disclosure was made to Dn. Lubricoron, in the presence of four other persons, and has been by him (we believe) communicated to the Earl of Liverpool—it is of the first importance to her Majesty's character. We abstain from laying it before our readers, because me might do so prematurely; suffice it to say, that when it is known, the persecutions of the QUEEN will be seen in their true light."

What has this to do with an assertion that the Queen said Billy was her son? We never made such an assertion—to be sure, in an article of intelligence, it appears that a Life Guardsman told Mr. Wet-taker (the radical who was ducked) that Master William was the Queen's son, and that she admitted it. But that is matter of news, and a fact sworn to before an Alderman; and our observation upon MR. WHITAKER's (or Wet-taker) saying, "I replied flatly that it was a downright falsehood," is not that which the Chronicle has purposely mis-quoted from our Paper; a want of candour the more vexatious, as coming from a journal distinguished by its honourable consistency, high political feeling, and gentlemanly conduct.

The Chronicle says DOCTOR LUSHINGTON is out of the country. We know he is, happy fellow!—we wish him joy. He is spending the honey-moon over his much injured Mistress's corpse; but he will return, and we may know more upon these subjects. At all events, the Chronicle is mistaken if it supposes we seize the opportunity of his absence to talk of him; we are only waiting his return, and that of HUMPTY DUMPTY, to analyze their little differences, and amuse owrselves with their squabblings and quarrels, and mirth, and mourning, and marriages.

But the Chronicle subsequently touches upon "legal presumption," and "the infinite mischiefs" attendant upon our insinuation, and hands us over to HIS MAJESTY'S ATTORNEY and SOLICITOR-GENERAL, to be prosecuted without delay. So far so good. But the zeal of the Chronicle runs away with it; and, to wind up all, it says— Many of the Tory party may remember the jokes respecting access, which at one period they were pleased to "circulate."

Since the Chronicle chooses to refer us to that which the Tories said in joke about the late Queen at one period, we will favour our readers with a few things, which the Whigs said about the same period IN EARNEST; and to do this the more satisfactorily to our friend the Chronicle, we will quote HIM as the mouth-piece of the party.

In this number we have only room for the general opinions expressed by that sound constitutional Paper upon the character of the Queen's defence and DEFENDERS. We shall give more interesting extracts from its liberal and constitutional columns next week.

"Those are not the friends of any party who have made the Delicate Investigation a subject of factions declaration, the tendency of which is too obvious to be mistaken. This enquiry, though of the most private and personal nature, has been taken up with a view the most direct to TRADUCH AND VILLY ONE, (His present Majerly) while the defence of the other (the late Queen) is urged. This unfair object has been prosecuted with a malignity very ill disguised by a set of men, who, standing upon no constitutional grounds of public principle or conduct, have recourse to expedients which betray expectations and designs that cannot be successful without a convulsion of the Government."—and so on.—Morning Chronicle, July 19, 1806.

"We have cautiously forborne to give any opinion on this truly delicate affair, but we have no hesitation in saying, that after the paragraphs we have read, and the notorious encouragement given by the opposition (Mr. Perceval, &c.) and their journals to a initiations pamphlet, written for the purpose of extorting money from a great paragraph, we have the utmost distrust of any fact stated by the fraternity, because we see their matives—as to their arguments, none but the most vulgar CAN BE INTRUENCED BY THEM."—Morning Chronicle, Aug. 4, 1806.

To which we subjoin a paragraph, extracted from the same Paper of Oct. 23, 1807, evidently intended to inculcate respect for her late Majesty, and excite an admiration of her pursuits and pleasures.

"The Princess of Wales honoured Honn Fair with her presence on Tuesday. Her Royal Highness was dressed in pink muslin with silver spangles; she was seated in a sum -house belonging to a gardener, where she had a good view of the MERRI-"MENT."

We cannot this week continue se specimens of affection and respect for the late Queen with which this highly consistent Chronicle abounds. But even in the three we have laid before our readers to-day, we think we shew what that Paper (in its health and vigour) thought of the character of the Queen's defence—of the expectations and designs of her partizans—of the nature of the villainous attacks upon His present Majesty—of the validity of facts brought forward in favour of the lady, and of the arguments adduced in her supports.

We think we also show the esteem and veneration in which the Chroniels held the recreations of her late Majesty, and the value they set upon her good taste and delicacy. But as yet we have only began, and we think we shall be able, in the course of time, to show, that, although we repel with contempt the falsehood which attributes to us servility and dependence, there are to be found in London "WRETCHES WHO PROSTITUTE THEIR PENS TO GRA-"TIPY THE INCLINATIONS OF THEIR PATRONS."

ST. PAUL, COVENT GARDEN.

The following is sent us officially, having been promised in the Chronicle of Friday:

"The Parochial Churchwarden of St. Paul, Covent Garden, having seen a paragraph in the John Bull of last Sunday, stating, that an order had been given by Dr. RANDOLPH, " not to admit strangers into seats, who were not dressed in black," feels called upon to declare that no such order was issued by the Rev. Doctor, who has for two months past, been absent from town, on clerical duties: the order, if order that could be called, which was offered more as a suggestion, was given by the Parochial Churchwarden, who merely intimated to the pew-opener " not to admit strangers into conspicuous situations in the church, who had not shewn some conformity to the order for mourning;" and whe, he conceived, in endeavouring to throw a slight on the late Queen, threw indignity on Royalty itself; which should, in every relative situation, receive its attendant honours.

"If the above suggestion were interpreted to the letter, it was what the Churchwarden never contemplated, and as the assertion appeared in John Bull, Colman's John Bull will afford a quotation in reply—that if so, the conduct of the pew-opener was like that of the officious footman, "who hastily pulls off his mistress's perriwig, and claps it on the wrong side before."

We know that Da. RANDOLPH has been absent, because we had occasion to notice a most impudent sermon, which he preached, on the Coronation, at BRISTOL. We, however, certainly attributed the act of excluding non-mourners to the Rev. Gentleman; as it is, we can only tell the witty Churchwarden, that there is no order for mourning. There is an order for a Court mourning, "to shew a conformity to which," it would be necessary for such as choose to fancy themselves Courtiers, and get good seats in St. Paul's Covent Garden, to wear "crape weepers,"—" shamois leather shoes,"—" black swords and buckles," "bags and no buttons on their pockets."

TO JOHN BULL.

SIB-I wish you to make this letter public, and I pledge myself for the accuracy of the contents.

On Sunday morning last, divine service was read at the usual hour; the men and officers were present. Before disministration the parade, the Commanding Officer ordered the gates usual hour; the men and officers were present. Before dismissing the parade, the Commanding Officer ordered the gates to be closed, and the soldiers to remain within the Barracks. Two Captains were appointed, one to the Officers' house, the other to the Barracks of the men; their orders were positive—"Suffer no one to appear at the windows."

At half past three o'clock, a crowd was seen approaching from the different gates of the Park. This is not unusual on a Sunday. In order to let the people pass, our gates were courteously unclosed.

Mr. Waithman complains that a brick fell at the feet of his horse; there is evidence to prove this brick was not thrown by a soldier.

I have mentioned why the gates were unclosed. A few soldiers mixed with the people, but no tumult ensued. It was now that Mr. Waithman, having regaled at the Nag's Head, (a common pot-house in Knightsbridge), again appeared amid the crowd; he used the most violent gestures, and in the same breath called the soldiers rascals, and bid his rabble "go and drink." The Sheriff was understood—in an instant a volley of oaths and brick-bats were discharged. Our gates were immediately ordered to be closed, and the men to be got within the walls. Two Officers, in effecting this order, were violently assailed by stones, and one of them was unfortunately knocked down and stunned by a brick-bat. The yell of the mob was "That's an Officer! mark him! d—n him, kill him!"—Mr. Waithman was a quiet spectator of this outrage.

Mr. Waithman asserts, in his letter, that the soldiers were left to their own exasperated feeling. To this impudent assertion I reply, that sixteen Officers were present in Barracks during the whole of Sunday; many of whom, at the risk of their heads, saved the lives of the mob from the fate they so richly deserved. There is an ungentlemanlike monosyllable, with which I am sorry to dirty my paper, yet I am ignorant how otherwise to express with proper resentment—my firm conviction that the Sheriff of Middlesex, in making such a statement wenter a deliberate lie.

ment, wrote a deliberate lie.

A cry of "murder!" was now heard from without the walls, and a few of the soldiers armed, with the first weapons on which they could place their hands, rushed to the aid of a trumpeter and farrier, whom the mob had knocked down. Before the rescue arrived, these rascals had torn the Waterloo medal from the jacket of the trumpeter. Here again the demeanour of Mr. Waithman was conspicuous: exhilarated by the cheers of the mob, he struck a soldier, who would by the cheers of the foot-way, where, though & heriff of Middlesex, he had no business to ride. Though a soldier, and struck, he forbore to strike, but applying his shoulder, quietly removed horse and horseman to some distance on the

Since no Officer received even a verbal message from the Sheriff, I am at a loss to account for the offensive answer to which he alludes. Had Mr. Waithman really requested an interview, the Commanding-Officer would not have refused to gratify his request.

I must now advert to the ludicrous hazard of assassinate,

I must now advert to the ludicrous hazard of assassination, incurred by Mr. Waithman. In this awful moment, so fe infully described, no soldier, with his swand drawn, was within ten yards of the Sheriff, and of this party the corporal alone carried a carbine, and that carbine was not loaded.

I now turn to another and more grateful theme; and I can scarce find words to express my admiration of the patience with which our magnanimous soldiers endured the savage imprecations and outrageous insults of the dastardly mob. Exasperated beyond measure, and with arms in their hands they rescued, but forbore to revenge two of their comrades half murdered before their eyes.

A riotous mob daring to break the windows of a barrack, and the soldiers of that barrack forbearing under such an insult, proves the high discipline of our men, and will long, I hope, remain a fact unparalleled in military history.

I hope, remain a fact unparalleled in military history.

Before closing this letter I must not omit to state, that to disperse the mob, it required the presence of Mr. Conant, who read the Riot Act on his arrival. The Quarter master who followed the officer in search of this magistrate, was so ill-used, and his horse so severely injured, as to be unable to proceed. I am, Sir, your most obedient, humble servant, MANLIUS.

Knightsbridge Barracks, Friday Evening.

TO JOHN BULL.

SIR,—There having appeared in your last Sunday's Paper, a censure on the Chief Magistrate of Bow-street, (Sir Robert Baker, Knight) for his conduct on the day of the funeral procession of our late Queen Caroline; I am, from a similarity of names, and from being an active magistrate for the county of Surrey, many years, in the vicinity of Londou, as also for the county of Somerset, in that very populous district of Bath-Forum, unfortunately, though naturally, but very undeservedly, regarded by many who read your widely-circulated Paper, and to whom alone my name is familiar, to be the very identical Sir Robert Baker, whom you have represented as having shamefully conducted himself on the above-mentioned occasion.

Being conscious that I never, in the long course of my magisterial situation, did any act to merit the disapprobation of the public, I will be obliged to you, whenever you are pleased to introduce into your Paper the name of the Chief Magistrate of Bow-street, to do me the favour to make such a marked distinction as to prevent my being subject to the consequences of any mistake. I am, Sir, your obedient humble servant,

ROBERT BAKER, Baronet.

ie servant, Bath, Aug. 28, 1821.

ALDERMAN SHERIFF WAITHMAN.

This person has often been presented to us as a nuisance, and an abatement prayed. We have always thought him of infinitely too little consequence to meddle with, but now that he appears as Counsel in a Court of Law, and devotes all the time he can spare from measuring huckaback and striking at soldiers, (pretty recreations for the head of a Civil Magistracy)—we will endeavour to give our readers a clear idea of his qualifications for practice.

It should be observed, that while other papers went their spleen, or satisfy their anger by high-flown writing, or long-winded arguments, John Bull sticks to facts. Some there are, who take the trouble to deny stoutly what we assert, but we cannot tax ourselves with ever having said that which was not true, even accidentally;—PURPOSELY—NEVER!

To illustrate our own doctrine, we now, instead of wasting our time, or that of our readers, in ealling WAITHMAN an "impertinent meddler," an officious ass," or a "ridiculous Cockney," shall lay before our readers the proceedings of two Courts, in which MR. WAITHMAN has practised, previously to his appearance at the "Crowner's Quest."

The only remark we shall make is, that from what he said and did, in the conduct of both the following affairs, we think it a great misfortune to the country, that he has not been brought up to the bar.

INSOLVENT DEBTORS, COURT, Novembra 9, 1816.

Waithman v. Birch.—This Insolvent was opposed by Messrs. Waithman, who were the principal creditors, their claim amounting to 3,8001.

Mr. Waithman, Junior, stated, that he would not have stood there in opposition to Mr. Birch's discharge, were it not that the firm were much dissatisfied with his conduct.—The circumstances of the case were briefly these:-Some time back the firm of Waithman and Co. having made inquiry into Mr. Birch's character, put him into business, in Newgate-street, purchased the lease of a house, furnished it, and provided goods to stock it. After some time, they took an account of the stock, and there appeared to be a deficiency, which Mr. B. accounted for, by saying, that he had not laid on suffi-cient profit.—He was accordingly desired to charge a higher After some further time, the deficiency had increased to 12001.—It was now proposed to Mr. Birch to give up business-but this he declined doing, except he had a general release from the firm, for cer-tain acceptances he was under on their account.—This the tain acceptances he was under on their account.—This the firm refused, because they had become responsible for whatever goods Mr. Birch might purchase elsewhere, taking to themselves a commission of 5 per cent. on the invoices.

Finding the affairs of the Insolvent were becoming continually worse, the firm put the Warrant of Attorney in force, entered up judgment, and took Mr. Birch's Stock, &c. in execution. The effects not covering the Debt, an arrangement was proposed; but Mr. Birch, taking the advice of a Solicitor, removed from the house in Newgate-street a book, containing the accounts of debts to him: this company the firm convidered very improper; and it created a suspicion of the honesty of the Insolvent.

MR. WAITHMAN, JUN. NOW PROCEEDED TO EXAMINE THE

What money bad you on going into business?—Thirty pounds.

The debts due to you are stated in the Schedule at 3601.; what part of this can you surrender?—The whole.

Have you collected any?—No.
When was you arrested?—On the 30th of July last.

What debts did you collect from the time of quitting New gate-street, to the time of your going to prison?—1761. in-cluding some money I had before the execution was levied.

Do you know at what rate of profit you were selling during last November ?-No.

How mruch money did you receive for the last half year revious to the execution ?—I do not know.

QUESTIONED BY MR. ANDREWS

Is the ticketing and cutting-trade adopted by the respectable houses?—No.—WAITHMAN AND Co. formerly carried on this trade.

Did not Waithman and Co. levy an execution by virtue of the instrument that you signed when you first commenced business?—Yes; they took beds, bedding, furniture, and the stock in trade.

Do you know the value of the stock ?-Yes; the stock was taken on the Saturday preceding the Monday on which they took possession, and found to be worth 2,3001.

What was the value of the lease?-350l. and the furniture 1001. making, with the stock and fixtures, 2,9001.

Was not the stock all sold in one lot by auction?—Yes they were sold at Crook and Armstrong's house, although they were never removed off the premises, in Newgate-street.

And who was the purchaser?—WAITHMAN AND Co. THEMSELVES, for the sum of 1,6211.!*

Did you not immediately on taking possession of the shop in Newgate-street, accept bills drawn by Waithman and Co. for large sums?—Yes; and when I accepted bills for them, payable at my own house, they used to send the money the wight before to take them up!!!

What was the amount of the acceptances you were generally under for Waithman and Co.?—Generally between 3,000l. and 4,000l.

Did Waithman, jun. ever write notes to you when he wanted acceptances in a hurry?—Yes. (The witness produced several notes).

Did you not give some acceptances a very short time be-fore the firm of Waithman and Co. put the execution into your house?—Yes; several: here is a note I received not long before. (A note from MR. WAITHMAN, jun. to Mr. Birch was then read, as follows:—" Please to accept the in-" closed bill to night, so as the ink MAY BE DRY before " morning; and make it payable at Sir J. Perring and " Co's)."

And upon the firm demanding your property, and the book of debts, you declined it, till they should give you a guarantee, that you should not be liable to the outstanding acceptances?—Yes; that was what I wanted.

What induced you to embark in the Newgate-street adventure?—A friend wished it; and he promised me pecuniary assistance, but failed in his promise.

Was it not at the solicitation of Mr. Waithman, sen. that you embarked in it?-Yes, it was.

Did you sign any paper before any goods were delivered? -No; about a fortnight after, I signed a paper, which Mr. Waithman, sen. said was a matter of course.

Did you know that it was any thing more than a bond? -No; MR. WAITHMAN did not chuse to have a third person present, as he wished to do it in a FRIENDLY MANNER.

Were you acquainted with legal instruments so as to distinguish between a bond, and a Warrant of Attorney?—No. I did not know the difference.

If you had been aware that it was a Warrant of Attorney, which might incarcerate your person, or sweep away your goods at any time, would you have signed it?—CERTAINLY NOT; I READ IT OVER, BUT IT WAS NOT EXPLAINED TO MR.

What was your loss the first year?-1931.

Had Waithman and Co. any knowledge of that?-Yes they took stock.

Did they not go to you every week for the money taken in the course of your business?—Yes.
What was the total deficiency at the close of the second year?-Twelve or thirteen hundred pounds.

Was the stock taken by them at the close of the second

Did not Mr. Waithman, sen. say, that by TICKETING and reducing the profits to ten per cent. the returns would be doubled .- Yes.

Did not he also recommend LARGER TICKETS, and more BLACKING ON THEM ?!!!-YES, HE DID.

BY MR. WAITHMAN, JUN.

Do you suppose that we charged you more than our other customers?—I do not know that; but you charged me twenty per cent. more than other houses sold at. In the article of common prints I could buy at 1s. 10d. per yard, what you charged me 2s. 2d. for.

What did the lodgers pay you?-701.

Did we not offer to settle the account with you?—Yes but I declined, until I was indemnified for my acceptances? Did you demand of us security for the bills that were outstanding?—Yes, I did. BY THE COURT.

Had Waithman and Co. undisturbed access to your books? -At all times; they had statements every month of all that was received and paid, and every Tuesday morning they received all money taken in the preceding week, BY MR. WAITHMAN, JUN. From what did the deficiency arise, during the last six months of your continuing in the business?—From the badness of trade. Did we ever draw bills on you to the amount of what you owed?-OFTEN TO A MUCH LARGER AMOUNT.

BY MR. WAITHMAN, SEN.

Was you under acceptances for 2,000l. for us at the time the execution was levied?—Yes, for much more than that: you had MANY ACCOMNODATION ACCEPTANCES OF MINE. payable at your bankers, Sir John Perring and Co. persons whom I never saw, nor have I any knowledge of them, beyond

• On Saturday the stock was valued at 2,3001. and on Monday levied under an execution, and bought by Waithman for 1,6111.!!! by which the unfortunate debtor lost 6791. which profit they not only made, but now came upon the debtor for the deficiency, making a difference of 13581. in their own favour.

making my acceptances payable there by your order. I used also to accept bills for a firm called WAITHMAN, FOX-CROFT, and Co.

Did you ever refuse Waithman' and Co. access to your books? No, never. To what cause do you attribute the deficiency which arose in the first two years?-To the overcharge of the goods supplied by WAITHMAN and Co. I could buy much cheaper at other houses.

Did WAITHMAN and Co. exercise any controll over you as to the manner of carrying on business?-Yes; after I had been in business six months, MR. WATTHMAN, sen. recommended the ticketing and cutting-trade; and said that unless it was adopted, it would not enswer their purpose to countenance the concern: consequently I adopted it.

And not long after, it became a bankrupt concern ?-Yes; I had left an excellent situation to embark in it, and it proved my utter rain.

WAITHMAN NOW CALLED MR. P. WILLIAMS, A CLERK IN

Did you prepare the Insolvent's account up to the 30th of May 1816?-

What was the amount of the balance up to that period?-5.3501.

What part of the balance was over due at that time?-About 3,000l.

Do you know what bills were drawn upon Birch?-Yes. What did they amount to at any one period?—I should imagine above 2,500l.

MR. JACKSON, A WHOLESALE LINEN-DRAPER, WAS THEN

CALLED BY MR. WAITHMAN.

Is it not customary to draw bills for goods delivered, before the credit on which such goods are sold expires ?—Yes. EXAMINED BY MR. ANDREWS.

Is it usual for your house to take Warrants of Attorney, previous to the delivery of goods to your customers?—CBR-TAINLY NOT, we never ask for security, except when the necessity of the case requires it.

Are you in the habit of sending every week to take the ready money collected by the retail dealer? CERTAINLY NOT.

Did you ever hear of such a thing being done, while the wholesale house had the benefit of unlimited acceptances, and a Warrant of Attorney hanging over the head of the retailer?-No, NEVER!

Here the case closed for the opposition; and Mr. Andrews for the Insolvent, said, that as MR. WAITHMAN, assisted by his father, had not in his opinion ostablished his case, or proved a single iota of fraud against his client, he would waive his privilege of reply, and save the time of the Court. The Commissioner summed up the case as follows:

"In this case I have felt it my duty, sitting here as I do, for the benefit of the Creditors on the one hand, and of the Insolvent on the other, to permit it to go to all possible length. It appears then from the Insolvent's schedule that he owes the opposing Creditors 3,500l.; and, excepting some trifling sums, this is the whole amount that he does owe. On the question of fraud, it is to be observed, that on the close of the first and of the second year of his being in business, his stock was valued under the eye and controul of Messrs. Waithman; and besides this, they had at all times access to his books, and the weekly produce of his sales was constantly paid into their hands. It cannot therefore be supposed that the Insolvent has been acting fraudulently, or with injustice towards his creditors; for with a perfect knowledge of the first and second year's deficiency, with an avowal from the prisoner that the concern was a losing one, accompanied by a wish on his part that it should be given up: MESSRS. WAITHMAN still press him to continue it, and direct a new method of conducting it, the ticketing trade, a mode of sale which it appears is NEVER USED BY ANY RESPECTABLE HOUSE, and which was attended by considerable loss. They could NOT therefore have ascribed the deficiency to any improper conduct on the part of the Insolvent, or they would have complied with his wishes, and closed the concern. And when some time after they put an execution into his house, and took all his property, THE STOCK WHICH THEY THEM-SELVES HAD CHARGED TO HIM 2,3001. was bought by themselves for 1,6201. The correspondence which he then entered into with them, I must say, does HIM infinite credit. proving that he was willing to surrender every vestige of property that he had in his possession, upon being indemnified for some outstanding acceptances; which offer they refused.

"Under these circumstances, he must be considered as entitled to his discharge, and I owe it TO JUSTICE TO SAY, THAT OF ALL THE UNFORTUNATE PERSONS WHO HAVE STOOD IN HIS SITUATION, NO ONE HAS EVER GONE OUT OF THIS COURT WITH CLEANER HANDS.

COURT OF KING'S BENCH, July 5, 1798.

TRIAL OF LIBEL, AS REPORTED IN THE TIMES, MORNING CHRONICLE, MORNING POST, &c. &c.

Stamford v. Bristow.—Mr. Law, Counsel for the plaintiff, said, that his client, a very young man, of genteel connexions, was placed by his friends, in the house of Messrs. Bristow & Waithman, linen drapers, residing in Fleet-street, at the o ner of Bridge-street, in order to learn the business. While the plaintiff was in that house, he was introduced to one of Mrs. Bristow's friends, a Miss Cortis, and a mutual attachment took place; which was much encouraged by Mr. Bristow, who wrote to Mr. Cortis, (in the country) informing him of the affection which subsisted between the plaintiff and his daughter, and recommending the plaintiff as a very worthy and industrious young man. In consequence of this recommendation, Mr. Cortis gave his concent to an union between his daughter and the plaintiff, Mr. Stamford.

In this stage of the business, Messrs. Bristow and Waithman agreed with the plaintiff for a shop which they had in Holborn, upon terms which certainly appeared to him, to be the most extortionate he had ever heard of—for this young man was bound by them, to take all the old stock at that shop, at the price which Messrs. Bristow and Waithman were pleased to fix upon it, which was 1,000l. He was to pay the rent of the house, the servants' wages, &c. and was besides, to pay the receipts of the shop, to the defendant and his partner, twice every week. The plaintiff, anxious to have a house into which he could receive a wife, acceded to these terms, however hard.

This purpose being answered, these gentlemen suddenly withdrew their pretended regard for the plaintiff; and Mr. Bristow wrote a letter to Mr. Cortis, which was the ground of the present action. This letter gave a most infamous character to the plaintiff:—It represented him as a man of the most dissolute life; as being absent from his business several days in the week; as being out at all hours of the night, and sometimes all night: it stated that he, and all the persons in his house, had the most disgusting complaints, and stated, such was the disorderly life which he led, that his house was represented by the neighbours, as a common nuisance; and that his maid servant, taking advantage of her master's absence from home, was almost constantly intoxicated. This letter produced the desired effect. Cortis withdrew his consent to the marriage; and the prospects which the plaintiff had formed of future happiness, were Under these circumstances, this unfortunate destroyed. young man was compelled to have recourse to a Jury of his country for redress. He rested his claim on the ground of the falsehood of this most malicious attack on his character.

Several witnesses were called for the plaintiff, who DE-CIDEBLY NEGATIVED ALL THE FACTS STATED IN THE LETTER.

MR. CORTIS was first examined, and confirmed the statement made by Mr. Law.

Two other witnesses contradicted ALL THE CHARGES made against the plaintiff in Mr. Bristow's letter.

MR. KERR, an apothecary, who attended the plaintiff, said that neither the plaintiff, nor any one in his house, had any of the filthy complaints mentioned.

MR. ERSKINE, on the part of the defendant, admitted, that if the representation made by his client, to Mr. CORTIS, was the effect of malice, most undoubtedly he onaht to be most severely punished; but, so far from that being the case, it would appear, that his conduct had been marked throughout with the strictest integrity. He rested his justification upon the truth of facts which he hoped to be able to establish.

In support of this view of the question, MR. ERSKINE called MR. WAITHMAN, the partner of the defendant, who said that he and his partner had acted uniformly with the greatest friendship to the plaintiff; he had at first a very good cpinion of this young man, and the consequence of it was, that he was put into the house in Holborn. MR. WAITH-MAN then proceeded to state the circumstances which led to the abatement of this good opinion, such as the plaintiff's inattention to business, &c. The first instance of misconduct in the plaintiff was on his going into the country in August, 1797, when he had leave to go for three or four days, instead of which he staid three weeks.

In contradiction of this evidence, it appeared afterwards, that the reason of the plaintiff's remaining so long in the country was a letter which he received from Mr. Bristow, telling him that he might remain a fortnight or three weeks, and adding that a person from the shop should attend his business for him.

MR. WAITHMAN said in continuation, that for the first week after the plaintiff returned to town, he was not guilty of any gross improprieties, but his conduct after that week was such as to induce him (WAITHMAN) to advise Mr. Bristow to write to Mr. Cortis, to acquaint him with his misconduct. Accordingly, the letter, which was now charged with being libellous, was written by Mr. Bristow, UNDER HIS ADVICE AND DIRECTION!

In contradiction of this evidence, MR. LAW produced a letter, which WAITHMAN acknowledged to be his handwriting. This letter was dated January 1798 (SEVERAL MONTHS AFTER) and was addressed to the father of the plaintiff. In this letter, he (WAITHMAN) stated, that the plaintiff had never been guilty of any serious misconduct, or of any thing but those slight indiscretions to which all young men are liable!!!

With respect to the charge against the plaintiff of his having any disease, no evidence whatever was offered in support of it; and as to the other charge, of his living so riotously as to render his home a nuisance to the neighbours, the evidence was confined to a single instance. It was stated that on one occasion he had company, and sat up till five o'clock in the morning. On the cross-examination, however, it turned out that this happened at Christmas, when the plaintiff having had a goose sent to him as a present, had it roasted, and invited some of his neighbours to partake of it; among the com-pany there were several of the friends of MESSRS. BRISTOW and WAITHMAN-but, unfortunately, WAITHMAN himself was not asked.

So distressed was the defendant for evidence, that he was driven to call the plaintiff's maid-servant, whom HE had charged with being constantly intoxicated. But even this failed to establish any one fact.

MR. LAW, in reply, said, "If I am not mistaken, Gentlemen, in the honest and manly feelings of your minds, you will, by your verdict, rescue my unfortunate client from the load of misery with which the villainy of the defendant has overwhelmed him. You have before you a young man, all whose hopes of happiness, arising from an union with an amiable and accomplished young woman-all whose hopes of obtaining a decent competence, by honest industry, have been utterly destroyed at his first outset in life, by the most unprovoked and unexampled malice; a malice which, after having made him a bankrupt in fortune, and consigned him to a gaol, now seeks to make him a bankrupt in reputation also. I afraid, gentlemen, that this malice is of too deep-rooted a nature to be easily cured, but you will do what you can to extract its cure by severe and exemplary damages. Gentle men, this unfortunate young man looks up to you with hope, and you will not disappoint him; you will unlock his prison gates, and restore him at once to his family, to character, and to happiness.

LORD KENYON, in summing up the evidence, commented with great severity upon the conduct of the defendant, and made some strong observations on the witnesses which he had brought forward, PARTICULARLY MR. WAITHMAN. His Lordship said, THAT AFTER WHAT HE HAD HEARD HIM SWEAR THAT DAY, HE WAS A MAN ON WHOSE TESTI-MONY HE SHOULD NOT CHOOSE TO PIN HIS PAITH!!! The Jury gave a Verdict of Seven hundred and fifty pounds damages.—And so much for MR. SHERIFF WAITHMAN.

The above recorded cases are given in order to prepare the minds of our readers for a series of anecdotes of this man, which may serve to shew who, and what, the muddy followers of HONEY, CAROLINE, FRANCIS and Co. admire.

SUPPRESSION OF RIOTS.

In order that the law may be more clearly understood, the following are inserted for the information and guidance of officers commanding regiments and detachments in pro-ceeding to suppress riots and disturbances.

CASE SUBMITTED FOR THE OPINION OF THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

It frequently happens upon the breaking out of riots or other disturbances, at a distance from the abode of any Magistrate, that the officers commanding troops have expressed doubts how far, and under what circumstances, they should be justified in proceeding to suppress such riots and disturbances without the directions of a Magistrate or such other peace officers, as are specified in the Riot Act.

"Your opinion is requested, whether in case of any sudden riot or disturbance, a constable or other peace officer, being under the degree of those described in the Riot Act, can call upon the military to suppress such riot or disturbance;and how far, in the absence of any constable, or other peace officer at all, the military would be justified in proceeding to suppress any riot which might break out."

OPINION OF THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

"I understand the disturbances here meant to be such as amount to the legal description of riots. The word " disturbance" has no legal and appropriate meaning beyond a mere breach of the peace, which is not, however, the sense in which the word is used in this case; the case plainly importing a breach of the peace by an assembled multitude.

" In case of any such sudden riot and disturbance, as above supposed, any of His Majesty's subjects, without the presence of a peace officer of any description, may arm themselves, and of course may use ordinary means of force to suppress such riot and disturbance.

"This was laid down in my Lord Chief Justice Popham's Reports, 121, and Keeling 76, as having been resolved by all the Judges in the 39th of Queen Elizabeth, to be good law, and has certainly been recognised in Hawkins and other writers on the Crown Law, and by various Judges at different "And what His Majesty's subjects may do, they also ought to do, for the suppression of public tumult, when an exigency may require that such means be resorted to.

"Whatever any other class of His Majesty's subjects may allowably do in this particular, the military may unquestionably do also.

"By the common law, every description of peace officer may, and ought, to do not only all that in him lies towards the suppressing of riots, but may, and ought to, command all other persons to assist therein.

" However, it is by all means advisable to procure a Justice of Peace to attend, and for the military to act under his immediate orders, when such attendance, and the sanction of such orders, can be obtained, as it not only prevents any disposition to unnecessary violence on the part of those who act in repelling the tumult, but it induces also, from the known authority of such Magistrates, a more ready submission on the part of the rioters, to the measures used for that purpose; -but still, in cases of great and sudden emergency, the military, as well as all other individuals, may act without their presence, or without the presence of any other Peace Officer whatsoever." (Signed) "EDWARD LAW." officer whatsoever." (Signed) Lincoln's Inn, April 1, 1506.

N. B. By an Act of Parliament of the first year of George I. (commonly called the Riot Act) dated 17th March, 1714, entitled "An Act for preventing Tumults and Riotous Assemblies, and for the more speedy and effectual punishing of the Rioters," every Justice of the Peace, Sheriff, Under-She-riff, Mayor, Bailiff, or other head officer of any county, city, or town corporate, is authorized, empowered, and required, on notice or knowledge of any unlawful, riotous, and tumultuous assembly within the limits of their respective jurisdictions, to resort to the place where such assembly shall be, of persons to the number of twelve, or more, and there to make, or cause to be made, the proclamation, prescribed by the said Act, for dispersing such assembly.

HUMBUG.

TO JOHN BULL.

SIR,—I observe that none of the Papers have taken notice of the conduct of LADIES HOOD and ANNE HAMILTON during the procession through Kensington. Be it known, then, that these "frisky creatures," as you call them, to shew their love and respect for their dear departed mistress, extended their necks and half their bodies out of each ceach-window, (to the amusement and delight of the gaping fools around them) weeping, and exhibiting many ridiculous affectations of grief.

During the Queen's first access of illness, such was the shameful indifference of these now disconsolate women, even to appearances, that they were commanded out of the royal apartment, her Majesty expressly desiring to be left to the care of Mariette alone, reasonably disgusted at their selfish inattention. When the illness became dangerous, Mr. Thompson, the apothecary, thought it indecent that so little even of a shew of respect should be paid to expiring royalty, and sent to these women to request their aid.

Did they obey the summons? Yes, Sir, they did: Lady Hood came in and sat down, as a looker-on, at the foot of the bed; whilst Lady Anne practised the elegancies of attitude upon a sofa, and finally disposed of herself at full length on its cushions, anxiously waiting, and almost asking, a se cond dismissal. This, Sir, was after the Will was signed.

And upon what authority is this stated? I have mentioned the Apothecary Thompson. You must know further, that this son of Esculapius is a well-meaning person, who, like other apothecaries, feels the pulses of ladies, talks tittle tattle by their bed-sides, prescribes a draught, and drives off in his tilbury to prepare it. Now, among other tittle tattle, HE narrated all the above facts to A. under a strict charge of secrecy; A, of course, told them to B; B to C, and so they ran through the alphabet till they came to the ears of your humble servant,

P.S. I should not, however, have divulged Thompson's name, had he not been silly enough since to be-praise the Queen's death-bed scene, and had not some old women of my acquaintance been silly enough to believe him.

The East India Company's chartered ship Richmond passed Portsmouth on Friday for the river; she is supposed to have sailed from Ceylon about the 9th or 10th of April.

THEATRE.

A little piece, in one act, called "Matchmaking," was produced at the Haymarket on Saturday se'nnight.

The plot exhibits the contrivance and perplexities of a gentleman, whose ruling passion is to promote matrimony amongst his younger friends, and the embarrassment of two suitors who make love to his niece.

Rakely ......MR. JONES. Belmont......MR. DECAMP. Shuffle ..... MR. Oxberry.

em's proposal of a husband to his niece Lady Emily, an opulent and young widow. He opens his plan, and tells her, that he has selected as her next husband, his nephew. Captain Belmont; that he has written to him, and expects him in the course of the day. The lady attempts to reason down this hasty determination, and declares against the in troduction of any military man into the house, and, above all, of any matrimonial Captain. Shuffle, a merry footman, gives his opinion on this matter, and describes the Colonel of Belmont's regiment as so formidable to the quiet of the sex, that Lady Emily, with the perverseness which it is the bold privilege of the stage to attribute to the ladies, determines on seeing this fatal Colonel, and falling in love with him at first sight. Mr. Matchem refuses, as his choice is the son of an old friend, &c. Belmont is announced, and Rakely enters. The Colonel had ascertained the purport of Matchem's correspondence, and through mingled frolic and revenge for some sarcasms on himself in the letter, had determined to come as Belmont, having dispatched the luckless Captain on some imaginary business. Rakely is recognised by Shuffle, who had been his footman, and whom he is forced to bribe to secrecy. Rakely is received by Matchem, who discovers innumerable resemblances in him to his old friend Jack Belmont, &c. Lady Emily, preposessed against the Captain, repels him, and panegyrises the Colonel, to Rakely's infinite embarrassment and gratification. But the real Belmont is now announced. This throws all parties into confusion, and most of all, the Colonel and his confidente. Shuffle, anxious to prevent an interview, proposes to meet the new intruder, and induce him to leave the house by a representation of the calamities that his obstinacy might produce. The true Captain, however, is inexorable; forces his way into Matchem's presence, who upbraids him with imposture, and bursts upon him with the discovery that he is the proscribed Colonel. Lady Emily ventures in, and recognises Belmont, as her pre-server at the Opera House from some riot, an event that had made a deep impression on her gratitude. She is by no means sorry for the intrusion. But now Rakely comes in, in the idea that Belsuout has been driven off. He is overwhelmed, and Belmont triumphs over him, by actually adopting the character which has been forced on him, and acting the Colonel. Rakely bears it all submissively, as becomes a Captain. The equivoque is thus flung from side to side, till at length Shuffle's blundering opens all eyes, and Col. Belmont gains the lady.

This piece, which is a translation, or rather adaptation from the French, is from the pen of MR. KENNY, the author of Raising the Wind, and does much credit to his tact.

Much of its success naturally depends upon the acting, and we have never seen better bits than TERRY gave us in the match-maker; JONES was all life and animation, and OXHERRY'S Shuffle was highly entertaining; MRS. CHAT-TERLEY wants a little subduing—her voice and manner, in the part of Lady Emily, would bear softening-animation does not mean violence, nor is pointed delivery of a necesaity noisy.

The piece was highly applauded, but we should say, more applauded than it required to be. We very much deprecate, for many reasons, the system of cramming the house with orders on the first night of a new piece, which they invariably do at the Haymarket to force it; first, because it is unfair to the audience, and a juggle upon public taste; secondly, because it subjects one to the horrid noises of people employed to applaud; and thirdly, because it is most injurious to the effect and ultimate success of the piece itself. The exertion of hands and lungs which these retainers think it their duty to make as soon as the curtain rises, deafen one, and, at the same time, give an apparent great effect to every point of the performance; but as the poor creatures get exhausted, their violence decreases, and being at last unable to clap or roar, the end of the play goes off fixtly, and one is led to suppose that the author has fallen off, when, in fact, it is the paper audience who fail us.

But the best of the joke is, that in the midst of this orderwriting system, we see placarded in the bills "Not an order can be admitted." If this is not HUMBUG the deuce is in it.
On Wednesday night, SILLY BILLY visited this theatre:

he was soon found out, and cheered by the galleries, and MR. TERRY, with all the gravity imaginable, told the audience, (by way of a compliment to the Illustrious visitor), that "GOD SAVE THE KING" would be sung, as soon as what he was pleased to call "the rocal STRENGTH" of the company could be concentrated.

The National Anthem was performed after the play, and cheered at the end of each stanza. Some of the friends of HONEY and Co. called out QUEEN; but the good sense of sudience drowned their nonsens

Admiring the amiability of SILLY BILLY's disposition. great proportion of the audience enquired where her Royal Highness the Duchess of GLOUCESTER was ?-which, as we know his Highness's domestic virtues and patriotic affection for neglected wives, seems to be a natural enough solicitude-but nobody could answer.-We, however, can affirm one thing, which may be consoling to the audience of that night, which is, that wherever her Royal Highness might have been, she was in much pleasanter society than they were.

THE QUEEN.—The funeral procession reached the outer barrier at Brunswick about 10 o'clock at night on Friday se'nnight; it was met by Lord and Lady Hood, Lady Anne Hamilton, Dr. and Mrs. Lushington, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilde. It reached the inner barrier at 12, when the mourners descended from their carriages, and joined the procession. At the Cathedral door the coffin was lifted from the car, and carried by sixteen serjeants of the Brunswick cavalry into the church and deposited in the family vault, close by the remains

LONDON MARKETS.

CORN EXCHANGE, FRIDAY, Ano. 21.

In consequence of the unsettled state of the weather, the Wheat trade was full 2s. per quarter dearer on Wednesday, and what little appeared fresh this morning met a ready sale on full as good terms. Barley and Beans command rather better prices, and Oats must be noted from 1s. to 2s. per quarter dearer, the arrival being moderate. In other articles we have no material variation to

RELUKN PRIVE OF CHA	IN, on board Ship, as under.
Kasest Red Without (worse) 944 484	Manla
Fine	Old Deans
Rye	Ort Heurs (mem)4. 834. 814
Oldssssss.	Food Ook
Barley	Pin Oats, 17s. 16:
Fine	Pale
Fine	Foland ditto
Superfines. s. s. s. s. Malt	rine
* *	I P Ma
Hog Pease27s. 29s.	1

AGGREGATE AVERAGES, AUG. 18.
Wheat, 56s 7d—Rye, 34 3d—Barley, 26, 1ed—Oats 21s 5d—Beas, 29s 4d—Peas, 32s 8d—0s 0d.

PRICES OF GOLD AND SILVER.

Portugal Gold, in Coin 0 0 0 p. oz. Foreign Gold in Bars 3 17 10}  New Doubleons 0 0 0	New Dollars . 0 4 19 p.or. Silver in Bare Stand 0 4 11 New Louis, each . 0 0 0
COURSE OF EXCHAN	GBFRIDAY, Aug. 31.
Amsterdam 12 17 C.F.	Trieste Br. ta
Ditto at Sight 12 14	Madrid 36 Cadiz M
Rotterdam 12 18	Bitboa 359 Barcelona 31
Antwerp 12 9	Seville 354 Gibraltar mi
Hamburgh 38 2	Leghorn47 Genea C
Altaus 39 3	Vanion 97 60 Water

Paris, 3 days Sight 25 70 Ditto 98 Naples .....40 Lisbon .....50 Rio Janeiro ..... Petersburg ..... — 3 U Vienna ...... 10 25 Ess. flo. Dublia .....

COMMERCIAL REPORT, FROM AUGUST 27, TO SEPTEMBER 1, INCLUSIVE.

Munifestations of stability have presented themselves in our Markets throughout the week; the value of most descriptions of merchandize is fully supported, and, in some instances, rather enhanced; of these are Indigos, which are realizing a premium of about 44. upon the last sale, with a prospect of further amendment; Tallows have enjoyed a speculative demand, and large contracts of Yellow Candle have been entered into at 44s. 6d. determinable in November next.—Coffees may also be stated at somewhat better rates .-- A respectable business has been done in Cottons, but India is unaltered, whilst Pernambucos are in request at & advance; 500 bags of these sold at 123 to 124, in bond. We may here notice that the Liverpool market is declining; the continued public sales by the Importers are alone sufficient to produce this state, a great many Sea Islands and Orienns being announced for yesterlay.-Foreign Sugars have again fallen considerably; Yellow Havannak are selling at 26s, per cwt.; B. P. Sugars go off steedily at their former value.

PRICES of the PUBLIC FUNDS.
Brocks.  Benk Stock 3 per Cent. Reduced 3 per Cent. Consols 3 per Cent Consols 4 per Cent Consols Consols for Account 4 per Cent. Consols 5 per Cent. Navy Bank Long Annuities India Bonds Exchequer Bills, 2d. Ditto, 24d. Omnium	76 75 86 75 95 106 19 40 p	Trees. 235 761 752 861 756 951 100 191 60 p	761 761 751 861 751 954 1043 191 60 p	78 27 76 2 76 2 76 2 76 2 76 2 76 2 76 2	Prid. 236 769 76 871 76 944 105 199 60 p	236 76) † 75) [ 76]   76]   76]

BIRTHS.

At Compton Terrace, Islington, Mrs. Wm. Henry Poland, of a sor The Lady of Dr. Thomson, of Conduit-street, Hanover-square, of a son, At West Hill Lodge, Titchfield, Lady Henry Paulet, of a still-born child. At Ropley Cottage, near Aires ord, the Lady of the Hon, Capt. Rodney, R. N. of a daughter.

At Surhiton-house, on the 25th inst. the Lady of Alderman Garrett, of a On the 12th inst. Mrs. Brown, the Ludy of Crisp Brown, Esq. of Noteich, of a son; the loyal Alderman had the child baptised by the names of Gorge Augustus.

MARRIAGES.

J. S. Wright, Esq. of Bullcote-ladge, Nattinghamalire, to Caroline Lady

F. Creswell, jun. Esq. to Rachel, second daughter of Joseph Fry, Esq. F. Creavell, jun. Esq. to Rachel, second daughter of Joseph Fry, Esq. J. G. Clifton Juckes, Esq. of Trelydan-hall, Montgomeryshire, to Mariane, daughter of John Swinfen, Esq. of Swinfen-house, Staffordshire.
On the 27th inst. at Conway, N. W. by the Rev. John Owen, Sir David Erskine, to Jane Silence, only daughter of the late Hugh Williams, Esq. of Sonway.
At St. Andrew's, Holborn, W. J. Ching, Esq. of Barrister at Law, to May Ann, eldest daughter of Samuel Comyn, Esq. of Serjeant's lau.
On the 17th inst. James Major, Esq. of Foyle View, Londonderry, Barrister at Law; to Catharine, niere to J. W. Croker, Esq.
At Mary-le-Bone Church. Ge rege Pennell, Esq. brether-in-law of J. W. Croker, Esq. of the Admiralty, to Sephia, second daughter of Major-General Campbell.

DIED.

In Portland-place, Anne, wife of Sir J. Graham, Bart, M.P. for Callide.
At Dublin, Leetin, wife of Lieut. Colonel R. H. de Montmoreur.
At Kensington, Mrs. Robecca Prances Payton, youngest daughter of the late Admiral Peyton late Admiral Peyton.

The Rev. Jonathan Williams, in his 70th year: he expired on his val home from Maker, where he had been to dine with the Bishop of Exete. On Tuesday, the 28th, John Key, Esq. of Dennark Hill.

At Wootton Wawen, Warwickshire, in his 86th year, the Rev. J. Ellis, D.D. Rector of Leadenham, and Vivar of Sibsey, in Lincelnshire.

At Stevenage, the Rev. U. Perkins, of Huntingdon.

At his house, at Elsted, Surrey, John Foulkes, Esq.

On Friday last, at Beckenham, in Kent, Wm. Cyristopher Cuppage, Esq.

On the 26th uit. at Oakwood, hear Chichester, Louisa, third daughter of Sir George Hilaro Barlow, Bart, and G. C. B. in her 23d year.

On Sunday morning, at the house of Lady Blake, Bury St. Edmunda's, 24 an advanced age, Mrs. Ann Fergus.

On Sunday morbing, at the house of Lady Blake, Bury St. Sammass, an advanced age, Mrs. Ann Fergus.

On Monday, the 20th inst. at Twickenham, the Rev. Henry P. Beauchamp, A. M. Feilow of King's College, Cambridge.

On Thursday, the 16th inst. in the 85th year of his age, Wm. Hunt, Esq. of the Fouth Sea House.

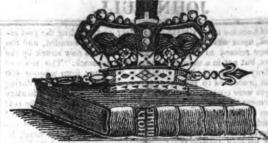

On Friday last, in the 65th year of his age, Wm. Wilson, Esq. of Worlowhouse. Oxfordshire Sunday, the 26th inst. at Brighton, Charles Henry Cazenove, Esq.

LONDON: Printed and Published by R. T. WEAVER, at No. 11, JOHNSON'S COURT, FLEET-STREET, when only Communications to the Editor, (post paid) are received.

THE KING.

BUL.

CHITANAL SECTION OF

" FOR GOD, THE KING, AND THE PEOPLE!"

No. 39.

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1821.

Price 7d.

THE OVERTURE, with the favourite AIRS in the GRAND

THE OVERTURE, with the favourite AIRS in the GRAND CORONATION, as performed with unbounded applause at the Theatre Royal, Drury-Lane, commosed and arranged for the Piane Forte, by T. Cooke, price 3s.—Published, and sold by Chappell, and Co. Music Sellers to His Majests, No. 50, New Bond-street.

MOZARTS and ROSSINI'S OPERAS, FOREIGN EDITIONS.

JUST imported, by T. BOOSEY and Co. 28, Holles-street, Oxford-street, arranged for the Piane Forte, with Italian and German words, and elegantly printed on fine paper, the COMPLETE OPERATIC WORKS of MOZART, in 10 vols. price 81. 8s. Each Opera may be had separately, at the following prices: Don Juan, 11.—Figare, II. 5s.—Il Flauto Magico, 18s.—Tius, 19s.—Cose fan tatte, II. 5s.—Idomence, II. 6s.—L'Eulevement du Serail, II. 2s. 6d.—Il Direttore, 7s. 6d.—Opera Songs not contained in his known Operas, II. Also, the following OPERAS by ROSSINI: I Turco in Italia, 35s.—La Garza Ladra, II. 19s.—Tanered, II. 19s.—L'Italian in Algieri, II. 18s.—Elizabeth, II. 5s.—L'Ingane Fellee, 18s.—Othelle, II. 5s. A Second Supplement to T. Boosey and Co.'s General Catalogue, containing their late extensive lonportations, is just published, price 1s.

NEW THEATRE-ROYAL, HAYMARKET.

MR. TAYLEURB most respectfully informs the Public, that his BENEFIT is fixed for TUESDAY NEXT, September II. 1821, when will be performed (second time) the OPERA of the MARRIAGE of FIGARO. After which (never acted at this Theatre) a Comic Sketch, in One Act, called the ACTRESS of ALL-WORK; or, MY COUNTRY COUSIN. The Actress of All-Work, by Mrs. Tayleure. In the course of the Evening, Mr. Tay care will sing a Comic Song (written expressly for him by a popular Dramatic Author) called "62, What a Row; or, The Adventures of a Steam Packet." The Performances to conclude with the Favourite Burlesque Entertainment of BOMBASTS FURIL680. General Bombastes, Mr. Tayleure; in which he will introduce an entirely new Oomic Olio.—Tickets and Pinces for the Boxes, to be had of Mr. Tayleure. No. 7, Panton-square, Coventry-street; and

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that Application is intended TOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that Application is intended to be made to Parliament in the ensuing Session, for leave to bring in a Bill or Bills for MAKING and MAINTAINING a TURNPIKE ROAD from PECKHAM, in the PARISH of CAMBERWELL, in the COUNTY of SURREY, to the KENT ROAD, in the same PARISH and COUNTY the whole of which said intended Road is within the said Parish and County and for making and maintaining, all necessary Footpaths, Sewers, Drains, and Bridges thereto, and particularly a Bridge over the Grand Surrey Canal, with Approaches thereto; and for levying Tolls, and for lighting and watching Bowyer-lane and the New Road from Kennington to Camberwell, in the several Parishes of Lambeth and Camberwell, in the said County of Surrey, and other Roads, Streets, and Piaces within the said Parish of Camberwell, not already lighted and watched under any existing Act or Acts of Parliament.

SMIRKE'S SHAKSPEARE, No. 2.

SMIRKE'S SHAKSPEARE, No. 2.

Just published,
The Second Number of LLUSTRATIONS OF THE SHREW, being the Second Number of LLUSTRATIONS OF SHAKESPEARE, from Pictures painted expressly for this Work by ROBERT SMIRKE, Esq. R.A. Engraved in the finest style by the most Eminent Historical Engravers. The Play illustrated is published at the same time.

No. 3. "Merry Wives of Windsor," will appear in November.

Printed for Rodwell and Martin, New Bond-street; and sold by Colnagbi and Co. Cockspur-street, and the principal Booksellers in the United Kingdom.

HEBREW GRAMMAR.

Just published, by SAMUEL BAGSTER, No. 15, Paternoster-row,
A HEBREW GRAMMAR. By the Rev. FRED. NOLAN;
Price 2s. 6d. Where may be had, the GREEK, LATIN, CHALDEE,
SYRIACK, FRENCH ITALIAN, SPANISH, and GERMAN Grammars,
2s. 6d. each, forming, with the VOCABULARY now at Press, a FOLYGLOTT GRAMMAR, in which the Genius of the principal Ancient and Modern Languages is explained, upon an uniform plan, and by a new and simple principle of Analysis, applied to the improvements of the latest and most anaroved Gramwarians. most approved Grammarians.

CARY'S BOOK OF THE ROADS.

Just published, price 13s. in boards, or 14s. 6d, half bound, dedicated, by permission, to the Right Hon, the Postmaster General, a New Edition of CARY'S ITINERARY, carefully corrected; being an accurate Survey of the GREAT ROADS, direct and cross, throughout England and Wales, with part of Scotland, made by command of His Majeste's Postmaster General, for official purposes; with routes to upwards of 9000 Places not given in any other work of this description; the whole of the Noblemen and Gentlemen's Scats; a complete List of the London and Provincial Stage Coaches; Maps of the principal Watering Places, and a general Map of England and Wales, Also a detailed Account of the New Holyhead Road, pointing out the improvements which have taken place, and those in contemplation, from the Survey of Mr. Telford, made by order of the Partiamentary Commissioners. Note—This Work may be had bound with a Set of County Maps, of a corresponding size, price 1l, 16s. calf git.—Published by John Cary, 85, St. James's street, and may be had of the principal Booksellers throughout the Kingdom.

ON THE VIRTUES OF A CRUST OF BREAD.

Pooksellers throughout the Kingdom.

ON THE VIBTUES OF A CRUST OF BREAD.

Just published, price 2s.

A TREATISE on the VIRTUES and EFFICACY of a CRUST of BREAD, eat early in a morning fasting; to which are added, some particular Remarks concerning Cures accomplished by the Saliva, or fasting Spittle, as well when externally, applied, as when internally given, in the Schryy, Gravel. Stone Rheumatism, and divers other Diseases arising from Obstructions. By a PHYSICIAN. The Seventh Edition.—Sold by Burgoss and Bill, Medical and General Booksellers, 55, Great Windmill-street.

WILSON ON THE URINARY ORGANS, &c.
Just published, price 14s, boards,

ECTURES on the STRUCTURE and PHYSIOLOGY of the MALE URINARY ORGANS of the HUMAN BODY; and en the Nature and Treatment of their Diseases; delivered before the Royal Cellere of Surgeons of London in the Summer of the Year 1821.—By JAMES WILSON, F.R.S. Professor of Anatomy and Surgery to the College; Lecturer on Anatomy and Surgery at the Hunterian School in Great Windmill-street.—London: Printed for Burgess and Hill, Great Windmillstreet, Haywarket.

MEDICAL CATALOGUES

MEDICAL CATALOGUES.

Just published, price 1s. 6d.

CALLOW'S CATALOGUE of a MODERN COLLECTION of MEDICAL WORKS, containing a List of all the Lectures delivered London. Also, his CATALOGUE of SECOND-HAND MEDICAL in London. Also, his CATALOGUE of WORKS, in various Languages, price 2s. 6d. 16, Prince's-street, Soho.

SWINBORNE'S FARMER'S COMPLETE ACCOUNT BOOK;

Also,
2. MEYERS' SPORTMAN'S DIRECTORY; or, Park Camekeeper's Companion. Third Edition, with Cuts of Nets, Guis, &c. price 6s. boards.—
Sold by Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, London, and by all Booksellers.

PRACTICAL and UNIVERSAL SYSTEM of GAUGING.
Just published, price 9s. 6d, in Beards, or 10s. 6d, very strongly and neatly half tound.

THE UNIVERSAL GAUGER of GREAT BRITAIN and IRELAND, and General Spirit Calculator: being a Practical System of Gauging, by Pen, Sliding Rule, Tables, Callipers, and Logarithms, according to the Measures hitherto legally adopted in the British Dominions: and also according to the new Imperial Gallon; and containing upwards of 40,000 Original Calculations on Gauging, Spirits, &c.—By WILLIAM GUTTERIDGE.—London: Printed for Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, Paternosber-row.

By This Work contains also a general Spirit Calculator and Ready Reckover, both at groot strength, and at 7 per Cent. above proof; and a Table for finding the Value of any number of articles at any price, from a Parthing ad infinitum, by only a simple operation of Multiplication: Also the Use of Hydremeters, Sacharometers, and Lactumeters, &c. &c.

THE NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE, (New Series) printed on

THE NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE, (New Series) printed on a new and very improved plan, containing, besides the usual Varieties in Art, Science, Criticisms, the Drawn, Politics, and Commerce,—I. The Continuation of Mr. Campbell's Lectures and Commerce,—II. Happiness.—III. Posterity.—IV. Pseudo Gentlemen.—V. The Mountain King, a Swedish Legend.—VI. The Brothers.—VII. Ugoliso.—VIII. Youth and Love.—IX. Earl Bristel's Farewell.—X. The Daise.—VII. Noise.—XII. Cant.—XIII. Nice Men.—XIV. On Enthusiasm.—XV. On the Study of Political Economy.—XVI. On Innovations in the English Enguage.—XVII. Letters from Spain.—XVIII. On the German Peasanty.—XIX. Humbold's Traveis.—XXI. Sonnet from Felicaia.—XXI. On the Manners of the Abyssiniaus.—XXII. Original Correspondence.

Printed for Henry Colburn and Co. Conduit-street; Bell and Bradfute, Edinburgh; and John Cumming, Dublin.

STOPPED, on a suspicious Person, offering them for sale, who says he found them in Dublin, A PACKET of LETTERS, several Amorous, some Political, and others of a Serious cast, addressed to and from Persons of the first Distinction, which will be returned to the owner, on pr ducing proof, on application to Mr. Johnston, 98, Cheapside, London.

17 If not claimed in a few days, the different Letters will be specified in our next Paper.

BLAGDON, SOMERSETSHIRE.-TO BE LET, a handsome BLAGDON, SOMERSETSHIRE.—TO BE LET, a handsome and truly comfortable DWRLLING HOUSE, very recently neatly furnished, &c. comprising a dining and drawing room, a spacious chinapantry, &c. twe kitchens, a dairy, laundry, and suitable offices, with both sorts of water, seven bed chambers, a study, with three large dressing rooms adjoining; a double Coach House, two Stables, two Kitchen Gardens, and Picasure Ground, eight Acres of Land, and more if wanted, and also a large Orchard.

These Premises are situated at Blaydon, at a small distance from the new Bath Turnpike Road, and are eleverables from the Howells, seventeen from Bath, ten from Wells, and twelve from a fashionable watering place.

The situation of Blagdon is truly healthy and highly interesting, the roads very good, and the neighbourhood rarely to be equalled.—Further yarticulars may be known by applying at the Office of Mr. Whitley, of Wrington, near Bristol. Letters to be tree of postage.

Wrington, 26th August, 1821.

Wrington, 26th August, 1821.

SAFE INVESTMENT!— HENRIETTA-STRRET, BRUNS-WICK-SQUARE!—TO ZE SOLD, in this desirable Street, a complete FAMILY HOUSE of Eleven Rosum, Let on Lease, about Ten Years unexpired, to an unexceptionable Tenant (who has expended from £300 to £500 on the Premises) at £84 per anum. He also insures. Lowest Price, £800, Purchaser, of course, to pay for Assignment. Ground Rent £25, and Original Lease about 85 years unexpired.

Note—The Tenant has resided eleven years in the House, which can be viewed only by his permission. Carlts will not be given except to those Applicants who leave their Address, to be obtained of Mr. Rayner, No. 10, Henus Terrace, White Styles, Chelsea. Letters paid. Principals only treated with. It is repeated (to save trouble) the lowest price is mentioned.

North Deven Caille, New Leicester Sheep, and Suffolk Pusch Horse treated with. It is repeated (to save trouble) the lowest price is mentioned.

North Devon Cattle, New Leicester Sheep, and Suffolk Puzeh Horse.

Steck.

M.R. CHILDE'S ANNUAL SALE will commence at the FARM.

YARD, KINLET, near BENDLEY, on MONDAY, the 1st of Oct.

1921, at Ten o'Clock, when there will be SOLD powards of PORTY HEAD of CATTLE, of the pure North Devon Breed; consisting of in-calf cowa and Heifers, stituted to most valuable Bulls, and Bullocks that are well adapted to feed or to work; in addition to which, there will be a few very lat Cows, and some that are barren and its a torward state, and voing Bulls either Sold or be Let during the essuing somes. Near a HUNDRED CHOICE EWES and THEAVES, that are descended from very superior Sheep of Mr. Buckley, of Normanios Hill, from whom Mr. Childe has regularly hired Rams the last thirty vears; and a like number of SHEAR HOG WETHERS, in a good state for the butcher, or to put to turnips; and several capital SUFFOLK MARES, that are stinted to Mr. Childe's Punch Stallion; and some very excellent and powerful and perfectly sound GELDINGS, from the best Stock in the County of Suffolk.

To CAPITALISTS, AGRICULTURISTS, and OTHERS.—EDMONTON MIDDLESEX.

Very eligible and truly desirable Estates, with an excellent Residence, adapted for the accommodation of a Gentleman's Family of respectability, and 165 Aeres of Land, only seven miles from town, with immediate possession.

TO BE SOLD BY AUCTION,

very eligible and truly desirable Estates, with an excellent Restatence, adapted for the accommodation of a Gentleman's Family of respectability, and 165 Aeres of Land, only seven miles from town, with immediate possession.

TO BE SOLD BY AUCTION,

By R. PEARE,

At the Mart, on Monday, September 17, at Twelve (without reserve) by order of the Executors of the late John Whitbread, Esc.

THAT highly esteemed and valumble PROPERTY, known as NIGHTINGALE HALL FARM, equal to Freehold, being Capyhold of Inheritance, subject only to a quit rent of £5, 13s. per annum, and a fine certain of £25, 19s. 10d. very desirably situated at MARSH SIDE, in the Parish of EDMONTON, a fine part of the County of Middlesex, about seven miles from London, and bounded on the east side by the navigable river Lea; consisting of a capital House o handsome elevation, embracing many interesting and picturesque views of the Essex hills and surrounding country, and at for the immediate occapancy of a Family of respectability, being in perfect order and a most substantial state of repair; with attached and detached Offices of every description; excellent Garden, laid out with much taste, and planted with the choicest fruit trees: Fish Pond, neat Fore Court, superior Farm Yard, surrounded by numerous well-arranged Buildings, including two spacious Barns, Smith's Shop, Wheeher's Shop, Cattle and Cart Sheda; Stabling for sixteen horses, with Hay and Straw Lofts over; Granary, Potatoe washing Shod, and Figeries; a Rick Yard, an extensive Potatoe House, and 159 Acres 2 Roods of Arable, Pasture, and Mursh Land, lying very complete in a Ring Fence, with good roads in all directions, and bounded on the east side by the Javeigable river Lea. To the Capitalist, the Agriculturist, or any Gentleman requiring Property, either for investment or basiness, this Estate particularly deserves attention, the well-known system of agriculture pursued by the Javeigable river Lea. To the Capitalist, the Agriculturist, or any Gentleman requiring Property, either for inv

By Mr. PARNELL, On the Premises, on Wednesday, Sept. 19, and following Day, at Twelve each day.

ALL the genuine HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE of Captain ALL the genuine HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE of Captain Bradburne, at Woodlands Park, near Bagshot, Sirrey, the late residence of Lady Fraser; and the small but highly valuable collection of Paintings, chiefly of the Old School, including specimens by Griffier, Abraham, Stork, D. Tenniers, Vanblomen, Vanderdoer, Hobbima, with a few sporting pictures by Elmer, Ward, &c. and the celebrated Painting by Moreland, "The Boy burning Furze," three capital fowling-pieces by Mortimer, Sykes, &c. The Farmiture comprises is prime seasoned beds and suitable bedding, handsome four post, tent, and other bedsteads: excellent manogany wardrobe and bookcases, double and single chests of drawers, cheval and toliet glasses, with the neural description of well manufactured exampler furnity re, drawing and dining room suites, consisting of a noble set of patent dining tables, two sideboards, morine French wisdow vertains, two brilliant pier glasses, mahogany library, Pembroke, eard, sofa, and occasional tables; mahogany and japanned chairs and sofas, Frassels and Kild terminster carpets, kitchen recuisities; dairy and brewing nieusils, and miscellaneous articles.—To be viewed on Tuesday previous and mornings of sale, when catalogues may be had on the Premises; at the Auction Mark; and of Mr. Parnell, Kingston, Surrey, and 2, Weilingtonstreet, Stramb.

THREE £30,000 MONEY! — CARROLL, the Contractor, having published the Scheme at full length in all the Town and Country Papers, has now only to recapitulate the chief points of the Lottery, which are THREE PRIZES of £30,000! THIRTY OTHER CAPITALST NOT TWO BLANKS TO A PRIZE! EVERY PRIZE STERLING MONEY! EVERY TICKET DRAWN SINGLY! NO STOCK PRIZES INO CLASSES! DRAWING BEGINS 30th OCTOBER!

The public approbation already expressed renders it unnecessary for the Contractor to offer any observations on the acknowledged merits of this Scheme. Pickets and Shares are so ling at CARROLL'S FOITUNATE OFFICES, No. 19, CORNHILL, and No. 25, OXFORD-STREEF, where he sold the last £30,000 Prize ever drawn; also, No. 46, a Prize of £21,000, and many other Capitals, is the Lottery just ended.

Bish has sold more than half of all the £30,000 Prizes that have ever been drawn!—Of course he anticipates similar good fortune in the disposal of the £30,000 Prizes in the present Lottery, which he begs strongly to recommend to his best Friends the Public.—There are Three of £30,000, and 6,711 other Prizes, all Moosy!—Not Two Blanks to a Prize!—Ne Classes!—No Stock Prizes!—Every Ticket drawn singly, and £30,000 Money for the very first-drawn Prize First Day, 30th OCTOBER, (next-Month).

Montey for the very first-drawn Prize First Day, 30th OCTOBES, (next-Month.)

Tickets and Shares are selling at BISH'S Offices, 4. Cornhill, and 9. Charing Cross, where he sold, last Lottery, Prizes of £21,000, £20,006 £21,000, and 16 other Capitals.

D'F The Prices of Stocks are affixed, hourly, against BISH'S Office, in Cornhill, by which the Public can see the fluctuations.

ONE HUNDRED BEAVER HATS.—ROBERT LLOYD, of 92, Newgate-street, original maker, and inventor of upwards of 100 different shaped GENTLENEN'S BEAVER HATS, which for beauty, quality, and taste, are unrivalted in Great Britain. The process of manufacture is new, and so decidedly superior to the old, that although the price is only 25s. they will wear longer than any two of those initiation Benver Hats commonly charged a guinea; another great advantage is, that is so unequalled a variety of forms, the weaver can choose what heat becomes his person. Sik Hats, with double edges, 18s, each, a most incomparable article.

N. B.—A fourth Edition of Lloyd's Trealise on Hats, price 1s.

PARA fourth Edition of Lloyd's Trealise on Hais, pulce is.

THE NEW CHINTZ FURNITURE and MORKEN WARE—HOUSE, No. 124, Oxford Street, nearly opposite Hanever Square, has been established in consequence of the recest extraordinary reduction in the Prices of manufactured Articles for the express purpose of retailing to Families in suitable, mantities for the express purpose of retailing to Families in suitable, mantities for the express purpose of retailing to Families in suitable, mantities for the express purpose of retailing to Pennitte Chinty Furnitures, Morkens, Merino Damarks, &c. &c. Without wishing to delude the Public by misrepresentations, the Proprietors, MILES and EDWARDS, (from the corner of Great Turnstile, Holborn,) have only to request the favour of impection, and they feel condition the appropriate of the superiority of their Patterns, and the immensa reduction in the Prices, will ensure them the support of those Families to whom a Saving of full one-third in the furnishing of their houses is a consideration.

CUNS, by the most exteened London Makers.—Mesus, KENT, AVERY, and VINCENT, No. 63, Bond-street, corner of Brock-street, Hanover-square, beg to acquaint Noblemen and Sportsmen, they have now for SALE, the best and most extensive STGCK of Double and Single Barrelled GUNS in the Kingdom; among which are about 100 of Joseph and John Manton's, and a proportionable Assortment of all the other approved Makers, viz. Wm. Smith, Purdy, Moore, Stevens, Wiktuson, Morthmer, Egg., Forsyth, Nock, Clark, &c.: the whole of which are warranted, and if mut approved, may be exchanged within twelve months. Also Travelling, Helster, and Poeket Pistols, from 14s. a pair upwards. The greatest price given for all kinds of Fire Arms, Swords, &c.

BELL'S NEW COMMERCIAL REGISTER & PRICE CURRENT, is now fairly and ully before the Public, and he flatters himself it may be considered as the most perfect and beautiful specimen of type graphy and commercial arrangements that has ever been presented to public observation; a reference to the last Number, being the Fifth, price Is, published yesterday, will justive the most approving and applauding observations that can be pronounced. It cannot but be gratifying to every person of business to contemplate the great advantages that may be-derived from a regular weekly perusal of it. If in reference merely to, the articles in which the reader is partisularly concerned. It may be had of all the Newsmen.

SATURDAY'S GAZETTE, SEPT. 1.

CROWN-OFFICE, September I, 1821.

Member returned to serve in this present "aritament.—University of Oxford.—Richard Heber, Esq. Master of Arts, of Brasen Nose College, in the room of the Right Hon. Sir Wm. Scott, now Baron Stowell, one of the Peers of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

Commissions signed by the Lord Lieutenant.
Clackmananshire Militia.—J. W. Yonng, Esq. to be Captain.
Yeomany Cavalry.—J. Tait, Gentt. to be Second Lieut., vice Stein.—W. Geddes, Gent. to be Cornet, vice Tait.
Commissions in the Derbyshire Yeomanny Cavalry, signed by the Lord Lieutenant.
Cornet R. C. Pole to be Lieut., vice Balgny.—J. Gell, Gent. to be Cornet, vice Pole.—The Rev. W. Sitzvell to be Chaplain, vice Wilmot.
Commission in the Northern Regiment of Northumberland Local Militia, signed by the Lord Lieutenant.
H. Collingwood, Esq. to be Lieut. Colonel.

H. Collingwood, Esq. to be Lieut. Colonel.

DIVIDENDS.

Sept. 29, W. Miles, Oxford street, linen-draper.—Sept. 22, T. Houlbrooke. High Holborn, linen-draper.—Oct. 8, J. Dorrington, Manchesler, wine and spilit-dealer.—Sept. 26, H. Reynolds, Ormskirk, Lancaster, liquor merchant.—Sept. 27, W. A. D. Fotherincham, Plymouth-dock, coal-merchant.—Sept. 28, J. Gilbert, Plymouth-dock, butcher.—Sept. 24, T. Whitney and H. Whitney, Maccleslied, manufacturers.—Sept. 26, W. Holmes, North Shields, master-mariner.—Nov. 3, H. Dowsland, younger, and T. R. Davison, Old Broadstreet, insurance brokers. Sept. 22, J. Imbrie, Bucklersbury, Warehousemax.—Sept. 24, F. Hutchings, Gloucester, widow, cheesefactor,—Sept. 22, J. Mac-Master, Norfolk-street, New-road, master-mariner.

LAST NIGHT'S GAZETTE.

WAR OFFICE, SEPT. 7.

2d Beg. of Drag. Guards.—Capt. C. Chitty, from half pay 39th Post, to be 2d Beg of Drag. Gnords.—Capt. C. Chitty, from half pay 33th Foot, to be Paymaster, vice Rose.

10th Reg. of Light Dragoens.—Cornet and Lieut. Lord J. Bentinek to be Lieut. vice Drummond.

Coldstream Heg. of Foot Gnards.—Lieut. H. St. J. Mildmay to be Lieut. Coldstream Heg. of Foot Gnards.—Lieut. H. St. J. Mildmay has been completed by the Brigan and Lieut. Coldstream Heg. of Foot—Lieut. H. E. Hill to be Capt. vice Gualy.—Ensign R. S. Vicars to be Lieut. vice Hill.—W. J. Fraser, Gent. to be Ensign, vice Vicars.—79th Ditto—Lieut. A. Cameron to be Paymaster, vice M'Arthur. 2d West India Reg.—Hosp. Ass. M. Ritchieto he Ass. Surg. vice Relly.

Hospital Staff.—Ass. Surg. D. Dockard to be Surg. to the Forces.—Hosp.

Ass. J. Christie to be Hosp. Ass. to the Forces, vice Moir.

Brevet.—Col. W. Chabot to be Major-Gen. in the Army.

WHITEHALL, SEPT. 4.

The King has been pleased to nominate and appoint Miof the Arillery, on the Madras Establishment, to be a Most Honourable Military Order of the Bath. coint Major W. Merricos, to be a Companion of the WORRALL, S. and POPE, A. Bristol, bankers.

WARREN J. Bristol, bankers.

BANKRUPTS.

WARREN, J. Bridgewater, Somerset, tanber.

ELPHICK, W. West Ham, Sussex, farmer.

SAWDEN, B. S. Bridfington Quay, Yorkshire, corn-facter.

BAYNES, C. Weston Point, Cheshire, inneceper.

COOPER, J. Newport, Isle of Wight, victualler.

YELL, J. and YELL, J. the younger, Woodham-Ferris, Essex, jobbersEGIJING, J. T. Great Russell-street, Covent Garden, victualler.

EYBE, F. and SCHMAECK, A. of Bury-court, Saint Mary Axe, mex-ants.

ALEXANDER, G. Aldermanbury, linen and wooilen-lyares.
NELSON, J. Kendail, Westmoreland, coru-dealer.
MARSHALL, J. Nine-Elms, Battersea, tanner.
GIBSON, J. South-street, Finebury-square; merchant.

306

TURSDAY'S GAZETTE

TURSDAY'S GAZETTE.

PARTEERSHIPS DISSOLVED.

W. and T. Peacock, and W. Bampton, Sulisbury Square, so far as relates to T. Peacock, and G. Lea, Windle, Lancastare, nail-manufacturera.—Loader and Atkinson, Ludyate Hill, uphoisterers.—J. and W. H. Blackburn, Bradford, printers.—Prit and Goater, Duke Street, Manchaster Square, watch smakers.—Praser and Anderson, Lime Street, Manchaster Square, watch smakers.—Fraser and Anderson, Lime Street, and Cristic, Rigin, straw-hat-makers.—Norms and Booth, Roddish Nills, Lancashire, bleachers.—Jenkins and Butt, Tewkesbury, malteiers,—W. and W. G. Cowley, and J. S. Poantney, Bristol, scholeasle-stationers.—W. and W. G. Cowley, and J. S. Poantney, Bristol, scholeasle-stationers.—J. Hopewell, Dean Street, Soho, and W. Jones, Gloucester Place, New Read, wholesale-grocers.

BENNRT, J. Marham, miller.

BODDY, W. Hillingdon, farmer.

CLOUTMAN, Curtain Road, carpenter.

WILLIAMS, R. Liangeini, draper.

BANKRUPTS.

CROWDEN, R. Knightsbridge, boot and shoe-maker.

DAVIS, T. Great Barr, Staffordshire, malster.

DRIVBR, S. Henaster, soap-manufacturer.

GOUNDRY, G. Newcastle-upon-Tyne, bacon-dealer.

HAR'T, J. and M'ALPIN, J. Carlisle, hosiers.

KNOWLES, J. and WALKER, H. Balford, machine-makers.

LANGLBY, J. O. H. Bristol, porter-seller.

RAWLINS, J. Whitchaven, grocer.

STAFFORD, T. Bath, jeweller.

WOODWARD, J. and SHENTON, J. Birmingham, spirit-merchants.

DIVIDENDS.

Sept. 28, J. Hughes and R. Challea, Storrington, common-brewers.—Sept. 28, C. F. Woolcot, High Holborn, window glass-cutter.—Sept. 26, R. Padeller, Wotton under-Edue, common-brewer.—Sept. 26, R. and G. H. Findley, Admy's Court, Old Bryad Street, sike, manufacturer.—Sept. 28, R. Day, Crooked Lane, oil-broker.—Sept. 28, J. Howett, St. Martin's Lane, builder.—Sept. 29, J. Smith, Coln, St. Aldwyns, Gloucestershire, tallow-chandler.—Sept. 29, J. Pitt, Cirencester, woolstapler.—Sept. 26, R. W. Bution, Marthorough, builder.—Oct. 1, W. Haynes, Lowestoff, fish-merchant.—Sept. 27, M. Burnett, Lisle Street, cabinet-maker.—Sept. 27,

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

PARIS, SEPT. 2.—Previous to quitting Paris, the Duke of Wel-

PARIS, SEPT. 2.—Previous to dufting rars, the Duke of Wellington had a grand conference with the Baron de Vincent and M. Pozzo di Borgo, the Austrian and Russian Ministers.

It has been erroneously stated, that the Prince de Talleyrand was about to return to Paris; his Excellency continues to reside at Valencay, and is not expected at Paris. His private Secretary uitted the capital on Friday to join the Prince.

SEPT. 4.—It is reported that His Majesty the King of England, on his route to Hanover, will pass a few days in Paris, under the title of the Duke of Brunswick.—Journal de Paris.

It is said that the King of England, on his journey by way of Paris, will be lodged in the Palace de l'Elysee.—Constitutionnel. A rumour prevailed at Gren-ble, on the 28th ult. that the King of Sardinia had been assassinated. The Government of Savoy has put forth a contradiction to this false report.

VIENNA, Aug. 22.— The King of England will reside, on his visit here, at the Palace of Prince Nicholas Esternazy, in the suburh Meine-Hille, where great preparations have been made for his Majesty's reception. The Princes of the Germanic Confedera-tion will send Ministers here to compliment His Majesty in the name of their respective Sovereigns. His Majesty is expected here about the latter end of October. NOREMBURG, Aug. 27.—According to intelligence from Semlin, by the way of Vienna, serious movements have been manifested in Servia, the inhabitants being prepared for a general insurrection at the first shot fired between the Russians and Turks.—It is said that in case of a war between Russians and Turks.—It is said that in case of a war between Russia and the Ottoman Porte, a Prussio-Bayanamy is to assemble on the banks of the Elbe, and an Austro-Bayanamy on the right bank of the Rhine, in order to maintain tranquillity in the interior of Germany and in Italy.

tain tranquillity in the interior of Germany and in Italy.

Franksont, Aug. 26.— It is said, that the King of England, when on his Continental journey, will visit Berlin.

A second Russian army, of 180,000 mea, is now forming on the banks of the Dwina. A third, which will consist of 150,000 men, will stao-be on foot here in the course of two months. All these troops will be abundantly supplied with ammunition and provisions.
BRUNASSON, Aug. 25.— Yesterday was performed here the funeral ceremony of the entrance and depositing of the body of the late Queen of England, with all the solemaity and attachment to the House of their Princes which characterises the brave Brunswickers.—The Royal corpse, the conveyance of which from Engwickers.—The Royal corpse, the conveyance of which from England by way of Stadt, Celle, &c. had been directed by Sir George Nayler, and Mr. Calvert, of the Lord Chamberlain's Office, was received at Steinhoft, about a league from this city. Eight post-houses and three postillions were sent to that place. These brought the body, which was accompanied by a detachment of Brunswick Hussars to the White Horse, a short English mile from the city; and four postillions with torches rode beside it. At the White Horse, the funeral car, with eight horses from the Prince's stables was ready to receive the body, and convey it to the vault in the Barg Church. The citizens of Brunswick, however, would not allow of this, and drow the car to the church themselves. The houses and gardens before the gates, and the streets through which the procession passed were illuminated. The funeral car was surrounded by a great number of wax tapers. Immediately behind it followed several hundred merchants and citizens with torches. Behind the tape of the stringer of the street of the Ramilie. hind the train of the citizens followed the carriages of the English. and the train of the citizens followed the carriages of the kinglen, Austin, &c. and several carriages belonging to persons of this city, attached to the House of Brunswick. A signal was given by sky-rockets for tolling of the bells of all the churches in the city, which continued from half-past eleven to half-past twelve o'clock, when the processions to the city when the processions are continued from the city of the continued from the city of t terminated. There were certainly 20,000 persons who followed the Boyal Corpae, and the greatest tranquillity and order prevailed during the whole of the funeral solemnity.—The church was hung with black, and sixty young Ladies, all dressed in white with black are transported by the corpus and accompanied it with way (sparse). sashes, received the corpse, and accompanied it, with wax-tapers, to the vault. The Rev. Mr. Wolfe delivered an excellent discourse.

Letters from Lishon of the 22d ult. state, that at a general review e Portuguese troops, under the order m of Gene the military Commandant of the city of Lisbon, in the square of Terreiro do Paco, in the presence of the King, who was at one of the windows of the Palace, the King being in conversation with several persons of rank, accidentally turned his back to the troops e square. Gen. Sepulvida observed to several of the officers, that the King had placed himself in that position, in order to shew his contempt and disgust of the army. This became the signal for a general oppoor throughout every regiment under review, which wociferated from every side,—"Fora, fora" (off, off). This exclamation was addressed to the King; the King assured the troops that nothing was farther from his intentions than that of being guilty of what was attributed to him. This declaration had the effect of subduing the anger of the troops.

MADRID, Ave. 23 .- During the last three days we have been in a continual state of commotion and alarm. On the 20th inst. at nine in the evening, an assemblage in front of the prison, in which are southed several of the Royal Body Guards, who dispersed the populace on their offering insults to the King about a month ago, began singing the popular obnoxious Trage is Perro. As their continuity assailed, and the conduct became near violent, terfered, upon which is said the opulace refused to e now struck by the soldiers, but not in a manher to burt any one much. The news of the affray soon reached the Club de la Fontana; from whence 400 persons proceeded to reinferce their confederates, and more daring outrages were committed. The Political Chief endeavoured to allay the ferment by blaming the soldiers, and almost flattering the real authors of the tamult. General Murillo was assailed with the most anseemly invectives, and the most desperate among the crowd endeavoured to arrest his progress. With his cane in his hand, he forced his way through the dense and clamorous crowd, and compelled them to disperse. From thence they proceeded in groups to the Club de la Fontana. Notorious orators falsely declared, that Morillo, with his drawn sabre, had grievously wounded many citizens. Cries of "Death to Morillo," "the head of Morillo," followed these inflammatory speeches. Next day crowds assembled in the streets. Cries for the heads of Morillo and the Ministers were re-echoed in ery quarter. The Political Chief issued a notification that the every quarter. The Political Chief issued a notification that the Minister of War had accepted the resignation of General Morillo; whose functions would be executed, par interim, by General Montemayor. This had the effect of calming the violent spirit which had been manifested by the populace. The Minister of the Ultra-Marine possessions set off express to the King at St. Ildusonsa, to inform his Majesty of what had transpired. On the 22d, much agitation prevailed. The trial of Morillo was vehemently demanded. General Morillo issued a proclamation on the night of the 21st, in which he denomous the mulicipant senersions which designing in which he denounces the malignant aspersions which designing men had cast upon his reputation, by falsely representing that he had used his sabre against the assembled people. The Journal de Paris adds, in a postscript, dated ten o'clock, on the evening of the 23d—"The King's answer is just arrived. His Majesty will not accept the resignation of General Morillo, but orders that he shall be tried by a Court Martial. This answer is not yet known by the public. An immense populace occupy the streets. An explosion is expected."

CONSTANTINGPLE, Aug. 7.—Baron Strogonoff still remains in the port wind bound; and as northerly winds frequently prevail at this season for weeks together, it is not improbable that he may be detained till the return of the messengers sent off to Petersburgh, when he refused to accept the answer to the Russian note. Government, it is said, in their anxiety to preserve peace, have since again tendered their reply, but Baron Strogonoff refuses to depart from the letter of his instructions. We are tolerably tranquil here. some Greeks have been put to death, but they are clearly within the guilty exception made in the Russian note.

A letter from Barbadoes, dated July 15, states, that much damage to the sugar crops has arisen from an universal drought, which lasted from October to the date of the letter; every pond and three-fourths of the wells in the island were dried up. CAPE OF GOOD HOPE, JUNE 23.—An Address has been pre ented to Major-General Sir R. S. Donkin, K.C.B. Governor, from the settlers at Bathurst, expressive of their gratitude for the liberal manner in which Government had provided for their necessities, and for the attentions of his Excellency to their wants, by issuing rations after their crops had failed by blight.

Bombay couriers have been received to the 28th of March. They contain a dispatch to Lieut.-General Sir C. Colville, G.C.B. Commander in Chief, from Major-General L. Smith, C.B. giving the details of an action, in which a division of the army, under Major-General's orders, succeeded in repulsing the enemy under the command of Beni Boo Ali. The principal loss fell on the right brigade, under Lieut.-Col. Warren, of the 65th Regt. Upwards of 200 of the enemy were left dead on the field; his total loss is estimated at 500. The number of prisoners taken is 236 hearing arms among whom are the two principal Chiefs; and 1000 families; the among whom are the two principal ciners, and 1000 faithlies; the tribe is effectually put down. Our loss, in killed, is 29, wounded, 173. Assistant-Surgeon Gordon was killed. The officers wounded are—65th Regt. Lieutenants Madden, (severely); Cuppage, (slightly); Ensign Malkern, (slightly): 7th Regt. Captain Stewart, (severely); Lieutenant and Adjutant Thurnam, (slightly). An armament had been detached to the Arabian Gulph, to obtain reparation and satisfaction for the gross indignities offered to the British Representative at Mocha. Captain Bruce having been unable obtain satisfaction. Captain Lumley in the Topaze, on the 3d December, made arrangements for bombarding the town of Mocha. On the morning of the 4th the action commenced, and was kept up without intermission for five hours, when a fing of truce having been sent off, two hours were allowed for determining on our demands. No answer having been returned, the bombard-ment recommenced: the boats of the squadron were at the same time manned and armed, under the command of Lieut. W. Moriarty, of the Topaze, for the purpose of occupying the north fort, spiking the guns, and blowing it up. The boats rowed to the attack under a heavy and destructive fire: after a gallant effort to obtain the object of their enterprise, the British were compelled to retreat, the gate-way having been barriended. Our loss on this occasion was most way naving seen barrierated. Our loss on this occasion was most severe, all the officers being killed or wounded. Among the former, we lament to number Lieut. B. G. Atkinson, of the Royal Marines; Mr. C. P. Gill, Master's Mate; and Messrs. Burnett and Seymour, Midshipmen: among the latter, Lieuts. Moriarty and Wright; Mr. Martin, the Boatswain; Messrs. Ward and Stephens, Midshipmen; the Boatswain's Mate, the Coxswain, a Quarter-master, and ten seamen of the Topage. Four seamen of the Company's cruizer were killed. Second Lieut. J. Wilson, of the Murine, and Lieut. Jacob, of the Artillery, severely wounded, with five seamen.

The enemy sent, for several days, flags of truce, and evinced a desire to evade any treaty, until the attack, after some further de-lays, was recommenced, when, on the 6th of January, the submission of Hajee Futteh, the offending Dolah, was received in the most formal and public manner. A large proportion of the Officers of the Topaze, the commanders of our cruisers, the Council, principal officers, and merchants of Mocha being present, Hajee Futteh was unconditionally delivered up to be dealt with as the British thought proper. A treaty was concluded on the 15th of January. It provides for the Residency guard being maintained for the future; for the Resident's being at full liberty to ride on horseback at his pleasure, to have free ingress and egress to all the gutes of Mocha, and of that of Shaik Shadeley in particular, from which Europeans have for years been excluded, and to enjoy the same liberty and freedom as our other Residencies; ground to be allowed for a co-metry; and those protected by the British fing to be free from insults; the anchorage duty of G. C. 400 on British ships abolished, and the import and export duty fixed at 2½ per Cent. There is an article also providing for the security of the British and Asiatio

The precise day for Egham races is fixed in the Racing Calendar for Sept. 18. By the enclosure act of the parish, if these races at any time cease, Runney-mead is subject to enclosure.

THE ARMY.—The following reductions are ordered to be made in the Army from the 25th of August last:—The 18th Hussurs and 19th Lancers to be disbanded. Two Troops to be reduced in each of the other Regiments of Dragoon Guards and Dragoons (except the 4th and 16th, which are ordered to the East Indies); the Officers liable to reduction to be placed on half-pay on the 25th of October Two Companies to be reduced in each Battalion of Foot Guards. Each Regiment of the Line (excepting those in the East Indies) to be reduced to Eight Companies, and the Officers liable to reduction to be placed on half-pay on the 25th October next, if at home; and if abroad, from two months after landing in England.

THE KING.

14630

A splendid Fete was given on Thursday, at the Retuna, b Dublin, by the Knights of St. Patrick, to the King. The Royal Throne was erected opposite to the Orchestra; it was festooned with erimson and a profusion of gold; the canopy of blue relet, surmounted by a Crown. Over His Majesty's chair were the Royal Arms, supported on the wings of an eagle, carved. The cornices and windows round the room were tastefully festooned with artificial flowers and laurel branches, and the windows were illuminated with variegated lamps set in the form of a star, each encircing a small transparency of the crest of a newly-installed Knight—having underneath the initial letter of each Noble Lord's title. The two windows on either side of the Throne had in them the letters G. R. and the transparencies represented the Rose, Shamrock, and Thiste. The banners of all the Knights were hung round the room, and had The banners of all the Knights were nung round the room, and had an imposing effect. The centre of the floor was chalked with the Royal Arms, surrounded by a wreath, uniting alternately the badge of the Order of St. Patrick and Irish hurp; without the wreath, were the arms in full of the several Knights, the floor was figured with shaurrocks. The supper-rooms and ball-rooms were tastefully decorated. Between twelve and one o'clock, the company sat down to supper. At the Royal table, his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant presided, surrounded by the Prince and Princess Esterhazy, Prince Lobkowitz, Prince Lardaria, Duke of Leinster, Marquis and Marchioness Conyngham, Lady E. Conyngham, the Marquisses of Headfort and Graham, Lords Sidmouth, Mount-Charles, His Majesty entered the room at Ten o'clock, dressed in a Field-Marshal's uniform, and looked in excellent bealth. The company were in full Court dresses, with the exception of the Knights and their Esquires; the Knights wore a scarlet uniform, with their ribbands. The Esquires acted as stewards. His Majest with their ribbands. The Esquires retired at half past eleven o'clock.

On Friday, His Majesty visited the Plain of Kildare; he left the Park about half past eight, in a travelling carriage, with four hones, the postitions in white and gold jackets, with servants and outriers in scarlet and gold. His Majesty was accompanied by the Marquis of Conyugham and Sir B. Bloomfield. At the Park gate, the County of Dublin gentlemen, headed by the High Sheriff, followed his Majesty's carriage, increasing in numbers as they passed on. His Majesty changed horses at Liscar, where a triumphal arch was erected across the road, covered with leurel and festoons of blue and pink silk, a gilt crown surmounting the centre, with banners of various colours. "God save the King" was sung amid the shout and cheers of the assembled multitude. The High Sheriff and the principal gentlemen of the county of Kildare were in waiting to receive the King, and accompanied him to the Curragh. His Majesty arrived at the Stand House at twelve o'clock, attended by a merous assemblage of the gentlemen and Yeomen of the Counties Dublin and Kildare, and was received on his arrival by the Duke of Leinster, and the Stewards and Gentlemen of the Turf Club, by whom His Majesty was conducted to the handsome apartment which had been added to the Stand-House, with which, and the arrangements for the occasion, His Majesty appeared highly pleased.

Unfortunately for the splendour of the scene, the rain fell at an early hour in the morning, and continued without intermission, until half past twelve, when it ceased, and the first ruce commenced. The challenge of the Royal Stakes by Mr. Battersby's Hollymount, and Mr. Kirwan's Aladdin, was won in a beautiful style by Hollymount, terminating, at five o'clock, the sports for the day. His Majesty frequently presented himself at the windows, and in the baljesty frequently presented himself at the windows, and in the balcony, in the front of the Stand-House, and acknowledged with is accustomed grace and benignity, the applicate and blessings of the very numerous assemblage of his subjects in front of the StandHouse. The interior of the building was graced by a great number of lovely and distinguished females. After partaking of a magnificent collation at three o'clock, His Majesty departed, appareatly highly gratified with the amusements of the day.

On Monday, His Majesty embarked from Dunleary; at the Upper end of the King's-road, and at the outer pier of the harbour an elegant pavilion bad been erected; it was supported by five pillars.

elegant pavilion bad been erected; it was supported by five pillars, encircled with ever-greens and foldings of crimson drapery round the top; at each corner, a small pillar was raised, from which four white flags floated, one exhibited the shamrock, another the rose, the third the thistle, and the fourth the three emblems united. The pavilion was surmounted by the British Crown, richly gilt; over the floor was spread blue cloth, and over that a rich carpet; the descent to the water's edge was also covered with carpeting to match. At the extremity of the pier the Boyal flag was boisted. The 23d Fusileers took their station at either side of the road. At wenty minutes before seven, the King arrived at Dunleary, preceded by the Lord Lieutenant, Lord Sidmouth, and the Earl of Meath. His Majesty's carriage was preceded by a troop of Lancers; the carriage was surrounded by the officers of his staff; hats and hand-kerchiefs waved in every direction, and the shouts of the immense multitude were re-echoed from the distant hills. His Majesty, on alighting, was received by the Lord Lieutenant, the Lord Mayor, and the rest of the distinguished characters present; a Royal salute was fired from the vessels in the harbour. On entering the pavilion, His Majesty bowed most graciously; he was dressed in the Windsor Uniform, with white trowsers, and round hat, and remained uncovered, the band performing God save the King. His Majesty was in excellent health and spirits. An Address was presented to His Majesty, from the inhabitants of Dublin, and Mr. O'Connell, accompanied by ten other gentlemen, presented a laurel crows. The King was pleased to express himself in the most affecting manner to those present.—" Gentlemen," said His Majesty, "I approached your shores with pleasure; I now quit them with regret; May God Almighty bless you all, ustil we again meet."—His Majesty then proceeded to the water's edge, surrounded by his Household, the Nobility, and a great number of the middle classes.— The King's boat, which was painted green, had been waiting in the harbour for three hours, under the pavilion; the rowers were dressed in blue uniforms, turned up with scarlet, their oars were painted green, and richly gilt. When His Majerty entered the boat, and during his passage to the vessel, the band played Patrick's Day. On reaching the yacht, His Mujesty remained on deck some time, waving his hat to the assembled multitude on the beach, who rem the air with their shouts. At night-fail, the boats crowded round the Royal yacht, which was brilliantly illuminated.

The following Address of the Inhabitants of Dublin, was pre-sented to the King by the Lord Mayor at the head of a deputation at the moment of his embarkation :

"To His Majesty George the Fourth, King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

"Most Gracious Sovereign,—We, the Inhabitants of the City of Dublin, assembled on an occasion, with one exception, the most interesting which has ever occurred to the Irish people, beg leave to approach your Majesty with feelings of respect, gratitude and love, to which no language can do justice—feelings arising from a consciousness, that your Majesty's paternal solicitude to promote and cherish the spirit of true Christian charity amongst all classes of your Majesty's Irish subjects, has, in a few short weeks, accom-plished more for their welfare and happiness than had been effected in the six preceding centuries.

"Your Majesty came amongst us; at your approach discord ceased, and every prejudice fled. Your Majesty has vanquished every bad passion, and united six millions of a grateful people in a boad of brotherly love to one another, and of affectionate attachment to your Majesty's Person and Throne.

"We know and feel that we have faithfully described the happy effects produced by your Majesty's presence and kindness amongst your Irish subjects; and we confidently predict, that the victory which your Majesty has thus obtained over the dissensions and prejudices of ages, will be deemed the most important ever achieved by any British King, and will contribute more materially than any event in the British annals to the strength of the empire, and the prosperity of all your Majesty's subjects.

Confident that such will be the fruits of your Majesty's labours for the welfare of our country, we have determined to erect an appropriate structure, to express these our feelings, and to convey to posterity a just impression of the glorious and bloodless victory tained by your Majesty over every bad passion; a victory much ented by our Majesty, the Laurel Crown, now most respectfully presented to your Majesty, (and intended, with all humility, to be replaced by one of Emeralds,) than any of those blood stained triumphs which have heretofore been honoured with the wreath of the conqueror.

"Fully impressed with the great and lasting benefits conferred
"Fully impressed with the great and lasting benefits conferred mpon us by your Majesty's gracious visit, we cannot witness your Majesty's departure from amongst us without feelings of the deepest regret—feelings which could not admit of consolation were it not for the hope, fondly entertained, that your Majesty will confer a like honour on your affectionate and grateful people of Ireland as frequently as shall be consistent with the necessity for the Royal presence in other parts of your Majesty's Empire."

In consequence of contrary winds the Royal squadron remained outside the harbour of Dunleary the whole of Tuesday; the wind increased till it blew a storm; the vessels taking shelter within the pier. On Wednesday morning, the wind having shifted from the southward to about N. W. and by W. His Majesty's yacitt, which was to the windward of the other vessels, on signal being made, steered easterly. Sir William Curtis was in his yacht, and steered close to the ship; but, in consequence of the wind shifting, the whole, centrary to every expectation, returned to Dunleary at five O'clock; after having been at sea seven hours. When the barge which conveyed His Majesty to the Royal George quitted the slip, Sir R. Steele, Mr. E. Moore, of Derry, Mr. Cooke, of the Royal Navy, and another gentleman, plunged into the sea and swam to the Royal barge, with one arm enthusiastically extended to the King; His Mujesty graciously shook them by the hand, saying,
"For God's sake, gentlemen, take care of yourselves!" They reached the shore in safety, but with much difficulty.
A letter from Portsmouth, dated on Thursday morning says, the Royal Squadron is hourly expected this evening; the usual preparations at the Sally Port for the disembarkation of His Majesty were made. In the course of this morning a guard of bonour will march to the water side. His Majesty, it is said, will return to town immediately, and return to honour the Portsmouth Regatta with his presence.

THE KING.—We were yesterday evening (Thursday the 6th inst. favoured with the sight of a letter from Holyhend, dated on the 5th, which says:—"Since writing the above, I have been as far as Spencer's (the Hotel), and am informed that his Majesty and the Royal Squadron are in sight, bound to Helphead; we shall, therefore, be honoured with a sight of the King." On Tuesday night there was a tremendous gale of wind; and one of the King's borses was killed by the tremendous heaving of the vessel. We are told that a small fishing-boat was run down and sunk by the Royal the crew of which escaped by holding to the rigging. Lo Sidmouth immediately ordered a very handsome sum of money for the poor fellows, by command of his Majesty, and directions were given to build a new boat. This is a royally noble treat of benevolence.—Chester Chronicle.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

THE NEW COMMISSION AGAINST HOWARD AND GIBBS .- Yesterday, the Commissioners, held their first meeting under the New

Mr. Shaw, the petitioning creditor under the present Commis-ion, claimed to prove, on a bill of Exchange for 20001. accepted by the bankrunts

Mr. Rose submitted to the Commissioners, that there did not appear, on the face of Mr. Shaw's deposition, any due consideration given to Howard and Gibbs for this bill. It appeared that the 2000l. for which this acceptance was given, was advanced for the use of the Marquis of Worcester, and not for the bankrupts.

Mr. Montague considered there was no weight in the objection of his friend Mr. Rose, but there was one circumstance which he considered it but fair Mr. Shaw should be apprized of. Mr. Shaw was aware there was at present 9001. in the hands of the Sheriff. which might ultimately be applied in payment of so much of this 2000l. If, however, Mr. Shaw now proved for 2000l. he must not be surprised if hereafter the general body of the creditors should claim this 9001.

ners holding Mr. Shaw's claim for 20001, good The Commis he proved for that sum.

Various creditors then came in with their claims, and debts to the amount of 80001, were proved.

Mr. Grimstone's demand against the Bankrupts' estate, of 36,000L is to be privately enquired into before the Commissioners on Monday! and Mr. Carrol's debt of 18,000L will undergo public investigation at the next meeting of the Commissioners on Tu The Bankrupt's surrendered in the usual form, and received their protection, and the Commissioners adjourned to Tuesday.

ADJOURNED INQUEST ON HONEY .- The Inquest was resumed on Monday, at the Hop-pole, in the Edgware-road.

Joseph Sowersby, a private in the Life Guards was examined; was on duty at Cumberland-gate on the 14th, but could not tell the name of the trumpeter who formed part of the detachment. Witness was wounded on that occasion, had the blade-bone of his shoulder broken on that day, by a stone or brickbat; has been in the hospital ever since; did not see Lieut. Gore have pistols on the 14th, there had been no firing before he was wounded, many soldiers were struck besides himself.

Idenh Pitaman confirmed the previous witness, and added that he was beside the Corporal who rode up to Lieut. Gore, and tenered his cloak, which the Lieut. refused.

Robert Jones, extra musician in the First Life Guards, was on duty under Captain Oakes on the 14th at Kensington, and afterwards at Cumberland-gate; did not lend any one a pistol; had but one which was not loaded; saw many brickbats thrown; the attack commenced at Kensington, and continued to Cumberland-gate when it became thicker so as to endanger the limbs and lives of the soldiers. Had been eleven years in the regiment.

William Bishop, trumpeter to the First Life Guards, was stationed at Cumberland-gate on the 14th; had pistols but no amnu-nition; had no conversation with Lieut. Gore, it was his duty to ride behind the Lieutemant; saw stones thrown and heard the mob calling out "Butchers! Bloodsuckers!" and such names as those; cleared the people away from the gates with the backs and flats of the swords; did not fire his pistol during the day. Daniel French was called, but proved nothing material.

During the examination, a person named Crowther, appeared a Amicus Curiæ; but some gentlemen present and the Jury particularly objected to him, and wished to get from this person for whom he did appear. Mr. Crowther refused to state, but it was charged that he said he had been desired to attend by Sheriff Walthman.— Adjourned till Wednesday.

TOn Wednesday the Inquest was resumed.—A mun named Cartis, was examined, but he proved nothing.

Lieut, Gore was present in order that the witnesses might iden tify him.

William King stated, that Lieut. Gore was the gendeman he sum at the Horse Guards on Sunday, the 19th of August, and whom he afterwards saw in the parlour of the New Inn, and to whom he had alluded in his former examinations. He was the man who pre-sented the pistol; the contents of which he did not know whether they were meant for Honey or himself; but when he fired Honey fell.

During this examination, Lieut. Gore stood up in front of the witness and looked stendily at him.)

William Spratt said, that no person had been with him since be was examined. He met with a Bow-street officer, who wanted to fish him a liftle, but could not catch any; — (looking at Lieut. Gore,) that is the gentleman to whom I alluded in my former examination; he is one of the two I saw at the inspection, it was the other gentleman whose cheeks were painted. I was kept a prisoner at the barracks; I was starved almost to death on that occasion; I was without food from eight o'clock in the morning until ten at night; I saw the Jury shoved out; and -You have no business with that. Samuel Green-I was examined last Friday. In that examination I alluded to a gentleman whom I saw come in at the door of the New Inn, and who I said was the person who shot Richard Honey, that (pointing to Lieut. Gore) is the man to whom I alluded, and who shot Richard Honey with a pistol in my presence.

Witness, as he retired, said, he understood he was to be trans ported, and, if so, he hoped it would be to a better place than this. Brook Page examined by the Foreman-I have been examined before; I was in attendance on Friday last, but was not called for. I did not attend at the barracks on the day of the inspection. said in the course of my examination that I could not at that time swear to the gentleman who fired the pistol; but, since that time, I have recognised within myself, and I think I can. I can't say I should now know him in coloured clothes, but if he were on horse-back and dressed as he was then, I think I should know him.

Mr. Browne—It is a serious thing to swear to a man, Mr. Page. Witness—It is, Sir. I have had so conversation touching this inquest since last Friday,

Foreman—Look round the room, and without confusing yourself tell us if you can see the man who shot Richard Honey.

Witness-(after looking some time round the room, pointed to Lieutenant Gore, who was seated,) and said, I think that is the gentleman; I don't say I could swear to him in these clothes, but I think that is the gentleman.

By Mr. Blaikie—That gentleman came into this house to-day

I saw no person point to him, and say that is the man. I saw the gentleman also on last Friday, coming from Cumberland-street towards the New Inn; I was alone then; I thought to myself that that was the gentleman whom I had seen on horseback; I do not say he is the man who shot at Honey, but he whom I saw fire the pistol; I did not see Honey fall; I saw no other officer there but this gentleman, when I saw him fire.

Mr. Adolphus here rend witness's former evidence, in which he said, "from the dirt and the crowd, and the wet, I do not think I should know him: I think I should, but I am not sure."

The Foreman objected to Mr. Adolphus's reading any questions from his or another person's notes.

The Coroner decided that the mode of questioning was regular. Examination continued :- Witness. I did say, that from the dir and the crowd, and the wet and dire, that I did not think I should know the officer.

A warm discussion here took place between Mr. Adolphus an several of the Jurors, on the propriety of continuing this examination.

After considerable altercation between Mr. Adolphus and the Jury, the question was again put, and the witness replied, I believe I did my that I was taking oure of myself as well as I could, and that it was hardly possible, being pushed about by the people, to take the marks of one man; I did not go to the inspection on the 21st of August.

W. D. Jones was then called and examined.—I have been exc mined as to the identity of Lieutenant Gore; I cannot speak to the identity of any one; if I saw the officer that fired, I could identify him-Being asked to look round the room, witness said he did not see the officer who fired.

The Coroner—Lieutenant Gore, he so good as to stand up.
Witness—That is not the gentleman that I saw fire. The officer whom I saw I knew very well, and therefore I did not take so much notice of him; he had red whiskers rather; they were between red and sundy.

By Mr. Blaikie.—I came of my own accord to-day, but I was summoned yesterday; I had no idea, except from rumour, of the purpose for which I was to attend; I have had no conversation today with any person relative to my coming bers.

A Juror-Did you write the laster in John Bull?-The witness said he had no objection to answer the question; but the question was overruled.

Lieut. Gore was next examined by a Juror (Mr. Blaikie).-- I kno Lieut, Hall; he was onduty on the 14th; his detachment was in Oxford-street, but he did not see Lieut. Hall in Oxford-street, to the best of his recollection. I should think I was not at the Horse Guards on the 19th, that being the Sunday after the Queen's funeral, and by going to Church, and other circumstances, I think I should recol-lect it if I was. If I were there in my uniform on duty, it would appear by the orderly book. I was present on the day of inspec-tion, and inspected among the rest. Neither I, nor any other per son to my knowledge, used paint on that occasion. I think th mark an insult to the regiment.

The Foreman-You had no pistols on the 14th, Lieut. Gore? decline answering that question; it has been put to me so often.

The Foreman desired that the witness's answer to his last ques tion as to the pistols might be taken down .- Lieut. Gore said, he had stated his reasons for declining to asswer. He had already stated, and he now again stated, that he had no pistols.

By a Juror-I saw Capt. Oakes in Oxford-street. His whole de I cannot say how long he halted. I did tachment was balting. not hear him give any orders. Did not see Capt. Oakes nor Lieut. Storey fire.

Bartholomew Croney was next called, and denosed as follows: I saw the officer draw his pistol, and fire at Richard Honey; if I were to see the officer I saw on that day, I think I should know him, but I cannot say positively; the two officers close to Sr R. Baker I should know from all the world.

Being desired to look at Lieut. Gore, he said, I do not know that gentleman.

The Coroner Then you know that is not the gentleman, ar, you know the officer that fired at Honey?-Witness-I thin' I never saw that gentleman before.

George Avis, one of the Bow-street patrole, was with the procession on the 14th. At the time it turned towards the Park there were Life Guards and Oxford Blues with it. At the time the mob was hissing und groaning, and calling out, "the deer?" and Piccadilly Butchers!" I do not know that any about the processing that the processing th I do not know that any distinction was made between the Oxford Blues and the others. The mob was very thick at Grosvenou-gate; there was a west quantity of stones thrown, which I saw hit the Life Guant smen on their caps and bound off; at that time the soldiers has done nothing in his sight offensive; the soldiers at Grosvenor- ate did not move from their ranks or do any thing in return, in my hearing or sight. At Cumberland gate Mr. White, the Magistrate of Queen-vivare, was at the head of the hearse. When the hearte got into the centre of the road there were four or five men attempted to turn the horses! down Oxford-street. At that time the melv began to throw stones at us in all directions. Ms. White, with the antistance of the Life Guards, two or three of them, turned the horses' heads again towards Tylauragate. After the lapse of two or three minutes they proceeded on; stones and brickbats at that time were thrown more furious than ever. The mob broke some flag paving stones that lay at the corner of Cumberland-street; I saw them break them. A genteel man dressed in black, with an umbrella in his hand, brought one of them, threw it, and knocked a Life Geordsman off his horse. The horse ran alongside to Tyburn-gate, and the man got up to follow. The mob cried out some to murder him, others said let the b-go. I was hit a violent blow on the back part of my head with either a brick-bat or stone, which left the mark in my hat; when I recovered myself (I was stunned for the moment) I pre ceeded towards Tyburn-gate; after that I did not see any of the mob with stones; before that I took stones out of two or three peoples' hands, and begged them to be quiet. The military sode about and struck the people with the flat part of their swords they had been pelted some time. - Were their lives in danger ?- I suppose they were; they were cut about their heads and temples brickbats and stones, and bleeding. The soldiers were cruelly After I proceeded (after my blow) towards Tyburn-gate beard firing.

By Mr. Spicer.—We found the mob too strong for us, and them we called in the aid of the suldiers.

By Mr. Blaikie .- I was the only man that opened the gate after it was pushed to first.

By Mr. Gall .- I did not see a man shot, but I beaudthat one was bot: I did not see any offices fire.

The Inquest was adjourned till Friday. On Friday the Inquest was resumed.

Michael Bowman, a surgeon, was in the Hyde Park Hotel on the day of the funeral, saw the soldiers at Cumberland-gate pelted by mob with dirt and other things; the soldiers went in at the gate holding their swords over their heads; there appeared great confusion at the gate; they soon returned, pelted by the mob with brick-bats and stones, many of the bricks were brought from the wall of the Park; witness thought the lives of the soldiers were endangered who rode down towards Quebec-street after the mobamidst a shower of stones and bricks; one man on the wall was very active, and a trumpeter, with some difficulty, forced his borse on the foot pavement, and struck him with the flat part of his sword. when the trumpeter turned his horse the man again pelted him. He afterwards saw the man who was shot carried by the window The soldiers, though continually polted, shewed the greatest forbearance.

In answer to questions from Jurors the witness said, the number of bricks thrown was very great; there were twenty stones flying at a time round the officers' heads; thought the lives of the subtiers in imminent danger; saw an officer a good deal pelted, he believed it was Lieut. Gore.

A long altercation here took place between the Jury and Mr. Adolphus respecting the witness's testimony; the furmer contending that he had not proved the commencement of the aftray; the latter on the contrary.

Rrown—I deny that.

Mr. Adolphus-I dare say you do; and I dare say you will deny it by your verdict. The Jury here cried "Shame!" and Mr. Blakie warmly observed. wondered that the Jurors should notice any thing that fell from

Mr. Adolphus.

Mr. Green—We are not going to be insulted by a brow-besting, bullying Old Bailey Counsel.

Mr. Adolphus (ironically) these are Gentlemen of the Jury! but when they have ceased to be a Jury we all know what they are,
The Coroner proposed to the Jury to adjourn until their heat had a little subsided; but they did not take the hind Richard Buckle Teast was present at the Hotel on the day in question; he confirmed the testimony of the last witness, as to the attack on the soldiery. John Lloyd was at the window of Lord Begot's house, nearly facing Cumberland-gate, and saw a most forious attack with ston upon the soldiers; saw a soldier and his loose down.

Michael Lambton Este, Surgeon of the 1st Life Guards, was in attendance at the Hospital on the day of the 14th, and received the soldiers as they came in; thirty-seven were brought in who ind been wounded, the greater number had received contusions on the head, neck, body and legs, such as would be inflicted by stones and brickbats; there were five who had broken bones, one a broken check bone, one a shoulder blade broken, one a collier bone broken, one an ancie bone broken, another a shia bone injured and an arm bone also injured; thirty-six of these men were brought in from the riot at Cumberland-gate! the other man who had his collar bone broken was assailed on that evening at Westminster; none of the men who were fractured have yet left the Hospital.

Samuel Bloxam, Veterinary Surgeon of the First Life Guards, inspected the horses on duty that day; many of the horses were hurt when they returned; two privates horses are still unfit for duty; many were cut with flints; one horse had the artury under the ja d about three parts of an inch; Lieut. Hall's horse is unfit for duty from a wound on the book.

Edward Felham Branton, Captain in the Boyal Navy, resides at No. 4, Park-lane; when the funeral came up the Park, a great crowd came up Purk-lune; about filteen or twenty of them set up a horrid yell, calling out—" You have muchesed our Queen, you - Piccadilly butchers!"-at the same time a volley of were thrown at the Life Guards, who rode by the side of the funeral, as well as at the Corporal's Guard at the gate, who were drawn from that position.

Colonel Cavendish was then examined; attended at the inspec tion of the Life Guards, on the 21st of August, by sundry witne A person named Spratt inspected, the troops; he went down the the lines, and on coming to the end, requested he might. return, that he might see  $c_i$  man, who he believed had shot Honey. He was suffered to go down the line again; he stopped at the second officer on his left hand, whose name is Walrond, a Sub-Liceatenant, and then passed on; he fixed his eyes next on an efficer named Locke; he did not stop at Lieutenant Gore to the best of his recollection. Lieutepants Walroad and Locke have very fresh complexions; he should be ashamed of his regiment if they painted.— Lieuvenant Gore was on the church parade, and marched them off to the riding-socool, where divine service was performed; neither Lieutenant Cox nor Lieutenant Hall are like Lieutenant Gore, who is rather sallow.

Adjutant Emans confirmed the Colonel's testimony in respect of Spratt passing Lieut. Gore without making an observation.

Lieut. William Locke denied that he had used any colour to induce persons at the inspection to mistake him for Lieut. Gore. Since the inspection, witness had been very ill in consequence of having been struck by a brickbat last Sunday week; has been twice blooded, which might account for his scerning less high conplexioned than usual.

Lieut. Bethell Walrond also denied that he had altered his complexion by art or otherwise, on the day of inspection.

Licut. Hall was introduced to show the dischallarity in appearance with Lieut. Gore. The Inquest adjourned till Tuesday,

NOTICES TO CORRESPONDENTS.

W. W.'s communication is very valuable; we have long had the Scottch Whios in our eye, and we shall be obliged to him for the assistance he promises in showing them up.

A JOHN BULL must be joking when he couples Magna Charta with the radical attribute; as far as the introduction of the forner he is really right.

Our thanks are due to OLD BOOTS.

The Address to the Sovenuign Mon has talent, but it might mot be taken as it is meant.

AMICUS CURIM has our thanks for his correction. that " flags were not hoisted half-mast high in the River," was made in this Puper by the omission of a line following in the MS. copy, which was "as far as the eye could reach," and which our correspondent on that occasion will remember was the expression intended to have been ridiculed, because we know, in the Pool, the ope cannot reach more than two or three hundred yards. We are, wever, not less obliged for the friendly remark.—With respect to our justification in the other case, he must be aware, that as we have suffered a verdiet against us, our justification cannot be pub-Nobed till our affidavits in mitigation of punishment have been before the Court.—As for the third part of his letter, we refer him to this day's Paper, to show that we are coming to it in time.

We have received no less than three paradies upon Cunningham's clegy—all so good, that, in justice to their authors, as we cannot insert them all, we insert none—this is "Being cruel only to be kind."

Publicola and the Rabbits shall be taken care of. We kepe we satisfy Mr. SECRETARY TRUEMAN.

T.'s lotter is received, and the verse of the paredy at the be-ginning and that at the end are so good, that we wish he would complete it, and send it us for our next Number. We should feel greatly obliged to our correspondent about the "Tennu," if he could furnish us with a copy of his first letter, containing the facts, which has been unfortunately mislaid.

W. W.'s account of the fund raising for HUMPTY DUMPTY to come to hand; if it were opened on the score of his having been a great fool, we have no doubt but that a vast number of people wald subscribe.

Hints from Wrexham are received.

NAPOLEON'S Will is inadmissible—we "war not with the dead" without strong provocation, and with a view of doing good.

J. D. B. is requested to fulfil his kind promise as early this weel posible.

We do not see the object of the farther exposure of the persons Q. G. G. alludes to.

We have received a paredy complete from a correspondent T. but which takes a bad line; it is (odd enough to my) a paredy on the same poem of which our other friend T. has, in his letter, given us the first and last verses only.

We are not aware of having received the letters " a subscriber of seventeen weeks" mentions.

TRISTE-LIGNUM, and others, when Humpty Dumpty comes

We have received no less than seven long letters upon the sub-ject of the conduct of the parochial Churchwarden of St. Paul's, Covent Garden, all sharp, well written, and to the purpose; it grieres us that the object, Mn. John Henny Skelton, is not more worthy the trouble bestowed on his exposure: but we must decline inserting the communications, because we do not think, that although Mr. SKELTON be a member of the dirty-shirt Committee, and a leader of the Caralcade at the QURRN's funeral, the conduct of a mere simple Taylor's draper is suffi-ciently interesting for our readers. As to his authority for giving the order about the mourning without application to other persons, we can give no opinion; and as to the question, whether the Parish are liable for the black cloth with which he has hung his pero, we are equally incompetent to decide. We southude he is not allowed to furnish the materials himself.

One of our correspondents on this subject vindicates Dn. RANDOLPH from all participation in the affair, and we are ready to admit the disavowal. We cannot go any farther; and refer our friend, "who occupies a conspicuous place in the Church," to a Sermon preached by the Rev. Doctor at BRISTOL on the Comonation day, for our reasons.

The "Eppicient Placeman" to the Eaul of Liverpool seems intemperate to a heart like LORD LIVERPOOL'S. No appeal, founded in truth and justice, can be made in vain; and see do not think the tone of our correspondent's letter to be viceable either to himself or the cause he advoc Muss to a "cuto lad," but he never has been in the habit of con-ducting a periodical paper—if he had, he would not have found fault with the omission of a single letter in a dozen columns of original matter.

Dacies, Tives, Paston, Juvenis, H. P.
Julia, from St. George's Fields, writes exactly in the style we isuld expect from the vicinity of Caroline Street.

The poem beginning
"Does Alderman Wood know the value of tears? "Can be prize them as much as his own ass's ears?"

to good—but the point is too grees.
We will make enquiries about the Rev. Mr. M'Guinn and his sermons—he is not Rector.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.
On Menday, Sept. 10, will be performed the Tragedy of Venice Preserved;
Belvidera by a young Lady, her fourth appearance; with other Entertainments.—On Tuesday, the Marriage of Figure, the Actress of All-Work, Bombastes Furioso, and other Entertainments, for the Benefit of Mr. Tayleure.—
Wednesday, Venice Preserved; Belvidera by a young Lady, her fifth appearance, with other Entertainments.—Thursday, Fontainbleau, with other Entertainments.

A Monday's Edition, containing the latest News, the Stock List, the London Markets, and the State of the Country Markets by that morning's post, is published at Three o'clock.

PRICE OF STOCKS AT THE CLOSE SATURDAY.

Since this day week there has been scarcely any political act of importance which could possibly have any influence in rising the prices of the public securities, or causing a depression of them, yet there have not been wanting those whose interest it is to effect the latter, and who have resorted to various expedients for that purpose; reports have found their way into the market with an intent to throw a doubt upon the authenticity of the news from Russia and Turkey, but it could not be found whence they emanated, and, of course, they could not produce the desired effect, and the probability still is, that the Funds will yet advance much higher. The accounts from the manufacturing districts continue to be more wourable, and the confidence the fundholders now place in the stability of the prices of all the public securities is as great as ever was remembered. Consols opened yesterday morning at 754 for Money, and 76 for the Account. The fluctuation during the day did not exceed # per Cent. and they left off at the same prices at which they commenced. Several Stocks are shut for the present; and during the next week several more will close, of which the following is a list, as well as of the time of opening:-

Bank Stock	huts. Sept. 4. opens. Oct. 16
Reduced
4 per Cents	4 24
Long Annuities
84 per Cents	11 23
	19Nov. 2
Frish 5 per Cents	15Oct. 20
Reduced Ann
Consols 75# # #	Rxchequer Bills 845
Dit Acct 78	India Bonds 64
4 per Cents	Omnium

The letters from the continent give favourable accounts of the progress of the Funds. he French 5 per Cents. have risen since onr last, and were on Wednesday at 85 ft. 49 cents, and the Exchange at 1 month 25 fr. 60 cents, and 3 mo. 25 fr. 40 cents. The Neapolitan 5 per Cent. Bonds continue steady at 68#; Prussian Bonds 831, and the following Stocks at the prices annexed:

FRENCH FUNDS 5 per et. Div. 22 Sept. Recon. Div. 22 Marca 85-40 | Bank Sh Div. | July | 1545 | 99-80 | Ex. Lond. | 120.25 60 8mo.25-40

RUSSIAN. nscrip. ......82 | 5 per Cent. Metallics .... 78 Exchange .. II 11-163—Met. .. 3 1 6 per Cent. Inscrip. AUSTRIAN. 5 per Cent. Metallics .. 734-Exchange .. 10 4

SPANISH. 5 per Cent. . . . . . 56] . - Exchange . . . . 4 8 NAPLES. 5 per Cent.....654 69—Exchange....440 25 55 AMERICAN.

. 102 6 per Cent. 1815 ... 103} 3 6 per Cent. 1612 ... 98 103 1813 ... 991 100 5 per Cent. . . . 101 3 per Cent. . . . . 70 1814...101 to 1 Bank Shares, £22 17s. 6d.

PRUSSIAN. 5 pr Cpt. Bonds, £100, 831 Ditto HOLLAND. Ditto, £250 to £1000

2½ per Cent..... Bank Shares ..... Columbian Bonds. . 401 to4 11

JOHN BULL.

LONDON, SEPTEMBER 9.

HIS MAJESTY has left Ireland after a visit of the greatest importance to the interests of his people; never was a measure adopted by a Monarch more indicative of the excellence of HEAD and HEART, than that of visiting the Sister country, suggested and acted upon by the King.

We have endeavoured to give our readers details of the entertainments and proceedings, during HIS MAJESTY'S stay in Dublin; but all description must fall short of the reality—the enthusiasm of his people can only be measured by the avowed feelings of the King himself; to do justice to which, we think it our duty to publish the following letter, written on HIS MAJESTY's departure, to His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant:-

" Dublin-castle, Sept. 3, 1821.

" My Lord,-The time of the King's departure from Ireland being arrived, I am commanded by His Majesty to express his entire approbation of the manner in which all persons acting in civil and military situations in the city of Dublin and its neighbourhood have performed their several duties during the period of His Majesty's residence in this part of the kingdom. His Majesty is pleased to consider, that to your Excellency his acknowledgments are particularly due. He is conscious how much he owes to your Excellency's attentions and arrangements; and His Majesty gladly avails himself of this occasion of declaring the high sense which he entertains of the ability, temper, and firmness with which your Excellency has uniformly administered the great trust which he has placed in your

"I am further commanded to state, that the testimonies of dutiful and affectionate attachment which His Majesty has received from all classes and descriptions of his Irish subjects, have made the deepest impression on his mind; and that he looks forward to the period when he shall revisit them with the strongest feelings of satisfaction. His Majesty trusts that, in the mean time, not only the spirit of loyal union, which now so generally exists, will remain unabated and unimpaired; but that every cause of irritation will be avoided and discountenanced; mutual forbearance and goodwill observed and encouraged; and a security be thus afforded for the continuance of that concord amongst themselves, which is not less essential to His Majesty's happiness than to their own, and which it has been the chief object of His Majesty during dence in this country to cherish and promote.

" His Majesty well knows the generosity and warmth of heart which distinguish the character of his faithful people in Ireland, and he teaves them with a heart full of affection towards them, and with a confident and gratifying persuasion, that this parting admonition and injunction of their Sovereign will not be given in vain. I have the honour to be, with great truth and regard, my Lord, your Excellency's most obedient and faithful servant,

" SIDMOUTH.

" His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant."

DISGUSTED and sickened as we are with the barefaced HUMBUG of the two Coreners' Juries, and ridiculous as these proceedings must appear to every one acquainted with the parties concerned, yet we have, in distant parts, friends who may feel seriously interested in them; and, therefore, think it worth while to call the attention of our friends to the extraordinary and flagrant partiality displayed in their conduct; and more particularly by the Foreman of Honey's Jury.

A more shameful abandonment of the impartial duty of Jurors, for the purpose of gratifying political prejudice, it may be fearlessly asserted, was never before exhibited, even in the county of Middlesex.

The whole report of their proceedings is so full of instances of gross violation of duty, that it would be useless to particularise; but, on one or two occasions, they really seem, in their intemperate eagerness to have nothing as evidence but what may tell against the Life Guards, to have wholly lost sight of the common rules of prudence and discretion. To what else are we to attribute the motions made (and, by the bye, this is the first time we ever heard of gentlemen of a Jury making and seconding motions) by the members of one of these Inquests, to expunge the evidence of the REV. MR. HUGHES; and by the Foreman of the other to expunge the evidence of THOMAS RUTHERPOLD from the minutes, for no other reason that can be discovered, than that their evidence made against the cause which the Juries have adopted as their own? Really these propositions are so monstrous that we had some difficulty in bringing ourselves to believe that they could in sober moments have been made.

To what motive also, we would ask, but the auxiety to prevent the production of any thing in favour of the soldiers and against the mob, are we to attribute the reception given by these gentlemen of the Jury to MR. ADOLPHUS, and the discovery they seem at last to have made, that a Coroner's Inquest is not a proceeding between parties, and that no one but themselves ought to be permitted to interfere in it?

Why, if this be their opinion, have they with so much cheerfulness allowed MR. WAITHMAN to call witnesses, to examine, to cross-examine, and to make comments? Can any earthly reason be assigned why a meddling Linen-draper should be permitted to act as an advocate, and a barrister be excluded? It seems the Gentlemen of the Jury have a reason for this; and they tell us, that MR. WAITHMAN appears there on behalf of the friends of the deceased, deputed by them to further the ends of justice. But they surely forget, that, in a proceeding where there are no parties, the friends of the deceased can have no more right to take a part, either in person or by deputy, than any other individuals.

The truth is, that these gentlemen, and their Sheriff-advocate, are in this point right in their law, whatever they may be in their application of it; for, as we have just now observed, a Coroner's Inquest is not a proceeding between parties, and the friends of the deceased are, fif the eye of the law, no more injured by his death, and no more interested in bringing the offenders to punishment than any other subject of the King.

It is the injury to the King's peace, by the death of his subject, that the Coroner and Jury have to inquire into, and the right of examining witnesses in this inquiry does certainly belong to the Coroner and Jury alone; and the Coroner, there can be no doubt, (not the Jury be it observed) may in his discretion refuse to allow the interference of any individual

But, in this case, the interference of an individual for the express and avowed purpose of establishing the guilt of muder upon a particular class of persons, has been allowed by the Coroner, and most gladly acquiesced in by the Juy. This interference has made this Inquest an affair between parties; and a reluctance to allow the persons charged with so serious an offence the same opportunities of defeading themselves as are cheerfully conceded to the person seeking to affect their lives, is not only a violation of the impartiality of Jurons, but an outrage on the commonest feelings of lamanity and justice.

VERY much has been said, and not very little done, about the plate intended for her late Majesty's coffin; and really till lately, we had no idea of the grounds upon which it has been made a matter of such importance.

It is, say the Queen's partizans, the dying declaration of the Queen, and should have been recorded. If, as they vould have it, and as the law of this country teaches, declarations in articulo mortis be valid, we must observe, that we never heard of one more vague or less satisfactory than that in question.

No person can be a judge of an injury done to himself, for every man (and certainly every woman) who is d in ever so trifling or oppos they have received an injury: rely upon it, THISTLE-WOOD, when he was hanged for murder and treason, thought himself injured; CARLILE and HUNT will at this moment say they are injured; injury is, therefore matter of opinion, and in the case of the late QUBEN, the question whether she was injured or not was the question upon which the country was divided; and, most assuredly, that question is not likely to be set at rest by the declaration of her MAJESTY upon her coffin.

There was a word, indeed, which it seems did not come to her MAJESTY in articulo mortis; but which, had she been able conscientiously to have ordered it to have been placed on her coffin, might indeed have changed our opi nions. It would have been a positive and solemn denish of all charges against her, made in the hour of death-th word, we mean, is INNOCENT!

Had this been substituted for INJURED, we should have seen the confidence her Majesty felt, in herself-the purity, the strength, the clearness of her conscience; and, we should have said, strong as appearances have been against her, she must after all have been free from positive guilt, for almost in the presence of her Maker she asserts her

But, no!--She declared herself the "injured" Queen, and that was all. If she were innocent, and had said so, it would have followed that she had indeed been injured; but we are sorry that in taking the case per contra, we cannot admit, that, her having been, in her own view of the thing, INJURED, affords us the slightest presumption of her having been INNOCENT.

NOTHING gives us more pleasure than when justice permits us to praise. We have, in the performance of a self-imposed duty, had occasion to speak harshly of many of the late Queen's followers, and amongst others—the LADY ANNE HAMILTON; but it is with pleasure we feel called upon to acknowledge the proper and feeling conduct of her Ladyship throughout the task of following her mistress to the grave on the continent.

We pointedly praise this behaviour in the LADY ANNE, as it afforded the most striking contrast to that of other persons on the same occasion, those even who are indebted for every thing they possess to the bounty of the late Queen seemed careless and griefless, while others where zeal for her Majesty, during her life-time, has been the most marked, evinced symptoms (if not of levity) at least of indifference; but LADY ANNE alone preserved that mien of devotion and affection towards the departed, which she feared not to maintain during her life.

The truth is, that LADY ANNE has in her heart the high feeling of high blood, and the disappointment of being left almost unnoticed in the Queen's Will, has not had that effect upon her which it so visibly produced upon the meaner minds by which she was surrounded.

We should of her Majesty's domestic servants notice also, the respectful and unaffected sorrow of MR. HIERO-NYMUS, during the progress of the funeral.

In the beginning of this week the TIMES, in its leading article, asserted that there was only one Life Guardsman disabled from attending duty on the day after the Queen's funeral. In the TIMES report of the Friday's Inquest, Mr. M. L. Este, Surgeon to the Life Guards, gives the following statement:-" This latter case of the collarbone must be left out of the list-it has nothing to do with enquiry.-There are 36 cases applicable to this enquiry.-None of them so wounded were able to attend duty the next day. The whole 36 were on the sick list. Those who reseived fractures are now in the hospital."

TO JOHN BULL.

DEAR JOHN-I have so much regard for your character and consistency, that I cannot avoid writing to you, in hopes of checking you when you appear to be falling into a system which you yourself have very pointedly and properly censured.

You have all along professed (and hitherto have fulfilled your promises) never to meddle with any Lady who had not voluntarily distinguished herself in the cause of the late Queen, and whose name had not been previously printed and published in the radical papers, as having countenanced her Majesty's conduct by visiting her.

Why, then, let me ask you, at this period, have you, for the first time, shewn symptoms of forgetfulness of this pledge? Why, in speaking of the return of the Mourners, or the conduct of DR. LUSHINGTON, (the most extraordinary conduct ever heard of,)-why, I ask, do you speak of the Bride?

MISS CARR never visited the Queen. MISS CARR is of a most amiable and respectable family; her conduct through life has been exemplary, and her manners are unexceptionable. Surely, then, however much she may be to be pitied under the very extraordinary circumstances of her marriage, she is not to be blamed; and I do trust that you will not confound inevitable obedience to the will of a husband with the voluntary hardihood of independent political ladies.

I sincerely lament the distressing position in which Mrs. LUSHINGTON has been placed, and am free to admit the force of an objection which you may probably make against the delicacy of a young lady, who would consent to a marriage at such a moment. There are strong reasons in her favour, and it may be satisfactory to you to know, that, notwith-standing the embarrassing novelty of her situation on the Continent, she never forgot what was due to herself, and actually refused to go in the same coach with MRS. WILDE!

I mention this trait to separate in your mind the active votary of a had cause from the innocent victim to professional duty; and remain, dear Bull, yours, AMICUS. Hampstead, Sept. 4, 1831.

IRRECONCILABLE TRUTHS.

WE have long been in the habit of detecting and exposing falsehoods, and of setting right misrepresentations; but we have now found out a new object for our attention. The examination of TRUTHS, admitted and acknowledged, but which to Us appear irreconcilable—we do not profess to deny, but merely to scrutinize them.

In his letter to LORD BATHURST, MR. WAITHMAN says, " immediately, several of the soldiers rushed at me with their "swords drawn, and one actually toaded his carbine, and di-"reeted it towards me; but was, as I have been informed, "kneeked down by one of the constables."

It happens, that at the moment alluded to, no soldier had his sword drawn; that the Corporal only had a carbine, which was not loaded, and the Corporal had no cartridge in his possession!—it seems odd too, that if the Sheriff saw the carbine pointed at him, he should have required the information of other persons, to have found out that the soldier aiming was knocked down.

Most of the clear-sighted witnesses upon Honey, were of opinion, that LIEUT. GORE fired at the deceased; and it turns out, that Lieutenant Gore had no pistols; some of the cooler persons swear, that somebody else fired at him-and this somebody else was twen'y miles from London at the

A number of witnesses swear that the soldiers cut at the people wantonly, fired AT them, loaded and re-loaded, and fired again; and that the people were quiet and orderly.

Independently of the little tricks of tearing down walls and railings, pulling up the pavement, digging trenches, making barricudoes, and throwing stones, bricks, and mud, it will be observed, that this peaceable multitude wounded thirty-se of the soldiers, who, although they fired over and ever again, AT (what the Times calls) "the dense multitude," and cut at them wantonly and unmercifully, out of two hundred thousand people, wounded two, who were shot, and that with their merciless sabres they hurt nobody; nor did they do any injury, except to one man's hat, which hat, strange to say, did not exhibit the wounds it displayed before the Coroner's Jury, on its first return home.—We cannot reconcile all this.

HUMPTY-DUMPTY, in his letter to Dr. LUSHINGTON, complains (as well he may)—of ill-usage and indignity, in having been omitted, in the list of those who had a right to attend the remains of her Majesty; for he says, "I opened and answered all her letters," &c.

Anybody wishing to have been understood by her late Majesty, would of course have written to her in French or German. How HUMPTY DUMPTY could have undertaken (however willing to be doing) to answer that which he certainly could not read, we leave it to longer heads than ours

The Morning Chronicle, and many other papers, and many other people, say, that DR. LUSHINGTON is an amiable man, and a good man—a man of high feeling and great delicacy.

We know nothing of this gentleman, and are bound to believe favourably of everybody, till we know to the contrary; but still we cannot reconcile the fact of his leaving the Queen's death-bed for the Hymeneal Altar, with the amiability, feeling, and delicacy which are attributed to him.

These are of that class of TRUTHS which puzzle us, and which we shall occasionally submit, as being well worth the consideration of our readers; and we think our country friends will find no inconsiderable amusement in trying to account for the extraordinary things which now happen every day, and which we are told are not more strange than

ORIGINAL POETRY.

LINES

WRITTEN IN THE COUNTRY, UPON SIR JAMES MACKINTOSH'S LAW AND DR. LUSHINGTON'S ORATORY,

> It happen'd on a summer's eve, Just at the time of swallows, A certain Scot, by special leave, Propos'd a measure to reprieve All forgers from the gallows!

'Twas wonder'd what old latent grudge Him to this course should draw; And why a lawyer and a judge, Who rose by making law a fudge, Should now make fudge a law

Some funcied (but they look too far) That he this way harangued, Because, when pleading at the Bar, He found that all his clients more Indubitably hanged!

But I believe that I can say What this new zeal had kindled-If forgers could get clear away, He thought, no doubt, that so must they, Poor things, who only swindled!

And mark, I pray, with what parade Of justice and of truth, This bill, this liberal bill was made, To guard from fraud the nation's trade, And save from crime its youth!

Should a wretch forge a one-pound note, He swings on gallows tree!
But if ten thousand be has got,
By forging checks, wills, or what not,
The knave shall go Scot-free!

Oh, giorious law! divinely penn'd To stay a nation's ruin ! Which makes the crime and guilt depend, Not on the fact, nor on the and But on the mede of doing.

As if-(allow me to expound)t brawls and strife. Should say, with wisdom most profes Tis murder, with a fork to wound, But trespass, with a knife!

So Londonderry answers-Nay! The laws I will not vary! And the responsive Commons say Indignant—14 LEGES ANGLES - NOLDMUS MUTARI."

But the great Doctor Lushington-A rotten boro' Member-Was so enraged at what was done. He swore he'd keep them all in town, Debating till September.

And so he might—as I will teach-And that without his party—
He only needs to make a speech—
Then count the House—twill never reach To any thing like forty!

FITZ-GERALD.

ELECTION OF LORD MAYOR.

A NUMBROUS meeting of the Livery of all parties assembled on Thursday last, for the purpose of considering the claims of ALDERMAN WAITEMAN upon the City to be elected (out of his turn) Lord Mayor on Michaelmas day, when after a good deal of conversation it was agreed upon that he should be sent for and undergo a kind of examination. The Sheriff, anxious to do any thing likely to advance his great end, and desirous to comply with the wishes of so numerous a body of electors, obeyed the summons, and entered the room amidst much mixed applause and disapprobation.

It was agreed that his friends should put certain questions to him, and that upon his answers his opponents should es-examine him; with the greatest urbanity and good humour he acceeded to the arrangement, and took his place at a table which had been previously prepared.

We are restrained from affixing to the questions the names of those who proposed them, so that it will appear in the report more like a dialogue than an examination by various

Q. You are Sheriff of Middlesex, MR. WAITHMAN?

A. I am.

Q. And an Alderman À. I am.

Q. And a linen-draper?

Yes.

Q. You wish to be Lord Mayor next year? A. That is my present intention.

Q. You were once in Parliament, I believe?

Q. How comes it that you are not in Parliament now?

A. I really cannot say.

Q. On what are your pretensions to the Mayoralty founded? A. On my general conduct as a man and a tradesman, my rinciples as a son, a husband and a friend, my love of liberty, the purity of election, Magna Charta, and the Trial by Jury, my constant attention to the duties of my present office, my zeal for the rights of the people, my abhorrence of despotism, my hatred of military government, all the acts of my political life, and, above all, my esteem for injured

Q. Have you any other qualifications?
A. Some few more which I could not recapitulate without appearing vain.

Q. Has any gentleman a wish to ask MR. WAITHMAN any questions ?-A. Several. The members of the meeting proceeded to cross-examine the Candidate.

Q. You said you were a linea-draper, I believe?
A. Yes; I think I did; in fact, I did say so.

Q. A wholesale merchant, I conclude?

A. No; not exactly; a retail dealer.

Q. What, am I to understand that you are the retail linendraper, who sells contraband goods in Fleel-street

A. I am the ROBERT WAITHMAN who sells shawls and Bandanas.

Q. You buy them too, I believe, sometimes? A. If I did not, I could not sell them.

Q. I am not quite so sure of that, Sir.—(A langh).—Pray do you recollect two shawls which were sold by MESSERS. JOHN COOPER AND Co. of BOND-STREET, for ninety-five guineas to a man, for which he gave a draft that was not paid; and do you recollect buying the shawls of this strange man the same evening, and paying him the next morning fifty guiness for them; and do you not recollect that the matter was referred to arbitration, and that you were obliged to give the shawls back to Musars. Coopen AND Co.?—A. I do not recollect any thing about it; when did it take place?

Q. Don't you remember-in the year 1808?

I cannot charge my memory with any thing so far back. Q. Really! Pray now, who was MR. GROUCH, of Fleetmarket?—A. I don't know. Q. De you know who MR. SHAW, of Holborn-bridge was, or MR. HANSWORD, of Newgate-street, or MR. REID A. I beg to decline answering this question, as it might lead to unnecessary discussions. Q. Were not all these advertizing, ticketting, limen-drapers?

A. They might have been. Q. Come-no shuffling; were not all these names used by you? A. I cannot say.

Q. Do you know Counsellor ALLRY?
A. I have seen him occasionally at the Old Bailey. Q. Do you think he was employed in that Court in the year 1809?

A. How should I remember!

Q. Why you might; for he described the mercantile connexion I have just alluded to, as "an abominable plot to cheet and impose upon the public?"

A. Lawyers say any thing, Sir.
Q. So they do, Mr. WAITHMAN—they are very disagreeable people—you remember LORD KENYON, I suppose

A. I cannot distinctly say that I do, or do not. Q. Do you remember his Lordship observing, that after what "he had heard you swear, in the case of STAMFORD v. "BRISTOW, you were not a man upon whose testimony he " would choose to pin his faith?"

A. He might have said so; but it was very ungentlemanly conduct if he did.

Q. If he did-look at this paper, Sir?

A. I see—it is the Morning Chronicle for July 12, 1798.

Q. Alluding to the very trial I have just spoken of, you say, in that paper—" I pledge myself shortly to lay before the public a true and correct statement of the case, by which "it will appear, to the most perfect conviction of every im-"partial person, that not the slightest imputation can be "fixed on any part of my couduct; but that, on the con-"trary, I have acted as every honest, conscientious man must have done under similar circumstances. I am under the "painful necessity of withholding this vindication of my " conduct, POR THE PRESENT; it not being get determined "whether an application will not be made to the Court for a new trial."—Do you remember those words?—A. Yes, I de. Q. Can you write?—A. I can.

Q. (ould you write at that period?—A. I believe I could. Q. Is that your signature?—A. It is.

Q. You see the date of this is July 12, 1798—how many years have elapsed since?

A. I cannot calculate exactly, unless I am allowed pen and ink; but I should say about three or four-and-twenty years. Q. And it is not yet determined, whether a new trial will be applied for? A. I should think it must be; but I cannot positively say. Q. Why have you not published a vindication of yourself, having so long promised it?

A. I decline answering that question.

Q. Do you ever read JOHN BULL?

A. Always.

Q. Did you see a report of two trials in last Sunday's Paper?

A. No; I do not think I did; I only look at the advertisements and list of bankrupts.

Q. Did you know the MR. BIRCH mentioned in that Paper ?

A. I knew a Mr. BIRCH, and opposed his discharge in the Insolvent Court.

Q. You got him to sign a Warrant of Attorney without his knowing what it was, I believe.

A. He was old enough to have known what it was. Q. You thought he behaved ill, I suppose, when you acted upon that instrument? A. Certainly I did.

Q. And you bought his stock yourself at £1611 on Monday, which had been valued at £2300 on Saturday A. Yes. Why might not I buy a bargain as well as any body else?

Q. Certainly not; and it would be no difficult thing to sell you one, I should think;—but you arrested him for the deficiency upon the sale?

A. All this came out in the Debtors' Court, Sir.

Q. Ah! but now, Mr. Sheriff, while MR. BIRCH was in prison did you call upon him and condole with him? A. Yes, I did call upon him.

Q. And condole?

I do not understand the word-condole.

Q. Why, did you do as ALDERMAN WOOD did with the QUBEN?

A. I do not at all understand what you mean now, nor do I know what MR. WOOL did with the QUBEN?
Q. Psha!-Well then, did MR. BIRCH ever accept bills for you.

A. Yes, he did. Q. What are called Kites—eh?—you have heard of flying kites in the city?

A. I never did.-

Q. —Of accommodation acceptances?
A. I have heard of such things certainly.

Q. Well then, did you, after you had sent BIRCH to prison as an Insolvent call upon him in confinement, and ask him to accept two bills for you?

A. 1 do not exactly remember; I might and I might not. Q. You have drawn bills on MR. PATTEN ?—A. I have.

Q. And on Mr. Reeves, a tailor, on Ludgate-hill?

COMMITTEE-We are quite satisfied on this head, MR.

Q. We are sorry to press upon you, MR. WAITHMAN, as to your public zeal to which you have alluded, but you have distinguished yourself very much of late with the mob; -did you see any thing like a disposition to riot on the day of the Queen's funeral?

A. Certainly not. I saw a good many stones thrown, and mud, and flints, and brick-bats, but only at the soldiers;—to be sure, the people had ripped up the pavements, and stopped up the streets with waggons, but in a very orderly

Q. And you did not feel it a part of your duty, as sheriff, to attempt to disperse them?

A. I know very little of the duties of sheriff, thank Gon!

Q. What! do you thank God for your ignorance?

Q. Then, as the old story goes, you have a great deal to be thankful for.—Pray, whom did you mean by WE when you wrote to the LORD MAYOR on the day of the funeral? A. All persons of equal importance with sheriffs speak in the plural, besides which, all our letters from the shop are couched in the same terms.

Q. What is that thing in your hand-your measure-your yard-stick?

A. (angrily) No, Sir, it is my wand of office.

Q. Was it with that, you struck at a soldier on the Sunday when the rioters were buried?

A. I shall not answer that question. I was there in a civil

Q. May be so; knocking down soldiers, however, does not seem very like civil conduct?

A. My life was endangered, and I took the best means I could of defending myself.

Q. Your life endangered-Oh !- from your not being able to ride, I suppose? A. No, Sir, from a soldier's having levelled a very largemouthed gun at me.

Q. Was it loaded? A. I de not know-it might have been.

Q. You saw him load it, didn't you?
A. I have said so in another place.

Q. And do you suppose, if he had loaded it with ball, that it was held in such a direction that the wound would have been mortal if it had hit you?

A. (smiling) That would have depended upon what part it touched.

Q. Well, then, if it had hit you on the head would it have killed you?

A. I am sure I cannot say—probably not.
Q. Do you mean to tell us that you thought yourself in dauger?

A. Yes, I think I must have been in some danger.

Q. Were you put into actual bodily fear?

A. Most certainly. Q. Do you know any thing of the Juries who are sitting on the bodies of the rioters?

A. Nothing. Q. Who summoned them?

A. The proper officers, I suppose.

Q. And you did not interfere at all. Are they all from one parish?—A. How should I know?

Q. Do not you know Mr. Brown, of the Gloucester Coffee House, in Park-lane?

A. I have, of course, seen him.

[Here, upon a suggestion, that from an illegality in the formation of the Juries, the whole of the inquest would necessarily be gone over again; the questions relative to this part of the Sheriff's conduct were deferred till next week.]: Q. Were you acquainted with her late Majesty?

A. Not intimately; she once came to see me in Fleetstreet, and I and my wife and daughters were at a party she gave, to establish her character, about three or four months

Q. Did she deal with you?

Oh dear, no.

Q. Then she had no business at your house?

A. Certainly not.

Q. You are an opulent man? A. I am, Sir.

Q. And have been for many years?

A. I have, Sir.

Q. Do you remember your father?
A. I cannot say that I do or do not.

Q. Perhaps you remember your mother?

A. I have some recollection of her.

Q. Pray, where did she die, MR. WAITHMAN?

A. In her bed, Sir.

Q. No-but in her own house, or in yours?

MR. WAITHMAN declined answering this question, and growing Flynnish, requested permission to order in a rumpsteak and pickled walnuts, which was over-ruled, as a great indecency; but, as it was nearly dinner-time, the Committee adjourned till next Thursday.—On quitting the house, the Sheriff was loudly cheered by the populace, who drew him home to Fleet-street.

(To be continued in our next.)

TO JOHN BULL.

SIR-Having seen, in the 17th Number of JOHN BULL, the REV. WHITLOCK GANDY vindicated from the charge of allowing a white flag to wave on the tower of his Church at Kingston-on-Thames, in honour of the acquittal (falsely so called) of her late Majesty, I am desirous of ascertaining, through the medium of your truly enlightened and enlightening Paper, how it comes to pass, that in the Chapel at STONE-HOUSE in Devonshire (where he has been officiating for the last month) the desk, pulpit, organ, &c. are made to evince, by their funereal garb, that respect which was so anxiously disavowed for the Rev. Gentleman on the occasion before alluded to .- I am, Sir, An Inhabitant of Stonehouse,

AND ADMIRER OF CONSISTENCY.

TO JOHN BULL.

DEAR JOHN,-I wish to be informed, through the medium of your Paper, if it is usual for Charity Schools to obey the order for Court mourning, as the children of St. Giles and St. George, Bloomsbury, Schools are all trimmed off with crape, &c. to the great disgust of many of the subscribers, some of whom, it is to be feared. may withdraw their aid to the charity; as they do not approve of money, intended for a far different use, being expended in useless adornments, or to shew the spirit of party; as no more could have been done had the order for mourning been general. I am, dear John, your constant reader, A SUBSCRIBER TO THE SCHOOL.

TO JOHN BULL.

SIR,—I send you a copy of a communication which was made to the Editor of the Hampshire Chronicle, and inserted in that journal on the 20th ult.

(COPY.)—"On Thursday a select number of Gentlemen dined at the Coffee-house, Farnham, to manifest the lust token of respect to the late lamented Queen. The day was spent with that propriety and decorum which the solemnity of the circumstance seemed to demand. Instead of noisy and riotous mirth, which usually perto demand. Instead of noisy and riotous mirth, which usually pervades public meetings, the present occasion was marked by better feeling and more rational conduct. 'The immortal Memory of Caroline of Brunswick,' was drunk with solemn silence. In the evening, the Gentlemen composing the Band paraded the streets, and played several solemn and appropriate airs. The Cumberland Society of Ringers rang a muffled peal; and the day passed off in a sedate and quiet manner, much to the credit of every individual.'
Without troubling you. Sir. with any remarks on the Without troubling you, Sir, with any remarks on the vague and indeterminate application of the epithet gentleman, in modern times, I subjoin you a list of the select number of gentlemen who dined at the Coffee House on Thursday

Mr. Boniface, formerly Cook in the Military College at Farnham. James Bennett, Turner.

Charles Bennett, Journeyman Turner.
George Dew, Journeyman Carpenter.
William Barnes, Coach-maker.
Henry Earl, Journeyman Cabinet-maker.
Duniel Edwards, Journeyman Tinker. — Faigent, Journeyman Potter. William Lindsey, Journeyman Painter. Thomas Matthews, Journeyman Shoemaker. James Martin, Journeyman Carpenter. George Pearcy, Journeyman Bricklayer. William Scarlett, Journeyman Plumber. William Stedman, Journeyman Tailor. John Wherrerd, Farmer's Servant. William Wherrerd, Farmer's Servant.

This, Sir, is a select number from a party denominated the "Gentlemen Patriots," who certainly were worthy to rank amongst the most faithful and dutiful subjects of HER Majesty the Queen. These gentlemen patriots, being exceedingly incensed at the insult offered to her Majesty, by the King's refusal to associate her with himself on the day of the Coronation, or to fix a time for her Coronation on a subsequent day, had it in contemplation to crown a Caroline as proxy for their beloved and persecuted Queen. When the Queen's illness was announced, and said Queen. When the Queen's illness was announced, and to be encreasing, on the Saturday preceding the day of her to be encreasing, on the Saturday preceding the day of her to be encreasing, on the Saturday preceding the day of her to be encreasing. death, one of these gentlemen patriots exclaimed—"D-n her! I hope she will live till after Monday." This Monday was to have been the day of Coronation, and, of course, a day of feasting.

Thus, Sir, is exhibited a specimen of the feeling of these gentlemen patriots before and after their beloved and persecuted, and lamented Queen's death .- I am, Sir, your most A CONSTANT READER. obedient servant.

TO JOHN BULL.

" My name is CROWTHER."

Coroner's Inquest, Monday, Sept. 3. MR. EDITOR—I do not wish to intrude myself upon the columns of your deserving Journal, but as the extraordinary proceedings of the Jury (now sitting to enquire the came of Honey's decease) have awakened in the minds of all British feeling subjects a peculiar degree of disgust, I have ventured to send you a circumstance someway connected with them. I allude to a lame person of the name of Crowther.

I presume, he would never have dared to come before the I presume, he would never have dared to come before the Coroner and Jury last Monday, and represent himself as a Member of the honourable profession of the law, without he were actually in practice. But, Sir, he had first the impudence to assert that he was a barrister—next, that he appeared there in a peculiar capacity, viz. "for neither party." When he was rather hard pressed by Mr. Blaikie, he confessed "he came as amiens curia;" and, lastly, said he was a solicitor, concerned for the nearest relatives of the deceased.

Surely the profession, of which I have the honour of being a member, is not to be slurred more than it already is by the admission of (I am sorry to say) too many improper characters; and, therefore, to use Mr. C.'s phrase, as amicur curia, I beg leave to ask him, whether he is one of the Crowthers, of Wednesbury, Stafford?-If he is not, I trust his Majesty's Commissioners of the Stamp-Office will proceed against him, for practising either as a solicitor, attorney, no. tary-public, proctor, agent, or procurator, without a certificate, and which, according to the Act of 55 Geo. III. c. 90. subject him to a penalty of 501.

His name cannot be found either amongst the Barristers or London Attornies in the Law List; and, therefore, I do trust this may be the means of some enquiry being also pursued by the Law Association upon the subject.—I remain, Sir, your much obliged, H. M. M.

A Member of Lincoln's Inn.

THEATRE, HAYMARKET.

A TRAGEDY at this Theatre (unless, indeed, it were Tox THUMB, or Chrononotonthologos) is a rarity. Every thing associated in the mind with the little Haymarket is mirthful; and moreover, there is a prejudice (wherein founded, we know not) against crying in hot weather; this, however, must be getting out of fashion, since the Winter Theatres conti-nue to present their scenes of killing woe, even through the dog-days.

An exception to a general rule should never be made without a good reason, and it requires a very good reason in-deed to break through the system of playing broad farces at the Haymarket for the sake of introducing long, heavy trage-dies. We must allow, that the manager had a fair excuse for the innovation in the person of a debutante, who made her appearance in Belvidera.

We would have wished some other tragedy had been selected for the occasion; for there are parts of VENICE PRE-SERVED calculated to excite the noisy clamour of the Gods, which inevitably mars the general effect of the performance; indeed, we think such excitation as the speeches of JAFFIER and Pierre are apt to produce, had better, on other accounts, be avoided—all traitors, murderers, and Radicals, talk the same principles, though perhaps not in the same words, and the final annihilation of the conspirators and plot in the play, do not seem to us qualification sufficiently strong for the traitorous language uttered in the course of it. This-TLE WOOD and DESPARD were hanged for their treasons it is true, but we should doubt the policy of having suffered either of those persons to have given a course of lectures upon rebellion previous to their execution.

MR. CONWAY (as they call him) was by no means successful in JAFFIER, but the contortions and distortions of his face were highly entertaining; to us, indeed, they gave considerable pleasure, as associated with youthful recollections We are old enough to remember some three or four and thirty years ago, the figure of a stone eater, at Merlin's Mu-seum, into whose mouth pebbles were thrown, which it began immediately to masticate, during the operation, its eyes rolled about and turned up, its great jaws worked, and its great ears stuck out, and it made the most ludicrous appearance imaginable. The chief charm to us, in Mr. Conway's acting, on Wednesday, was derived from his striking results. blance to the great, staring, twisting, grinning head in the exhibition, frightful as we thought it at the time.

MR. CONWAY is too tall for an actor—at all events for the Haymarket, and certainly for JAFFIER, if the debutante is to play BELVIDERA, or TERRY, PIERRE, for, while standing with his wife and friend, it appeared as if JAFFIER had been plotting against LILLIPUT, or PIERRE and BELVIDERA had been betrayed into Brobdignag.

TERRY played PIERRE for the first time, and played it pretty well; there is in Terry's tragedy a sort of innate sners himself, as if he felt a contempt for the humbug of his art. We are sorry to see this—no man can be excellent in any pursuit in which his whole heart and mind are not engaged; and one might as well expect a man married to a woman be never had seen, to be a happy husband, as an actor to be great, who is not enamoured of his profession.

Pleased are we, indeed, to be able to give a most favourable account of the Lady (whose name a correspondent tells us is BRUDENELL,) who appeared in BELVIDERA, a more interesting person we have seldom seen upon the stage; her countenance is indescribably sweet, her features good, and her hair decidedly the most beautiful we ever beheld.

Having to play most of her scenes with the Gog JAFFIBE, her figure appeared somewhat petite; but in ordinary society her height would be just that, which blends grace with lighmes, and symmetry with delicacy—her voice is good, but some what monotonous—her soft and endearing scenes were really beautifully acted; and where she failed in the more boisterous parts, it seemed to arise from a want of practical skill in pitching the tone in which she spoke—her scream was discordant; but she is young to the stage, and

"If to her share some trifling errors fall,
"Look in her face and you'll forget them all."

She was most flatteringly received throughout, and the play announced for the next night with unanimous applause.

We cannot conclude these observations without remarking the splendour and elegance of the dresses of this piece, which do great credit to the taste and liberality of the management. We are surprised, that in such concerns as Theatres, parsimony ever should creep in; a few pounds laid out in matters of taste are most advantageously disbursed; and really, while the SURREY THEATRE, and other minor places of amusement, make the shew they do, it requires a skilful and liberal hand to surpass, or even to equal them, in the particular of costume or scenic decoration.

By a mere accident we enjoyed more amusement on Wednesday than we had bargained for. A fair friend, who accompanied us to the theatre, wished (there is no accounting for taste) to have a book of the play to read during the performance, the which seems to us to destroy all the illusion one wishes to cherish, and answers no purpose, that we can see, but catching the actors out in any mistakes they may happen to make. The young lady desired it, however, and we purchased a copy as we passed to the playhouse.

On our return home we discovered, prefixed to OTWAY's play, some remarks, which are so perfectly absurd, so illustriously ridiculous, that we cannot choose, after having laughed heartily at them ourselves, but select a few of them for the amusement of our readers.

The author of the prefatory remarks, whoever he may be tells us, that there is not a passage in VENICE PRESERVED, on "which the memory loves to dwell, not one that be-"comes, as it were, a part of our habitual thinking: yet " many such passages may be found in the neglected FORD "and WEBSTER, and not a few in DECKER; nay, (says " the anonymous oracle) the whole tone of the play is pro-" saic," &c. &c. and so he proceeds to run down OTWAY, and quotes a dry military command given to DURAND as a specimen of the general style of the tragedy of VENICE PRESERVED.

But with this we do not quarrel, because the Cockney School (of which, whoever he be, this preface writer is one) all have a cant about writers whom they call neglected and beautiful—and DECKER, and WEBSTER, and FORD are the most bewitching fellows that ever wrote;—as a matter of taste, if THEY like those obscure personages better than OTWAY, DRYDEN, BEN JONSON, or BEAUMONT and FLETCHER, let them enjoy their opinions, which, as nobody is likely to adopt, nobody can have any right to interfere with.

But this preface writer, after declaring his contempt for OTWAY's pathos, and telling us that " his language is worse than nothing, says this :-

"And here we are tempted to give one short extract from WEB STER; it is exquisitely beautiful, and will serve to show we have not spaken at randon. First, however, we should premise that the subject leading to the lines is briefly this:—the Duckess of Matfy subject learning to the lines is then the second of heavy marries her steward, and her brothers, in revenge, by several horrid schemes, endsavour to break her heart; finding all the efforts to this end ineffectual, they cause her to be strangled by their agent Bosola—the deed is done—Perdinand enters."

And now mark what the man quotes, to beat OTWAY out of the field.

" Bos. She is what you would have her. Fix your eye here.

Fer. Constantly.

" Bos. Do you not weep?

Other sins only speak, murder shricks out: The element of water moistens the earth, blood flies upwards, and bedews the heavens.

"Fer. Cover her face; mine eyes danzle -she died young!!!
Bos. I think not so; her infelicity

Seem'd to have years too many! "Fer. She and I were twins; And should I die this instant, I had lived Mer time to a minute!!!!"

And then he adds—
"This is indeed pathos and the sublime of poesy: how exquisitely beautiful the reluctance of Bosola to name his deed; he can not say she is dead.—' She is what you would have her?—
How touching the relenting speeches of Ferdinand.—' She died young?—and his remark that they were twins. For our own PARTS, WE DO NOT ENVY THOSE WHO can read this extract with dry eyes, if indeed it be possible to any one; language so simple yet at the same time so poetical and energetic, is NO WHERE TO BE FOUND BUT IN FORD, and that immortal genius which leaves behind it all human efforts at a hopeless distance.

Here we arrived, as we thought, at the climax of absurdity nor could we conceive what on earth a man who could spell three words upon paper meant by such outrageous nonsense. The next paragraph satisfied us: the mysterious Cockney is evidently a disappointed playwright. He says-

"But WEBSTER lived in a happy period; there were neithe newspapers nor Scotch critics, who damn every attempt at strong writing by the name of German and melo-dramatic horrors."

Is not this beyond all measure comical? A literary mana preface-writer, telling us gravely that it was a happy period when there were neither newspapers nor Scotch critics

We know nothing of the Sage in disguise, who puts forth this farrago of absurdity, but we would stake our existence that he is some genuine sprig of the real Cocknies, who, at some period "concentrated all his ability," tact, and learning in adapting a raw head and bloody-bones melo-drame from the German, which, from the just animadversion of the daily papers. and the general contempt into which the whole race of Cockayne have been brought by BLACKWOOD, ground, and by its fall, deprived its ingenious adapter of the three pounds sixteen and three-pence three-farthings, which the liberality of the acting manager of Drury Lane had awarded, as the value of his piece, should it have sucoeeded; and to this awkward accident does OTWAY stand indebted for the censure he meets with, and WEBSTER for having a quotation made from his works that would disgrace even the writers for SADLER'S WELLS or the LYCBUM.

The MARRIAGE of FIGARO was produced at the Hav market on Friday, and most excellently performed. Jones and DECAMP were very efficient in ALMAVIVA and FIGARO. We never saw the PAGE better played in any theatre; and MISS CAREW acted and sang in the COUNTESS particularly well; MISS CORRI executed her music very prettily.

We are inclined to think our observations upon the band of this theatre have had their effect, and we are glad if they have, for it always gives us pain to censure, and when we do, it is with the hope of being ultimately useful both to the public and the proprietors.

MISCELLANEOUS.

We observe, with pleasure, that a subscription has been entered into for the wounded Life Guards; and we have no doubt that the spirit of loyalty which pervades all the respectable classes of life will furnish a sum, which, however serviceable in itself to the gallant fellows, who are suffering from the lawless outrages of the mob, will be still more satisfactory to their feelings, as a tribute of esteem and affection for their noble conduct and exemplary for-

THE KING'S VISIT TO HANOVER .- We understand that it is finally determined that the King, immediately on his return from Ireland, will proceed to visit his German dominions. In the King's absence from his British possessions, a Commission of Lords Justices will be appointed, according to the precedents established in former with the appointment according to the precedents estainated in former reigns, to exercise the functions of Royalty here. The seal to be used by the Commission is said to be now preparing.

His Majesty, it is understood, will certainly visit Scotland next year, and hold his Court at Holyrood House for three or four weeks.

A letter from Piymouth, dated the 30th ult., states that a notifi-cation has been made to the Commander-in-Chief, and the Commissioner of the Dock-yard there, that his Majesty will visit that port on the 9th or 10th of September. The Marquis of Londonderry arrived on the 25th ult. at his sent Mount Stewart; the houses on the Noble Lord's extensive estate were illuminated—these formed an amphitheatre of 15 miles.

The Duke of York arrived in town from Brighton on Thursday afternoon.

Lord Sidmouth arrived in town on Friday.

Major-Gen. Sir E. Barnes, K.C.B. is about to quit Ceylon for England, on account of ill-health.

The sum total subscribed up to the 30th ult. in Dublin, towards the Palace or Monument to be erected in commemoration of his Majesty's landing in Ireland, is 7,8691. Irish money, which is about equal to 72001. English money.

The Bank of England has refused to take all silver coins which have holes punched through them, or which are otherwise mutilated the Government being determined to keep up the intrinsic value of the coinage.

BRITISH ARMY IN INDIA .- His Majesty's Royal Scots Regiment 2d battalion, is quartered at Trichinipoly, Madras Establishment.
The 45th Regiment is now quartered in Kandy, Ceylon, and the 83d and 16th Regiments are quartered at Colombo. The 1st Ceylon Regiment is now stationed at Kandy, and the 2d at Colombo. It is reported that the 2d Ceylon Regiment, now stationed at Colomb Ceylon, under the command of Lieut.-Col. Smelt. will relieve His Majesty's 73d Regiment at Trincomalee.

A reduction in the Royal 10th Hussars, stationed at Brighton took place there on Saturday se'nnight.—The number reduced was eventy-five.

SITTINGS BEFORE MICHAELMAS TERM, 1821 .- Seals, Rebearings, Appeals, and Petitions, before the Lord Chancellor:—Thursday, Nov. 1, First Seal.—Friday, Nov. 2, Rehearings and Appeals.
—Saturday, Nov. 3, Second Seal.—Monday, Nov. 5, Petitions.—Seals, Piens, Demurrers, and Petitions, before the Vice-Chancellor:—Thursday, Nov. 1, First Seal—Motions.—Friday, Nov. 2, Pleas and Denurrers.—Saturday, Nov. 3, Second Seal—Motions.—Monday, Nov. 5, Petitions. Monday, Nov. 5, Petitions.

A stage-coach has been established between Sydney and Para-matta, the first known in the colony of Botany Bay.

His Majesty's ship Creele, Commodere Sir T. Hardy, arrived at Valparaiso, 16th May, in 13 days from Limu.

The East India Company's ship Kent, outward bound, was in lat. 20. 43. S., long. 33. I. W. on the 18th April, all well.

The accounts from all parts of the country state, that, generally speaking, the harvest has been well got in.

It must afford to every friend of his country real satisfaction to learn, that in most of our principal manufacturing places, great activity prevails at the present moment.

Passengers by the various coaches that arrived in London on Friday, report the tempest on Thursday night to have been most awiul and terrific; it appears to have been at its greatest beight be-tween one and two o'clock in the morning. The thunder was so loud, and the lightning so strong, that the inhabitants on almost all the roads had quitted their beds. A tremendous fire was seen from Hockliffe and Dunstable.

The Suffolk Pitt Club held their First Anniversary on Tuesday the 21st ult. at Ipswich, in a building erected for the purpose in Northgate-street, which was profusely decorated with wreaths of flowers, evergreens, &c. and illuminated with variegated lamps. The tables were placed in three rows, with two divisions in each row, forming nine tables, at the top and bottom of which a Vice-President sat. The President's chair was placed at the centre table, the back of it formed a shield, on which was inscribed, in letters of silver, on light blue silk, "The Suffolk Pitt Club, instituted 1821," and tastefully decorated with blue and silver drapery; a variety of appropriate decorations and emblems were disposed in different parts room. T. S. Gooch, Esq. M. P. was in the chair. About 400 gentlemen were present. A variety of toasts were given. Among the rest—"The immortal memory of the Right Hon. William Pitt," which was drank standing, in silence.—"The House of Brunswick and may they never forget the principles which seated them on the The Protestant Ascendancy."-Throne of England."—" Majesty's Ministers."- " May the principles of Mr. Pitt ever have an influence on the councils of Great Britain." Captain of the age, the Illustrious Duke of Wellington, to whom the country could never repay its debt of gratitude."

A private letter from Boulogne, dated Aug. 29, has the following -Mr. Webster Wedderburn's proces was tried here this day, when, after a deliberate examination of all the witnesses, himself, and the servant (who has been long perfectly well), the Procureur du Roi pronounced Mr. Wedderburn's conduct perfectly justifiable, and that he had wounded the servant in his own defence, he having, by his own deposition, made the assault upon his master. The tri-bunal adjudged, therefore, 16 francs amende, and the costs to be paid mutually between the parties. Mr.W. was most ably defended by M. Bedouin, Advocate at Boulogne.

ADVERTISEMENT.] - A discovery has lately been introduced, which bids fair to supersede the necessity of a dentist. HUBSON'S Botanie Tooth Pewder is a certain remedy and preventive for all disorders of the mouth. It not merely cleanses and beautifies the teeth, but preserves them from decay to the latest period of life. It makes the teeth white, fastens such as are loose, prevents those decayed growing worse, removes the tartar, and cures the scurry in the gume, leaving them firm and of a healthy reduces. It is an antidote for gum-boils, swelled face, and that excruciating pain the teoth-ache; and so certain and undeviating is its effects th never was an instance of any person who regularly used it ever having the teeth-ache, or a tooth decay; and though so powerful an antiseptick, it is entirely free of acid, and so innocent that the contents of a box may be taken by an infant.—The following Agents are appointed—Mr. Atkinson (wholesame agent) 14 Gerrard-street, Soho-square; Sanger, 130, Oxford-street; Gattie and rarra-surer, sono-square; sanger, 150, Uxtord-street; Gatue and Pierce, 57, Bond-street; Rigge, 65, Cheapside; Taite, 41, Cornhill; Nix, Royal Exchange; Barclay's, Fleet Market; Dicey, Bow Church-yard; Edwards, St. Paul's Church-yard; Butler's, Cheapside, and most Medicine Vendens and Perfumers. Price 2s. 8d. a box.

POLICE.

Bow-street,-Joshua Boggas charged Mesers. T. and W. Hill, pawnbrokers, Upper Ratbbone-Place, with taking more than legal interest for a piedge. On the 20th Dec. 1619, he pledged a black cont, trowners, and waistcoat for 31. 10s.; in March last he sent a person named Winter to pay the interest, when Mr. Hill charged 17s. 10d., purporting to be the interest for the time stated. It appears, however, that the real interest amounted only to 13s. 14d and that the difference, 4s. 84d., was an overcharge made by the idants, who were convicted in the penalty of 51, and costs.

Mansion-House, - On Tuesday, J. Gaffeld, the silveramith, charged some time since with forging the Hall marks, was fully committed for trial. It was stated that the crime of forging the Hall and duty marks had of late encreused to so enormous an extent that the drawbacks exceeded the receipts at the Hall.

An enquiry took place on Wednesday before R. Birnie, Esq. in consequence of a warrant granted by that Magistrate on a com-plaint against Count Bertrand. The warrant had been granted to search the Count's residence for a bust of Bonaparte, which it was alleged belonged to a Dr. Burton, but which the Count withheld. Count Bertrand said that the bust was the property of the family of the deceased, to whom he was executor, and he thought he should not be authorized in giving it up. The Magistrate swore the Count to the truth of this statement, and then said it was a case out of his jurisdiction, and dismissed the complaint.

HATTON-GARDEN .- On Thursday, Wm. Farr, the keeper of a coffee-shop in Leather-lane, was convicted on two informations of keeping his shop open, and serving ten or coffee after 12 o'clock, in the penalty of 51, for the first, and 71. for the second offence, which not being able to pay, he was sentenced to six weeks imprisonment. for the first, and two months for the second offence.

PROVINCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Annovan.-Miss ---, teacher at a boarding-school, has ab--, a married man, agent to a house in London, in the wine trade. She is an interesting girl, of good connexions in this neighbourhood, and about eighteen years of age; while her inamorato is a dull, heavy sort of man, approaching to thirty. They are about to proceed to the Cape of Good Hope, it is stated, to establish themselves as new settlers.

BATH.—The Herald Paper of this city states; we are informed that the Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells has removed the Rev. Stephen Hyde Cassan from the Curacy of Frome, by the revocation

BRIGHTON.—A singular instance of sudden death occurred here on Monday. Mr. Sprole, a gentleman of fortune, arrived on Sunday last, and on Monday morning, he went to Mahomeds, on the west cliff, and ordered a shower bath, when he was ready, the bath was, in the usual manner, discharged upon him, when, shocking to relate, he fell instantly dead. His death is supposed to have been produced by the shock being too severe for a frame already much debilitated, or from apoplexy. The Coroner's verdict was—Died by the Fisitation of God. FOLKSTONE .- A serious affray took place in the night of the st inst. at Apple Bay, near Birchington, between a large party of smugglers and a party of the coast blockade, in which Mr. Kerr, an officer of the latter, was dangerously wounded from a shot, and several of the smugglers were much cut.

They succeeded, however, in working the whole of the cargo of the boat, with the exception of one or two tubs.

CANTERBURY.—Thursday being the Anniversary of the King's School Feast, an impressive sermon was preached at the Cathedral by the Rev. Mr. Plater, jun. in which he set forth the advantage of a public classical education, and stated that the immortal Harvey, who discovered the circulation of the blood, was educated in that foundation; as were the present Lord Chief Justice of England, and the Bishop of Peterborough. After the service, the Very Reversed the Dean of Canterbury, Dr. Marlow, the Stewards, and many ladies and gentlemen, proceeded to the school, to hear the speechs with very great correctness. Mr. Jackson Delmar obtained by his merit the two prizes of the Lord Chief Justice.

DUNDER.—On Sunday morning, about three o'clock, the mail coach, when returning from hence, passed over the body of a man, named George Mullins, who was lying on the road, near Kintauns, and killed him on the spot.

The activity of the Authorities in this town, in the course of reek, made an old weman speak after sixteen years' silence. She old "dumb fortunes" (a commodity not within the jurisdiction of the Guildry, it should seem, either for price of freedom, or for booth utset), and in this way picked up a living by pleasing female credulity. She was committed on a Justice of Peace's warrant; and after 24 hours' fasting and obstinacy, she was fain to exclaim, "Oh, Maister Watson, gi'e me a drink."

DUBLIN.- A disgraceful outrage took place at Donnybrook-fair on Sunday night week, between 9 and 10 o'clock, a number of daring ruffians entered one of the tents, and called for some drink. After they had finished the drink, they all started up from their seats, and drawing from under their coats staves, bludgeons, and other formidable weapons, extinguished the lights, and then attacked other forminable weapons, exhausts the results, and the actavely the company in the most brutal manner, several of whom were dreadfully wounded. They knocked down both the proprietor's wife and his assistants, afterwards destroyed the glass, delph, &c. teok the cocks out of the casks, let the liquor flow about, and robbed the till of upwards of ten pounds in money.

DOVER .- Last week, John Francis, John Standley, James Toms. Thomas Wilson, and John Ellis, were convicted before the Mayor, for playing at Cricket, in the parish of Charlton, on the Sabbath, in the penalty of 3s. 4d. each, which was paid in Court by the three first: the other two, Wilson, and Ellis, in default of distress, will be placed in the stocks for three hours, agreeably to the act of

EDINBURGH.-On Thursday, his Excellency Prince Nicho Esterhazy and suite, accompanied by the Lord Provost and Dr. Hope, visited the Register Office, Parliament House, the Libraries of the Advocates and Writers to the Signet, the College, Heriot's, Watson's, and Merchant's Maiden Hospitals, with all of which his Excellency appeared (as he expressed) to feel the highest gratification. The freedom of the city was presented by the Lord Provost in a neat speech, to which his Excellency made an appropriate reply, which he concluded by observing, that he should represent to the Emperor on his return, the flattering reception he had met with in GLASGOW .- The Hunterian Museum in this city, was some time ago presented by Lady Keith with a gold sovereign of the reign of n Elizabeth, two antique coins found in a temple in the plain of Marathon, in Greece; two antique coins found in the Temple of Juno, at Athens; and three ancient coins from the Temple of Jupiter Olympus, at Athens.

GLOUCESTER.—On Saturday se'nnight, in front of the County gaol, Joseph Ford, aged 28, and John Badcock, aged 22, for horse-stealing, and John Baker, aged 16, for housebreaking and robbery, at Pamington, underwent the dreadful sentence of the law, before an immense concourse of spectators.

GRENOCK.—Sir Gregor M'Gregor, whose name is so intimately associated with the transactions of the war between the colonies of Spain and the mother country, arrived here on Friday last from Belfast, in the Eclipse steam-boat. His stay in town, we believe,

-The Bishou of Oxford laid the foundation-s new Lunatic Asylum in this city with much ceremony on Monday se'nnight, in the presence of the Pro Vice Chancellor, the President of Trisity College, the Provost of Oriel College, the Provist and a number of other gentlemen of the University address; House College, the Provist of the University address; House College, the Provision of the University address; House College, the College of the Colleg in. The Glasgow will instantly refit for Ceylon. Sir Edward Paget and family have been waiting some time at Cowes, to embark in the Glasgow.

ASSIZES.

Sungwenter.—The King v. J. Williamson, Esq. Tills was a crimball information against the defendant, Mayor of Chester in the year 1819-20, & the question to try was, whether he had not us Mayor acted corruptly in the election for Member of Parliament for that The Mayor, according to the constitution of that city, was not the returning officer, the Sheriffs were; but his office, as chief magistrate, invested him with considerable influence in the election. candidates were the Right Hon. Richard Grosvenor, commonly oulled Lord Viscount Belgrave, Thomas Grosvenor, Esq., Sir John Grey Egerton, Bart., and Edward Venatics Townshend, Esq. It appeared that the defendant was attached to what was termed the appeared that we detended was structed to want was termed the Grosvenor interest.—Mr. T. Dicas stated, that he went to the defeadant's house on the 21st March, 1820, for the purpose of asking him when he would admit the 44 persons who had tendered at the poll? he said he would not admit them without notice, and that after he had notice, he would take all the time he could; he would not admit them during his time. Asked if he meant during the time of his Mayoralty? when he again repeated, he would take all the time he could. In a few days afterwards delivered him a list of the 44 names, and gave him notice of an intended application to the King's Beneh, if he refused giving them their freedom within a month, for each individual.—A great number of witnesses were called to prove the charge of his not admitting these persons to their freedom; they had, however, subsequently been admitted.— The Jury found him Guilty.—As soon as the Foremen had delivered the verdict, Sir William Garrow moved towards the Jury, and aid, "A very proper rerdict."

Carlisle.—Thompson v. Blamire.—This was an action for a breach of promise of marriage. The plaintiff was the daughter of a farmer at Darline; the defendant the son of a gentleman of good property, at Succe House. He had been in the habit of visiting the plaintiff, who is about 24 years old, the same age as the defendant; he had promised her marriage about six years previous to the action, but subsequently married a Miss Oliver. Some of his letters were a strange mixture of love, and fondness for horses. His letters, of which many were read, were in this style: -"My derivest Sarah, I have embraced the earliest opportunity of writing a few lines. I don't like Newcastle so well as I did. I should be much happier with you, my dear Sarah."

(There were two or three other objects alluded to in the letter; one was an object always of a great deal of attention with him, namely, his horse. "I am afraid it will be Saturday night before I will get hence, as the horse does not run for the cap, but for the maiden plate on Friday. I wish I was back to you again, my deur Sarah, as there are none on earth I love but you. I remain, dearest Sarah, your affectionate lover, E. Blamico."— The Jury taking the whole of these epistles into consideration, and the testimony as to the promise, gave a verdict for the plaintiff with 100l. damages.

W.lson (spinster) v. Birrell .- A similar action to the foregoing. A verdict for 2001, was taken, with consent of all parties, and the case not gone into Renuick v. Matthews.—An action for erim. con., brought by a barber against an old gentleman. In this case a verdict was taken by consent for 40s, for the loss of the society of the plaintiff's wife.

Scotsmen v. Harriman.-This was an action for a breach of promise of marriage, brought by a traveller to a lace-dealer, against a young widow with a good firture. The fair defendant required a switchment of the property, provious to emering on the marriage; this the swain refused to accede to, and the Learned of opinion that as he did not finish the contract he was not entitled to recover, and so the plaintiff was nonseited.

ACCIDENTS, OFFENCES, &c.

MUBDER AND ROBBERY AT HIGHGATE .- Berrett and his wife vers examined on Thursday, before Dr. Owen and Mr. Beville at Highgate; the former on suspicion of having murdered the gardeper of Mr. Hall; and the latter for robbing the family of Ruthschild, with whom she had formerly Hved as dairy-maid. The property which was found at their lodgings, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Rothschild, consisted of bed furniture, decembers, tumblers and wine glusses, silver plate, obtan, knives and forks; wearing apparel, table linen, valuable trinkets, &c. a box was also proed which was found at the prisoners' lodging, containing a crow bar, a screw driver, and two tremendous banamers. The property was identified as being part Mr. Rollschild's, and part belonging to the servants. The femule prisoner was fully committed for trial, and the man was remanded

The neighbourhood of Highgate, for some time past, has been infested by a most notorious set of thieres, who have committed the most during depredations with impunity. Mr. Gowran's house has been repeatedly beset by robbers, whose during acts became at length so audicious, that he was arged to pursue some mode of intimidation, but not wishing to take the life of an individual, he recommended his servants merely to put some powder in the pistols to highten the thieres. One of his servants did so, and on beholding a thef urmed with a bindgeon he let the pistol off; the thier, apparently unblarmed, rushed on his servant and beat him ereffully over the shins until he disabled irun, and he escaped; similar attacks had recently been made.

Monday hight a pick-pocket was brought into the watch-house of $\mathbb{B}_{1}$. Separation Without, in Cow-cross; whilst Mr. Coleman, a tailor, who was constable of the night, was entering the charge in the charge book, one of the light-ingered gentry, who accompanied the charge into the watch-home, picked his pocket of his watch, and deputted before his loss was discovered.

		SHIP N	EWS.
Arrived	Malls	Due	Arrived	Maŭs	Due
	Publin	—		.Maita
	Waterford			Prance
1	Juernscy & J	91397 ····		.Hambergi	1 i folland		—	Flanders .
	iottenburgh.			Jamaica
ا بمه، ا	(la)ndh		,	St. Thom.	—

Lisboh

DERL, Sept. 7. Wind 19. W. Selled, 46e Pyrennees, Clark, for Jamaica.

Argived and saited for the river, the Lord Crassious, Aiken, from Jamaica.

Remain, the Roslyn Cas'le, from liew Brunswick: Royal Charlotte, from Hallfax: London, from Quibbe; Isa'elld, from the Cape; Hambletonian, from Sierra Leone: Neptune, from Trieste; Importer, from Gibraltar; and several others, names unknown.

HARWICH, Sept.7. Agrived H. M. ship Wys.-from the Elbe, and the Prince of Orange packet, with a spail, from Holland.

PORTSMOUTH, Sept.7. Wind S. W. Sailed, the Regulus transport, FORTSHOUTH, Sept. I. wind to the Downs.

GOWES, Sept. 7. Arrived and sailed again, the Mary, Arckeoll, from London to N. S. Wales. Also arrived, the Hazurd, Claxton, from Guernsey, leaky. The George Symes, Bushby, from London, for Quelec, struck on Canier Point, near Pointsierry, 32 inst, and sustained so much damage that the zargo must be distanced.

The Carlotton, Clark, from Terceira, arrived at Faval the 21st July, and in the 2d Aug. was driven on shere, and could re, be got off without much damaged.

A-BARGAIN -CHELEBA. A-BARGAIN! CHELSBA. TO THE AST, ON LEASE, or A SOLD, an extremely desirable HOUSE of sight Rooms (including Kitchens) built and finished in the most ambatantial and decorative manner, under the Proprietor's Surveyor, who reay he referred to. A Garden behind, and a Grove in front; free from dust, and will supplied with water; a short distance from the Parls, and in a respectation english bearbood. Coaches every hour to all parts of Town.—It will be sold a burgain, and part of the Purchase may remain, urlet on Lease reasonably. Ast physics. Figures Terrace, White Styles, Chelsea, near the College.

FOR THE TEETH .- A DENTIFRICE, which, although it ANTIFRICE, which, although it has not the absurd pretensions of "generating enamel," or "converting the gums to cosal," will be found to possess every requisite that can reasonably be expected. These articles are perfectly innocent in their composition, and pleasant in their application, being the result of many years actual practice.—Also a TINCTURE that is warranted to afford relief in all cases, and is most will permanently remove the TOOTH ACHE.—Prepared by J. GRAY, Surgeon and Dunist, No. 25, Clottle Burlington-street, London, price 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6. each bottle of Tincture, and 3s. each box of Dentifrice. May also be had of Mr. Johnston, 68, Corabilit; Mr. Suuxder, 95, St. Jasseo'estreet, Brighton; at Mr. Williams's Library, Cheltenham; and of Mrs. Gosid, 4, Milsom-street, Bath, &c. &c. &c.

PRICE and GOSNELL'S MACASSAR OIL, patronised by His PRICE and GOSNELL'S MACASSAR OIL, patronised by His Majesty and the Royal Family, gives attength and a beautiful glossy appearance to the Hair; imparts to it the most delightful perfume, and prevents its falling off or turning grey to extreme old age. Hair dressed with this celebrated Oil soon becomes soft, curly, bright, and luxuriant in its growth; and hair that has I een injured, made harsh, and turning grey, will be restored, by a few applications, to its natural colour, brilliancy, and reauty.—Sold by the sole Proprietors, and only Importers, PRICE and GOSNELL, Perfumers to His Majesty, No. 12, Three Kings-court, Lombard-street, London, in bottles at 3s. 6d.; 10s. 6d.; and 21s. each, bearing their signature on the label in red ink.

CAUCION.—Mewers PRICE and GOSNELL her to cauthon the Nobility and Gentra aparious Macassar Oil, injurious to the hair, imposed upon the public by hair-dressers (falsely styling themselves importers) who are equally incompetent to ascertain the danger of what they extol, as they are to discover what might be useful.—Ask for Price and Gosnell's Macassar Oil.

FRENCH PERFUMERY.—JEAN DEVEREAUX'S KSPRIT DE LAVANDE AUX MILLEPLEURS, possesses all the lamby fragrance of the freshest flowers; its aromatic, cephalic, and nervine virtues, are instantly diffused through the most spacious a artiments, while the fragrance of its seen revives every person around.—Sold in bottles, price 2s. 6d. and 5s. at the Depot for French Perfumery, 23, Lombard-street, London; where is to be had JEAN DEVEREAUN'S MONTPELLIER SOAP for rendering the complexion delicately amonth, clear, and even; imparting a wirlying grateful perfume, and giving to the skin a most delicutus feel and fuxurious brilliancy. Price 2s. 6d. per packet.—Sold retail at 68, Cornhill; No. 9, Regent-street, Pall Mall; 129, Oxford-street; 50, St. James's-street; 22. Hatton Garden, and wholesale by Price and Gosuell, Perfumers to His Majesty.

L'y A gratutions sample (on a handker-hief) of Jean Devercaux's celebrated Haprit de Lavande aux stillefteurs, will be presented to any Lady or Gortleman, which will prove its pleasing and refreshing properties, by applying to any of his Agents, or at his Depot, No. 23, Lombard-street, London.

BY THE KING'S PATENT.

BY THE KING'S PATENT.

CHANGE of RESIDENCE induces the Patence to acquaint the Nobility and Gentry, that in consequence of the countericits under the same name, he has confined the sale to such respectable houses (only) who deal in genuine articles. The PATENT VIOLET SOAP having a decided preference, both as a washing and sharing Soap, for its elemanisty, as oftening, and balsanic properties on the skis, that it was in consequence of these inestimable qualities His Mujesty granted his Letter Patent. It should invariably be asked for as "Sall's Patent Violet Soap." It is sold in squares at 9s. 6d. and 1s. 6d. and in boxes containing twelve squares, at 25s. or twelve small, at 15s.; the shariy cakes, at 2s. 6d. each, or in boxes, 4s. 6d. which are re-filled, at 2s. 6d. and it is ferwarded to all parts of town or country, warran-red to mrive safe, by addressing a line by post to the Patentee. Observe his name and signature is on the satisfe of the wrapper.—J. B. HALL, No. 28, Hadlow-street, Burton Crescent, London.

PATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP. PATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP.—The Chamber Lamp, increasing in interest as the days shorten, the Patentes is induced to present this to the Public as a source of com our superior to any in this country, or perhaps the world. It embraces brilliancy, perfect vafe;;, and certainty for any length of time required, will bear any motion, ican be regulated to burn the loancest or shortest-nicht, disappearing in the morning without smoke or smell. The same principle applies, and the iLamp's equally portable, on elegant pedestals, for the dining table, sideboard, study, mantle-lice, &c.; and also for the Class Greeius Hangling Lamp for the hall, conservatory, passages, staircase, drawing-room lustres, &c. chagantly simple and much admired. It is a most essential acquisition in all linese Lamps, that they will burn the whole evening without trimming, requiring to be replenished with cotton only once in two or three months, and so simple that a child can turn them. The annual expense of light burning serry night in the year, proportionate with candles, is, for the chamber as above described, 10s.; for the kitchess, equal to a canale eight to the pound, 12s.; parlour or mould sixes, 15s.; and to fours, 17s.; suppose a dome lamp for the dining table, equal to lour mould fours, 60s.; or hall, three mould sixes, 45s. Thus the degrees of light, more or less, can be regulated at plassage autical to the occasion. By this statement Gont-emen may ascertain the great saving in proportion to their establishment, bearing in mind, that these Lamps burn as sweet as wax.—Sold for the Patentee, by Thomas Pearce and Co. No. 28s, facing the front of St. Clement's Church, Strand; who, to secure the reputation of this invention from the effects of adulterated sill, are bound to sell some but pray and genuine Spermacest. Letters addressed, post paid, from any part of the Kingdom, will meet with prompt attention.

attention.

A GENTLEMAN residing in Bedford-square called on the PRINCE, and declared to him that his RUSSIA OL has twice restored his hair from getting quite baid. The Proprietor does not puhish any person's name in the Newspapers, but any respectable person calling spon the Proprietor may be made acquainted with the name of the Gentleman; and even Medic al Gentleman; and the Gazette of Health, that Prince's Russia Oil is superior to any Oil for the Hair, and will do, he cases of Baldness and weak Hair, what can possibly be done. Thousands of Lailies and tentlemen have a good Head of Hair by using Prince's celebrated Russia Oil. But some Ladies being persuaded to use other Oils, they soon found the difference, as their Hair began to fall off, or getting grey. In short, Prince's celebrated Russia Oil is the best Oil for dressing, preserving, and prometting the growth offiair, and if used constantly, not a Hair will fall off or turn grey; clears the Scarf, and keeps the Head and Hair clean, and by using it regularly for a few months, will restore tite Hair on the bald part, if the least signs of roofs are remaining, which has been proved by hundreds.

Ask for Prince's Russia Oil, at 4s, the should bottle; or a bottle, containing the quantity of nearly five small ones, at 11s, which is a great saving; and observe "Prince" on the wrapper and seals of each bottle; without, it is not gesuine, and camea answer the purpose.

Sold whelvesule, retail, and for experitation, by the sele Proprietor, A. Prince, (£5' removed to No. 9, Peland-street, Uxford-street, near the Pantheon; and by Mr. Smyth, Perfumer to his Majesty, New Bond-street; and by nost principal Perfumers and Medicine Venders.

Proved by Affidavit, before the Lord Mayor of London, that A. Prince is the original Proprietor of the Russia Oil; therefore if any Perfumers, and cannot answer the purpose.

15' Ludies and Gestlemen will be particular, as there are unprincipled to the content of the purpose.

cannot answer the purpose.

5 T Ludies and Gentlemen will be particular, as there are unprincipled persons in town and country who sell counterfeits, and say they are genuine.

THE only Article that REALLY PREVENTS the HAIR FALLING OFF, or TURNING GREY, produces a luminant Growth on the baidest places, and beautiful downing Curls, is ROWLAND'S MACASSAR OIL.

The Original and Genuine, which for many years has been universally admired, and is acknowledged the best and obeapest article for producing a beautiful Head of Hair, and produces WHIGKERS, EYE. BROWS, &c. As pre-eximent virtues have gained it the patronage of Rayalty and the Nobility, and is attested by an immense multitude of witnesses. Price 3s. 6d.; 7s.: 10s. 6d.; and One Guinea per Bottle.

Also, ROWLAND'S ESSENCE OF TYRE.—By merely wetting the Halw with this Preparation, the Proprietors warrant to produce immediately a perfect change in RED or GREY HAIR, WHISKERS, EYE. BROWS, &c. to a beautiful glossy and permanent Brown or Black, imitating the exact natural colour. Washing makes this Dye the more durable. Ladies or Gentlemen may dye their Hair with éase and secresy. Price 4s.; 7s. 6d.; and 10s 6d. Wheleslee Petral and for Exercitation by the Sole Proprietors. A

10s 6d.
Sold, Wholeslac, Retail, and for Exportation, by the Sole Proprietors, A. Sold, Wholeslac, Retail, and for Exportation, by the Sole Proprietors, A. ROWLAND and SON, corner of Kirby-street, the first turning on the right in Hatton-garden, Holbern, London; and by appointment, by all Perfumers and Medicine Venders throughout Europe.
A. ROWLAND and SON respectfully caution the Public against apurieus Articles. Under their Names impostors have signed their imitations, A. Rowlandson, which deception renders it necessary to observe the true aignuture, A. ROWLAND and SON, in Red Ink, wrote en each Bottle.

HALL'S sublime TURKISH FASTE, TAGE OF THE POWDER.—The above elegant preparates, which universally approved by Ladies of the fiver rands and universally approved by Ladies of the fiver rands and universally approved by Ladies of the property of the proper or Cashirr, and was nated to arrive the.

N. B. Observe the above are only to be had of the second to be a seco

LONDON MARKETS

CORN EXCHANGE, FRIDAY, SEPT. T.

The advance in the price of Flour on Monday occas sale for Wheat; hence but little of that day's arrival remained unsold at the close of the market. This morning we had a fix supply from Suffolk, and the weather being unfavourable, the sales were brisk, at an advance of from 2s. ro 3s. per quarter for the bearings, with a readier safe for the inferior descriptions. Barley and Beans command rather better prices; and having a very short supply of Oats this week, the trade is about 1s. per quarter deare. In other articles we have no variation to notice.

RETURN PRICE of GRAIN, on beard Ship, as under.

AGGREGATE AVERAGES, AUG. 25.
Wheat, 55s 11d—Rye, 31 5d—Barley, 26s 1d—Oats 26s 16d—Balley, 26s 2d—Os 0d.

PRICES OF GOLD AND SILVER! S s. d.
Portugal Gold, in Coine 9 0 p.ex.
Foreign Gold in Bars 3 17 101 —
New Doubleons 9 0 0 — New Dellars 4 10 34 New Dollars . , • 4 10 Silver in Bara Stand • 4 11 New Louis, each . • • •

, our ministra
Cork
Bahia	TIM
Rio laneiro	49
	Maita 45 Palermo 116
Leghorn47	Genos
Seville35	Gibraltar 3
	Barcelona . 35
	— — Esa, fo Cadiz 3
NGEFRIDAY, Se	pt.7.
	Trieste

COMMERCIAL REPORT, FROM SEPTEMBER 3, то SEPTEMBER 6, Inches

NEW WU The better qualities of Plantation Sugars have been a request at the full prices of last week, but Browns have sustained a depreciation of 1s. per cwt.; Foreign descriptions still continue on the decline; White Havannahs 40s. to 42s. and Brazils 33s. to 35s.—Refined Goods burely support their previous currency.—The public sales of Coffee have been extensive, and the demand equily 50; the value of this article may be considered the same as at the date of our last exposition, -Our Cotton market has remained in a state of inactivity, without any alteration in its value being produced; our advices from Liverpool, however, notice a decline of 1 pr lb. in Brazils, and all other sorts are offering freely. - Tallows have been an object of speculative attention; on Thursday then were no sellers of Yellow Candle at 46s. per cwt.; since then they have become more accessible, and are disposed to accept this

STOCKS.	Mon.	Tues.	Wed.	Thur.	Pres.	٠,
Bank Stock		237	_	-	-	غنا
3 per-Cent, Reduced		761			-	Œ
3 per Cent. Consols		7.91	73	757	738	78
34 per Cent Cousols		862	862	14800	866	1 -
Consols for Account		7.64	76	26	76	7
4 per Cent. Consols	9	96	_	_
5 per Cont. Navy	Holiday.	109	10%	100	-100}	1200
Bank Long Amnities	1 4	192	191		. 	10
India Bonds		64 p	_	61 9	100	T
Exchequer Bills, 2d	1	3 P	tp.	49	49	1 5
Ditto, 24d		-			14-14	25
Oinnium	1		-	- 4		60

price.—Rums have attracted more notice, and command as atvance of 1d. per gailon.

BIRTHS.

At Constantinople, Aug. 5, Lady Strangford, of a son. On Saturday se might, at Bexley Heath, Kent, the lady of the Cetton, of a daughter. In Tuesday last, at Carlton Hall, Northamptonshire. Lady Palmer, at

On Thursday last, at Boyle Farin, the Lady Mary Stanley, of a daughtt,

MARRIAGES.

On Thesday last, at St. James's, Westerbaster, by the Rev. Edward Ripton, Charles Terry, Esq. Jun. of Bedford-row, to Susanna, eldest daughter of Philip Cooper, Esq. of Waterloo-place, Pall Mall.

On Thursday, the 16th ult. at Lausanne, Raiph Smyth, Esq. to Georgians, eldest surviving daughter of the late Hou. John Thomas Carel and of Lody Caroline (arel.

Caroline Capel.

As Heuley on Thanses, George Newman, Bsq. Captaba in the Royal Bada Millitia, to Miss Ellis, daughter of the late htev. W.m. Ellis, of Carerneid. On Tuesday, at St. James's Church, George Hole, Raq. grandson of the late Dr. Home, Bishop of Norwich, to Miss Jame Crew, youngest daughter of R. H. Crew, Hsq. Secretary to the Hon. Board of Ordanese.

At Dunnichen, Forfarshire, N. B., on the 27th ult. the Barl of Kinter, is Louisa, youngest daughter of Francis Hawkins, Esq.

At Menlough Castle, county Galway, Capt. T. A. Mullina, of the Jik Publeers, grandson to the Right Hon. Lord Ventry, to Elizabeth Theodore, daughter of Sir John Blake, Bart.

On Thursday, the 6th, a few hours after giving birth to a substitute Bridget, the wife of James Hugo Greenwell, Ezq. of Bentinek-street, fluschester-square, in the 25th year of her age.

At Englefield Green, in her 87th year, Mrs. Torin, widow of the late Benjamin Torin, Esq.

Sunday last, at his house at Battersea-rise, Richard Budd, H. D. age? 75.

On Wednesday, the Kev. George Cope, D. D. Canon Residentiary of the Cathedral of Hereford, in the 66th year of his age.

At Estadores, on the 12th July last, Mrs. Camming, relies of the comming, Deputy-Assistant Quarter-Master-General of that latent On Sunday last, at Horistey-low, Islington, Mrs. Susannak Gausta, lake of Lambeth Marsh, in the 64th year of her age:

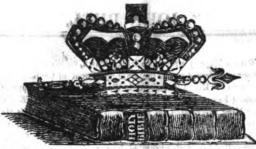

LONDON: Printed and Published by R. T. WERTER, No. 11, JOHNSON'S COURT, FLEET-STREET, she only Communications to the Eristor, (post paid) ere requisely

ार पुराष्ट्र ऋगे किन्त

-10 St 26

" FOR GOD, THE KING, AND THE PEOPLE!"

No. 40.

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1821.

Price 7d.

NEW MUSIC -THE CORONATION

THE OVERTURE, with the favourite AIRS in the GRAND CORONATION, as performed with unbounded applause at the Theatre Reyal, Drury-Lane, composed and arranged for the Piane Forte, by T. Cooke, price 3s.—Published and sold by Chappell, and Co. Music Sellers to His Majesty, No. 50, New Bond-street.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that Application is intended to be made to Parliament in the ensuing Session, for leave to bring in a Bill or Bills for MAKING and MAINTAINING a TURNPIKE ROAD from PECKHAM, in the PARISH of CAMBERWELL, in the COUNTY of SURRERY, to the KENT ROAD, in the same PARISH and COUNTY: the whole of which said intended Road is within the said Parish and County and for making and maintaining all necessary Footpaths, Sewers, Draiss, and Bridges thereto, particularly a Bridge over the Grand Surrey Canal, with Approaches thereto; and levying Tolls, and for lighting and watching Bowy cr-hme and the New Road from Kennington to Camberwell, in the several Parishes of Lambeth and Camberwell, in the said County of Surrey, and other Roads, Streets, and Places within the said Parish of Camberwell, not already lighted and watched under any existing Act or Acts of Parlia-DECULIAR ADVANTAGES.—A select number of the Sons of Noblemen and Gentlemen, intended for the University, designed for the Army, or for Merchants' Houses, enjoy superior advantages in the Family of an LL.D. six miles west of London, for obtaining a correct acquaintance with the Greek and Latin Classics, pure and mixed Mathematics, and whatever is requisite to fit them for College; the French Language, polite Literature, Broadsword, Mapping, Horsemanship, and whatever is requisite to prepare them for the army; and the German, Dutch, and Spanish Language, principles of Trade and Commerce, practical Arithmetic, Writing, and erery other branch of Education necessary to qualify them for Merchants' Houses, the principal, who for many years has been engaged in educating PUPILS for every department in life, will have room for THREE PUPILS at Michaelmas. The plans of this establishment so successfully unite the attention of the Teacher and the diligence of the Pupil as invariably to secure his improvement in every department of his education; a large Library Astronomical, Philosophical, and Chemical Apparatus: House and Grounds spacious. Twelve Courses of Lectures are given on the Sciences in the year. Prospectuses, gratis, at Mr. Oakley's, 9, Old Bond-street, and Mr. Sonter's, 73, St. Paul's Church-yard.

Terxis, including every expence, 66 guineas, under fourteen; and 80 guineas above that age. Parlour boarders, 100 guiseas.

PRIVATE PUPIL

PRIVATE PUPIL.

A MARRIED CLERGYMAN of the Established Church, resident A manning Cherny is man of the Established Church, resident eleven miles from London, receives a 'ew PUPIL's into his Family, and has now a VACANCY. Terms 162 Guineas per annum. The most satisfactory references can be given to Noblemen and Gentlemen whose sons he has educated. Letters to be directed for Rev. T. N. Mr. Triphook's Bookseller, 13, Old Bond-street, London.

MR. GUTHRIE will commence his LECTURES on the PRINCIPLES and PRACTICE of SURGERY, on MONDAY, the 1st of October, at Six in the Evening, in the Waiting Room of the Royal Westminster Infirmary for Diseases of the Eye, 7. Mary-le-Bone street, Piccadilly.—Medical Officers of the Navy, the Army, and the Ordnance will be admitted gratuitously, on presenting a recommendation from the heads of their respective departments, to Mr. Guthrie, at his house, 2, Berkeley-street, Berkeley-square, between the hours of half-past two and four.

SPANISH COMMON PRAYER,
Anst published, in one very small volume, beautifully printed, price 5s.
A SPANISH TRANSLATION of the BOOK of COMMON PRAYER. By the Rev. Mr. BLAUCO-WHITE.—Printed for Samuel Bagster, No. 15. Paternoster-row: where may be had, in uniform volumes, price 5s. each, Translations into Italian, German, French, Modern Greek, Greek, or Latin; or, the eight volumes in one Set, including the English, sprice 2i.

Just published in 3 vols. price 18s.

THE HERMIT IN THE COUNTRY. By the Author of "The Hermitia London."

Hermitia London."

"Quite weary grown
Of all the follies of the town,
And seeing in all public places.
The same vain fops, and painted faces."

Among other amusing Papers in these new volumes will be found—A Trip to Richmond.—Man Traps.—Watering Piaces.—Leaving Home.—The Packet Boat.—An Exquisite's Life in the Country.—A Fishing Scene.—My Landlady.—A Party of Pleasure.—The Top of a Stage.—A Child's Burial.—The March.—The Rusticated Londoner.—Scotland.—Hogmany, or New Year's Morn in Edinburgh.—The Foy.—The Drage, &c. &c.
Printed for Henry Colburn and Co. Conduit-street.

PRACTICAL and UNIVERSAL SYSTEM of GAUGING.
Just published, price 9s. 6d, in Boards, or 10s. 6d. very strongly and neatly half bound,
THE UNIVERSAL GAUGER of GREAT BRITAIN and General Spirit Calcula' or: being a Practical System of Gauging, by Pen, Sliding Rule, Tables, Callipers, and Logarithms, according to the measures hitherto-legally adopted in the British Dominions: and also according to the new Imperial Gallon; and containing upwards of 40,000
Original Calculations on Gauging, Spirits, &c.—By WILLIAM GUT-TERIDGE.—London: Printed for Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, Paternos-Gar-row.

ter row.

25 This Work contains also a general Spirit Calculator and Ready Reckoner, both at proof strength, and at 7 per Cent. above proof; and a Table for finding the Value of any number of articles at any price, from a Farthing ad infinitum, by only a simple eperation of Multiplication: Also the Use of Hydrometers, Saccharemeters, and Lactometers, &c. &c.

CENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE, a Set, from 1731 to 1813 inclusive: uniformly bound in calf, and lettered; with Ayscough's Index, and Stace's List of Plates. Price 501.—Another Set, from 1731 to 1807, of which about fifty volumes are uniform; with the Index. Price 351.—An unique Set, nneut, warranted complete, with the 5 vols. of Index, from 1731 to 1818. Price 60 guiness.—At Jones's, 17, Ave Maria-lane; where any Numbers, Volumes, or Plates, may also be had.

DUBLIN MAIL.

FROM the PACKET of L dvertised in our Paper last Sunday, as stepped on a suspicious Person, only three have been claimed; the others, being of a curious nature, coming from persons of the first distinction, several of which are amorous, some political, others serious, have been deemed worthy, we understand, of being put into verse by the celebrated Author of "The Post Bag," and will be published aniform, on Saturday next, under the title of THE DUBLIN MAIL; or, INTER-CEPTED CORRESPONDENCE.

CEPTED CORRESPONDENCE.

CARY'S BOOK OF THE ROADS.

Just published, a New Edition, price 13s. in boards, or 14s. 6d. half bound, dedicated, by permission, to the Right Hon. the Postmaster General,

A NEW EDITION of CARY'S ITINERARY, carefully corrected; being an accurate Survey of the GREAT ROADS, direct and eross, throughout ENGLAND and WALES, with part of SCOTLAND, made by command of His Majesty's Postmaster General for official purposes; with Routes to upwards of 9000 Places not given in any other work of this description;—the whole of the Noblemen and Gentlemen's Seats; a complete List of the London and Provincial Stage Coaches; Maps of the principal Watering Places, and a general Map of England and Wales. Also a detailed Account of the New Holyhead Road, pointing out the improvements which have taken place, and those in contemplation, from the survey of which have taken place, and those in contemplation, from the survey which have taken place, and those in contemplation, from the survey of the Parliamentary Commissioners.—Not This work may be had bound with a Set of County Maps of a corresponding, price 11. 16s. call gilt.—Published.by John Cary, 86, St. James's-street and may be had of the principal Booksellers throughout the Kingdom.

THEATRE BOYAL, GLASGOW.
TO BE LET for such a period of years as may be agreed up

THIS 'ELEGANT' HOUSE, with the "PATENT, SCENERY, "MACHINERY, and APPURTENANCES.—As the great wish of the Proprietors is to place the establishment on the most respectable feeting, very liberal encouragement will be given to a "Manager who is likely to accomplish this object.—Apply to "Messrs.C., D. Donald and J. G. Hamilton, Virginia, Street, Glassow." Virginia-street, Glasgow.

Preparing for Publication,

THE HISTORY and ANTIQUITIES of HENGRAVE, in SUFFOLK—By JoHN GAGE, Esq. of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister at Law, F. S.A.

This Work is intended to combine, with a variety of biographical and generalogical notices, a cellection of Original Papers, yourtraying ancient manners, and exhibiting many public documents cliefly of the reign of Queen Mary; the whole involving the history of the owners of Hengrave.

The Work will be illustrated with engravings, the architectural subjects by the Le Kenxs, Hollis, Smith, &c. and the portraits by Seriven, Cooper, and Sevier.—It will form one volume, royal quarto, price 31, 13s. 6d. Imperial paper, with proof incressions of the plates, 7l. 7s.

15 The number intended to be printed will be limited to a few copies.

Persons, desirous of possessing the Work, are requested to transmit their names to the Publishers, or their Booksellers.—London: Printed for James Carpenter, Old Bond-street; Joseph Booker, New Bond-street; and John Deck, Bury St. Edmands.

Just published, price 6s. the New Number of THE EDINBURGH REVIEW; or, CRITICAL JOURNAL, being No. LXX.
CONTENTS: - Art. I. Lord Byron's Marino Faliero.—H. State of Prisons.
—HI. Classical Education, Daizel's Lectures,—IV, Capital Punishments.—
V. Melmoth, the Wanderer.—VI. Godwin on Malthus.—VII. Art of War.—
VIII. Man Traps and Spring Guns, Barnewall's Reports.—IX. Southey's Vision of Judgment.—X. Tomline's Life of Pitt.—XI. James's Essays on Money, Speech of M. Attwood, Esq. and Mushet on Carrency.—XII. Sisrondi's History of France.—XIII. High Gunreh National Education, a Letter to a Member of Parliament, by the Rev. R. Lloyd.

Printed for A. Constable and Co. Edinburgh; and Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London; of whom may be had all the former Numbers.

EAST INDIA REGISTER, CORRECTED to the 28th of AUGUST, 1821.

Just published, price 8s. 6d. sewed,

THE EAST INDIA REGISTER and DIRECTORY, for 1821, THE EAST INDIA REGISTER and DIRECTORY, for 1821, containing a correct List of the Proprietors of East India Stock qualified to Voic at General Elections.—Complete Lists of the Company's Servants, at home and abroad, Civil, Military, and Marine, with their respective Appointments; with Indexes to the same, and Lists of Casualities during the last Year.—Lists of the Europeans, Mariner. &c. &c. on in the Service of the East India Company.—List of Private Vessels, licensed by the Company under the late Act of Parliament; and of Merchant Vessels employed in the Country Trade in India.—Regulations and Instructions respecting the Appointment of Writters, Cadets, and Assistant-Surgeons.—Rules and Regulations of the Civil, Military; and Marine Funds, connected with the Company's Service. With a variety of other useful Information.—Complied, by permission of the Hon. East India Company, from the Official Returns received at the East India House.—By A. W. MASON, GEORGE OWEN, and G.H. BROWN, of the Secretary's Office, East India House. Second Edition, corrected to 28th August, 1821.—Printed for Black, Kingsbury, Parbury, and Allen, Leadenhal-street; and G. and W. B. Whittaker, Ave-Maria-lane.

Maria-lane.

MRS. TRIMMER'S HISTORIES FOR CHILDREN.
Just published, by Harris and Son, Cerver of St. Paul's Church-yard; and Hatchard and Son, Piccadilly.

MRS. TRIMMER'S HISTORY of ENGLAND, with 48 Engravings, 2 vols, bound in red, price 9s. This is a new and improved Edition, brought down to the Death of George III.

2. Mrs. TRIMMER'S SCRIPTURE AISTORY, with 24 Engravings, bound in red, price 3s.

3. Mrs. TRIMMER'S NEW TESTAMENT, with 40 Engravings, bound it red, price 3s.

4. Mrs. TRIMMER'S ROMAN HISTORY, with 40 Engravings, bound in red, price 4s. 6d.

5. Mrs. TRIMMER'S ANCIENT HISTORY, with 40 Engravings, bound in red, price 4s. 6d.

5. Mrs. TRIMMEN'S ANGEST IN THE CONTROL OF STREET AND STREET ANGEST OF STREET ANGEST OF STREET, And Scripture Histories. 2 vols. price 6s.

A few copies remain of the Prints and Descriptions in separate volumes, which may be had by application as above.

NEW BOOKS FOR YOUNG PERSONS.
Just published, by Harris and Son, Corner of St. Paul's Church-yard, THEODORE, or the Crusaders, a Tale for Youth. By Mrs. THOODRE, or the Crusaders, a Tale for Youth. By Mrs. HOFFLAND, Author of the "Sos of a Genius," and other Works for young People. Illustrated with 24 Eng avings, price 5s. half bound.

2. POLAR SCENES, exhibited in the Veyages of Heamskirk and Berenz to the Northern Regions, and in the Adventures of Four Russian Sailors; interspersed with moral and religious Redections for Youth; with 36 copperplate Engravings, price 5s. half bound.

2. The TRAVELLER, or entertaining Journey round the habitable Globe; with 40 copper-plate Engravings, Second Edition, improved price 6s. half bound.

Globe; with 40 copper-plate Engravings. Second Edition, improved price of half beund.

4. SCENES: in EUROPE, ASIA, AFRICA, and AMERICA; each quarter fillustrated with 84 Engravings and a Map, price 4s; half bound, plain, and 6s; coloured.

5. The INDIA CABINET OPENED, in which many natural Curiosities are rendered a source of Amusement to young Minds, by the Explanations of a Mother, price 2s, 6d; half bound.

6. TRUE STORIES from ANCIENT HISTORY. New Edition, in 2 vols, price 6s; half bound.

Excellent Furniture, choice Collection of Paintings, modern Chariot, Grand Pisno Forte, and valuable Effects.

TO BE SOLD BY AUCTION, By Mr. PARNELL,

On the Premises, on Wednesday, Sept. 19, and following Day, at Twelve

On the Premises, on Wednesday, Sept. 19, and following Day, at Twelve each day,

A LL the genuine HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE of Captain

Bradburne, at Woodlands Parkynear Bagshot, Surrey, the late residence of Lady Fraser; and the small but highly valuable collection of Paintings, chiefly of the Old School, including specimens by Griffier, Abraham, Stork, D. Tenniers, Vanblomen, Vanderdoer, Hobbima, with a few sporting pictures by Elmert, Ward, &c. and the celebrated Painting by Moreland, "The Boy burning Furze," three capital fowling-pieces by Mortimer, Sykes, &c. The Farniture comprises 18 prime seasoned beds and suitable bedding, shade-some four post; tent, and other bedsucads: excellent mahogany wardrobe and bookcases, double and single chests of drawers, cheval and toilet glasses, with the usual description of well manufactured c: amber furniture, drawing and dining room suites, consisting of a noble set of patent dining tables, two sideboards, morine French window curtains, two brilliant pier glasses, mahogany ilbrary, Pembroke, card, sofa, and occasional tables; mahogany and japanned chairs and sofas, Brussels and Kidderminster carpets, kitchen requisites; dairy and brewing utensitis, and miscellaneous articles.—To be viewed on Tuesday previous and mornings of sale, when catalegues may be had on the Premises; at the Auction Mart; and of art? Parnell, Kingston, Surrey, and 2, Welling bon-street; Strand.

£30,000 FOR THE FIRST-DRAWN PRIZE 30th OCTOBER, (NEXT MONTH.)

T. BISH having stated the Scheme at full length, invites the attention of his heat Friends, the Public tests reliable between the contraction of the contraction of the scheme at 1 attention of his best Friends, the Fablic, to its principal attractions. It consists of the whole 20,000 Tickets in one Lottery; all the Prizes of which are Sterling Money! There are not Two Blanks to a Prize; and neither Stock Prizes nor Classes. Three of £30,000, and 30 other Capitals. Tickets and Shares are selling by T. BISH, 4, Cornhill, and 9, Charing. Cross, who has sold more than half the £30,000 Prizes that have ever been drawn; and Prizes of £21,000, £20,000, £16,000, &c. in the very last Lottery.

Lottery.

(方字 The Prices of Stocks are affixed, hourly, against BISH'S Office, in Cornbill, by which the Public can see the flustuations.

ESTABLISHED UPWARDS OF TWENTY YEARS.
For the SALE of IBISH LINEN by the PLECE.
At the Factor's Price, No. 4, on the South Side of Bloomsbury square four deors from the top of Southsampton-street, Holborn.
THE IRISH LINEN COMPANY beg leave to amounce to the Public, that the above House is their only Establishment in the Country; where they continue to supply the Nobility, Gentry, and the Public with WARRANTED GRASS-BLEACHED LINEN.
For Shirts and Sheets, of the best fabric and colour, at a price considerably lewer than they can be procured through any other medium.
They also engage to return the Purchase-money should any fault appear.
Good trish Bills and Bank of Irisland Notes taken as usual.
Country and Town orders punchally attorized to by JOHN DONGVAN, 4, Bloomsbury-square, Lendon, Agents.
CUINS, by the most exteremed London Makers, Messrs, KENT.

CUNS, by the most esteemed London Makers.—Messrs. KENT, CANERY, and VINCENT, No.63 Bond-street, corner of Brook-street, Hanover-square, beg to acquaint Noblemen and Sportsmen, they have now for SALE, the best and most extensive FFOCK of Double and Single Barrelled GUNS in the Kingdem; among which are about 100 of Joseph and John Manton's, and a proportionable Assortment of all the other approved Makers, viz. Wan. Smith, Purdy, Moore, Stevens, Wilkinson, Mortimer, Egg. Forsyth, Neck, Clark, &c.: the whole of which are warranted, and if not approved, may be exchanged within twelve months. Also Trayelling, Holster, and Pocket Pistols, from 14s. a pair upwards. The greatest price given for wilkinds of Fire Arms; Swords, &c.

ONE HUNDRED BEAVER HATS. ROBERT LEOYD. ONE HUNDRED BEAVER HATS,—ROBERT LEGYD, of 92, Newgate/survect, original maker, and inventor of upwards of 100 different shaped GENTLEMEN'S BEAVER HATS, which for beauty, quality, and taste, are unrivalled in Great Britain. The process of manufacture is new, and so decidedly superior to the old, that although the price is only 25s. they will wear longer than any two of those finitation Beaver Hats commonly charged a guines; another great advantage is, that is so unequalled a variety of forms, the wearer can choose what beat becomes his person. Silk Hats, with double edges, 18s. each, a most incomparable article.

parable article.

N.B.—A fourth Edition of Lleyd's Treatise on Hats, price is.

N.B.—A fourth Edition of Lleyd's Treatise on Hats, price is.

HALL'S sublime TURKISH PASTE, CIRCASSIAN and FACE POWDER.—The above elegant preparations, which are so universally approved by Ludies of the first rank and fashion, as the most innocent and beautiful assistant to nature, by imparting to the skin that soft and inconceivable fairness, is now prepared, in the highest state of perfection; the Proprietor laving lately imported a quantity of the necessary ingredients, will prevent in future any possible disappolations.—One Posud Note Puekages; containing two large Pots and two Packets of the Powder, or four small Petsandifour small Packets, areforwarded to all parts of Town or Country, and warrained to arrive safe.

N. B. Observe the above are only to be had of the most respectable Dealers of Perfumery or Milliners in the Country, in single Pots, at 10s. 6d. and 5s. 6d.; and the Powder in Packets, 2s. 6d. and 1s. 6d. and 5s. 6d.; and the Powder in Packets, 2s. 6d. and 1s. 6d. and 5s. 6d.; and the Powder in Packets, 2s. 6d. and 1s. 6d. and 5s. 6d.; and the Powder in Packets, 2s. 6d. and 1s. 6d. and 5s. 6d.; and the Powder in Packets, 2s. 6d. and 1s. 6d. and 5s. 6d.; and the Powder in Packets, 2s. 6d. and 1s. 6d. and 5s. 6d.; and the Powder in Packets, 2s. 6d. and 1s. 6d. and 5s. 6d.; and 5s. 6

FOR THE TEETH .-- A DENTIFRICE, which, although it FOR THE TEETH.—A DENTIFRICE, which, although it has not the absurd pretensions of "generating enamel," or "converting the gums to coral," will be found to possess every requisite that can reasonably be expected.—Also a TINCTURE that is warranted to afford relief in all cases, and in most will permanently remove the TOOTH ACHE. These articles are perfectly innocent in their composition, and pleasant in their application, being the result of many years actual practice.—Prepared, by J. GRAY, Surgeon and Dentify, No. 25, Old Burlington-street, Loudon, price 2s, 9d, and 4s. 6, each bottle of Tincture, and 3s, each box of Dentifrice. May also be had of Mr. Johnston, 68, Corabill; Mr. Sauder, 25, 5t, James's street, Brighton; at Mr. Williams's Library, Cheltenhams, and of airs. Gould, 4, Milsom-street, Bath, &c. &c. &c.

J. sive Bills on their damps of the commence of the contracts by the model of the commence of the contracts by the contracts in the contract of the contract contracts in the contract contracts contracts in the contract contracts in the contract contracts in the contract contracts contracts in the contract contracts in the contracts in the contract contracts contracts in the contract contracts in the contract contracts contracts in the contract contracts in the contracts in the contract contracts in

SATURDAY'S GAZETTE, SEPT. 8.

WAR OFFICE, SEPT. 7.

WAR OFFICE, SEPT. 7.

2d Reg. of Brag. Guards.—Capt. 6. Chit:y, from helf-pay 30th Feot, to be Paymaster, vice Rose.

10th Reg. of Light Dragoons.—Cornet and Light. Lord J. Bentinck to be Lieut. vice Drummond.

Coldstream Reg. of Foot Guards.—Lieut. H. St. J. Mildmay to be Lieut. vice Middinary.—Ass. Surg. S. Gilder to be Ass. Surg. vice Worrell.

56th Reg. of Foot—Lieut. H. E. Hill to be Capt. vice Gualy.—Ensign R. S. Vicars to be Lieut. vice Hill.—W. J. Fraser, Gent. to be Ensign, vice Vicars. 79th Ditto—Lieut. A. Cameron to be Paymaster, vice M'Arthur.

2d West. India Reg.—Hosp. Ass. M. Ritchiette be Ass. Surg. vice Kelly.

Hospital Staft.—Ass. Surg. D. Dockard to be Surg. to the Forces.—Happ.

Ass. J. Christer to be Hosp. Ass. is the Forces vice Mol.

Brevet.—Col. W. Chabot to be Major-Gen, in the Army.

WHITEHALL, SEPT-4.

The King has been pleased to nominate and appoint Majer W. Morrison. of the Artillery, on the Madras Establishment, to be a Companion of the Most Honourable Military Order of the Bath.

Sept. 29. J. Millingen, Castle-street, Houndsditch, jeweller.—Sept. 29. J. Kenworthy. Saddleworth, York, dyer.—Oct. 9, T. Clarkson, Kingsbury, Warwick, dealer in coals.—Oct. 13, J. Heginbotton, Ashton-under-Line, roper.—Sept. 29. W. Massam, Ryball, Rutland, miller.—Oct. 4, R. Ralph and W. King, Ipswith, maltsters.—Oct. 2, G. Massor, Chard, Somerset, elsthier.—Sept. 18, M. B. Schlesinger, Church-court, Clement's lane, Lombard-street, indige-merchant.—Oct. 11, S. Waddington, Brighouse, Hallfax, corn-facter.—Oct. 1, T. Thompson, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and Gateshead, Durham, cabinet-maker.

ERRTFIFICATES—Sept. 29.

T. Douglas, Dover, master-mariner.—E. Bristow, younger, Lloyd's Coffeenouse and Iver, Buckingham, insurance-broker.—G. Glever, Lower East

T. Douglas, Dover, master-mariner.—R. Bristow, younger, Lloyd's Coffee-house and Iver, Buckingham, insurance-broker.—G. Glover, Lower East Smithfield, oil and colourman.—G. Bradbury, Hadley, Wellington, malister.—R. H. Salmon, Alfred Place, Bedford square, horse-dealer.—P. Smith, elder, and P. Smith, younger, and W. Smith, Burnden, near Bolton, Lancashire, masslin-manufacturers.—R. Offer, Bathwick, Somerset, plasterer.—T. Cox, Crediton, Devon, inn-keeper.

LAST NIGHT'S GAZETTE.

BANKRUPTS.

BANKRUPTS.

AGAR, M. Walbrook, eilman.

HILLARY, T. P. Little Tower-street, wine-merchant.

REID, A. Pimilee, earpenter.

SMALPAGE, J. Leeds, woolien-draper.

RYDER, A. Commercial-Sale-Rooms, cotton-merchant.

MAWDSLEY, H. Ormskirk, Lancashire, plumber and glazier.

DAWSON, J. Penrith, coach-maker.

NORFOLK, H. Mountsorrel, Leicestershire, worsted-maker.

RROWN, C. Dundes, merchant.

WRIGHT, D. Well-street, Wellelose-square, corn-dealer.

CORBYN, J. J. Pilgrim's-Hatch, Essex, and of Freeman's-court, Corn-dill, master-mariner.

S. BILL, Hill Top, Westbromwich, Staffordshire, timber merhant.

TUESDAY'S GAZETTE.

TUESDAYS GAZETTE.

PARTNERSHIPS DISSOLVED.

Hayden and Read Chritenkam, lodging-house-keepers.—Moore and Blandy, Liverpoel, glass-bottle-manufacturers.—Barlow and Reeve, Olympic, Theatre,—Surith, Parkinson, and Direw, Loud, gascers.—Nama and Jampic, Gld Change, warchousemen.—Birdsall end Sharpe, Liverpool, druggists.—Provser and Roach, Gloucester, timber sacrehants.—Harrison, Whitworts, and Harrison, Manchester, corn-dealers.—Hey and Rowe, Newington, wood larners.—Eackney and. Washington, Congleton, sitk-throwsters.—Otterell and Fowler, Bristol, corn and flour-factors.—Terry, Alexander, and Scott, Gibraltse, commission-merchants.

BANKRUPTCY ENLARGED.

HUYBENS, C. W. Castle Street, Leicester Square, picture-dealer.

WELSH, W. Liverpool, drysalter.

DEEPING, G. Lincoln, iclinoucor.

DIXON, W. Birmingham, linen-draper.

DEEPING, G. Lincoln, iclinoucor.

DIXON, W. High Street, Portsmouth, tailor.

GOODWIN, J. Bristol, coal-merchant.

OLIVA, T. C. Liverpool, merchant.

PARR, W. Great Russell Breet, failor.

STEAD, T. Thrum Hall, Yorkshire, cotton-spinner.

TUNSTALL, H. Liverpool, provision-dealer.

DIVIDENDS.

Oct. 3, J. Matthews, Penzance, sull-maker.—J. Clayton, jun. Leeds, Verkshire, woolstapler—October 4, W. Hayses, Stoutbridge, currier,—October 2, W. H. and C. Barnard, Liverpool, merchants.—October 9, R. Bealey, Cockey Moor, Lancashire, cotton-manufacturer.—Oct. 9c. E. Spiencer, Billifer Lanemerchant.—Nov. 3, J. Nailer, Jeffrey's-square, merchant.—Oct. 2C. Ellis, Birmingham, plater.—Oct. 3, L. Frost, Liverpool, timber-merchant.—Oct. 29, J. and J. Aspimall, Liverpool, wine-merchant.—Oct. 4, J. Saunderson and T. Maaters, Sutton, Bedford, corn-factors.

CERTIFICATES—Oct.8.

T. Medd, Staple Inn-buildings, draper.—J. Massie, Derby, mercer.—J. Beck, Newcaste-upon-Tyne, grocer.—W. Windeatt, Tavistock, fellmonger.—J. Walsh, Barbican, victualler.—W. C. Laugharne, St. Mary-Axe, merchant.—A. Areber, Great Chapel Street, Soho, baker.—P. Atkluson, Rathbone Place, haberdasher.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

PARIS, SEPT. 8.—The young Dukes of Brunswick will not admit to their presence any of the English who have put on mourning for the late Queen Caroline, their aunt.

A private letter from Paris, dated Sept. 7, says:-" The apartments of the Palace Elysée are fitting up in a style to render them worthy to receive the King of England, at the time when it is boped this Monarch will come to Paris, after having visited his Hanoverian dominions. It is a remark singular enough, that the arst of the Sovereigns of Great Britain who has renounced his right to take, on his Coronation, titles which recall an ancient Sovereignty, should also be the first to visit France."

An article from Brussells, dated the 7th inst. says, "the King of England is expected in this capital on the 18th of this month. He will occupy Lord Clancarty's Hotel."

VIENNA, Sept. 1 .- By the latest accounts from Constantinople of the 10th of August, it appears that news had been received there from the Morea and Livadia, which state that the Imperial troops had succeeded in driving the Insurgents from some districts of these PROVINCES, and in restoring transpillity there.

Frankfort, Sert. 3.—The King of England is expected to arrive here from the 20th to the 24th of this month. It is asserted, that he will make excursions from this town to Homburg to see his sister, the Landgravine, and to Ludwigsbourg, to visit his other sister, the Queen Downger of Wurtemburg. Preparations are making at Darmstadt, for the passage of His Majesty.

SEPT. 4:—It is affirmed that the Emperor Alexander, faithful to SEPT. 4:—It is affirmed that the Emperor Alexander, maintai to the principle which forms the basis of the Holy Alliance, will take no decisive step without the previous consent of his high Allies; it was on this account that General Schowaloff was sent to Berlin, and other personages were sent en mission to Paris, Vienna, and even London, although England is no party to the Holy Alliance. Russia, it is said, will not act decisively, until answers from the different Courts shall have reached St. Petersburgh. At this time the Emperor may have received the answer of the Porte, and have learned the arrival of the Baron de Strogonoff at Odessa.

AUSSIVENE ATT OF THE DEFORM THE STORY OF THE COURSE OF VIENNE, which arrived to-day, has brought the important news that the two Russian armies, commanded by Generals Sacken and Wittgenstein, have been in full movement since the arrival of an extraordinary estafette from St.

A letter from Dresden says, a new sect of fanatics has sprung up there, some of whom have carried their enthusiasm to such a height, as to commit assassination and suicide. One woman lately killed her servant, by way of qualifying herself for heaven!

MADRID, Aug. 29.—A disagreeable occurrence took place this evening in the street of Jacometsean. Don Ignacio Ordobas, Col. of Engineers and officer of the War Department, just returned from the Escurial, had a dispute in his habitation with the porter, respecting the payment of his labour. The persons in the street saw the porter come out with his arm wounded, and complaining that Col. Ordobas had ill-used him with his sabre. The neighbours, immediately declared themselves in favour of the wounded man, and began loudly to demand that this crime should be punished when troops came up. At last Gen. Quiroga addressed the people, and took Ordobas by the arm, conducting him with others of his friends to the quarter of the street of Fuencarral, between two guards of infantry. The people, as on all similar occasions, as supposed guilty, behaved with the greatest propriety, and dispersed quietly.

ODESSA, Aug. 14.—M. the Baron de Strogoneff arrived here last night: his departure met with no obstacle whatever; on the connight; his departure met with no obstacle whatever; on the contrary, every possible facility was afforded him, and he was treated with great regard. There is already a very considerable Russian army on the frontiers of Turkey, which daily receives reinforcements. Count de Wittgenstein fraquently exercises these troops in sham fights.—The Emperor is expected in this quarter, and we are in hopes that he will visit this port. The Turks again permit vessels leden with court to easy fraction to this countries. sels laden with corn to pass freely to their respective destinations.

On the 29th of August, a conrier arrived from St. Petersburgh with dispatches of the highest importance. The Emperor Alexander is hourly expected at Odesa, from whence he will proceed to the head-quarters of Count de Wittgenstein. Commercial letters announce that a deputation of Greeks is on its way to Odessa, to request the Emperar to accept the protectorate of Greece.

By the Confiance Sleop of War, arrived at Portsmouth from Jamaica, whence she sailed 30th July, we have received Papers of the 28th of that month. A great deal of dry weather had been experienced in the island, and much distress was anticipated by the inhabitants, if some prompt measures were not taken by the Government to provide against a searcity of the crops; in consequence addresses were about to be presented to His Grace the Governor upon the subject. These Papers confirm the re-occupation of Coro by the Royalists, the battle of Carabola (which was decided in favor of the Insurgents,) and the retiring of the two opposing Chiefs, near Porto Cabello. The Insurgent flotilla of gun boats, which have been for some time stationed off Carthagena, have at length succeeded in cutting out the Spanish vessels in that harbour, although under the heavy fire of the Spanish batteries. Bocachica is also in the hands of the Insurgents.

Extraot of a private letter from Bahia, dated July 12 :- "Bahia is in a disturbed state, I am sorry to say, and much fear another month will produce a great alteration. The fort was a few days since attempted to be blown up, and there are near 2,000 barrels of powder in it. The only regiment of European troops here has Meen kept under arms the last six days.—The distance between the Brazilians and the Europeans is the occasion of the ferment.

On his Majesty's return to King's Town, on Wednesday evening, ed up, in the state apartment of the Royal George yacht, to the King and the Lords in Waiting. 'Admiral Keppel, Commodore Paget, &c. had the honour also of dining with His Majesty. The King afterwards sat on his sofa on deck, where His Majesty was entertained by his Marine band. They performed several favourite pieces of music. St. Patrick's Day and Garryowen were called for, and applauded by the King most heartily. His Majesty retired to repose at his usual early hour. His Majesty has been frequently detained for days by contrary winds off the Isle of Wight and other parts of the English coast, on similar excursions. It is not His Majesty's custom to disembark after a formal departure. On Thursday, a great number of the nobility and gentry of Dublin were seen at the new pier, and the several boats freighted with beauty and fashion gave an interest and animation to the scene. His Majesty remained on deck for the most part of the day, and amused himself with some success by fishing. His Majesty sat for a considerable time on a sofa, on deck, that he might gratify the numerous parties of ladies and gentlemen who crowded in boats about the yacht, by shewing himself. The day was uncommonly fine.

On Friday, about ten minutes after two o'clock, the Royal squadron got under weigh, and having cleared King's Town, stood out to sea; the guns at the battery fired a Royal salute. His Majesty remained on deck, and with his usual condescension, bowed most gracefully, took off his travelling bonnet, and saluting in a particularly affectionate manner, the immense crowds, that had assembled on the shores, and cheering the Royal squadron. Telescopes were to be seen from almost every house along the line of road from Merrion to Dunleary, all bearing on one point, and those who carried them, from the frequent applications made for "a look," seemed but to hold them probano publico. As the evening advanced, the Royal squadron appeared to be making their way in fine style, right in the direction of Holyhead, and at that twilight hour, whilst they were yet discernable to the admiring and anxious spectators, "distinct, but distant;" the effect produced by their "gullant bearing" was fine beyond description.

On Sunday, at 10 o'clock, A. M. the fleet was descried by telescopes several miles at sea, off Milford Haven; at 11 it was seen scopes several miles at sea, off Millord Haven; at 11 it was seen approaching the harbour, and at half-past twelve the Royal Yacht came to anchor opposite the Nelson Hotel, where thousands of spectators had assembled to view the pleasing sight.

At six o'clock on Tuesday, His Majesty left Millord Haven, and in the course of the day the Royal squadron was observed to the westward of St. Anne's Lights. As the wind had set in obstinately from the westward, varying between W. N. W. and W. S. W. it was supposed that the King would relinquish his design of resultance. was supposed that the King would relinquish his design of weather-ing the land's-end, and disembark somewhere in the Bristol Channel. The Royal squadron were driven back to Milford Haven, on Wednesday; in consequence of the gale which was blowing, they came to anchor that evening in the harbour. Next morning the King landed and proceeded for town.

MISCELLANEOUS.

On Tuesday the Duke of York held a Levee at the Horse Gua when Sir Hudson Lowe was presented to the Commander-in-Chief, on his return from St. Helena.

The Duke of Manchester, Governor of Jamaica, and Sir J. Keene Governor of St. Lucie, have come home in the Tarter frigate. The subscription for the Life Guards who suffered injuries on the 14th ult. amounts to between 3 and 4001.

The Gazette of Tuesday contains an order from the Lord Chamberlain's office for a change of mourning on Thursday last, and on Sunday, the 27th inst. the Court to go out of mourning. Wednesday a Court of Directors was held at the East India House, when the following ships were then stationed, viz.:—For BENGAL AND CHINA—Duchess of Athall, Captain Daniell; New Ship, Captain Hunter; and Balcarras, Captain Cameron. For Maddas and China—Thomas Couts, Captain Majoribanks, and New Ship, Capt. K. Smith. For Bombay and China—Castle Huntly, Captain Drumnond; Berwickshire, Captain Sheppard; Buckinghamshire, Captain Adams; Duke of York, Capt. Campbell; and Dunira, Capt. Hamilton. For Bencoolen and China —Thames, Captain Haviside. For St. Hellena, Bombay, and China—New Ship, Capt. Walker; and Orwell, Capt. Saunders. For China—Direct—Lady Melville, Capt. J. Stewart; Marquis of Huntly, Capt. D. M'Leod; London, Capt. J. B. Sotheby; and Canning, Capt. W. Patterson.

A dingraps. Was sign at the Marcial Hamiltonian Capt.

A dinner was given at the Mansion House on Monday to the Corporation, at which the Lord Mayor proposed the hearths of the Magistrates of the City of London; Mr. Alderman Magnay and Mr. Alderman Heygrate both expressed their intentions of starting for the Civic Chair. On the breakter of the Civic Chair. for the Civic Chair. On the healths of the Sheriffs being given, Mr. Waithman said, it would be no vexation to him if he was no for the Civic Chair raised one step higher!

COURTS OF CONSERVANCY .- The Lord Mayor held a Court of Conservancy at the Town-hall, Southwark, last week, when he received the report of the Jury appointed to examine the present state of the river Thames, particularly with respect to the gas establishment in the Middlesex district. The Jury were so fortunate as to come on the spot at the precise time that the gas water was running into the river, which it contaminated to a visible extent of at least 30 yards from the stream. They bottled some of it for experiment, and had found it poisonous to a serious degree. The report further stated, that the Jury had caused the bed of the river close to Vauxhall-bridge to be dragged, when they found the rubbish brought up strongly impregnated with the residuum discharged from the gas -The Lord Mayor ordered prosecutions against the parties offending.

Alderman Wood and the Rev. J. Page Wood, his son, landed at Deal on Wednesday evening from Calais.

Mr. Woodney, Lieutenant Clapperton, of the Royal Navy, and Lieutenant Denman, of the Military Service, who are about to proceed into the interior of Africa, to determine the course and ermination of the River Niger. They go first to Tripoli, and thence, under the protection of the Bey, to Tombuctoo.

The Liverpool packet, Waterloo, while on her passage to Dublin last week, sprung a leak. The vessel was full of passengers. At one time there was five feet water in the hold, but by extraordinary exertions of the passengers she was canbled to reach Liverpool.

There were six of his Majesty's horses on board, one of them a remarkably fine animal, and a great favourite of his Majesty: this horse, and two others, were drowned in the hold. Two of his Majesty's carriages were on deck, and it was suggested to heave them overboard. This was opposed by Captain Maxwell and Majer Slater, and with such effect, that the idea was abandoned. His Mujesty's coachman wept bitterly for the King's favourite horse.
"I care not for the carriages," said he, "we can build carriages, but we cannot build such a horse."

Richard Birnie, Esq. is appointed Chief Magistrate at Bow-street in the room of Sir Robert Baker resigned. This gentleman has resigned in consequence of an intimation from Lord Sidmouth conveyed officially, with the usual sanction and responsibility, of the Executive Administration.

A puncter observed, on hearing of the illuminations at Brosswick on the night of the Queen's funeral, that it did not appear at all strange to him, since the patron of the Cathedral was Saint Blaire. A second and more moderate quibbler differed from his friend, and said, that if the Brunswickers did feel so-row for her Majeny's death, they had sufficient philosophy about them to make light of it.

A smart contest took place yesterday se'nnight, at Ipswich, for the office of High Steward of that Borough, in the room of the late Barriof Dysart, when Sir R. Harland was elected. The number were, for that gentleman, 401; and, for the Duke of Wellington,

The wife of the late Emperor Christophe, and her two daughter, arrived in the Downs on Friday in the Missionary, from Port-au-

On Friday the Grand Jury found a true bill against some persons for assaulting one of the Life Guardamen, a tall/good-looking sun, and for abusing him, by calling him, among other opposition names, a " Picoadilly butcher," &co. &co.

In consequence of a law passed very recently, no mare, one landed in France, under whatever circumstances; can be reimbarked. A similar law has long been in force respecting entire horses and WELCH PROBITY .- On Saturday se'nnight, the Assizes for Merioneth terminated at Dolgelly: there was neither prisoner as cause! and on Wednesday the Commission was opened at Carons. then, where there was not one prisoner for trial, either for the county or borough.

An unlucky mistake occurred at Kerry Head on the eren Friday se'nuight. His Majesty's sloop of war Redwing fell in with the Harriet revenue cruiser, Capt. Tandy, and supposing a to be a smuggler, fired several shots into her, and continued to do so for a considerable time; it was not until the boats of the Redwing was preparing to board the Harriet, that the mistake was discreted.

One of the crew was killed. The firing was beard distinctly for a considerable time off the Ballyhiege shore, and upwards of forty shots were fired, accompanied by repeated cheers from each reset.

Singular Fact.—On Monday last, two persons of the name of Reynolds (but in no way related) were interred at Cheshunt, under somewhat remarkable circumstances. The gentleman, Mr. John Reynolds, near 90 years of age, was formerly a brewer at Che but had lived some years at Margnie; the lady, who was the wife of Mr. Wm. Reynolds, attorney, of Chesbunt, having gone to Margne for the benefit of her health, took up her residence in the hour the old gentleman, and they both died so nearly together, that their remains were conveyed to their respective families at Obesbunt, and to the same church-yard on the same day.

Court or Common Council.—On Tuesday, a Court was held to receive the Report of the Committee on the occasion of addresses. sing the King on his Coronation. It recommended humbly to request His Majesty to bonour the Corporation with his presence of Lord Mayor's day to dinner.—Mr. Oldham, as Sub-Chairman of the Committee, talked of the loyalty of the Corporation. He had no doubt that although the Corporation would not go to the lengths of expression which had been gone to in the sister country, yet that they would display a greater solidity of feeling (if he might use the expression) which would be equal in amount, and do honour to them in the estimation of the country at large. He would say, that the City of London had never been more honoured in its Lord Major than at present; he wished that they should have a gentleman of fortune, of good sense, and of conciliatory habits, to serve the effice for the ensuing year, in short, he wished a second Theore!—The Report was agreed to. The next business was a Vote of Thanks to Sheriff Waithman for his conduct at the funeral of Honey and Francis, which was proposed by Mr. Favell, who, in the bulst was opposed by Mr. T. N. Williams, on the ground that due notice had one of privilege, and Mr. Favell proceeded.] He contented that from the bold and able manner in which the Sheriff had send, one at the risk of his life, on that occasion, for the preservation of the peace, he well deserved the thanks of the Court. He then moved a Resolution to that effect, adding, "they could not but express their abhorrence at the gross violation of the public peace by several of the Life Guards; and that the coolness and courage displayed by Mr. Sheriff Waithman, on that occasion, deserred the thanks of the Court and his fellow-citizens."—Mr. Sheriff Waithman entend into a statement of his proceedings on that day, and said the on-duct of the soldiers in the frent of the barracks and provided people, by appearing at the windows, and mooking them. Some by pretending to cry, and others by pretending to about at them, A brick was wantonly thrown amongst the people from the birracks. One of the soldiers laid hold of his horse in a manner and under circumstances which left him no alternative but to strike at the man. The Sheriff then stated that he had received a lette, which complained that he was not at the barracks door at about nine o'clock at night to assist Mr. Conant. "The Sheriff of Losdon," exclaimed the Speaker, "to assist a hired Police Magistrate!"
The Sheriff considered the subsequent conduct of the Government as a systematic and deliberate plun to subvert the liberties of the people. It had been asked why he was not present to quell the not at Cumberland-gate. Now he declared he knew nothing of the riot there at the time, and merely heard the firing of the pistobi but what could the Sheriffs have done with the soldiers? He west to attend the funeral, and not to quell a riot!—Sheriff Williams complained that in the account of the funeral of the Queen, no me tice had been taken of his having been in readiness to assist in pa serving the peace. He also complained that his colleague had not given him timely notice of his intentions on that occasion. On the night previous he said on parting—"I may be there is no private, but not in my public capacity." At about eight or nine o'clock at night, a letter came from him, stating, that he should be athirds at night, a letter came from him, stating, that he should be athirds Park corner, in his official capacity, at about sevon o'clock. This letter, as if of no importance, was put in the ordinary letter-wa, and was not received until nine o'clock on the following morning: but he (Mr. Sheriff Williams) immediately set off up the City road, as the most likely direction, and was upon duty the whole of the day.—Mr. Oldham did take upon himself to say, that however the Sheriff might deserve the approbation of the country for his couder on the funeral of Honey, yet his conduct on the inquest deserved and would meet with general reprobation .- A long and stormy discussion followed, when Mr. T. N. Williams moved as access of, that the matter should be referred for inquiry to the Gue Expences' Committee.—The Sheriff was called into Court by his friends, when Mr. Oldham repeated what he had said as to the Sheriff's conduct on the inquest, &c .- Mr. Sheriff Waithman replied, that no man could have done his duty who had not acted as he had done under such circumstances.—On a division, the number were :- For the original motion, 55- For the amendment, 25.-Sheriff Waithman returned thanks, and observed, that notwith-standing the time which he had devoted to the service of the Corpo-ration, this was the first mark of their approbation which he had ever received.

MUNDER AT HIGHGATE .- On Tuesday a further examination of Barrett and his wife was gone into before the Rev. Dr. Owen, at Highgate. The prisoners were the sume dresses as on the former examination. Mrs. Barrett seemed much altered, apparently from uneasiness of mind, but Barrett appeared calm and collected, and was said that Barrett had been seen, on the night of the mude, with a person on whom suspicion fell, but he has not yet been taken. He was seen in the company of a man named Connor on the night of the murder, at a Mr. Broughton's, a publican, and he has come forward to swear to that fact. Barrett denied it, and Conner was brought forward, and sweep positively in contradiction to the statement. One thing appears to cause an impression in his favour; he appears in the same dress which he was seen to wear on the night of the murder, and no signs of blood are on them, which it seems, was likely to be caused from the nature of a desperate wound on the deceased's throat which must have spirited bleed.— He denied being at the Black Boy, on the night of the muster with George the gardener; he could not account for where he was on that night. The officers received particular instructions to inquire at what hour Barrett was at home on the night of the murder or whether he slent them at all. They were remanded on this charge, and for therobbery at Mr. Rothschild's.

FIGHT BETWEEN RANDALL AND MARTIN. - On Tuesday this battle, which had attracted much notice in the pugilistic world took place at Crawley-down, in Sussex. The match was for 300 guineas a side. The riag was made in a field, within a mile of East Grisstead, and in which Martin threw up his bat; but owing to some misunderstanding the fight was removed to Crawley down About three o'clock Randall, in a white upper tog, arm-in-arm with his backers, appeared, and with much coolness threw his hal into the ropes. Shortly afterwards Martin, accompanied by his backers, displaying their while toppers, also approached the ring and mayored the token of defiance by sending his castor into the ring. Martin was loudly applicated by the spectators. Spring and an Amateur were the seconds for Martin, and Paddington Jones and Holt officiated for Randall. The combatants on meeting each other in the ring shook hands in the most friendly manner. Current betting 21 to 1 on Randall.

Round 1. On Randall stripping every person was astonished at the very fine condition be exhibited. Martin was lighter in person than heretofore, but his condition was good. On placing themselves in their attitudes, Randall was the object of attraction all round the ring, and he stood as firm as a rock. The position of Martin was good, but he did not appear to stand so steady as his opponent. clansed in looking at each other, but the eyes of Rundall seemed almost to penetrate into the interior of his opponent. Martin smiled. Randall made a sort of feint with his left hand, which was well stopped by Martin. Randall endeavoured to put in a tremendous right handed blow, but he missed his object. Martin exerted himself to make his right and left hand tell; but Rondall, with the utmost dexterity, stopped them both. Randall planted a severe right handed hit just above the wind market, which made the Master of the Rolls bite his lips. The combatants closed on Ran-dall's decoying Martin to follow him to his favourite corner of the ring; when he fibbed Martin with his left hand in the most rapid manner, and then changed him on his arm like a baby, and repeated four or five blows on his face and neck, operating so decisively on the jugular vein, that the eyes of Martin were turned up, and he fonmed at the mouth. The claret followed, and Rundall did no leave him till he was within four inches of the ground. Martin was now so stupid that the back part of his head fell against the stake but the mischief had all been done before this period. "It's all was the cry; and the consternation of the ring was manifest Martin was picked up in a state of stupor, but remained insensible for a long period after time was called. He was carried out of the ring; but in the course of half an hour, when in bed, and attended by the Doctor, he recognised Spring, and, on opening his eyes, with the atmost astonishment inquired where he was, and if he had under his right eye. This fight is without a parallel; it having been won in one round occupying nearly eight minutes. Although so short, yet to an amateur, the excellence of Randall was great; such a finished boxer has never been seen in the prize ring.

lost it? Randall had only a slight mark on the tip of his nose, and PARSH AND LUBABROOK.—A smart fight of one hour and three minutes took place between the above boxers, when Parish proved the conquerer. Spring and Eales were for Parish; and Purcell and Crawley for Lushbrook.

20,000 persons were on the ground.

ADJOURNED INQUEST ON HONEY .-- On Tuesday the Inquest was resumed :-- Colonel Cavendish was in attendance, but was no called.

George Gunn was examined. This man described himself as tailor, and swore that he was near the state carriage on the day of the funeral, from the hour of eight o'clock in the morning till in the evening; he sat on the front spring of the carriage; two Life Guardsmen were ordered to clear Cumberland gate: they accordingly went, and in going, knocked down several persons; then the order of "Shame!" and "Murder!" were shouted out immediately. When the gate was opened, a shower of stones and brickbuts come towards the procession from the top of Oxford-street; then he saw an officer ride up on a full gallop, and fire, and a person full; at the time the person fell, another shower of stones came from towards Tybum Tumpike; they were flying about so thick, that it was impossible to tell from what quarter they came. The Life Charismen then formed a sort of circle, and an officer gave the word of command, when they sheathed their swords, every man loading his pistol, and rode off towards Edgeware-road, with the exceptwo men and a serjeant or corporal; there were some stones flying, and the three soldiers loaded their pistols, and one of them fired; then the cries were to go on with the procession.

Heary Charles Elisgood was re-examined, and stated that he was and saw a Life Guardsman strike a man on at Cumberland-gate, and saw a Life Guardsman strike a man on horselnek with the flat part of his sword; it was at this time that the throwing of stones commenced, which was dangerous in the extreme; a great part of the soldiers received very severe blows, more perticularly the officer, against whom the chief fury of the sold seeined to be directed. Witness particularly noticed a man with a flag, who wavel if, and seemed highly delighted that the course ession was changed; the soldiers then turned the horses heads which drew the hearse, in the direction of Tyburn Turnpike the pelting of stones at this time was very great; one soldier's helme was knocked off by a brickbat; they received many blows. witness stated some further circumstances detailed by him in his former evidence, but said, he did not see Honey shot, nor any efficer fire. Did not see any soldier turn round on his horse and fire, and had it taken place he must have seen it. The conduct of the soldiers was peaceable in the extreme; they sat still for four minutes under Lord Bagot's window. Did not see any person cut by the soldlers, who were hit frequently, and witness saw the blood trickle from their faces.

John Watts, a musician, spoke to seeing a trumpeter by the side of an officer at Cumberland-gute. (on looking at Bishop, the trumpeter, who was brought forward to be identified,) he said "that is not the man whom I took to be a trumpeter."—This concluded the examination of witnesses, and the Coroner rend over the minutes of evidence. He commenced at four o'clock, and having read over the whole of the depositions, (94 in number) drew the attention of the Jury to the discrepancy in the different witnesses' testimony, and commented on it, particularly with respect to the conduct of the soldiery, when the Jury reflected that these soldiers were called soldiery, when the Jury reflected that these soldiers were catted out, not knowing where they were going, and it was impossible to improse that they could have manice aforethought in their hearts. The next point was, whether they could, by construction of law, be charged with implied malice. He read an extract from M. Umfeville's book on the subject, to show that it was the opinion of that Coroner, that the malice required to be proved in such cases, was that which implied a settled desire of reventre. He next quoted a definition of his imm diate predec but, observing, in addition, that the law affirmled indulgancies to beman frailty, and to that slone. A more irksome duty to soldiers could not arise, than for troops of acknowledged bravery (and the troops in question were among the bravest in the world) to be engaged in contests with their fellow countrymen unarmed. They were there in truth to preserve the peace, and for no other purpose In the present case the soldiers were attacked in the most violent manner, and they were not to stand still to be thrown at like game cocks at Shrowlide. They were justified in taking men-sures for their own defence. It was for the Jury to lay their hands on their bearts, and say whether what had been done by the soldiery had not been done in their own defence.

The Jury retired, and after some discussion, it was agreed to mee on the following day, at eleven o'clock, to return a verdict.

On Wednesday the Jury assembled at eleven o'clock, and continued in deliberation from twenty minutes to twelve until a quarter before six, when the Coroner (having left the room at the reques of the Jury) was sent for, and the Foreman informed him that the Jury had agreed to the following Verdict :- Manslaughter against the Officers and Soldiers of the First Regiment of Life Guards, who were on duty between Tyburn-gate and Park-lane, on Tussday, the 14th of August, at the time when Richard Honey was

Coroner-Is that the unanimous Verdict of the Jurors ?- Foreman

An Inquest was held on Monday in the Middlesex Hospital, or the body of John Petit, aged twenty-two. The deceased was a single man; he resided in Princes-street, near the spot where the late fire took place. On Saturday preceding, whilst he was in his apartment on the third floor, he imagined that he saw something flying in the air, and proceeding to the window he was observed by persons in the street endeavouring to catch at what he though he saw, but in consequence of over-reaching himself he was precipitated from the third floor window into the street head foremost with great violence. The Jury returned a verdict—That the deceased came to his death by accidentally fulling from a three pair of stairs wolniw.

MIDDLESEX SESSIONS.

On Monday, John Ravenscroft, Hannah Ravenscroft (the wife) Hamah Ravescroft (the daughter), Danjel Ravenscroft, Nancy Woodcock, and Thomas Hopley, were indicted for conspiring together to injure John Roby in his profession of surgeon and apo carry, by spreading various false, wicked, and malicious reports that he was an impostor, and ignorant of his profession. On the examination of the prosecutor it appeared, that he had lived in Oldstreet for about a year and a half. Before that, he had been in business of Chather. siness at Chatham, and had afterwards lived at Plaistow with a gentleman of the hame of Greatorex, in the character of a companion, and had attended to his business. He had now many patients whom he attended and their families. Many respectable witnesses were called to prove the skill of the prosecutor, and his knowledge of the profession which he followed.—Catherine Collins stated that she was attended by Mr. Roby during her confinement. Two of the defendants, Hannah Ravenscroft, and Nancy Woodcock, afterwards called at her house, and told her that Mr. Roby was neither an apo the cary nor a surgeon; and added, that a printed paper would be sent from Apothecaries' Hall, showing that he was not qualified. It was further proved by the husband of Mrs. Collins, that the defendants, Daniel Ravenscroft and Thomas Hopley, had afterwards called at his house, in the absence of his wife. They advised him not to pay the prosecutor's bill, and added. If he oppresses you, you have nething to do but to go into the Marshalson Court, and one cause will decide all."—Elizabeth Davis stated, that she also had been attended professionally by Mr. Roby, and had been salled on by Hannah Ravenscroft and Nancy Woodcock. They told her that Mr. Roby was a great scoundrel and a good-for-nothing fellow; that he was just come from the country, and had never gone through any degrees. Two gentlemen afterwards called at her house, who stated they came from Apothecaries' Hall; one of those gentlemen was Mr. Ravenseroft; she did not recollect the other. They told her, that if Mr. Roby urged for the payment of his bill, she was not to pay him, for by an Act of Parliament passed in 1815 he was not entitled to it, not being qualifies for the business he professed.—Other witnesses proved that Hannah Ravenscroft said that when they (the family) returned from the Isle of Wight, the were determined to rain Mr. Roby. Nancy Woodcock also said, that nothing of this kind would have happened if Mr. Roby had not got married.—The Jury found all the defendants Guilty.

On Saturday they appeared to receive judgment, when Mr. Alley in mitigation of punishment, said, he was instructed by his client not to press for judgment, on account of the situation of one of the defendents (Mrs. Woodcock), and particularly as his client was satisfied with the verdict that had been given. They were accordingly now discharged, on recognizances in the security of 1001. each for their future good behaviour.

On Tuesday, James Thompson, was indicted for perjury, alleged to have been committed in giving evidence against the prosecutor in a case tried in this Court.—The defendant, was un upholsterer resident in Davies street, Berkeley-square; he had a female lodger named Harrington, who lived by means not at all creditable, and left his house in debt. He was recommended to employ the procutor to procure payment, and afterwards he had, in conformity with his instructions, received a part. Thompson met Miss Har-rington in the street, and learned from her that she had paid part of the debt to Mr. Burnell, the agent; but instead of preventing further payment by withdrawing the authority he had given, he brought Miss Harrington with him before the Grand Jury, and preferred a bill of indictment for having optained money on false pre-tences. On the joint evidence of those persons the bill had been found, and the present prosecutor was afterwards found guilty of an offence which might be punished by transportation.—To prove that the evidence given by Thompson upon the trial, who swore he had never said he had employed Burnell as an agent to collect money, was false, a number of witnesses were called .- Mr. Alley, desence, denied that his client had ever employed Burnell as an agent, and stated in refutation of that charge that the latter had begged forgiveness of Thompson, upon finding that the matter was assuming a disagreeable aspect.—No witnesses were called as to facts, but several were called who were questioned as to Thompson's character, which was represented by all of them as excellent. -The Jury returned a verdict of Guilty.

POLICE.

MANSION-HOUSE .- Jacob and Rachael Aarons have been examined before the Lord Mayor several times, on a charge of robbing the warehouse of Mr. Lester of a large piece of woollen cloth value 301. The porter suspected that the female prisoner, on her going out, had something about her, and brought her back, when sne dropped a large piece of woollen cloth. It excited much astonishment that she should be able to secure so large a piece of goods tons found, suspected to be stolen, the marks having been taken off. The prisoners were committed for trial.

On the standardion of the two prisoners nearly all the known re-ceivers of stelen goods in the city were about the avenues, and such ety upon the case was evinced amongst this class, a degree of soxie as induced the officers to suspect that the case has extensive manu-cations. When they searched the ledgings of the Aurous, they found a card with the address of a man named Coulston, No. 23, Old-street, St. Luke's. Forrester and Porsier immediately went there, and gained a sudden admission. The greatest confusion was excited by their appearance. They apprehenced Issue Goulston, to s belonged; they found but one piece of silk with when the premise a roller, on which the mark was unobliterated.

banc Goulston was charged with receiving the stolen property. Sarah Chittam, warehousewoman to Mr. New, of Paternosterrow, silk-manufacturer, stated, that on Thursday a man and wo-man, who appeared to be foreigners, came to the wavehouse; as piece of silk was stolen, but it was not missed until the Police officers brought home a piece, which was ascertained to be the property of the house; she was positive the silk had not been said. The parties were bound over to prosecute Goulston for the misde-meanour of having in his persession stolen property.

HATTON GARDEN.—On Tuesday, a boy was brought to this office, who stated that he had been decoyed away from Mr. Perry > boarding-school, at Romford, by a showman, and deserted at B tle-bridge. An officer was sent to make enquiry at Romford, but found no school there kept by Mr. Perry. He then went to Shinfield, where a Mr. Perry had an academy, but he had not lost a scholar. The officer next proceeded to the Rev. Mr. Bowskill's school, at Mountnessing; Mr. B. knew nothing of the boy. The officer then returned to town, and again questioned the boy, threatening to have him confined in the House of Correction, if he did not tell the truth. He then said he bad run away from Mr. Brown's school at Ilford; this was found to be false; inquiry was likewise made at Woodford, but no owner could be found for the child. The officer again returned to town, when he found the boy had escaped from custody, and he was found on Wednesday morning, about one o'clock, strolling about Gray's Inn-lane, by the watchman. The magistrate, on his being brought before him in the morning, ordered the boy to be whipped, when he said he would tell the truth: he then said his father's name was Sheppard, that he was a master carpenter, and kept a shoe warehouse, which his mother managed, at No. 15, Prince's-place, Dog-row, Bethnal-green, and that he ran away from home on Saturday, because his mother threatened to beat him: inquiries were made at this place, but no such person was known there. In the mean time a person brought a bill into the office, offering a reward for the recovery of a boy; the description agreed with the lad in custody, and he was restored to his friends, who live in Pruin's-place.

Bow-street.-On Wednesday a man named Armstrong was charged, on his own confession, with the wilful murder of John West, a miller, residing near Maryborough, in Ireland. The prisoner was apprehended at Portsmouth. His confession, in substance, was this, that about six years ago, he, with two men, went to West's house, who was sitting at supper with his wife, seized him by the collar, and demanded 3001. which they said he had received the day before, threatening to blow his brains out. On his denying having received such a sum, the prisoner deliberately cocked his pistol, and blew his skull to pieces; the poor man fell dead over the body of his wife, who lay insensible from the effects of a blow which she received from the prisoner, in endeavorring to save her husband. Some persons approaching, they all fled, and the prisoner afterwards enlisted into the 3d Regiment of Infantry, and was soon afterwards sent to the West Indies; his guilty const was soon afterwards sent to the west indies, and guing commanding pursued him, and he made his crime known to the commanding where he remained officer, who ordered him into confinement, where he remained eleven menths, until sent over to England. He was sent over, in custody, to Dublin.

On Thursday, a person named Poole, a coal-merchant, was charged with grossly assaulting Mr. Evans, butler to the Earl of Faircouth, and a Mr. Bradfield. Poole, who is an advertising cheap coal dealer had received an order to deliver 15 chaldrons of coals Noble Earl's house. On the suggestion of Mr. Bradfield, the butler agreed to have the coals measured, and one of the sacks in the first load was found deficient in measure. Mr. Evans then sent a written notice to the vender, and to the coal-meter's office, to attend to see the other coals measured. Poole some time after arrived, and after waiting some time, as the coal-meters had not made their appearance, he ordered his men to drive away the two waggons which had not been unloaded; this was resisted by Bradfield, on which Poole knocked him down by a violent blow under the ear: he arose, but one of the men again knocked him down; and indriving out of the gates Mr. Evans was assaulted by some of the men, who repeatedly threw him down, and having forced the gate drove the waggons and coals away.—Mr. Poole was held to ball.

Union-Hall .- On Thursday afternoon an elderly woman found means to obtain admission into the pantry of the house of J. Ripley, Esq. in Clapham-read, during the absence of the servant, who unexpectedly returned, when she implored charity; he, however, seeing a silver spoon protruding under her clostles, seized it. She then called out that the servant had designs on her chastity. How-ever, he drew from her bosom nineteen silver spoons. She was ever, he drew from her bosom nineteen silver spoons. fully committed for trial by the Magistrate.

QUEEN-SQUARE.—Information had been received at this Office-

a short time ago, that several Noblemen had lost some valuable dogs since the commencement of the sporting season. A gang of dog-stealers reside at Chelsea, two have been apprehended. A dog-stealers reside at the uses, two have been apprendicture. Assument the dogs stolen were two pointers, the property of the Barl of Essex; two fine setters, the property of Mr. Mellish; a brace of fine pointers, belonging to a Gentleman in Queen-square, and several others. One of the gang went into the country in the character of a sportsman, and the officers traced him to Cambridge, where they took him into custody. He sold several fine dogs his travels, and on the day he was apprehended he received 1001. for two stolen pointers! They brought him before a Magistrate, where the charge was proved, and he was committed to the House of Correction for six months. His companions are remanded.

HAZARD and Co. are CONTRACTORS for the present MONEY LOT-TERY, containing THERE THIRTY THOUSANDS, and NOT TWO BLANKS TO A PRISE.

ADVERTISEMENT.] — A discovery has lately been introduced, which bids fair to supersede the necessity of a dentist. Humson's Botanie Tooth Powder is a certain nemedy and preventive for all disorders of the mouth. It not merely cleanses and beautifies the teeth, but preserves them from decay to the latest period of life. It makes the teeth white, fastens such as are loose, prevents those sayed growing worse, removes the tartar, and cures the scurvy in. antidote for guma losis, swalled face, and that excruciating pain the tooth-ache; and so certain and undeviating is its effects that there never was an instance of any person who regularly used it ever having the teeth-ache, or a tooth decay; and though se powerfu an antiseptick, it is entirely free of acid, and so innecent that the contents of a box may be taken by an infant.—The following Agents are appointed—Mr. Atkinson (wholesame agent) 44 Gerrard-street, Soho-square; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Gattle and Pierce, 57, Bond-street; Rigge, 65, Chenpside; Taite, 41, Cornhill; Nix, Royal Exchange; Barclay's, Fluet Market; Dicey, Bow Church-yard; Edwards, St. Paul's Church-yard; Butler's, Cheapside, and most Medicine Venders and Perfusors. Price 2s. 9d. a box.

NOTICES TO CORRESPONDENTS.

word our best thanks : he is wight -- needles .co MERCATOR de

We are obliged to VERITAS.

SPUTHTONIE will see we had determined on doing that which he supports, and that the fact he alludes to is on train. Our thanks are due to "An old friend of Joun Bull."

In answer to our correspondent Inquisiton, who asks what title would be borne by the heir opparent (if he had one) of his Rayal Highness the Prince or Scilly, we can only say, that we imagine, should his Royal. Highness by any divine interposition be blessed with a sam, his title would be Dunn on Gloucearum.

W. W. is not quite correct in his facts—the statement he will see to day is the true one.

Communications from Honndban are received:

W. J. N. is mistaken about the eliquetio-the step he alludes to is endinarily taken after a Cononation.

A. B. it requested to furnish us with what he promises.
FiT: shall be attended to in our next—we are much obliged to

Dn. RANDOLPH might not have prescript on the Coronation that coronation which prescribed a segmen on the Coronation.

We have received three letters from most respectable parishis ers of St. George's, Bloomebury, complaining that their Church has been put in mourning; and also from Kingsron, complain-and seen put in mouraing; and also from Kingston, complaining of the same thing, but enouverating Min. Gandy.

We quite agree with a "Livenyman" upon the absolute nocossing of oninoing a proper spirit of loyalty at the election of Lord Mayor—we have no doubt of its success.

STAGE-COACH CONVERSATION will come into play

We know a complaint from a correspondent in Yorkshire of the crishable nature of the paper on which BULL is printed. We can sume our friend that it is not from any paromony of ware that assava varyrumu Shishfishi Lavincov

BROWNHORN- AIATE - THANET-J. B. - QUIZ - CAROLUS-THE LECTURE ON HEADS- STUBBLE-BUBBLE, and many others Wibeen revoluted.

Accorrespondent, SPECTATOR, desires us not to loss our time by proving that the would-be patriots are all knaves, ragger, and hypocrites, but begs us to try a harder task-which is, to point out one good and respectable man amongst them. We confess our inability to comply with our friend's wishes:

DRAMATICUS on Mr. TERRY'S Pierreshil; if possible, be in-serted. It strikes us held wrong in one part of his lotter—we be-bleve Mr. TERRY is not a native of Scotland. Neither Mr. nor Mrs. CROWTHER are of importance enough to make them at all interesting to our readers. We are obliged to our Frith-street friend for his ample information—we mean Saminquisitive; and also of our friend in Founteen of Ten. We were aware of all the facts before.

We will do what we can for our Kentish friend. Young Bull is thanked. X.B. is not forgotten, but the time is kardly come.

PHILO-NAUTICUS in our next. * LIN. INN will be attended to.

We have received four Letters on the same subject; one from Wongueren; one from Barn, one from Luduur, and the founth from Russ. We will attend to the complainte contained in them, which seems to have their origin in local causes. All the parties shall be exposed if the system continues. We fear Sunan SLY is now out of date.

The subject to which the "Gentleman in search of a chilling" refens, will be bringht forward in a very serious shape next week. His are armed with most powerful documents. The Lampoon upon LORD FITZWELLERS is green middent being witty. Canary-bird Launton is better: and the Ghost of Misse. Pranpuncaer shall esciainly appear, as well as HOLKEAN, at our earliest opportunity.

The Letter to the Bienor of Petermorough from Non-THARPTON is rendered unnecessary by an article which appears

THEM I'M TO THE PROPERTY IS PREMATURE.

"Little BROUGHAM" is premature.

If "NO ONATOR" speaks as well as he writes, we would back him against the best of the Patriots.

We thank "FLY BY NIGHT," but the attack he alludes to is,

Gav's Fable the first opportunity. Our thanks are sue to some Don for his valtable Notes: Ma. Evans may rely upon our naticing, the nuisance h alludes to

We would thank Mn. R. W. T. to favour us with the names of the Offices where he has been unable to procure BULL. We know that every artifice is resorted to in order to check its sale; but all won't do—Bull must be read.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.

On Monday, Sept. 17. will be performed, Venice Preserved; Belvidera, (sixth and laxt time previous to her engagement at Dublin) by a young Ladge, with Matchimating, and Love Langhs as Lockamthin.—Tuesday, Marriage of Figure; Matchimaking, and No Belge-Weiker.—Wednesday, (by particular desire) the last New Comedy of Rise and Pail; with Matchimaking, and No Seng No Supper.—Thursday, A New Play, in three Acts, Interspersed with Songe; the principal characters by MV. Totry, Mf. Johns, ISP. Decemb. Mr. Williams; Mr. Younger, Mr. Hammond; Mrs. Belger, Mrs. Peages, Miss R. Corri, and Mrs. Chatterley.

A. Monday's Edition, containing the intest Mours, the Stock List, the London-Markets, and the State of the Country Markets by their morning's post, is published at Thrus-q'elech.

PRICE OF STOCKS AT THE CLOSE, SATURDAY.

The unprecedented advance in the price of Grain has tended, during the week, to depress the Finds from 1 to 1 per Cent.; the total fall has been nearly 1 per Cent. calculating from the extreme prices; a scarcity of Money was apprehended, and Stook was said in consequence to a large amount. The speculators, who at the commencement of the October Account, purchased largely, have made no attempts to support the Market, yet nearly two n of Stock was sold on Wednesday and Priday; that sold on Priday at 754 and 754 for the same party. As so ket opened yesterday an improvement of 1 per Cent. took place, and before 12 o'clock Consols for the Account were bought curzently at 75‡, and we are credibly informed that a large sum in Consols for Account were purchased privately at 76. Money Stock was yesterday extremely abundant in the Market, been borrowed at the low rate of 3 and 3 per Cent.

The fluctuation is the Navy & per Cents has been inconsiderable baving scarcely fallen a quarter per cent. Consols opened yesterday morning at 751 for Money, and 752 for the Account, and closed at 754 for Money, and 753 for the Account.

Little business has been transacted in London in the foreign Funds in general in the course of the week. The foreign Funds have scarcely varied. Wednesday states the French δ per Cents. to be as high as 86 fr. 80 cents. Exchange on London at one month 25 fr. 60 cents., and three months at 25 fr. 4 cents. The Neapelihan Stock remains at 661, and the Spanish Bonds at 56. Reduced Ann.. Reduced Ann.. Consols..... 751 # 75# # Navy 5 per cent 109

Exchequer Bills ..., 821
India Bonds ..... 62 Omnium ..... 4 per Cents.....

FRENCH FUNDS 86-30 | Bunk & Div. | July | 1546-25 160-56 | Ex. Lond. Time. 25 80 8mo. 25-40 Sperct. Div. 22 Sept. con. Div. 22 Murca RUSSIAN: Siper Cent: Inserip: 5 per Cent. Metallics .. 73 Exchange .. 10 4
SPANISH...
56 — Exchange ... 5 per Cent. NAPLES. 5 per Cent. . . . . 68; 69—Exchange . . . 440 25 55 AMERICAN. 7 per Cent. . . . 102 6 per Cent. 1812 .... 98:103 1814 ... 101 to 4 | Ban PRUSSIAN. 1813 ... 99<sub>1</sub> .100

JOHN BULL.

5 pr Cnt. Bonds, £100,

21 per Cent...... Bank Shares

831 Ditto, £250 to £1000 HQLLAND.

Columbian Bonds... 401 to 411.

LONDON, SEPTEMBER 16.

We have received a communication from a correspondent, stating, that His Maskery passed through Gloucester on Friday afternoon, on his route to town; the same afternoon His Marksty reached Cheltenham, where Mr. Marshall, the Master of the Ceremonies, accompanied by a deputation, presented an address to His Majnery, who received Mr. Marshall in the most gracious manner.

HIS MAJESTY was expected to arrive in town early this

THE Coroner's inquest upon the ricter Honey has concluded its labours, and the Jury have returned the only verdict for which they could by no possibility have any ground-Manslaughter.

We have often doubted between the advantages and disadvantages of a free press; but in this instance the radical papers had given so distinct and clear an account of the riot, that it was impossible for the Jury, however anxious, to bring themselves to a verdict of WILFUL MURDER. Their own principles hindered them from wholly acquitting the soldiers, and in order to trim between the facts and their feelings, they have cooked up a verdict which is neither more nor less than NONSENSE.

The TIMES, with a malignity perfectly savage, consoles his greasy-headed readers with this remark upon the occa-

" It's therefore that see feel disappointed in some degree, when treplant, or think we this, a Jury entrapped by their own-area and tenderness into a judgment which militates against a great reform in our state policy, but which saves no emprit from legal paspishment; because, sawe said before, none is in danger of his life. At the same time, let it be well borne in mind, that a bill of indictment may var be found for a crime more serious than that which the present Jury have recorded, and that a conviction, ever to the extent of manslaughter, would not be without advantage to society."

Was ever a more CANNIBAL-LIKE feeling evinced by man than pervades the paragraph? The sternest Judge who sits, gives the criminal before him, even if loaded with guilt, every possible and fair advantage; and here we have an editor of a public paper lamenting the MODERATION of a JURY, and holding out YET a hope that some blood may be shed on the occasion. Of all the PRESS-GANG in the country this OLD TIMES is the most debased, horrible, and disgusting.

Instead of canvassing the moderation of the indefatigable Jurors, we shall publish their names, that their customers may at their discretion reward the activity and talent they have severally displayed in the attainment of truth and the cause of justice.

List of Jurors on Honey. WILLIAM GREEN, (FOREMAN), Desk-maker, 170, Oxford-street. THOMAS CAPE, Glass-seller, 27, Wigmore-street. Joannu. Brickn, Wine Merchant, 9, Grny-street, Manchester-sq. Davis Harris, Saufesoller, 193, Oxford-street. Triosass Wasser, Step-shop, Blandford-street. JAMES SOPER, Shoomaker, 201, Oxford-street. JOHN CUMMING, Watchwester, 202, Oxford-street. WILLIAM MOWER, Uphelsterer, 208, Oxford-street. SAMURE LORE, Duer, 215, Oxford-street, THOMAS SILVARWOOD, Lines-dreser, 217, Oxford-street, JAMES BLAIRIE, Haberdasher, 218, Oxford-street. CHARLES BROWN, Vietualier, Park-street, Oxford-street. WILLIAM SWAN, Pishmonger, 1, Portman-street. GRORGE KIDD.

THOMAS GALL, Tollor, 31, Portmen-street. We have been favoured with the private histories of eight of the above gentlemen, but we think the parts they took during the proceedings sufficiently indicative of their principles and pretensions, without any farther recommendation of ours.

The CHRONICLE makes an allusion to HIS MAJESTY. as being accountable in his capacity of guardian to the young DUKES of BRUNSWICK, for their conduct in refusing to receive any persons in mourning for their late aunt the Oueen.

Now with reference to HIS MAJESTY'S guardianship of these Princes, since the Chronicle has touched upon it, it appears to us a very curious circumstance that in the

Will of his late Screne Highness their father, and the Succes's brother, dated May 5, 1813, His Sevene High appoints. His Reyal Brother-indaw, the Pattica Rusal of "the United Kingdom: of Great Britain and Ireland "with the gracious permission of His Royal Highness "one of the trustees and executors, to act jointly with the "other executors and trustees, named and appointed, ac-"&c." And further, in case of His Royal Highners demise during the Duke's life-time, he in like manners appoints her late Royal Highness PRINGREE CHARLOFTE SIN WALES to be one of such trustees and executors, &c. and a

It appears curious and interesting to us, because attached as His Serene Highness, the Duke, was to his sister, and under the obligation of a loan of fifteen thousand pounds from her, His Serene Highness's respect for, attacks a ment to, and confidence in HIS MAJESTY at that time" (1813,) appears to have been warm, fervent, and inshaker The persecutions of his own sister certainly had not strucks him as very violent, nor do her merits, her virtues, or her innocence seem to have been much considered by Ric Serene Highness-for her name is not mentioned in that document we allude to; nay, so studiously is she excluded from any share or participation in the management of the minority of her nephews, that her daughter, at that time venteen yeurs of uge, is named as GUARDIAN in profesence WOOD and BROUGHAM, perhaps, can talk its with their notion of being left out of a Will is, but thousand ever deeply they may ricel the insulting contemptations have been treated with by her late Majnerr, we and inclined to believe, that the poignancy of their disappoints ment would have been materially increased what thepol stood in the relation of brothers to the deceased, and things) owing them " fifteen thousand louis or guinene," had linked de a singula mand without mentioning it.

While upon the sore subject of this fifteen the want took in or guineas, although the boud bears a date subsequent this the codicil, it may be as well to observe that her Majories: stated it to have been granted for money lent. It might he been lent after this will was made. But let we look at the

In a codicil to this will is a statement (amount) property of his Serene Highness's) of stack, purchased has the English funds by MR. HAMMERBLY, the banker, fine his Serene Highness, as follows:-mitubili 🦊

In the 4 per cents. Ditto April 15, 1812 .... 4,000 mimbe su May 12, 1812.... 2,700 z ,1aft, 510 Ditto Oct. 22, 1812. . . 2,599 and only in Ditto Ditto: 1812 .... 7,000 tos stitutogo Ditto May 6, 1818. . . 8,088 Tudy Post Ditto Memdm. (just before ong departure): profesty lating

Total 4 per cents. £80,000 and life! Here we have a document to prove, that, on the Stinger May, 1813, independently of all his other property, his secured Highness had EIGHTY THOUSAND POURDS in our fundal of

On the 16th of JUNE, 1815, his Serone Highness was no killed; and after his death; her late Majesty produced thin bond for fifteen thousand louis or guineus, dated Apatery 24, 1814—that, is to say, one: year : after chis... putchases: offill stock in our funds, which stock was his whom he did white said bond or obligation being, as her Majesty said, form MONEY LENT to him during this very period, or summet no

Upon this obligation she filed a bill in Chancus; age the executors of her brother, to compel them to pay that amount; and on the proceedings in that bill; Course MUNRUM, one of the executors, made oath on the 18th after March, 1818, that he believed the bond " nor ro anorsa 4 Duke's hand writing or style of compositions him

There the affair rested till her Majesty's death, Muds BROWSMAM having obtained extension of time to replywi upon the ground that her Majesty was greatly occupied to with other matters; but let it be remembered that motive REPLY HAS BREN GRYBS to the affidavit of one of these executors; and that no mention was made. in the Queen's Will of the instrument—the money—the Allegent DERT-or the BILL IN CHANCERY...

When this is taken into consideration, its many position not appear surprizing, that, without any tuition, them nephews of the Queen may not choose to wear mourainged for her.

IT appears that the Corporation of London have resolved to invite His MAJESTY to dinner on the next Lord Mayor's. day-" when," (adds the mover of the invitation) "I hope we may have another THORPE in the Chair."

way have another Thorpm in the Chair."

We cannot, of course, in our humble station, appreciate. the feelings of Princes; but if we were the KING, the Common Council, with Mr. THORPE at their head, might entrest and implore us to dine in GUILDHALL, and go on their knees on the 1st of October, and stay on them till the 9th of November, and then we would not give them our company,

These men talk of their loyalty to a King, whom they have personally insulted; and, by way of rendering the invitation more inviting, one of them hopes that they shall have another THORPE in the Chair—(he means WAITE-MAN)—are they really so ignorant of the common rules of decent society as not to have a faint notion of what gentlemanly conduct is, or do they mean their invitation as a freshing affront to HIS MAJESTY?

Giving them full credit, as we do, for their consum stupidity, we consider the proposition only as ridiculous; had they sense enough to see their past conduct in its proper light, it would be offensive. The KING's heart is full of kind feeling and beneficence, and there is no knowing how far, his forgiveness may go; but we must again repeat, that were we KTRGpinto GUFEDHALL we would not set our foot.

AN Evening Paper tells us, that his Screme Royal Highness PRINGE LEOPOLD of SAXE CORURS does not intend to return to this equatry for some months, and that he has, ordered the whole of his establishment to put on the deepest mourning for the late QUEEN.

We shall venture to observe, upon this, that at a time when reductions are making in every department of the State, and while Clerks, who have been living in hopes of an increase of income commensurate with increasing years and incumbrances, are about to lose a proportion of their incomes, it seems monstrous that this PRINCE should draw out of our treasury, sixty thousand pounds per annum.

If, however, this startle us, what can we say, or think on finding that his Serene Royal Highness does not consider it necessary to circulate that sum amongst Us; and that it is abstracted not only from the public coffers, but from the country altogether.

Really and seriously this is a subject well worthy the consideration of Government. The law holds that no contracts are binding, the terms and conditions of which are evidently extravagant. Had the PRINCE OF COBURG been long married, and had he lived for a length of time in the state fitting the husband of the Queen regnant, farwould it have been from us to have suggested any reduction of his income on her demiss—had the PRINCE OF COBURG a child—the heir to the throne, far would it have been from us to have wished to diminish the splendour, or dignity of the establishment of the menarch in espectancy. But, that His Serene Royal Highness, without a hald upon the country—without a claim, should receive an income so much greater than any of the Röyal brothers seems most preposeerous.

Instead of retrenching the active and inferior servants of the Government, let PRINCE COBURG's income be reduced to the scale of that of the DUKE of SUSBEX, and conrowill be saved in one year than all the Treasury reductions will have in seven.

We mention his Royal Highness the DUKE of SUSSEX, because he holds no public situation, and because, little as we admire his Royal Highness's politics, we are quite sure, that, as the Son of KING GEORGE the THIED, and the Brother of KING GEORGE THE FOURTH, his claim upon the country is at least as powerful as that of the foreign young gentleman upon whom our treasure is so profusely lavished.

Let it be observed, that if PRINCE LEOPOLD's income were reduced by the sum of 40,000l. per annum, he would the norther than the Reyal Duke just mentioned—let it be observed, that if His Screme Reyal Highness should, fortunately for the country, live forty years, he will receive from the public appeareds of Two MILLIONS of hard cash; by making the reduction we suggest, and of which we have little doubt His Screme Highness's high and liberal-mind will perceive the justice, the sum of forty thousand pounds per admim, applied to the reduction of our public debt, for the same length of time, would produce upwards of POUR MILLIONS!

Hall PRINCE-LEOPOLD, when in his own country, possessed a smagnificent revenue, a splendid income, and great establishments; and had he relinquished those when he came amongst us, he would have had a claim upon our generosity; but no: His Serene Royal Highness's income, in his bwn: country, did not amount to more than a too hundred under fiftieth part: of the sum he now receives; and swhen; in addition to his conduct about the Quency which has surprised and disgusted every reasonable person, we are told that he intends to live six or seven months in the year out of England, we no say that a fitter object for retremalment does not exist than His Serene Royal High-ness the Prince Of Saxe Comues.

Ousditte lammiers race with benefit by HearSernam Rown Hearmers's absence—we mean the RABBITS;—these poor little animals, which abound in the neighbourhood of Clarenor, have suffered much from his Serene Royal Highness's blended love of sport and economy. Rabbit-shooting is a favorite diversion with him, but there is profit as well as pleasure in the pursuit—all the rabbits he kills, his servants are obliged to est, to the evident saving of butchers' meat; if they demur, he says, "Pho, pho, dey do eat de rabbitt all de year round in my country, but de English is more size as wise."

This story we should not have inserted, but that as our crony and correspondent, Sin ROBBET GARDIEBE, K.C.B. is at hand, (and evidently very fond of writing) we are sure he will contradict us if we assert that which is not true.

Should be favour us, his letter shall be inserted GRATIS! and he may, perhaps, at the same time, satisfactorily account for the old way in which the people of KINGSTON, ESBER, and the vicinity, decypher the letters K. G. affixed, by HIS MAJESTY'S gracious kindness; to PRINCE LEOPOLD'S titles: they are supposed, by the ignorant rustics, to be abbreviations of the word KITCHEN-GARDEBER, a mistake, it is said, arising from his Highness's extensive dealings in green-greeery.

THE CHRONICLE, not liking to attack us, and wishing vastly to attack somebody, has fallen foul of the TIMES. We can understand this—the CHRONICLE of Friday had about a difficith part of the number of advertisements which graced the TIMES. The CHRONICLE thinks, that if it can run down the TIMES it may get hold of some of its advertizing customers. The notion is by no means a bad one, and, at all, events, we know, from the way in which the CHRONICLE people talk of the conduct and conductors of the TIMES, the speculation is founded upon something like principle, which, in a war between two such Papers, is very consolatory.

The Courier sontinues, with easy assurance, to steal extracts from our original articles, which it inserts; but, hating us for our success, meanly adds to such quotations the names of Papers, whose only merit is the having been beforehand with them in purloining. The Dublin Patriot copies us, and the Courier, a fortnight afterwards, copies the Dublin Patriot, rather than own his obligation in the first instance.

But sometimes the COURIER ventures to be original, and affects modesty—inserts an article which it fancies vastly accurate, and highly important, and dissensinates it, "as having copied it from a Morning Paper." We should be glad to know what Morning Paper originally contained the LIE about the DUKE OF WELLINGTON and young NBM. The Convier said it was copied from a Morning Paper. Byen though he be jeakens of its prosperity, or fearful of its rivalry, it would be better for the Convier to name the Journal to which he is obliged for the article we allude to, than sit down under the imputation of having adopted the fashion of the Times (newspaper.) and cooked it up himself.

OUR readers will perceive with pleasure, that SIR ROBERT BAKER is no longer the principal police Magistrate. To add to the mortification attendant upon a conscioueness of his misconduct, the TIMES and CHRONECE have taken to praise him: we condole with him sincerely on this last misfortune—all the rest he has richly deserved. Mr. BIRNIE sudceeds him.

TO JOHN BULL.

SIR, With inexpressible pleasure I read your paragraph of Sunday last, relative to the LADY ANNE HAMILTON, being satisfied that you only did that amiable lady justice, when you spoke of her conduct in terms of commandation.

The life of LADY ANNE HAMILTON, for a period of thirty years and upwards, has been marked with many and singular acts of affection, and propriety, under trials mero severe and unforcess. then have fallen to the lot of any other Lady of her high birth and connexious.

The education of one beloved sister, and the neglect and illtreatment she received from another, when left by her only parent, who had passed into France, distracted hermind for a long period, during which time she formed a friendship with a mauried lady of one of the first families in Wales, and passed a considerable portion of her time, accompanied by her younger sister (now COUNTESS OF DUNMORE) in the society of that lady and her husband.

Upon the marriage of that sister, she was called upon to introduce the two daughters of her deceased cousin, into society, and in doing so, LADY ANNE displayed much strength of mind and steadiness of conduct; and upon the marriage of her brother, the present DUKE of HAMILTON, she retired from the world, and was only again called into action by a celebrated Viscountess, whom she had long known, and who represented to her the situation of the PRINCESS of WALES, who was most anxious to call LADY ANNE near her person, and profit by her council and advice. Her Ladyship was over persuaded, and quitted her retirement for Kensing, ton Palace.

How far she was afterwards sacrified by the junto under that roof, the trial of MR. PHIPPS, the thez Editor of the News, on the prosecution of LADY PHROBVAL, will shew.—LADY ANNE again retired to her villa in the New-road, and continued a stranger to the world, until dragged from that retirement in April, 1820, by her late Majesty, whose cornect and repeated representations and intresses led her Ladyship, (after having flown to the friends before-mentioned; for advice upon the subject, and having received from them the prediction of almost all that afterwards happened,) into a persuasion, that it was her duty, hamever contrary it might be to her inclination, to quit England, and join the suite of her late Majesty on her return to this country.

How far LADY ANNE HAMPLYON may have had cause to repent having taken the step she was thus induced to take, her ruined health and wounded mind can best illustrate; but that, such step was taken from the best of matices, and with the purest intentions, no question can anist. The privations and insults she has borne—the ingratitude she has experienced—have been sustained under the purest feelings of Christian for bearance and firmness, for the last fifteen mouths. We sulcigium can be more appropriate than that of contrasting the conduct of LADY ANNE HAMPLYON, up to the very period of quitting Brunswick, with that of others by whom she was surrounded.

Should MR. ALDERMAN WOOD place himself before the public on his return; relative to BRANDENBURGE HOUSE, the whole particulars of a CERTAIN CONSPIRACY CONCOCTED WITHIN THOSE WALLS, JUST PRIOR TO HERMAJESTY'S DECEASE, shall be transmitted to you: and believe me, Bir, faithfully, yours.

VERAX:

THE OLD TIMES,

THIS Paper seems to endeavour to justify our contempt for it, and our weekly exposure of its falsehood and beeches, by the insertion of every sort of wilful misrepresentation and careless assertion. The instances which have occurred during the last six days are innumerable; we shall select a few for the diversion of our readers.

FIRE IN GRACECHURCH-STREET.

Speaking of this event, the TIMES says, that there was, a quantity of gun-powder in the house of a MR. ALLEN; such assertion tending to injure a most respectable tradesman and alarm his neighbours. On Tuesday was find the following in the same Paper:—

"WILLIAM ALLEN and Co. present their respects to the Editor of the Times, and haning with much surprise seen in his Paper for this day, a report that some gun-powder was upon their premises, when the fice in Granechurch-street broke out, request he will be solvinging as to state that there was no foundation whatever for this report, as William Allen and Co. have not at any time received the article into their premises. And they beg further to add, that in consequence of arrangements for the last 16 years with the in-bornovy at Stratford for manufacturing and keeping there a stock of dangenous preparations, the premises in town may be considered particularly safer.

"It is hoped that those papers which have copied the original mis-statement will copy this correction.

"Plough-court, Lombard-street, 10th of 9th month, 1681,22-Times, Tuesday, Sept. 11, 1821.

HIS GRACE THE DUES OF WELLINGTON.

On Friday se'anight, the Traus gave us a statement about the Dukn and young NET. On Wednesday we have the following:—

"The following is a convenience, from the highest authority of a statement contained in a letter received, from Pants by a mericantile house in the city, and copied into our Paper of Friday last. Our readers cannot full to be pleased with his Grace's very, clark-like stule:—

"Strathfield-Saye, Sept. ?.

"Strathfield-Say

"The whole statement in this paragraph is false; and as it reliates to the conduct of another individual as well as to myself, I have you will take the earliest opportunity of contradicting it.—I have the honour to be, Sir, your most obedient lumble servant, "WELLINGTON."

Not satisfied, however, with this exposure of their falsehood, or the absurd impertinence of their remark on his Grace's "style," on Thursday we are again treated as follows:—...

"In our question of LORD WELLINGTON's letter, in yestering's Paper, our frameriber roomment omitted the first line, which gave it the clerk-like character of which we spoke; we now give the mineble document entire:—

"Stratisfield-Saye, Sept. 9, 1821.

"Srm—I see that in the fifth column of the second page of your Paper of the 7th instant, there is a paragraph respecting myself in a supposed letter, without date, stated to be from Paris.

"The whole statement in this paragraph is false; and as it relates to the conduct of another individual as well as to myself, I beg you will take the earliest opportunity of contradicting it.— "I have the honour to be, Sir, your most abedient humble servant, "To the Editor."

"WELLINGTON."

"WELLINGTON."

"Times, Thursday, Sept. 13.

As to the "style" of a letter merely denying a falsehood, we are surprised at the fastidiousness of the Cockney paint; but we must say, the "first line, which was foolially omitted," appears to us to be the only part of his Grace's communication which is at all clerk-like.

BUONAPARTE.

In Tacaday's Tames, we are favoured with a long made of up article, headed "Extract of a letter from Paris," the first line of which gives an account of the writer's haveing dined with Dm. Annomanch; who is living in London. The Counses's memory having been jogged by a friend upon this glating inconsistency, we have in Thurspar's Times, the subjected little paragraph:

"By an aneraight, an article in our Paper of Tassiay, handed Bugharanys," was given in the form of a latter from Paris, It was in fact written in London, and addressed to Paris, whither it was, no believe, forwarded. The inadvertency was committed by a friend, who was kind enough to copy for us the letter in question. The public, however, may be assured that every thing mentioned in that statement is perfectly authentic."

This merely shows the nature of things called eviginal letters; which appear in the Gockney print. We believe that the Gockney does not even know how to spell the Doctor's name, which is, if we are rightly informed, Automachi; and we are the more surprised at this error, for if that be the name, a slight knowledge of the Greek tongue would have shown the Cockney that the Doctor is of a nature closely resombling his own; that is, that he is nominally a man who fights against himself!

But the negligence and stupidity of this Paper pervade a department, which one might really hope secure from their peraicious effects—we mean that of advertisements. On Wednesday we read, in the front page, the following interesting notice:—

"A DOMESTICATED LADY, who is a widow without family, is, desirous of engaging berself as confidential companion to a gentleman, and also, if wished, to superintend the domestic arrangey ments; or an unemarried gentleman would find his advantage by engaging a female whose dligence and economy would be the means of counteracting impositions so universally practised by servents." &c. &c.

The oddity of this publication startled us, and the opportunity of finding a companion to an unmarried gentleman, ready domesticated to his hand, we held to be a most one; but judge our disappointment. writing to the lady, under the disguise of G. R. at Mn WEST'S, jeweller, 3, Ludgate-street, the TIMES of Friday comes before us, and we see the same advertisement, with a most fatal alteration, and added to it the following acknowledgment of stupidity on the part of the leading journal, which destroyed our hopes and the singularity of the affair together:-

44 As an apology for the serious mistake made in this advertisement on Wednesday last, we are sorry to say our corrector of the press mistook the word gentlewoman for gentleman.

People really should be very cautious how they advertise in such a paper.

To be sure the style in which intelligence is conveyed to us, through its classical columns, is such as perfectly warrants its flippant criticism upon the DUKE's letter. At Ipswich they are uncertain " whether it was " really intended by the independents to propose the measure " regarding making a few honorary freemen." And from HIGHGATE we are informed—" best part of the property was identified;" if by best, he means the most valuable, the cockney is wrong as to fact, and if by "best part," he means most "of the property," he is incomparably vulgar.

In the Gazette de France, a paragraph appears, stating, that the young DUKES OF BRUNSWICK have refused to receive any person into their presence who appear in mourning for their late aunt our QUEEN. The Times

"The paragraph in the Gozette de France respecting the young DURBS of BRUNSWICK is evidently a ridiculous fulsehood."

-But why? this the TIMES does not tell us-it judges the French paper by itself, and declares the paragraph to be evidently a falsehood; why, evidently?—the only particular mark of the QUEEN's attachment to her relations, was her production of the late DUKE OF BRUNS-WICK's obligation to her for 15,000l. of which we shall, we conclude, hear more in time; - when we know the result of that affair we shall be better able to judge of the feelings of the young Princes towards the departed lady, and of the falsehood of the statement which has appeared.

It is only necessary to look at the detected lies of the TIMES to appreciate all its assertions; -but we have certainly some bopes of its improvement in other respects, since it has taken to publish our "rejected communica-

The letter sigued an " Efficient Placeman," addressed to the EARL OF LIVERPOOL; was refused a place in our last number; but it was eagerly caught up by the TIMES, and makes a fine flourishing figure in its columns of Thursday. If the COCKNEY paid due attention to our " Notices to Correspondents," it might save him some humiliation, for in Sunday's BULL, he will see that we declined the article in question, of which he is so mighty proud.

RADICAL CLERGYMAN.

In consequence of his writing and conveying Radical addresses to the late Queen, the REV. M. MARCUS, late of Paddington Green, was dismissed from his clerical situation there, but subsequently obtained the curacy of St. Sepulchre, Northampton, where it appears that he has again incurred the displeasure of his superior by a repetition of his former conduct, during the execution of his duty in the church.

As he is appealing, by petition from the people of PAD-DINGTON to the BISHOP OF PETERBOROUGH, for countenance and support, it may not be superfluous to mention the names of some of the principal petitioners, in order that his Lordship and the public may be enabled duly to appreciate the nature of the case.

Let it be premised also, that they are the identical party of cocked hat gentry who accompanied their Reverend friend to Brandenburgh House with addresses, and that the petition in question is now passing from pot-house to pot-house for signatures!!!

R. GRIBB, Publican, and Receiver of Honey's Subscriptions, Harrow-road.

GEO. UNITE, Dealer in Marine Stores, ditto.

- FORD, Dust Cart Wheelwright, ditto.

JAS. BUTLER, Carpenter, ditto.

GEO. GORTON, Bricklayer, ditto.

It is needless to give any more particulars, as enough, we think, has been said to convince every one of the merits

The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland is to continue a year longer in as a mark of the Royal favour of the Roval Governme

When His Majesty's squadron lay at anchor on Tuesday evening, at King's Town harbour, a beautiful rainbow, of the most vivid colours, appeared elevated above the horizon, its arch encircling the Royal squadron; a poor woman who sat on the rocks, and who had been asxiously looking at the ships, fixing her eyes on that "harbinger of bright days," exclaimed, "Well, there's the first Irish rainbow he ever saw."

We understand that the King has been graciously pleased to order an additional month's pay to each of the crew of the Lightning steam-packet, which had the honour of conveying his Majesty to Ireland, and likewise the sum of 201. to Mr. Johnson, the Engineer

Lord and Ludy Hood, Lady Anne Hamilton, Mr. W. Austin, and the Earl of Yarmouth, landed on Friday at Dover, from the Rob Roy steam-packet.

THE TIMES NEWSPAPER .- A True Bill was found on Thursday, by the Grand Jury for the City of London against the Times news-paper, for a Libel contained in the speech of Mr. Waithman at the Common Hall, on Mr. J. B. Sharpe, Secretary of the Cornitational to the state of the Continued and acting the continued to the continued and the continued to the continued t

THERE was a more numerous assemblage of the Livery, at the appointed place for the examination, last Thursday, than on the preceding week, in consequence, as it is supposed, of the termination of the Coroner's Inquest; every body anxious, if possible, to analyze the claims of ALDERMAN WAITHMAN to the civic chair. Before twelve o'clock the room was crowded to excess; we cannot however, buttreturn our acknowledgments to the Committee for their politeness to the gentlemen of the public press, who were accommodated with very convenient seats near the door.

At a little before one, the Alderman made his appearance, and apologized for his apparent want of punctuality; he informed the Committee that he had been obliged to go as far. as Beaumont-street, Mary-le-bone, with some sheeting and towels for a lady to look at, and he trusted, that attention to an old customer would not weigh against him in the enlightened minds of the first deliberative body in the known world, the Common Council of the City of London!

The excuse was admitted, and the speech received with great applause. Some few persons cried out, "Well done, old HUCKABACK!—was that the lady who sold you the shawl? — "Where's BIRCH?"—"How's GROUCH?"—"Was the sheeting ticketted?"—"MORE BLACK!"—"Filthy Develue!"—indeed, some other expressions of disapprobation were heard, but the singular attention of the Committee to our personal comfort on the occasion prevents our repeating any thing which might be unpleasant to any body.

MR. WAITHMAN having taken his place, MR. DEPUTY who conducted the greater part of the first crossexamination, commenced his labours.

Q. Have you any observations to make upon your last examination?—A. I would merely say, that I do recollect the circumstances about COOPERS' shawls, and that I saw the propriety of returning them after the decision of MESSRS. MORHALL and KESTEVEN.

Q. You saw the propriety of returning them ?—A. 1 did. Q. But you withheld them, I believe?-A. I did as long as I could, because the decision of the arbitrators was not written on a stamped paper, as the Act directs.

Q. And you think there was nothing extraordinary in purchasing two shawls for fifty guineas, at night, of a stranger. A. Nothing; I am by no means particular in such cases.
Q. Did you know the shawls were worth more than fifty guineas when you bought them?—A. I am not likely to have given more than they were worth.

Q. Had you ever seen the shawls before?—A. I cannot say. Q. Did you know that they were bought at COOPERS'?-How should I.

Q. Had you not sold one of them to COOPER a short time before, for thirty-nine pounds?-A.: Why-yes-dibelieve 1 did-but I did not recollect it at the time.

Q. Did not your young man in the shop say, "this is one of COOPERS' shawls," looking at one of those brought you for sale?—A. —He might;—I rather think he did.

Q. And as you did not pay the man who brought them to you that night, did you send no message to MESSES. COOPER upon the subject ?- I did not.

Q. Did you know the person who brought the shawls for -A. I was quite convinced he was a respectable person, which quieted my apprehensions.

Q. Oh! you had some apprehensions?—A. Why, if I had apprehended the person-Q. ---You would have done your duty, Mr. Sheriff. Do you know who the person was?—A. I think I have heard. Q. Was it not ROBERTS, who has since been tried at the Old Bailey, and who escaped from Coldbath-fields House of Correction?—A. It might have been; but I trust this Committee will not suspect that I was personally acquainted with

Q. We have another story of a shawl, MR. WAITHMAN, for you, which I shall not bring forward to-day, in the absence of one of my friends; but which we shall call upon you to explain next week; in the mean time we shall proceed vith what you call your public life, which, perhaps, under the circumstances, is most important—Pray, Sir, do you remember the Income Tax, when it was first imposed?—A. Oh! perfectly. I remember when it was first imposed by the Tories, and doubled by the Whigs.

Q. You were in business in Fleet-street at that time.-Yes, and for many years before.

Q. In the same large house you occupy now?—A. Yes.

Q. Might I enquire what sum you returned as your income to the Commissioners of Taxes ?—A. Sixty pounds per annum. A loud laugh.)

Q. And you swore that was the amount of your yearly profits ?—A. I did. Q. What did the Commissioners do?—A. They assessed me at eight hundred pounds!

Q. Of course you appealed?—A. No, I did not—I refused to pay it.
Q. Do you know a Mr. GEORGE?—A. It occurs to me that I have heard the name. Q. I will assist your memory; Mr. JOSEPH GEORGE was the tax-gatherer whom you refused to pay?-A. Oh! so he was; I recollect now. Q. Did not he tell you he must seize?—A. He did; and with a view of maintaining order and regularity, I told him to do so at his peril. Q. What did he do? - A. He sent for two hackney coaches, and carried off two loads of my super-supers.

Q. What did you do afterwards?—A. Why, when I found that he had actually taken my super-supers, I offered to pay the assessment; but he refused, unless I paid all the ex-

Q. And what did you do then?-A. Why-then I paid them

Q. Had you anything ever seized in your House at any other time?—A. Yes; they took a lot of Bandanas from me and for that oppression I had to pay a mitigated penalty of fifty pounds.

Q. You consider that to have been oppression:—did you not know 1 twas contrary to law to sell those articles?-A. I am not bound to answer that question.

Q. Do you not see the policy of a law framed to protect our own manufactures ?- I never considered it in that light; | chaggined.

I know that saling contribute trade.

Q. Netting, in the large way, about start annum, hey? (a great laugh)—You said, Mr. Walthman, that you lived in the same house you live in now when the seizure of your property for taxes took place—had you two houses, or one, in Flect-street.—A. I had one originally, but took in the premises next door.

Q. Did you pay parish dues or rates for the house so taken in by you?—A. Not for a long time.

Q. Why then, the parish was taken in, as well as the house?—A. I do not think I was bound to tell them any thing about it.

Q. So by adding No. 103 to your own premises, one house escaped paying?—A. It certainly did; but it was at last discovered.

Q. What did you do?—A. Why, then I paid the rates; in fact I could not help it.——Q. And the arrears, I conclude, due by mistake!—A. Oh dear no.

Q. Is it true that you told the collector that he had no legal claim to the arrears, because they belonged to former churchwardens and overseers?—A. I believe I did. Q. And you would not pay them?—A. No; I would not. Q. You remember when the Talents were in office?—A. I cannot say I know the gentlemen by that name. Q. Well, the Whigs .- A. Oh, certainly.

Q. You, I suppose, never sought for any thing from any administration?—A. Never, Sir, thank God.
Q. Come now, MR. WAITHMAN, did you not endeavour to get appointed Receiver-General for Middlesex, by the Whiss; and had you not resolved to quit, what you are dunce enough to call in the City—public life, if you had got it?—A. I do not mean to deny that, I might have solicited such a place; but I considered that I had merited some return for the great good I have done.

Q. Might we beg you to point out any thing beneficial which you have effected?—A. Yes, I saved a boy the other day from being transported, and got him introduced to Lorn FIFE, and engaged at the Opera House.

Q Ah, a poor fellow who was persecuted by the law?—A. Yes; shamefully—injured and oppressed.——Q. Has he not been in custody again?—A. I rather think he has.

Q. Has he not a sister on the stage?—A. (Confused.)—I do not know—I rather believe he may,

Q. Your nephew is also in that line, I believe ?-A. He is-he is a mimic—and a very clever mimic too.

Q. What is his name?—A. REEVE.

Q. His father is a tailor?—A. He is—&a very good tailortoo. Q. We merely wish to know facts without any of your remarks MR. WAITHMAN, because all your answers lead to a particular point, which we shall hereafter trouble you -do you remember COLONEL WARDLE?—A. I do. Q. Do you know 2 MR. RICHARDS?—A. I did; but I do not know him now.

Q. What have you cut him?—A. No; exactly the reverse

Q. Do you remember attending a public meeting where thanks were voted to COLONEL WARDLE, and soliciting RICHARDS to join you, and upon his answering that he could not do so consistently: do you recollect saying, "d-u consistency, what's the meaning of it, there's no con-"sistency in politics?"—A. I might have said so, but I do not think I swore.

Q. Do you recollect MRS. CLARKE?—A. Oh, yes; I recollect her because of LORD FOLKESTONE.

Q. We have nothing to do with LORD FOLKESTONE here; do you remember her?—A. I do.

Q. Did you ever read a book of her's called the "RIVAL PRINCES?"—A. I cannot distinctly say that I ever read any book in my life.

Q. I will repeat an extract or two from that work just to refresh your memory?

"As MR. WAITHMAN, the linen-draper, is a very noisy patriot, and always talking about something or other he does not very well understand, and meddling in all the affairs of his neighbours, he appears fair game for me to shoot at. If this chattering black bird were to die, the Council Chamber at Guildhall would be like a rookery deserted, where a enseless noise had too long disturbed the whole neighbourhood, while he and his black brethren were breeding mischief.

"Of Mr. WAITHMAN I know a great deal, but nothing to claim either my admiration or respect, as he is something like the common description of liberty boys, who in their own dwellings are perfect tyrants; which confirms me in opinion, that modern patriotism and tyranny are synonymous terms.

"When I was first introduced to MR. WAITHMAN, be we very anxious for me to assail most of the high personages about the Court, and he wished me very much to attack His Majesty from HIS information; but I gave him the same answer I had given to MR. GLENNIE—that I felt no inclination to be a Republican blunderbuse, to fire out the party malice of any disp-pointed politician!—MR. WAITHMAN will understand me, I am sure. This intended attack on an aged and good Kine, I assure the public, so much disgusted me, that I have ever since considered Mr. WAITHMAN a very dirty character !-But he is a patriot, and therefore, he must be spotless, as the times go!"

Q. What do you think of that MR. WAITHMAN?—A. It is by no means civil.

Q. Pray, MR. WAITHMAN, are you not a Frame-workknitter ?-A. 1 am.

Q. And a member of the WHIG CLUB?—A. I am. Qs Who proposed you for that honourable society?—A. SIR WILLIAM RAWLINS.

Q. What was he?—A. A broker. Q. A stock broker?-A. No, he sold tables and washhand basin stands, second-hand.

Q. Are there many other linen-drapers and FRAME-WORK-KNITTERS belonging to that Club?—A. I do not know; there are people of all sorts belonging to it, some very respectable men, I believe.

After a little deliberation the Committee here agreed to adjourn till Wednesday next, when the final examination will be gone into. MR. WAITHMAN will then retire; the Chairman will sum up, and the Committee vote such resolutions as they shall see fit.

MR. WAITHMAN bowed as he left the room, and received some slight applause; he appeared, however, a good deal (To be continued.)

THE OBSERVANCE OF THE QUEEN'S DECEASE AT DUNSTABLE.

SIN-On the arrival of the intelligence of the QUEEN's death, the passing bell rung out with all due solemnity; and on the day of the embarkation of her remains, one of the Churchwardens (not MR. DEAR, he was not consulted) ordered the belt to be tolled at morning, noon, and night, an hour each time, not by minute-strokes as is usual on such occasions, but, (as if determining to out-herod Herod), by incessant bolling, to the great annoyance of the inhabitants.

On the following Sunday, the desk and pulpit in the parish church were hung with black, NOT by the desire of the Minister, nor the wish of the inhabitants, but by the Churchwarden above alluded to, in conjunction with two or three individuals only; it may therefore be justly said to have been done by stealth; and as nothing of the kind was observed here for our late virtuous and venerable QUEEN CHARLOTTE, and no precedent appears in this neighbourhood, the intention of these men must have been to insult those persons who think it right to " fear God and konour the King, by carrying their spleen into the sanctuary, and fanning the dying flame of party feeling, which ought to have been prevented.

The congregation, with the exception of three or four, who were in the secret, were amazed, and some resolved not to enter the church again until the odious cloth should be removed; the circumstance, however, on the whole, occasioned but little gloom, scarcely a black coat, more than usual, was to be seen, and the females in general displayed a great variety of colours—as was noticed by strangers; some of the Sunday school girls, indeed, who had been instructed to shout Queen for ever, wore scraps of black on their straw bonnets.

These facts are stated with an intention to rescue this loyal little town from an appearance of radicalism, which a few ignorant and designing men are endeavouring to cast upon it. ANTI-RADICAL. -Yours, Dunstable, Sept. 8, 1821.

TO JOHN BULL.

SIR-Permit me to offer a few observations, through the channel of your very valuable Paper, upon a subject of great national consequence—a subject indeed of vital importance to Great Britain, not only as a commercial state, but as a naval power.

I need not tell you, Sir, that all Licutenants and Masters in the Royal Navy, as well as all sworn officers in the Hon. East India Company's ships, are obliged to underge a strict examination, not only touching their skill and seamanship, but also respecting their scientific knowledge of navigation.

The propriety of such regulations on the parts of the Admiralty and of the East India Company will most readily be admitted by all; but is it not a matter of astonishment, that whilst the expediency of those regulations are universally acknowledged, the most valuable ships belonging to private merchants, should be commanded and officered by men, who are frequently totally uninformed of the first principles of nautical science.

That the generality of commanders and officers of mer-chant ships are very incorrect in their reckoning, is well known to Naval and East India Commanders; for it is by no mesns uncommon to find, upon failing in with such ships, that they are in error as much as 5 and 6 degrees of longitude! Can we then wonder at the number of valuable merchant ships which are continually lost? Or, ought we not rather to express our astonishment at the many that what infatuation, then, can have possessed the great commercial body of the nation to have overlooked this radical defect, in the conduct of their marine, for so long a time? Are not the crews of our West Indiamen, Southseamen, &c. &c. worthy of the same care and attention, for the preservation of their lives, as those of the Royal Navy, and East India ships? And are not the ships and cargoes of sufficient consequence to their owners, to cause them to employ all due precaution for their safety? If so, why are so many valuable lives, and so much treasure, suffered to be under the charge of men, whose competence to the tank is, to say the least of it, very questionable? when, at the same time, it may so readily be reduced to a certainty, by a general resolution of the British Merchants to adopt a plan, similar to that of the East India Company, obliging every commander and chief mate, (and of large ships second mates also), to undergo an examination, and toppoduce a certificate of his abilities, as a sine qua non, inco he shall be permitted to undertake the office he is a candidate for.

The examiner should be appointed by a committee of merchants, and no certificate should be admitted, unless Snow such accredited person as would act with the strictest however and integrity on the one hand, also, justice and impartiality on the other.

Were the plan I have now recommended to be universaily adopted among the ship-owners of this great commercial country, it is hardly necessary to say how much benefit must acrue from it, how many valuable lives would be preserved, and how much property would be saved to the merchant and underwriters.

If these remarks, Sir, should fortunately have the effect of rousing the merchant from his apparent apathy, I shall be most happy at having been the humble instrument of so cht to my country.-Sir, vours ve fully, PHILO-NAUTICUS.

. That there are some expert and able navigators among the merchant captains, I will not presume to deny; but such a man, when we do meet with him, may justly be deemed a rara avis!

ASSIZES.

E At the Lancaster Assizes, W. Davis and W. Drennan were charged with maliciously shooting at Wm. Wright, in the employ of Mesers. Rigby, with the intent to kill and murder him.—Mr. Raine, in stating the case to the Court, said that in November last a est racy was formed by the journeymen sawyers to compel their masters to employ them at their own prices, and by private regula these of their own they adopted means to prevent any person from infringing on those regulations; and in order to force a submission to their desires had gone the length of saying that they would murder those who disobeyed their mandates. In pursuance of this diabolical conspiracy the prisoners had attempted to deprive a man of his life for no other cause than that he followed his regular employment contrary to the illegal rules they, in conjunction with others, they had so improperly attempted to establish. A great number of witness, to prove the guilt of the prisoners, were examined.— William Wright had been in the employ of Messrs. Rigby about two or three weeks before he was wounded. He was at work on Wednesday, 10th January, about seven in the evening, after it was dark; he had a light tied to his right heg, as is usual with sawyers, to direct them in their work; while he was at work he received a wound from a ball about two inches above the right knee, at the back of his thigh; it was fired from the division at the brook of the hoards. His brother came to his assistance, and touk him to the Haymarket Tavern, and from thence he was removed to the Infirmary. His leg was amputated about an hour and a half after.—Wm. Rooney stated, that on the night Wright was shot be was at Davis's lodgings with W. Bennett, J. Cheetham, and Drennan. They all left the house together. They went to the top of Ranelagh-street, near Lime-street, where the timber-yard was situated, and the prisoners left them going in the same direction of Lime-street. He knew a person named James Ward; he went to his house in Bolton-street, and while he was there Davis came into Ward's cellar. When Davis came in his right hand was cut and covered with blood. He asked for some water to wash it. Mrs. Ward said he should have none, and desired him to leave the place. Davis put his hand in his coat pocket and left the house. He saw a pistol at Moore's; the stock of it was split from the top downwards. He heard Dreman say to Davis, "Take care of yourself," and Davis answered, "Take care of yourself; there is no danger from me." The witness asked Dreaman if he knew whether Bennett and any thing to do with shooting that night, and he said no that the pistel that Bennett was to have fired failed, and it would not do it; but Dreaman added he had sone it himself. Several witnesses confirmed the previous testimeny. The fury found both the prisoners Guilty of shooting with an intent to maim and wound, but not to murder.

OLD BAILEY.

On Wednesday these Sessions commenced .- Thomas Wilson. aged $2, was capitally indicted for stealing a tea-caddy, containing in sovereigns, gainens, and silver, 2121.19s. and three watches, a gold chain, five sents, &c.; the property of John Jacob Widmays, a publican at Whitechapel. The prosecutor stated, that on the 9th of August last the prisoner was in the tap-moon of his house, about twelve o'clock in the day. There was a ten-caddy in the bar in which witness kept his money. It contained 163 sovereigns, 6 half sovercigns, 13 guineus, 4 half-guineas, 3 seven shilling pieces, and 271. in silver, together with the watches, &c. The money had been there deposited for the purpose of paying the brewer. Witness had occasion to leave the bar about half a minute, and on his return Mrs. Widneys informed him that the prisoner was running off tewards Whitechapel; and, on his looking at the burene, saw it was open, and the tes-caddy with the money gone, as was the prisoner, who was apprehended shortly afterwards.

Thomas Conden stated, that he saw the prisoner in Church-lane, struggling with a woman; witness advanced towards them, and the prisoner drew from under his arm the tea-caddy, when witness told Mr. Smith to secure the prisoner, while he picked up the so-vereigns and silver which were lying on the ground.

Thomas John Smith corroborated the evidence of the last witness; and a Lambeth-street effices stated, that he received the prisoner from the last witness; and, on searching him, found 21. 12*. 6d.

part of the property.

The prisoner, in a busied speech, confessed having taken the property, and said he was unable to resist the temptation so much stoney held out; he therefore threw himself on the mercy of the Court, having served His Majesty 36 years.

Mr. Baron Grahum said it was needless for him to recapitulate the evidence, which clearly established the fact.

The Jury immediately found the prisoner Gully—Beath. On Thursday, John Bone, aged 26, and Benj. Bone, aged 28, were put to the Bar on an indictment charging them with cutting and miniming James Austin with a sickle or reasons book, at the Robin Hood public-house, Barnet. The parties had been drinking together until they had in some measure become intoxicated, and the younger of the prisoners left the house with a sickle in his hand, without paying his reckoning. He was followed by the prosecutor, who endeavoured to take it from him, and in the scuffle the wound in question was received. Against the elder prisoner there was no charge made out by the prosecutor, and under the whole of the circumstances the Learned Judge directed an acquittal.

FRIDAY.—William Post, aged 23, and John Tipper, aged 21, were indicted for forging a bill of exchange for 261. 17s. with intent to defraud Messis. Williams and Co. of Birchin-lane. The real prospector was Mr. W. Howell, gun-maker, of Birmingham, who stated, that on the 16th of July he received a letter, containing an order for one single and one double-barrell gun; it was signed "J. Tipper." He saw the prisoners afterwards, and was told by "I. Tipper." He saw the prisoners afterwards, and was told by them that they could pay with a banker's acceptance; he accordingly sent the guns to a Mr. Sherrington's, the Two Angels and Crown in Sr. Martin's-hane.—Sherrington proved that Potis, who gave his name as Tipper, called for the guns, and passed the bill for 121. 16s.—On the 11th of August he called again, and received another box, with more guns, for which he tendered the bill for 261. 17s.—G. James presented the bill at No. 3, Birchiu-lane, and asked if that was Williams's the banker's; neither of the prisoners were acceptant at that time: the answer street to his beautiful. somers were present at that time; the answer gives to his inquiry was, that it was Williams's, but not Williams's the bankers; went into a narrow passing, on the entrance door of which there was a brass plate, with the inscription "Williams and Co." on it; also, on going up stairs, saw a lady in a small room folding lines; the premises had no appearance of being a house of business; there was also a door on the same floor, on which was written, "Attendance from ten till four;" thinks there was "Williams and Co." on it, but could not be positive; then went to Williams and Co.'s, at No. 20, Birchin-lune; shewed the bill, and being answered that the acceptance was not their's, wrote to Mr. Howeil; the prisoners were in consequence taken into custody. Mr. W. H. Burgess, partner, in the house of Messis. Williams and Co. bankers, proved the acceptance to be a forgery.

The prisoners made no defence, but called the following witness. Teasdale Cockell, of the bank ers' licensing office. Somerset-House said, that a license was taken out on the 26th February, 1921, for "Wm. Williams, John Tipper, and John Williams, all residing at Swansen, in the county of Glamorgan," to trade as bankers; no license in London was necessary, unless to issue notes payable on demand; the license endured until the 10th October following; did not know who took out the license; when the license was for, a copy of the bill to be issued was given in; it appeared by the one given in, that they referred to No. 3, Birchin-lane.

The Jury found Potts guilty, but acquitted Tipper.

SATURDAY—J. Cadman was indicted for uttering forged £5 notes. The indictment being read over to birn, he pleaded guilty. He was warned by Mr. Baron Graham of the perilous situation in which he warned by Mr. Baron cranam or the perious situation in which he stood, but he still persisted in his plea of guilty. The plea having been recorded, the prisoner (who is a young man of interesting appearance) begged leave to occupy the time of the court for a few minutes, whilst he addressed a few words to their lordships, to show why he implored mercy for himself, and his unfortunate wife. He then, whilst labouring under great agitation, and with tears streaming down his face, and the following odders to the court. ing down his face, read the following address to the court:—"My lord, having seriously considered the melancholy situation in which my misfortunes, and the crime with which I stand charged, have placed me, I have resolved not to consume the time of the court i bearing evidence upon it, whilst my own conscience has alread) condemned me. I have therefore only to implore the nurcy of the court apon mynelf and my wife, and to beseen that we may be suffered to repair by a life of penitence and industry in another country, the wrongs I have done to society in this. I had the honor of serving His Majesty in the Royal Marines, for a period of seven years, with the approbation of my superior officers. Subsequently poverty and distress of the most urgent and intolerable nature, overwhelmed me, I had the misery of seeing a beloved and affectionate wife pining in sickness, and without the common necessaries of life-In an evil hour I embraced the only means of alleviating these misfortunes, and committed the odious crime which has reduced me to my present degraded and perilous situation. Praying that your lordships will favourably and with mercy add such recommendation of my unfortunate case as your benevolence may dictate. I plead guilty." He then bowed to the court and jury, and retired from the

John Billis, a young man of gentlemuly appearance and musners, only twenty-one years of age, was then put to the bar, charged also with utering two forged £5 notes, with intent to defraud the Governor and Company of the Bank of England.

John Clark shopman to Mr. Austin, silversmith and jeweller, 136, Oxford-street, stated that the prisoner came to his master's shop on the 3d of August last, and selected a seal, for which he was to pay thirty-two shillings, and tendered the £5 note in question in payshowing it to an assistant in the shop, they suspected it was not a good one, and they followed him, and told him he must come back and change it. After a little persuasion he came back. At the time of paying the note he gave his address:—" J. Ellis, Esq. No. 46, ortman-square."

Mrs. A. Ewbank, housekeeper to Mr. Robinson, 6, Austin Friars, stated that on the 30th of July, prisoner called and enquired for Mr. P. T. Robinson, who was not at home. Prisoner expressed his regret, and said he had borrowed a £1 note of him, which he would leave with her. Witness sent out and got change for a £5 note for prisoner, in a £1 note, and four Sovereigns. She gave the prisoner the four sovereigns, and he went away. Witness could swear the prisoner was the person, but she could not swear to the note.

Several other witnesses identified the note now produced as being the same paid to Mr. Robinson's housekeeper .--Mr. P. T. Robin son never saw the prisoner before this transaction—the prisoner never owed him any money.—Mr. J. Lees, inspector of Bank notes, proved that both the notes now produced were forgeries.—Mr. Hawkins, of the Prerogative Office, Poctor's Commons, knew nothing dishonest of the prisoner. The prisoner's futher, a most respectable man, had turned him out of doors on account of some family quarrel, and witness had almost supported him for the last four years. Witness had known him by a different name than that to which he had pleaded.—Mr. Baron Graham summed up, and the Jury found the prisoner Guilty.

PROVINCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

ABERDEEN.—George Thorn and his wife have been lodged in gool, on suspicion of administering poison to a family of four persons, in the parish of Tongh. An investigation is at present going on; one of these unfortunate people died, the other three are in a very dangerous state.

CHESTER. Ralph Deane, committed to our Castle for a burglary, made his escape last week. This is not the first instance of this man's dexterity; about three years ago he was taken up, on suspicion of poing concerned in an extensive robbery at Mr. Bradlev's Sitk Factory. in Manchester, and placed in a strong lock-up-room. In the third story of the Chief Constable's house. In the course of the night he made a small aperture near the window, through which he crept, and let himself down into the street with the assistance a short blanket. After the lapse of a few weeks he was retaken near Manchester, and placed in gaol strongly ironed and chained to the floor, but he again escaped; subsequently he was neuteneed to two years imprisonment in the House of Correction at Knutsford for a birgiary. In the evening of the day of his libera-tion from Knutsford gaol, he committed the burglary with which be now stands charged.

On Priday se'nnight, the child of Mr. Richards, of this city, met a premature death. Mrs. Richards left the servant girl in charge of the infant, which becoming very cross and uneasy, the girl took what she supposed to be a cordial occasionally given to giri took what she supposed to be a cordial occasionally given to the child, and administered a smull portion of it. The infant became more violently affected, in which state the mother found it on her return home; and the immediately discovered that the supposed cordial was a poisonous mixture. Medical assistance was had recourse to; the infant continued to labour under excruciating agony, and about midnight died. The female who had been the cruss of the columity on being told that the mixture was a state. cause of the calamity, on being told that the mixture was poisonous, said she had taken some herself; to her also medical applications were administered, which proved more effectual than to the more tender victim of her indiscretion.

Cour .- In Bantry Bay, on Tuesday last, a bout having broke away front bernter bay, on thesesy inst, a near naving prose away front her meerings, nine men got into another boat to recover that, which had gone adrift, and having succeeded were returning, when both boats were dushed to pieces against the rocks by a breaker, and the nine men perished; none of the bodies were picked. up. Six of the men were married, and have left families.

DOVER.—Tueslay afternoon, as a lad, named Polling Newton, was holding by the iron work of the drawbridge swinging his legs over the water, he let go his hold, fell into the basin, and was drowned. An inquest was held, and a verdict of accidental death EDINBURGH.—Between eleven and twelve o'clock on Sunday night, a fire broke out in a house in the Cowgate, and in a short time the whole tenement was in a blase. On the alarm engines repaired to the spot, but their efforts to arrest the progress of the flames were unavailing. The whole tenement is one mass of ruins, and having been inhabited by a number of poor fumilies, they have nearly lost the whole of their furniture. The fire breaking out when the people were in their beds, it had attained so great a height before even those in the upper stories could be apprised of it, that one family in the fourth flat were cut off from all retreat. In this alternative they adopted the resolution of leaping into the street; the mother dropped one child, which, falling on the pavement, was killed; un-conscious of its fate, she leaped from the window, and was so much bruised, that she died in the Infirmary. A boy in attempting to escape from one of the upper stories, fell and was killed, and a child was taken out dead from a house. A man was also seriously but not dangerously hurt.

MAIDSTONE.—On Saturday morning, 8th inst. a melancholy circumstance occurred at Sellinge. A man named Hayward, lodged in the house of a small farmer, named Impett, and on the above morning, after Mrs. Impett was gone to milk ber cows, be came into a room with a gun in his hand, said to a child of Impett's, " I will go and shoot your mother." He then went to the place where the woman was engaged in milking, accosted her by saying, "I have loaded my gun, and will shoot myself." She remonstrated and entrented him not to do so, when he immediately replied, "No, I will not shoot myself, but will shoot you," and instantly discharged the contents of the gun into her side; the whole charge lodged in her body. The poor woman lingered till seven o'clock the same evening, when she expired.

ACCIDENTS, OFFENCES, &c.

DREADECL FIRES.—On Sunday morning, about two o'clock, a fire broke out in the back premises of Mesars. Southail and Fusick, near Winte Hart Court, Gracechurch-street, which comthe premises of Mr. Ryan, cheesemonger, before the first fire-engine arrived. A plentiful supply of water was procured, several engines came in rapidly, and the firemens' exertions were great; two of them were exerting themselves in removing this property from Mr. Ryan's when the house fell in, and one of them was crushed to pieces, the other just got out before the house fell, but was so multinted in consequence of part of the ruins falling on him that he died shortly after. In addition to this dreadful calamity, the Quakers' Meeting-House was consumed, and the house of Messrs. Lowe and Pewtress much damaged. The house of Messrs. Masterman & Co. the bankers, was three times on fire, but the finnes were subdied by the activity of the firemen. The house of Messis, Spooner and Co. bankers, was injured, but not materially. The firemen who perished belonged to the London Insurance Company. The thieves were actively employed.

—On Monday morning, about five o'clock, a fire books out in the lower part of the premises of Mr. Myers, a pencil manufactures, in Princes-street, Soho. In endeavouring to escape from the flames, Mr. Myers, sen. was terribly burnt, having dragged one of his son out of a room on the first floor when enveloped in flames; the son was also shockingly scorched. Mr. Myers, his son, and a young man who was a lodger, were carried to Middlesex Hospital; two of them are not expected to survive. Four persons perished on this melanchely occasion, viz.:—Mr. Myers, jun. and a man, and his two children, whose name we understand to be Jones. The poor fellow had rescued his wife and two children from the dreadful conflagration, and made a second effort to save the other two children, which cost him his life; for although he succeeded in getting safely up to the room in which they were, in the interim the stair-case took tire, and finding himself unable to descend that way, he made un effort to get towards the front window with a view of jumping out into the street; but the room was all on fire. He was observed from the street hanging by the burning rafters, with the two children claspede in his other arm; soon afterwards the floor gave way, and he was precipitated into the burning abyss

.The bodies of Perkins, the fireman, and Jackson, the assistant turneock, were on Wednesday dug out of the ruins of the late fire in Grucechurch-street. Jackson was found about four in the aftermoon; his wife was present, and gave most violent shricks on seeing They are not much mutilated. Their remains were conveyed to the bone-house of Allhallows, Lembard-street. The Corozer's inquest has been held, when the verdict of the Jury was Accidental Death.

On Wednesday night an Inquest was held at the Three Crowns Richmond-street, Soho, on the remains of Benjamin Myers, aged twenty-one years, who was burnt to death in the confingration on Monday last. The Jury returned a verdict of Accidentally burnt to death.—It was stated the following persons perioded at the fire—Mr. Barnet and his child, and a Mrs. Pole and her daughter. There were fifteen families burnt out, and all their property destroyed. Nearly 2001, has been subscribed towards relieving the unfortunate

About bulf-past seven o'clock on Wednesday evening, the house of Mr. Watkins, No. 12, Windham-place, Crawford-street, Mentague square, was discovered to be on fire. The neighbours instantly ran to the door, at which they kept constantly knocking, but receiving no answer from within they broke it open. By the exertions of the firemen the flames were arrested, but not till nearly all the furniture was destroyed, and the house much damaged.

A few days since Mr. Fenton, a tradesman at Poplar, left home with a party for pleasure, consisting of his wife and two children, and three or four friends, in a sailing-boat, which came suddenly in coulact with a sail's law er, off Woolwich, and was upset. One of the children, a fine girl agod eleven, was unfortunately drowned. The body was picked up next day off Blackwall-stairs.

On Thursday, a gentleman, one of the passengers by the Banbury coach, was missing when it arrived at the White Hart, at Southall. A search took place, when he was found lying in the yard on his back, between two conches, with his throat cut; a penknife was lying by his side covered with blood. He was carried into the house and suggical aid procured, but he expired in about ten There were no papers found about him to lead to a disminutes. covery who he was, fifteen sovereigns and a gold watch were found in his pocket.

Some thieves, on Thursday, broke into the house of Mr. Solo-mons, in Pall Mall, and plundered him of a great quantity of valuable property, among which were four gold watches, four gold musical souff hoxes, four silver ditto, some Cashmere shawls, several curious silver watches, a number of very valuable rings, &c. Mr.

Solumon has not yet ascertained the extent of his loss.

On Monday morning, at nine o'clock, Edward Lee was executed on the top of Hissemonger-lane Gaol, pursuant to his sentence. The unfortunate man was only 22 years old: he was convicted at the last Croydon Assizes, of robbing and attempting to murder Joseph Spicer, foreman to Mr. Marriatt, of Fleet-street, under circonstances of great atracity.

The five convicts left for execution at Ilchester, are all respited during pleasure.

SHIPWRECK.—The night of Tuesday, and the morning of Wednesday were very tempestuous. One Irish vessel had a number of cattle drowned, and another had 100 pigs washed overboard from the deck, in the gale of Tuesday night. So violent a gale has seldom been known at this season of the year. A vessel was totally lost on the coast of Kirkcolm, within the district of the Port of Stranger, on the night of the 3d instant, chiled the brigantine Four Sons, with a general cargo from Liverpool, bound to St. Andrews, in New Brunswick. The crew, consisting of 18 individuals, among whom were two female passengers and a child two years old, were ail saved.

SHIP N	ews.
" Arrived Mails Due	Arrived Mails
1 Dublin
. 1 Waterford	1 France.
1 Guernsey & Jersey -	1Hambur	gh —
- Holland	Flanders
Gottenburgh 1	Jamaica
Liebon 1	St. Thom	1—

No account of the King has been received at Lloyd's this morning. On the 11th first. Wind at Scilly, W.S.W.; 12th, at Penzance, N.W. blowing a gale; and S.W. at Palmouth; W. fresh breeze.

DEAL; Sept. 14. Wind N.W.; Arrived and sailed for the River, the Missionary, Lement from St. Benningo; Elizabeth, Reed, 44 days from Tobago; and Came Grove, Thompson, from St. Vincent's. Came down from the River and sailed with the whole of the satward-bound, the Venus, Kijsour; for the Cape o. Good Hope.

CODE Seart to Arrived Him Maleste's ship Cycus, with Admiral Rowley. CORK, Sept. 10. Arrived His Majesty's ship Cyrus, with Admiral Bowley and smite.

HARWICH, Sept. 14. Arrived the Vansittant packet from Helland, and Lord Dungando: from Ustahaven; each with a mail.

DOVER, Sept. 14. The Berësford, Eaton, from Newcastle, in coming for the Hersbour, struck the Fier Head, broke her anchor and cathead; and the Hanbaur, struck the Pier Head, broke her anchor and cathead, and aprung her howeprit.

PORTSMOUTH, Sept. 14. Wind N.N.E. Passed by the Betsy, Donkin, from New York for Havre Sailed the British Army, Stevens; and Roslyn Castle, Hespharn, for New Brunswick; Royal Charlette, Ford, for Halifax; Ondernaming, Hakker, for Liverpool; and His Majesty's ship Glasgow, for Gowes and Ceylon.

*FALMOUTH, Sept. 13. Wind W. Arrived the Agenoria, Harris, from **Partsmouth, and Arina, Gray. from Weymouth, both for Waterford.

*Liverpools. Sept. 43. Arrived the Casar, Fisher, from Junaica; sailed 18th Auly; on the 23d, was loarded off the Hogsties by the Buenos Ayres armed brig Mars, out four months, and had taken 16 prizes.

Parter

BURGESS ESSENCE of ANCHOVIES. Warehouse, Byrand, corner of the Savey-steps, London.—John Burgess and Son, being apprised of the samerous endeavours made by many persons beimpose a sparious article for their make, feel it insumbent upon them description of the Public, in purchasing what they conceive to bathe Original, to observe the Name and Address corresponds with the above: the general appearance of the spurious descriptions will descript the mynamied, and for their detection, J. B. and Son aubmit the following onations.—some are in appearance at first sight, "The Genuine," but without any name or address:
—some "Burgess" Essence of Anchovies; —ethers—"Burgess's,"—and many mere without Address. 170 many more without Address.

John Burgess and Son having been many years howeved with such distinguished approbation, feel every sentiment of respect towards the Public, and caractry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to their purchasing what they conceive to be of their make, which they hope will prevent many disappointments.

BURGESS'S NEW SAUCE for general purposes, having given sack great satisfaction, continues to be prepared by them, and is recommended as a most useful and convenient. Saucer will keep good in all elimates.

Warehouse, 107, Strand, corner of the Savoy-steps, Loude 2.—(The original Fish-sauceWarehouse.)

PATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP.—The Chamber Lamp, increasing in interest as the days shorten, the Patents is induced to present this to the Pablic as assource of confect superior to any in this country, or perhaps the world. It embraces brilliancy, perfect safety, and certainty for any length of time-required, will bear any motion, can be regulated to burn the longest or shortest night, disappearing in the morning without smoke or smell: The same principic applies, and the Lampa equally portable, on elegants predestals, for the dainst table, sideboard, study, mantleyices, &c.; and also for the Glass Greeian Hanging Lamp for the hall, conservatory, passages, stairwase, drawing-room lustres, &c. elegantly simple and much admired. It is a most essential acquisition in all these Lamps, that they will burn the whole evening without trimming, requiring to be repleatabed with cotton only once in two or shree mentis, and so simple that a child can turn them. The annual expanse of light burning every night in the year, proportionate with candles, is, for the chamber as above described, 10s.; for the kitchea, equal to a candle eight to the pound, 12s.; parleur or mould sixes, 15s.; and toofours, 17s.; suppose a domerlamp for the diming table, equal to four mould efours, 68s.; or hall, three mould sixes, 45s. Thus the degrees of light, more or less, can be regulated at pleasure audict to the accasion. By this statement Genticemen may ascertain the great saving in proportion to their establishment, bearing in mind, that these Lamps burn as sweet as wax.—Sold for the Patentee, by Thomas Pearce and Co. No. 28s, facing the front of $t. Clement's Clurch, Strand, who, to secure the reputation of this invention from the effects of adalterated effects of adalterated ell, are bound to sell none but pure and genuine Spermaceti. Letters addressed, post paid, from any part of the Kingdom, will meet with prompt attention. PATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP.-The

TRENCH PERFUMERY,—JEAN DEVEREAUX'S ESPRIT

DE LAVANDE AUX MILLEFLEURS, possesses all the balany fragrance of the freshest flowers; its aromatic, cephalic, and nervine virtues, are instantly diffused through the most spacious apartments, while the fragrance of its acons revives every person assund.—Sold in bottics, price 2s. 6d. and 5s. at the Depot for French Perfumery, 2s, Loushard-street, London; where is to be had JEAN DEVEREAUX'S MONTPELLIER, SOAP for rendering the complexion delicately smooth, clear, and even; imparting a victifying grateful perfume, and giving to the akin a most delicious feel and luxarious brilliancy. Price 2s. 6d. see packet.—Sold retail at 6s, Curnhill; No. 9, Regent-street, Pall Mali; 129, Oxford-street; 59, St. James's-street; 22. Hatton Garden, and wholesale by Price and Gossell, Perfumers to His Majesty.

**Ey A gratultous sample (on a handkerchief) of Jean Deversanx's cele-retrumers to His Majesty.

E'F A gratuitous sample (on a handkerchief) of Jean Deversant's celebrated Esprit de Lavande aux Milledeurs, will be presented to any Lady or tientleman, which will prove its pleasing and retreshing properties, by applying to any of his Agents, or at his Depot, No. 28, Lombard-street, London.

PRICE and GOSNELL'S MACASSAR OIL, patronised by His PRICE and GOSNELL'S MACASSAR OIL, patronised by His Majesty and the Reyal Family, gives atrength and a beautiful glossy appearance to the Hair; imparts to it the most delightful perfume, and prevents its failing off arturning grey to extreme old age. Hair dressed with this celebrated Oil soon-becomes soft, outly, bright, and luxuriant in its growth; and hair that has been injured, made harsh, and turning grey, will be restored, by a few applications, to its natural colour, brilliancy, and beauty.—Sold by the sole Proprietors, and only Importers, PRICE and GONNELL, Perfumers to His Majesty, No. 12, Three Kings-roomt, Lombard-street, London, in bottles at 3s. 6d.; 10s. 6d.; and 21s. each, bearing their signature on the label in red ink.

CAUTION —Messrs. PRICE and GOSNELL beg to cantion the Nobility and Gentry against a spurious Macassar (ii, injurious to the hair, imposed and tentry against a spurious Macassar (II), injurious to the hair, imposed upon the public by hair-dreasers (faisely styling themselves importers) who are equally incompetent to ascertain the danger of what they extol, as they are to discover what unight be useful.—Ask for Price and Cosnell's Macassar (II). casear Oil.

The DUKE of YORK and LORD ERSKINE.

The DUKE of YORK and LORD ERSKINE.

THE above Prince has often remarked that his Lordship looks his Lord Erskine himself when he wears his own Hair. His Lordship has used the RUSSIA OIL upwards of Twelve Years, which has always preserved his Hair; but Ladies and Gentlemen ought to be as particular as Lord Erskine, in having it from the Proprietor, or from a respectable Yender, then they will be sure to have it genuine.

Thousands of Laties and Gentlemen have a good Head of Hair hy using Prince's celebrated Russia Oil. But some Ladies being persuaded to use other Oils, they soon found the disference, as their limit began to fall off, or acting grey. In short, Prince's celebrated Russia Oil is the best Oil for dressing, preserving, and prometing the growth of Hair, and if used constantly, not a Hair will fall off or turn grey; clears the Searf, and keeps the Head and Hair clean, and by using it requirally for a few months, will restore the Hair on the hald part, if the least signs of roots are remaining, which has been proved by hundreds.

Ask for Prince's Russia Oil, at 4s, the small buttle; or a bottle, containing the quantity of nearly five small once, at 11s, which is a great saving; and observe "Prince' on the wrapper and seals of each bottle; without, it is not genuine, and camoet answer the purpose.

Sold wholessile, retail, and for exportation, by the sole Proprietor, A. Prince, [137] removed to No. 9, Poland-street, Notford-street, near the Pantheon; and by M. Smyth, Perfumer to his Majesty, New Bond'street; and by most principal Perfumerrand Medicine Venders.

Proved by Affidavit, before the Lord Mayor of Leadon, that A. Prince is the ariginal Proprietor of the Russia Oil; therefore if any Perfumer, Medicine-vender, Hair-dresser, or any one else, sells Russia Oil, that is not prince's they are imposters, as a they sell counterfeits to their customers, and cametamswer the purpose.

[57] Ladies and Goutlemen will be particular, as there are unprincipled persons intown and country who sell counterfeits to

For Couvelsive Fits, Beilevtie Fits, Spasmedic Compinints: &c. DR. HADLEY'S CONVULSION POWDERS .- Patronized and

sametion	ed by
Her Grace the Duchess of Rutland	Lady Catharine Walpole.
Right Hon. Lady Amherst.	Lady C. Dundas.
Right Hon, Lady Lismore.	Hen. Mrs. Bathurst.
Right Hon, Lady G. Cavendish.	Hon, Mrs. Egerton.
Ledy Caroline Lamb.	Hon, Mrs. Grev. &c.
Of all diseases incidental to the huma

Of all diseases incidental to the human frame, none are more afflicting than Convulsion Fits, Epileptic Fits, Spanna, &c. The late Dr. Hadley, of Dreby, (the discoverer of this invaluable medicine) used it in private practice for upwards of fifty years with the most dattering success in the various complaints, as under, which is prayed by incontrevertible facts.

The powerful virtues of this Powder in a short time relieves the sufferer; and by the perseverance is its application, completely extirpates Convulsion Fits in infants and adults; since Epileptic or Falling Fits; strengthers the most weakly atomach; allays Inflammation, and removes the most violent Spannoods Affections is likewise has the happy effect of cradicating Fits which females are sufficent to during pregnancy or subsequent accountement. This Powderie a grand restorative in all cases of relaxation, debility, and washers in children and solute; if grandally atrongstices the storage, is as anis resources a grand restorative in all cases of relaxation, debitty, and weakness, in children and adulte; it gradually strengthens the storach is-creases the appetite, promotes digestion, and in a short time restores the patient to perfect health, without confinement or alteration of diet.

Extracts from letters addressed to Dr. Hadley:— From the Hon. Mrs. Egerton. Tatton Park, Sept. 2, 1820, Br. Hadley,

Br. Hadley,

Bir,—I this morning received your letter; mentioning your convalsion Powder into more general notice. I have so ve yhigh an opinion of it, from the sases I have seen performed, that I think you will be deing a public service. I remain, Sir, yours, &c. B RGERTON.

From the Rt. Hon. Lady Lismore. Septender 2, 1829.

This is to certify, that I have used Hadley's Convulsion Powder in my family and many others, and approve of its efficat. Fr.A.S. LISMORE.

Frost Lady Walpole.—Hillingdon, Uxbridge, Jan. 26, 1819.

Dr. Hadley,—Sir, I shall have great pleasure in desiring you to make use. of my name when you publish the Convulsion Powder. Its great efficacy in my own family and friends, and to the poor, I have experienced for many years. I am your humble servant.

Sold in battles at 4s. 8d. Hs. and 22s. each, by apprintments fthe Proprietor, by Mr. Sanger, Medicine Warehenne, 150, Oxford-street: Messis. Barclay, and Sons, 55, Fleet-market; Messis. Nowbry and Sons, 45, St. Paul's Church-yard; Edwards, 66, St. Paul's Church-yard; Sutton and Co. Bow Church-yard; Butler, 4, Cheapside; Evans, Long-lane; Smithfeld; Prout, 229, Strand; Stradling and Nix, Royal Exchange; Johnstone, Cornhill; and, by their appointment, by most respectable Medicine Venders in every Towa throughout the United Kingdom.—Ask for Hadley's Convulsion Pewder.

LONDON MARKETS. EHE VIT

CORN EXCHANGE, PRIBAT, SEPT. 14. The supply of Wheat since Monday having been very n and the weather still continuing particularly unfavourable, the trad has been advancing since that day. 'What little came to had the morning, met a ready sale, at an advance of full 5s, per quarter Barloy is about 5s, per quarter dearen, and Beans quite as much Pease of both sorts also readily command an advance of about 2 per quarter. The arrival of Oats during the week having beenvey limited, the sules this morning were full 2s, per quarter higher. In other articles we have no alteration to notice.

1(25.14)	KN PRICE OF GR.	AIN, OR BOATS MAIN AS THE COLOR
asex Red Whea	at (new)46+. 56×	. Maple ine		. White ditto	Ξ
ld	s. 70ss	Boilers	i
ssex White (ne	w)59x. 56s	. Small Beaus	:
uperfino	78s. 80s	Tick Beans (now)	ä yo	s. 32s. 34s	Old	á
ld	sss	. Feed Oats	å
erley	26s. 34s	Fine.	÷
ine	#2 384, 42#	Poland ditto	è
nperfine	. -sss	. Fine	5
läl t		Potatoe ditto	£
ine	78a. 80s	Fine	_
og Pease	904 934		1
	201020 00 00	D AND SAMER.	_
	PRICES OF GO	LU AND SHAKK.
	a5 s.d.		1

Pertugal Geld, in Coin © 0 p.ex. Foreign Geld in Bars 3 17 101 — New Doubleons 0 0 0 —	New Dollars
COURSE OF EXCHAN	Trieste
Amsterdam 12 16 C.F.	Trieste
Ditto at Sight 12 13	Madrid 36 Cadiz 3
Rotterdam	Bilbos 35 Hercelena Si
Antwerp 12 9	Seville 35 Gibraltar 1
Hamburgh 39 2	Leghorn 47 Genoa @
Altona39 3	Venice 27 60 Maits 6
	Naples 393 Palemae
Ditto 26 —	Liabon50 Oporte
Bordeaux 26 -	Rie Janeire 451
Frankfort on Main158	Babia
	Daulia A
Petersburg 3 U	Dublin
Vienna 19 25 Ess. de.	Cork

COMMERCIAL REPORT, FROM SEPTEMBER 10, TO SEPTEMBER 15, INCL.

A declaration was issued on Thursday for a sale of India Coline on the 9th proximo. Various are the conjectures of the quantity of which it will be comprised; but somewhere about 20,000 bels. is the general expectation; this announcement has caused a stages. tion in the trude, which, most probably, will continue until after the above period. The Liverpool Cotton Market has been particalarly active, and all descriptions are held with more firmes, whilst Bowed Georgias, and Maranhams are 1 higher.—Talless have enjoyed considerable attention, and Yellow Candle cannot be purchased under 46s. 6d.—There is every indication of an augment currency.— We have not experienced much activity in the Plashia Sugar Market, and the great weight of the lower qualities, which the Importers evince every disposition to sell, thave afforded horse a more favourable opportunity; our quotations are, Browns & to 55s.; Middling 50s. to 62s.; Good 63s. to 70s.; Fine 72s. to -A great proportion of the sales of Coffee have been taken in and prices generally may be stated at a veduction of 2s. to 3s, pe cwt, upon Foreign, and 1s. to 2s. upon Plantation; St. Donlage 106s. to 109s.; Havananhs 103s. 6d. to 106s.; Jamaica Orinary 96s. to 100s.; Good to Fine Ordinary 101s. to 110s.; Midding 113s. to 122s.; Good and Fine Midding 123s. to 125s.; the stock of this article is 14501 casks, and with bags, which is about double the quantity at the corresponds period of last year; this, coupled with the proximity to a close of our export season, leaves very strong inferences that the present value is ultogether untenable; indeed, there is every ground for calculating, that, from the very great encouragement to cultivators, our supplies, the coming year, will be superabundent -East India Rice has advanced 3s. per cwt. occasioned entirely by speculation, on account of the late unfavourable weather; Bengal in bond, 12s. to 15s.; Patna 13s. to 19s.; Java 9s. to 12s.; Cin-lina has not been operated upon, 32s. to 34s. per cwt. duty paid.—

PRICES	of the	PUBLI	C Fun	DS.	12. 11	i)
STOCKS.	Mon.	Tues.	Wed.	Thur.	Fred.	mild.
Bank Steck	-	-			-1.
3 per Cent. Reduced	-	-		-"	1	Υ-
3 per Cent, Consols	75}	1751	750	175	" 75F"	-
31 per Cent Courols		864			_	_
Consols for Account	75]	75	75	752	751	15
4 per Cent. Consols	`				- 2
5 per Cent. Navy	108	1091	109	-100	- 100	A 800
Bank Long Annuities	_ `	- 1	— .			L -
India Bonds	- 1	62 p	64 p	64 3	· n	~8 2
Exchequer Bills, 2d		2 2	3 P	3	3 9	911
Ditto, ald						l:
Omnium	_	_		_

No alteration in the Rum Market.

BIRTSS.
On Monday, the 10th inst. at No. 26, Baker-street, the Lady of Jacks, of a daughter.

On Monday, the 10th inst. at No. 20, Haker-street, the half-stage of a daughter.
At Chaplain Road Place, on the 29th ult; the Eady of Norman Maiss.
Bas, of the Hon. Company's service, Bengal, of a son.
At Newton, Inverness-shire, on the 20th ult; the Larly of Major Land.
24th Regiment, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

Lately, at Crickhowel, Edward William Seymour, Esq. R.N. seems so of the Hon. Lieut-Colonel Seymour, to Charlotte Alice Wikins, Roy of Brecon.

At Walthamstow, Thomas Popham Luscombe, Esq. Deputy Commission, At Walthamstow, Thomas Popham Luscombe, Esq. Deputy Commission, At Walthamstow, Thomas Popham Luscombe, Esq. Deputy Commission, Catherine, edeat daughter of Wm. T. Robbase, Esq. of Walthamstow.

At Mary-le-Bone Church, Capt. George Digby, R. N. to Blizabeth, esq daughter of Sir John Walsh, Bart of Warfield, in the county of Berks.

On Monday, at Marwich, Captain Knocker, of His Majesty's wellPrincess Charlotte, to Augusta Ann, oldest Jaughter of Capt. Bridgs, sein Commander of His Majesty's packets.

The Rev. Richard Darch, to Isabella-Ann, davighter of the late Capta Ephinstone, R. N.

Blphinstone, R. N.
At Bath, Wm. F. Taylor, Esq. of the Royal Marines, to Hary Am, youngest daughter of the late W. Ryves, Esq. of Ryves Castle, Limeth.

DIED.

Last week, at Charlton House, near Blackheath, Catomic, and third daughter of the late Sir Thomas Maryon Wilson, Bart in the 17th year of hear near er age. On the 4th inst. aged 17. Louisa, only daughter of the Rev. J. R. Séan. lear of Burca, in the county of Suffolk, and Chaplain in Ordinary to the Majesty.

At his house, Camberwell-Grove, aged 67, Edward Griffin, Esq. many parts erretary to the Sun Fire-office.

At his bonse in Margate, Edward Barreroft, Esq. M. D. aged 78.
On the 7th inst. in her 80th year, at Springfield Lodge, Camberwel, the sidence of her son-in-law, Arianna Margaretta, widow of the late Coled

On Monday last, at Fulham, Looisa, wife of the Rev. H. West, Rotter of

On Monday last, at a fundan, Lowest, whe of the Rev. II.

Berwick, and Yicar of Law, hton, Sussex.

Lately, at Manuingtree, Essex, aged 14, Elizabeth, the second daughter of Acton Chaplin, Esq. of Aylesbury.

On Sunday se might, at Cottage Place, Chelmoford, after a short libra, at the advanced age of 78, Lady Camilla: Robinson, mister to the Baid Chesterville.

Tankerville.
On the 6th instant, after a short but severe illness, the Rev. Vicantage On the out missis, also a solution of the Catalog Ross, D. D. aged 68.

The Rev. George Cope, D. D. Canon Residentiary of the Catalog Hereford, aged 66.

LONDON: Printed and Published by R. T. WESTER, No. 11, JOHNSON'S COURT, FLERT-STREET, with only Communications to the Editor, (post paid) are recivil.

Digitized by Google

JOHN

" FOR GOD, THE KING, AND THE PEOPLE!"

No. 41.

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1821.

Price 7d.

NEW MUSIC.—KIALLMARK'S universally-admired Variations NEW MUSIC.—KIALLMARK'S universally-admired Variations on the favourite Air, "Cease your Funning," adapted for two performers on the Piano Forte, by D. Bruguier, price 3s.—Perry's Grand Coronation March, composed and arranged as a Duet for the Fiane Forte, price 2s.—Laten's celebrated "Le Retear de Windsen," arranged as a Duet for two performers on the Piano Forte, by D. Bruguier, price 5s.—The popular Air, "Tul Margine d'un Rio," an Italias Air, with Variations as a Duet for two performers on the Piano Forte, by Edw. Booth, price 2s. 6d.—Beleidleu's favourite Overture, "Du Calife de Bagdad," arranged as a Duet for two performers on the Piano Forte, by T. Goodban, price 4s.—The above Duets are particularly recommended to the notice of the Musical World, being arranged by the first Masters of the present age.—London: Published by Maybew and Co. Masic Sellers to Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Kent, 17, Old Bond street, where may be had, Hart's Fourth Set of Quadrilles, including "Georye the Fourth," Coronation Waltz, &c.

TO THE WORTHY AND INDEPENDENT LIVERY OF LONDON.

GENTLEMEN,

THE day is now approaching on which, according to ancient custom, you will be called upon to exercise one of your most important trights in the BLECTION of LORD MAYOR for the year ensuing, when my name will be submitted to your consideration as the Senior Alderman who has not filled the Chair to serve that high office.

who has not filed the Chair to serve that high office.

On two former occasions, Gentlemen, I experienced your kind indulgence, when I felt it my date to decline appearing as a Candidate, owing to peculiar rireumstances, which although of a private nature, would have rendered it incompatible with propriety for me to have attempted the performance of those public duries which are inseparably connected with the due discharge of the Office of Chief Mayistade. The time, however, is arrived when, all personal difficul les having here successfully removed. I may honeafly renture to offer youthe services of an independent man, who experts no reward but in your approbation, and has no other object or ambition than to small that approbation by a faithful and consciontious performance of the duties, which attack to the Mayoralty.

Should I be henoured with your Suffrages on the day of Election, I beg to assure you, that it shall be my constant and earnest endeavour to support the office of the Civic Chair, and to maintain inviolate the rights and privileges of the Civic Chair, and to maintain inviolate the rights and privileges of the Civic Chair, and to maintain inviolate the rights and privileges of the City of London.

I have the honour to be, with great respect,

Year obliged and faithful Servant,

CHRISTOPHER MA College-hill, 17th Sept. 1821. CHRISTOPHER MAGNAY.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that Application is intended COTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that Application is intended to be made to Parliament in the ensuing Session, for leave to bring in a Bill or Bills for MAKING and MAINTAINING a TURNPIKE ROAD from PECKHAM, in the PARISH of CAMBERWELL, in the COUNTY of SURREY, to the KENT ROAD, in the same PARISH and COUNTY; and for making and maintaining all necessary Footpaths, Sewers, Drains, and Bridges thereto, particularly a Bridge over the Grand Surrey Canal, with Approaches thereto; and levving Tolls, and for lighting and watching Howver-lane and the New Road from Kennington to Camberwell, in the several Parishes of Lambeth and Camberwell, in the said County of Surrey, and other Bonds, Streets, and Places within the said County of Surrey, and other Bonds, Streets, and Places within the said County of Surrey, and other Bonds, Streets, and Places within the said County of Parliament.

6th Sept. 1821.

PECULIAR ADVANTAGES.—A select number of the Sons of Noblemen and Gentlemen, intended for the University, designed for the Army, or for Merchanta' Houses, enjoy superior advantages in the Pamily of an J. D. six miles west of London, for obtaining a correct acquaintance with the Greek and Latin Classics, pure and mixed Mathematics, and whatever is requisite to fit them for College; the French Language, politic Literature, Proadsword, Mapping, Horsemanship, and whatever is requisite to prepare them for the army; and the German, Datch, and Spanish Language sprinciples of Trade and Commerce, practical Arithmetic, Writing, and every other branch of Education necessary to quality them for Merchanta' Houses the principal, who for many years has been engaged in educating PUPLS for every department in life, will have room for THREE PUPLS at Alichaelmas. The plans of this establishment so successfully anite the attention of the Teacher and the diligence of the Pupil as invariably to secure, Lis improvement in every department of his education; a large Libiaary Astronomical, Pullosophical, and Chemical Apparatus: House and Grounds spacious. Twelve Courses of Lectures are given on the Sciences in the year. Prospectinace, gratis, at Mr. Oakley's, 9, Old Bond-street, and Mr. Souter's, 73, St. Pani's Church-yard.

Terms, including every expence, 60 guineas, under fourteen; and 80 guineas above that age. Parlour boarders, 100 guineas.

THEATRE ROYAL, GLASGOW.

THBATRE ROYAL, GLASGOW. TO BE LET for such a period of years as may be agreed upo

THIS ELEGANT HOUSE, with the PATENT, SCRNERY, MACHINERY, and APPURTENANCES.—As the great wish of the Proprietors is to place the establishment ou the most respectable feeting, very liberal encouragement will be given to a Manager who is likely to accomplish this object.—Apply to Messrs. C. D. Donald and J. G. Hamilton, Virginia-street, Olasz ow.

NEW THEATRE OF ANATOMY, WEBE-STREET, MAZE-POND, BOROUGH.

AR. EDWARD GRAINGER will commence his AUTUMN COURSE of LECTURES on ANATOMY and PHYSIOLOGY, at the above Threatre, on TUESDAY, October the 2d, 1921, at Eleren o'Clock in the Foresoon.—Three Courses are delivered in the year.

Deformation as apply at the Theatre, or to Mr. Grainger, 28, Dean-atreet, Borough.

MR. GUTHRIE will commence his LECTURES on the PRINCIPLES and PRACTICE of SURGERY, on MONDAY, the 1st of October, at Six in the Evening, in the Waiting Room of the Royal Westminster Infirmary for Diseases of the Eye, 7. Maryle-Bone street, Piccadilly.—Medical Officers of the Navy, the Army, and the Ordnance will be admitted gratuitously, on presenting a recommendation from the heads of their respective departments, to Mr. Guthrie, at his house, 2. Berkeley-street, Berkeley-square, between the hours of half-past two and four.

SPANISH COMMON PRAYER,

SPANISH COMMON PRAYER,

Just published, in one very small volume, beautifully printed, price &s.

A SPANISH TRANSLATION of the BOOK of COMMON PRAYER. By the Rev. Mr. BLAUCO WHITE.—Printed for Samuel Bagster, No. 15, Paternoster-tow: where may be had, in uni orun volumes, price &s. each, Translations into Italian, German, French, Modern Greek, Greek, or Latin; or, the eight volumes in one Set, including the English, price $1.

THE HINDOOSTANEE and PERSIAN LANGUAGES taught by a Gentleman educated at the College of Fort William, in Bengal.

Paren's and Guardians entruating Youth to this Gentleman's tuition, may rest assured that no attempt will be made to poisontheir juvenile minda with the princip es of Radicalism or Sedition.—For cards of address apply to Mr. Ginger, Buokseller, 21, College-street, Westminster.

SHIRRE'S SHAKSPEARE, No. 2.

ScHRME'S SHAKSPEARE, No. 2.

Just published;

TILUSTRATIONS of TAMING of the SHREW, being the Second Number of ILLUSTRATIONS of SHAKSPEARE, from Pictures painted expressly for this Work by RoBERT SMIRKE, Esq. R.A. aggraved is the direct style by the most eminent distortical Engravers. The Play Illustrated is published at the same line.

Mode of Publication:—I. The Work will be comprised in Thirty-seven Numbers; each Number containing Eive Illustrative Engravings, and a viguette.—II. A Number will be published every "whice Monties, at the commencement of the Work, and after a short time, every two Monties, at completed. India paper, proofs, 4 to 11. 10s.; French paper, proofs, 4 to 11. 10s.; French paper, proofs, 4 to 11. 10s.; Prench paper paper Printed for Rodwell and Martin, New Bond-street; and sold by Colnaghi, and Co. Conkeyer wice;, and the principal Bockeelless in the United, Kingdom.

NEW LOYAL AND CONSTITUTIONAL PAPER.
On Wednesday, the 20th of September, wi Phe published, price 7d. the First

THE BURY GAZETTE; or, BURY, IPSWICH, and NOR-WICH ADVERTISER, for the Counties of Suffolk, Nor olk, Essex. Cambridge, and Hustingdon, the Isle of Ely, &c. under the conduct of Mr. HARRAL, Author of "Henry the VIIIth and George the IVth, or the Case fairly stated;"—"Anne Boleyn and Caroline of Branswick compared;"—"The Demon of the Age," &c.

If Advertisements, Orders, &c. received by T. D. Dutton, Bury St. Edmund's, Suffolk, by the London Agents Messrs. Newton and Co. Country Newspaper Office, No. 5, Warwick square, Newgate-street; Mrs. White, Fleet-street, and the respective Agents and Postmasters throughout the United Kingdom.

Just published, price is.

Just published, price is.

MISCELLANIES in PROSE and VERSE, intended as Antidotes to the Poison of the RADICAL PRESS.—London: Printed for W. Wright, 46, Plect-street; where may be had,

2. A LETTER to the RIGHT HON. LORD BYRON.—By JOHN

IMPORTANT NEW NOVES

Just published, in 3 volumes, price 18a, boards,

THE REPUBLICAN'S MISTRESS, a Novel, founded upon Facts.—Sy CHARLOTTE SMITH.

N.B. The MS. of this Work was in the possession of a Nobleman, and by his authority is now offered to the Public.

Printed for W. Wright, 46, Fleet-street.

NATURAL HISTORY.

Just published, price 6s. Illastrated with 26 heantiful coloured Plates,

A SELECT CABINET of NATURAL HISTORY, with an Historical Account of the Silk Worm, and an elegant Method of obtaining very exact and pleasing representations of Planti—By the late GRO.
SilAW. M. D. F. R. S. Principal Naturalist of the British Mazerm.—To which are added, the Gardener's Calendar and Ladica Plower Garden.
London: Printed for W. Wright, 46, Pleet-street.

Lequoun: Frinten for W. Wright, 46, Fried-Arrest.

TO MAGISTRATES AND SOLICTORS.

Just published, price 8s. boards, 8

COMPENDIOUS ABSTRACT of the PUBLIC GENERAL
ACTS passed in the 2d of George IV. being the Second Sension of the Seventh Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland; with No'es and Comments.—By T. W. WILLIAMS, Esq. of the Inner Temple, Barrister at Law.

Printed for W. Wright, 46, Picet-street; where may be had,
2, THE ABSTRACTS for 1816, 17, 18, 19, 20, and 21, separate, or tegether.

Just published, price 7s. 6d. boards

THE NEW WHIG GUIDE; containing the Choice of a Leader, —Letters of Bucklel Grubb to Tobias Brande—Spoking Extra-rdinary, —Political Botany—The Counters of Jersey's Massacrate Chanje of Administration—A True Narrative—Epigram—State Pacers—Severe Battle—English Melodies, 1 to 7—Geogra-hical Intelligence—Important State Papers—Infantine Lyrics—Meeting at Bur'ington House—An excellent nex Song—Pallare of the Buccancers, and Loss of the Broom Fire-Ship—The Trial of Henry Brougham for Mutiny—On Mr. Methney's Support of Lor'( Alborge on the Leather Tax—The Wiltshire Liter—Eigin Marbles, and Extraordinary Parliamentary Debates, &c. &c.

London: Printed for W. Wright, 46, Fleet-street.—N. B. A Second Series in preparation.

THE BEAUTIES of the MODERN POETS; being Selections from the Works of Byros, Seots, Campbell, Rogers, Crabbe, Colman, Southey, Moore, Wordswer b, Montgomery, Coleridge, &c. including many original Pieces never before published; and an introductory View of the Modern Temple of Fame.—By D. CAILIY.

London: Printed for W. Wright, 45, Vicet-street.

Just published, foolscap Svo. price 3s. 6d boards, the Second Edition of POEMS, by one of the Authors of "Poems for Youth, by a Family Circle."

Lendon: Printed for Balwin, Cradeck, and Joy, Paternester-rew; by whom also are published,

2. POEMS FOR YOUTH, by a Family Circle. Vois. 1 and 2, price 3s. 6d.

Just published, in 12mo, with 17 Plates, price 9s. h ards, the Second Edition, much enlarged and improved, of ETTERS on NATURAL and EXPERIMENTAL PHILO-SOPHY, addressed to a Youth settling in the Metropolia.—By the Rev, JOYCE, Author of the Scientific Dislocates, &c., London: Printed for Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, Paternoster-row; and R. Hunter, St. Paul's Church-yard.

FOR YOUNG PERSONS.

Just published, in 18mo, price 2s. 6d. half beind,

PALPH RICHARDS, the MISER; with a Frontispiece; by Jefferys Taylor, of Omar.

London: Printed for Baldwin, Crado k, and Joy, Paternosier-row; by whom also are published of the same Author,

2. ESOP IN RHIME, with some Originals. 12me, price 4s. half bound, with an Engraving to each Falle.

3. MARRYS HOLIDAY; or, the Doings of One who had Nothing to de.
Second Edition, 18mo. 2s. 6d. half hound.—Aiso, just published,

4. LESSONS of LOVE; or, Family Instruction. Written by a Mother for her Children. 2s. 6d. half bound.

5. LIVES of LEARNED and EMINENT MEN, taken from authentic Sources; 2s. 5d. half bound.

ON THE VIRTUES OF A CRUST OF BREAD.

Just published, price 2s.

A TREATISE on the VIRTUES and EFFICACY of a CRUST
O BREAD, eat early in a morning fasting; to which are added, some particular Remarks concerning Cares accos, sished by the Saliva, or fasting spititle, as well wiren externally applied, as when internally given, in the Scuryy, Gravel, Stone, Rheumatism, and divers other Diseases arising from Obstructions.—By a PHYSICIAN The Seventh Edition.—Solidby Burgess and Hill, Medical and General Booksellers, 65, Great Windmill-street.

and Hill, Medical and General Booksellers, &c., Greek Windmin-street.

BELL on the URETHRA, PROSTATE, and RECTUM.

Just published, in 8vo., prise 12s. boards.

A TREATISE on the DISEASES of the URRTHRA, VESICA URINARIA, PROSTATE and RECTUM.—By CHARLES BELL, Surgeon to the Middlesex Hospital; and Lecturer on Anatomy in the School of Great Windmill-s reet. A New Edition. With Notes, containing the Criticisms of the Editors of the Foreign Editions, and the Opinions of Foreign Authors on these Diseases, by John Shaw, Surgeon; Demonstrator of Anatomy in the School of Great Windmill-street.

Loudon: Printed for Burgess and Hill, 55, Great Windmill-street, Haymarket.

THE Proprietor of the Turkish Medicated Vapour Baths, No. 5, PHE Proprietor of the Turkish Medicated Vapour Baths, No. 5, Bowning-street, begs leave to call the attention of the Public to his newly-knewled HUMID GULPHAIR A NPUH BATHS, so very efficacious and mild in their operation, and particularly approved of by the most eminent of the Faculty in all cataneous complaints. The most satisfactory references will be given of cares performed, after years standing, in paralysis, contracted joints, and apinal-complaints, with the ald of shamponing. Persons afficied in with rheumatism have only to make a trial of these Baths to get immediate relief.—Tepid, Cold, and Shower Baths, with Medical Electricity, as attail.—Genteel accommodation for invalles.

TO ALL WHO VALUE THEIR SIGHT TO ALL WHO VALUE THER SIGHT.

TO ALL WHO VALUE THER SIGHT.

TO the aged restored, the weak Sight strengthened, who have the perfect Sight preserved to extreme old age, upon unerting principles, by BRADBERRY'S PATENT SPECTACLES, established thirty years, to be had only at 23, Holles-street, Oxford-street (opposite Hanoversquare), the first door out of Oxford-street on the left hand, and at no other place in the United Kingdom. Orders from the country will be immediately attended to. Removed from 352, Oxford-street.

CARY'S BOOK OF THE ROADS.

Just published, a New Edition, price 13s. in boards, or 14s. 6d. half bound, dedicated, by permission, to the Right Hon. the Postmaster General, A. NEW EDITION of CARY'S ITINERARY, carefully corrected; being an accurate Survey of the GREAT ROADS; direct and errors, throughout ENGLAND and WALES, with part of SCOTLAND, made by command of His Majesty's Postmaster General for official purposes; with Routes to sparads of 9000 Places not given in any other work of this description;—the whole of the Noblemen and Gentlemen's Seatts; a complete List of the Loudon and Pravincial Stage Coaches; Maps of the principal Watering Places, and a general Map of England and Wales. Also is detailed Account of the New Holyhead Road, pointing out the improvements which have taken place, and those in contemplation, from the survey of Mr. Telford, taked by order of the Parliamentary Commissioners.—Note, This work may be had bound with a Set of County Maps of a corresponding size, price 11. His, calf gitt.—Published by John Cary, 96, 8t. James's-street, and may be had of the principal Booksellers throughout the Kingdom.

In a few days will be published, by C. Chapple, Bookseller to His Malesary

In a few days will be published, by C. Chapple, Bookseller to His Majesty and their Royal Highnesses the Dukes of York and Cambridge, Royal Library, Pall Mail, EXPEDIENCE; a Sutire.— By JULIUS. Book First.—Whome

also-may be had,
2. LETTERS of JULIUS. Vol. 1, amail 8vo.
3. HIOH BHUTH. A Satire, addressed to a Young Nebleman, price 3e. bd., stitched in coloured paper. CONSOLATION TO THE TREMULOUS WRITER.

CONSOLATION TO THE TREMULOUS WRITER.

THE Public may look to this most singular and unique Invention.

with confidence as so inestimable source of comfort to those who experience any discoulties in the command of the pen, occasioned by tremetria serveus affection, heat of climate, agitation of spirits, excess or over-exertion, weakness from age or otherwise, injury of the thumb or flaggem by sprain or otherwise, even to the loss of part. This happy relief exists in a little INSTRUMENT, the appearance of which, when in use, escapes-observation, is capable of giving firmness, confidence, and freedom, and cannot fail to answer the declining powers of a good penman, and materially improve the periormanice of a bad one. It is honoured by the patronage and recommendation of Surgeon Astey Cooper, and other highly respectable prefessional gentlemen; is addition to which, it may not be improper to quote the involuntary expressions of two scientific and first-rate Writing-masters, viz. Dr. Kelly: "How extraordinary, that so long as this world has existed this has not been produced before; it will not only give relief to the tremslous, but is capable of assisting a good writer."—Mr. Tomkbriz: "Million yet unborn will bless the invention."—A few minutes practice will prove its efficacy, and it has this advantage over all medicine, its power increases by use, and one prescription will last for life. Made in clastic gold.

Seld for the Patentee, by T. Pearce and Co. No. 200, facing the front of St. Chesnon's Church, in the Strand—Letters from any part of the Country, post paid, will be promptly attended to.

Just published, in 8va. with numerous Plates, price 5a boards, EXECHEDIDION.

Just published, in 8va. with numerous Plates, price 5a. boards, ENCHIRIDION; or, A HAND for the ONE-HANDED.—By GEORGE WEBB DERENZY, Capt. II. P. 82d Regiment.
London: Printed for W. Sams, St. James's-street, and sold by all Book-

ONE HUNDRED BEAVER HATS,-ROBERT LLOYD, ONE HUNDRED BEAVER HATS.—ROBERT LLOYD, of 92, Newga'e-street, original maker, and inventor of upwards of 100 different shaped GENTLEMEN'S BEAVER HATM, which for beauty, quality, and taste, are unrivalled in 6vest Britsin. The process of manufature is new, and so deci-fedly superior to the old, that although the price is only 25s. they will wear longer than any two of those imitation Beaver Hats commonly charged a guinea; another great advantage is, that is ounequalled a variety of forms, the weaver can choose what best becomes his person. Silk Hats, with dealbloodyse, 16s. each, a most incomparable article.

N. B.—A fourth Edition of Lleyd's Treatise, en Hats, price is.

LAST NIGHT'S GAZETTR.

The Carette contains the prorogation of Parliament to the 29th Nov. and he clevation of Abraham Bradley King, Req. (Lord Mayor of Dublin) to the the elevation of Abraham Bradley King, Keq. (our Mayor of Bublin) to the-dignity of Barunet.)

WAR OFFICE, Sept. 21, 1821.

1st Reg. Life Guards—Lieut. S. Cox; to be Capt. vice Manager and Sub-Lieut. Hon. W. L. L. Fitzgerald de Rous, to be Lieut. vice Cox.—F. Sydney, Gent. to be Cornet and Sub-Lieut. vice de Roos.
2d Reg. Drag. Guards—Lieut. St. G. Cuffe to be Capt. vice Hames.
4th Rev. Li-th Drag. Guards—Lieut. C. L. Cumberlege, from 19th Light Drag. to be Lieut. vice Grant.

4th Rev. Licht Drag. Guards—Lieut. C. L. Cumberlege, from 19th Light Drag. to be Licht, vice Grant.
9th Ditto—Lieut. W. W., Mun'ly, to be Capt. vice Blakisten.—Cornet H. Knight, to be Lieut. Vice Huntly.—W. Eccles, Gent to be Cornet, vice Knight. 13th Ditto—Lieut. B. H. Forster, to be Lieut. vice Townshend.
15th Ditto—Lieut. A. Trotter, to be Capt. vice Perey.
19th Ditto—Lieut. A. Trotter, to be Capt. vice Perey.
19th Ditto—Lieut. A. Trotter, to be Capt. vice Perey.
19th Ditto—Lieut. B. Broadhead, to be Engler, to be Lieut. and Capt. vice Sandikand.—Lieut. B. Broadhead, to be Rus. and Lieut. vice Cumberlege.
Coldstream Reg. Foot Guards—Lieut. F. T. Buller, to be Lieut. and Capt. vice Sandikand.—Lieut. B. Broadhead, to be Rus. and Lieut. Vice Buller.
33. Reg. Foot Guards—Brav.-Maj. P. Sandikands to be Capt. of a company and Lieut. Col. vice West.—(apt. W. T. Knollys to be Adj. vice Stockdale.
34 Reg. Foot—Maj. C. W. Wall, to be Maj. vice D'Agular.
14th Ditto—Lieut. W. Alzenside, to be Capt. vice Knollys, dec.—Bns. W. Keowen, Lo be Lieut. vice Akenside.—Gent. Cadet H. O'Neill, to be Ens. vice.

Keowen.

15th Ditto—Lieut. A. Wishari, to be Capt. vice Barrow.—Eas. T. Alles, to be Lieut. vice Wishart.—T. J. Galloway, Grnt. to be Ens. vice Allen.

33d Ditto—Major J. Fogerty to be Major, vice Fane.

23th Ditto—Major J. M. Sutherland to be Major, vice Wall.

42d Ditto—Lieut. G. F. B. St. John to be Capt. vice Mackenzie.—Edsign.

G. Hogarth to be Lieut. viae St. John.—J. Byron, Gant. to be Enrign, vice. Mogarth.

G. Hogarth to be Lieut. Vine St. Joun.— Byson, Joun.

47th Ditto—Lieut. J. A. Lord Loughberough to be Lieut. vice De Burgh.

52th Ditto—Lieut. O. Hailt to be Capt. vice Anderson.—Ensign W. Blois to be Lieut. vice Hail.

61at Ditto—Major M. Fane to be Major, vice Politier.

52d Ditto,—Major M. Fane to be Lieut. vice Braham, dec.—H. Braham, Gent. to be Ensign, vice Burleigh to be Lieut. vice Braham, dec.—H. Braham, Gent. to be Ensign, vice Burleigh.

Rifle Brigade—First Lieut. G. Rochfort to be Adj. vice Rincaid.

1st Ceylon Reg.—Brev. Major T. Hayley, to be Capt. vice Dyas.

2d Ditto—Lieut M. H. Fayan to be Capt. vice Truter, dec.—Sec. Lieut. 6.

Fretz to be First Lieut. vice Fagan.—D. Meaden, Gent. to be Sec. Lieut. vice Fretz.

Fretz. to be First Lieut. vice Fagan.—D. Mcanen, ven.

Fretz.

Staff.—Majur P. Wodchouse to be Inspecting Field Officer of Militia in Nova Scotia (with the rank of Lieut. Col. in the Army, vice Dawsen.

Barracks.—Capt. W. Goddard to be Dep. Barrack.—Master-General to the Barracks in Nova Scotia, vice Lynn.

Brevet.—To be Majors in the Army.—Capt. J. B. Gandiner; of the let Eife.

Guards; Capt. A. C. Craufurd, of the 12th Light Draguens.

Memoranda.—The appointment of Assist.-Surg., Menzics, to be Assist.-Surg. in the 4th Light Drag. has not taken place.—The appointment of Capt. Goddard to be a Barrack. Master in Nova Scotia has nottaken place.

Commission in the 1st Royal Reg. of Tomer Hamists, Militia.

W. Elsey, Gent. to be Emign, vice Mowatt.

CROWN-OFFICE, Sept. 18, 1921.

Members returned to serve in this present Parliament.

County of Louth—The Right Hou 'T. H. Skeffington, of Oriel Temple, inthe county of Louth, in the room of the Right flow, J. Faster, now a Peer of the United Kingdom.

Opening County, Sci. C. V. C. V.

the United Kingdom.

Queen's County-Sir C. H. Coote, of Ballyfyn, in the Queen's County, Bart, in the room of the Right Hon. W. W. Pole, now a Peer of the United Kingdom om.

BANKRUPTS.

MEAD, T. Sandwich, victualler.

WILLIAMS, H. Plaugh-court, Loubral-street, merchank.

HAILSTONE, W. Midden-hall, Sufolk, grocer.

COLYBR, W. Midden-row, Broad-street, St. Giles's, boot and shoemaken.

ROWLEY, M. Bear-street, Leicester-square, dealer.

ARNOLD, J. H. Liambiethian, Glamorganshire, cattle-jobber.

JONES, T. St. John-kreet, West Smithfield, stationer.

HANCOCK, S. Judd-street, bardwareman.

TUESDAY'S GAZETTE.

At the Court at Carlton House, the 17th of September, 1821; present, the King's Most Excellent Mejesty in Council.—His Majesty in Council this day declaring his intention of going out of the kingdom for a short time, was pleased to nominate the following persons to be Lords Justices for the administration of the Government during His Majesty's absence :-

ministration of the Government during His Majesty's absence:—
His Royal Highness Frederick Duke of York; Charles Lord Archbishop of Canterbury; John Rarl of Eldon, Lord Chancellor; Dudley Barl of Harrowby, Lord President; John Earl of Westmorland, Lord Privy Seal; James Duke of Mentrose, Master of the Horse; Arthur Duke of Wellington, James Duke of Montrose, Master of the Horse: Arthur Duke of Wellingson, Master-general of the Ordannee; Charles Ingoldsby Marquis of Winebster, Groem of the Stole; George James Marquis Cholmondeley, Lord Steward of His Majes'y's Household: Robert Mare nie of Londonderry, one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State; Henry Earl Barburst, another of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State; Charles Chetwynd Talbot Barl Talbot, Lleut. General and General Governor of that part of the United Ringdom called Ireland; Robert Banks Barl of Liverpool, First Commissioner of the Admiralty; Henry Viscount Sidmouth, another of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State: William Lord Maryborough, Master of the Mint; The Right Honourable Nicholas Vansitiart, Chancellor of the Exchequer; The Right Honourable Charles Bathurst, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster; and the Right Honourable Frederick John Robinson, Treasurer of the Navy.

easter; and the Right Honourable Processes owns account to Navy.

It is this day ordered by His Majesty in Council, that the Parliament be prorogued from Thursday the 20th day of this instant September to Thursday the 29th day of November next.

A new Great Seal for the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland having been prepared by His Majesty's chief engraver of seals, in pursuance of a warrant to him for that purpose, under His Majesty's royal signature; and the same having been this day presented to His Majesty, and the old Great Seal being delivered up to His Majesty by the Right Hon. Joha Barl of Eldon, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, the same was defaced in His Majesty's presence; and His Majesty was thereupon pleased to deliver to his Lordship the said new Seal, and to direct that the same shall be made use of for sealing all things whatever which pass the Groat Seal.

WAR OFFICE.

WAR OFFICE.

Memorandum.—The King has been pleased to remove Major-General Sir Robert Thomas Wilton f on His Majesty's service.

PARTNBRSHIPS DISSOLVED.

PARTNBRSHIPS DISSOLVED.

Wrigley and Haworth, Clitheroe, cotton-spinners.—A. and E. Irving, Padiham, drapers.—Abbey, Cock, and Johnson, Pancras Lane, wholesale-tra-dealers.—Rideout and Slack, Ardwick, druggists.—Tox and Sherborne, Coxley Mills, Somerestshire, mealmes.—Slater and Pope, Fetter Lane, conveyers of goods.—Griffith and Hinde, Liverpool, attornies at law.—Attenborough and Bush, Nottingham, grocers.—Heidling, Wornham, and Pears, Newgsie Street, ribband-manufacturers.—Price and Finch, Great Bridge, Staffordshire, coalmasters.—Lucos, Chance, Homer, and Coathupe, Nalisea, glass-manufacturers.

BANKRUPTCIES ENLARGED.

CRACKLIN, J. jun. Bnfield Wash, farmer.

CONNER, C. F. Peckham, soapmaker.

BANKRUPTS.

BANKRUPTS.

BANKRUPTS.

BATLEY, J. Great Yarmouth, grocer.

BANKRU
BATLEY, J. Great Yarmouth, grocer
BAYLEY, C. Abingdon, linea-draper.
BURROWS, J. Glocester, mercer.
RMID, A. Pimlico, carpenter.
ROLFE, W. Teignmouth, builder.
WARDLE, I. Nottingham, lace-manuf manufacturer.

WARDLE, I. Nottingham, lace-manufacturer.
DIVIDENDS.

Oct. 27, W. Boyd, P. Benfield, and J. Drummond, London, merchants.—
Oct. 13, R. Pewters, Bristol, shoe-maker.—Oct. 13, J. French, West Orchard, ribband-manufacturer.—Nov. 29, J. Bull, W. Banks, and G. Bryson, King Street, Cheapside, wholesale linen-drapers.—Oct. 11, J. Haugh, Carlisie, common-brewer.—Oct. 12, W. L. Lott, Llandilo, chemist.—Oct. 25, B. Hobis, Redbridge, coal-merchant.—Oct. 16, C. Fitch, Braintree, smiler.—Oct. 9, W. Pavant, Manchester, wine-merchant.—Oct. 10, J. Innes and R. Warlins, Bristol. chemists.—Oct. 11, W. H. Clarke, Lydcomb, coal-merchant.—Nov. 17, G. Meliss, Fenchurch Street.

CERTIFICATES—Oct. 9.

17, G. Melius, Fenciurch Street.
 CERTIFICATES—Oct. 9.
 P. Jordan, Whitechapel, druggist.—J. Grafton, Manchester, calico-printer.
 S. Robinson, Huddersfield, hosier.—T. Parks, Birmingham, merchant.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

PARIS, FRPT. 16.—Colonel Gustafson (the Ex-King of Sweden) has for some time past occupied himself with natural philosophy He has just published, at Frankfort, a trentise, which is not sold, but distributed gratis by the illustrious Author to amateurs of the sciences. It is written in the French language, and dedicated to the Royal Academy of Sciences of Norway. The title is—' Reflections on the Phenomenon of the Aurora Borealts, and its Connexion with Diurnal Motion.'

We are informed from Vienna, that it is a topic of discussion there, at this moment, of a convention which England, it is said, has proposed to Austria, on the subject of the affairs of Turkey, and which presents great difficulties.

The Moniteur states, that a young Englishman, named Wadtington, lately arrived in Paris, has penetrated upwards of 600 leagues above the second cataract, in following the army of the Pacha of Egypt. On his arrival at Schayni, where the Pacha encamped, he discovered 35 pyramids of from 50 to 120 feet in height, but in a very ruinous state. He also saw seven or eight temples, of which one (upwards of 360 feet in length) was covered with hiereglyphics. He has seen nothing in his travels comparable to the monuments of Nubia, and he considers that province as the eradle of the aris in Egypt.

FRENCH DERV.—The following is the amount of the French debt, on Sept. 1, 1821, (annual interest) 263,900,284 fr.; it is composed as follows :— Pensions and Life Annuities 74,868,345 $ 24,038,965 $ 44,365.676 120,627,298 Untransferable Consols of various kinds Transferable Stock, including the Reconnaissances

Total Sart. 18 .- The Duke de la Chatre, First Gentleman of the King of France's Chamber, was to set off last Tuesday for Calais to compliment the King of England on his disembarkation on the French territory, in the name of the King of France.

The heurt of Marshal Kellerman, Duke of Valmy, was depoposited on the 3d inst. in the field of the battle of Valmy, pursuant to the General's request. A monument was erected on the field by the inhabitants of St. Menchould, Valmy, Chalons, &c. A vast consourse of people attanded the ceremony. The following in-scription, said to be dictated by the Marshal binself, was placed upon the tomb: "Here lie the brave who saved France on the 20th of September of 1792. A Soldier, who had the honour to com-and them, Marshal Kellerman, Duke of Valmy, desires that his heart should be placed in the midst of them."

It has been remarked that the English Con uls at the Russian ed the departure of Britis It is said, that a Prusso-Saxon army will assemble on the banks of the Elbe, whilst an Austro-Bavarian army will take up its cau-to ments on the banks of the Rhine. Fifty thousand men are ussembled in the environs of Berlin for the purpose of exercise during the autump.

A letter from Lyons of the 14th states, that executions continue to take place in Turin , that of Laneri, a Lieutenant in the royal ers, was attended with the most melancholy concequen His wife, seeing herself left with three children totally unprovided for, the little property the father possessed having been conficulted died of a broken heart.

It is said the answer of the Porte to the Russian ultimatum was drawn in the Chancellery of the Reis-Effendi by a renegade, named Selim, a netive of England.

The Austrian Internuncio at Constantinople has appounced that two vessels under the Austrian flag had been plundered, and the sailors massacred near the lale of Chica. Austrian subjects have sustained similar injuries from the Turks. It uppears the protection and flag of England alone are respected.

Official information having been received at Bourdeaux, that the vollow sever had appeared at Malaga and Xeres de la Frontera near Cadix, all vessels coming from Spain are put under quaran-tine, so as to remove all cause of feur.

Paris Papers of Wednesday were received last night. The Quotidienne contains a report of the death of Bergami, on the authority of letters from Milan.

FRANKFORT, SEPT. 13.—Letters from the head-quarters of General Miloradovitsch, on the frontiers, announce, that the Russians were to enter into the principalities of Wallachia and Moldavia on the 29th August. A private letter from the banks of the Pruth, dated the 13th August, says, that the Russian troops stationed there are in daily expectation of orders. The execution of a grand plan is in contemplation. An investigation is making of the positions between Jassy and Constantinople. The Russians are eager to advance. It is supposed, that if war takes place the first battle will be very bloody.

SEPT. 14.—(By Express.)— The Turks have gained some advantages in Macedonia. Gen. Odysseus has retired into the moun-It is said that the Greek fleet has quitted the roads of Sulonichi, to go to some other part of the Archipelage.

At Constantinople all is at present tranquil.

At the departure of the last courier, the funds at Vienna were leclining.

STUTGARD, SEPT. 16.—It is affirmed the King has received etters from St. Petersburgh, which amounce the departure of the Emperor for the southern provinces of his vast Empire. Two of his Adjutants-General has preceded him. It is supposed the Emperor will visit first the establishments of Cossacks of the Don and others, and will thence proceed directly to the head-quarters of Count Wittgenstein and General Yermsloff.

Madrid, Sept. 2.—Valladolid has been the scene of riot and confusion during the ballot for the conscription, similar outrages have occurred at other places. Spain is by no means tranquil. General Spinosa has received orders to adopt the most rigorous measures to put down the spirit of disaffection.

A Spanish vessel from Barcelona, has carried aramunition and officers of various nations to the Hydriotes.

SEPT. 4.—The disappearance of Count Montezuma, a Grandee of Spain, and a descendant of the ancient Emperors of Mexico, is the topic of general conversation. It is well known that this Nobleman has been repeatedly called to the throne of Mexico by the descendants of the pure race who have a great veneration for the name he bears. The future Emperor is accompanied in his expedition by Colonel Rotalde, a celebrated Revolutionist; and it is said, has embarked at Bordeaux.—Mr. Leach, Vice-Chancellor of England, is momentarily expected in this capital; he has left London, charged with an important mission to our Government.

Riego, the once popular General, is now accused of having been implicated in a plot for the overthrow of the Constitution, and for the establishment of a republic in the place of it. Riego disclaims all views of hostility to the Constitution. The general is gone to SEPT. 6 .- Last night, at ten o'clock, the troops were again called out to maintain tranquillity; at that hour, the Minister Bardaxina proclaimed by torch light that His Majesty would not be in bis capital until the 28th inst. at the opening of the Cortes. This communication excited loud discontent in all quarters. At the Club Fontana, they had the audacity to say, that If the King would not come to his capital voluntarily, he must be brought hither. Since the 3d inst. the troops have been constantly under arms. It is rumoured, that General Morillo has yielded to the invitation of the King, to resume the command of the armed force.

When the Minister for the Colonies presented himself before the King, to tender his own and his colleagues' resignation, the King received him in the most ungracious manner, and would no accept it.

Advices from Cadiz, Malaga, and Gibrultar to a late date have been received. The fever at Port St. Mary's is attributed to in-temperance, but in consequence of the favourable nature of the Bulletins, the alarm had entirely ceased. At Xeres only one person had died of that disorder. Cadiz was pretty healthy. The Lazaretto at Barcelona contained twenty-two patients of fever, but for the two preceding days only three persons had died.

the two preceding days only three persons had died.

The accounts from Turkey represent that all was tranquil at Constantinople. Turkish privateers are stated to commit numerous outrages on the Austrian flag in the Mediterrangan.—An article, dated Odessa, August 24, says, "There is no change here; Baron Strogonoff is performing quarantine at his lodgings. We expect every day the answer of the Court of Petersburgh to the last note from the Porte."

The next is confirmed, that the two armine of Courts is the state of the court of the confirmed.

The news is confirmed, that the two armies of Generals Yer noloff and Wittgenstein are placed on the war establishment.

Extract of a letter from Puerto Cabello, July 18:-" The armistice which Bolivar proposed, did not take place, because he demanded that the operations of our army in the kingdom of Santa manusa that the operations of our army in the kingdom of Santa Fe should be stopped, also that of our guerillas in the plains called Llamos, and particularly that of Umtia, who with 500 cavalry routed Remigio Ramos, and took from him 400 horse, with all his men, between Calaloozo and the Rao. The guerillus of Blamo have re-taken San Carlos, and afterwards took possession of Mentalva."

The plague still rages in Algiers to a considerable extent. Part of the Algerine fleet, consisting of twelve sail, had fallen in with, and been captured by the Greeks; the remainder of the fleet had received orders to proceed to its destination to join that of Turkey.

A Leeward Island Mail arrived yesterday. It has brought letters to the 16th August, which confirm the accounts of the taking of the Caraccas and Laguira by the Independents; also of the blockade of They state that the cause of the Spaniards is most Puerto Cabello. esponding.

IMPERTAL PARLIAMENT.

House of Lords, Sept. 20.—The Earls of Westmorland, Har-rowby, and Shaftesbury sat as Lords Commissioners to prorogue the Parliament, agreeable to a commission for that purpose, issued on Mon ay last.—The Clerk Assistant to the Howe of Commons, (J. The Clerk Assistant to the House of Commons. (J. Rickman, E-q.) accompanied by the officers and attendants, appeared at the bar, when the Royal Commission was read, and the Parliament was further prorogned till the 29th of November.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

INSOLVENT DEBTORS' COURT, SEPT. 20.

J. Strange, a farmer, from Wiltshire, was opposed on behalf of Messrs. Warry and Co. bankers, who were creditors to the amount of 1401. The objection to the discharge of the insolvent was, that he had given an undue preference to his brother, who was a creditor, and also that he concealed some of his property.

The Court being of opinion that the limblent acted in the man-ner sta ed by Messis. Warry and Co. sentenced him to eighteen months' imprisonment, to be computed from the time of tiling his petition.

BURR v. HUMPHRIES.-This insolvent was opposed on the ground that he had given an accommodation bill to a person since an insolvent, he (Humphries) being at the time incapable of discharging the bill, and also that he had, subsequently to filing his petition, disposed of some of his property. He was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment, to be computed from the time of filing his petition.

MIDDLESEX SESSIONS.

On Monday, James Thompson, convicted last week of perjury, was brought up to receive sentence, when the Court sentent to be imprisoned for six months in the House of Correction.

A man named White, and several others of the same description, A man named white, and several others of the same description, were indicated by the Parish of Paddington, for keeping a house for the exhibition of unlawful games, such as dog fighting, badge baiting, monkey fighting, &c. in Harper's-fields, Edgware-road. They pleaded guilty and were allowed to go at large in their own recognizances, upon an understanding that they would not repeat the nuisance.

Duncan Menzies was indicted for assaulting, William Fernshau, a private in the Life-Guards. The prisoner pleaded guilty, but the Court thought it necessary to enquire into the circumstances of the case in order to apportion the punishment.—It appeared that the prosecutor was going to a house in Tichfield-street, when he was followed by a riotous mob, who palted him with mud, and should after him the most opprobrious names, such as "Murderer!" " Pic. cadilly burcher!" He could not identify the prisoner .- A Bow-street officer, however, saw the prisoner roll up a large ball of mud and fling it at the prosecutor.—The prisoner is an apprentice to a bras-founder. He bore a good character.—The Chairman, in condderation of his good character, and his being sensible of his error, only sentenced him to a mild punishment. It was not to be eadured, that because a man were a red cont he was to be insuled and ill-treated. Under any other circumstances he should have been punished with three years imprisonment.—He was sentened to be imprisoned three months in the House of Correction.

ASSIZES.

LANCASTER .- SHERIFF's COURT .- Harmett v. Cookson and others .- This was an action brought against the defendants, the others.— I this was an action brought against the internancy in proprietors of one of the coaches from Liverpool to Manichester, for carelessly driving the coach on the list of May, by which it was overturned near the new bridge, Water-street, Mauchester, and the plaintiff's wife was dreadfully hurt. She got a violent bruise of the hip, and another in the bosom; her face was also much lactated, and will be marked for life: she was confined for six webs in Manchester before she could be removed to her residence at Liverpool; and she is not yet recovered from the effects of her injuries. She was in a state of presentacy at the time.—As the defendants had permitted judgment to go by default, the only question for the Jury was, the amount of the damages to be given to be plaintiff. These they fixed at 300l. and that sum was awarded to the plaintiff.

Rex v. Blacow, Clerk.—This was an indictment for an allege!

libel on the late Queen, in a sermon preached by him in St. Mark's Church, Liverpool, on the 26th Nov. 1820. The passage on which the indictment was framed was this:

"The term 'cowardly,' which they have now laid to my charge, I think, you will do me the justice to say, does not become a service of the course of the cours lorg to me; that feeling was never an inmate of my boson, neither when the jacobins raged around us with all their fury, nor in the present day of radical uproar and delusion. The latter, indeed, it must be allowed, have one feature about them even more bideous and disgusting than the jacobins themselves, they fell down and worshipped the Goddess of Reason, a most respectable and decent sort of being compared with that which the radicals have set up as the idol of their worship—they have elevated the Goldess of Luston the pedestal of Shame—an object of all others the most congenial to their taste, the most deserving of their homage, the most worthy of their adoration. After exhibiting her claims to their favour in two distant quarters of the globe, after compassing sa and land with her guilty paramour to gratify to the full her impure desires, and even pelluting the Holy Sepulchre itself with her presence, to which she was carried in mock Majesty astride upon as ass; she returned to this ballowed soil, so bardened in sin, so bronzed with infamy, so callous to every feeling of decency, or of shume, as to go on Sunday last clothed in the mantle of adulters to kneel down at the Attar of that God, who is 'of purer eyes that to behold iniquity,' when she ought rather to have stood barefor in the aisle, covered with a sheet as white as 'unsumed soos,' doing penance for her sins. Till this had been done, I would new have defiled my hands by placing the sacred symbols in bers; and this she would have been compelled to do in these good old day when church discipling were in its writing rices and priving. when church discipline was in its pristine vigour and activity.

The preaching and publication of the sermon was proved.—It.

Blacow addressed the Court at very great length; in the course of which he declared, that no ingenuity could pervent the evidence of the Queen's own witnesses, which had established the foul, fifty, and abominable charges against her. Every man who had a spak of loyalty, a grain of religion, a particle of affection for his country, when a howling tempest desolated the land, was bound to arrest the progress of the desolating storm. He felt it his duty to bring all the energies of the pulpit to bear against it; for the horrors which proceed the French Revolution had began to appear in the land.—

Mr. Justice Holgord, however, we are of existent the subjective. Mr. Justice Holroyd, however, was of opinion that the publication was a libel, and the Jury, after retiring a quarter of an bour, a-

The King v. Ridgeway.—This was an indictment against the defendant, a bookseller at Manchester, for a libel (the same for which Mary Ann Carlile was tried.) He was found Guilly.

YARMOUTH.—Henry Brown and John Absolon were indicted for a consultant to default.

a conspiracy to defraud a labouring man of 1001. his hard-eared savings. The prosecutor, Stephen Bowles, said, that Brown was his neighbour, and asked witness to lend him the money on morgage of his house. Brown proposed that a man named Absum, who had been engaged as a writer by several attornies, should be employed; and when every thing was ready. Brown took the production to his house, and the deeds were read over to him, as be could not read himself; and thinking they were righ, Bowles paid over the money. He subsequently found, that instead of a morigage deed, Absolon had deposited with him an old cancelled Corporation lease, and a regular bond for the sum of 100t, executed by Brown The Counsel for the prisoners contended that the prosecutor had sufficient security for his money, and therefore his clients ought not to he placed where they were. The Jury were locked up for four hours, after which they returned a verdict of Guilty, and Brown was sentenced to be imprisoned 12, and Absolon nine months

COMMITTAL OF PRISONERS BY MAGISTRATES. upon the late circuits have noticed a prevailing practice of committing prisoners to gael until the Quarter Sessions, sithough the Assizes may intervene before the sessions. The Lord Chief Justice Abbott, at Shrewsbury Assizes, liberated a man, with his wife and daughter, who had been so committed for bail; and at Stafford, Mr. Baron Garrow, in his address to the Jury, observed, there wer six persons in that calendar remaining to take their trial at the end suing Sessions. Many gentlemen among the Grand Jury mad know that this was irregu ar. The Judges upon the Circuit wee bound to deliver the gaois of every prisoner; if the present or the not atten: before the Court closed, the six prisoners would be in RECORDER'S REPORT. - Monday the Recorder made a report to His Majesty in Council, of the prisoners capitally convioted at the last July Sessions, when Thomas Thompson, for a highway robbery; George Lee, for entering forged 5l. notes; Thomas Palmate, for cutting and maining Lieut.Gen Eden; and Sarab Fictoer, alias Mary Payne, for stealing in a dwelling-house, were oblered for execution on Tuesday morning next. Saish Fietcher has since been respited for two months.

POLICE.

Bow-street .- On Thursday, Wm. Berks, a bankrupt, charged with not appearing to his commission, was examined. The prisoner was a cheese-factor is Staffordsbire, and abscorded; he was supposed to have gone to the Continent, but was subsequently apprebended in London, having taken his passage for Botany Bay. ing the three first days of his confinement, he refused all kind of sustepano-, which brought on a fever and endangered his life. He was sent in custody to Stafford, the offence being committed in that MARLBOROUGH-STREET. -- On Thursday, two abandoned women, named York and Carpenter, were charged with rioting and assault-ing the continel on duty in St. James's Park, on Wednesday night They had collected a mob of nearly 400 persons at the Green Park-gate where he was on duty, who selzed him by the belt and at-tempted to wrest his firelock from him. They were committed.

A born boy, named Compton, was charged with using seditious language and inciting the populace against the King and Govern-ment. He was ordered to find bail.

MANSION-HOUSE .- On Monday, a man mamed Farrell, in a fit of jealousy, stabbed another man named Michael Kelly. It appeared that the two men had been drinking at a public-house the whole of the day and preceding night, and came home intoxicated. Farrell's wife was in bed, the bustand fell asleep near the fireplace, which Kelly finding, approached the hed, and with the resistance the wife made, the husband awoke, and starting up beat Kelly out of the room, and kicked him down stairs; he then told her he would go and make it up with Kelly and have something to drink; he then took a sword with him which hung up in the room, with which, it was stated, he stabbed Kelly in the back; the wife was seen after her husband fled standing by the wounded man, and beloing him to lean against the wall. Mrs. Farrell was examined on the charge of not creating an alarm, so that her husband who had fled might have been secured.—She was, however, discharged. Kelly was carried to St. Thomas's Hospital; the surgeons declared his wound to be mortal; conceiving himself dying he made a depo-sition, in which he admitted that he lad gone to Farrell's bed by suistake after awaking out of his sleep, Farrell at that time being on the stairs, and stated that the latter on hearing the outery raised by the wife followed him into his own room, and stabbed him in the back. He denied that he had ever given Farrell cause for jealousy.—Kelly died in the Hospital between four and five o'clock of the same day. An inquest was held on Wednesday on the body, when several witnesses were examined.—A watchman, named Pole, who had gone to the assistance of Kelly, swore that the deceased said he was innocent of what his landlord's wife (Mrs. Farrell) said about his going to her, and that he never thought of going to her. Mrs. Farrell threw up the window and said "D—n him! it served him right, for my his band did and a limit of the served him right. bim! it served him right, for my hu-band did not do it without occasion, he wanted to come to bed to me." The deceased on this repeated his declaration that he was innocent of any such intention.—Mr. J. Chapman, a tradesman in the neighbourhood, stid, that on going into Farrell's room with other persons they found spots of blood by the side of the bed where Mrs. Farrell lay, which they traced to the door opening on the starrs, at the foot of the bed a large quantity of blood had been shed and partially wiped off; the sheets had been removed from Farrell's bed on to the bed of the eased which was in the next room, on these sheets were stains of blood; they found no traces of blood in the room of the decensed. - Mr. T. Aylwanl, Overseer of the Parish of Bishopsgate, saw the deceased in the Hospital shortly before he died, who said to the witness "Sir, I deserve all I got, or all I suffer."—The Coroner remarked upon the contradictions in the evidence and the declarations of the deceased. If the Jury believed Farrell had stabbed the decensed under an erroneous impression, they would find him Guilty of Manslaughter.—The Jury found a Verdict of Manstaughter against Sinion Farrell.

On Tuesday, Waddington, the bill sticking orator, complained that some of the City officers had torn down the following impudent and indexent plucard:—" Division has caused all the mischief we lament; union alone can retrieve it. A public meeting of the useful classes will be held on the 24th inst. at six o'clock in the evening, at Jacob's Well, Barbican, to consult upon the propriety of presenting an address of condolence to the King, upon the loss of that most noble minded and virtuous lady, Caroline, his late Consort, the uncrowned, calumniated, persecuted, and broken hearted Queen." To a Prince whose heart is corrupt it is vain to speak; but if his heart be not corrupt, truth will find an easy ingression through the understanding to it. " BOLINGBROKE."

The Lord Mayor saw no harm in the placard, but gave the orato no redress.

George Peterkin, a person about forty years of age, was charged, on Thursday, with having imposed upon about a dozen parishes in the metropolis. Peterkin bad managed matters so well amongst them, that, until very lately, no doubt was entertained of his right to apply for support. He was in the habit of duting his sime of servitude so far back as to render it a matter of great difficulty for the overseers to ascertain whether he had served or not and be has had the ingenuity to fix upon masters who have been long in their graves as the persons under whom he became entitled to his legal settlement. As soon as he had visited one overseer, and obtained relief, he walked to the next purish, and imposed upon the officers there. At length he was detected, and the overseers of the parishes which he had defrauded caused him to be apprehended and brought before a magistrate. He has been frequently punished. Peterkin is the son of a man who was possessed of considerable property in Clerkenwell. He has been fifteen years living in a state f pauperism, but he has contrived to live high, and keeps his legi almost in a state of mortification by means of tying halfpence to the wounds, by falling about the streets, and by dissipated habits. He can make his way through the streets when going for his own advantage, but when he is apprehended he always obliges the OVERSETS to hire a coach for him. He was remanded till Tuesdav.

LAMBETH-STREET.- On Monday, Philip Kelton, alias John

Smith, was charged by Mr. Wilson, one of the Overseers of New-ington Parish, with being an accomplice in robbing and attempting to murder him. About six o'clock in the evening, a fortnight ago, the prosecutor was standing conversing with two friends near Newopposite side of the street, who, as soon as the prosecutor was alone, deliberately crossed to where he stood, one knocked him down, pobled him of his watch, and ran off. He pursued the robber with a cry of stop thief; but had not gone far before he was again knocked down, and while on the ground five or six more of the gang came forward, and beat him in a dreadful manner, they then run off in different directions. The prisoner was fully committed to take his trial.

UNION-HALL.—On Tuesday, a man named Cuadicke, an undertaker, in Redcross-street, Southwark, was charged with disposing of the body of Edward Lee, executed for robbery on the 10th inst. at Horsemonger-lane prison. Cundicke was employed by the Keeper of the Prison to bury the criminals, who were exeouted. The friends of Lee were told by the undertaker that the body would be buried on Wednesday, on which day they attended, but were then told it had been gone some time. Enquiries took place but no trace of it could be found. Mr. Wulter, the Keeper of the Prison, sent for Cundicke but he refused to come, and the neighbourhood remained in a state of agitation and alarm till Saturday, when, a watch having been set round Candicke's house, shey received information it would be baried that evening; accordingly between six and seven o'clock, a coffin was brought out, which Candicke said contained the remains of Lee. The process sion then moved on to Ewer-street, Burying-ground, where the friends of the criminal desired to see the body, which desire was opposed by Cundicke, on the ground of its being in a state of putrefaction. A battle then took place, which ended in the defeat of the undertaker and his party and the demolition of the coffin which was found to contain nothing but earth and saw dust!!! The undertaker was taken in custody; the officer had much difficulty in protecting him from the infuriated crowd. At length Horsemonprison afforded him a sure refuge from their attacks. A hue and cry was then raised respecting the deal body, which was at length discovered at Mr. Brookes's, the Theatre of Anatomy, in Blenheim-street, Soho, who had bought it, for four guineas, in the regular way; and not all the entreaties of the deceased's friends could induce him to give it up until be had dissected it; it was at length returned after dissection. Cuadicke said the body had been stolen from his back premises by some resurrection men; but the Magistrate beld him to bail.

GUILDHALL.-On Wednesday, a sturdy, ill-looking fellow named Michael Marney, was charged under the Vagrant Act, passes last Session, with begging; he has long infested the City, in the garb of a distressed sailor.—Smith, the street-keeper of Fleet-str. had found the fellow that morning, at his usual avocation, begging, at the corner of Bell-yard. When desired to desist, and go was his duty to look after theres and not beggars, and that he would beg, in spite of them, all over the City. When brought to the office, he was immediately recognized as an old effender in this line. He had, it appeared, been several times at the Mansion House on similar charges; and when last before the Lord Mayor, about a fortnight ago, had been clothed, to enable him to get a tuation on board some ship; he had, however, sold the clothes, and resumed his old occupation.—These facts being proved, and the fellow himself declaring he had no other way of getting his living but by begging, Alderman Brown adjudged him to be a vagmat within the meaning of the Statute, and committed him to hard labour in the House of Correction for three months.

MARY-LE-BONE.—On Tuesday, R. Smith, was committed for trial, charged with robbing Miss Watson, of Upper George-street, with whom he lived in the capacity of a butler, of plate, cat decanters, plated articles, and property of other kinds; which the prisoner had pledged at two pawnbrokers' shops, who produced them before the Magistrate.

CAUTION TO LICENSED VICTUALLERS .- An information was laid by — Wise, a common informer, against Mr. Proctor, land-lord of the Queen's Head, Paradise-street, charging him with having in his possession, and using 16 pewter pots, contrary to the statute, they not having the Exchequer mark, "W. R." surmounted by a crown, stamped on them as required. The information was hild under the 11th sec. and 15th chap, of one of the Acts of William III. entitled an Act for ascertaining the measures for retailing ale and beer. The defendant, who in this case subjected himself to a penalty of 321, was attended by a solicitor, who having discovered an informality in the information, it was quashed, upon which the informer proceeded to lay a fresh one.

QLD BAILEY.

MONDAY .- W. S. Barnard Turner, was indicted for forging a accept in the name of John Penn, for the sum of 10451, with intent to defraud the tiovernor and Company of the Bank of England. There was a second count in the indictment, charging him with in tending to defraud John Sparrow.—The prisoner was a clerk in the Navy Five per Cent. Office, in the Bank of England. Sir Robert holder of 10,0001. Stock in that fund, which stock was to a fictitious person named Papn. This circumstance transferred to a fictitious person named Penn. This circumstance however, was not known till May, when the Ledger was examined and it was found a leaf had been torn out, which related to the transactions of the 20th of March. Three copies of this transfer-book are kept at the Bank, which are called the primary, the duplicate, and the triplicate. Sir R. Peel was debited for the 10,0001. sold, and this fictitious person, called Penn, was credited for a similiar sum, as the purchaser. The ledger had been altered, there is a proper to the first the fi to keep Sir B. Peer's account right, by prefixing the figure I before 40001. thus making it 14,0001. The circumstances which made against the prisoner were, that out of fifteen notes received of Mr Starling, in payment for the stock, twelve were traced to the pri-soner, and on being charged with the forgery, he fled from the handof justice. The entry of the stock in the ledger had been altered from the name of Penn to Bunn.—Several clerks in the office of the 3 per Cents. proved the facts before stated.—Mr. Joseph Starling, a stock broker, purchased 10001. stock of the prisoner, on the 21st of March, which he paid the prisoner for by a check. The notes received for this check were traced through different hands, the witnesses all stating, the prisoner had paid the notes over to them.—Mr. J. Kay, the Bank Solicitor, stated a conversation which he had held with the prisoner in the presence of the Governor, Deputy-Governor, and Chief Accountant, relative to the forgery, in which he stated, that as to the name of J. Smith, a witness to the transfer, that person attended the Rotunda, that Penn lived at Highguie. On the Wednesday after this conversation, he saw the prisoner in St. Bartholomew's Hospital, when he said to the witness that he had been ill-advised, misled, and defrauded by a set of bad persons, and had lost a great deal of money; that the money he had received for the transfer he had paid to that rascal Penn; the witness observed, how could be say so-when he knew no such person the prisoner usude no reply .- The Collector of taxes, and two letter-carriers of Highgate, knew of no such person as Penn, at that place.—Foy, the Police Officer, stated, that he took the prisoner o the Crown, at Clerkenwell-green, whence he escaped, by letting himself out at a window in the upper part of the house.—The prisoner rend a very long defence, in which he admitted the case against him was one of suspicion, but he could not prove his complete innocence, for the man who had deluded him had fled. He had been 18 years in the service of the Bunk; that at the time of the riots in 1780, his father, Sir Barnard Turner had been instrumental in preserving tranquillity in the metropolis. He then went on to state ow he ba ed: be said gentleman, named Penn, of Righgate, wished to borrow some money of him, and on the demand for security, that person referred to a credit of 10,0001, in the Bank books. On inspecting the books, the next day, he found the statement correct, and little thought then it was a forgery, and thus was induced to become his agent. He then reasoned upon the apparent respectability of this Pena, the little cause for suspecting him, the publicity of the Bank books to all the clerks, and the means he had of tearing away all the leaves relating to this transaction. He then referred to his pecu-niary affairs, and stated, that he was above all want; for, two years since, he received 2000l, on the death of his mother, and 50001, with his wife; he then protested his innocence, and called upon the Jury, if they had a doubt of his guilt, to give him the be-nefit of that doubt — Several witnesses were examined to character. —Mr. Justice Richardson summed up; and the Jury, after retiring for one hour and a bulf, returned a verdict of Not Guilty.

TUESDAY .- The prisoner was brought up to plead to three other indictments, in which the charges had been laid separately. He pleaded "not guilty."—Mr. Serjeant Bosanquet said, as the Jury had solemnly pronounced on the charges, and as the present indictments grew out of the same transactions as that of the preceding the property of his master, and was found Guilty.

day, he was instructed not to offer any evidence against the prisoner.—The Jury of course found the prisoner Not Guilty, and he was immediately discharged.

Jeremy Garfield was found Guilty of exposing to sale, a quantity of silver spoons, having the Hall marks forged and counterleited.

William Brown, aged 16, was charged with uttering a forged 51.

Bank of England note, to Mr. Timbury, of Fetter-lane, under the pretence of being sent by a book-binder, in Bell-yard, to purchase a hammer and polishing iron. He was found Guilty.

WEDNESDAY. - Manassah Isanc Goldston was indicted for heving forged a certain written instrument for the payment of one dollar, of the Prassian Government, with intent to defenud Frederick William, King of Prussia. The indictment was founded on the 43d of the late King, for the protection of written accurities, iswilliam Newman, an engraver, in Wilegale-street, Bishopsgate-street, was called, who stated, that the prisoner, whom he had known for twenty years, came to him in the month of March, or April last, and asked him if he could engrave a Prussian ticket? On looking at it, witness saw the word "emrent," which alarmed him, but the prisoner said, "God bless me! do you think I want you to do any thing wrong?-You know me very well." then engaged to engrave the plate for 30,000 impressions; 10,000 were to be finished in a formight, which would come to about 301. They were struck off in three weeks, and the prisoner took them away at about 1000 a time, and used to call to superintend and cut the edges. He received a fresh order in August, the prisoner providing the paper is reams ready made up. —W. H. Newman, son of the former witness, D. Brown, and T. Nolan, in his employ, confirmed him in the evidence which he had given.— Richard Smitherman, foreman to Wire and Brentley, of Maidstone, proved making the paper (on which the notes were printed) by order of the pri--Augustus W. Bickhardt, inspector of the Police in Be swore the note produced was a false one. In May, several Jews were taken up in that city for forging notes, among them were two men, named Lobb and Simeon, the latter, witness brought over to this country.-Peter Simeon, the accomplice, proved that he applied to the prisoner for 5000 of these notes, saying, he had be sent by Mr. Lobb. Prisoner said, he must have some money first; and he procured a 51. note from Foy, the Police Officer, which he gave to the prisoner. Afterwards met him at Somerset House, where he gave him two 51. notes, procured in a similar manner. He had previously received two parcels of the forged Berlin notes, one for 1200, and another for 2100.-Foy confirmed this testimony; and having secured the prisoner, went to Newman's, where he found the presses at work, and many of the notes.—The prisoner, in his defence, protested that he was unconscious of the transaction being an illegal one, and said he had a wife and several children, and was in the greatest distress at the time.— The Jury found him Guilty, which subjects him to the punishment of transportation for fourteen vents.

W. Hurding was indicted for stealing, on the 5th of July, six sheep, the property of Thomas Billings; they were stolen from a field near Mill-Hill, and sold to a drover in Smithfield for 28s. per head .- The prisoner was apprehended at Winchmore-Hill, where he lived, disguised as a woman.—He was found Guilty.

John Smith was indicted for returning from transportation without lawful excuse.—The prisoner had been tried for the offence by a Jury of the City of London, and acquitted. - The question in this case was, whether he could be legally tried a second time, by in-dictment, for being found at large in the county of Middlesex.— The Learned Judge (Richardson) had some doubts; and the Jury were of epinion, the offence was one and the same, and therefore acquitted him.

Thursday,—William Sutherlin, a Clerk in the Excise, was indicted for accepting a fulse certificate, relating to the duties of customs, with intent to defraud the King. It was the duty of the prisoner to inspect the ticken, and enter them to prevent fraud.— A person named Robert Grant. (who has absconded) in the employ of Mr. A. Grant, was entrusted to pay 3031. 19s. for some sugars, and it appeared that the prisoner, who was very intimate with Grant, had received a forged and fieldious ticket, and on that ticket granted a permit for the removal of the goods. He was found Gullty.

Wm. Whitehead, alias Segar Smart, was indicted for stealing from the person of Mr. Price, surgeon, in Cannon-street, City, a gold watch chain and two seals, on the 24th of July last. The prosecutor was walking down the Commercial-road in the evening of that day to visit a patient, when the prisoner, who obstructed his passage, made a sudden snatch at his watch chain, which he broke off from the watch, and ran down a street leading to Stepney-fields. A companion of the prisoner threw him down, and snatched his umbrella, with which he ran off in a different direction. The prisoner was secured on the Mile End side of Stepney-fields, but nothing was found upon him. On looking, on the following morning, near the place where he was taken, the prosecutor found the chain and seals under a wall.

The Common Sergeant said the case was proved as clearly as it was possible for a case to be proved; the companion of the prisoner had evidently obstructed Mr. Price, and thrown him down with a view of preventing him from pursuing the prisoner. - The Jury immediately found the prisoner Guilty.—He was sentenced to transportation for life. The prisoner had been indicted three or four times before, for similar offences, and had only been discharged from prison the same or preceding day, where he had been privately whipped, and a few hours before had been exhibiting his back in a nublic-house

FRIDAY .- W. Dutton was indicted for a burgiary in the bouse of T. E. M. Turton, Esq. on the 4th inst. The prisoner was in the service of Mr. T. and was to have left his place on the day of the robbery .- Mr. Turton stated, that on the 3d of Sept. he was informed, by a female servant, that the house had been robbed; this was about half-past six o'clock in the morning; he went down stairs, and found the cook and the prisoner in the kitchen. The prisoner pointed out the hole in the door, and said, here is the re they have broke in; they have taken the whole of the plate and my silver watch, for I broke the glass yesteriay, and left it in the pantry where the plate was kept." In the course of the morning (having no suspicion of the prisoner at that time) sleep in the house. When the officers came, the search was made, and the pieces compared with the hole. Witness had, occasion to go to a drawer in his dressing-room, in which some money was kept, and foun! that two bags were gone, one containing either 43 or 481. viz.—five 51. notes, and the rest in sovereigns; the other three guineas, and a half-sovereign, and some sovereigns, making altogether, about 101. As sowereigns were found in the prisoner's box, Gilmore, the officer, asked him where he got them, and he replied, "Worked for them, to be sure."—Gilmore asked him, "what for?" To which be answered, "for wages." The officer then found another sovereign in his pocket, of which he gave a similar account. Witness then searched a chest of drawers in the room, and found a box of phosphorus and matches, and some broken seals, &c. Witness had a box of tools in the bouse, in which there was a gimblet and a chisel. The holes made in the door, and the mark left from forcing the drawers, corresponded with the last-mentioned tools. The hox in which they were kept was not locked.—The Jury found the prisoner Not Guilty.

The priso er was then put upon his trial on a second indictment, charged with stealing a pair of silk stockings and other apparel,

NOTICES TO CORRESPONDENTS.

We will enquire as to the questions of X., and let him know. SPHINX NON ŒBIPUS will find we have noticed the jeke, in a similar way, in an earlier number of BULL.

We thank our kind correspondent from KINGSTON, but the place is not of sufficient importance to make the disolorure interesting.

If " one who fears God and honours the King" will send us, well authenticated, the name of the man and the name of the place he alludes to, we will show him up.

The congregation of Carlisle Chapel, Kennington-lane, complain that the building is hung with black, and they lay the blame upon the Rev. J. S. Sengrove. The inhabitants of Mampstoad also are indignant at a similar exhibition of woe in their Church and Chapel.

We thank Bobby Gam -he will see we have used his communieution

The letter signed Titus has (according to our system) been destroyed.

A long letter, signed PHILO ..., is very injudicious, if written with a friendly intention towards the person it alludes to. Such a letter, instead of inducing us to think or speak more favourably of the object, would (if we acted meliciously) lead us to publish such documents as would shame him, and render him more contemptible than he is; but we think we see a design to provoke us farther, and shall therefore take no notice of the communication.

We cannot insert the able letter in desence of the Rav. Ma. BLACOW; because we do not think his conduct defensible. It is no justification for outraging a Court of Justice to say, that others have done so before; and however vehement in politics Mn. Blacow may be, we confess we think that the interests of neither the Church nor State can be benefited by such a line of defence as that which the Rev. Goalleman adopted on his trial. With respect to the sentence for the alleged libel, that rests in the breast of the Court, and we cannot presume to say a word about it.

PLATE O will find he has been anticipated.

We have received F. B.'s hints-his remark upon the printing of Bull can only be considered as friendly; in an edition of nearly ELEVEN THOUSAND l'apers, which we now publish, some mecidents will necessarily occur, but every care shall be taken to render them as rare as possible.

We cannot enter into a controversy with such people as those C. D. O. writes about. As for the second part-their promisewe laugh at it.

We cannot believe S. H.'s encodote of the stage-codeh-we would thank him to authenticate it.

In answer to J. G. we can only say, we do not give WAITHMAN credit for a fiftieth part of the talent requisite to have written the letter in question.

We cannot joke with the animals Auti-Rad ridiculesmust not be tickled, they must be lashed.

We will enquire into the conduct of Mr. AMBROST. STEWARD the brower; his intimacy with Wood gives a tone to his politics askioh justifies the appeals we have received from a large proporsion of the county of Suffolk, on the subject of his being appointed High Sheriff next year. We will set about the investigation forthwith.

We wish, for a particular reason, that our valued correspondent, who wrote about Mr. BLACOW, and who sent us a short letter about Wilson yesterday, would adopt some name by which we might address him, in preference to his initials; we could explain why, but he will, we dare say, understand us.

Since the establishment of our Letter-Box in the window, our correspondents seem to think they may be later in the week than if they cout by post; they are mislaken—the earlier we hear the better.

The letter signed a "BRITISH OFFICER" is very good, and if it came from such a person as it assumes to come from, would be surviceable; the hand-writing is clerical—we do not mean that of es Glergyman.

To Auxiliaton we should say "Non Tali Auxilio," &c. &c.

We think it right to say, that we had not received G.N.W.'s friendly letter at the time our last Paper was published. We thank A.

The young ledy near Henover-square shall be looked to—we will save her if we can—she requires care and attention. "At the close of the day when the hamlet is still' ther situation is very precarious.

We are greatly obliged to our friend T.C.C. at PARIS, and shall be more no still by a continuance of his correspondence; we only received his letter this week, and the subject he mention ds now gone by.

CAPTAIN DEFENZY'S Enchisidion has given us much pleasure, his ingenuity is well introduced—and the good-natured way in which he treats his misfortune interests one about the man, while one is admiring the artist.

We were greatly disappointed in not hearing from Damon-ke will now understand what we meant by our letter

The Couchant Gréhound rests on our table; we thank our fair friend for her hint.

We are quite in love with BLIZABETH.

J. W. M. will see the subject has not escaped us.

Neither Hodes Ploughshars from Longparish, nor the Havikers and Pedlars in the neighbourhood, shall be forgotten. MANUIUS TORQUATUS should not censure the othersfeel alike.

J. W. is most thankfully received.

DICKY PIGTAIL -A CONSTANT READER - MARCUS - TOP, and any more, have come safe to hand.

INQUEST ON HONEY. In the List of Jurors, in our last number, the name of Thomas Walker, stay-maker, of Blundfordect, was inserted: we understand he is not the person who lious at No. 18, in that street.

Those persons who find any difficulty in procuring this Paper f: om Newsmen, are requested to state the fact, and the names of those who obstruct the vale, and the obstacle shall be removed.

PRICE OF STOCKS AT THE CLOSE, SATURDAY.

The business, during the week, has been very extensive, and the fluctuations frequent and considerable, occasioned chiefly by the tate of the weather for the last formight. A wet day depresses the prices, as it tends to saine the price of Grain, throw open the ports for foreign importation, and by these means send the metallic currency out of the country. Notwithstanding, the chief speculators on the Corn Exchange appear to aid their endeavours.

Although the joint exertions of those parties on the Corn and Stock Exchanges are used to create a fall, the Funds have maintained, upon the whole, better prices than could well have been looked for. Consols commenced yesterday morning at 76 for Money, and 764 for the Account, and closed at 764 for Money, and 76% for the Account.

The letters from the continent speak favourably of the prices of their securities; the French 5 per Conts. were, on Wednesday, ut 86 fr. 70 cents, ; the Exchange at one Month 25 fr. 45 cents.; and at three Months 25 fr. 25 cents. Spanish Bonds 562, and Neupolitan & per Cents. 69.

Reduced Ann .. Exchequer Bills .... 10001. 2 p Consols..... 76 51 61 5001. 3 5 p Dit Acct .... 4 per Cents..... India Bonds ..... 63 64 RUSSIAN. nscrip. ...... 52 | 5 per Cent. Metallics .... 78 Exchange .. 11 11-163—Met. .. 3 1 6 per Cent. Inscrip. AUSTRIAN. 5 per Cent. Metallics . . 734—Exchange . . 10 4 SPANISH. 55% i — Exchange . . . . NAPLES. 5 per Cent.... 5 per Cent. .... 69-Exchange....440 25 55 AMERICAN. 6 per Cent. 1815 ... 1023 3 5 per Cent. . . . . 101 3 per Cent. . . . . . 70 . . 102 7 per Cent. 6 per Cent. 1812 ... 98 103 1813 ... 991 190 1814 ... 101 to Bank Shares, £22 17s. 6d. PRUSSIAN. 5pr Cat. Bonds, £100, 83! Ditto, £250 to £1900 11OLLAND. Columbian Bonds. . 401 per Cent..... Bank Shares .... -

A Monday's Edition, containing the latest News, the Stock List, the London Markets, and the State of the Country Markets by that morning's post, is published at Three o'clock.

JOHN BULL.

LONDON, SEPTEMBER 23.

It is soldom that such an event as the election of a LORD MAYOR troubles us; but we feel an interest in the approaching contest, because there appears to be a difference upon the subject between two most excellent and deserving

"MR. MAGNAY'S principles are known and esteemed-MR. HEYGATE has also distinguished himself for loyalty and attachment to the Constitution, and we therefore lament that any schism should exist between them.

MR. HEYGATE enters the list with MR. MAGNAY, as far as we can see, upon the ground that he, having declined the Mayoralty when he was next in rotation, has no right (at his pleasure) now to try back to his turn, and that having once waived the privilege, he cannot resume it; but MR. HEYGATE forgets, or seems to forget, that he himself waived his privilege last year, and that, upon his own ground, he has no more right to claim it than MR. MAG-

We lament this personal opposition to MR. MAGNAY, because MR. HEYGATE's former conduct appears to have been marked by the greatest delicacy towards him.

On the rotation falling upon Alderman MAGNAY last Michaelmas, that gentleman DID NOT REFUSE the office, but requested the indulgence of his fellow citizens for one year, that is, until the present election. The rotation therefore clearly fell upon the Alderman next in seniority, which was Mr. Heygate. But this gentleman, from motives of delicacy and respect towards Alderman MAGNAY, was unwilling to precede him, and also begged the indulgence of the Livery.

But it will be seen from the following letter, addressed to the Livery by MR. HEYGATE, that although, from delieacy, and for private reasons, which he explains, he waived his right for one year, he keeps his eye upon the next, when, he says, he shall still be in rotation the eligible Aldermanso that he has no notion that he forfeits his claim by merely delaying it .- The latter runs thus :-

"To the Livery of the City of London.

"GENTLEMEN-Understanding that Mr. Alderman MAGNAY, whose name is next in rotation for the Mayoralty, although he dechines offering himself in any way as a Candidate, will, in the event of the Livery being pleased to elect him, undertake the discharge of its duties, I think myself called upon to state, that from every feelspect, I am friends before that Gentleman at the approaching Election.

On the contrary, without justly incurring the charge of presum; tion on the one hand, or the other, that of shrinking, in times of political animosity, from a public duty, had it devolved upon me according to the usual course, I trust I may be permitted to say, that in consequence of the increased illness of a part of my family, which I now regret to find will render their residence at the seaside for a considerable period indispensable, the arduous and responsible office of the Mayorahy, (requiring, as it does, a constant residence in London), would thus in various ways be necessarily attended not only with much inconvenience to myself and to others, but with the impracticability of paying that degree of respect and attention so justly due to every branch of the Corporation and Livery of London.

I will only add, with much deference, that should your favourable opinion induce you to elect me as your Chief Magistrate in the year following the present, when according to my rotation I | tion mis-applied? The last we heard of was a subscrip-shall be a candidate for that bonour, it shall be my most anxion endeavour to discharge with firmness and impartiality the duties of that office, to maintain its dignity, and to uphold the rights and franchise of my fellow-citizens.

"With every feeling of gratitude to those friends who have kindly offered me their support,

" I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,

" With much respect, your faithful and obedient Servant, Southend, Essex, Sept. 20th, 1820. W. HEYGATE."

But it should be farther observed, that when MR. MAG. NAY distinctly stated his intention to become a candidate this year, MR. HEVGATE made no kind of opposition; but now he starts an objection, which, if valid, applies equally to himself.

It is clear that MR. HEYGATE's refusal last year must have arisen from motives of delicacy to Mr. MAGNAY; because, as the CORONATION was celebrated during the Mayoralty, a more desirable chance of obtaining that which MR. HEYGATE earnestly covets could hardly have offered itself. To be sure the chance still exists, and perhaps MR. HEYGATE, in his delicacy, miscalculated the time at which the inauguration of his Majesty would take place.

But there is another argument held by MR. HEYGATE, equally futile with that about MR. MAGNAY's right.

MR. HEYGATE alleges, that in justice to his brethren of the Court of Aldermen who have not passed the Chair, he opposes MR. MAGNAY. Now this, if it means any thing must imply that the Junior Members of the Court of Aldermen ought not, in MR. HEYGATE'S opinion, to be delayed in their progress to wards the Chair, by allowing Ma. MAGNAY to occupy it during the usual period, or in other words, Mr. Magnay having been excused for one year, ought therefore to allow all the juntor Aldermen to advance that one year, and to for the Chair before him: which is the same thing as to say, that having begged one year's indulgence, he has thereby forfeited all claim to the office until there is no other Alderman in a capacity to take it. The junior Aldermen, for whom MR. HEYGATE is so anxious, will be left, by Mr. MAGNAY's election, in exactly their present situation. By the order of date, of which he appears so fond, MR. WAITHMAN'S turn would come in 1823, and so on; according to this rule, Mr. MAGNAY should have served in 1820, MR. HEYGATE in 1821, MR. THOAP in 1822; but the two former Gentlemen having requested indulgence, ALDERMAN THORP took the year just closing, and MESSRS. MAGNAY and HEYGATE come again before the Livery upon equal terms.

Upon the whole, we confess, we never saw a man more embarrassed than Mr. HEYGATE is with his delicacy to the senior Aldermon, and his sense of justice to the junior ones; but it is pleasant to observe, that whether it be justice, or whether it be delicary, all his struggles go to seat himself as LORD MAYOR.

To be returned to the Court with a senior Alderman does MR. HEYGATE no good; therefore his delicacy give way to his love of justice, and of course secure as he is of the Chair if sent up with WAITHMAN, who is the junior, he leaus to the linen-draper.

One great advantage is—the thing is, that whether MAGNAY and HEYGATE are returned, or HEYGATE and MAGNAY, or HEYGATE and WAITHMAN, we are certain of loyal and respectable Chief Magistrates in London for two years to come; and we only lament, amiable and worthy as the parties are, there should be any discussion, even though a permanent title should be the prize in dispute

SUBSCRIPTION FOR ALDERMAN WOOD AND HIS FAMILY.

PERHAPS there never was a more seasonable subscription entered into than that, which has been set about for ALDERMAN WOOD, and never a stronger proof afforded of high respect for private character, and consideration for aggravated insult, mortification and disappointment, than is to be found in the princely contributions which swell the list.

The Right Hon. LORD NUGENT, to testify the value be puts upon the talents, virtues, and misfortunes of the Alderman, subscribes most liberally—ONE FOUND ONE!!!

Mr. J. T. BARBER BEAUMONT, and MR. MOXCK, M. F. two guincas between them.

THE CITY OF EDINBURGH collectively sends a tribute of—three pounds three shillings.

While the gay and populous BATH offers its elegant contribution of-TWO POUNDS EIGHT SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE!!!

MR. GRANT HEWLETT, and friends at Aylesbury, muster nineteen shillings; and a few more friends at Leighton Buzzard, forward EIGHT SHILLINGS AND SIRPENCE.

BURDETT, HUME, and HOBHOUSE appear as five guines subscribers; HENRY GREY BENNETT is excused, because we see by the papers he has subscribed his ONE POUND for the relief of his friend Captain Romeo; indeed, the whole of this subscription proves that however intemperate the language of a Radical may be, push him home, and it is a hard matter to induce him to give up his sovereign.

In the notice prefixed to the subscription list, is this very remarkable line.

"The Committee rejoice that no fears can be entertained " as to the right application of the Fund."

-- What does this mean? -- Was there ever a plate subscription for Plate for the QUEEN; and we are quite sure that has not been misapplied, for it is under the management of Alderman Wood himself.

Amongst the places which have contributed to Wood's fund, we did not see Worcester, and accordingly referred to our documents in order to find a reason for the neglectful silence of that city. We laid our hands upon the following (Original) Letter from Mr. Cocks, the Secretary to the Subscription, addressed to Mr. James Page, of Worcester, and franked to that Gentleman by Joseph Hume

" NATIONAL TRIBUTE OF RESPECT TO MR. ALDERMAN WOOD.

"Snn-I take the liberty to refer you to the Committee's Note of 19th June, in reply to your highly-esteemed favour of 16th of the same month, and as we have not had the pleasure of seeing you in town since that period, he Committee will esteem themselves much obliged by your transmitting the amount of your subscriptions under cover to JOREPH HUME, Esq. M.P. one of the Trustees, who will forward such remittance to the Committee.

"I have the honour to be, Sir,

"Your most obedient humble Servant,
"Globe Tavern, Moorgan, "JOHN COCKS, Sub-Sec.
27th July, 1821."

If JOSEPH HUME, Esq., ALDERMAN WOOD, or any of the Committee, will publish the answer MR. Cocks received to this letter, dated WORCESTER, Aug. 4, 1821, we think it will be a full set-off against any gratification MR. WOOD may receive from the contributions, the amount of which are now published.—We have a copy of the letter, but we dare not publish it from the nature of its contents; and we will tell MR. JOSEPH HUME and the Committee, that, for the very same reason, they dare not publish it; -- and let these persons recollect that the charge specifically made by " a most respectable merchant in the Borough," and mentioned in that letter, and given as a reason why the people at Worcester would not subscribe, has been allowed to stand unrefuted for two months: -this, as the letter was addressed to and received by the Secretary to MR. WOOD's friends, is, to say the least, negligent towards " an individual scho has merited and received the unbought praises of thousands of his countrymen!!!"

JOSEPH HUME will understand us—if he does not, let him refer to "letters received" by Mrs. Cocks on the fifth of last August, and he may get a new light or two.

We really wonder that these people are not ashamed of themselves.

IT will be seen, by the Gazette of Tuesday, that old LADY BAKER is not the only sufferer by the riot on the 14th of August; his Majesty has removed Major-General SIR ROBERT WILSON (and since the KING calls him so, we call him so too) from the Army.

This, as might naturally be expected, has given great umbrage to the TIMES and the radicals; and we should have been greatly surprised if it had not. It is a rare thing for these persons to have a man of so much notoriety as SIR ROBERT in their cause; and however honourable the dismissal may appear to those who hold it no honour o serve their KING, the measure, highly proper as it is, has considerably disconcerted the faction.

The ground of this Officer's removal is ordinarily reported to be as follows:—

" On the day of the Queen's funeral, at the time the procession was approaching Cumberland-gate, and after the firing by the military at the people bad commenced, Sir Robert Wilson rode up to Captain Oakes, then on duty near Cumberland-gate, and remonstrated with him on the conduct of the soldiers under his command, which he said ' was disgraceful to the regiment, and injurious to the character of the service.' Captain Oakes replied, ' Sir Robert Wilson, I know you perfectly well, but I shall enter into no diseussion with you on this point at present. I shall do my duty, and my men will do theirs.' Nothing further passed on that occasiou. On the following day, Captain Oakes submitted the occurrence to the other Officers of the regiment, in order to obtain their opinion on the course which it became him, as a man of honour, to pursue on the subject. He was willing to regard the affair as one of a personal nature, solely affecting himself, and only required their sanction to take immediately the proper measures to obtain reparation. The other officers of the regiment, however, refused to allow a transaction, which they considered to imply a general reflection on the regiment, to be adjusted on the terms of a private difference, and would not consent that Captain Oakes should take the uffuir upon himself in the manner proposed. A statement of what oo ourred at Cumberland-gate between Sir R. Wilson and Capt. Oakes was in consequence drawn up, and transmitted to the Duke of York. His Royal Highness, on receiving it, caused a private inquiry into the correctness of the facts to be instituted, and having found then established to his satisfaction, he referred the whole affair to the King, who in consequence caused his Royal pleasure to be declared -that Sir Robert Wilson should be dismissed the service."

The TIMES, (who, if it knew any thing, ought to know something about this affair) tells us that this statement is not correct, and farnishes us on Thursday with another, in which, like most bungling friends, the TIMES admits a fact much stronger than any adduced on the other side; for, in vindicating SIR ROBERT for his actual conduct, he gives us what SIR ROBERT said before he interfered with the military, which, without a doubt, tells more against him, as a military officer, than any thing which he actually did.

The TIMES says, "that SIR ROBERT, hearing a firing, expressed a desire to go up to the spot, and at least ascertain the cause of it. His friends would have detained him, considering that his presence at such a scene might, like many "other innocent and well-meant acts, be liable to malicious construction. This, SIR R. WILSON declared to be unaworthy his regard, so long as there was a chance of saving one life, or dismading the military from the smallest exercise of violence. He therefore accosted the commanding officer," &c. &c. &c.

Now, the fact of a GENERAL "DISSUADING THE MILITARY FROM THE SMALLEST EXERCISE OF VIOLENCE," in the middle of a revolutionary riot, is one which nobody but such a blockhead as the TIMES would have adduced to prove, that removing such General from the KINES service was "not wise because it was not just."

SIR ROBERT WILSON (the TIMES says) "is in France," he, therefore, stands clearly acquitted of any share in this lame justification; but the whole affair is so deeply involved in other matters that we consider it but justice to say no more upon the subject at present.

BEFORE this, our readers will probably have seen, with pleasure and exultation, the answer of the Life Guards to the offer of reward for the insults and assaults they endured on the day of the riots upon the Queen's funeral. They refuse the proffered tribute—they accept the intention—they feel the pleasure which a testimonial so flattering to their steadiness, valour, and humanity must afford—but they decline the money.

Never, perhaps, was there a nobler strife between the people and their protectors than this: on the one hand, the anxiety of those who are unused to the stern restraints of military duty, to shew their affection and regard for the soldiers; on the other, the high feeling of gallant men, who seek no reward but honour, and the consciousness of having acted properly, are truly cheering.

The thanks of the country are due to the COURIER for having suggested this subscription; and not more for the original laudable intention, than for the animated and beautiful picture of national gratitude and chivalrous spirit which its unforeseen termination has brought before the public eye.

OLD TIMES.

Tempora Mutantur—we said it—we knew, that, as soon as the great figure-head of the faction was gone the Times would rat. We need not quote the Times upon itself to shew how ardently and indefatigably it has supported the Radicals—let us look at the paper of Monday.

RADICALS OF LEEDS .- " Last Tuesday, in the evening, a mesting was held at the Union Rooms, Richmond-hill, in this town, at which from three or four hundred persons attended, Mr. James Mann in the chair; when it was determined unanimously," in order to consolidate and organize the great mass of reformers in one indissoluble union, and to render their efforts irresistible, to form themselves into a branch of the great Northern Union (as recomnended by Mr. Hunt), to be denominated the " Leeds Central Committee of Radical Reformers." The members of this union are to contribute one penny a week towards raising a fund " in order to return tried friends of the people to the House of Commons at the next general election," and the subscriptions, by a general organized system, to be made as extensive as possible. In a letter from Mr. Hunt, which was rend to the meeting, it was observed, " that if the Great Northern Radical Union consisted of 100,000 members each contributing one penny a week, the radicals might, at the next election send from three to ten members of their own into the House of Commons; and even if they purchased all the sents of the boroughmongers, which might be worth while for once, a real reform in parliament would be obtained within six months. These subscriptions would amount to 21,6331. 6s. 8d. a year, enough to purchase seats for five radical members, who might be Sir Charles Wolsely, Mr. Hunt, Mr. Cobbett, Major Cartwright, and Mr. Wooler." In these views the meeting coincided, and after electing treasurer, secretary, &c. they voted thanks to Henry Hunt, Esq. for his intrepid support of the rights of the people; to Sir Charles Wolsely, for his patriotic exertions in the cause of liberty; to Major Cartwright and Mr. Cobbett, for their services to the country; and to Mr. Wooler and Mr. Carlile, for their advocacy of the cause of

"We copy the above from the Leeds Mercury of Saturday, and must say that we have received much anusement as well as surprise from the statement which it contains. We had thought that "the indissoluble union," "the irresistible efforts," and "central committees" of the Radicals, with their political nos/rums and penny subscriptions, were now as much out of date and fashien as the sect of Flagellantes, the wonders of alchemy, or the South Sea scheme. What is the purpose of this patriotic fund here recommended by Mr. Hunt? Why! to buy "all the sents of the boroughmongers for once," that the Radicals may obtain possession of them for ever. So these penny subscribers would purchase the lease of the premises in order that they might oust the landlord; and yet they suppose the latter will be such a fool as to admit there for tenants on these terms."

This is at least not complimentary to the firm of WOLSELY, WOOLER, COBBETT, CARTWRIGHT, CARLILE and Co. and shows strong symptoms of going about; but if the Times falls off in comistency it rises in style; to which visible improvement, we call the attention of our readers.

We remember when it was the fashion to laugh at the Morning Post, for a diffuseness, thought to be peculiar to itself;—and the never-to-be-sufficiently-lamented this one, or the never-to-be-adequately-regretted that one, furnished very good jokes for the witlings and parodists of the day.

But the OLD TIMES gave us, on Tuesday, a paragraph in the same style as that of the Post, but so much more forcible, so much LONGER and STRONGER, that we cannot choose but quote it.

It will be found in the middle of a long piece of nonsense, about the Treasury reductions. It alludes to a man we all love and respect, and is in itself exquisite. It runs thus:

"We must observe, that the Addresses of Parliament were wrang from Ministers, by the long-resisted-many-times-fruitiess-muchebused-and-reviled-and-ridiculed-but-indefatigable-and-finallysuccessful-effects at retranshment made by Mr. Hume," dec.

POST—POST—hide your diminished head!

We will extract from Thursday's paper, the opinion which the TIMES entertains of legal proceedings, in cases of libel, as it bears upon the cases in which poor Bull is entangled. He says, speaking of MR. SHARPE's bills against the TIMES, "We assure him that no rained reputation was ever recovered by a precess of law which precludes in the defendant a proof, and in the plaintiff a refutation, of the charges contained in the alleged libel. It is unfortunate that in this case the Secretary did not feel it so safe to bring an action as to prefer an indictment."

What will the Honourable Henry Grey Bennett, and our other prosecutors, say to this doctrine?

On Thursday the TIMES gives an account of a local piece at ASTLEY'S, which was most unequivocally hooted off the stage on Tuesday. The piece was called "IRISH LOYALTY," and bore upon His MAJESTY'S late visit to Ireland.

We do not know why the TIMES sets such a value upon the condemnation of this drama, which he never saw: because, putting politics out of the question, it was the most execrable trash ever produced, even at the "Amphitheatre of Arts."

But our impression of the thing was, that the disapprobation was occasioned by something better than disloyalty: -- when the audience remembered, that, into that very place the late QUEEN had been handed and lighted by ALDERMAN WOOD, and some tumblers and mountebanks in Court dresses, with every demonstration of respect and veneration, the venal change of principle which could have induced the performance of a piece in honour of His MAJESTE. richly deserved the chastisement it met with. Similar to this was the treatment of Vauxhall Gardens, on the 13th of August, when a nonsensical bill announced a fete to celebrate HIS MAJESTY's birth-day. Every body knew that, on the preceding Monday, the Gardens had been prostituted to a public masquerade under the sanction of the QUEEN, and that, that masquerade had superseded a fete on the Coronstion. The result was, that on the night when the shame layalty was exhibited, nobody went.

Should the TIMES, however, upon the important event of the failure of a piece at a puppet-show, contend seriously, that such failure is attributable to the disloyalty of the audience, we must venture to remind the TIMES, that, that audience had been attracted to the place to hear the imitations of MR. REEVE, the son of a tailor, and nephew to ALDBEMAN WAITHMAN, and were, to a certain extent, the friends of that gentleman!

THE OBLIGATION OF THE LATE DUKE OF BRUNSWICK TO HER LATE MAJESTY.

MANY of our readers, naturally astounded at our allusions to this document, (particularly after the statement of the Duke's property given in our last number) having called upon us to explain more fully the proceedings had upon the business in England, we, this week, without offering one word of our own, lay before the public a detail of those proceedings, which, we think, will be found strictly correct. We ought, perhaps, to apologize for recurring so frequently to the subject, but we consider its importance will prove a sufficient excuse for the apparent repetition.

HER MAJESTY, when PRINCESS OF WALES, filed a Bill in Chancery in the year 1818, stating, "That in the month of August, 1814, WILLIAM, DUKE OF BRUNSWICK OBLS, deceased, for the purpose of securing the sum of 15,000l. to the separate use of HER ROYAL HIGHNESS, signed and delivered to her a certain promissory note, or instrument in writing, bearing date the 24th of August, 1814, whereby he assured to her the re-payment, in the year 1816, of the sum of 15,000l. sterling, with interest in the mean time." And then the Bill stated, that, "For the same purpose the DUKE signed and delivered to her another promissory note of the same date, and for payment of the same sum, of 15,000l. French louis, in the month of August, 1816, together with interest in the mean time."

The Bill in Chancery, interrogated the Defendants (the EARL OF LIVERPOOL and COUNT MUNSTER) amongst other things, whether the promissory notes were not signed by the DUKE, and whether the sum secured by them was not still due?

In March, 1818, a motion was made by the Defendants, "That the Plaintiff might produce a certain promissory note, or instrument in writing, in the Bill mentioned to bear date the 24th day of August, 1814, whereby, it is in the Bill alleged, that WILLIAM DUKE OF BRUNSWICK, deceased, assured to the Plaintiff payment, in the month of August, 1816, of the sum of 15,000 French louis; and that the Defendants might have a fortnight's time to answer the Bill, after such instrument should have been so produced."

The Defendants' Counsel, in support of the motion, insisted that inspection of the instruments was necessary to enable them to make that answer which HER ROYAL HIGHMESS sought, and said, "supposing the Defendants should have a doubt of the authenticity of the instrument—of the signature of the Duke, for example, is it not obvious that inspection s necessary to enable them to answer with correctness and safety? The Duke, if living, could answer from his own knowledge, but by what means can the Defendants, his executors, (no parties to the transaction) without a view of the instrument answer to its authenticity?"

Her ROYAL HIGHNESS'S Counsel contended that they were not bound to produce the note, and said that the difficulty in the way of the defendants answering was imaginary.

—The LORD CHANCELLOR, on the 10th March, 1818, required the defendants to produce a further affidavit, which was made by COUNT MUNSTER, and stated, that in the latter end of the year 1816, the plaintiff sent to one of the executors of the late DUKH of BRUNSWICK who had not proved the Will, two instruments in writing, one in the Ger-; man and the other in the French language, both dated the 24th August, 1814, and purporting to be to the same effect, and to he engagements on the part of the Duke to pay to the plaintiff, in two years, with interest, 15,000l. sterling, therein stated to be lent by the plaintiff to the DUKE: that the two instruments were deposited by the gentleman to whom they were transmitted, in the hands of bankers in London: that on the 7th February, 1818, COUNT MUNSTER attended at the banking-house, when the instruments were produced to and inspected by him, in the presence of several other gentle-men" (named in the affidavit); " that he had long been in the confidence of the Duke, and in habits of correspondence with him, and was well acquainted with the Duke's manner of writing, both in German and French; and that he had in his possession many letters of the Duke's in both languages, and that he took with him to the meeting one German and one French letter of the Duke's, for the purpose of comparing them with the two instruments: that the said written instrument in the German language appeared to the deponent, upon the comparison of the said German letter of the Duke, to be AN IMPERPECT RESEMBLANCE of the hand-writing of the latter, and that neither THE SPELLING, nor the construction of the said written instrument, were equal to the manner of the Duke, who well understood and wrote the German language, which was his own vernacular language.

The affidavit then specified several expressions in the written instrument, which were unmeaning and absurd in the German language, and appeared to COUNT MUNSTER to be borrowed from the English idiom, and stated, "That the Christian name of the DUKE, in the signature, was mis-spelt and different from his habit of writing, and that the signature was 'Brunswick and D'Oels,' which signature the DUKE adopted during the time he was dispossessed of his dominions by the French, but NOT AFTER HIS RETURN

IN THE AUTUMN OF 1813."

The affidavit further stated, " that the written instrument in the French language appeared, upon comparison with the French letter of the Duke, to be ALSO AN IMPERFECT RESEMBLANCE OF THE HAND-WRITING OF THE LETTER, and that its construction did not appear to be equal to his manner of writing French; and that the signature was also Brunswick et D'Oels, which the DUKE was NOT in the habit of using when the instruments bear date." And Deponent further stated, that he was informed, and believed, "that the Plaintiff caused the instrument for the payment of 15,000 louis to be produced for payment in Brunswick, and, that previous to putting in his answer to the Bill, it was necessary, in order that his answer might fully meet the case, that he should have the inspection of the last-mentioned

On reading this affidavit the LORD CHANCELLOR (March 17, 1818) said, "I have read the affidavit, and it is enough to say, that it lays a sufficient ground for deciding that the defendants are entitled to a production of the instrument, be-And his Lordship on that day made an order fore answer."

DAY AFTER DAY, WEEK AFTER WEEK, MONTH AFTER MONTH ELAPSED, AND NO PROMISSORY NOTE WAS PRO-DUCED! Above FIFTEEN MONTHS passed by, and this instrument WAS NOT PRODUCED. The defendants, thinking they had waited quite long enough, on the 29th June, 1819, made a motion before the LORD CHANCELLOR, that the Bill filed by HER ROYAL HIGHNESS the Princess of Wales might be dismissed with costs. The LORD CHANCEL-LOR said, that unless he saw something to the contrary on the following day, his order on this motion must be under-stood to be, "That unless the instrument be produced before the third Seal, the Bill should stand dismissed; but with diberty to the plaintiff to apply at or before the second Seal for an extension of time." So that every indulgence was granted to her ROYAL HIGHNESS to produce the note. On the 27th July, the defendants' counsel applied for the dismissal of the Bill, no production having been made, nor any application for further time; and the counsel for the plaintiff (QUEEN CAROLINE) not having any instructions on the subject, the LORD CHANCELLOR said, "There could be no doubt that THE BILL MUST BE DISMISSED WITH COSTS!!" And it was so dismissed.

It may be necessary to remark, that the above detail refers to the Bill filed by the QUEEN against the executors of her brother. The cross-Bill, in which the QUEEN was Defendant, REMAINS UNANSWERED at this moment, although Mr. BROUGHAM, after repeated extensions of time, stated in Court, a short time after the demise of His late Majesty, that the "Queen would now come over, and of course put in her.

One syllable of comment would be superfluous.

RETURN OF THE MOURNERS.

ALDERMAN WOOD and his Son, as every body knows having no right to be of the party, were not admitted by courtesy, but came over sociably by themselves; and after a boisterous passage, dangerous to any body else, they landed at DEAL.

The ROR ROY party (so was the packet called in which we all embarked,) left Calais yesterday week, and came over in the following order:-

My LORD HOOD and young WILSON on the seat behind DOCTOR LUSHINGTON'S carriage; in which were the Bride and Bridegroom; LADY ANNE HAMILTON and young AUSTIN paired off together, during the whele voyage; LADY HOUD chatted to everybody round her in the most interesting manner possible.

between the parties themselves, and the particular intimacy which appeared to subsist between them and their servants. LORD YARMOUTH was on board, but remained below, during the whole passage of five hours.

The Custom House Officers seized several things on our landing, amongst others some bottles of brandy belonging to a lady, who shall be nameless—the duty was paid and the bottles redeemed. This, however, was the only symptom of even a temporary loss of spirits we remarked.

We endured LADY HOOD's amiability with Christian fortitude, looked at LORD HOOD, thought of the black cook, and parted with the greatest civility.

We started for town, so did HESSE, WILSON and MR.

LEWEN—money seemed scarce with them, for they travelled outside of the Dover coach, and when they got to Rochester, the three had only one pot of porter between them at dinner.

After our departure LADY ANNE and MR. WILLIAM AUSTIN took a walk by the sea-side, accompanied by MR. WEEKS, her late Majesty's agent at Dover. During the stroll MR. WEEKS's sister, a retail dealer in tobacco and snuff, accompanied by a friend, a very respectable bonnet-maker, accidentally met them, and had the honour of being introduced to her ladyship, and her attendant sprig of LORD and LADY HOOD, and the more exalted personages of the party, proceeded by the stage-coach to London, so anxious were they still to stick to any thing called Carrosse-Royale, even though its name were written on its pannels.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

In our last number, we declined meddling with the private characters of some of the Coroner's Jury upon Honey's case, because, as we then said, their public conduct speaks for itself, and it is only with their public conduct that we have

It seemed of very little consequence to us, whether MR. GREEN, the foreman, who is a writing desk maker, had, in earlier line, sold potatoes; or whether MR. BROWN, who now keeps a pot-house, had or had not been formerly a hackney coachman; or, whether MR. BLAIKIE (the most impudent of the whole set) was, although a rigid Methodist, not so rigid a moralist as might be; or whether MR. HARRIS, the eminent snuff-seller, had dissipated his boyish days in vending lollipops; or MR. CAFE chauged his trade from cabbage-selling, in Covent-garden, to that of tea-cup-selling, in Wigmore-street. We confess we saw no good to be extracted from the long details which such disclosures about in-significant low-lived people would necessarily have forced upon our readers.

But, when any circumstance comes to our knowledge, touching the conduct of any of these Jurors, as Jurors, we consider it a duty of the highest importance to expose it to public view, in order that these mild and merciful men, who have disappointed the Old Times by their humanity, may be seen, in their public capacity, in proper colours.

The fact is this—MR. BLAIKIR, having received informa-tion, that a gentleman, resident in the Poultry, could positively identify the officer who shot HONEY, called at his house. The gentleman was from home when MR. BLAIKIE paid his visit; he wrote his address, and begged the gentleman's immediate attention on his return.

On this request, the gentleman waited upon MR. BLAIKIE, to know his business, when MR. BLAIKIE, with the greatest earnestness, told him that he understood he could identify the officer who shot HONEY.—This conversation passed before some other of the Jurymen.

We can only observe upon this, that we should think such personal interference on the part of a Juror to procure witnesses, would invalidate any verdict, in the giving of which, such Juror had any share.

The fact here stated will, if required, be proved by affidavit, and for that purpose we are in possession of the names of the parties, together with their authority for making this statement.

While upon the subject of this inquest we have another duty to perform, which is, to notice the officious and gra-tuitous interference of a Mr. Frost, the Vestry Clerk of St.

This person, when CAPTAIN EDWARD BRENTON was giving his evidence as to the rate at which the hearse was going, took upon himself to frame a question for the Jury, which a shabby looking man (apparently of his acquaintance) wrote on a slip of paper—the question was, "Did it not gallop?" this was handed to the redoubtable MR. BLAIKIE, who examined CAPTAIN BRENTON as to the fact, and the question was negatived.

MR. FROST bragged in the inquest-room that he was one of the Horse-Committee at the Queen's funeral. MR. FROST must be a very foolish follow; first, to have been of such a party; and secondly, to have told of it if he had. Mr. FROST must, we presume, have for often to whom he is indebted for the lucrative office he holds before he could have assisted in a mode of enquiry, novel in its system, and hostile to every principle of JUSTICE and LOYALTY.

We are requested, from the very best authority, to state that the parish church of St. George's, Rusomeruny, was put into mourning for Queen Caroline by the Churchwardens, without any consultation or communication with the Rector, the Ray. Dr. Williams.

We have received an account of a Sermon preached on Wednesday, the 19th inst. by the Rav. Ma. Fowks, Vicur of All Saints, in Sudbury, called a Funeral Sermon for QUEEN CARO-LINE, which is represented to us as having been one of the most in-flammatory harangues ever delivered. We are told that the preacher uttered such language against His Most Gracious MAJESTY, as we dare not repeat. In making this statement we think it necessary to observe, that we are informed that notes were taken of the Sermon; and, as persons to whom reference may be made, we mention that MR. M. RAY, of Sudbery, and MR. FORD, of Miltord, were present, as was also MR. WALFORD, of Sudbury, amongst (of course) many other persons.

We cannot but call the attention of our readers to a jocular conversation which took place between THORPS the Lord Mayor, and the Spa-fields placard-holder Waddington. His Lordship entered into a frisky discussion upon politics with the wretched creature; but however amiable his condescension might have been, as far as ing manner possible.

That, which struck us most, was the want of cerdiality reasoning went his Lordship seems to us to have had decomposited worst of it.—What an animal a Lord Mayor is, after all. reasoning went his Lordship seems to us to have had decidedly the

EXAMINATION OF ALDERMAN WAITHMAN. (Concluded.)

The Committee appointed for the examination of the claims of MR. WAITHMAN having re-assembled, pursuant to adjournment, Mr. Deputy — commenced a series of questions relative to a MR. MILES, in which it appeared that MR. WAITH MAN'S conduct towards that person was exactly similar to his behaviour in the case of MR. BIRCH, except that his personal hostility had been more violent. The case took up nearly three hours in the discussion, and ended in a reference to MR. MILES himself, who now lives at the Feathers Tavern, in Hand court, Holborn, for further inform-

The case of the shawl, sold for the benefit of a lady, which did not appear to have produced its full value, was next gone into; but as this affair is commonly in the mouths of every body who has heard the vendor's name, it is hardly worth while to trouble our readers with a repetition of it.

At the conclusion of the xamination, MR. WAITHMAN was asked if he had any thing to say; and he made a speech in which he attempted to defend himself, by attacking every hody else; and having given a most animated description of his late campaign upon the causeway, he retired to the infinite satisfaction of every body present.

The Committee then proceeded to deliberate upon the endence and defence, and we understand that at eight o'clock they had made their final decision as to the resolutions which they should adopt; but, upon the suggestion of one of the members, that the force of such resolutions would be more strongly felt if published somewhat later, it was agreed, that on Thursday next they should be given to the world, and not before.

We lament this decision, because it will prevent our laying them before our readers till after the first day's poll. We will, however, make a point of procuring them.

QUEENS PLATE · SUBSCRIPTION.

TO ALDERMAN WOOD.

SIR,—As you are a man of business, you are no doubt an enemy to many words; so without further preface I shall state my case.

Shortly after her late Majesty's arrival, a subscription (limited to a shilling from each person) was opened under your auspices, and I believe, under your treasurership; to which I gave my hard-earned mite, for the specified purpose of providing her late Majesty with a suitable service of plate; and need I add, Sir, it was upon the persuasion (indeed by your repeated declarations) of her innocence, and of her being the victim of an unrelenting persecution, that I contributed to the fund.

Facts, which have since come to light, have given a decided turn to my opinion, and to be candid with you, I cadnot but consider you as not only having deceived me and many others, but as having been still more guilty in deluding her Majesty into her situation of disgrace and mortification, which, for your insidious advice, I am thoroughly persuaded her own common sense would have taught her to avoid. And further, I cannot divest myself of the belief, that to you Sir, as her avowed confidential adviser, she is indebted for the adoption of a conduct (nick-named magnanimous) which however suited to the merician of Billingsgate, was in every point of view, unbecoming her high dignity, and revolting to that delicacy, of which, as the head of the purest female society in the world, she ought to have given the highest example.

Under this change of opinion, which I have formed upon the maturest reflexion, and hearing that the money subscribed for the Queen's plate, is to be divided amongst her advises and visitors at Brandenburgh House, to purchase hourning rings in memory of her late Majesty, (which she unaccounably forgot in her will), I shall be glad to know whether the same be true, as I shall most decidedly object to any such application of my shilling.—I have the honour to be, Si, your humble servant, A SUBSCRIBER

Landon, Sept. 5, 1821. TO THE QUEEN'S PLATE FUND.

We thought it right to give insertion to this letter, in order to draw forth some explanation upon the subject. We have no doubt but that the money subscribed is sate and forthcoming, yet as we have received some very curious and authoris documents, from WORCESTER, NORWICE, MANCHESTER, and other places, expressive of popular feeling upon the sulject, we wish, in fairness to the Alderman, who, it appear, has had the management of the fund, to give him an o, portunity of justifying himself from charges, not either delicately or privately made against him.

We have never had any object in BULL but the attainment of truth, and the maintenance of justice; and belie-ing, as we do, in the perfect security and tangibility of the money subscribed for the Queen's plate, we think it but honest to all parties to give this opening for an official account of it, before we proceed to lay before our readers the remarks and observations which have been made by many most respectable persons upon the subject.

When meutioning in our last Paper that SIR ROBERT HARLAND, Bart. of Orwell Park, was elected High Steward of Ipswich, we ought to have added, that it was a compliment from the radicals expressive of their high estimation for his conduct in the Chair of the Fox CLUB at Bury St. Edmonds, when the Sovereign was insulted by having his health drank in silence, while that of the QUEEN was given with three times three. We are by no means surprised with such worthies as these that SIR ROBERT's merits and series are preferred to those of the DUKE of WELLINGTON. So much for Inswich !

In the fourth line of an article, inserted in Buzz of last Sunday, headed, "Rudical Clergyman" instead of "dismissal from his clerical situation there," read, " dismissed from his clerical situations in the neighbourhood." While on this subject it may not be superfluous to observe, that the rump of the Whigs, and whole isternity of Paddington Radiculs, have been in the utmost busile during the week, in consequence of what appeared in this Paper last Sunday relative to their petition to the Lord Bishop of Peterborough, in favour of the REV. M. MARCUS. The most active solicitors for signatures to this document are some of the members of the late "Queen's Committee," assisted by a young clergyman in expectancy of preferment.

THEATRES.

It is quite refreshing (as the Cocknies say) to see the Co vent Garden play-bills posted about to announce the commencement of the season to-morrow. The prospect of good acting, sweet singing, and an elegant commodious theatre, is cheering to the lovers of the drama; but above all, the return of Young to the London stage, is gratifying to the

MR. Young is an actor, whose inherent elegance of mind gives a high tone and character to his performance; accomplished, gentlemanly, and amiable, he brings his qualities in private life into his profession. In tragedy, now that the mighty KEMBLE is gone, where is his equal? We cannot find him.

In his pathetic delivery, there is a melting tone of sorrow, which no actor of the present day can rival. True it is, he gives us none of those sudden transitions from high to -from pompous to familiar, so much in fashion just now, and which never fail to remind us of MOORE's song, (or, rather, MILLER's jest) of the man with two voices, in the saw-pit; but his delivery is classical, without pedantry—his expression of feeling, forcible, just, and natural, without caricature—his conception clear and perfect, and his performance altogether more satisfactory than that of any other actor we have at present.

There is one part in comedy, in which MR. Young is preeminently successful-we mean Falkland, in the Rivals; and a most difficult character it is to sustain. Young's good sact, gentlemanly feeling, and knowledge of the human mind, render Falkland, in his hands, interesting and important. Let any other man play it, and we lament that the brilliancy of the play is marred by such sickening, mawkish dulness.

In alluding to MR. Young's private qualities and acquirements, we must not be understood to cast any stigma upon the rest of the theatrical world. We believe there never was a period of our history at which private respectability was so generally combined with public talent in the histrionic art, as the present one.

If we may credit the writers of their day, actors of old, generally speaking (there are always exceptions to general rules) were for the most part as idle as rehearsals would permit them to be, drunken and dissipated, profligate and licenticus, seeking pleasure and relaxation from the duties of their profession in taverns and lodgings in the purlieus of the theatre.

Now, we find amongst the actors, men of the most gentlemanly habits and pursuits; accomplished, well read, domesticated persons, who would do honour to other and more scrious parts in life. And although we hold that the public have nothing to do with the private characters of public performers (in the way of censuring their conduct), off the stage, provided they do their duty when on it; we are quite sure, that we shall not deteriorate from the effect produced by the performances of such men, as CHARLES KEMBLE, MACREADY, TERRY, JONES, MATHEWS, FAW-CETT, (and others of the same class) by holding them up to proise for their personal characters and individual respecta-

Those who are in the habit of regarding this paper as a bugbear pre-determined to find fault and abuse, are quite mistaken in its aim and object—our pleasure is to praise—but truth must be spoken; and if justice carls upon us to consure, neither Prince, nor player, shall be shielded.

Such is the trailty of human nature, that an impartial judge looking at society with a scrutinizing eye finds generally more to condemn than land; but we can assure our readers, that we feel truly gratified when we are able, (as in the pre sent case) to commend, and yet be faithful to our public duty.

On Thursday, a new play, called MATCH-BREAKING. or the PRINCE'S PRESENT, was produced at the Haymarket. Strange to say, the only part of this piece with which we are inclined to find fault, is the title; it was so clearly adopted in consequence of the success of the little drama called Matchmaking, (which, by the way, we find is not by MR. KENNBY) that it appears like an effort to gain popularity surreptitiously; and this is the more absurd, as the play now under consideration is, in every point of view, a very superior performance.

The following are the materials of the plot:—Emma of Lowendahl, the niece of the German family of De Strumberg, is hetwenty, the interest of the Certain rating of the English guard; it is necessary to obtain the consent of the Prince, and Edgar, confident of success, applies f r it. The Prince induces Edgar to present the picture of his mistress, and the Prince, struck with its beauty, demands it of the lover. The latter refuses to part with it; and the Prince retires abruptly. The engerness with which the Prince viewed the portrait, excites jentousy in her lover, increased on his receiving a letter from the Prince, declaring his intention of visiting the castle of the Baron of Strombery, in the character of visiting the easile of the Baron of Siremberg, in the character of Professor Hoffman, Eagur's nearest relation, and communiting him to assist in carrying on the delission. The De Stromberg family, not having received any encouragement of Court, have set up for patriots and philosophers. They mil incessantly at those in power, though they would willingly exchange the calm of rearchment for the busite of office. The Prince, in paying them a visit incog, has a double object in view—hirst, to try whether their boasted contempt of power would not vanish when they had a prospect of enjoying the royal favour; and next, to procure an interposted contempt of power would not wants when they and a prospect of enjoying the royal favour; and next, to procure an intervew with Emma. The supposed Projessor arrives at the moment of Agning the marriage contract; and suggests the necessity of the Prince's written consent to the marriage; but the Baroness, and the three brothers, De Stromberg, in a lofty and satirical assertion of their independence, spurn at the idea, and insist on proceeding. Edgar, who is now convinced that the Prince means to deprive him of his mistress, is anxious that the contract should be signed, although the looks of the mock Professor inform him that such a step must be ruinous to his hope of preferment. At this moment one of the Prince's pages is introduced, who announces, that, by the command of his master, he bears a present of a bouquet to The scene is now entirely changed. The ambition of the furnity bursts forth, philosophy is forgotten, and the cant of patriotism is heard no more. The De Strombergs are lost in astonishment; the contract with Edgar is suspended; and the independents are suddenly seized with the hope of marrying Emma to the Prince himself. The younger brother, Solomon Falleutit, is sent in search of information. The real Professor Hoffman has written against the Prince; and Solomon, little imagining whom he addresses, satrizes the Prince with as little truth as mercy, and thus places himself in the power of his sovereign. The Frince, who has in fact been struck with a passionate administra of Ranges, becomes, in the course of his visit innegative, still more enamoured. He puts her constancy to the severest tests. He paints in vivid colours the delights of a court, and assures her that the Prince will place them at her command. She rejects the offer; and, subdued by her nobleness of mind, the Prince determines to make the lovers happy. He sends notice that he intends to make a visit to the De Strombergs. At this moment, by his contrivance, an officer arrives in the family to arrest the supposed Professor for his writings. Alarm prevails, lest so disloyal a subject should be found under their roof, and it is immediately determined that be shall be turned out of the house. None of the brothers like to undertake this task, and Solomon hits upon the happy expedient of directing Edgar to inform the mack Prafessor, that his absence would be agreeable, while the inter should be instructed to give his supposed relative notice, that the De Strombergs had cancelled the contract hat was him and Empe Pe this manners. the contract between him and Emma. By this manœuvre, Solomon hopes to set by the ears the two persons whose presence, at so critical a period, might perhaps destroy the aspiring views of his family. The Prince's arrival is announced; but when the converted family of the Strombergs should be hastening to welcome him, they are endeavouring to turn him out, in his assumed character. "Oh," exclaims the Prince, "since the presence of the Professor is so disagreeable, he shall retire;" and, marching up to the chair of state, he throws off his disguise, and appears in his real character. Having good-humouredly retorted on those who had taken gross liberties with his character, he unites the overjoyed and astenished lovers, and the viece concludes with a general amand astenished lovers, and the piece concludes with a general am-

TERRY was beyond expression good in the Prince; there was an aristocratic and dignified feeling in his acting most congenial to the character and most gratifying to the au-dience. Jones, in Baron Solomon, was irresistibly diverting, and MRS. CHATTERLY, in a new style, delighted us she is good in every thing, but we hardly expected to find her so perfect a mistress of the pathetic. DECAMP exerted himself very successfully, and the piece was received with the most unqualified applause.

MATCH-BREAKING wants nothing to make it perfectly good but to be shorn of its music. Waiting-maids are by no means novel personages on the stage, but when they do appear they should possess certain requisites which little MISS CORRI has not; and, nicely as she sings, her vocal powers are not sefficiently important to counterbalance the evident mischief her acting must do to a new play. Surely, if there must have been a waiting-maid, pretty MISS CARBW would have been more efficient.

The highest praise is due to MR. KENNEY, not only for the dramatic talent he has displayed in this excellent little play, but for his bold and successful exposure, on the stage, It does him infinite of the HUMBUG of modern patriotism. credit, for it proves that genuine loyalty is not to be impaired by associations the most fascinating and powerful; and when we see MR. KENNET back from Paris, free from political contamination, we hail his return to his native country, and his public pursuits, with cordial satisfaction.

While on the subject of the Haymarket, we would, with-out wishing to hurt the feelings of any person, suggest that stage-boxes and side-boxes are considered to be the places appropriated to the best company—they are the select places, and (particularly in the Little Theatre) frequented by persons of the first rank and consequence; it is, therefore, highly unbecoming in interior public performers (at this very theatre) and their relations, to occupy these chosen seats.
Were the indelicacy we allude to accidental, we should not have noticed it, but night after night the same thing occurs, and the same very conspicuous family occupy nearly the same place.

As we trust this hint will have its effect, we shall say no more; indeed, we lament that persons should be so foolishly blind to their own situation as to render it necessary for us to expose them even to themselves; it will, after this, be their own fault if they force us to expose them to others.

THE WILL OF THE LATE MARQUIS OF LOND INDERRY.

The Will of the late MARQUIS of LONDONDERRY was proved in the Prerogative Court of Dublin, on the 22d ult. There being no Executor appointed, Letters of Administration, with the Will annexed, were granted to the present Marquis, as Universal Legatee.

A similar grant has issued under the seal of the Prerogative Office, in Doctors' Commons; the personal property within the province of Canterbury being sworn under 60001. The Will is nearly to the following effect:-

"Having some time ago, in conjunction with my two sons, settled all my landed estates in the mode considered most advisable, I have nothing but chattel interest to dispose of; the whole of which I leave to my dear son Castlerraga, baving full confidence in his head and heart that no exertion or affectionate endeavour will be omitted by him that can any way contribute, in addition to her jointure, to the accommodution and comfort of my disconsolate and unha; py widow. I also recommend to his attention and care any worthy individuals who have been long in my service, and whose fidelity deserves my protection; and that he will do such acts of liberality and charity in my name, as he may deem necessary and proper. I have nothing more to add but that I may be privately interred. When the spirit has quitted its mortal abode, all worldly parade and ostentation should cease."

Dated the 26th of January, 1820.

The TIMEs of yesterday says, "It is a curious circumstance" that King Charl's I. slept at the Priory in Brecknock, on his way to North Wates from the Duke of Beaufort's, Aug. 6, 1642, and "that his present Movesty should sleep there also on his road to "the same Nobleman's last week."—Very curious indeed!—It is almost as extraordinary as if Mn. Jackson had dine! at the Antelope at Saliabury, on his way to Honiton, on the ninth of May, 1784, and Mr. Wilson had dired there also on the sixth of Sept 1768.-What egregious asses!

The Great St. Leger Stakes of 25gs. each (49 subscribers) w run for . Monday at Doncaster, and won by Mr. T. O. Powlett's br. c. Jack Sp:ggott, bearing five others. Gustavus, the favourite, was behind a long way, and was not placed. Mr. Powlett, it is said, has won 30,0001. by the race.

DEATH OF BERGAMI.-A letter has been received in town from Milan, which contains the following paragraph, announcing the death of Bergami. "MILAN, Wednesday Morning, Sept. 5.
"We were all much astonished to hear of the Queen's death, but will you not likewise be surprised to hear that the femous Mr. Bergami is also dead. The Queen died on the 7th-be died on the 10th with a complaint in his bowels. I first heard it reported in this city, and had it confirmed on my visit to the Villa d'Este, on the Luke of Como. This is where the Queen lived, and it still belongs to be or at least to her exercises.

MISCELLANEOUS.

On Monday, the King held a Privy Council, at his Palace, in Pall On Monday, the King helds Privy Council, at his Paleee, in Pall Mall, at which were present, the Lord Chancellor, the Barls of Liverpool, Westmoreland, Harrowby, and Bathurst; Viscounts Sidmouth and Melville, Right Hon. N. Vansittart, Lords Stewart and Maryborough, the Duke of Wellington, and the Marquis of Londonderry. Parliament was prorogued from the 20th of September to the 20th of November. After the Council, Richard Birnie, Esq. was knighted, on being appointed Chief Magistrate of Police.

When the King arrived at Brecon, on his way to the metropolis, he was informed that four criminals had been condemned to death.

He immediately desired an interview with the Judges, (who were then holding the assizes,) which lasted for a considerable time, and the result of it was, His Majesty's most gracious respite of their

The King, it is understood, will travel, on the Continent, under the title of Earl of Dublin. His Majesty will stop for a day or two at the residence of the English Ambassador at Brussells, and thence proceed to Hanover

The King has ordered 201, to be given to the widow of Wm. Hall, a pilot, who lost his life by incautiously charging a swivel too high at Milford, while rejoicing on the arrival of His Majesty.

It was on the 31st of July that His Majesty left London, to embark at Portsmouth for Ireland. His visit has thus occupied a ace of forty-seven days, of which twenty-four were spent in trarelling by sea and land.

The King drove through the west end of the town on Friday, in very handsome private coach, with a green body, and only one outwar in a drab livery behind. Every arrangement is making for His Majesty's leaving town to-morrow, on a visit to his Hanoverian dominions.

The King, we understand, will embark to-morrow at Ramsgate for the Continent. A communication from the Earl of Liverpoo the Mayor of that town has been made to that effect. His Majesty wishes to avoid all public honours. The Cobham squadron of Yeo-manry were to be in readiness; the right troop at Gravesend at nine, and the left troop at Rochester at ten, in order to escort His Majesty to Canterbury, where he was expected to arrive last night. The

Marquis of Londonderry attends His Majesty to the Continent On Tuesday, the Duke of York held a Levee, as Commander in Chief, at his Office, in the Horse Guards.

Sir William Curtis, Bart. secompanied by Lieutenant Curtis, R.N. and Mr. Hall, arrived, on Friday, in his yacht, off the Isle of Wight.

MAJOR ANDRE.—A New York paper states, that the exhumation of Major André took place at Tappau, the 10th of August.

A heap of loose stones partly surrounded and covered the grave, which, on being removed, the labourers began to dig, and at the depth of three feet, the coffin was found; the lid was broken in the centre, and had partly fallen in; the skeleton of the brave André appeared entire, without a vestige of his other remains, except some tufts of hair, and the only part of his dress was the leather string that tied it. The remains were removed into a sarcophagus, made of mahogany, the pannels covered with rich crimson velvet, edged with gold, the inside lined with black velvet, the whole supported by four gilt balls. A small peach the was growing out of the grave, which gilt balls. A small peach tree was growing out of the grave, which is intended as a present for the King.

A meeting of Magistrates was held last week, at the Coffee House, Hammersmith, to inquire into the conduct of certain publicans, previous to granting them licences, when several of them were warned to be careful of their conduct in future.

Subscription to the Life Guands.—The following letter has been published, in reference to the subscription entered into, to testify the sense of the country towards the Life Guards, for their conduct during the late riots:—

"Hyde Park Barracks, 17th Sept. 1821.

"Berimental Fund assembled to "Six—The Committee of the Regimental Fund assembled this day, in consequence of an Advertisement in the New Times, respecting the appropriation of the sums subscribed for the Life Guards, when the following resolutions were unanimously agreed to:

"Resolved, That we feel the highest sense of the testimonial of public approbation contained in the resolutions of the Committee. and that we heg to return our thanks to the Gentlemen with whom the measure originated.

"That we have seen with pride and gratification the names of persons of high rank and of the greatest respectability in the list of subscribers, and that we duly appreciate these unequivocal marks of approbation bestowed on our conduct generally on duty.

"That with gratitude in our hearts, we accept the tribute of praise so kindly given, but since, by this day's advertisement, it appears to be intended that the measure should bear the character of a reward to the military generally for the bare performance of a duty, we beg leave respectfully to decline any participation in the subscription, as we conceive that as soldiers we are pledged to the correct and zealous discharge of our duty, under any circumstances, without looking to any other reward than the provision which his Majesty has been graciously pleased to make for us, and the approbation of our King and Country.

"The Committee have desired me to submit the foregoing Resolubation of our rang man described me to submit the foregoing resourfrom for your approval, which should they receive, they have further to request that you will be pleased to forward them to the Secretary of the Subscriptions.—I have the bonour to be, Sir, on behalf of the

WM. BISHOP, Q. M.

WM. BISHOP, Q. M. Committee, your most obedient servant, WM. BISHOP, Q. M.
"Treasurer to the Regimental Fund.

The Hon. Col. H. Lygon, Commanding Ist Life Guards, &c. &c."

THE ARMY .- Orders have been transmitted to New South Wales, where the 48th Regiment is stationed, to reduce that corps, at present 1000 strong, to the establishment of the rest of the Infantry. The 3d (or Buffs) have received orders of readiness for New South Wales, and are on their way to Chatham, whence, according as con-vict ships go out, they will be sent in detachments on board those

The officers and privates of the 88th Regiment have subscribed nearly 601, to the Fund for erecting a testimonial to commemorate His Majesty's visit to Ireland.

HOWARD AND GIBBS'S BANKETPTCY. - The second regular Meeting under the commission took place yesterday, when a number of elegantly dressed females attended to prove their debts.

Mr. Hitchens, a broker, claimed to prove for 4000l. the amount of four bills drawn by the Marquis of Worcester, and accepted by the bankrapts. The creditor proved for only two of these bills under the last commission, and Mr. Montague now objected to his proving for the other two without explanation. Mr. Hitchens said, at the time those bills were drawn, there were four similar ones over-due, and the Marquis was threatened with legal proceedings; to avoid which, these four bills were drawn and handed over to Mr. Hitchens, who advanced 4000l. on the bills, but could afterwards get only two of them discounted; the other two he had in his hands at the time of the bankruptcy, and proved for under the former commis-son. The two which bad been discounted by Mr. Ridgway, not being paid when they arrived at maturity, were last Wednesday returned to Mr. Hitchens, who paid Mr. Ridgway his 20001, back again.—The Commissioners desired the case should tand over to the next meeting. - Mr. Kent claimed to prove on four hills of exchange for 10001, each. The creditor was examined, and stated, that he paid the amount of these bills to Mr. Gibbs with a check on his banker, on the 6th of Oct. lest, without even deducting dis-count.—The Commissioners fixed the 13th of Oct. for choosing assignees - The meeting then adjourned.

SHIP NEWS.

SHIP NEWS.

Arrived Mails Due Arrived Mails Due 1 Dublin — Matta — Mat

again.
HULL, Sept. 20. Arrived the Fame, Scourby, from Greenland, 9 fish, 360 batts. The Jane and Cato, from Greenland, are nearly up.
FORTSMOUTH, Sept. 21. Arrived, the Riga, Forster, from Havannah.

Wind W. S. W.

PLYMOUTH, Sept. 20. Wind W. Sailed, the British Army, Stevens, for St. Johns, Naw Brunswick; Catharine, Peyton, for Belfast; Stanton, Harris 757 New Orleans; and Lapwing cutter, for Milford. Put back the Hope, Cárse, for Lisbon.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 20. The Susan and Mary, from Waterford, (on shore mear Mockbeggar) alled with water; about 30 tons of wheat have been discharged into lighters, and the vessel is kept free with both pumps. If the weather continues moderate she will be got off next tide.

APOLOGY

APOLOGY,

THE Author of "The Post Bag," who is versifying the PACKET of LETTERS found in DUBLIN, apologises for the Budge; not being epen to, the Public on Saturday as promised. Some of the Letters being written in fashlonable hands (such vile serawis!) much time was lost in deciphering them; however, he can now with condence assert, that it will be published on Thursday next, under the title of THE DUBLIN MAIL;
or, INTERCEPTED CORRESPONDENCE.

or, INTERCEPTED CORRESPONDENCE.

Just published, a New Edition, 8:0. price 4s. 6d. illustrated with a fine Engraving of a Diseased Breast, shewing the process of Cure,

OBSERVATIONS on the NATURE and CURE of GLANDULAR DISEASES, especially those denominated CANCER, and on the too frequent use of Mercury; strongly recommended to the serious consideration of every individual; with a detail of various cases in which Cancer has been completely removed without the use of the knife. And, in an Appendix, two Cases—1. Of Fissure of the Cranium—2. Of Preternatural Enlargement of the Heart.—By Sir CHAS. ALDIS, Surgeon and Accoucheur, Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, Member of the Medical and Philosophical Societies in London, Senior Surgeon of the New Finsbury Dispensary, Surgical and Medical Inspector to the National Union Life Association, late Surgeon for Prissners of War at the Depot, Norman-cress Barracks, &c.

Dispensary, Surgical and Medical Inspector to the National Union Life Association, late Surgeon fer Priseners of War at the Depot, Norman-cress Barracks, &c. "Egroto dum Anima est, Spes cat."—Cicero.

London: Printed for the Author, and sold by Callow, Princes-street, Soho: Underwood, 32, Fleet-street; Anderson, 40, West Smithfield; Highley and Son, 147, Fleet-street; John Richardson, Rayal Exchange; Tarlor and Hessey, 33, Elect-street; J. Asperne, 32, Carthill; R. Jennings, No. 2, Poultry; and by J. Taylor, Great Surrey-street, Blackfriars-road.

Poultry: and by J. Taylor, Great Surrey-street, Blackfriars-road.

J and J. SIVEWRIGHT again return their thanks for the great Patronage shown by the Public to their Contracts Just concluded, in which they had the good fortune to share and sell No. 4,121, £25,000; 2,053, £21,000; 1,446, £4,000; 9,182, £2,400; 19,733, of £2,400; 19,023, £2,100; and many of £400, £0: and in the former Lottery al: the Pities of £30,000! They made the Capitals in last Contract, Prizes of Consols, whereby they were able to increase them one-third in Number, and also to pay the fortunate holders a profit of 4 and 5 per cent. on them more than had been allowed to Government, a rise having Laken place to that extent which appearances happly enabled them to anticipate.

J. and J. SIVEWRIGHT recommend the merits of the present Scheme containing Three Prizes of £3,000 and For Prizes of £5,000 and 6,711 other Prizes all Money—not two Blanks to a Prize, to commence Drawing 30th OCTOBER, Tickets and Shares for which are selling at their Old Offices, 37, Cornbill, 11, Holborn, 38, Haymarket, and by their Accents.

£80,000 MONEY FOR FIRST PRIZE1 30th of NEXT MONTH, (OCTOBER.)

BISH respectfully seminds his bast Friends, the Public, that BISH respectfully seminds his bust Friends, the Public, that the State Lettery commences NEXT MONTH, and that the very first Prize drawn will receive £30,000 Money over and above whatever other Prize it will be emittled to. The Scheme contains Three Prizes of £30,000, and 6,711 other Prizes, all Sterling Money, and not Two Blanks to a Prize. There are neither Stock Prizes nor Classes, as every Ticket decides its own fate and mo other. Tickets sind Shares are selling at BISH'S Offices, 4, Obrahill, and 3, Charing Cross, London; and by his Agents in the Country.

fate and mo other. Tickets and Shares are selling at BISH'S Offices, 4. Chrahfil, and 9. Charing Cross, London; and by his Agents in the Country.

Whenever £30,000 Prizes have formed part of the Scheme, BISH'S Offices have been (if possible) more lucky than usual, as he has sold more than one-half of all the Thirty Thousands that have ever been!!! And in the very last Lettery he hold one £21,000, one £20,000, one £16,000, and Sixteen smaller Capitals.

BY The Prices of Stocks are affixed, hourly, against BISH'S Office, in Cornhill, by which the Public can see the fluctuations.

ALL MONEY!!!—Not Two Blanks to n Prize.—Three of £30,000!!!—Thirty other Capitals of £5,000, &c.—CARROLL, the Contractor, begs fleave to express the great pleasure he fee's in the universal apprebation bestowed on the present Money Scheme. The Drawing begins 30th of NEXT MONTH (OCTOBER,)—CARROLL trusts he shall bionoured with his usual portion of the public favour at his truly fortunate Offices, No. 18, Cornhill, and 29, Oxford-direct; where he sold the last £30,000 Prize ever draws, besides mismy other Capitals in the last and preceding Lotteries, including No. 46, Prize of £21,000!!!

All Business in the Public Funds carefully transacted.

DIAL WEIGHLING MACHINES.

DIAL WEIGHLING MACHINES.

MARRIOTT having obtained His Majesty's Royal Letters Patent, for an isvaluable improvement in WEIGHING MACHINES, begs eave to recommend them to the Public, as the most perfect and useful article for that purpose ever constructed; for accuracy, simplicity, Expedition, and portability, it stands unrivalled, be it instantaneously shows the exact weight of may article, from One Ounce to a Toa, without the use of Weights, thereby saving time and labour. Being perfectly portal le, it may he used in any situation—its universal utility must therefore be to the minable for Domestic purposes; in Shops, Warehousen, Conch Offices, Market Houses, Barns, on Wharfa, at Races and Fairs, for Ca'tle, Corn, Hay, &c. or for loading heavy Articles; it may be attached to the chain of a Crane, and shew the weight at the time of craning; it is also peculiarly well adapted for the Foreign Markets. From its extreme situaticity, it is exarcely possible to be hiscentate; yet if it ever should be so, twere is an adjusting Borew, which will momentally correct it.

H. MARRIOTT having also made considerable improvements in his PATENT KITCHEN COOKING APPARATUS, feels a confidence in recommending it to the Public, as a most complete Article for Roasting Baking, Rolling, and Steaming, with economy in fiel, by one mederate-sized Fire, and with a constant supply of from Twelve to Twenty Gallons at Hot Water; also Warm Closets for airing Linen, keeping Dinner hot, heating Plates, Dishes, &c.; the Cooking Utensils are never boiled, and it is a positive Core for a Smokey Chinney. Kitchens fitted up with Steam Apparatus, embracing oil the late improvements: also Baths, Conservatories, Halls, Staircases, and Buildings, heated by Steam, upon a principle of perfect security, and equal diffusion of heat—An improved Patent Spring Rossting Jack, to obviate the necessity of weights or pollies.—The whole may be seen daily in use at the Patentee's Manufactory, 4f, Freet-street, London; or had of most of the respectable Ironomogners throughout Brg-land, N. E. S

PATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP.—The Chamber Lamp, increasing in interest as the days shorten, the Patentee is induced to present this to the Public as a source of com ort superior to any in this cennery, or perhaps the world. It embraces brilliancy, perfect safety, and certainty for any length of time required, will bear any motion, can be regulated to burn the longest or shortest night, disappearing in the morning without smoke or smell. The same principle applies, and the Lamps equally notable, on elegant pedeatals, for the dising table, sideboard, study, annalogical, &c.; and also for the Glass Grecian Hanging Lamp for the hall, conservatory, passages, staircase, drawing-room listres, &c. elegantly simple add hand and indiced. It is a most essential acquisition in all these Lamps, that they will burn the whole evening without twisming, requiring to be repleplashed with cotton only once in two or three months, and bo simple that a child han turn them. The annual expense of light burning brery night in they year, proportionate with candles, is, for the chamber as above described, los.; for the kitchen, equal to a canadoscipt to the periad shows described, los.; for the kitchen, equal to a canadoscipt to the periad sixes, 45s. Thus the degrees of light, more or less, can be regulated at pleasure sulled to the o-casion. By this statement Gentlemen may ascertain a pleasure and co. No. 288, facing the front of St. Clement's Church, Strand: who, to secure the reputation of this invention from the effects of adulterated edi, are bound to sell more but pure and genuine Spermaceti. Letters addressed, post paid, from any part of the Hingdom, will meet with prompt attention. PATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP .- The

ESTABLISHED UPWARDS OF TWENTY YEARS.
For the SALE of IRISH LINEN by the PIECE,
At the Factor's Price, No. 4, on the South Side of Bloomsbury square four doors from the top of Southampton-street, Holborn,
THE IRISH LINEN COMPANY beg leave to announce to the Public, that the above House is their only Establishment in the Country; where they continue to supply the Nobility, Gentry, and the Public with WARRANTED GRASS-BLEACHED LINEN.
For Shirts and Cheets, of the best fabric and colour, at a price considerably lower than they can be procured through any other medium.
They also engage to return the Purchase-money should any fault appear.
Good Irish Bills and Bank of Ireland Notes taken as usual.
Country and Town orders punctually attended to by

Country and Town orders punctually attended to by JOHN DONOVAN, 4, Bloomsbury-square, London,
JOHN DOYLE, 31, St. Mary's Alibey, Dublin,

Agents.

JOHN DOYLE, 31, St. Mary's Alibey, Dublin,

FRENCH PERFUMERY.—JEAN DEVEREAUX'S ESPRIT

DE LAVANDE AUX MILLEFLEURS, possesses all the balmy fragrance of the freshest flowers; its aromatic, cephadic, and nervine virtues, are instantly diffused through the most spacious apartments, while the fragrance o' its scent revives every person around.—Sold in bottles, price 2s. 6d. and 5s. at the Depot for French Perfumery, 28, Lombard-street,
London; where is to be had JEAN DEVEREAUX'S MONTPELLIER SOAP for rendering the complexion delicately smooth, clear, and even; imparting a vivifying grateful perfume, and giving to the skin a most elicious feel and luxurious brilliancy. Price 2s. 6d. per packet.—Sold retail at 68, Cornhill; No. 9, Regent-street, Pall Mall; 129, Oxford-street; 59, St.
James's street; 22, Hatton Garden, and wholesale by Price and Gosnell.
Perfumers to Mis Majesty.

E'A gratuitous sample (on a handkerchief) of Jean Dovereaux's celebrated Esprit de Lavande aux Millefleurs, will be prevented to any Lady or Gentleman, which will prove its pleasing and re'reshing properties, by applying t- any of his Agents, or at his Depet, No. 28, Lombard-street, London.

PRICE and GOSNELL'S MACASSAR OIL, putronised by His PRICE and GOSNELL'S MACASSAR OIL, patronised by His Majesty and the Royal Family, gives atrength and a beautiful glossy appearance to the Hair; imparts to it the most delightful perfume, and prevents its falling off or turning grey to extreme oid age. Hair dressed with this celebrated Oil soon becomes soft, curly, tright, and luxuriant in its growth; and hair that has been injured, made harsh, and turning grey, will be restored, by a few applications, to its natural colour, brilliance, and beauty.—Sold by the sole Proprietors, and only Importers, PRICES and GOSNELL, Perfumerato.His Majesty, No. 12, Three Kings-court, Lombard-street, London, in botthes at 3s. 6d.; 10s. 6d.; and 21s. each, bearing their signature on the label in red ink.

CAUTION:—Messrs. PRICE and GOSNELL beg to caution the Nobility and Gentry against a spurious Macassar Oil, injurious to the hair, imposed upon the public by hair-dressers (falsely stviling themselves importers) who are equally incompetent to ascertain the danger of what they ex'ol, as they are ted discover what might be useful.—Ask for Price and Gosnell's Macassar Oil.

BURGESS's NEW SAUCE for general purposes, having given such great approbation, and the demand for it continuing to increase, JOHN BURGESS and SON beg most respectfully to offer this their best acknowledgments to the Public for their liberal patronage of the same; its utility and great convenience in all climates, has recommended it to the most cistinguished foreign connexions, who have all spoken highly in its recommendation.—It is prepared by them ONLY; and for proventing disappointments to families, all-possible care has been resorted to, by each bottle heing sealed upon the cork with their firm and address, as well as each label having their signature, without which it cannot be genatine.

JOHN BURGESS and SON'S long established and much-esteemed ESSENES of ANCHOVIES, continues to be prepared by them after the same manner that has given the greatest satisfaction for many years.—Warehouse, '90f'. Strand, corner of the Savoy-steps, Lendon.—The original Fish-Sauce Warehouse.

The DUKE of YORK and LORD ERSKINE

The DUKE of YORK and LORD ERSKINE.

THE above Prince has often remarked that his Lord-hip looks like Lord Erskine himself when he wears his own Hair. His Lordship has used the RUSSIA OIL upwards of Twelve Years, which has always yreserved his Hair; but Ladies and Gentlemen ought to he as particular as Lord Erskine, in having it from the Proprietor, or from a respectable Vender, then they will be sure to have it genaine.

Thousands of Ladies and Gentlemen have a good Head of Hair by using Prince's celebrated Russia Oil. But some Ladies being persuaded to use other Oils, they soon found the difference, as their Hair began to fall off, or getting grey. In short, Prince's celebrated Russia Oil is the hest Oil for dressing, preserving, and promoting the growth, of Hair, and if used constantly, not a Hair will fall off or turn grey; clears the Sentf, and keeps the Head and Hair clean, and by using it regularly for a few months, will-restore the Hair on the bald part, if the least signs of roots are remaining, which has been proved by hundreds.

Ask for Prince's Russia Oil, at 4a, the small buttle; or a bottle, containing the quantity of nearly five small ones, at 11a, which is a great saving; and observe "Prince" on the wrapper and seals of each bottle; without, it is not genuine, and cannot answer the purpose.

Sold wholescale, retail, and for exportation, by the sole Proprietor, A. Prince, [15] removed to No. 3, Poland-street, Oxford-street, near the Pantheon; and by Mr. Smyth, Perfumer to his Majesty, New Bond-street; and by most principal Perfumers and Medicine Venders.

Proved by Affadati, vefore the Lord Mavor of London, that A. Prince is the original Proprietor of the Russia Oil; therefore if any Perfumer, Medicine-vender, Hair-dresser, or any one else, sells Russia Oil, that is not Prince's, they are Imposters, as at they sell-counterfeits to their customers, and cannot answer the purpose.

By Ladies and Gentlemen will be particular, as there are unprincipled persons is town and country who sell-counterfeits

THE only Article that REALLY PREVENTS the HAIR PALLING OFF, or TURNING GREY, produces a luxuriant Growth on the haldest places, and beautiful flowing Carle, is

ROWLAND'S MACASSAR OIL,

The Original and Genuine, which for many years has been universally admired, and is acknowledged the best and cheepest article for producing a beautiful Head of Hair, and produces WHISKERS, EYE. BROWS, &c. Its pre-eminent virtues have gained it the patronage of Royalty and the Noblity, and is attested by an immenhe multitude of witnesses. Price 3s. 6d.; 7s.; 19s. 8d.; and One Guinea per Bottle.

Also: ROWS. ANDEY ERSENCE OF TYPE R. By merely wetting the Hair.

As. 104. 8d.; and One Guinea per Bottle.

Also, ROWLAND'S ESSENCE OF TYRE.—By merely wetting the Hair with this Preparation, the Proprietors warrant to produce immediately a perfect change in RED or GREY HAIR, WHISKEIKS, EYE-BROWS, &c., to a beautiful glossy and permanent Brown or Biack, imitating the exact natural colour. Wassing makes this Dye the more durable. Ladies or Gentlemen may dye their Hair with ease and secresy. Price 4s.; 7s. 6d.; and los 6d.

Sold, Wholeslae, Betail, and for Exportation, by the Sole Proprietors, A. ROWLAND and SON, corner of Kirby-street, the first turning on the right in Thatton-garden, Holborn, Lombon; and by appointment, by all Perfumers and Medicine Venders throughout Europe.

A. ROWLAND and SON respectfully caution the Public against spurious Articles. Under their Names Impostors have signed their limitations, A. Rowlandsan, which deception renders it necessary to observe the trae signature, A. ROWLAND and SON, in Red ink, wreste on each Bottle.

THE EXTRAORDINARY REDUCTION in the Prices THE EXTRAORDINARY REDUCTION in the Prices, and the great improvement in the Designs of the best TOWN PRINTED CHINTZ FURNITURES, MOREENS, MERINO DAMASES, &c. &c. can only be credited by inspecting a NEW STOCK, at the New Chintz Furniture and Moreon Warehouse, No. 134, X ord-street, (nearly opposite Hanover-square.) Families have an opportunity of seeing an immense Assortment, which the Proprietors (MILES and EDWARDS, from the Corner of Great Turnstile, Holborn.) have just completed, and which they are selling full ane-third lower. than Goods of the above description, manufactured last year, can possibly be afforded at.—N.B. The greatest Assortment in London of the much admired French Striper, n every shade of colouring.

OR THE TEETH .- A DENTIPRICE, which, althour has not the absurd pretensions of "gonerating cuantill," or "converting the gums to coral," will be found to possess every requisite that cas reachly be expected.—Also a "INCTURE that is warranted to affect relief all cases, and in most will permanently remove the TOOTH ACHE. The articles are perfectly innocent in their composition, and pleasant in the application, being the result of many years actual practice—Preparation J. GRAY, Surgeon and Dentist, No. 25, Old Burlington-street, London Price 28, 20, 486 da. 4, each bottle of "Incture, and 28, each box of Dentists, May alsay-leads of Mr., Johnston, 63, Cornkill; Mr. Samder, 26, 81, January, attreet, Brighton; at Mr. William's Library, Cheitenhame, and of Mrs. Call, Milsom-street, Bath, &c. &c. &c.

THY THE KINGS PATENT.

CHANGE of RESIDENCE induces the Patente to acquaint to Nobility and Gentry, that in consequence of the counterfeits under the same name, he has confined the same to such respectable houses (only was deal in genuine articles. The PATENT VIOLET SOAP having a decided price to the same and a sharing soap, for its cleasting, beautiful softening, and balsamic properties on the skin, that it was in consequent share inestimable qualities his Majesty granted his Legitere Patent. It is invariably he asked for as "dail's Patent Violet Soap." It is solving at 22.6d. and 1s.6d. and in boxes centaining twelve squares, at 25s. or twelve small, at 15s.; the shaving cakes, at 28.6d. each, or in boxes, at 25s. or twelve small, at 15s.; the shaving cakes, at 28.6d. each, or in boxes, at 6.6d. who are re-filled, at 28.6d. and it is forwarded to all parts of town or county wastranted to arrive safe, by addressing a line Lypost to the Patente. On the same and signature is on the satisfied of the wrapper. J. A. HALNO. 28, Madlow-street, Burton Crescent, London.

LONDON MARKETS.

The very considerable advance which took place in What he week occasioned an exceedingly large supply for Monday's narke, and most of the consumers being in stock, and declining purchasing, a very small proportion was then sold. Since Monday also then have been a further large arrival because the trade is almost in a step. has been a further large arrival, hence the trade is almost in a state of stagnation, and the few sales made this morning were at a decise of from 6s. 10 6s, per quarter since Monday. Barley is full 4s, per quarter lower, and Beans quite as much; Pease also must be noted from 2s. to 3s. per quarter cheaper. The Oat trade parales noted from 2s, to 3s, per quarter encaper. And of the general duliness, and is full 2s, per quarier lower. In other duliness, and is full 2s, per quarier lower.

KE	URN PRICE of GR.	LIN, on board thip, as neder the
Rasox Red Wh	neat (new)485. 558	Maple White ditto
Fine		White ditto
Old	 . 7(b) s	Railere
Essex White (	Dew ) 60s.	Small Beaus, and annual and
Fine		Old
Superfine	73s. 75s.	Old
Old		Old
Rye		Fine.
Barley		Fine.
Fine		l Poland ditto
Superfine		Pina (#A)
Malt		Potatoe ditto.
Fine		1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1
Hog Pease		A PARTY OF
	PRICES OF GOI	D AND SILVER.
	£ s. d.	1

Portugal Gold, in Coin 0 0	0 p. 0z.	New Dollars
Foreign Gold in Bars 3 17 New Doubleons 0 0	0	Silver in Barn Star New Louis, each
COURSE OF	RXCHAN	GE-PRIDAY, Se	المدار و
Amsterdam 12	16 C.F.	Trieste	-
Dittoat Sight 12	13	Trieste35	Carlo
Rotterdam 12	17	Bilboa 353	Barcelona
Antwerp 12		Seville35	Gibraltar
Hamburgh 38	Ī	Leghorn47	Genoa
Altona 38		Venice 27 60
Paris, 3 days Sight 25	70	Naples 330}	Palermo
Ditto 28		Lishen50	Oporto
Bordraux 26	_	Rio Janeiro
Frankfort on Main 157		Bahia	1679
Petersburg		Dublin
Vienna 10 02	F 11-	Conte	2 7 / 7

COMMERCIAL REPORT. FROM SEPTEMBER 17, TO SEPTEMBER 22, INCLUSIVE

The halders of most descriptions of produce continue fraible which has occasioned a depreciation of value.—Coffee from 5s. to 6s. lower; for the Ordinary to Good Ordinary, Jamaicas, and all other descriptions, from 2s. to 4s. per cwt. Yesterday Havannals went at 103s. for Good Ordinary, to 107s. for Fine Ordinary; a further and considerable decline is expected.—The demand for Tellow has subsided, and 45s. is the only price for Yellow Candle.-East India Rice is drooping; 10,000 bags are declared for sale next week .- Declarations are out for 16,337 bales of India Cotton on the 9th proximo, viz. 1167 Bengals, 4039 Surats, 517 Madres, and 110 Bourbons, in the face of which the market is very firm, though the transactions are limited to 300. Bengals 51 to 61, 250 Surats 62 to 8, 36. Madras 7 to 74, 150 Boweds 94, and 80 Pennams 12, all is bond.—In Liverpool sales of Cotton have been about 12,000 bales, prices somewhat better.—3000 chests of Indigo will be on sale on the 2.1 proximo; this article wears an imporing aspect.—Plantation Sugars, the low qualities from 52s. to 54s. an still in a great measure unsaleable, whilst a board of very fine Jamaicas is scarcely to be met with, the value of which is quincapricious, it might command 76 or even 77 per cwt. A a design

On 19th inst. in Albemarke-street, the Lady of John Round, En Stil born.
Tuesday, in Upper Brook-street, Lady Elizabeth Steele, of sa

MARRIAGRS.

On the 15th inst. a: Eling Cottage, Hants, the seat of Sammel Blad William Stewart, Esq. of the Royal Artillery, to Mary, and Sammel Blad William Stewart, Esq. of the Royal Artillery, to Mary, and Sammel Blad William Stewart, Esq. of Barrington Ha I, Cambridgeshire.

On Thursday last, Derby, Captain Batty, of the First or Grand of Guards, to Johanna Maria, eldest daughter of Joha Barrington tary to the Admiralty.

At Broadwater Church, Sussex, on Saturday se anight, Sir Thought of Rufford-Hall, in the county of Lancaster, Bart, to Miss Lobins 1 On Saturday se might, at Knareshorough, Lieut-Colonet Discounty of Coldstream Grards, to Emma, eldest daughter of Thomas Demonstrates.

DIED.
On the 8th inst. at Odell Castle, Bedfordshire, Isabella, Constant of I the 85th year of her age. On the 17th inst. Mary Ann, the wife of Charles March, Es. Walls

On the 17th inst. Mary Ann, the wife of Charles March, So. 3 of Street, Piccadilly.
On the 14th inst. at Reigate, Surrey, Mrs. Jean Paterson, Mrs. Jean Paterson, Esq. of East Sheen.
At Versailles, on the 9th inst. in the 69th year of his are a charles of the street of the street of hours' illness, Joan Peter Addenbrooke, Esq. formerly Major the hours' illness, Joan Peter Addenbrooke, Esq. formerly Major the Company of the Street of Major the Company of the Street of Major General Sir Hussey Vivian.

PRICES	of the	PUBLI			3.0
STOCKS.	Mon.	Tues.	Wed.	Thee,	172	e . `
Benk Steck		- '	_	* العراب	7
3 per Cent. Reduced		- '		-	nonth	4
8 per Cent. Consols		711	140	764.	1 1	74
3) per Cent Consols			l — ` ,		Ι.,	.=
Consols for Account	757	761	761	75	#	٠.
4 per Cent. Consols					2.4
5 per Cent. Navy		1094	1003	109		, 140
Bank Long Annuities		_ `	l i		1 × 1
India Bonds		63 p	68 P	64 2	ľ
Exchequer Bills, 2d	3 p	2 p	3 p	3 5	ו" ו	. 1
Ditto, 2 td	-		-		1 3	-
	•

LONLON: Printed and Published by R. T. WEAVER, et No. 11, JOHNSON'S COURT, FLEET-STREET, only Communications to the Editor, (west paid) are $40

1 1 1 mil to 1

FOR GOD, THE KING, AND THE PEOPLE!"

No. 42.

SUNDAY, SEPTE BER 30, 1821.

Price 7tt.

on the favourite Air, "Ceaa e your Passing," adapted for two performers on the flapo Forte, by D. Bruntier, price 3s.—Perry's Grand Coronation flarch, composed and arranged as a Duet for the Finno Forte, price 3s.—Perry's Grand Coronation flarch, composed and arranged as a Duet for the Finno Forte, price 3s.—The popular Air, "Sal Margine dua Rio," an Italian Air, with Variations as a Duet for two performers on the Piano Forte, by L. Bruguier, price 3s.—The popular Air, "Sal Margine dua Rio," an Italian Air, with Variations as a Duet for two performers on the Piano Forte, by L. Goodban, price 3s. 6d.—Beleidieu's Inventive Overture, "Du Calife de Bagdad," arranged as a Duet for two performers on the Piano Forte, by T. Goodban, price 4s.—The above Duets are particularly recommended to the hoties of the Murket Weeld, being darranged by the first, Masters of the present signs—London: Published, by Rathew and Co. Munic Sellers to Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Kent, 27, Old Bendestreet, where may be had, Hart's Feweth Set of Quadrilles, instuding "George the Fourth," Coronation Walte, So. 4s.

The Tano Forte and Flute, by J. F. BURROWAS; in 19 Numbers, price 4s, each.

This Work contains the most favourite Airs from the celebrated Operas of Tripon Glovans.—I a Number 2 Person of Tripon G SW MUSIC. - KIALD, WARK'S universally-advanced Variati for the Piano Forte and Flute, by J. F. BURROWIE; in 19 Numbers, whee 4s, each.

This Work contains the most favourite Airs from the celebrated Operas of T. Don Glovanal—Le Nosse di Figaro—Zauberfute, or Il Flauto Bragico—febrares—(sei fan twite—and La Clemeaza di Tito.

Of the Works of the divine Morart, it may justly be said, that " it ways the high to praise, and vain to blame them:" their merits are now so well appreciated by all the lovers of classic excellence and purity of composition, and so bing have these Operas in particular been the admiration of the world, that such an adaptation as the present, it is presumed, cannot fail to prove a most interesting and desirable acquisition to the Libraries of all the favoure ovoluties of Apollo. The subjects are carefully arranged from the original Sectors, and the character of each place is faithfully preserved.

Int. It is desirable to place before students the works of the best masters.

Those are adapted for young performers, and will improve be tashs whilst flow about a present a VACANCY. Terms 162 Guineas per annum. The most satisfied by resent a VACANCY. Terms 162 Guineas per annum. The most satisfied by resent a VACANCY. Terms 162 Guineas per annum. The most satisfied by resent a VACANCY. Terms 162 Guineas per annum. The most satisfied by resent a VACANCY. Terms 162 Guineas per annum. The most satisfied by resent a VACANCY. Terms 162 Guineas per annum. The most satisfied by reserved and the content of the Works. Provided the Part of the ROYAL INSTITUTION, SEPT 1821.

MONSTRATIONS in PRACTICAL and THEORETICAL CHEMISTRY, in the Laboratory of this institution, on TUESDAY, the 9th of 6GT0BER, at Nine in the Morning precisely. A Prospectus may be obtained at the last Rution, 21, Albemarie-street.

THOMAS HARRISON, Sec.

VETERANARY COLLEGE.

ANATONY, PHYSIOLOGY, and PATHOLOGY of the HORBE, but MONDAY, the 12th of November, at 12 o'clock.

D. R. CLUTTERBUCK will began his AUTUMN COURSE of LECTURES on the THEORY and PRACTICE of PHYSIC, MATERIA MEDICA, and CHEMISTRY, but MONDAY, Oct. 1st, at Tentick in the Morning, at the General Dispensary, Adersgate-street; where further particulars may be had.

M. G. GUTHRIE will commence his LECTURES on the PRINCIPLES and PRACTICE of SURGERY, on MONDAY, the lab of clocks at Six in the Evening. In the Waiting Bases of the Parinciples and PRACTICE of SURGERY, on MONDAY, the lab of clocks at Six in the Evening. In the Waiting Bases of the Parinciples and the Research.

MR.—GUTHRIE will commence his LECTURES on the PRINCIPLES and PRACTICE of SURGERY, on MONDAY, the Let of October, at Six is the Evening, in the Waiting Room of the Royal Sestimater Indraway for Diseases of the Eye, 7. Maryle-Bone street, Incardity—Merical Officers of the Navy, the Army, and the Ordinance will be individually in Merical Officers of the Navy, the Army, and the Ordinance will be individually in Merical Officers of the Navy, the Army, and the Ordinance will be individually in the Indianace will be indianace, and the Ordinance will be indianace, and in the Indianace will be indianace. Berkeley-snave, between the hours of half-past two and four.

GERMAN GRAMMAR.

By the Rev. FRED. NOLAN;

A GERMAN GRAMMAR. By the Rev. FRED. NOLAN;

Price 2s. 6d. Where may be had, by the same Author, the Latin, Greek, Hebrew, Chaldee, Syriack, French, Italian, and Spanish Graumara, 2s. 6d. cash: forwing a POLYOLOTT GRAMMAR, in which the Genius of the incident and Modern Languages is explained upon an ani erruptent of the latest and most approved Grammarians.

TREATISE on the VIRTUES OF A CRUST OF BREAD.

TREATISE on the VIRTUES and EFFICACY of a CRUST.

Of BREAD, est early in a morning fasting; to which are added, some

A TREATISE on the VIRTUES and EFFICACY of a CRUSTof BREAD, est early in a moraing fasting; to which are added, some particular Remarks concerning Cures accomplished by the Saliva, or fasting Spittle, as well when externally applied, as when internally given, in the Sodry, Gravel, Stone, Rheumatism, and divers other Discases arising from Obstructions—By a PHYSICIAN. The Seventh Edition.—Sold by Burgess and Hill, Medical and General Booksellers, 55, Great Windmill-street.

Ar. JOHN SCOTTS POSTHUMOUS WORK.
JIST PROTNESS of MANNERS, SCENERY, &c. in the FRENCH
PROTNESS; with an Essay on French Literature.—By the late JOHN SCOTT, Esq. Author of the "Visit to Paris," &c.
Pelnted for Longman, Hurst, Recs, Orme, and Brown, London; of whom may, be ladd by the same Author.

Printed for Longman, flurst, Hers, Orne, and Brown, London; of whom any be had, by the same Author,

A VISIT to PARIS, in 1818, 4th Edit. 8vo. 12s. boards.

PARIS REVISITED in 1815, 3d Edit. 8vo. 12s. boards.

PARIS REVISITED in 1815, 3d Edit. 8vo. 12s. boards.

PR. WHITAKER'S HISTORY of VORKSHIRE.

Just published, Part 5, in folio, on time demy paper, 2i. 2s. and on saper-time drawing-paper with Indian paper proof impressions of the plates, but in the plates, but

NEW NOVEL.

Jeff patiented, dedicated (by permission) to Mrs. Joanna Baillie, price 21s.

Boards, the Second Edition of

THE FAVOURITE of NATURE. A Novel. In three Volumes, 12me.

The first well-written Novel, in which feinale character, and au intimate the strength of the human heart, are ably pourtrayed. The vices of the rice would give a rewell sketched, and the fate of their youthful victim, Eliza Rivers, trouble as must deeply affect the sensitive mind. — Monthly Mag. April, 1882.

Printed for G. and W. B. Whittaker, Ave Haria-lane; of whom may be intely published.

$ UCH 18 THE WORLD, a Novel; in 2 vols. 12mo. price 21s.

$ ECHHEL, or, The Field of Cuiloden: in 3 vols. price 21s.

$ A LEUBND of ARGYLE; or, The a Hundred Years Since: a Novel.

3. WINTER EVENING TALES, collected among the Cottages in the Schild of Scotland. By James Hogg, Author of "The Queen's Wake,"

2.c. 1 Second Edition, in 2 vols. 12mo. price 14s. boards.

Just published, price 8s. Vol. IV. Part III. of PARTICLOPEDIA EDINENSIS; or, Dictionary of Arts,

Sectionary, and Miscellaneous Librature. To be completed in 6 volumes, storiand illustrated with not fewer than 188 Engravings. By JAMES MILLAB, M.D. Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians, Lecturer on Matural History and Chemistry, and Editor of the Fourth Edition of the Short Stephardia Britannica, &c.

Event Site system of arrangement and condensation pursued by the Editor and This associates, this work will be found to centain as much useful information as in to be found in any of its more voluminous centemporaries; and It attainable at a comparatively moderate expense, rendered still mare carry by the mode of publication.

To be had in Parts, price 8s. or, in Half Volumes, price 38s. each, boards, and that purtion of the Work already anished may be delivered monthly or carterly, to sult the convenience of Subscribers.

Printed for P. Hill and Co. Edinburgh; and G. and W. B. Whittaker, and PLACIOWOODS EDINBURGE SACAZINE, No. LV. for CONVENCE:—I. The New Fuses Regioner, Mill.

Convence:—I. The New Fuses Ranger—II. Propositive Letter conventing Poets —III. Notices of old English Connection. No. I. Eastward, the twinty.—Advanture-insite North-West Testitory—V. Sufsecond Traditional Poetry—VI. Expedition against the Firsters of the Gudyle of Parella, 1900/20—VII. The things of an advance of the Gudyle of Parella, 1900/20—VII. The things of the Analysis of Parella, 1900/20—VII. The things of the Analysis, 1900/20—VII. The things of the Firster, 1900. The English The Bruken Heart—X. On Predderg's Demander—XI. Why first Poets indifferent Critices—XII. General Majory Paritz.—XV. Mortis, 1900 for the Deckriner of Necessity and Pref estimate.—XII. A Mother's Biggs over her Child—XIV. Morella of Majory Paritz.—XVI. Mother's Biggs over her Child—XIV. Morella of Majory Paritz.—XVI. The State of Capital Corder, a West Menthlim Tales—XVII. Vamiliar Enjettes to Christopher North, from an Old Phased with a New Fare, Letter 2—On Anastesius, by —— Lord Dyron—XVIII. The Vegages-and Travels of Columbias Secundar, Chap. Plandil —XII. Dr. Beroit s Return from Parity III.—XX. Expectalistion with Mr. Barker—XXIV. Rainfilar Epistes to Christopher North, from an Old Primad-with a New Fare. Letter 3. On the Personalities of the Whige and the Older and the Analysis. Analysis. Analysis. Advanced with a New Fare. Letter 3. On the Personalities of the Whige and the Older and the Analysis. Analysis. Advanced Section—XXV. Monthly Register, &c.

Printed for T. Caled and W. Davies, Strand, London; and W. Blackwood No. 17, Prince of Capital Major.—XVII. Southly Register, &c.

Printed for T. Caled and W. Davies, Strand, London; and W. Blackwood No. 17, Prince of the Capital Capi

NEW WORKS PUBLISHED BY 1915. WARREN OLD BOND-TAKE II.

NOTES relating to the MANNESS and CUSTOMS of the COMM TARTIMS. Written during & Four Years Theilenen among that People. By Mink V-HOLDEHNESS. In 12mo. with coloured plates, price in. dl.

2. The CELTS PERABLES. IN Four Deeps. STICON BANKI; in-price in del.

2. The CELT'S FERABISE, in Four Deagn. By 100 N. BANSM; in foolscap by 0.50. 6d.—Also by the same Author.

3. DANON and PYTHIAS, a Tracedy, is Rice Acis, as performed at the Theoree Royal, Consent Garden. Henrie 3.4. 6d.

4. OLDVER CRONWELL and 4119 TEMBER. By THOS. CROSSWELL. With a Forgat, from an Original Miniting its the Authoria-possession. A granulle of Cromwell's Signature and Scaffer the Warrant for Belicating. Charles 1. Original Memoirs of his Peacements; in the warrant for Belicating.

same Author;

6. The HARP of the DESERT, containing the Buttle of Algiers, &c.

6. The HARP of the DESSERV, commoney were received in species 6.6d.
7. TAKINGS; or the LIFE of a COLLEGIAN. A Form. Historized by Twentr-six Etchings, from Designs, Cy R. DAGLEY, Author of Select Genw from the Antique, a Conseptation of the Theory and Practice of Drivates, and Paterine, Sec. in moral sec., with the Plates price 21s.
8. TAILLE-TALK; or; Original Essaya, By, Wilshald: HAKEITTS. Contents:—On the Pleasure of Painting, on the Past and Paterine. On Geniss and Common Sense—Character of Collett—On Pople with One-Bela—On the Ignorance of the Lawrent—The Indian Jurylers—On Living to one a Self—On Thought and Action—On Will-making-on costain Inconsistencies in Sir Joshua Reynolds Discourace—the Paradox and Common slatencies in Sir Joshua Reynolds Discourace—the Paradox and Common space—On Vilgasity and Affection. In Sco. price 14s. bearin.—Also, by the same Author.

place—On Vulgadity and Affection. In 8vo, price 14s. beards.—Also, by thesame Author.

9. LEOTURES on the Dermatic Literature of the Age of Birmbeth.
Second Edition. In 8vo, 12s.

10. A VIEW of the ENGLISH STAGET, w., a Series, of Bramatic Crifictions, 8vo, 12s.

11. PARIS in 1815. Second Part. With other Poeurs. By the Rev.

G. CROLLY, A.M. in 8vo, 5s. 6d.—Also by the seame lauther,

12. The ANGEL of the WORLID, an arrhips Tale; belowsion, a Spanish.
Tale; with other Poeurs, 8vo. 8s. 6d.

12. PARIS in 1815. A Poeur. Second Edition, 8vo. 5s. 6d.

14. LINES on the Death of the Princess Charliste, 8vo. 2s. 6d.

15. POEMS. By THOMAS GENT. In semison, 8vs. 8s-beards.

16. JERUSALEM DELIVERED, Book the Poursis, From the Italian, of Tasso. Bring the Specimen of an Intended new Translation in English Spencerian Verse. Dedicated, by permission, to her Grace the Duchessof, Belford. By J.H. WIFFEN.—Also, by the same Author.

17. JULIA ALPINULA, with the Captive of Stamboul, and other Poeurs, 12m. 7s. 6d.

18. AONIAN HOURS, and other Poeurs.

18. AONIAN HOURS, and other Poeurs.

18. AONIAN HOURS, and other Poeurs.

17. JULIA ALPINULA, with the Captive of Stamboul, and other Posma, 12m. 7s. 5d.
18. AONIAN HOURS, and other Posma. Acond Edition, 8vo. 7s. 5d.
19. JOURNAL of a RESHDENCE in the R. CAMMAN EMPIRE, and more particularly at the Court of Amaragement. By Capt. HIRAM COX, of the Hon. East india Company's Hengal Naval Infantry. In Svo. with appointed Pia'es, 16s. hoards.
20. The GARDEN of FLORENCE, and other Posms. By JOHN HAMILTON. In Coleman Svo. pice 7s.
21. CONCEALIMENT. A Novel. In 8 vois, 12mo. price 2iv.
22. MARCIAN COLONNA, an Italian Tale, with three Dramatic Scenes, and other Posms. By BARRY CORNWALL. New Edition. In 12mo. price 7s. 5d.—Also, by the same Author.
23. MIRANDOLA, a Tragedy, in Five Acts. Third Edition, 8vo. 4s. 6d. Served.

24, A SICILIAN STORY, with Diego de Montilla, and other Poem Hulon, 12mo, 7s.

24. A STOLIAN SIGNES, and other Passes, new Polition, 12mo. 7s.
25. DEAMATIC SCENES, and other Passes, new Polition, 12mo. 7s.
25. DEAMATIC SCENES, and other Passes, new Polition, 12mo. 7s.
26. DEGO DI VI LLAMORA, seristo a correttoda ca. MANTAGINELLO.
With an Aria and Accompaniment, by a Professor. In 12mo. price 8a.—Alto, by the sainé Author, 27. A NEW SET or EXERCISES, illustrated with Notes, Explanations, and Directions for their Translation. 12mo. 4s. 8d. bound.
25. A KEY to the above, being a faithful Translation of them in Halian.
12mo. 4s. 6d. bound.

200. 4s. 6d. bound. 29. BANNOCKBURN: A Novel. In 3 vols. 12no. 10s.

INSTITUTION FOR THE CURE AND RELEAP OF GLANDULAR DISEASES, To re extremely happy to find, that his lastitution has been formed for the CURE and RELIEF of the POOR afficted with GLANDULAR and CANCEROUS DISEASES. Among those who have already patronized and become Subscribers in skil of the Establishment, are that lowing Nobility and Greatry:

The Most Noble the MARQUIS of SALISBURY, President, The Right Hon, the EARL of ESSEX.

The Right Hon, the EARL of ESSEX.

The Right Hon, the EARL of DESCEX.

The Right Hon, the EARL of DESCEX.

The Right Hon, LORD VISCOUNT CILANBORNE, SIT EDWIN BAYNTUN BANDYS, Dr. REUPERN, TROMAS HOLERASON, Esq.

SAMPSON HANBURY, Esq.

THE REV. R. H. S. HELE.

DANIEL GILES E.

The Rev. E. B. S. ILMAN.

DANKEL GIJES, Esq.

SAMPHON HANBURY, Baq.

ROBRET BARBOR, Esq.

An annual Subscription of Two Guiners resultints a Governor, who will be entitled to have one Patient out the book's at a time; and a Subscriber of Four Guiners a year will have the privilege of two Patients on the books of the Institution. A Subscriptions of Twenty-Sive Guiners shall constitute a Governor few life, with all the advantages of a Switer ball of the University of the Mac Guiners.

Surgeon and Founder of the Institution, Sir CHARLES ALDIS, Nelson-square, Rhashfrists-road, fe whom all letters relating to the business of the Institutions are to be addressed.

Subscriptions are received by the following Sunivers—Messre. Manharey, Taylor, and Lioyd, Sc. Lembard-street; Brumanand, Charing Cross; Sir Jehn Pinhorn, Weston, and Co. Borough; also by Sampaon. Hanbury, Eq. Tressurer, Truman's Brewery, Spitalited Robert Barbor, Esq. at Monce, 123, Paties-lase, Fleet-arcest; and by Sie Charles Aidis, Nelson-square.

Just published, price 4s. 6d. a. New Edition, Illustrated with :a.th graving of a Discased Breast, showing the process of Cure. OBSENVATIONS on the NATURE and CURAGE of CANCER, without the use of the Knife, and on the too frequent use of Mercury. By Sir CHAS. ALDIS, Member of the Heaval College of Surgeous, Surgeon to the New Finebury Disposary, See, See See, See, See Shad at Callewis, Princes-street; Selo; Underwood, 32, Floei-street; Asposne, 32, Corubbi, and of all BookADELPHI THEATRE, STRAND.

APELIPHT THEATRE, STEAND.

THE Nobility, Gentry, and Public are most respectfully informed, that this theatre having windergone the most ententive alteration and embellishments, the entrance passages having been ententive alteration and embellishments, the entrance passages having been ententied as a set a vold asymptometric the surgest of the evangent, and the desired and bealthigh, at a very quintderable empence, by arthur of substitute, so as to appear it a almost every respect, emirgly new. Will, RE-OPEN, for the Widtle Season, Teantier ROW, OCT. 1, 1621, with a News-Gonie Haustell, in Three Asts, entitled CAPERS AT CANTER-BURY. Capt. Somewille, Mr. Wigniob (from the Theatre Royal, English Opens). Jacob Grogram, Mr. Wilkinson; Dast, Mr. Reeley (from the Theatre B. Pitt (from the Surrey Theutre). Jenny, Mrs. Bryan (from the Theatre Royal, Bradish Ogens). After Wisch, the frantic Interiorie of HALP LY HOLR'S COUR'ESHIP. Butte de Richelles (the Rochester, of Prantes) Mr. W. Burroughs. The Evening's Entertainments to conclude with the celebrated Pantemine of THE FARRY OF THE NORTH STAR; and Mrs. Hadrey Miss. Simpson. A Spanish Believe, by Mr. St. ablis and Bradgmen, Mrs. St. ablis and Brangment all absorber. Interval, Mrs. St. ablis and Brangment and Mrs. Opper, and Bradgment, Bear, of the Theatre Royal, Haymirlet, is engaged at this Theatry, and will shortly make-her first appearance. Various Novellies are in gramations. Boors opened as six, begin a quastre-before seven. Boxes of Pr. Calcary Is.

	1919.	1830.	Ingrease.	Decrease.
	£. e. d.	£. a. d.	£. 0. jd.	E. 70. 24
Albium	16099·15· 2	16C98 4 11		-40 b 10 3
Atlas	13844 8 7	14786 9 3	942 0 8
British	357#10 9	17180 ' 3 6'	1437'12 9	· ''
County	32509 8 6	.nes35. 9. 3	3026.0 9	Carlo and
Eagle	15806 8 0	15904 8 1	# 0 .1:	9 0 01
Glone	31147 7 2	29252. 4 9		1805 3 51
Hand-in-Mand	14612 8 1	14306: 0 10
Hope	14001 6 9	14407 19 4	7400 to 7	306: 7 .3/
Norwick Union	37684 9 2	41564 8 9	3669 14 7	, •
Imperial	39/97 10 7.	36268 9 2		999K 10 - 64
London	8811 6 9	9250 8 8	430 1 11
Phoenix	70936 0 2	68736- 9- 0	:	17 ' A!
Buyal Montange	51678 1 10	52104 7 8	426 b lo
Sun		119758 0 0	2049 11 2
Union	13421 0 0	13926 3 3	504 3 3
Westminster	14784 6 21	15190 TB 11	412 (0 9
West of England	11344 6 0	13160 18- 3s	1816 19 3	D 10
A.IIal - Ab

the above return) the Duty of the Norwich-Union stands at $20,000-134. (b) licing an increase of $7,000-17s; 54.

SATURDAY'S GAZETTE, SEPT. 42.

PARTNERSHIPS DISSOLVED.

PARTNEISHIPS DISSOLVED.

Day and Holmen, Tottenhams-Court-road, linen-drapers.—Aftan and/Ohit-tenden, Coleman-street, merchants.—Klist and Partny, Archive, Verfeshins, atono-marshants.—Prowne and Schafferr Corp-pation-lane, Glorkowell, engine-tumpre.—Shenton and Frithrial, Winchestyr, silk-three stars.—Pend-torton and Spencer, Birminelman, clock-makers. Graves and Kelly, Pend-dington, sightmen.—Mary, Charles, Alexander, and Edmund Lord, Rochdale, Instrumentation, and American Street, and Charles, Instrumentation, and American Street, Physics and Anderson, Street, surrect, warehousemen.—J. Hind and, Co. Nottingham, bress-domptors.

Scarfe and Lowe, Bucklagham-place, Fittings-square, bedstead-spakers.

DIVITERINDS.

Dividends.

DIVIDENDS.

Oet. N. W. Spencer, Betstol, corn-fastor.—Nov. 24, J. Hughesand R. Ghallen, Stanington, Sussex, compon-brewers—Oct. 20, J. Lee, J. S. Martlacan, and J. Wilklason, Based-street, factors.—Oct. 18, W. Strick, Strick, Novealto, S. Berisrley, Manchester, dyer.—Oct. 18, W. Efflot, West-J. Cale, Novealto, Sussex, Novealto, S. Brisrley, Manchester, dyer.—Oct. 17, W. Efflot, West-J. Cale, Novealto, S. Brisrley, Manchester, dyer.—Oct. 18, W. Efflot, West-J. Cale, Novealto, S. Brisrley, Gain-burgh, S. Brisrley, Liverposi, slopsellera.—Oct. 17, M. Brinnby, and C. Brinnby, Gain-burgh, sall-cloth-mantfacturers.—Oct. 30, W. Askey, Geford-street, tailfor—Nov. 18, S. Assattevsiy, Worosstre-street, Union-streets, Bentwark, bad. shutthfeetsper.—Oct. 18, G. Halley, Greenwich, Graper.—Oct. 13, G. Milne, Bread-street, mershant.—Oct. 30, H. Mould, Winshester, cabinet-maker.—Oct. 12, W. Nartles, Rart Budleigh, shopkeeper.—Oct. 18, T. Ashins, Larcaster, merchant.—Oct. 28, A. Brander, Badge-row, upholstores.—Oct. 23, C. Octosford, the vanging, Backingsham, collar-maker.—Oct. 30, f. A. T. Brangessians, Little Bast Cheap, marchant.—Oct. 30, Ann Johnson, Palmer's Village, brick, Jayer.—Oct. 13, J. G. Janes, Marktlaue, colla-factor.—Oct. 16, M. Smith, Livenpool, Johner.

LAST NICHT'S GAZETTE.

CARLTON HOUSE, JULY 25, 1921.

CARLTON HINDSH, JULY 25, 1921.

The King was this day pieased to confer the hynour of Knighthand upon Henry Ankew, Ess. Major-tieneral of His Majesty's Forces, and Companion of the Most Honourande Military Order of the Bath.

The King has granted to the fillowing Regiments the permission of wasning the following words on their hadges and appointments, for their dishinguished conduct at the several battles:—
3d (or the King's Own) Light Dragoons, Vittoria, and Toulouse.—6th (or Royal American) Regiments of Foot, Rollen, Visiterh, Talavera, Pushica, Tutiouse, Ciudad Rodrigo, Madajor, Smiannanca, Vittoria, Nivelle, Orthon, Tutiouse.

Tutilouse.

WAR OFFICE, SEPT. 28, 1821.

Sept. 12.—3th Reg. of Light Drags.—W. C. Smith, Gint. to be Corner, by purchase, vice Lord G. Bentlinck, promoted.

Sept. 12.—10th Ditto.—Mon. J. Corretty. to be Cornet, by purchase, who.'

Lord J. Bentinck, promoted.

14th Ditts.—Licitt. M. C. Trevillian, from the 1st Drag, Guards, to be Capt. by purchase, vice Townsessi, promoted.

by purchase, vice Townsend, promoted.
Sept. 30.—19th Ditto—W. Sheusell, Stent. to be Cornet, by purchase, vice De Lisle, who retires.

e Liste, was retires. 334 R.g. of Foot—Lieut. J. Forlong to be Capt. by purchase, viré Rist, who fires.—Busign H. Hallord, from the 43d Foot, to be Lieut. by purchase, 33d Rag. of Foot—Lieus. J. Forming to be Lapt. by purposite, it cases, when performed Bridge H. Hallord, from the 43d Foot, to be Lieut. by purchase, vice Fondeng.

43d Ditto—J. Hare, Gent. to be Ensign, by purchase, vice Halford, greatheted in the 33d Foot.
913b Ditto—Quartermanter J. Manley, from the half-pay 35th Foot, to be Quartermanter, vice J. Stewart, who exchanges.
92d Ditto—Quartermanter D. Callagy, from half-pay 15th Foot, to by the performance vice R. Bryco, who acknames.

Only Diston-Questermanter B. Callagy, from half-pay 15th Peak, to be Quartermanter, vice R. Bryce, who archanges.
Commissaria.—To be Canmissaries-General—Dep.-Com.-Gens. C. Wright, G. Yohng, J. Dickens, P. Tarquand. Dirted Mith.July, 1821.
To be Dep.-Commissaries-Gen.—das..Com.-Gens. W. Brown, W. Lemisst.
A. Someyville, R. Barnay, R. Carey, J. Forbesp.P. de St. Repp., July 49, 1821.
To be Ass..Coms.-Gens.—Dep.-Ass.-Coms.-Gens. W. Brown, W. Lemisst.
To be Ass..Coms.-Gens.—Dep.-Ass.-Coms.-Liens. J. Bruce, 25th April, J. Rendall, 1st June, C. Bonomi, E. Wood, P. F. Davidsou, T. White, W. H. Priestiev, D. Resrney, G. Manvell, A. Visch., 19th July.
To be Bep.-Ass.-Coms.-Gens.—Com.-Clerks J. Bland, C. Heuvard, 1st June, H. B. Deakins, W. R. Eppes, S. Carn, R. Corlett, C. Bridgen, G. Adams, R. Ashton, G. Hazard, J. S. Browne, T. D. Knight, A. Murton, W. Stanton, J. B. Orist, J. L. Thempson, H. Laurife, J. R. Comper, C. Swain, 19th July.
To be Ass.-Coms.-Grns.—Dep. Storekesper-Gens G. Child, W. R. Goptiell, 13th Nov. 1816, Q. Gilbert, 9th May, 1817, T. A. Semersall, 13th Feb. 1838.
J. Hare, 20th Dec. 1819.
To be Dep. Ass.-Coms.-Gens.—Ass.-Storekesper-Gens. C. Morgin, P. Gilbert, K. Curagron, L. Vannulicum, J. Westbrook, G. F. Haversant, T. P. Marter, T. Fraser, 4th May, 1813, W. S. Streetcheld, J. Kirkland, 4th May, 1814.
J. Lloyd, Sth June, 1815, J. H. Dunn, 19th June, 1815, J. Cleptent, L. Black, J. Liord, Sth Dec. 1918.

BANKUPTS.

BANKY J. New Malton, Verkeling, dealer and chabrons.

BARNEY. J. New Malton, Yorkshire, dealer and chapman. RICHARDSON. J. Manchester, dealer in cotton and twist. STUART, H. Worcester, wine-merchant.

Weaver o

Digitized by Google

TERSDAY'S GAZETTE

PARTNERSHIPS DISSOLVED.

Willebx and Titterton, Theodoldw-road, condt-builders.—E. and J. Mondall, Tosley-street, haberdanhers.—Westlake'sto Atkinson, Plympton, common-lipewers.—Wallace and Kulght, Lamby-Conduit.-street, dress-makers.—Lucas, Christic, and Heathdeid, St. Swithin's-lane, wine-merchants.—Thuson and Pelice, Little St. Phinosess Apostic, disprintmental which "M. Gray, and Baratas, Crouked-lane, wine-merchants.—Lucas Crouked-lane, wine-merchants.—Lucas Drydon's Wood-and Baratas. Crocked-lang, whose merolasts.—Collison and Drydon; Woodstreet, allk, merobauts.

BEESTON, F. Draftiw in Hales, thereo.

GIRIO, H. Lecterator, padder.

KNOWLES, J. and WALKER, H. Salford, machine-makers.

LAVENDELL, J. Lecuinster, energer.

Dev. 180, J. Michell, sen. West Knd Cottage, Herre, dealer.—Oct. 23, T. Exp. Princessmance, Ratellife, histaway, analymerchant.—Gct. 28, H. R. Thomas. North Childs, richarder.—Oct. 24, E. Thillip, Narberth, linentraper 200t. 24, W. And H. Webb, Bristol, linen-draper.—Oct. 24, T. F. Jones Garrattonian, lineadraper.

CERTIFICATES—Oct. 35.

J. B. Showdon, Lynn, linea-draper.—J. Jagger, Kast Stonebouse, stonemann.—R. Tredway, Cheptowy, Mills Midder.—Kay, Princess square, coal-inderfinato.—J. Bass, Molbeach, brewer.—C. Copp. Ferkefey-mews, idimanter.—H. W. Smith: Bird's-buildings, Jolington, tea-dealer.—I. Holle, Repechatical, button-seller.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

It is stated in the Journal des Debute, that His Majesty, on his plurn from Hanover, will give up his sucception, and be received in Prance as King of Great Britain.

A private letter from Paris, dated the 21st instant says:—"The affairs of Russia, Turkey, and the Greeks, must be of paramount interest, in regard to the consequences which they may produce in the while political system of Europe, when we seem little attention bestowed upon the revolutions which pursue their odious course in Engin and Portugal. Spain seems destined to experience all the phases of the Freuch Revolution. The Royal Majesty contemmed in Portugal, does not convey a more fuvourable idea of the situation Portugal, does not convey a more involvable idea of the situation of that fine country. Every thing languishes in Italy and Naples, One fact will give an idea of the present state of Picamont; the capital is described. At Turin, a town whose population is estimated at from 30 to 84,000 souls, of which aumber are computed 20,000 craftsmen, 13,000 of the latter have deposited their working his cences in the hands of the municipal authorities. The Universities of Germany and Prussia are filled with youths, whose interpresent england and process idealaction do not have the flower thin flower them. ardour and whose idealogism do not leave the Governments of shore countries wholly free from disquietude. Most of these Governments suffer views to be discerned which displease these inso-vators, and as they are feeble in their means of execution, they emvalors, and as they are leeple in their means of execution, they embodden their antagonists. Austria presents an apparent calm, but the fears which Italy excite, as well as the territory bounding the insurrectionary Greek provinces, may well arouse her from her Germanic apathy; particularly if, as is pretty certain, Austrian ships have been attacked by those of Turkey."

FRANKSORT, SEPT. 12.—It is attramed, that the Duke of Wel-lington has left Paris very little actisfied with the result of his mis-The Landgrave of Messe Homburg is negociating here a long of 40,000 floring, which are intended to defray the expences of the honour of receiving a visit from the King of England.

SEPT. 14.—M. Lamb, the British Plenipotentiary to the Diet, is causing apartments to be proposed in his extensive hotel, for the reception of His Majesty King George IV. The King will travel snear, under the title of Count de Laneburg, to see his sister, the Queen Dowager of Wildenburg, or Louisburg. His Majesty has received invitations from Berlin and Vienna; towards the end of October several sovereigns will meet in the latter capital.

HANOVER, SEPT. 15. Immediately after the arrival of Court Munster, a courier was disputched to Culais, to await at that post Mussier, a courier was dispatched to Calais, to await at that post the landing of the King, and to bring the news lither with all speed. The Magistrates and Representatives of the Burgesses of Gottingen, having caused at Address to be presented to the King, on the 19th ult. His Majesty has deigned to give the following Answer: "Geomes IV. by the Gence of God, King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Treland, &c. King of Manover, Duke of Manover, and to any honourable, learned, don't of Brunswick and Luneburg, and to our honourable, learned, dequ and faithful subjects, greeting.

"The Address which you have presented to us, preves the sincere part which you take in the general joy, which we are with affectionate emotions, animates our faithful subjects on the occasion of the visit which we have in view to make, to a country which is so dear to us. - We have received with the most heartfelt pleasure, the espessions which you have addressed to us of this joy; we reply, by these presents, with the most sincere gratitude, to which we add the assurance of our lively satisfaction in contemplating the ap-proach of that period when it will be in our power to accomplish the wish which we have long formed on this subject. We entertaintewards you the most singere good will and affection

"CEORGE. "Dublin, Aug. 24. (Signed) "To the Magistrates and Burgesses of Cottingen." Hamburgh, Sept. 21.—We have received from Caustantinople the following authentic communication, stated Aug. 25:—We are here in perfect tranquility, and wonder at the supprising instruments which we find in foreign newspapers, especially late Bavarian Journal, which hitherto has not communicated a syllable of truth respecting the affairs of Turkey. We send of massacres and sécure of horror, but we have not witnessed hiv of them. If it seemes of horror, but we have not witnessed any of those. It is true, however, that at the first discovery of the Greek cansistaty, great, and much to be lamented, severity, was exercised; but the times are prissed, and posses, security, and good order, securityly restored. We confidently hope that there will be no wer with Russia. The English Ambassadors, as well as the Austrian, French, and Prussian Ambassadors, do every thing to prevent war. The Tunks wish for peace.—These papers state, upon the authority of advices from Warsaw, that the Russian troups upon the feathers of Moldavia have retired to their former positions.

VIENNA, Aper. 13.—The Austrian Observer of this day, contains official news from Constantinople, dated August 25th, according to which the firmers of the Porte, and the exhorations of the Patriarchs of the Greek nation have ultained the desired and Calm is perfectly restored there. MADRID; SEPR. 13.—General Morillo has just been rejustated in the functions of Superior Governor of Madrid and Captain-General of New Castlie. This measure is a mortal blow to the Revolutionists of the Fontana d'Oro.— Catettede France.

BARCELONA, SEPT. 12 .- A fever of the most malignant kind has broken out again at Barcelona, with fresh and very alarming symptoms. All connexion with Barcelonetta had been studiously out off, and it was hoped by that precuration that the town might be saved; but it had made its appearance within the walls, with symptoms equally fatal; the panic-struck inhabitants, the manioinal authorities and military force, whose presence must be so essential in such emergencies to preserve order, are leaving the city. At Torton, on the Ebro, the fever has also made its appearance.

The state of the Lezaretto, at Barcel un, on the 4th inst. was, 10 maining sick. In the Bay of Malaga two sallors have died.

FRUDE IN SPAIN.—Extract of a letter from the Agent at Gibraltar, dated Sept. 8, to Lloyds:—" The Superb, Murdock, and the art, anter sept s, to droys: — " The Supers, and the Ausfreign, Drewett, have strived here from Malega; ordered away from thence in consequence of a man kaving died on board of each on the 2d inst. with symptoms of the yellow fever. The Superir had one man sick on board, who died last night: the Auspicious has one man sick both, I believe, will proceed to England Amoudiately."

rese. Cories the state of the second in the Form giese. Cories the second second in characters as the second temples into receptificate of anticipro the second temples into receptificate of anticipro the second temples into receptificate of anticipro the second temples into receptificate of the second on the plan of the statists burying parades at lifeton and George. The Minister of West and Marine have the signations or received in the mod Marine have the signations or received in the mod Marine have the signations or received in the form of the signations of received in the signations of the second in the signation of the second in the signation of the second in t in fact, have been so ever since the discovery of the Greek plot. The departure of the Russian Minister is viewed with indifference, and the Turks are persuaded that his removal will be a swee persuaded that blessing he secured, we shall swe it to the unremitted exertions of Lord Strangford, whose influence here is as unbounded as it is beneficial. His Lordship has prevailed upon the Porte to grant an amnesty to such of the losur tent Greeks as still surrender within a given time. This proposal frastrongly resisted by the pione fanation part of the Divan, but I ord Strangford systematic and Strangford systemati obuiting permission for the Russian Minister Briogr most so depart. He would have been sent to the Seven Towers had 1 t not been for the ministed interference of the British Embassy. We have natomished the anisited interference of the British Embassy. We are instonished at the exaggnation stories which appear in the new supposes—mountains of dead, and diverse of blood in the streets of Pera, to suy nething of the 15th diverse virgins delivered by the Sutum's order to the hundrity of the Januaries! One of them, which appeared in the last papers, amused us much. It was said that Banesi, the Russian Court banker, in whose behalf such extraordinary efforts were pade by Baron Strogonoff, had been exec ated with unheard-of toducts; he is now alive and well at Magnesia! He was con-demied to death, but his punishment was changed to that of exile, at the intervension of Lord Grangford, who of fected, by a single word, what the Russian Minister had been end savenusing to accounplick since April.

JAMATCA.—Gourt of Assise, May. 10.— This day an action was Brought by Judah P. Levy, Esq. planter, against Dr. Wm. Graig, for a mulicides prosecution. The damages were daid at two aboutered pounds.—The Defendant was engaged by the plaintiff to attend his negrous on Carlibroo plantetion in Port Royal Mountains. While attending on said property, his attention was called to a boy named Louis, Who was sick; he attended and prescribed for him several es. "After seven or eight days the buy died, the defendant w in the hot-house book the following memoran dining-49 26th Sept 1820, Louis died to-day of a cramp in the stomach, from previous irritation of the couts of the stomach, the cause of the couts of the stomach, the cause of which to me is nown. > ... The boy was buried publicly on an adjoining peop and nothing was ever eard or mentioned about his death, which happened on the 26th September, 1920, until adjoint lapse of seven months, when the plaintiff had cause to discharge the defendant, which was on the 6th April. Two days after he undrested the following letter to the Column of Porc Boyal: - " Est -These w negro boy named Louis; about twelve years of age, poisoned on nego see indicate about twent years as age positions on Carlabase inflantation, about the beginning of Movember last, by baving amoverance of baltan-emetic administered to him by a mu-latta manaratued George, belonging to the said plantation, and died two days after the said deed of tartan-ometic was administered to The cause of his death was known to the proprietor, Mr hen. The case of us seem was known to the propersor, air. Devy, and if he, lift. Lavy, has not given you the havful information, it is to be expected, after this information, you will make the lawful infairy. It—The contequence was, the plaintiff was indicted for not givens the hawful information to the Coroner, and the imputation throws out against him was, that he leave the hey had come to his death by poises, but had allowed the master to be bushed up. At the trial, however, the defendant's conduct appeared bushed up. At the trial, however, the wereneaus, someone, that the so glaringly incorrect, as he was actuated by rankee shape, that the Jury acquisted Mr. Levy without keering his defences. Evidence was called to prove the case as above detailed. The Jory returned averdict in favour of the plaintiff, with 1050l. dam ges.

SIEREA DEONE.—Papers from this colony down to the 10th of Jurie, have been received; they contain the following dreadful commends:—In Sucher secumulation of the borrors incident to the Slave Trade, we have to notice the fate of the Spanish slaving schooner Carlota, which sunk a few days since off the Conlines, with a full complement of slaves on board. The Commedore took her down as far an Cape Coast, and after authenticating some mapers to show the illegality of her voyage, allowed her to depart. side returned, it appears, to the Gallines, and there took in 250 claves, with whom she sailed from the coast; but, dreadful to relate, before she had proceeded far she was taken unprepared by a dorando, overset and sunk, and all on board perished, with the en

Peracuse in the West Indies .- The schooner Franklin, Foster out Toinidad, was fired into on the 1st of August, off Cape St. An stonic, and arought to by a small piratical schooner; four of the pirates; armed with muskets, cutlasses, and long knives, came on beans, confined the crew, and commenced plundering. They robbed ten passengers of about 1,000 dollars, a gold watch, and other articles; broke open the captain's trunks in search of money; these were bearful the captain's clothing, bedding, and his trunks; anobed him of a apy-glass, pistols, watch, &c. and a sum of money belonging to the supercargo; robbed the mate of the greater part of his vicuring apparel, and the vessel of all the live stock on board, a castled water some provisions and prepayed a vicine a significant content. a cucked water, some provisions, and many other articles. Captain ter was severaly beaten with a cutless, and was stabled in the back with a knife, and one of the crew was stabled in the hand.—By the Perseverance we learn that a small privateer schooner, fitted out at Maracaibo, with small arms, and commanded by a Footchman, with a crew of 28 men, is annoying the coasting trade between St. Jago de Cuha and the lesward perts of this island, having recently taken three vessels, principally loaded with flour, which were reasoned.—The Frances, Drummond, was chased and plundered by a pirate on the 31st of July, off Cape Antonio. A boat, full of sugar, hailed the vessel, and jumped on deck, armed with blundesbusses, callesses, and pissels, drove all hands below, cutting and maining every one within their reach. They plandered the vessel of av thing the y could lay their hunds or of four trunks and one chest, to the value of 1000 dollars eash in dollars, doublooss and guiness, value of 800 dollars; four va-luable gold and silver watches, with chains, seals, &c. value of 500 doilars; also a writing-deak and its contents, a spy-glass, double barrelled gun, three piecols, a sword, all the see clothing, beds and bedding, one complete suit of colours, stock wises, cabin furniture and cooking utersite. —A small sloop, bound to Aux Cayes, lately fallen in with by them and robbed of 300 dollars cash.— Hirondelle was board danthe 2d, in 1st. 29. long. 62. by a privateer schooner, plundered of 2000 dollars, 30 hogsheads of rum, 30 serons of indigo, 30 tons of sugar, and all the beef and pork on board, sails, see. The pirates put the crew into a leaky boat, but they were fortunate enough to rejoin the ship.

Wassencoven, Aug. 25.—Colonel Pereins, who had retreated to La Guayra, with 900 men under his orders, has been obliged to surrender to Bolivar through the intervention of Rear Admiral Julien, who has answed in that quarter with a French squadren. Colonel H. embarked with his little army on board the French vessels, and was conveyed to Porto Cabello. In that port they nd the titisis a #4 gun strp, from and consist a margum same, term, applies marine and the Pic-tippointed Vicerny of Mexico, that of the and the Pic-titudes southy the Spanish Government to treat of lease with nowly-depointed Vicen the Independents. On their nerival a negociation was set on foot The latest secounts form Pocustate, that the Chilian Commande of The last est accesses from Peru, state, that the Chillan Commander, San Mertingchaving the fir helind him a garrison of 900 invalids, each burlon of Chillan high 4000 are gaple, were landed at the Chorillan structer within two heavens. There were landed at the Chorillan tracks with luminess slaughter, arounds of 1400 at the Chillan troops, having been left dest on the choric san Martin, with the remains of his coils, except on board the vessels, whence they had disembarked. "The destruction these unknown, but it was supposed that he had, good high to thill? The prisoners who were on board the Lamerula light latter the canterns by Lood Cochrone, had rish into the significant. efter ter capture by Lood Cochrane, had risen upon the gree, and receptured and carried her into Linu.

receptured and carried her into Linu.

Krasston, July 21.—By the Delight, in armation his bear calved that Bacha Chica capitalated, to the Ladependent on the instant. A report prevailed at Santa Martha, that Carthagus ties America appears to be very unhealthy just now.

from Long Island, Baltimore, Amelig. Island, and Norfolk, are extremely calamitous. The whole of /smelia Island, is a perfect hospital, not one family being well, and in many instances not one assist another. So dreudful, indeed, is the disease, that there is not one in the disease. assist another. So dreaming march, is see an experience and the again of the again hours ending on Senday morning; and six more during the ending Monday morning.

ding Monday morning.

Early on Setudiay morning, Titus Porteous and William Sec who were convicted at a Slave Court held at Port Bayal on 9th inst; of being concerned in and miling a rebellious complies, were taken from the guol of this city; they ascended the scatch and were launched into eternity. William Stewart addressed in spectators, but we understand neither admitted nor desired being guilty of the crime for which he was to suffer. After hanging nearly an hour they were taken down, and their beads being sermed from their bodies, were stuck upon poles near the place of exern We are informed that the brother of William Stewart at tended the execution, and even assisted in laxing his heather's head on the block.

Late accounts from Texas, give the most lamentable description Lake accounts from Texas, give the most unmonator we are province. Bands of Patriots, (as they term themselves) plungs at province. The most galaxies to oppose them. The most galaxies and destroy, and there is no force to oppose them. The not is midable of these consist of Indians. In one night, 200 fires were seen along the coast; and the writer of the account, lauling a several places, found a great number of arms, and legs—sail process. of the victims of these canibals. It appears to be a mere rendervous for pirates and outlam.

Accounts from Butavia to the 22d of May state, that, between the 30th of April and the 9th of Mny, 1,200 persons died at Samarang of the cholera morbus, out of which number 156 were Euro-At Batavia, during the same period, 250 died, of whom 101 were Europeans. Eleven vessels sailed for Bombay. Reugal, and Madras, in consequence of the great mortality caused by the disorter

THE KING.

On Monday, at a quarter before one o'clock, the King Tellan On Monday, at a quarter before one o'clock, the King methon panied by Sir B. Bloomfield, in his travelling carriage and for, and escorted by a party of Lancers, left his Pulace, in Pall sell, on his way to the Continent. An immense crowd its embled in the Park to witness His Majesty's departure, who halled him with the loudest acclauations; the windows of the carriage were down and to the blessings of the people, who exclaimed "God bless your Majesty—may you have a pleasant journey!" His Majesty replied, in the most gracious manner, by taking off his third lifting cap, and bowing to the assembled crowds. "He looked his dickt excelled health. On the arrival of the carriage at the Horse Granden. boulds. On the arrival of the carriage at the Horse Grands the Life Guards were drawn up, who satured Ris Miljority its the carriage passed; it then drove on at a quick parce, thill Winziver can the Marsh Gate, at Lambeth, where a crowd that for some time been waiting, when the postillions slackened their presents gi persons assembled an opportunity of testifying their loyaly which they did by the loudest shouts and expressions of pidasare and wishes for His Majesty to have a pleasant journey and safe return. At Shooter's Hill, that fine corps, the Foot Arthury, under the command of General Ramsay, were stationed. About hilf past three, the Horse Artitlery, with ten pieces of counsel, and omean tion waggons, occupied a station rather nearer: to the metropolis a short distance from the Earl Moira Tavern, the 84th required communded by Lieut. Colonel Daubeney, were stationed negative. Foot Artitlery; a party of Royal Maxines, under the command of Colonel Mears, occupied the road next to the hill. The time ertended nearly half a mile; there were about 2500 soldiers on the ground; the roads were covered with speciators, anxiously waiting the King's approach; among whom were several well-dressed la-dies and gentlemen in barouches and carriages of all description. About a quarter before two o'clock, His Majesty's carriege resthet the hill, when a simultaneous shout burst forth, and instantly a royal salute was fired from the guns of the Artiliery; the subtra-presented arms, the bands struck up "God save the King," and the colours were lowered, the Indies waving their handkerchiefs and the gentlemen their hats, as His Majesty passed, which the King re-turned in the most condescending manner. His Majesty changed horses at Durtford, where the same respects were paid, and the 16th Dragoons attended. On the road to Rochester be was met by the West Kent Militia, and a numerous train of gentlemen or horseback, and parties in carriages; the 56th regiment and the Suppers and Miners, formed a guard of honour at the Frown lin, at Rochester, where the King changed horses; the bells of the charten were rung, flags were suspended from the different stations and the streets were literally lined with people. The Corporation was in attendance. His Majesty seemed much affected and delighted with these continued proofs of affectionate attachment. On lawing Rachester, the West Kent Yeomanny fell into the rear of the Ring's carriage. At Sittingbourne, the houses displayed virticus colours; a small party of Lancers were drawn up in front of the Rose Im. where the Royal carriage changed horses. At Canterbury, the labo bitants of every house testified their loyalty's the door-ways and windows of the houses in the long main street, were professed to vered with fresh and large oak boughs, and the street covered with new gravel; various devices and banners were suspended fie windows, with—"the King," and "the King and Constitution," &c. inscribed on them. At twelve o'clock, the East Kent Yes manry, under the command of Sir Edward Kinnelhelly Block M. P. were in attendance, fully equipped, accompanied by several gentlemen on horseback, met His Majesty, on his approach y the court assembled were immense; the Corporation were in attendance. Having changed horses, His Majesty went on for Ramsgate, when His Majesty arrived about eight o'clook, amidst the endustate shouts of countless thousands collected from Margare, Broddshim, kingsgate, Sandwich, Deal, dc. The preparations for resting the royal visitor, surpassed what might have been expected from the shortness of the period when it was known that His Majesty in-tended to embark at Ramsgate. At St. Laurence's, there was an aren across the road, from one side to the other, of green bough, interspersed with variegated lamps. The church-yard wall, which forms one side of the road for some distance, lad flambeaus placed on the roat. and as the Marianana distance. on the top; and as His Majorty pursed under the arch, the bolls of the church strück lib a merry jeel. Prom thence to Sir Willias Cartis's house, where His Majesty bonomen the worthy. Barone with his presence to dinner, was one continued blosterof illu the green triumphul arches were very numerous—shey might he said to form un entire hower, or arcade, for marly half a mile in tength; and flags were inshed together, extending from house to thouse on both sites of the way. The Pier Nihard was truly splantia. The entrance to the Pier had a brilliant Grown, with G. R. assembly of private houses. Numerous transparencies were exhibited on fronts of private houses. The entire town, indeed, formed such a blage of light as must have been seen at a great distance. The whole of the streets were covered with sen sand, some mokes deep to give a firmer facting to the horses, and to show that nothing was begieved in affording a just tribute of respect to the august watter. Sir W. Curtis's yacht, which lay in the basin, was entirely covered with lamps, and from the shrouds being illuminated from top to tottom, as well as the guinwales, the whole, at a distance, bad the appearance of an immense illuminated triangle. The 60th Regisent of Infantry (about 300 of them) accompanied. His Majesty, as well as a parry of the 9th Lancers. The Isle of Thanet Troop, commanded by Col. Garratt, were on duty, and stationed to receive this Majesty at several points between Ramsgate and Sarr. Tuesday, as early as six in the morning, all was again bustle and coistly, to witness the embarkation. The heights, and every point commanding a view of the Pier, as well as the Pier itself, was erowded with tens of thousands, all enger to witness this superbasectacle. His Majesty, in an open carriage, came from Sir W. Curtis's mansion at a little after ten, and alighted at the Pier-house from the balcony of which he presented himself to the surrounding multitude in the most gracious and condescending manner, and was greeted with repeated and uninterrupted acclumations. At a quarter efore eleven, he stepped into the royal burge, and at eleven exactly he ascended the side of the Royal George yacht, which weighed, and stood towards Caluis, with a fine wind at W.N.W. Upon the King ascending the vessel's side, the royal standard was twin up to the main-top-gallant-man with celerity, the whole of the top at squadron firing a salute, which was answered by the resches in the Downs.—The Royal squadron reached Calais about four o'clock on Tuestay, accompanied by two steam vessels, but the water in the harkow being shallow, his Majesty went on shore in due of the pilot boats, attended by the different personages of his suite. A vast number of persons were assembled. The Duke de la Charre, and Count Jumilline, the Governor of the Department, received his Majesny at the water-side. On landing, he saluted the threathled crowd, French and English, with that grace and affability so peculiar to himself. After walking some distance on the pler he ascended his carriage, and proceeded at a slow pace to Dessein's Hotel. The streets had been previously covered with fine smal, and the road was lived by the 2d regiment, one of the finest in the French service, communded by the Duc de Ceres. His Majesty dixed at Dessein's. They sut down thirteen to dinner, including the com-manding officer of the Legion, whom the King invited. The whole iguard dipel at His Majesty's expence, and 600 bottles of wine were drank. At eight o'clock, His Mujesty went to the Theatre, and and in full costume, on his left, the Duke de Chutre. On His Mejesty. entrance, the andience rose simultaneously, and the orchestra-struck up "God save the King," in which the whole audience, Econch and English, joined : it was universally encored, but the King motioned to decline the repetition, and it was not repeated.

The audience were delighted with His Majesty's affability, and he getired amidst shouts of applause. On Wednesday morning, at maght o'clock, His Majesty left Culais in a travelling carriage, in which were Lord Conynghum and Sir William Knighton, followed is snother with Lord F. Conyngham and Sir Edmund Nagle. A biffird, with servants, and a caravan for baggage, composed his suite. The women, old and young, were all enchanted with his manner, which is so very peculiar, that wherever he goes, the same feeling a must be excited The King entered Cassel about half past two o'clock on Wed monday afternoon, and was received with the greatest demon-contrations of compact; the cavalry and infantry lined the streets, and presented arms. Admiral Winthrop and Captain M'Killop, R.N., were the only British officers present, with whom he steered into conversation with real condescension and kindness ·There was a general expression of respect from the English of all Cadi bless your. Majosty! May your Majosty enjoy a long a suit happy reign! To which the King replied, by thanks most feelingly uttered, and repeated obcisances. The Mayor and with the Authorities were present, and saluted. The Duke of Wellington and Marquis of Londonderry slept at Cassel on Monday night, and set off next morning early for Brussels. The Royal party would sleep at Lille, and would reach Brussels on Thursday.

ASSIZES.

LIMENICE. On Monday se'anight, Thomas Gallivan was inellisem miras.— Dr. Aloncay see might, Thomas Gallivan was in-dicted-for the murder of Thomas Hoskins, Esq. on the 27th of July, et. Bornahill, in the county of Limerick. Cornelius Crowley, a bey amount fourteen years old deposed, that he was with the deceased on the day of the murder and carried a bundle of his clothes i the dethe day of the nurser and carried a bundle of his ciones; the kehard orased was riding on a nulls between five and six o'clock in the corresponding; after they passed the little bridge on the road to Newincomplete two shots were fixed; the deceased, looking round, exclaimed, "Oh God.! What's this?" and then galloped on towards relained. "Oh God.! What's this?" and then galloped on towards Rescastle; two or three more shots were then fired, and the mule receiving some of them in the shoulders, turned short round, and the mule receiving some of them in the shoulders, turned short round, and the deceased jumped off. Harmel, the sportsman, was present, and the sigged him to get up again, he did not but jumped over a redesired; the sportsman then galloped off, two fellows immediately sit should before him and fired a blunderbuss, the deceased fell on his Sace and hands; one of the fellows came behind him, stooped down in the watch and some silver from the deceased's pocket and turned a him on his face. The prisoner then asked the witness from whence he came, and he said, that the deceased had given him tenpence to nears; the hundle, which the prisoner demanded, and said to the wit-science, pointing to the deceased, "There he is over shot, and you no write, son, 131 do the same to you that I did to him."—Michael notin has known the prisoner six years, and say the bridge, and saw Gallivan fire two shots, and strike the deceased with wall his blunderbass; and in other respects confirmed the boy's tesntimeny, both as to the firing of several shots and the robbery. After Mr. Hoskins lay seemingly dead, the party danced and algorithms. Hoskins lay seemingly dead, the party danced and glanden a fif for about an hour. The party's faces were painted a gellow.—Hartuel, the sportsman, confirmed the previous part of the trowley's testimony.—T. P. Vokes, Esq. a Magistrate deposed, while the prisquer was not taken until the 7th of September; the residence did not by—Henry Ashe, son of the Rev. Mr. Ashe, and Thomas Shundhan were called to prove an alithi and they ented Thomas Shanahan were called to prove an alibi, and they stated, distributes sampanan were cause to prove an attot, and they stated, in that on the 27th of July, at the time the murder was committed the autorisoner lived with the former witness, as herdsman, hore a very of speal character, and was not off his premises, nor disguised in any usual. At five o'clock he took witness's horse on his return home, and was in his working dress. The latter witness said prisoner than at work the whole day.—The Jury after a little consultation the prisoner. reconsted the prisoner. McFarlune, Hugh Cameron, and James Mainte, were charged with having as multed in the month of Crowder was discharged. It was proved, that is a conversation at Bath on the 20th of Oct August, 1921, threatened and memoral, in the village of Culfron, I with Reynolds, the latter admitted that he might have 501. If he , will be given at that pl 2). MBirple, were charged with having assaulted in the month of various persons, man had been active us yousen in various persons, man, proportion nettire in broke out, in the statement of pects, and preventing thou from acting as recomed or other the insupport of the laws and Government of the reside. "It was and Government of the reside." It was and for the month of July, 1820," he had for the crime of high treaton, in the month of July, 1820," he had been pardoned by the Royal Proclamation on the 19th of July inst.

—George Muxwell, innkeeper, Balfron, stated, that the village was in a disturbed state in the spring of 1820; he acted on that occasion as a yeoman; saw all three prisoners near the house of Mr. Thomson, vintaer, in Balfron, between nine and ten in the morning, about six weeks ago. On the witness coming to the door, M'Fariane and M' Birnie caught him by the flap of the coat and tore it off; Cameron, and a person named M'Lintock, called out, "D-n him strike the ——." Witness observed they had better be at their work, for it would not he a lost cost. The prisoners d—d and swore they did not care, that they had folk who would swear what they (the prisoners) liked. When Mr. Thomson was putting them out, the prisoners said nothing would please them more than to get Mr. Thomson and winess to the door to give them blue eyes. Saw Mr. Thomson and winess to the door to give them blue eyes. Saw M'Farime afterwards; he began tod—n and threaten witness, and Messrs. Marshall and Finlayson, for Radical catchers, and said he would not be estimed until their houses were burnt. He said with imprecations, "What have you made by your Radical catching? we are as free as you," and added, that he would not be satisfied until he was revenged. During this address M Farlane was shaking his fist in witness's face. Supposes the conduct of the prisoners proceeded from witness tacking after Radicals.—The wife and daughter of Thomson and other witnesses confirmed this testimony, and particularly the violent conduct of M'Farlane. They were found Guitty. M'Farlane and M'Birnie, were sentenced to twelve months, and Cameron to nine months imprisonment.

CARLOW.—Donnis Nowlen and Daniel Murphy were indicated for the wills marging the set of March.

CARLOW.—Dennis Nowish and Daniel Murphy were indicted for the wilful murder of James Murphy, on the 8th of May, 1812, at Baiyelion, by giving him a mortal blow with a shovel. The deceased was an itinerant pediar. The principal witness against the prisquers was an approver named Wm. Foley, who swore, that Murphy applied to him to get him a man on whom he could depend to heat out the bearing of the decembed, a process server, and said. to heat out the brains of the deceased, a process server, and said, did he think Dennis Nowlan would be a proper person? Witness re-plied, he believes he would. Witness tetched Nowlan, and renumined in the hall while he was drinking a glass of spirits in the parlour; this happened on a holiday, and about Mass-time; wit-ness then were about half a mile up the fields from Murphy's house. On his return he found Nowlan and the deceased in the yard; on the deceased coming up to Murphy's hall door, the women inside shat the deer in his free; and Newlan gave bim a blow with a shovel. Daniel Marphy was coming out of the orchard at the time, and said it was a had job; without went into a stable and got a rope, with which Dan and marself tied up the body and put, it, into a potatoe-trench until evening; saw Edmund Murphy in the evening about six o'clock ; when the man was covered under straw, they all took their oaths to be loyal to each other and not to tell; meither of the prisoners were presented. In the evening late-winess met Edmond. Marphy action and one of she-stable, and mid the job was done and then Ness were witness not to tell either priest or minister; the same night witness and Dan; Murphy made the grave, and covered decrused up ; his clothes and little bag were buried with him.

Cross-ennuised: Witness, putting this offence out of the ques-tion, has not, to his knowledge, been ecaused of my offence, except tuking Billy, Berria's money from his mother about twenty years ugo; don't think he was fifteen years old at the time.

Q. Prny, Sir, was there not a rape swork against you?-A. There · Q. Were you not concerned in the rebellion?-A, I wasmany an honest man was concerned in it as well as me.

G: Pray, my donest many were you evaschanged with any minor flenon—that is, with any offences except rebellion, rape, and robbery !-- A. I cannot recoilect.

Q.-- Come than, I'll refresh your memory—did you ever know person of the name of Edward Curran !-- A. I did not. Q: By virtue of your eath, Sir, did he not eath you mosting a hogshood from him at one time? No; he did not; I was not stealing it—I was only rolling it out of the way one night.

Q. By virtue of your oath, Sir, were you not charged with keeping a common brothel, a house for primitives?—A.il was not. CHIEF BARON .- Did you speak of the murder to Nowlan before or after it was committed !-After, my Lord.

Wilness continued.—After Nowlan gave deceased two blows, he went off; witness retimined in the yard, and got the ropes after Nowith It went off.

Q. The murder took place on a holiday; gray were you at Mass on that day?—A. No, I was not.

Q. Non sinon; I believe?—A. Yes, I was.
Catherine Leono lived eight or nine years as servant to Edmind Muphy; recollects seeing Foley on a holiday during that period; when the Yamily went to Mass, Foley earns to the house and told witness, if a poor old man in wreathed appeared comes to the door, not to let him in; witness and her sister, who died shortly after were the only persons in the house at the time; they said his win-dow, and saw the person described coming towardaths house; person of the name of Nowlan came up and struct him with a wea-pon like a stick; the man fell, and witness saw Nowlan and Poley tie a halter round him; when Foley returned he swore witness in the presence of Nowlan, not to tell father or mother, refest or mi-

Waiter Blackney, Esq. is a magistrate of this county; in Getober last he accompanied Foley to a spot near the church-yard of Ball-yellin, where he said he had buried a man, in whose munder he had yellin, where he said he had buried a man, in whose murder he had been concerned; they could not find him on the first day, but out the second found the skeleton; the man lay on his back, and every precaution was used in taking up the bones carefully; where the skeleton was found was about 150 yards from Murphy's house; there were different articles interred with the body; Foley said his wallet was buffed with him; part of the court was perfect, and the little box of capister which contained his combs, plus, &c.; the box resembled a cartouch-box: (the articles were here produced; some thread in the box was quite sound though upwards of sine years in the ground) a pipe was between the jaws of the skeleton; on the behind .- Several other witnesses were examined relatively to the disinterment of the remains and their state.—The prisoners made no defence: Nowlan called one witness to give him a characteri-His Lordship their recapitulated the evidence; in his opinion the proof against the prisoner Murphy would not justify a conviction; but the features of the case, with respect to Nowlan, if the Jury believed the woman's testimony, would warrant a different conclusion.

The Jary retired for a short time and returned a verdict of Not

POLICE.

GUILDHALL.—On Monday, a man named Reynolds, a Constable of Aldersgate Ward, was charged with malveration of duty, in not apprehending a man named Crowder, whom he had previously charged as one of three men who committed a barglery at a milor's; in Pore-street. Crowder was, however, apprehended, and then Reynolds denied what he had praviously sworn; so that would say he aid not about the pract to a being person offered to go with him to apprehend Coolder, he released to act. Under these circumstances, the Sitting Alderman, discharged Reynolds from his office.

A pumber of prostitutes who had been swept out of Flort-street the preceding night, (Floet-street is in the Ward over which Mr. Aldernum Waitaman presides,) were examined before Mr. Aldernam Wood, and seat to Bridewell. Mr. Alderman Wood said, he had gone down Flent-street about eleven q'clock that night, and found it in a state beyond any thing which he had ever known before, or considered to be possible, a state which was most disgraceful! He said prompt and efficient measures ought to be taken to abate the nuisance.

MARLBOROUGH-STREET,-On Tuesday, Hannah Petbick, Mary Maria Boroi em-street.—On Tuesday, Hannah Pethick, Mary Haggerty, and Murtha Angel, were charged with being concerned in throwing a man, named Sawyer, out of the window of an inflamous house, in Charles-street, Drury-lane, on the preceding night-Sawyer had accompanied Pethick to the house, where they disagreed, and he attempted to leave the house, when some management and he was utilizated through and the window. was much braised about the head and body; he was taken to the bospital, and the prisoners were remanded for a week.

Bow-street.—Thursday morning an eccentric personage, who has for some time been seen about the streets of the metropolis inthe habit of a Quaker, and wearing the tri-coloured cockade in his broad white hat, made his appearance at the door of this office, broad white hat, made his appearance at the door of this office, and presenting a large packet to one of the officers, desired him, in a tone of authority, to lay it instantly before the Magistrate. The Magistrate (G. R. Minshull, Esq.) having perused this singular paper, inquired for the person who brought it; and in the bext moment a young man, in the garb of a Quaker, with a broad-brimmed, peaceful-looking, drab-coloured beaver on his head, surmointed by a furious tri-coloured cockane, was brought before blm. This strange anomalous personage having placed himself very chrefully directly in front of the bench, smiled complacently upon his worship, and the following laconic colloquy ensued fortherm: Thou happistrate—Did you bring this letter?—Quaker—Thou hagistrate—What is your object in bringing it?

Quaker—Merely to let thee know what is going on in the world—and, moreover, being informed that if I came to thy office, I should be taken into custody, I was desirous to ascertain whether that information was true,—Magistrate—Then I certainly shall not that information was true, -Magistrate-Then I certainly shall not gratify you by ordering you info custody.

Quaker—Thou wilt do as seemeth right in thy eyes. I session then I have no inclination to occupy thy time longer than is profitable to us, and therefore I will retire whenever thou shalt signify that to us, and therefore I will retire whenever thou shall supplement to thee.

my stay is unplement to thee.

Magistrate—Why do you wear your hat?—are you's Quaker?

Quaker—Thou sayest it—but that is not my sole mollies for wearing it. To be plain with thee, I wear it because I thuse to do so.

Can'st thee tell me of any law which compels me to take it un?

Magistrate—I'll tell you what, friend, I would serfously recommend you to retire from this place as speedily as possible.

Quaker—I take thy advice—farewell.

Thus ended this comical conversation, and the eccentric stead immediately departed in peace.

The brother of the above person attended at the office on Satarday, and stated that the Quaker is instine, that he was proprietor of an extensive farm near Ryegate, in Surrey, for some years; but that in May last his bodily health being impalted, he was confined for some time, and on his recovery it was found that Ms intellects were affected, and he was put under restraint, but recovered. Some time since he absconded from Ryegate, and his friends were unable to discover him, until they saw the account of his eccentricities in the newspapers. Mr. Squire was desirous, if he made his appearance again at the office, he should be detained. The Magistrate, as a cause for the detention of the Quaker, swore the brother to these facts. About three o'clock, the Quaker walked up Bow-street, when an officer conducted him to the presence of the Magnitrate, who detained him and at seven o'clock delivered him noto the care of his brother.

ELECTION OF LORD MAYOR.

Yesterday, the Lord Mayor, Sheriffs, and Corporation, assembly in the Guildhell, to choose the new Lord Mayor for the year ensuing. The names of the following candidates having been proclaimed with the oustomary form, viz. Alderman Magney, Cox, Heygate, and Waithman, the election was declared to have fallen, by the shew of hands, on Aldermen Magney and Waithman. The Aldermen then withdrew, to consider which of the Aldermen should all the Civic Chair; and at a quarter past two returned to the Hall, stating that the choice of the Court had fallen on Alderman Magasty.

Mr. Alterman Waithman's friends did not demand a poll.

The Lord Mayor elect returned thanks, and said, he was utterly at a loss to express his thanks for the henour they had conferred upon him, in adequate language; he was aware of the important duties which, as chief magistrate, he had to perform, and would en-dearour to maintain the rights and privileges of his fellow citizens. Mr. Favell proposed a vote of thanks to the late Sheriffs and the Lord Mayor. Mr. Alderman Waithman returned thanks, and in the course of his sech, estreed into a justification of his conduct as related to the sech, estreed into a justification of his conduct as related to the secale of bloney and Francis, and the conduct of the military on

Mr. Williams, on a vote of thanks being quantmously awarded to him, schowledged the honour dose him in a nest, concise, and sensible speech, in which this worthy individual observed, he was aware he had not been so fortunate as to give satisfaction to all his constituents, but upon entering upon the important office of theriff, it appeared to him that there were many and important duties for him to perform without his embarking into violent party politics; he had felt conscientiously that to alleviate as far as consistently with law and justice, he could do so, the miseries of imprison law and justice, he could do so, the miseries of imprisonment, whether to the unfortunate debtor or the guilty criminal, was one of them, and he had now the pleasing and satisfactory reflection to take with him in his retirement, of having succeeded in lightening the affection as for an in his new and allowing the affection as for an in his new and allowing the affection as for an in his new and allowing the affection as for an in his new and allowing the affection as for an in his new and allowing the affection as for an in his new and allowing the affection as for an in his new and allowing the affection as for an in his new and allowing the affection as for an in his new and allowing the affection as for an in his new and allowing the affection as for an in his new and allowing the affection as for an in his new and allowing the affection as for a superior and an analysis and a superior and the misery and alleviating the affliction, as far as in his power laid. of the unformate individuals who were, and had been, confined in the different prisons of the metropolis.

EXTRAORDINARY ADVANTAGES TO FAMILIES PURESHING. Extraordinary Advantages to Families Permissing.—
The immense reduction in the prices, and the great improvement in the designs of the best town printed Chints Furnitures, Moreens, Merino Demests, &co. &co. can only be credited by inspection, at the New Chints Furniture and Moreen Warehouse, No. 184, Oxford-sizest, neight opposite Hanover-square. Families have an opportunity of seeing an entirely new Stock, just completed by Miles and Edwards (from the corner of Great Turnstile, Holbors), and which they engage to supply at full one-third lower prices than the same description of goods manufactured last year can possibly be afforded and N.B. The largest assertment in London of the much-admired Prench Stripes, in every shade of colouring.

Be interested and A.B. I so target amounted to honour in the much-admired French Stripes, in every shade of colouring.

SEFT. 27. CHALTENHAM.—Marana CATALANI gave per first concert lest might (the 28th); there were upwards of 700 people of The enthm satio applause with which she was greeted, we such a to occasion a general wish for her to give a second, which, report says, will still be more fully attended than the first. She will be at liath on the 20th of October, to preside at a grand festival that, will be given a that in the river at that in the still be given at the still b palic article in Back of Mark in the palicies of the Paper of the Paper.

part of the Paper.

A Mu. Hamer, has sent to our office, to know if we mean any thing about his family in our test Number; because we quote a well known line, from a well known poet, in which the word Hamler occurs: (we warn the Munagers of Coront Garden how they interferowith this person's name, by playing Shekespoore's Tragedies;—for ourselves, we makenber little of him, except having bought on umbroils of this many years and, when he lived in St. Martin's aparts on an orange was property

PUBLIC FUNDS.

There has been very little fluctuation during the last week, and the husibess transacted has not been very extensive. The late reports of a bad barvest, which had such an unfavourable effect upon the price of Wheat, were for the purpose of depressing the Funds. It now appears that there is givent reason to hope for nearly if not quite an average erep; this fact has, in consequence, brought down the Wheat commercially, and the Funds resumed their former

The accounts from Russia and Turkey have been for some time plast wery vague; but on Friday accounts serived from the Continent, reported to be conclusive of the affair pending between the Russians and Turks, and it is said that the Russian army is to be withdrawn from the frontiers; these advices had the effect of raising the prices of Consols to 76#1 for Money, and 76# for the Account, which were the closing prices of that day. Yesterday was a holiday at the Stock Exchange and Bahk, being Michaelmas-day.

TRENCH PUNDS, Buer, 40 $ pan es. Cap. 43 Sept. 40.86 | Bunh Sit / Biv. 1 July: 1548-75 Recon. Div. 22 Marca 401 | Eg. Lond. Lmc, 25-50 Smc, 25-30 #USSIAN;

6 per Cent: Inscrip.

6 per Cent: Metallics. .... 78

A USTRIAN.

5 per Cent. Metallics. .... 284 Exchange ... 16 4

82 AVISH

3 per Cent. Metallics. .... 284 Exchange ... 16 4 Bustan,

* 5 per Canton (1999) - Republic Religion (1999) - Assert State (1 11 6 per Cont. surve : 8991. Exchange ... . 440 85:65:11

A Monday's Rdition, containing the latest News, the Stock List the Loldon Markets, and the State of the Country Markets by the norming's post, is published at Three o'clock.

JOHN BULI.

LONDON. SEPTEMBER 30

THE KING (Gop bless him!) has left his native land, and the reception he has met with upon the opposite shore must give him now proofs of the estimation in which he is held every where,

The TIMES and CHROMELE ridiculed the enthusiastic loyalty of the (IRESH; but as the same symptoms manifested themselves every where on the road to RAMSGATE. during HIS MAJESTY's progress, perhaps those liberal journals may retract a little of their absurdity.

Our readers will see that triumphal arches were erected across the streets through which the King passed; and that the same devotion and loyalty which his appearance in the sister kingdom elicited, have been displayed by the JOHN BULLS at home.

Ir is with the greatest reluctance we are driven to speak of ourselves, because we feel that we are taking up the time of our readers, and a space in our paper, which might be much better employed; but, as we have exasperated the Cockney Times, and the drivelling CHRONICLE, we think it necessary to reply to certain points upon which we are attacked.

We should not even now, however, notice the stupid invectives of these old legitimates of the daily press, did we not hope to shew up the whole race of Whigs and Radicals by our observations upon their intemperate and unguarded nonsense.

With respect to the BEACON newspaper published in EDINBURGH, with which we are coupled by the Whigs, we seriously declare, good or bad, we have never read a line in it since the publication of its first number; we read that, and confess honestly that we thought it able, but duli, well principled, but prosy, and from that day to this, though it has been laid upon our table regularly, it so happens that we never have "set our face against it" for five minutes. We formed our epinion of it en its outset, and as we are not obliged to go to EDINBURGH for news, and as the EDINBURGH Whigs, though they make a noise in their "own romantic town," are not of the smallest importance out of it, we never thought of selecting any thing from the Begcon which could be worthy the notice of our readers; therefore, we have lost the satisfaction which we otherwise should have gained from the perusal of its columns, for since the TIMES and CHRONICLE call it infamous and nefarious, we have little doubt but that it is a remarkably able and well conducted paper.

The Chronicle of Wednesday, quotes a long article from another provincial paper called the SCOTSMAN, of which (shame be to us,) we have heard as little as we have of the BRACON. It says, that when the "infamous paper called "John' Bull, was mentioned in the House of Commons, ministry for the lattice further as the ame charmed a little further as the ame charmed a little further as the ame charmed a little further as the ame charmed and the lattice further and the lattice further and the lattice further and then add employ to execute their dirty work," and then add khis-

"But the hacks must tolerate all this, and much runte than the They dare not rebel against those who dole out to them their degraceful means of subsistence.—And now that the whole system has been exposed, WE VENTURE TO PREDICT THAT THEY WILL EATHER HAVE A GAG PUT INTO THEIR MOUTHS, OR THAT THEY WILL BE UTTERLY ABANDONED BY THE VERY PERSONS TO WHOM THEY THOUGHT TO RECOMMEND THEMSELVES BY THEIR PROPIL GACY AND THE EXCESS OF THEIR SCURRILITY."

We reply to this provincial nonsense because the Chronicle has inserted it; and we reply (for the prediction in meant to apply to us) that patrons, we have none,—except the PUBLIC; that as for His Majesty's Ministers, LORD LONDONDERRY was quite right in disowning us; for we do not care three figs for any Minister His Majesty has, AS MINISTER—there is not one of the present adminitration from LORD LIVERPOOL downwards, who has the power to order, change, alter, amend, or control what we choose to say, We love the King-we love the Country tion—we loathe the Radicals, and we detest Hun-RUG; but as to having a GAG PUT INTO OUR MOUTHS, it will require a greater power than either my LORD LIVER. POOL, or my LORD LONDONDERRY possesson to do that; and as to being abandoned by the very persons to whom we thought to recommend ourselves by our profligacy, and the excess of our scurrility-we laugh at the notion. The persons to whom we have recommended ourselves are nearly twelve thousand subscribers, and those collected in the space of nine months-without A PATRON OR FRIEND to uphold us-without the aid of one shilling OF ANY MAN'S MONEY-without a bond FROM AN INDI-VIDUAL-and without ONE FARTHING, OR EVEN ONE SOLITARY ADVERTISEMENT FROM HIS MAJESTY'S GO-VERVMENT!-AND YET WE ARE HIREGINGS!-What a slur upon their own characters is the supposition of the Whigs, that no man can be zealous in a cause without

We here, upon the faith of our sureties ledged at the Stamp-Office, offer ONE THOUSAND GUINEAS reward to any man who will prove that we ever saw, conversed, or communicated with any member of his Majesty's Government, Administration, or Household, as to the establishment of this Paper; and we promise, upon the faith of the same sureties, another THOUSAND GUINEAS to any man who can shew that we ever received (after its establishment) the smallest acknowledgment or reward. (nay, not even a Coronation ticket), from any member of his Majesty's Administration, Household, or Government.

Let the KING's Government stand acquitted of all our proceedings—WE humble individuals are the persons upon whom blame or praise must fall as men's politics shall award the one or the other. As we have already MADE OATH (sufficient to satisfy men who believe in Gon, as we de-but not enough to convince Whige or Radicale) we hre as free as air, as independent as men can be; and if we could fancy the KING would better himself by cjeffing his present MINISTERS, we would as candidly say so, as we now declare that we think he could not.

The CHRONICLE, which ventilres upon some observations of its own, demands our more particular notice. The drivetler savs-

"Who support and patronise The Beacon and John Bell? Nonuna Dionita mins of the Church-Members of the learned and liberal Professions-Officers of high rank in the Army sai Navy-But they are Tory Nobles, Tory Digastaries of the Chiere, Tory Members of the learned and liberal Professions, and Tory

To be sure they are—we never expected to be suggested by the WHIGS. As for the BEACON, which is then will coupled with us, we really cannot say what its expectations might have been: but as for ourselves, wishing to be petronized by TORY NOBLES-TORY DIGNITARIES of the CHURCH-TORY MEMBERS of the LEARNED and LIBS-RAL PROFESSIONS and TORY OFFICERS, we are quite satisfied with the account the Chronicle gives of our success -But go we a little farther into his paragraph :---

"The merit of this literary assassination and literary persecution this exhibition of the most appalling immorality, coulded with the most odious hypocrisy, belongs to the Tories alone. We have heard of no Whig who has made the Press a vehicle for investe iuto the bosoms of families, or who has clubbed his mite to place it under shackles. The Whigs are strangers to this rancour me this meanness; they lothe equally the idea of detraction, and more especially when FRMALE REPUTATION is the subject of it, and that of attacking a disarmed enemy."

Now as to the Whigs who have " clubbed their mile to place the press under shackles," sceptical as the Chronick is upon that point, we think, unless we are mistaken, that during our short career HENRY GREY BENNETT, a Whig (we believe), sent us to NEWGATE for two months, for using the word apology instead of explanation; and LORD JERSEY, another Whig, has prosecuted us for saying that his charming Countess was going to the Continent - whither she is actually gone.

But when the Chronicle says, "We HAVE HEARD OF " NO WHIG who has made the press a vehicle for inroads

Walker received a letter store is "Manual." a cocking into thinking he had made a great disconcern of our fallibility, and middle spon us que account of the return of the incumors in the Shipler's Boul." He makes this decir remarks brown and only the Delay the Lathington and bla lash mace in their warriage in this particular "The could happoon that lash material in this particular or even and in fit, and spired " and then proceed to cost at the most unaveraged in this particular most unaveraged in the spired " and then proceed to cost at the most unaveraged in the spiral point while the proceed in the proceed to continue to the state of the proceed to the proceed the proceed to the proce who die suffet con at, but howe that it is the const who this mat first scar and, but theirs that it is the constant, and approved anatom of specials having soortieges, is at? IN think apply the lapts of profess the principles having short greater, in gringlescar to going, being . To like the Article has get themself by the explaints of force parts with the thirty obtained to the interior of an the source of the first the thirty obtained the thirty has the standard the training only to establish the thirty obtained the thirty obtained the thirty obtained and the Boart to give Fortry Clerk of the Panishand when the the three panishes are fitting grants. Had see known that this person was the thirty of the training the Total Front who became approved an the Total have been surprised at the dispersional control of the Consider of the Mineral Control of the Consider of the Consider of the Mineral Control of the Consider of the Conside

Song All And The Control of the Cont

We have discovered, registles envelore, who our post-opposited with the lave discovered, registles envelore, who our post-opposited and Palkin Conouncy it must be one of his Royal Highest's house maids who has undertoken his vindication. We know Sin Roman Gandinan's style, and his vindication. We know Sin Komun Gandinan's style, and hadly as ha writes, he really is befor than our slip-slop friend with the thirtle real.

A friend kells us, that Woon, at Einsterdam, at a table d'hote, anish that the Queen was not quite herself when she made her will ge marks to that effect. We really care very little what he says or docs. We want he would publish Ma. Paon's letter, dalle Werthiter, Aug. 4, 1821, and then he might go, say, or do whatever to placed.

Our frigues, who, write about Wasson are wrong. Those who stand up for his little are wrong, and those who are for abolishing his title pecanic he has been dismissed the service are wrong. The truthin that when foreign orders were rarely conferred on Britruth is, that when foreign orders were rarely conjerved on British subjects, they good the same wank here as to derivable from them in their respective countries, and thus rose Sir Robert Witten, Sir Robert Keir, Sir Edward Butler, Sir something Aptific; and so on; but spon the termination of the perinsular and continuously when testimonials of foreign acknowledgment of arguing were to be seen on every breast, it was found necessary to check the eastern of allowing titles to follow the honours, and hence "no foreign order gives a title." Had this step not been taken, we should have had more knights than days in the calendar. Upon this ground we have confended, that Wilson has no right Upon this ground we have contended, that WILSON has no right Upon this ground we have consended, that withou has no right to a time. But our friend who suggests that, allowing him the title, he has lost it because he is out of the army, to very much mistaken; he says, nobody but a military man can wear a farcign order. Sir John Carr, the meritorious maker of travels, is a knight of several orders—Sir Robert Prat (the Rector of Brentford!!!) is a Knight of St. Stantilaus—Mr. Arbuthard, of the Francis, but a Purkish order-and Sir R. K. Porter, the

The Proof of the Pudding tells us, that Sin R. Wisson has a farsign title and estate conferred upon him by patent, title-deed, and seal. His fitte, however, in that case, is certainly not that and seal. His fittle, however, in that case, is certainly not that of huightheed derivable from an order, which, is all toe differation. We one very glad to bear he has an estate, it may set the minds of the Borough people at easy about his embarrassments. Our Dublin correspondent will do us the greatest favour by sending us the poem he promises; if the style throughout equals the first for standars which he has sent as "a sample of all the root; it will be a great treat for our readers.

It mould be usedless to read to each letter senarately which we

At mould be needless to reply to each letter separately which we hape received on the subject of the Queen's subscription for plate—we have inserted one, but have no room for more. We should recommend parties who have been silly mough to contribute, to apply to the process was name been stilly mough to contribute, to apply to the processage actually received their mency, and who are of course accountable, as far as relates to themselves individually.

The Captain Heave who followed the Queen to the grave is the Captain Messes Allies anguires about, It is wonderful to see how soon paragne forget favour and kindnesses.

We intended this week to have published a very comical tale, andled "The Chout of Miss Prendergast," and had it all ready, mben we rencived a letter from a gentleman, delad, in a gentleman bend, from a place in Ireland, which looks to us to be Muliphahallabiloughololoby, Sept. 17, 1821, warning us that some such kistory would be sent us, and that, instead of a joke, it really is a true story. This letter is signed P. Prendergasi, and, of course, we cannot violate the private sorrew of a relation, by inserting the article, which, however, is as droll as any thing very met hastily take the measures he alfudes to. With respect to the deficiencies in sets of this Paper, an application at the Office with We beg to call the attention of the Constitutional Associa-

MION to the windows of MR. FORES, a caricature seller in Pantonstreet, Haymarket.

Wowill do all we can teloblige MR. TRUMAN,

... Mine Raypun's "Desch of the Tartles, or the Force of Sympathy," is hardly sharp mough for us—the idea is good, but we ere not quite sure of the fact.
We thank Schutzton—we had no notion till this week, when

We thank Schusaton—we had no notion till this week, when assured friends foroured us on the subject, that it was "HE who diddeth".

"Thus born Exclusinant," and others, upon, the subject of radical clerks in public offices had better send as the names of the persons to whom they allude, whose politics assuredly unfit them for official, and, perhaps, confidential situations. We will administer wholestme correction for the evil.

S. G. has been received.

Herps; as we have before hinted, is inserer.

In VACCA's epigram we do not understand who the third ROBERT

"A Militto Pamp" some affected by a sharp frost.

J. W. B. will see that in the early numbers of this Paper the plan he suggests was adopted; we find our present mode more effective. As for the hero of his letter, we only do our duty by him.

WILL JAY mover reached us, from not having paid his postage.

"John Ball's Old Friend" mill perceive that we have availed our effects of his communication, and shall always be glad to hear form him.

from him.

We really apologise to our friend A. B. F. O.—it is so soldow that gentlemen write legibly, that we are sure he will forgive us. We are very much obliged for his communication.

HAYDON, the man B. writes about, is an auctioneer in Wim-Danon's favour has been received—it is delayed for reasons which we will give him next Sunday—but we beg him to go on; his wishes shall if possible, be compiled with as to the operations of next week. on the subject of Mr. Ambrose Steward, ure received.

Digitized by Google

White the state were porter fuel found when the more than when the state " reputation is the subject of it," It is from a hipposition that we shall be unwilling to quote their fifth that they presume to make such bare-faced assertions—but quete we must. We have to apologise to the noble and illustrious personages libelied by them, for doing so; the necessity willeplead our excuse —It is our duty, and it must be done.

At the 59th page of the FUDGE FAMILY IN PARIS WE and this stanza: Delights in all such lib'ral arts, Drinks largely to the house of Gurupa,

" And superintends the Corni parts."

At page 103 of the same book we find-Why then, my Lord, in Moscen success

"Price in, without reserve or stine,

The whole of B-oxi-Y's bestricous the of action 10 that won't raise him devil's inth's

But, may say the Chronicle, this is an anonymous work and we disclaim it.

Whether enonymous or not, every body knows who wrote these libers, and we shall, therefore, look at them with a careful eye. We have, in the Twopenny Post-bag, page 22; the asost indecent allusions to the conduct of a married ludge of high rank, and at page 58 we see these lines

Fair . . . M. Lestinight a concert varily gay,

...... " Given by Lady Catler-gh; My Lord loves music, and, we know,

" Has two strings always to his bow.

" In choosing songs, the R-c-T nam'd,

" Hud ' I a heart for falsehood fram'd!

"While gentle H-rtf-d begg'd and pray'd,

" Young I am, and sore afraid."

The postscript to the second letter of the same book is, from the beginning to the end, a filthy libel upon female reputation; and the third letter, giving a supposed account of a private dinner in a private family, beginning with these words :-

" We miss'd you last night at the hoary old simier's, "Who gave us, as usual, the cream of good diamers," neems to us to be carrying war into domestic circles as resolutely as THISTLEWOOD himself would have done it.

An Americatie, republished at page 55; is pretty much in the same taste: The conclusion of the free translation of Horace's Ode, at page 68, excels it in grossness and brutal scurrility, while the "resecour" and "meanness which the Whigs disclaim so vehensently, burst upon one in every page of a work devoted to scandal of the most shameful vature, and an unremitting attack upon the Regent of the country, from whose hands the writer had received every mark of kindness and consideration.

And all this is avowedly done by a Whig; -but, says the CHRONICLE, we never saw them. Softly and fairly, my gentle CHRONICLE-do you remember this coupletthis vile, infamous couplet ?-

"The P---- just in Bed, or about to depart for it, . W. Mis legs fall of goot and his arms full of -

There is no detrection here—no detraction in ridiculing the first subject in the land, whose shoes the Whigs have licked, and would lick again if they were suffered to do so; but above all, there is a tender regard for famale reputation, and a huly reverence for the sanctity of private funition in these lines, which is quite exemplary.

Why, says the CHRONICLE, to be sure, it is rather had and rather licentious- and rather scandalous-but we-we Whigh loothe such personalities.

Coutle reader, turn to page 149 of the same book, and you will find these lines, preceding the complet in ques 44-The following pieces have already appeared in MY PRIMED "Mai Franc's Parks; and are here, 'by desire of several persons " of distinction,' reprinted."----J. B.

Menry body knows (as we said before) that they are by Tom Moorn; but whether they are, or are not, we here see printed and published that they are by some men who colls Mn. PERRY HIS FRIEND. And, after having put forth meh friendly communications to the world, to hear the CHROWICHE talk of the delicery of the WHIGS. and their careful abstinence from personality, PARTICULARLY when female character is concerned, is about the best joke that once pers Paper has hit apon in latter days.

But lest the Chroniole should suppose that we wish to particularise the extracts from the two works we lave above quoted, as being peculiarly striking proofs of its delicacy, mildness, and moderation, we will bring before our of its sty which are equally gratifying, as examples of the pure literature of the WHIGS, who shudder at rancour and meanness, and are so careful of female character, and so tender towards disarmod enemies!!!

In the first place, we would observe, that when the Whig-radicals speak of the late QUEEN, they talk of a systematic attack, a continued attack, and an incresant attack, having been made upon her. The attacks upon ONE noble lady, which were made by the Chronicle, in the year 1812, were, as we may shew, more systematic, certainly incommet, and assuredly of longer continuance than any made by the constitutional press upon the QUERN; and when it is recollected that, that noble lady is a tady of superior mind, qualities, and accomplishments, living honourably and happily with her husband, we think the N CLE S, counties and store and store will lear away, the politic for mineous, meanages, foleshood, and remain

The Christice of the 19th of March, 1812, contains a poem too long and too disgusting to be copied; it is full of the most indecent and filthy invective; we quote from it one or two couplets, to shew the elegance of Whig wit-

"Oh! to my love my rage, my thirst, impart, "And leave, oh, wolf, my betty for my boart!"

Again,-

" Where availed brings forth fraude as thick as Licu, "With pleasing semblance thou cant cloak a vice."

These we notice as specimens of style; a little farther on, speaking of the ludy we have alluded to, he says-

Who not for Love's most childish sports too old; "Whom not one couch or senree one couch can hold;

44 Hail! ever laughing, living, lovely, large,

"Thy fame shall be my muse's constant Change." Thereby holding out a threat, and expressing a determination of incremently, systematically, and continually lampooning A LADY!

In the Chronicle of March 27, 1812, a letter and poetry upon the subject of weighing women, too long and too fithy to be quoted at length, contains some chains specimens-we extract the four last lines as indicative of Whigrespect for females.

"Accordingly scarce had her most noble r-mp

" Been placed in the balance than down it came plump; "And the R-g-t exclaim'd, when he view'd them toget

"Poh! weigh'd against ----- Britannio's a feather.

Our readers will observe that the cowardly caution of leaving blanks, and inserting initials, does not in the slightest degree diminish the rancour of these attacks, although it adds considerably to their meanness. In the Chronicle of March 25 is another attack upon the same lady, equally brutal and unprincipled. On the 23d of March, 1812, we have a striking proof of Whig abstinence from making "inroads into the bosoms of private families"-let us read it.

"We seldom think it within the pale of newspaper license to no-" tice what passes in the drawing-room, of select society, nur an " incident occurred at the concept of the Counters of D. in Grosvenor-" square, last week, so comical and discreting as to be worthy of

He then goes on to tell a tittle-tattle story about a lady, and her age, and personal qualifications, the point of which, is now lost, and the thing not worth repeating; but it is evident, that though the Chronicle seldon thanks it right to invade domestic privacy, yet when there is any thing sufficiently ludicrous to deserve recording, he pockets his scruples—particularly when a WOMAN is to be ridiculed.

In the Chronicle of Feb. 6, 1812, a story is told of LORD and LADY CASTLEREAGH, by far too indelicate for us to copy-but as the thing is imaginary, and the most disgusting vulgarism, with a filthy allusion, is put into the mouth of one of the leveliest and most exemplary of women, it is necessary to mention it as another proof of the sweet consideration of Whig libellers for the most tender feelings a delicate female is supposed to peasess:

But if females are thus treated by the WHIG paper, let us see how carefully they abstain from the attacks upon disarmed enemies. MR. PERCEVAL was murdered in the Lobby of the House of Commons BY AN ASSASSIN. We pass over an epitaph published in the CHRONICLE, (and re-published in the Twopenny Post Bag, full of political invectives against him,) and come to the following paragraph, which we read in that paper of June 2, 1812, a few days after his MURDER!

"The Past has published a volume of verses upon the death of "Ma. PERCEYAL; the said rhymes are all of one character.

" Full of sighs, " Social ties !!!

" Tears that flow,

" Children's wee.

"Drooping head, " And Statesman DEAD!!!

46 And streaming tour, "Lie buried here."

These verses put us in mind of some which we once v written on spring, beginning as follows:-

"How beautiful the country does appear

"At this time of the year."

We think, as illustrative of suspect for the dead, and disarmed enemies, we need say but little on this article.

That the death of an able Tony, even by the hand of an assessin, should delight the WHIGS, we can easily fancy, and their joy at the prespect of place, opened to them by his fall, is natural to men who have never had one single thought of any thing except " loaves and fishes;"-but that a London paper-A WHIG PAPER, a DELICATE paper, an honourable paper, a CHRISTIAN paper, should have made doggrel verses out of the sorrowing tears of eleven orphan children, and ridicule the sudden dissolution by MURDER of the social ties of such a Husband and such a Father as Mr. PERCEVAL, does seem so incredibly horrid, that if the fact did not stand recorded in the columns of the MORNING CHRONICLE itself, we could not have believed it.

How dare the MORNING CHRONICLE, then, use the language it does, when speaking on the subject of scurrillity and personality-is it drivelling ?-is it doting ?or is it downright mad?

(To be continued.)

out prepart the given by the 'Out Te mind out satisfied, by the expression of their spines. His was

"While in this part of the employ, the free of min support the Bridge-street Gang, or elifebing their weekly quota of ribaldry and slander for Jonn Brut, the a old isospene sued banklook ai acitatististical sasses entered into contract to support a metalication which, from the account impigate bourd, to notriveas insamons. In specyclas two weakly, as alluded to-the Edinburgh Beacon, and its calumatous London deplicate, are nearly couval in their existence; as they are similar by their character. They both began about a year ago, on the same system—they live by the same arts—they are supported by the same set of persons. Shameless slander of the living and the dead, UNBLUSHING FARRICATION and FALSEHOOD, and outrageous attacks on private character and domestic peace, constitute the ways and means of the warrengs who condest, and the melignent gratification of the knowes who road, them."

How very angry the Cockney is.

THE OLD TIMES.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

THE old TIMES has found out, amongst other great discoveries, how to make a man independent. Our readers may, perhaps, like to be edified upon this subject; -the mode prescribed, we confess, appears an old ena; however, we give it literally as the TIMES gives it on Thursday. We say literally, because the Indicrous mistakes which occur in the paragraph, from clumsiness in printing, are too good to be lost in an extract from a Paper around at all points.

"We see with satisfaction, that a number of Sir R. Wilson's constituents have, amongst a series of unanimous resolutions, highly bonourable to that gullant officer, resolved to call a public meeting of the whole constituent body of Southwark, to consider the propriety of commencing a subscription, to indemnify Sir Robest Wilson for the means of subsistence which he has lost through the arbitrary and vindictive conduct of the King's Ministers. We hope and trust that this subscription will succeed, and in support of it we shall urge a single but powerful commout the land that their representative should be in initederation :- It is the interest of each body of electors throughpendent circumstances; and having once got a representative in whose spirit and honesty they can confide, it is well worth their while to make him independent."

The nonsense of "representatives being in Indederation." "and each body of electors being in pendent circumstances," our readers will see arises, as we before said, from awkwardness and stupidity in the mechanical part of the performance; but the notion of making a man independent of party by subscribing to maintain him and his family is purely the Cockney's own, and if it does not shew his folly, (as perhaps his friends may argue) it will teach those who have heard the old Times talk of its In-DEPENDENCE, to appreciate the word when applied by that Paper to itself.

But some good-natured people will say, "it is not fair to laugh at the awkwardness of their printers because we know what was meant." Well, good-natured people, we agree with you-" accidents will happen in the best-regulated families." But what do you say to the following paragraph which flourished in the leading journal on Monday ?-

"THE KING.—His Majesty left town on Saturday morning for Ramsgate, where, it is said, he will embark for the Continent on Monday or Tuesday. He will, in the mean time, be the guest of Sir W. Curtis. His Majesty was excerted from Gravesend to Sittingbourne by the Cobham squadron of youmanry. The Marquis of Londonderry attends his Majesty to the continent."-Times, Monday, Sept. 24.

There is nice matter of fact for us-" and the Cobham squadron escorted HIS MAJESTY from Gravesend to Sittingbourne, and LORD LONDONDERBY went with His MAJESTY."—But, le, and behold! let us look at the TIMES of Tuesday, and see what our gentle friend ways.

" Yesterdan about ane o'clock the King left Carlton Palace, in his travelling paraiage and four, preceded by two outriders, and escorted by a party of the Lancers. The windows of the carriage being down, the people had an opportunity of seeing His Majestv. and it was observed by every one that he never looked in better bealth. The carriage passed through the Horse Guards, where the Life Guards were drawn up in line, who gave a royal salute as His Majesty passed. The carriage and the Laucers then proceeded at a quick pace along Parliament-street, and over Westminster-bridge."

Instead of the KING's having gone on Saturday, he goes on Monday; instead of the Cobham squadron escorting him on the read, the Lancers did that duty, and instead of LORD LONDONDERRY'S attending HIS MAJESTY, the DUKE OF MONTROSE and SIR BENJAMIN BLOOMFIELD were with him.

So much for the accuracy of the domestic intelligence in the TIMES. Their original letters from PARIS, cooked up within a mile of Charing-cross, have something like ingenuity about them, and save, in these lowering days, the expence of foreign correspondence; but that a fact to notorious as the KING's departure from London (the schole of Sunday having intervened between the date of the bistory about the Cobham yeomanry and the publication of Monday's Paper) should be thus glaringly mis-stated, can only be accounted for by the advence of the editor who was out, we have no doubt, a-picasizing all the way on Stunday, and forgot, in the enjoyment of his pipe, his pint of ale, and his sweetheart cakes, at the Bricklayer's Arms or the Yorkshire Stingo, his graver duties of directing the minds of the British nation.

While we are quoting from the Times, we shall lay before our readers an extract which we have made with much pleasure from its columns.

Rom it, we confess, but seldom in our power to quote from it, without animadverting rather sharply upon its language, or its style, or its politics. We are happy, however, to except the following article, in which the subject of a vitiated press is uncommonly well treated, and upon the principle of which, our present laudable Constitutional Association appears to have been established.

"The candid will acquit us of all jeulousy and rivalship, when we reprobate the coarse inflammatory slanders with which some of our contemporary Prints are daily crowded. It is not by scurrilities, audacious as they are vulgar and mischievous, that the enlightened are to be detached from the high and important duties imposed on them as Freemen and Englishmen; but though their loyalty and good sense will naturally revolt at a conduct so iniquitous; though they will treat it with the contempt and abhorrence which crime excites in every well-constructed mind, there are men, desperate from fortune, and depraved in nature, who will countenance the means that promise to area down write from her pre-eminence to a level with vice, and give full licence to profligacy.

The Press is one of the weapons, and by fur the most potent, by which awarchy always attempts to exterminate law and decency. It is by far the most effectual means she can employ to vitiate the public taste, and to corrupt, degrade, and destroy the public mind. It is the characteristic of this poison to be slow and sure. It is artfully addressed to those whose powers of discrimination are not very extensive, and whose credulity is easily imposed upon. It is confined entirely to that class of men, whose daily occupations allow them little leisure to analyse arguments, and detect sophisms and falsehoods; whose unsuspicious tempers dispose them to give an easy credit to whatever they rend: whose bonest simplicity only renders them the more practicable in the hands of bad men, and whose minds, easily inflamed, know no bounds. when once the contagion has touched them. To seduce so numerous a hody of people from the sober habits of honest industry, and to engage them in revolutionary projects, the chief purposes of which are sobberies and assassinations, is a measure no less ornel to them than it is ruinous to the community, and every man who knows the full value of domestic felicity, IS BOUND TO COUN-

TERACT A MISCHIEF OF SUCH DIREFUL EXTERT AND TENDENCY.

"It is not for us to point out the means by which the herd of libellers that infest this metropolls are to be suppressed or rendered impotent.—It is not for us to dictate, sither to the Legislature, on to individuals, the measures to be adopted to check an evil whose acquired strength may be ascertained by its effrontery, and against which it behaves us to guard in time; but though it does not become us to recommend corrector remedies, in addition to what the laws have already provided, nor to recommend a rotal emission of all such papers from our Coffee and Public-bouses, whose essays and paragraphs are obviously meant, at this awful moment, to unhinge and inflame the minds of the people; yet we may be allowed to point out to the public the fatal consequences which our neighbours, the Freuch, experienced from the suplineness they showed when assailed by the innumerable libels, whose object it was to bring the Government into contempt, and them to

Our readers who are in the habit of hearing the TIMES extol Hone and Woolen, may be surprised to find such language and such opinions in that journal; but their wonder will cease when we mention, that the above article appeared in the TIMES in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety-seven!

SKILL OF THE OLD TIMES IN THE FRENCH LANGUAGE
The Old Times puts forth the following, on Thursday which we quote for a very malicious purpose:—

BON-MOT OF THE DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH.—" We copy the following bon-mot of the Duke of Marlborough from the memoirs of an Officer who was in the army of his Grace at the time it was uttered:—In the end of the year 1708, before he hald siege to Ghent (called by the French Gand, a word which signifies gloves), he was left by the King of Poland, who was returning to Suxony. At their parting his Grace wished the King a good journey, and his Majesty answered the compliment by wishing his Grace a good younge to England. The Duke quickly replied, in French, Le tems fait si froid que je ne yeux pas passer la mer same gand."

Now there's a joke—but mark this, Ghent was ("called by the French Gand, a word which signifies gloves,") see the italics—how emphatically the fellow marks his own blunders. Gand, though it might have been used instead of Gant in 1708, never could have signified gloves; so that, admitting the Times to be right as to the obselve word he mis-uses in the plural, he is wrong in his termination and number. In short, he knows as little of French as he does of any thing clse.

PROFICIENCY OF THE OLD TIMES IN THE PORTUGUESE LANGUAGE.

Having done with the Cockney's French, we will now look at his skill in the Portuguese tongue: he says in Thursday's paper,

"There have been illuminations and other rejoicings in different parts of Portugal, in consequence of the abolition of the office of Capitan Mor, which was last occupied by Lord Beresford"

Now, it is really a pity that the Cockney, who is not of himself expected to know more of any other language than he does of his own, does not hire a notary public or some authorized translator to do foreign articles into English for

It happens that the office of Capitao Mor in Portuguese is entirely a civil one—he is the person appointed to preside over conscriptions, having also many other civil duties, and instead of there being one Capitao Mor, there were many of them, and the office has as much to do with any office held by LORD BERESFORD as that of alderman has to do with commanding the channel fleet: the fact is, that the suppression of the affice which gave so much pleasure put scores of men out of power.

It is positively abominable when a paper (which really has a circulation) is as ignorant of every thing foreign and domestic as the Old Times is.

"PUBLIC DINNER.

The Times gives an account of a public dinner which was given at PRESTON, on Thursday se unight to the MR, WILLIAMS, the Queen's defender. We have room for very little of the account which occupies nearly two columns of the Times, but our readers must have the opening paragraph:

"Two railes from Preston le was received by an immense assemblage of people, generally tradesmen and mechanics. The greatest part was arranged in regular procession, with ten flags and a band of music. The numbers were upwards of six thousand persons, A great portion of the boys and girls, who covered every rising ground and path near the road, carried branches in sign of triumph. The undulations of the road and surrounding scenery, the soothing loftness of the overling, (for the van was just about to set,) the regular array and cordial acalamations of the multiwise, were traily magnificent and affecting. The houses were taken from the carriage, and the object of the greatest enthusiasm and kindliest curiosity which we over witnessed was drawn by the people into the towa. The country resounded to the shouts of gratulation. Upon entering the town, it was one dense mass in all directions. Happy was the eye that caught a glance of Mr. Williams, and joyous the exclamation, "That is he, I know him in the." Every window was occupied, and it was literally one continued huzza, till Mr. Williams presented himself at the window of the King's Arms, thanked the people with energy and effect, disclaimed nit electroneering objects, and advised them quietly to disperse. In an instant all separated, and every thing resumed the usual appearance of quiet and business."

We have no room for the nonsense talked at the dinner,

We have no room for the nonsense talked at the dinner, nor the fulsome stuff which the tinkers and tailors doled out in their cups upon such an occasion, but we must observe, that the principal orator after dinner, was WILLIAM DUNN, "apparently a very humble mechanic,"—who returned thanks in a long and insolent speech.

The rest of the speechifying was shared between a Mr. Higgins, who said that the nation had been saved, and perfury defeated, by the eloquence and arguments of Mr. Williams—who, he it remembered, was not suffered to open his mouth in the House of Lords—and a Mr. Pilkington, who proposed Mr. Williams's health. The evening was concluded by Mr. Williams's health. The evening was concluded by Mr. Williams's health. The evening was concluded by Mr. Williams, who assured his dirty faced friends and associates that he never would accept the office of an Excisement; after which meritorious declaration, the mechanics recled to their garrets and cellars, and Mr. Williams walked off with a fine piece of plate, which they presented to him, and to which he had a double right, in as much as it is whispered at Poeston, that Mr. Williams himself parts for it?

And is the English bar sunk to this?

DUNSTABLE.

The following persons in DUNSTABLE, out of a population of Eighteen Hundred Inhabitants, are those who subscribed to hang the pulpit, reading-desk, &c. with black for the late Queen:

REV. MARTIN BANSON, (who was said not to have approved of it,)

THOMAS COATES, JOHNSE JARVIS,
W. OLIVER, (Churchwarden)
G. SCRIVEN,
J. H. OLIVER,
L. RIOMARDSON,
T. BURB,
MISS BURR!!!
And MISS QUENEBOROUGH!!!

This is the DUNSTABLE COMPANY OF MOURNERS!!
It will be proposed to keep the church in mourning another month for BERGAMI; whether this will be carried remains to be seen.

TO JOHN BULL.

SIR,-You have fully and substantially redeemed the pledge, on which you originally demanded the confidence of the public. You have spoken plain truths; you have called things by their right names in an age of catand hypocrisy; and will, there is reasonable ground to hope, from the universal circulation of your journal, ultimately bring back to British hearts that real candour and honest tone of feeling which has been, since the period of the French revolution, gradually sapped and undermined by scepticism and treason, under the Jesuitical assumption of patriotism and liberality. It is astonishing to observe the effect this canker has produced among even well-intentioned and well-meaning persons, through the influence of a prostituted and venal press, which, having perverted the boast of Englishmen into a curse, now turns the very palladium of our liberties into an engine for their destruc-

Such persons I have heard, when speaking of your labours with general approbation, regret that you went rather too far that your language was rather too strong, that you were rather too violent! Good, innocent souls! who, inoculated with the liberal notions of the new school, (mocking every thing sacred and valuable in life or eternity,) verily believe, that men who profess universal philanthropy can e to cut their throats, and would not for the world, he a party to the inference, that professing Purists and Patriotic Reformers can possibly have ultimate views of a selfish, sanguinary, or revolutionary character! It is thus that truth—the plain truth—the whole truth and nothing but the truth, so long a stranger to British ears, becomes a stumbling block to those who have accustomed themselves to read the glib sophistries and hypocritical pretensions exhibited, in graduated doses, from the Edinburgh Review, through the Chronicle and Times down to Hone and Cobbett.

Let me not be mistaken—it is not that these libellers of all that is houset, fair, and good in society, and among the institutions of men, carry nonviction directly home to the breasts of their readers, or that they make decided converts beyond the lowest and more i norant classes of struction for their servants and dependants in a new order of society; and the contempt which should deter honest men things. They forget that whilst their very literal notions, tromencouraging and even reading these auxiliaring dition and infidelity, is sufficied into a more difference of opinion, and the poison is, by degrees, and in daily postions, insimused into the mind which, in its self-continues, insimused into the mind which, in its self-continues, professes only to hear what can be said on a bod sides of the question.

sides of the question.

Can there be two sides to truth? Can personal incuto the sovereign—can a malignant and systematic hate displayed to the constitution—can libels on religion—the church—on the laws—on the administration of tice—can these be necessary or useful in the investigate of truth? Can truth be their object; or can it need to modes of defence?

But then they are clever—witty—they make without. Are Englishmen so degraded—so father from their high and palmy station as to find a gratification in laughing at those sacred behests for which our ancestors tolled, and shed their best blood? Do we thus treat the friends of our soul?—Do we ever again revere the man we have once contributed to make a laughing stock?—Or can be recal our reverence and respect for an object which has been presented to us either in a ludicious or an object which has been presented to us either in a ludicious or an object which has been presented to us either in a ludicious or an object which has been presented to us either in a ludicious or an object which has been presented to us either in a ludicious or an object which has been presented to us either in a ludicious or an object which has been presented to us either in a ludicious or an object which has been presented to us either in a ludicious or an object which has been presented to us either in a ludicious or an object which has been presented to us either in a ludicious or an object which has been presented to us either in a ludicious or an object.

"Oh, but;" say these seekers after truths obtained were revere the Constitution!"—So say the Edinbuth Reviewers—so says the Morning Chromeles—so says the Morning Chromeles—so says the Morning Chromeles—so says the All the Hunts, the Hunes—the days and offal of our abused press! They are all immorable men—all patriots—all liberals—all lovers of the Constitution; they only would reform it, and mould it in the different ways; and if they can get a sufficient number of indolent by-standers to laugh with them, on at them, (it matters not which) whilst they make their advances to wards the citadel, nothing remains but for each sept, to hold its distinguishing banner, and to fight it out among themselves, upon the ameking unins to which their him labours may have reduced the country.

labours may have reduced the country. This was the prescription and policy of Voltaire and his school. His disciples made admirable sport of Religion and Civil Government; Kings and Priests afforded the choicest food for merriment. Les Gens de Lettres were tickled-the Bourgeris were flattered, and the nation was laughed into a nevelution, which has swept millions from the face of the earth, and launched the laughers into a bottomless sea of bitterness and blood. If it were not furthe horrors attendant upon such a consumpation, to which fools contribute in a larger proportion than even knayed i would afford infinite amusement to observe the aristocratical sympathics of the arch demagogue, Grey, trembing and wineing under the ascendant genius of that sati-type to Manimilian, Robespierre, citizen and draper Waithmen, to uphold Hone in all his consular dignity, trampling upon the presensions, and flinging dirt (or any thing but Prayerbooks) in the face of that notable citizen and eggide Murquess, Grogoenor !

But, although such men might suffer instry, and could awaken no more commiseration in honourable minds that their great examplers. La Feyette and Egalife, we must for our own sakes, avert, if possible, this degradation from them, and in spite of their folly and knavery, save them harmles from the consequences they would entail upon themselve, in order to avoid the horrors they would at the same time bring upon ourselves and our loved country. Henry the

It is to those, Sir, who call themselves Whige (and they might with equal propriety call themselves dotterels or magpies,) that the country is indebted for the demoralistion of the lower classes, and the sanguinary and despense excesses it has engendered. The Radicals who despise them (as well they may, for their hypocrisy is as transparent to the multitude as to the more decerning,) could never have carried on their lewd, blasphemous, and seditions conspiracy, without the aid and countenance of a higher faction; and although these men would be the first victims of popular vengeance, as being the mamediate ondidates for power, and directly in the way of the real mob leaders, they still are willing to risk the anfaty of their country, the integrity of the Constitution, their fortune and their fame, for the alternative of a chance that may put them in possession of the loaves and asher-both power and profit they impute as a crime to others, by the semblance but not the reality of a revolution.

To prove what is the end these modern White here is view, to trace the history of their generation, origin, painciples, and practice—to show what they have been, what they are, and what they are likely to be hereafter, is my object in addressing you, and through you that portion people of this country, who, by daily reading the Chronick, the Times, and such journals as dress up Hone and Cathle # 8 more decent outward costume for fashionable company, are imbibing poison with their daily food, and laugh while a mine is ready to be sprung at their very feet. 5: When they fancy they are only liberal, they accustom their minds to be lerate base principles, by encouraging libels upon good ohes, and give way drop by drop (non vi sed sape cadendo) to impressions which are intended, and calculated, to make them believe their best affections to be prejudices—their religion superstition-and their loyalty servility. Such men glide down the stream without perceiving the gulph into which it must issue. They purchase and encourage works of sedition for amusement, forgetting that they are the manuals of instruction for their servants and dependants in a new order of blace them about the suppleton of wishing to cut their own throats, the great mass of the wer orders, whose physical power it would perhaps be more liberal than wise to insist upon, are rooted in the conviction, (induced by the very facetious and all-powerful arguments of the Whig Radical press) that our good and gracious Monarch is a tyrant—that his Ministers are corrupt, sanguipary, and despotic-that the Legislature is wholly and our courts of judicature mere instruments in the hands of the State.

MISCELLANF, OUS.

Do they find this a laughing matter? - Do they appreciate the force of public opinion?—or are they aware how easily it is brought into action, when the passions and prejudices of the multitude, find no check to their progress in the spirit, the character, or example of those against whom their whole, force is directed! Is the French Revolution completely eradicated from their recollection?-ers what is passing in Spain, Portugal, and Italy set out of their view?-Do they imagine that we have not, at home men as weak and fatuitous as La Fayette, Petion, Baille, and Clement Tonnere? as vicious, as active, and ambitious as Orleans, Mirabeau, Le Gendre, and Robespi erre? Let things be but called by their right names; let the to be seen and exposed in their train characters, and our st fety may be yet ascertained; but if the well of liberality be daterposed to screen the atrocities of Javobinisms and to gloss over a conspiracy against our religioniand our laws, by an affected allowance for men who profess only a desire o' reform; if when we see blasphemy rewarded, sedition or couraged, and insurrection against the Covernment openly defended as a popular right, we still be-Beve that veneralison for the Constitution, loyalty to the Throne, or ankierry for the peace and order of Society, are the springs from which such things emanate, we are past all remedy. Our Mindness must be judicial; and we have no Trope but in the hiercy of that Being, whose altars we have suffered to b' ritampled on with impunity; and for blaspheming whose home, some among our highest and most exalted country's ace (in rank and fortune) have dared to offer a public peculiary remuneration! Quid fucient in Sieco si sic in wirille andeant?

Bet, Sir, with your permission, I will empty, if it yet he "Serend hey power to cleanse, the Augusta depository of Whire fiftheny. From the period of the daring and unprinpled coafficer of Fox with Lord North, down to the adoption of the Queen's cause, upon which they stood cominitted by a previous opinion selemnly recorded in the annals of the country, it will be perceived, that not only has every principle of honour and consistency been abandoned by these self-drented Whigs every pledge forfeited, and the love of country sacrificed to the sordid interests of party, but that they have shamelessly prostituted their talents, and combined When infilience and purses, to serve the cause of the open ententies of England, at periods when Europe was in arms against her; that they gave encouragement to mutiny when it threatened to overwhelm us at home; and by the surrender of truth and honour have degraded themselves into the partisans of low traitors and factious mechanics, for the purpose of exciting rebellion, and thereby forcing their way to power, weakly calculating, like their Gallic archetypes, that they may be able to close the flood-gates when the torrent has spread just devastation enough to bear down their enemies. and leave the field open to their ambition. But the blockheads shall be saved in spite of themselves. Their vices have rendered them contemptible, but their folly has hitherto prevented them from being fatal to the country. Should ever power be added to their will, the death warrant of our libertles and our laws is sealed.

PAUL POTTER. I am, Sir, yours, &c.

TO JOHN BULL.

Liverpool, September 26, 1821. 2 1 Semi-I-never was more mortified or surprised than I was at reading the "Notices to Correspondents," in your last manualber, relative to the REV. MR. BLACOW, and his conduct in ani bis late trial.

sheds Reppears to me, that if you had examined the report of eschia trial, and of the Reverend Gentleman's defence, with c your asuel acrimes, you would have perceived, that the wh gof it as far as relates to the defendant, is a fabrication.

It is said, that the devil, however plausible, is betra-this cloven foot, which peaps cut, even when, in his che intends it to be conceased. When you read it port, these words "MR. BLACOW then enlogized states gang," &cc. did you not immediately see ! ton expect an impurised account of the proc. reporter who could not keep his diaboli-

It really appears that you, my dyou are generally pretty quick mumbes 4 and having seen hould afterwards have be to me almost miraculor We here, griever' Lying document.

14. 1 ( 7) 24. 1

act fairly by particularly Burry

LL, were dor ing; ear Bu in det ect ing and ext sosing in acr prequoted, the at you me line I have of the thing the line 11 3, it of the thing ,, seems

by Joe

.o.;e

jed by anning,

a the re-

the Bridge

se hoof-di politics ou of cedings 11

other

the manner in which, upon the faith of a gou have treated MR.

BLACOW: and if you inserting this letter, it is and the large and a large tribute to MR.

and solemnly, that in paying tribute to MR.

and solemnly, that in paying tribute to MR.

sentiments of a speak the sentiments of a service proportion of our population.

A. B.

A. B. the manner in which, upon the faith of a

We beg to say, in inserting this let ter, that we for med our of his BLACOW'S conduct, from the report of his finion of MR. BLACOW'S conduct, has been conjuicd in the OLD TIMES, which we believe, has been conjuict in the other papers. THE OTHER PAPELLY

PO JOHN BULL Sir, In one of the pablic papers I lately saw an account of the two beautiful pieces of sculpture, by Cibber, of Raving and Melancholy Mady fess, for which the Franch King Touis XII. is said to have offered 12,000 Louis D'ors, and which, for near 150 years adorned the two entrance pillars of the late Bethlem Hospital, in Moor-fields, having been cleaned and repaired by Mr. Bacon, of Newman-street, and put up in the ha il of the new Lunatic Asylum, in St. George'sfields, surrouncied with curtains, which are only to be drawn aside when the Governors' meetings are held. As a Citizen of London, I, cannot help deploring that those rare specimens of English excellence in the art of sculpture should be concealed within gates, doors, and curtains, which formerly attraciced line attention of natives and foreigners; and I would a aggest, through the medium of your widely circulated yournal, whether the Governors would not be acting a more fiberal and patriotic part in again placing them in some conspicuous part near the high road, (covered within a nich or dome, if requisite to protect them from the weather,) than only subject them to be seen by those who chance to be in the hall when the screens are withdrawn, or have to fee the porters for an inspection. I am, Sir, your humble servant, A CITIZEN OF LONDON.

Watling-street, Sept. 26, 1521.

THEATRES.

Covent Garden Theatre commenced its season on Monday, with Hamlet; the house was exceedingly full, and the com-pany (considering that every body is out of town) very respectable.

The reception which Young met with on his first appearance, convinced us that we had estimated him fairly; the public hailed his return with the most enthusiastic applause—with shouts and waving of handkerchiefs; it was some time before these boisterous marks of satisfaction had sufficiently sabrided, to admit of his proceeding with the purt-

We never saw him play better; and really after the mi-scrable mountebanking of Ma. KEAN, "the rejected of Kankees," it was delightful to see the chaste and beautiful style in which he personated the Danish hero. His solito-quies were totally free from the quackery which has of late disgusted us, and to the very last moment of the play he was e Prince. K Gin To 1

MISS FOODS was a lovely Optolia, but we think her voice hardly adequate to the performance of the musical part of the character. "We suppose at as "tall too early", for Miss S. PHENS to make her appearance; but as everacquit A TREE of any fine error we suppose she would have he objection to appear before such people as are in to an in September, and certainly a cinger should play Ophelic mean exactly such a singer as Mrss Tues, who can sing as well as any singer on the stage; and who cam act bet a half the actresses. Department Appear of great of der than half the actresses. On Wednesday, PIZARRO was played at Bower with You've as Rolla. Pizario, in its first rule, servedly popular play, because its sentiments. but now that, by the powerful Administration of as Regent and King, they are fixed from all appearent attack, the great point of the piece this play, the Irish Widow, who revived, for introducing a young lady, in the character of Mrs. Brady. The dear TIMES, correct in every thing, e us, that the part of Mrs. Brady was reprelady, "her first appearance of any stay a Thursday, tells sented by a young and then, with its usual clearness and precision, talke o the aspirante, and her excellence in the the debutants, and rally known by the appellatir of Irish patois, 4 geneseveral other interesting name of brogue, and gives us

Now, if the editor of the would have seen that the caspirmite advertised as making the her first ap nor could she have he sen so adve three weeks since, sland played once W

at the Hayme rhet Theaire, A more complete arid, in the C Æizen. tre, we think wrong he failure than her deby at the latter Thea-Trish Wideray ov | /never saw the was mesmuch better, in the could make of having a in in v atente brogue of her own sbundence and beriand if the yery nature for her to get, she were wilger Irish parts in would continue to till them

ally this partious line, reminds us of a story told Miller, or William Spencer, or Sam Rogers; or some of the ways, of 7 man who being by trade a sign. ster, could only pai nt a red lion; the consequence was, ale-house in his neighbourhood was At every ann and as; at last, a man wishing to open a new ment, consulted the artist as to a signiovered with red lig have of entertain usual, recommended-a red lion; but when The painter, as he host's" taste lay between a Rose and grown, in vain: "My 4; and upon mature deliberation, he desired the and an Ang int him the latter. "Well," said the feltow, " if man to P e fixed on an angel, why an angel you shall have; " you what you may depend upon it, when it is put up, it will low low debutante—she can of ally talk that "Irish patois, generally known by the appellation of brogne," and if she chose to play Juliet, play it she might, but it would be just like Widow Brady. .d

ELLISTON is getting up a splendid piece, descriptive of the "King wisit to Ireland," which we suppose will shortly appear. We hope he will not make a practical bull, as the people at Astley's did, with the trash they produced on the occasion; for although the scene of the piece professed to be in Ireland, the trumpery and ridiculous pageantry of the stage represented His Majesty in royal robes, sitting in Westminster represented in placesty in royal rooes, studied in westumiser Hall. So flagrant a humbug as Mr. ASTLEY's ginerackery never was attempted to be foisted upon an audience, and they, with a spirit quite becoming them, hooted it from they,

ELLISTON'S piece, we are sure, will be splendidly the stage. and correctly done; and we sssure ourselves of this, from the expence and minute attention which has been devoted to his Coronation.

The Government have ordered all the telegraphs between the Admiralty and the out-ports of England to be put in perfect repair. It is conjectured this repair is for the more speedy communication of intelligence during his Maierty's absence on the Continest.

On Tuesday, the Duke of York held a Leven at the Horse Guards.

which was an merously attended. The Duke of Wellington is to me it the King at Brussels, in order to accompany His Majesty to the it amortal field of Waterloo, and to point out all the local circumst ances attending that memorable selectors.

On Tuesday, the Stat of Aug. mt, a deputation from the City of Londonderry waited upon Lord Viscount Sidmouth, at his apart-with the freedom of that anci their high amprobation of hi a public services us a fignt, Apright, their high approbation of hi and efficient Minister of the Crown.

-As his Majesty, on his way to the ANECDOTE OF THE KING thester, one of the gentlemen 'on Borne-the Royal carriage, rode to the door, and Continent, approached Roback, on coming up with which animated his bosom, by saying, gave vent to the feelings "God bless your Majes ty! may you live long to re gu over us.

I the travelling cap which he wore; and, gracefully on his breast, sale, "I thank you, His Majesty, taking of placing his hand most Sir, from my heart."

sudor did not leave Paris, as has been stated, gnf: The u-ual etiquotte was dispensed with on th regard to his Excellency and the Hanoverian The Buglish Aml to meet his Soverei his occasion, w

Minister. ighness the Dowager Landgravine Caroline of Hesse on the 16th inst. at eight o'clock in the morning, at Homburg died the age of T& years and six mouths. eday, the Lords Justices opened their Commission, and William Hamilton, Henry Goulburn, and Henry Hob-On Wedn hetgioggu house, Es bas this day been received from St. Petershurgh, stating, two ships which sailed two years ag., on a voyage of examples which sailed two years ag., on a voyage of examples are south Pole, had just reterned to that port, a towards the South Pole, had just reterned to that port, are circumnavigated Sandwich Land, and discovered at the A letter plorative They part of it, three smull islamis. They have also surveyed the part of South Shetland, in lat. 69 deg. and some odd minutes nd have seen an island at some distance from it, h large cape or south Many, but on account of the ice they could not approach approach approach than 40 miles. In the Pacific Ocean, they have discount down small islands between lat. 15 and 16 deg. S. near Paleon their and the Paleonthal Laboratory.

mer Island, and the Priendly Islands.
Tuz Azziv.—The 3d regiment of Foot (or Bulls,) marched THE ARMY.—The 3d regiment of foot (or BRES,) marched through Coventry during the last week, on their route to Chatham; four whence, as convict ships go out to New South Wales, they will be seat in detachments on board those vessels.

The first division of the 22d Regiment are on their route for Ireland they are realmend at Hull be the faith Regiment, commanded:

land a they are replaced at Hull by the 66th Regiment, comin by Colonel Nicoll, just returned from St. Helena.

BARK CLERES.—It is understood, that one hundred and twenty-five Bark clerks are to be discharged in consequence of the return to specie payments. The Bark act very liberally on the occasion, all the clarks discharged will require an approximation for life in proposition of the clarks of the state of the clarks of the clark specie payments. The Dank acc very meeting, on the occasion, and the clerks dismissed will receive an anumity for life in proportion to their time and length of service, or a sum (at option) equivalent to fise.

fi 10.0

;; A Garden

. was a de-

made it so

George IV

rehensions of is lost, After the purpose of * her situation.

d read the play-bills, he

as he calls her, was not bearance upon any stage:

rtized, inasmuch 25, about the value of their annulties.

EAST INDIA House.—Tuesday, a Court of Directors was held, when Capt. P. Comerco was smorn into the command of the ship Earl of Balcarras, for China and Bengal.

Earl of Balcarras, for China and Bengal.

A Quarterly General Court was hold on Wednesday, when a rerolution was passed (after some debate) for granting a sum of 2001.

for three years to Dr. Glichrist, as Lectuger in the Hisdostance for three years to Dr. Glichrist, as Lectuger in the Hisdostance language, and a further sum of 1.501, for the same period, to prolanguage, and a further sum of 1.501, for the same period, to prolanguage, and a further sum of 1.501, for the same period, to prolanguage, and a further sum of 1.501, for the same period, to prolanguage and the formula of the same period, to prolanguage and the same period.

pany with hempen ropes.

The East India Company's ships Brampton, Providence The East India Company's ships Brampton, Providence, and Asia, have arrived in the Dewns. The Asia sailed from St. Helens on the 22th of July, and the Providence the 3d of August. The Lady Carrington, it is reported, was at St. Helens when the Providence left. She is reported to have sailed from St. Helens, in company with the Essex whaler, on the 9th August, and to have parted from her in lat. 5 S. long. 4 W. on the 12th Aug. It is stated she left the Moira at St. Helens.

The East India Company to chartered ship Waterlon, arrived in

The East India Company's chartered ship Waterloo, arrived in the Downs on Thorsday night, and proceeded for the river on Friday morning.

The churtered ship Hyperion, pussed through the Downs for the ACCIDENT AT ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL. In erecting a scaffold river on Friday afternoon. the purpose of cleaning the interior of St. Paul's Cathedral, yesterday morning as six o'clock, eight of the workmen had incautiously assembled on one ledger, or horizontal support of the fleornousey assertion on one reager, or norizontal support of the neor-ing, for the purpose of drawing up a scaffold-pole. The accumu-lated weight occasioned the ledger to break: five men saved them-selves by hanging on the scaffolding until assistance was given them, and three others were precipitated from a height of about 40 feet. One was killed on the spot; another is not likely to recover, having broken his arm and thigh; and the third is little injured, and will broken his arm and thigh; and the third is little injured, and will probably recover in a few days.

HOWARD AND GIRDS.—On Tuesday a meeting of the creditors of Howard and Gibbs was held at Guidhall.—Mr. Kent claimed on four bills of exchange, accepted by the brukrupts, for 1000i. each.—Mr. Gibbs was examined as to the circumstances under which these bills were passed to Kent. He stated, that on the 5th of Octlast he were to Mr. Kent. to Brighton, with a letter from Lord Al. these bills were passed to Kent. He stated, that on the 5th of Oct. last he went to Mr. Kent, to Brighton, with a letter from Lord Alvander, enclosing five bills for 1000; each, drawn by him on Howard and Gibbs, and accepted by them; the bills for ans addressed to Mr. Kent in the following terms:— "You must assolutely do the five bills immediately, as my existence depends on it. I have made five bills immediately, as my existence depends on it. I have made the bills immediately, as my existence depends on it. I have made the bills of hearty paid off, the other bills are all paid."—Mr. Kent objected to the bills, but he (Gibbs) proposed to him to give 4000; in each, to keep 5001, for discount, and settle the other 5001, with Hord Alvander, toychich Mr. Kent agreed, and gave his check on his banker ley, to which Mr. Kent agreed, and gave his check on his banker for the 4000. One of the hills was paid by Howard and Gibbs; the others were renewed.— Mr. Kent was examined at some length. He said, that filbs agreed to take 4000l. to allow 500l. towards the payment of the boad, and that he (Mr. Kent) should settle the 5001. with Lord Alvanley; but he dented that he had agreed to take the other soul, for assount, or that the term was even sentioned. His only inducement, he said, for giving money for the bills, was getting 1000l. paid on Lord Alvanley's bond.—The meeting, after some discussion, was adjourned to give time for the examination of other witnesses on this transaction. to take the other 5001. for discount, or the

	-
Due An	Malta Frauce Hamburgh Flauder	-
	Due Ar	Due 1 Malta 1 Prauce 1 Martin 1 Prauce 1 Martin 1 Prauce 1 Manderp

DEAL, Sept. 28. Wind S. W. Arrived and sailed for the River, the Waterho, Wi kinson, from Beneal; Hyperion, Norfer, from Bonslay; Fanny Vosse, Lister, from Operto for Hull; and Lord Cochrane, Meade, from Alleant for Riva, The latter remains.

PWLHELLY Sept. 26. The ship stranded at Hell Month is the Dorien, PWLHELLY Sept. 26. The ship stranded at Hell Month is the Dorien, PWLHELLY Sept. 26. The ship stranded at Hell Month is the Dorien, PWLHELLY Sept. 26. The ship stranded at Hell Month is the Dorien, PWHELELY Sept. 26. A latter than the series are saved; but it is foured the vessel will be lost, as she is said the error are saved; but it is foured the vessel will be lost, as she is RAVISEND, Sept. 28. Arrived the Triumph, Garrick—and Brampton, Monte, from Calcultar and Bis search, Spring, Com. Bombon.

THE ANTI-ASTIMATIC AND RESTORATIVE PILLS, NEVER BEFORE OF BREE TO THE PUBLIC.

To all these wine are affected of 11 Asthuma, Bilitary, Obtastetions, Indigestion, less of Appetite, (alness and throbbing Pains of, the Head, Pains of the Back and Loins, habitual Sho t Ceugh, and general Debility, the effect of Goot; &c. faulty Secretions of the Efdnies, Rheumatian of long standing, & t. &c.

The Daughter of a Medical Practice will unly valided anycess, has at length been in his Practice will unly valided anycess, has at length been modered, at the solicitation of many o, "her Friends, whose health has been found so highly benefit and which is sold by Mr. Clark (only) at No. 23, Holles-attrect, Cavandish, aquare, with proper directions, in the 1 brown of pills in Boxes of it. 25. 6d.; 6a; and 35. 6d. each.—N. B. No letters will be attended to, unless post-paid.

ROYAL WEST LONDON THEATT, E. TOTTENHAM-STREET, TEROY-SQUARE.

THE Public is respectfully informed that the above Theature, said wednesday, with SCOTLAND'S PATR Characters by Mr. Huntley, (from the Surrey theatre); their first appearance

A New Bailet Dance, called the Pett Champt the Theatre Royal, Haymarkel) and Mr. Mont the Surrey theatre); their first appearance to conclude with a Farcical Entertainment, called the pett Champt to be opened at six of cheek. Performance to comm.

THEATRE RUYAL, GLASGI
THEATRE RUYAL, GLASGI
THEATRE RUYAL, GLASGI
THE RELEGANT HOUSE, with the PAT!

MACHINERY, and APPURTENANCES.—As 12 were a quarter hefore?

THEATRE RUYAL, GLASGI
THE RELEGANT HOUSE, with the PAT!

MACHINERY, and APPURTENANCES.—As 21 who is likely to with its object.—Apply to Measure, C. D. Douald at Saying, and while; but there is a case for while this search of the attention of the most accomplish this object.—Apply to Measure, C. D. Douald at Saying, and while; but there is a case for while this search of the Alles and old while; but there is a case for while this search of the Alles and the solid particular of the Patrice of the Patrice of the Patrice of th de o. Jan NUT

SUS

Lo.

appea.

growth; he reston beauty,—, GOSNEL1 street, Lon signature on CAUTION and Gentry a; wpon the publi-are equally inc. are to discover Virginia-street, Glassow.

A. NINE DAYS' WONDER.— This is an old applied to every thing that excites the attention of the Pu is a case for which this remark is not applicable; for THE after a residence at 297. Strand, for upwards of ten months, attract as much as every and indeed this in easily accounted consider, that in an adjoining Apartment to where this Annual is consider, that in an adjoining Apartment to where this Annual is Regions), a gigantic Tortoise, (400 years old, and weighing upwa weight); together with a collection of Birds and Beasts hitherto is referenced. snying, and bile; but there BONASSUS, continues to to thibited, which we hardle Regions), a gigantic Tortoise, (400 years old, and weighing upwas weight), together with a collection of Birds and Beasts hitherto the wind weight of together with a collection of Birds and Beasts hitherto the state country.

ROYAL BRITISM URAND MENAURRIE, 257, STRAND,

IN addition to that wonder of Natural History, the BONAL the Proprietor has new to offer to the notice of the Public Two Tygers, a Tolar Bear, a gigantic Tortoise (400 years old, and weighis done Mmew, and many Birds and Beasts, whose names cannot be powered arised in as advertisement.

Admittance, is.—Servants and Children, 6d.

I. ASE and COMFORT in SHAVING.—To those Gentlemes who is the transfer in the state of the properties of a strong heard and particularly recommends his celebrated MAGNETIC duce so keen an edge as to supersed all grinding, the celebrated MAGNETIC duce so keen an edge as to supersed all grinding, the celebrated MAGNETIC duce so keen an edge as to supersed all grinding, the celebrated MAGNETIC duce so keen an edge as to supersed all grinding, the celebrated MAGNETIC duce so keen an edge as to supersed all grinding, the celebrated MAGNETIC duce so keen an edge as to supersed all grinding, the celebrated magnetic shaving so as will also be found an invaluable addition. Manufacture, 65, Chenspide, and 52, Park-atree, Grovener-s, nurse.

DATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP.—The is induced to present this to the Public as a source of som art superior to safety, and error in the superior supersed and painty in this country, of perhaps the world. It embraces brilliancy, perfect each, be regulated so burn the longest or shortest night, disappearing is languaged to the present this to the Public as a source of som art superior to safety, and central your any lengt. Of time required, will be applied, and the study, mastlepiec, &c., and also for the Glass Greeian Hanging and present and the supersed and present and the supersed and supersed and machasimized for the disting table, sideboard, the hall, conservatory. Passayers, staircas

Pearce and Co. No. 288, name the time at a second to seed near be parted on efficients of self-in and put pure and gengine Spermaceti. Lotters additional to self-in man but pure and gengine Spermaceti. Lotters additional content of the Kingdom, will meet with prompt attention.

1. Livid Ann. Include the NBW LDT Tracet, to begin Drawing 30th the Steries Merks (NEXT MONTH). It consists of the begin Drawing 30th October Rices All the Prizes are Stering Money!—No Lattery. Three are Three Prizes of £28,000 Mency—30 other Capitals and nearly 6.700 other Rices. All the Prizes are Stering Money!—No Takets and Shares are on She at BISH'S Office.

1. Loring Cross. London; and She at BISH'S Office of Stock Prizes.—No Classes.—A very Ticket drawn sinty!

1. Loring Cross. London; and She at BISH'S Office of Prizes that have the Loring Cross. London; and Shares are on the sall his Agents in the Country.

1. Loring Cross. London; and the very depth of all the £300, £20,000. £20,000.

1. Loring Cross. London; and Loring Ry and the Country. Prizes of £21,000. £20,000. £20,000.

1. Loring Cross. Lordon; and Loring Ry and BISH'S Office, in Country to the State of the Public can see the fluctivations.

1. Loring Cross. Lordon; and the very strength of the Public Cross. Prizes of Stocks and Country Hart Countrions for the Stock of the Public Cross. Prizes of Stocks and Country Hart Cross the Public, that the Lordon Ry and Loring Ry and the Lordon Ry and Country Hart Cross the Cross of the Public Cross and Stocks. Prizes of £10,000.

1. Lordon Ry Cross of the Ry and Public Cross of the Public Cross of the Public Wisless will secure defined and the first the Ry and Country. Prizes of Cross of the Public Wisless will secure defined and the Public Cross of t and shew the weight at the time of craning; it is also precusary to for the Foreign Markets. From its extreme simplicity, it is scarcely possible to be inaccurate; yet if it ever should be so, there is an adjusting Serew, which will momentarily correctit.

It is expected in the substitution of the substit

HALL'S sublime TURKISH PASTS, CIRCASSIAN and FACE POWDERLATE above elegistic preparations, which are no universally approved by Lagitze of the first-goods and fashion, as the most innecent and beautiful assistant to undure, by imparting to the skin that soft and incohest-good farmers, is now prepared, in the highest state of perfection; the Praspicter having lately impartial to quantity of the necessary ingredients, will prevent in fujure any possible disappealsment. One Round Note Pachages, containing two large Pots and twa Packets of the Powder, or four small Pets and four small Packets, are forwer, but to all parts of Powder. N. B. Observe the above are only to be had of the most respectable Danlers of Perfumery or Miffiners in the Country, in single, total at 10s. 6d. and 5s. 6d.; and the Powder in Packets, 2s. 6d. and 1s. 6d., and the Powder in Packets, 2s. 6d. and 1s. 6d. as the outside of cach.—Patent Violet Susp and Chemical Laboratory, No. 2., Hadlow-street, Burton Crescent, Lendon.—J. B., MALL:

[FOR THE TEETH.—A DENTIFRICE which although in

FOR THE TEETH.-A DENTIFRICE, which, elthough it has not the abourd pretensions of "generating enamel," or "converting the gams to coral," will be found to possess every requisite that can renembly be expected.—Also a TINCTURE that is warranted to afferd cellen in all cases, and in most will permanently remove the TOOTH ACHE. These articles are perfectly isnocent in their composition, and pleasant in their application, being the result of many years actual practice.—Prepared by J. GRAY. Surgeon and Dentist, No. 23. Old Burlington-street, London, price 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6. cosch buttle of Tincture, and 2s. cash box of Dentifrice. May also be had of Mr. Johnston, 6s. Cornhill; Mr. Saunder, 95, St. James'astreet, Birthon; at Mr. Williams's Library, Cheltenhaus; and of Airs. Gendd, 4. Milsom-street, Bath, &c. &c. &c.

4, Milsom-street, Bath, &c. &c. &c.

BURGESS' ESSENCE of ANCHOVIES.—Warehouse, 170, Strand, corner of the Savov-steps, London.—Joha Burgess and Son, being apprized of the amoreus endeavours scale by many persons to impose a spurious article for their make, feel it juckupent spen them to requestion to the public, in purchasing what they conceive to be the Original, to observe the Name and Address corresponds with the above: the general appearance of the spurious descriptions will deceive the unguarded, and for their detection, J. B. and Sonsabasis the following cautions.—some are in appearance at first sight. "The Genuine," but without any name or address:—some "Burgess's Essence of Anchovies;"—sthers—" Burgess's,"—and many mere without Address.

John Burgess and Son having been many years honoured with such distinguished approbation, feel every sentiment of respect towards the Public, and earnestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to the Public, and earnestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to the Public, and earnestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to the Public, and earnestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to the Public, and earnestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to the Public and earnestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to the Public and earnestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to the Public and earnestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to the Public and earnestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to the Public and earnestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to the Public and earnestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to the Public and earnestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to the Public and earnestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to the Public and the Publi

Fish-sauceWarehouse.)

TRENCH PERFUMERY.—JEAN DEVERBAUX'S ESPRIT
DE LAVANDE AUX MILLEFLEURS, possesses all the balmy fragrance of the freshest flowers; its aromatic, cephalic, and nervine virtuos, are instantly diffused through the most apacious apartments, while the fragrance of its accent revives every person around.—Sold in bottles, price 2s. 6d. and 5s. at the Depot for French Perfumery, 2s. Lamhard-street,
Landon; where is to be had JEAN DEVERBAUN'S MONTPELLIER SOAP for rendering the complexion delicately am-oth, clear, and even; imparting a vivilying grateful perfume, and giving to the skin a most dericious feel and luxurious brilliancy. Price 2s. 6d. per packet.—Sold retail at 68, Cershill; No. 9, Regent-street, Pall Mall; 129, Oxford-street; 59, St.
James's-street; 23, Hatton Garden, and wholesale by Price and Gosnell, Perfumers to Mis Majesty.

23 A gratuitous sample (on a handkerchief) of Jean Devenous's celewated Haprit de Lavande aux Milleßeurs, will be presented to any Lady or mileman, which will prove its pleasing and refreshing properties, by hying to any of his Agente, or at his Depet, No. 25, Lembard-street, Men.

MCE and GOSNELL'S MACASSAR OIL, patronised by His bejecty and the Reyal Family, gives atrength and a beautiful glossy cases to the Hair; imparts to it the most delightful perfume, and prevales falling off or turning grey to extreme old age. Hair dressed with desated Oil seon becomes soft, curit, bright, and luxuriant in its and hair that has been injured, made harsh, and turning grey, will set, by a few applications, to its natural colour, brilliancy, and beld by the sofe Proprietors, and only Importers, PRICE and Gos, in hottles at 3s. &d.; 10s. &d.; 2nd 21s. each, bearing their the label in red ink.

—Mesors PRICE and GOSNELL begt to caution the Nobility bainst a spurious alocasar Oil, injurious to the hair, imposed, by hair-freezers (falsely styling, themselves importers) who impelent to ascertain the danger of what they extel, as they what might be useful.—Ask for Price and Gosnell's Mace.

IXE of YORK and LORD ERSKINE to sole Proprietor, rd-street, near the Yew Bond-street;

U.7 &

Sixth

in the fac mily which he is reg.

'hat A. Prince uy Perfumer, U. that is not tomers, and that sames and:

The Di

The Dt

The above Pri.

The above to be above to be above to ARE of YORK and LORD ERSKINE.

Lord has often remarked that his Lordship looks has often remarked that his Lordship looks has been as the constant of from the properties. The large team of the

Ne; or a bottle, contain-which is a great saving; sach bottle; without, and seals of his Majesty, in Venders. or of London therefore if a wells Russia O ts to their cu-

For Convenience Pita, Epileptic Pita, Spasmodic Con.

Por Convenience Pita, Epileptic Pita, Spasmodic Con.

Br. HADLEY'S CONVULSION POWDERS.

Associationed by Valpole.

Her Grace the Ducheas of Rutland

Right Hon. Lady Admerst.

Right Hon. Lady Lismore.

Right Hon. Lady Lismore.

Right Hon. Lady Lismore.

Right Hon. Lady Carondieh.

Hon. Mrs. Begerton.

John. Mrs. Begerton.

Hon. Mrs. Gery. &c.

The Lady Caroline Lamb.

Ot all diseases incidental to the human frame, none are more affecting.

Your Convolution Fits, Epileptic Fits, Spasma, &c.

The lade Dr. Hadley, of Deray Wards of fifty years with vite most flattering success in the various commence of the inverse of this Powder in a short time relieves the sufferer; Fits in infants and adults; also Epileptic or Falling Fits; strengthenes the Spasmodic Affections. It likewise has the happy select of eradicating Fits in the National Completely extirpates Convulsion to the providence of the proposition of the National Completely extirpates the Spasmodic Affections. It likewise has the happy select of eradicating Filts which females are subject to during pregnancy or subsequent acconchangular weakness, in children and adults; it gradually strengthens the stomach, increases the appetite, promotes digestion, and in a short time restores the Extracts from letters addressed Dr. Hadley:

Br. Hadley.

Dr. Hadley.

Sir.—I this morning received your letter, mentioning your intention of bigh an opinion of it, from the Cases I have seen performed, that I think you will be doing a public service. I remain, Sir, yours, &c. E RGELITON.

This is to certify, that I have used Hadley's Convulsion Powder in my From the Rt. Hon. Lady Lismore. September 2, 1820.

This is to certify, that I have used Hadley's Convulsion Powder in my From Lady Wapole—Hillingdon, Uxbridge, Jau. 26, 1819.

Dr. Hadley.—Sir, I shall have great pleasure in desiring you te make use my own family and friends, and to the poor, I have experienced for many Soid in bottles at 4s. 6d. 11s. and 22s. each, by appointment of the Proprietor, and Sons, 95. Fleet-market; Messrs. Newty and Sons, 46. St. Paul's Church-yard; Edwards, 66, St. Paul's Church-yard; Stradling and Nix, Royal Exchange; Johnstone, Cornhill; and, throughout the United Kingdon.—Ask for Hadley's Convulsion Powder.

Month of the state of the state of the COAN EXCHANGE, FRIDAY, SEPT. 28.

CORN EXCHANGE, FRIDAY, SEPT. The supply of new Wheat since Monday has been been which the second is very tried or the process which the second is very tried or the interest in the second is very tried or the interest in the second is very tried or the interest in the second is very tried or the interest in the second is very tried or the second is very and fine out when more a readier sale, at an advantage of from, 2- to 3, per querie. Barley sells on quite as good errather better terms. In the more were on quite as good or rather better terms. In the more were on quite as good or rather better terms. In the more were on quite as good or rather better terms. In the more were on quite as good or rather better terms. In the more were on quite as good or rather better terms. In the more were on quite as good or rather better terms. In the more were on quite as good or rather better terms. In the more were determined as well PRICES OF WOLD AND SHATER

Portugal Gold, in Ceine 6 6 p. oz. Foreign Gold in Bars 3 17 101 — New Doubloons . . . . . . . . . . . . Silver in Bara Stand 0 0 0 0 New Louis, each 0 0 0 COURSE OF EXCHAN OB — FRIDAY, Sept. 29.

Austerdam | 12 16 C.F | Vrieste | V

FROM SEPTEMBER 24, TO SEPTEMBER 19, INC.

A very extensive house in the German trace australiant payments to-day, which has caused much plaras.

Seldom have we wisnessed a greater panic that that the pervaded the Coffee market during the present when the coffee Seldom have we witnessed a greater panic that was was pervaded the Coffee market during the present week; heeden, apparently, of prices, the importers have brought then stocks to the hanmer, which principally consisted of the lower qualifies of himsica, and upon these a decline of 7s. to 8s., per cwiches beas submitted to: Ordinary 82s, to 88s.; Good and Fine Ordinary 82s, to 103s.; the finer sorts of Plantation have, however, been he little affected, and which is also the case with foreign; the disches nancy, however, existing balance and Jamaious is too great pancy, however, existing between these and Jamaicas is too great to admit of its continuance.—No variation in R. P. Sugars; Foreign Sugars erjoy more demand and rather better prices; Yellow Has vannahs 30s, and Brazil ditto 26s.; the sale of East India Sugar went as low as 9s, to 11s, for Soft Brown; Fine Yellows 23s, to 24s, up to 36s, 6d, for good Whites—Refined Goods are rather lowin, Very little has been done in Rums, but Brundles are in request - Very Mille has been done in Rums, but Brundles are in request and have advanced to 4s. 2d. per gallon. — The saie of East India Rice was augmented to nearly 18,000 bags; nearly all wit disposed of at a small reduction; Bengal Ordinary to Fine 1ls. to 15s. 6d. per cwt.; Paina White 16s. to 16s. 6d.; subsequently very little has been done.—By a further declaration the sale of East India Cotton is postponed to the 12th proximo; the quantity state at 19,000 bales.— The business throughout the week has been but limited. limited, at previous prices; this remark is also applicable to the Liverpool Cotton murket.

om.	PUBLI Tues.		DS.
om.
-		_	- 1	V	1.00
- 1					_
	_	_		·	like
61	761	76	76	763
– 1			-		44.41
63	76}	762	701	264 €	1
- 1		_			5017
091	1091	2094	1086	1093	E-17
- 11	- 1	-	,  -	- `	260
- 1	64 p	_	64 P	62 p	856
	2 P	1 .			7 Y
			1	- '	1-786
- 1	'	·	"		Sizae's
	62 62 09}	63 763 091 1093 - 64 P p 2 p	63 763 769 091 1093 1094 64 p	63 763 763 703 091 1093 1093 1098 - 64 p - 64 p R 2 p 1 p 2 p	63 763 768 703 266 7091 1093 1093 1093 1093 1093 1093 1093 1

On Monday, the 24th inst. the Lady of J. P. Lockharz, May of Tradition square, of a son.

At Brixham, Devon, on Sunday, the 23d inst. the wife of Edward Hodge.

Esq. Purveyor to the Forces, of a daughter.

On Wednesday, the Lady of Sir Thos. D. Ackland, Bart. of a daughter.

On the 22d just. at Highbury-hill, the lady of the late Rev. H. G. Spering.

of a von. 6
On Thursday, at St. John's Lodge, Regent's Park, the lady of Charles as gastus Tulk, Esq. M. P. of a son.
On Tuesday, at Copped Hall, Mrs. Henry John Conyers, of a dampher of

On Thesday, at Copped rist, here reary experience of Walthamston.

On the 26th inst. by the Rev. John Mercwether, Charles Lean, But of Fenchurch-street, merchant, to Emma Cieghorn Proctor, of Walthamston, cidest daughter of Thomas Proctor, Esq. of Stamford-hill, and grand-daughter of the late Thomas Proctor, Esq. of Benger-hall, Herts.

On Thursday, at Kensington Charch, Georga Celly Lofins, Esq. sas of General and the late Lady Elizabeth Lofins, to Catherine, widow of F.S. Schuyler, Ran.

On Thursday, at Konsington
General and the late Lady Elizabeth Lottus, to Catherine, who was a Schuyler, Esq.
Monday, at Mary-le-bone Church, J. H. Markland, Esq. of the Inner Teaple, to Charlotte, eldest daughter of Francis Freeling, Esq. of the General Poet Office.

Tuesday, at St. George's, Bloomsbury, J. Bishop, Esq. to Emily, young daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Berkely, of Writtle, Essex.
On Wadnesday last, at Thuriow, Suffolk, Dr. Frederick Thackery, was parish.

Artery, at Mortlake, the Rev. Edw. James, Perpetual Curate of Martine, vals, eldest daughter of Frederick Reeves, Esq. of East Sheen, Spring.

DIED.

20th inst. aged 63, much and deservedly respected. Win the learning with the at Walwerth, George Bayly, Req. late Capt. in the sear of his age.

authorick Park, Mary Anne, wife of Thos. This is Croydon, Miss Mann, eldest daughir a e, Kent, in the outh year of her age, Wolfaston, Req. St. John C or brother, Viscount Clines Captain George

Sixth.

On the 1 Sth inst.

On the 1 n the 58th

On Sabued ay last, at 5.

On Sabued ay last, at 5.

thwayta, Esea

On Sundaya, the 23d inst. it

Interpretation of the 25th on the 25th o

On the goth meaning ary, the file of John Willis, on Thesday marning attreet, Mecadilly, Esc. 6. Ann Let

At Greenwish, or the 27th inst.

On the 25th of the 25t To the state of th

LOND'ON: Printed an a Published by R. T. WEAVEN, only Communications, to the Editor, (post paid) are received.

BUZZ

" FOR GOD, THE KING, AND THE PEOPLE!"

No. 43.

October

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1821.

Price 7d.

NEW MUSIC.-KIALLMARK'S universally-admired Variations NEW MUSIC,—KIALLMARK'S universally-admired Variations on the favourite Air, "Cease your Fanning," adapted for two performers on the Piano Forte, by D. Bruguier, price 3s.—Perry's Grand Coronation March, composed and arranged as a Duet for the Fiane Forte, price 2s.—Latour's celebrated "Le Retour de Windsot," arranged as a Duet for two performers on the Piano Forte, by D. Bruguier, price 5s.—The popular Air, "Sul Margine d'un Rio," an Italiaa Air, with Variations as a Duet for two performers on the Piano Forte, by Edw. Booth, price 2s. 6d.—Boleidied's favourite Overture, "Du Calife de Bagdad," arranged as a Duet for two performers on the Piano Forte, by T. Goodban, price 4s.—The above Duets are particularly recommended to the notice of the Musical World, being arranged by the first Masters of the present age.—London: Published by Maybev and Co. Music Sellers to Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Kent, 17 'Oul Bond street, where may be had, Hart's Fourth Set of Quadrilles, including "George the Fourth," Coronation Waltz, &c. 4s.

NEW ROYAL WEST LONDON THEATRE, Tottenham-street. Charlotte street, Fitzrov-square.—To-morrow, Tuesday, & Wednesday, a new Melo-Drame, called MYSTERIES of the CLOISTER. Principal Characters by Mr. Huntley and Miss Collier.—A new Ballet Dance. The Entertainments to conclude with the BLUE DEVILS—Meagrim (for this Night only) by Mr. Amhurst.

Night only) by Mr. Amhurst.

THEATRE ROYAL, GLASGOW.

TO BE LET for such a period of years as may be agreed upon.

THIS ELEGANT HOUSE, with the PATENT, SCENERY, MACHINERY, and APPURTENANCES.—As the great wish of the Proprietors is to place the establishment on the most respectable feeding, very liberal encouragement will be given to a Manager who is likely to accomplish this object.—Apply to Messrs. C. D. Donald and J. G. Hamilton, Virginia-street, Glasgow.

FRENCH TUITION on the NEW METHOD.

MR. N. G. DUFIEF respectfully acquaints Hends of Seminaries, Instructors of youth, and the Public in general, that he TEACHES the FRENCH LANGUAGE privately, and in classes, with such power and effect, that a more extensive knowledge of it may be acquired in England in three months than could be attained even in Paris in double that time, en a different principle, although under the ablest professors. Mr. Dufief begs to observe, that he gives, free of expense, every information concerning the.
New Method on personal application to him; and he refers persons interested in the rapid diffusion of knowledge to the Fourth Edition of "Nature Displayed in her Mode of Teaching Language to Man, adapted to the French, in which he peculiarly striking and numerous advantages of his unique system, which is the result of nearly 30 years' incessant study and experiment are mathematically demonstrated.—2, Ely-place, Holborn.

TO GENTLEMEN WISHING TO FINISH THEIR EDUCATION,
Or those who may be desirous of avoiding the tedious and disagreeable restraint of scholastic rules.

IN a pleasant and cheerful Village, about 40 miles South of Loudon, ONE or TWO GENTLEMEN may be BOARDED and EDUCATED in the more elegant and elevated Branches of Literature, on a Plan bitherto unattempted. For health and recreation, the numerous Trout Streams, and the surrounding Country, afford every amusement for Angling, Sketching, and for Sporting.
Particulars and Terms will be given, by application, at 29, Newgatestreet.

WILL BE CLOSED. on SATURDAY, October 20th, 1821, WARD'S GRAND PICTURE, the TRIUMPH of the BRITISH EMPIRE at WATERLOO, painted by order of the British Institution; size 36 feet by 21 feet, at the Egyptian Hall, Piccadilly. Admittance, 1a.; Catalogue, 6d.; Explanatory ditto, with ecched outline; 2s. 6d.

18.: Catalogue, 6d.; Explanatory ditto, with etched outline? 2s. 6d.

ROYAL WESTMINSTER INFIRMARY for the CURE of DISEASES of the EYE, 7, Mary-le-Bone Street, Piccadilly.

THE LECTURES on the ANATOMY, SURGERY, and DISEASES of the EYE, annually delivered by Dr. FORBES, the Physician, and Mr. GUTHRIE, the Surgeon of this Institution, will commence on MONDAY, the 15th inst. and be continued every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, at a quarter before ten o'clock, until the Course is completed.

J. COURTNEY, Hon. Sec.
All poor persous, afflicted with Diseases of the Eye, may apply for advice on the same days at half past ten o'clock, and may in general be furnished with Tickets of Admission, which have been left by different Governors of the Charity for that purpose.

DR. MERRIMAN, Physician Accoucheur to the Middlesex Hospital; and Dr. Ley, Physician Accoucheur to the Westminster Lying-in-Hospital, will commence a COURSE of LECTURES on the THEORY and PRACTICE of MIDWIFERY, and the Diseases of Women and Children, on MONDAY NEXT, the 8th of October, at Half past Ten oclock.

Particulars may be learnt at Dr. Merriman's, No. 26, Half Moon-street, Piccadilly; at Dr. Ley's, 24, Mount-street, Perkeley-square; and at the Middlesex Hospital, where the Lectures will be given.

Just published, by John Callow, Medical Bookseller, 16, Princes-street, Soho, in one vol. 8vo. with five copper-plates, price 12s. boards,
A SYNOPSIS of the various KINDS of PARTURITION; with A Practical Remarks on the Management of Labours.—By SAMUEL MERRIMAN, M.D. F.R.S. Lecturer on Midwifery. Third Edition, with considerable Additions, and an Appendix of illustrative Cases and Tables,—By the same Author, price 8s.

2. A DISSERTATION on RETROVERSION of the WOMB; including some Observations on extra Uterine Gestation.

Just published, by John Callow, Medical Bookseller, 16, Princes-street, Soho; and Simpkin and Marshall, Stationers-court, in one vol. Svo. Second Edition, with Additions, price 12s. hoards, PRACTICAL ELECTRICITY and GALVANISM; containing a Scries of Experiments, calculated for the Use of those who are desirous of becoming acquainted with that branch of Science. Illustrated with nine copper-plates. By JOHN CUTHBERTSON, Philosophical Justrument-maker, and Fellow of the Philosophical Societies of Holland and Utrecht.

Just published, by Samuel Bagster, No. 15, Paternoster-row,
A GERMAN GRAMMAR. By the Rev. FRED. NOLAN;
Petreve Chaldee; Syriack, French, Italian, and Spanish Grammars, 2s. 6d.
each; forming a POLYGLOTT GRAMMAR, in which the Genius of the principal Ancient and Modern Languages is explained upon an uni erm plan, and, by a new and simple principle of Analysis, applied to the improvements of the latest and most approved Grammarians.

plan, and, by a new and simple principle of Analysis, applied to the improvements of the latest and most approved Grammarians.

BIRD'S LANDLORD and TENANT.

Just published, in Svo. price 3s. 6d. sewed, the Ninth Edition of THE LAWS of LANDLORD, TENANT, and LODGERS, with Practical Directions concerning Leases, Assignments, Surrenders, Agreements, Covenants, Double Rent, Repairs, Waste, Rent, Distress, Bleetment, Notices to quit, &c. Also Treatises on Estates for Life, for Years, and Copyhold Estates; with an Appendix of Precedents for Letting Houses and Apartments. By JAMES BARRY BIRD, Esq.

This Publication will be found to contain a clear account of the Law relative to Landlord and Tenant, being written in a plain and familiar manner. A subject so generally useful, ought to be as generally known; but unfortunately for those to whom it more particularly relates, the private Gentleman, the Farmer, and the Tradesman, no Treatise has yet successfully unified the essential requisites in a work of this kind. To attain these desirable ends is the object of the present Treatise: the work is rendered intolligible to every class of readers, and will be found to contain every useful information on the subject; forming altogether a very perfect guide.

In Svo. 3s. 6d. sewed, the Seventh Edition of the Laws of Parish Matters. In Svo. price 3s. 6d. sewed, the Sixth Edition of the Laws respecting Wills, Executors, Administrators, and Guardians.

In Svo. 3s. 6d. sewed, the Fourth Edition of the Laws respecting Masters and Servants, and the Laws respecting Combinations.

The The above four publications may be had, if taken together, done up in one convenient volume, under the title of Law Selections, price 12s. bds. or 14s. 6d. bound.

Printed for J. and W. T. Clarke, Portugal-street, Lincoln's Innz of whom may be had, the second and last volume, containing the Law of Tithes, Turnpikes, and Highways, Commons, and Trayelling, &c. at the same price.

PRESENT STATE of BRAZIL.

PRESENT STATE of BRAZIL.

Just published, in 1 vol. 4to. with Maps and Plan, 2l. 12s. 6d. boards,

NOTES on RIO DE JANEIRO, and the SOUTHERN PARTS of BRAZIL, taken during a Residuace of ten Years in that Country, from 1808 to 1818; with an Appendix, describing the Signals by which Vessels enter the Port of Rio Grande do Sul; together with numerous Tables of Commerce, and a Glossary of Tupi Words. By JOHN LUCCOCK.

London: Printed for Samuel Leigh, 18, Sixand.

London: Printed for Samuel Lsigh, 18, Strand.

IMPROVED FRENCH DICTIONARY.

This day is published, in 12no, price 18s, 6d, bound, the Second Edition of A FRENCH and ENGLISH and ENGLISH and FRENCH DICTIONARY. By M. DE LEVIZAC, Anthor of the Practical Grammar of the French Language, &c. &c. thoroughly revised and improved; the two Parts carefully collated, with the indication of all the irregularities of the French Pronunciation; by C. GROS.

London: Printed for Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, Paternoster-row; G. and W. B. Whittaker, Ave Maria-lane; and Duhan and Co. Soho-square.

DF This Edition has been carefully revised by the Dictionnaire de l'Academie, has received considerable Additions, and contains a greater number of Words than any other School Dictionary of the French Language, though exceeding it in bulk and size.

FOR YOUNG PERSONS.

Just published, in 18mo, price 2s. 6d. half bound,

RALPH RICHARDS, the MISER, with a Frontispiece; by

JEFFERYS TAYLOR, of Ongar.

London; Printed for Baldwin, Cradeck, and Joy, Paternoster-row; by whom also are published of the same Author.

2. ESOP IN RHYME, with some Originals. 12mo, price 4s, half bound, with an Engraving to each Fable.

3. HARRYS HOLIDAY: or, the Doings of One who had Nothing to do.
Second Edition, 18mo, 2s. 6d. half bound. Also, just published.

4. LESSONS of LOVE; or, Family Instruction. Written by a Mother for her Children. 2s. 6d. half bound.

5. LIVES of LEARNED and EMINENT MEN, taken from authentic Sources. 2s. 6d. half bound.

THOROUGH BASS.

Just published, in small4to price 8s, neatly half bound,

THE CHILD'S INTRODUCTION to THOROUGH BASS, in Conversations of a Fortnight, between a Mother and her Daughter of, Ten Years old, illustrated by Plates and Cuts of Music.
London: Printed for Buldwin, Cradock, and Joy, Paternoster-row; and N. Hailes, Juvenile Library, Piccaedilly.

By The Author of this work enjoys, we think, the just distinction of having given to the musical world the most perspicuous, intelligible and popular treatise upon this hacknied subject of thorough bass that we have yet seen. It is the offspring of a mind acute and accurate, and directed by that genuine good sense which leads its possessor to seize and preserve the valuable parts of a subject, and to give them the exact form which is most consistent with the Author's and Reader's purpose.—Quarterly Musical Review, No. IV.

PRACTICAL and UNIVERSAL SUSPECT

PRACTICAL and UNIVERSAL SYSTEM of GAUGING.
Just published, price 9s., 6d. in boards, or 10s. 6d. very strongly and neatly half bound.

THE UNIVERSAL GAUGER of GREAT BRITAIN and IRE-THE UNIVERSAL GAUGER of GREAT BRITAIN and IRELAND, and General Spirit Calculator: being a Practical System of Gauging, by Pen, Sifaing Buile, Tatles, Gallipers, and Logarithms, according to the Mensures hitherto legally adopted in the British Dominious: and also according to the use Imperial Gallon; and containing opwards of 40,000
Original Calculations on Gauging, Spirits, &c. By W.M. GUTTERIDGE,
London: Printed for Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, Paternoster-row,
By This Work contains also a general Spirit Calculator and Ready Reckoner, both at proof strengts, and at 7 per Cent. above proof; and a Table for anding the Value of any Number of Articles at any Price, from a Farthing ad infinitum, by only a single operation of Multiplication: Also the Use of Hydrometers, Saccharometers, and Lactometers, &c. &c.

Farthing ad infinitum, by only a single operation of Multiplication: Also the Use of Hydrometers, Saccharometers, and Lactometers, &c. &c.

LLOYD on SCROPHULA

Just published, in one vol. 8vo. price 9s.

A TREATISE on SCROPHULA (to which the Jacksonian Prize was adjudged by the Royal College of Surgeons:) describing the Morbid Alteration it produces in the Structure of all the different parts of the Body, and the best mode of treating it, particularly in Children; also its connexion with Diseases of the Spine, Joints, Eyes, and Glands, more especially of the Female Breasts, Testes, and Prostate Gland; with particular reference also to the most improved plan of treating Spinal Curvatures. To which is added, an Account of the Ophthalmia, so long prevalent in Christ's Hospital. By EUSEBIUS ARTHUR LLOYD, Member of the Royal College of Surgeons is London, &c.

"There is much of practical and experimental wisdom in this division (Scrofulous Affections of the Bones and Joints) of the work, which stamps it at once as a classical book."—Medical Journal for October, 1821.

London: Printed for John Anderson, Medical Bookseller, 40, West Smithfield, and James Smith, 163, Strand. Also, just published.

2. FARMER on HEAD-ACHES. Price 2s. boards, Observations on certain Affections of the Head, commonly called Head-Aches; with a view to their more complete Elucidation, Prevention, and Cure; together with some brief Remarks on Digestion and Indigestion. By JAMES FARMER, Member of the Royal College at Surveous, London, &c. &c.

3. THE QUARTERLY JOURNAL of FOREIGN MEDICINE and SURGERY, and of the Sciences connected with them: No. XII. price 3s. 6d. (which completes the Third Volume)—Contents; I. Notice of the first Turkish Work on Anatomy and Medicine.—II. Schmidtman's Clinical Observations.—III. Boivin on Internal Uterine Hemorrhage.—IV. Chossat on the Indiana.—VII. Brero's Lectures on Contagions, and the Cure of their Effects, VIII. Dr. Golis on Acute Hydrosephalus.—IX. Baron Larrey's Surgical Memoirs. Analecta. 1. New Method o

TUESDAY, 30th of THIS MONTH, THE GRAND MONEY LOT-TERY BEGINS.

CARROLL, the Contractor, reminds his Friends and the Public of the approach of the Drawing. The Scheme has received the most decided approbation; it contains Three £30,000!!!—Thirty other Capitals, and not Twe Blanks to a Prize. There are no Classes, and every Prize is Sterling Money.

Sterling Money.

CARROLL's Offices, 19, Cornhill, and 26, Oxford-street, have always been remarkable for the Sale of Capital Prizes. The very last £39,000 Prize ever drawn, also No. 46, a £21,000 I Prize, and many other Capitals in the last Lottery, were all shared and sold by CARROLL.

MONEY LOTTERY.

MONEY LOTTERY.

MONEY LOTTERY.

MONEY LOTTERY.

SWIFT and Co. have the satisfaction of knowing that the superior merits of the present Scheme have obtained for it a great degree of public approbation. A plain statement of its leading features will be its best encomium.—It contains Three Prizes of £30,000, and many other Capitals. All the Prizes are of Sterling Money; and the good old fashion of "Not Two Blanks to a Prize" is again restored. This Scheme is so plain and simple, that no one can fail to understand it on the first perusal. The Drawing begins on the 30th of the PRESENT MONTH (October).

SWIFT and Co. 5 Offices, No. 11, Poultry; 12, Charing-Cross; and 31, Aldgate High-street, have been fortunate to the Pablic in the sale of great Prizes, particularly the last £30,000 Money Prize ever drawn.—Schemes at large graits.

THIRTIETH of THIS MONTH, (OCTOBER,) LOTTERY begins. Three Prizes of £30,000, and 30 other Capitals, besides 6,700 other Prizes. All Sterling Money!—No Stock Prizes!—Every Ticket drawn singly!

Tickets and Shares are selling by BISH, 4, Cornhill, and 9, Charing.
Cross; who has sold more than half of all the £30,000 Prizes that have ever been.

13 The Prices of Stocks are affixed, hourly, against BISH'S Office, in Cornhill, by which the Public can see the fluctuations.

Just published,

DLACKWOOD'S EDINBURGH MAGAZINE, No. LV, for September, 1821.

Contents:—I. The New Forest Paper—II. Prospective Leiter concerning Poetry—III. Notices of old English Comedies. No. 1, Eastward, Hol—IV. Adventure in the North-West Territory—V. Selavonic Traditional Poetry—VI. Expedition against the Pirates of the Gulph of Persia, 1819-20—VII. Timburdoo and Mungo Park—VIII.—Letter from Bill Truck, inclosing "The Man-of-war's man, Chap. I.—IX. The Steam Boat, No. 7. London Adventures, Tale 11. The Effigies, Tale 12. The Broken Heart—X. On Feldberg's Denmark—NI. Way are Poets indifferent Crities?—XII. Gracious Rain,—XIII. A Mother's Dige over her Child—XIV. Morsels of Melody, Part 2.—XV. On Coplestone's Inquiry into the Doctrines of Necessity and Prefestination, Better 1.—XVI. Martin, the Carder, a West Meathian Tale—XVII. Familiar Epistles to Christopher North, from an Old Friend with a New Face, Letter 2. On Anastasius, by —— Lord Byron—XVIII. The Voyages and Travels of Columbus Secundus, Chap. II and 12.—XIX. Dr. Scott's Return from Paris II!—XX. Expestulation with Mr. Barker—XXI. Familiar Epistles to Christopher North, from an Old Friend with a New Face, Letter 3. On the Personalities of the Whigs and the Outer's against Maga—XXII. The late Queen—XXIII. The King Visit to Ireland—XXIV. Works preparing for Publication—XXV. Monthly List of New Publications—XXVI. Monthly Register, &c.

Printed for T. Calell and W. Davies, Strand, London; and W. Blackwood, No. 17, Prince's-street, Edinburgh.

No. 17, Prince's-street, Edinburgh.

PHILLIPS ON FRUITS.

Just published, handsomely printed in 8vo, with Three Plates, price 10s. 6d.

The Second Edition of

POMARIUM BRITANNICUM; an Historical and Botanical Account of Fruits known in Great Britain. By HENRY PHILLIPS.

Printed for T. and J. Allman, Prince's-street, Hanover-square.

"We have now approached the close of our selections from Mr. Phillips's beok, and when we look back on their variety, importance, and interesting melasge of intelligence and anecdote, we feel assured that they must have been acceptable to the public. But it would be doing gross injustice to the author not to add, that they are but meagre samples of that mass of carlous matter which he has laid before us. His work, for extent of information, utility, and other good qualities which can be desired in a production of its kind, is really deserving of the warmest enlogy."—See Literary Gazette, Sept. 9; and four previous Numbers.

TAW —A young Gentleman who has been brought up to the AW.—A young Gentleman who has been brought up to the Pro'ession, and is acquainted with both Town and Country Practice, not having the command of Capital to enable him to make his connections beneficial to his interests, wishes to engage himself as a CLERK in an Office efrespectability; or to form a Partnership with a Gentleman who can join Capital to the advantages of the exertions and connections of the Advertiser, whobeing of active habits, is willing to take the Fag of Business.—Letters (Post-paid) addressed to W. G. Guildhall Coffee-house, will meet with immediate attention.

ADELPHI THEATRE.

TO-MORROW EVENING the Entertainments will commence with (Seventh Time) a Comic Burletta called CAPERS AT CANTER-BURY. After which BRUNO, or the SULTAN'S FAVOURITE. The whole to conclude with the Pantomine of the FAIRY of the NORTH STAR.

THREE OF £30,000 MONEY!

J. and J. SIVEWRIGHT solicil the favours of the Public at their Old and Fortunate Offices, $7, Cornhill, 11, Holbord, and 38, Haymarket, London; where they had the satisfaction, in the very last Lottery, to share and sell No. 4421, £25,000; 2.053, £21,000; 1466, £4,000; 9,182, £2,400; 12,730, £2,400; 19,023, £2,100; besides many smaller Capitals. And they also sold in Shares all the £20,000 Prizes in one Lottery of the preceding Contract. J. and J. SIVEWRIGHT have no hesitation in recommending the Scheme of the present Lottery (which begins on TUES-DAY, 30th THIS MONTH) to the attention of their Friends and the Public;—it contains Three Prizes of £30,900! and 30 other Capitals—All Money—with not two Blanks to a Prize.—£30,000 for the first-drawn Prize. Tickets and Shares are on sa'c at their fortunate Offices, where they hope to have the pleasure of paying to the Public one or more of the £30,000, Prizes, and by their Agents.

SATURDAY'S GAZETTE, SEPT. 29.

PARTNERSHIPS DISSOLVED.

Yeadon and Matthews, Sheffield, entlers.—G. Bays and Co. Great St. Amestreet, Westminster, corn-dealers.—Moserand Atkinson, King-street, Cheapside, linen-drapers.—Kettlewell and Emerson, Friday-street, warehousemen.—Abbott and Roser, Lamb's-buildings, Bunhill-row, soap-makers.—Stott and Hoyle, Rawtenstall, Forest of Rossendale, Lancashire, cotton-manufacturers.—S. Ashton and Brothers, Hyde, Newton; and Werneth, and Manchester, cotton-spinners.—B. Ashton and Co. Newton Bantu, and Manchester, calico-printers.—G. T. and M. Elgie, Lincoln, attornies at law.—J. Rigby and Sons, Manchester, silk and cotton-manufacturers.—Hill and Hohne, Carlisie, mercers and drapers.—R. Coates and Son, Manchester, cotton-spinners.—Hold, friars, tin and iron plate-workers,—H. and W. Bishop, Chatham, grocers.—Messrs. Bankart, and Benson, Leicester, woolstaplers,—Davis and Hooker, Bermondsey, hair-merchants.—Ball, Hamilton and Co. St. Austell, merchants.—Sugden and Woodcock, Leeds, Yorkshire, machinematers.—Byrne and Eccles, Whittle-in-le-Woods, Lancashire, coal-dealers.—Hine and Scarlett, jun. Clement's-lane, provision-dealers.—Mayhew, Price, and Styan, Chancery-lane, attornies.—Hoyle, Chatburn, and Co. calico-printers, Manchester, so far as respects W. Fathergill.—Taylor and Beavan, Newgate-street, milliners.—C. and R. Dewes and Ansel, Wentworth-street, Spital-fields, sngar-refiners.—Dann, Johnson, and Bird, New Bond-street, tea-dealers.—Budd and Jones, Nelson-place, City-road, Legloora and chip hat-pressers.—Evans and Dunn, Bristol, wool-brokers.—Letton and Sherman, Greenwich, plumber.

LAST NIGHT'S GAZETTE.

LAST NIGHT'S GAZETTE.

WHITEHALL, OCT. 6, 1821.

The King arrived at Brussels on Thursday the 27th of last month, in good health. His Majesty left that city on Monday morning the 1st instant, accompanied by the Duke of Wellington and the Earl of Clancarty; and after visiting the Fields of Waterlow, slept at Sombrefthat night.

WAR-OFFICE, Oct. 5, 1821.

July 25.—2d Reg. Life Guards.—Ass. Surg. S. Broughton, to be Surg. rick Moore, who retires.—E. Cutler, Gent. to be Ass.—Surg. vice Broughton.

Commissions signed by the Lord Lieutenant of the West Riding of the County of York, City and County of the City of York.

E. B. Denison, Esq. to be Dep. Lieut.—R. York, Esq. to be ditto.

July 25.—24 West York Millitia.—Capt. H. Priestley to be Majer, vice Sericantson, resigned.

3d West York Millitia.—F. W. Chambers, Gent. to be Bris.

Yorkshire Hussar Yeomanry—Lieut. R. L. Lee to be Capt.—Cornets J. L. Kaye, and the Hon. J. H. Cradeck, to be Lieuts.—Lord Muneaster, and R. Gilbert, Gent. to be Cornets.

Southern Reg. of Yorkshire (West Riding) Yeomanry Cavalry.—J. Wray, Gent. to be Ass.—Surg.

Craven Legion Cavalry—Lieut. T. M. Johnson to be Capt.—Cornet J. B. Hall to be Lieut.—R. Tillotson, Gent. to be ditto—J. Garth, Gent. to be Cornets.

Ensign R. Bramley to be Lieut.—Brown, Gent. Jun. to be Ensign.

Commissions signed by the Lord Lieut. of the County of Gumberland.

To be Dep. Lieuts.—R. Ferguson, Esq.—R. Fawcett, Esq.—W. Fleicher.

Clerk.

Royal Cumberland Reg. of Militia.—W. Widdup, Gent., and L. L. Wynne, lerk. Royal Cumberland Reg. of Militia.—W. Widdup, Gent. and L. L. Wenne.

cent to be Lieuts.

Commissions signed by the Lord Lieut, of the County of Westmorland.

Royal Westmorland Reg. of Militia.—T. A. Maling, Gent. to be Ensign.

Westmorland Yeomanry Cardry.—E. W. Hasell, Esq. to be Major.—G. routbeck, Esq. to be Capt.—H. Addison, Gent to be Lieut.

BANKRUPTS.

LAMBER C. B. Ardwick, new Manchester catter manufacturer.

I.AMBER'C, R. Ardwick, near Manchester, cotton-manufacturer, ROWBOTTOM, R. Oldham, machine-maker.
MOODY, S. Frome Selwood, Someraetshire, baker.
BOWER, J. Tothift-street, Westminster, grocer.
THOMPSON, J. T. Long Acre, coach-joiner.
EVANS, T. B. Strand, wine and brandy-merchant.
WELLS, S. Middleton Garden, Pentonville, fruiterer. - 1 m of E

Digitized by Google

TUESDAY'S GAZETTE.

PARTNERSHIPS DISSOLVEB.

Pedder, Readhead, and Hockett, Gould-square, ship-brokers.—Greenwood and Bley, Thornbury, straw bonnet-makers.—J. and H. Hodgaen, Paul edd wine-merchanta,—biilla and Baker, Asiborue, chymists.—E. and S. White, Red Llon-street, surgeons.—Ely and Downing. Hope-wharf, Wapping, wharfingers.—Godwin, Dawes, Reeve, Mills, Fortsmonth, and Rickmain, Gospert, contract-butchers.—Irish, Whittaker, and Perkins, Blackmaintest, chymiats.—T. D. and T. Cotton, Finch-lase, stock-agents.—Ballinger and Coventry, Union-street, (no trade)—Pugh and Rowsell, Bankelde, coal-merchants.—Adams and Platt, Liverpool, cart-owners.—J. R. and J. Pretty, Hilston, ironmongers.—T. and 40. Vining, Bristol, com-factors.—Thou, Smith, and Salter, Hailfax, Nova Scotia, (no trade).—Wilson, Browne, and St. Barbe, Ratcliffe-highway, brewers.—Kay and Shepherd, Bury, machine-makers.

BANKRUPTS. MBRCBR. H. Liverpool, merchant.
WARD, T. Seam, Yorkshire, maltster.
WHITEHEAD, R. Werithnell, Lancashire, corn-merchant.

WHITEHEAD, R. Werithnell, Lancashire, corn-merchant.

DIVIDENDS.

Oct. 29, T. Cave, Hindley, dealer.—Nov. 2, J. Blackett, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, batcher.—Nov. 3, M. Cohen, Devonshire-street, exchange-broker.—Oct. 27, W. Williams and A. Whyte, New Bond-street, hatters.—Nov. 17, B. and J. Troughton, Wood-street, silkmen.—Oct. 27, T. Garbutt, Manchester, woollen-cord-manufacturer.

CERTIFICATES—Oct. 22.

Jr Carver, Lancing, Sussex, farmer.—J. Dalton, Bury St. Edmunds, surgeon.—S. Garton, Wood-street, silk-mannfacturer.—J. Lawrance, Pimilico, wine-merchant.—J. Waddington, Reading, shoemaker.—R. Gower, St. Austell, linen-draper.—J. Drake, Lewisham, master-mariner.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE

PARIS, SEPT. 30.—The King of England left Calais on the morning of the 26th. About five in the evening of that day, the cannon of the citadel of Lisle announced the approach of His Majesty to that city. The Marquis de Jumilhac, who had arrived an hour previously, proceeded at the head of his staff, to the Paubourg de la Barre, to accompany the King on his entrance. A trivial ac-cident procured to the inhabitants of Lisle the pleasure of having a full view of His Majesty. Near the barrier, a spring of the carriage broke, and the postillions pulled up. The carriage of Madame de Lamairie followed that of the King; this lady alighted, and had the honour of ceding it to the Monarch, who, at the instantant mense multitude preceded His Majesty, who was welcomed by the most animated acclamations, which he acknowledged in an affection. anisst animated accumiations, which he acknowledged in an affectionate manner. The King alighted at the Motel de l'Europe, where he received the principal authorities. The population of title town thronged the Rue Basse, in which the hotel is situated. In the course of the evening the garrison band played various military airs and select symphonics under the windows of the saloon.—Garatte de France. cette de France.

His Majesty, the King of England, having passed the night at Lisle, left that city on the morning of the 28th instant, for Brussals, where he would arrive the same evening. It was expected, that after having dined with the whole Court, this Monarch would go to the theeless to see the Ower of the Passed was a constant. the theatre, to see the Opers of the Bayaderes performed. To the details which have already been given relative to the stay of this Sovereign at Calais, we have to add, that on drinking the first glass of wine after dinner, at the Hotel Dessin, His Majesty gave—"Gentlemen, I drink the health of the King of France," With his last glass he toasted "The good welcome which I have resided in this town."—Every thing concurs to induce the belief that releved in this town."—Every thing concurs to induce the belief that His Majesty will visit neither Vienna nor Paris, as has been remoured.—Journal de Paris.

The King of England left Lisle on the morning of the 27th, ut half past nine o'clock, after breakfast, at which were present MM, de la Chatre and Jumilhac, the Prefect, and the Mayor. His Majesty took the route to Belgium. At the moment of his departure, M. de Jumilhac received a very benutiful snoff-box; the proprietor of the Hotel de l'Europe a draft for 6000 francs; the guard another for 500 francs; and the band one for 200 francs.—Courier Franc.

The Moniteur contains a Royal Ordinance, dated the 27th Sept.

After reciting that his Majesty has received information of the progress of the yellow fever in Catalonia and other provinces of Spain, it directs that all communication by land between Catalonia and the Department of the Bustern Pyrennees shall cease until a new order, except by the route of Perthus, and that every traveller coming from Spain shall perform quarantine at that place.

Oct. 2.—On Sunday, at noon, an attempt was made to assassinate Major-General the Baron Dujon, by the Sieur Ruault, formerly an officer in the 2d regiment of Curassiers of the Royal Guard, who was dismissed from the corps, whilst it was under the command of the Baron. He forced his way through the window into the study of the General, and stabbed him in the region of the bases the band and the shoulder. The assassin was consent heart, the head, and the shoulder. The assassin was secured.

Letters from Perpignan of the 21st ult. state, that from Barce. long to the French frontiers there were no symptoms of contagion. The French Sanitary Cordon, however, keeps up an unceasing vigilance. The troops bivouac as if in the presence of an enemy. The Caducee, a Marseilles Journal, of the 25th ult. affirms in posi-The Caduces, a Marseilles Journal, of the 25th utr. amrins in positive terms that the yellow sever is not in the city, but alludes obscurely to a circumstance that had occurred, which, according to the explanation given by the Journal de Lyon of the 28th, was, that a man who had been employed in the Lazarette had been taken ill after his return to the City, in consequence of which he was conveyed to the Lazaretto, together with six of his comrades and all the inhabitants of the house in which he resided. It is added however that the discount with which he had been attacked added, however, that the disorder with which he had been attacked turned out not to be the yellow fever.

By a letter from the agent to Lloyd's at Genov, dated the 22d ult, all vessels bound there from Fortugal, Spain (including Gibraltar), the South of France, and Balearic Islands, are to be subjected to ten days' quarantine in the Gulf of Spezzia.

An article dated Venice, the 19th ult. states, that the two Austrian Captains who were captured by a Turkish corsair, have been released by a French frigate, which has taken the corsair, and carried him into Smyrna, where he will be punished with all the NAPLES, SEPT. 14.—The daring ravages of numerous bands of robbers call imperiously for strong and decisive measures; a correspondence on the subject has taken place between this Government and Cardinal Gaasalvi, the Minaster of the Pope, and it has been agreed that the two States (Rome and Naples) shall unite their utmost exertions to exterminate those banditti. The provinces of the kingdom have been united into four districts, to each of which has been appointed a General, with absolute authority; each of these Generals is accompanied by a Commissary of the King. The far greater port of these hands are composed of disabled troops and expatriots. The leader was a Colonel of the Constitutional Militia, who has ravaged and leid under contribution whole towns and villayer. A short time back he set fire to by night, and destroyed every thing that was consumeable on the estate of a respectable proprietor who had thought fit to refuse his black mail, and to re-oist his regressions.

Frame very SEFT. 20.—The King of England will proceed from hence to He we Homburg, then to Sentgard, and perhaps to Darm-

. Accounts from Odesso of S. pt. 2, mention the receipt of news from Co. stantinople of the 27th Au. stating that the Turks had given some Ar. denian churches to the Gr. eks. The Greeks at Odessa complain bitt, why that the Sultan has spointed a new Pattersh in an illegal ma wher, that is without the concurrence of the great Synod (all the measures of which were put to death); that the articles found in their possession to be that Gentleman they will not recognise him; that he has leaved a pastored letter, perty. They were fully cormitted for the robbery.

which is, to fact, as an items, which file problems, the unhapped Gregory, was forced to ago. Learly, they indice that the new Patriarch is a Jew in dispuse.

SEPT. 25.—Lords Varmouth and Bolingbroke, Chumberlaine of His Britannic Majesty, have just arrived here. The repairs and embellishments which have been made at the Hotel of the English egation, for the reception of the King, will cost upwards of 5000 florins.

HAMBURGH, SEPT. 28 .- The Russian Minister here had two Couriers within a short interval of each other; the first came from Berlin, the other from Stockholm. It is said the differences respecting the affairs of Turkey, notwithstanding the moderation of the Courts interested, not only continue, but that the negociations do not promise a pacific result. On the other hand it is affirmed that the Court of St. Petersburgh has sent a Circular to the other Powers stating, that a dispatch from the Grand Vizier by no means satisfies the just demands of the Emperor; his Majesty proposes to call together an European Congress upon this subject.

News have been received at Bremen, that the learned Profes Schweigger, of Konigsburgh, who set out a year ago on a scientific tour to the East, has been murdered near Palermo by his postillion.

ANTWERP, SEPT. 28.—Important negociations have recently taken place between the Cabinets of Petersburgh and Stockholm. It is thought their object was relative to certain stipulations in the Treaty of Kiel, respecting the cession of Norway to Sweden, of which treaty the Emperor Alexander is the declared guarantee. AMSTERDAM, SEPT. 97.—Accounts from Batavia, of May 21, are more favourable respecting the health of the Europeans. The number of victims was less by three-fourths than before.

Berlin, Sept. 13.—Many persons suppose that the King of England will come and spend a week in this capital. We have good reason to doubt the truth of this news. A courier, whom Count Munster has sent here, has given rise to various speculations The only thing certain is, that there will be a meeting on the fromtiers between the two Sovereigns.

Intelligence from the banks of the Rhine state, that all the preparations for the King of Great Britain at Hanover are completed. His Majesty will make his solemn entry into that city about the middle of October.

STOCKHOLM, SEPT. 18 .- Our Court has now put on mourning for the late Queen of England. The King and the Crown Prince are expected to return to this city the day after to morrow. The harvest proves very bad in the northern provinces of the kingdom.

COPENHAGEN, SEFT. 22.—The news of the rising of corn prices in England has caused a great activity in our corn trade. Many persons, however, fear that the prices will soon fall again.

AUGSBURG, SEFT. 24.—It is affirmed that the Russian Cabinet, although it manifests entire satisfaction upon some points, such as the raising of the embargo and the re-establishment of the free passage of the Dardanelles, insists, in the most formal manner, upon obtaining entegorical and more precise answers relatively to several objects on which the Ottoman Note expresses itself but very superficially. The Declaration of the Russian Cabinet, which contains ample developments, has been transmitted to the Porte, through the medium of M. de Lutzow, the Austrian Internuncio at Constantinents.

TROPPAU, SEPT. 12 .- The Russian troops which were on the frontiers of Prussia have marched for the interior of the empire.

PRUTH, SEPT. 9.—Prince Ypsilanti was still at Mongatz on the 4th inst.; and the accounts intely given of his release, and conse-4th inst.; and the accounts intely given of his release, and consequently of his departure for the Peloponnesus, are not confirmed.

Madrid, Srr, 17.—The King will return to Madrid on the 22d.

A courier extraordinary has brought an account of the death of General Arco Agnero, Commander of the province of Estremadura. He left Endajos on the 13th, with his Aide-de Camp and some friends, to hunt. His horse having started off with the bit in his teeth, the General wished to alight, but was thrown with his foot entangled in the stirrup, and was killed.

The Report on the events of the night of the 20th August is published. It states that General Morillo acted on that occasion conformably to military law, and that Lieut. Mancebo had insulted General Morillo. The Report recommends that the result of the General Morillo. The Report recommends that the result of the Inquiry should be communicated to General Morillo; and Lieut. Mancebo tried. The Minister at War, in transmitting the result of the inquiry to General Morillo, intimuted to him that his Majesty was resolved he should immediately assume the command of the province.

SEPT. 21.—The Captain-General conducts himself with great vigour, and has organised a new military police, which day and night parade the city, dispersing the populace, and even entering several public and private houses to disperse the disaffected. The Captain-General hasissued Proclamations to the Municipal Authorities, and to the citizens, expressing his determination, at all hazards, to prevent disturbance, by the signal punishment of persons disposed to act in hostility to the law.

A letter from Mount Louis, dated the 19th Sept. confirms the previous accounts, that unwards of 67.000 nassports were delivered SEPT. 21 .- The Captain-General conducts himself with great previous accounts, that upwards of 67,000 passports were delivered before the establishment of the cordon of health. It was concealed from the inhabitants that this cordon would be formed at a very little distance from the town; as soon, however, "as it was known to them, they committed and excesses. The civil authorities had quitted the town

PETERSBURGH, SEPT. 4 .- The Baron de Stregonoff is expected here immediately. Letters from Vienna state, that he had set out for Petersburgh, after having had an interview of two hours with here immediately. General the Count de Wittgenstein. The Petersburgh Journals do not speak of the departure of the Emperor—Guzette de France.

-The St. Petersburgh Gazette states that the wet weather has done great injury to the crops in the government of Pskow, the summer core and hay being carried away by inunda-tions. The harvest of the winter corn was not begun, partly on account that it was not ripe, and on account of the contin

Extract of a letter from a young officer of His Majesty's ship Medina, at Smyrna:—"When I went on shore the other day for fresh beef I saw two poor Greeks who were just hung up over the beam of a door by the Turks (the doors here having a beam or two projecting out, thatched to keep the sun from them). These poor fellows were just slung up as I passed by, with a small cord made fast to the latch of the door, three or four Turks standing by at the time. A few days back the bodies of eight Greeks floated by our ship, and cometimes they have killed twenty in one night. Since ship, and sometimes they have killed twenty in one night. Since we have been here the Greeks have taken from the Turks a corvette and two brigs, and burnt a seventy-four and six brigs, by sending fire-ships in among them."

THE MURDER AT HIGHGATE. On Priday the final examination of Barrett and his wife took place before the Rev. Dr. Owen, at A woman, named Hopkins, stated, that on the morning of the murder of Sells, she saw Barrett about six o'clock turn down Hornsey-lane, and he stopped as if to consider which way he should go; he crossed Ashbrett's field exactly at the back of Mr. Hale's house, and near some hay stacks there was a black man sitting in a kollow; Barrett appeared as if he had left the black man and crossed a stile and proceeded to the point where she had first seen him; the black man went away. Burrett denied what the woman had sworn to be true; he never crossed the field nor stile. He went that morning to tell the deceased's son of the death of his father. The prisoners were afterwards examined as to the robbery at Mr. Rothschild's, and several witnesses proved many of the articles found in their possession to be that Gentleman's pro-

The King arrived at Brussells on the 87th tilt. at half o'clock in the evening, and on the following day His Majest dined with the King of the Netherlands at the Palace of Luck Three of the royal carriages were in readiness at half-past three o'clock, when His Majesty, who was dressed in the full uniform of a Field Marshol, took his seat, attended by Lord Chincarty and the Marquis of Conyugham, Sir Benjamin Bloomfield, and some of gentlemen of His Majesty's suite, followed immediately after. The announcement that His Mujesty was to set out brought together crowd of spectators. His Majesty did not return from the Palage till past one o'clock the following morning; he was much pleased with the style in which he was received there. A company of French performers, from the principal theatre, acted a private play for the entertainment of His Mujesty, and a few select individuals received invitations to attend. In the evening His Majesty was present at the representation of the Bayaderes, at the Theater Royal. The King of the Netherlands and all the Royal Pamily, the Duke of Wellington, the Marquis of Londonderry, a great number of illustrious strangers, as well as an immense crowd of spectators, were present, and the theatre overflowed. His Majesty et out on Monday morning at nine o'clock for Namur; he will visit the plain of Waterloo as he passes. He took the road to Hus, Liege, and Aix-la-Chapelle, to Germany. His Majesty purchasel some magnificent Brussels lace and some articles of jewellen. His Majesty's style of travelling, with the exception of an except, is more in the fashion of an English nobleman them in the spiendom of a British Monarch. The King of France had ordered relays of cavalry to escort our King through that country, but His Majesty declined that mark of respect. His Majesty's gracious case and cheerfulness, at the various places where he stops, have infatte most favourable impressions.

INSOLVENT DEBTOR'S COURT. ad accept

wied mean

On Wednesday Wm. Ashton was opposed by Mr. Heath on be half of several creditors. The Insolvent had been discharged under the Insolvent Act in April, 1817, and that he had not obtained the consent of three-fourths of his creditors to present his present ped-tion, the want of which left it in the discretion of the Court whetion, the want of which left it in the discretion of the Court whether he should be heard before the expiration of five years from List discharge—Mr. Barlow stated, that in July, 1817, the Insolvent represented himself as a man of property, who was fond of agricultural pursuits, and proposed taking from him 100 acres of wasteland, which he said he would improve. Mr. Barlow was induced by those representations to let him the land, and also to sail him a quantity of birch that was growing upon it, and which Mr. E. a quantity of birch that was growing upon it, and which Mr. E. sold was well worth 1001, but as an encouragement he gave it his for 201. The Insolvent kept possession of the land a year, pail but one quarter's rent, never haid out a shifling on the property, sold the birch and every thing else that he could sell, and then ran away.—Mr. Bradberry stated, that he also had let the Insolven 100 acres of land; the lands adjoined, and Mr. Bradberry's had a large house on it, which was much out of repair. The insolven said he would put it in complete repair, and lay out 20001, aparthe property. He never haid out a shifting in improvements or remains or really any rest; but, after selling every thing, he rerepairs, nor pald any rent; but, after selling every thing, he ran away, and was found in London passing by another name.—The Court said the Insolvent's conduct did not entitle him to any favor, he must therefore obtain the consent of three-fourths of his creditors before his petition could be entertained.

John Hobbs, who had been examined on a former day, came up for final examination.—The Insolvent's discharge was opposed by his brother-in-law,——Bridle, the late guoter of Ilchester, on the ground of concealment of property, Bridle alleging that the insolvent had not accounted for his furniture.—The Insolvent, on his former examination, stated, that since he lost his situation of taskmaster of lichester prison, his wife had been obliged to dispose of his furniture for the support of herself and eight children, but le could not then say who had been the purchaser. — The case was at that time adjourned to give the Insolvent time to procure affidirly in proof of the statements he made. A number of affidavits with that view were this day read; one of which was made by the insivent's wife, in which she named the several persons to whom she had sold the furniture, amongst whom was the well known Henry Hunt, who confirmed the statement of his having purchased a part of the Insolvent's furniture, and gave him on excellent character for honesty, &c. in which he was joined by several other deponents -The Court were of opinion he was fully entitled to the benefit of the Act. He was forthwith discharged,

Joseph Strange was opposed by Messrs, Barry and Cook of behalf of his landlord and several other creditors. The institute had been a farmer and cattle-dealer at Stonehaven, in Dorsessire; being in arrear of rent, he sent his cattle and furniture to his brother's, and shut up his house. A witness who saw the insolvent re-moving his property by night, stated that he (insolvent) requested him to keep counsel; and the landlord's solicitor deposed, that him to keep counsel; and the landlord's solicitor deposed, the when he accused the insolvent of having made away with his property, he appeared very sorrowful, and cried, but did not deny it. The insolvent said he was indebted to his brother, and gave him the property in payment.—The Court said it was very evident that the insolvent had either concented his second. broperty in payment.—The contrada is property, or given an undue preference to a creditor, and in either case it was necessary that he should be visited with the consequences of his conduct. The judgment of the Court therefore was, that he should not be discharged until he should be imprisoned 18 months after the date of fling his nution. William Humphreys was opposed. He lind been sent to prison of a 14th May, and did not file his petition till the 27th July ; the day the 14th May, and did not file his petition till the 27th July; the data after, he sold his furniture, which was valuable; and on the 4th of August he assigned the property then in his possession, which was of trifling value, to the provisional assignce of the Court, without making any mention of what he had sold. The insolvent soid be had sold his furniture to support himself in prison and to defray the expense of obtaining his discharge.—The Court animadverted on the insolvent's conduct in not truly stating all the property he was possessed of at the time of his going to prison, the whole of which should be assigned to the provisional assignee of the Court, after which the insolvent might apply to the Court to be allowed a sufficiency for his support and necessary expences. The judgment the Court was, that the insolvent should not be discharged until be should be in prison nine months from the date of filing his petition.

James Robinson, a sailor, was brought up to be heard, and was not opposed; but it appeared by his examination that he had sold his watch while in prison for his support; and, on reference to his schedule, that he had not mentioned having a watch when he was arrested.—The Court told the insolvent it was his daty to have stated in his schedule all the property of every sort that he had in his possession at the time he was arrested, and as he had not done so, be could not be discharged immediately. "I am sorry for it, Sir," said the Insolvent. "I am sorry too," said the Chief Com-Sir," said the Insolvent. "I am sorry too," suid the Chief Commissioner, "but your case is one I am bound to notice for the benefit of others; but as I believe you acted in ignorance, and were probably urged by distress, the judgment of the Court is, that you shall he discharged in two months from the data of filling you petition."

ASSIZES.

WATERFORD.—Michael Crosbie was indicted for the mander of James Bluett, on the mountains of Stieve Green, on the 19th of June. The evidence proved, that a number of riotous persons had collected on the mountains, and that Bluett was among the number, and was shot when the military attempted to disperse them. The Learned Judge laid down the law on the subject of rioting, and said, that if when a riotous mob, of the description they heard of, collected together, howering round, and threatening to assail a public officer in the discharge of his duty, could there be a doubt of their object? Was the Sub-Sheriff them to have retreated from such a band of invless savages? No, Geatlemen, said his Lordship, it would have degraded the two, and brought it into contempt; and his attempting to do so, would most probably have increased the audacity of, the mobi, and have led to more serious consequences. The Learned Judge them said, if the Jury believed the evidence, they should acquit the prisoner.—The Jury immediately returned a verdict of Not Guilty, and the prisoner was discharged.

Terence Abserm, John Absent, John Mansfield, Michael Lenne, and six others were traited.

and six others, were indicted at these Assizes for a riot at the lands of Grilagh, in this county, on the 19th of June last. Charles Maunsell, Sub-Sheriff of the county, was ordered to take a sufficient force on the day in question, to disperse a riotous party on the lands of Grilagh and Ballylangaden; a notice had been posted up against a house, the previous day, of the illegality of the meeting he went to the ground, he saw about 200 persons levelling a house two stories high, and sinted; saw several on horseback, and others approaching from different parts of the mountain, supposes two or three thousand; they were shouting; the house was inhabited; saw the inhabitants coming out of the house; witness several times called to the mob in the King's name to disperse; but instead of dispersing, they shouted, and con-tinued their attack on the house, and had made breaches in two angles of it; witness hastened on, with some of the Magistrates, gentlemen, and constables, round by a passable part of the glen to the mob; witness several times called on the mob, told them he was Sheriff, and commanded them in the King's name to disperse, but instead of so doing they shouted; witness attempted to take one of the mob prisoner; witness said to him in English, that he was the King's prisoner; he replied in Irish, that he did not understand him; on which witness said in Irish, "you are the King's prisoner," the man then said in Irish, "I am not by J-s," and at the same time took up his slave, in an attitude of attack on witness; all witness's efforts to disperse the mob were ineffectual; consulted with the Magistrates, and made a signal for the military to come up; and after they came up they fired over their heads; the mob then dispersed, in two bodies, in different directions; the military were sufficiently near to kill a great many, if they chose witness ordered them to be pursued, and followed the large body and took the men at the bar prisoners.—Some of the prisoners were not identified. The Jury retired, and brought in a verdict of Guilty against Michael Lenane, John Abeurn, and Terence Abeara; and acquitted the prisoners who had not been identified. The prisoners tound guilty were sentenced to solitary confinement for six months.

DUMPRIES.—The Justiciary Court was opened here the 20th

DUMPRIES.—The Justiciary Court was opened here the 20th inst. by Lord Hermand.—William Johnston was found guilty of stealing a watch from Walter Rule, whilst fast asleep in the house of Peter Telford, innkeeper, Langholm. He was sentenced to 12 mouths' improvement in Dumfries Gaol. On hearing the sentence, the prisoner impudently exclaimed—"Thank God, my Lord, it is no worse; you and I shall meet in Heaven, and then we'll see who's innocent; the watch might have been in 50 hands, and the man ought to be sworn—I say he ought to be sworn."

Robert Newsham was also found guilty of entering a room of the house at Rosshall by a ladder, on the 13th of last month, and stealing thereout notes and silver to the amount of 111. 10s. Sentence, seven years' transportation.—The prisoner hung down his head, and said not a word.—[Here Johnston again started upon his feet, and tawled aloud "It's murder, highway robbery and murder! Is there no man of war's officer in the company that will come forward and speak for a poor fellow that's been shedding his blood for his King and country! There's no instice, by G—d! Not a bit of justice here!? and suiting the action to the word, he struck the boards of the prisoners' box with great fary.]—The Judge inquired if there was no bridewell, in which he could be confined and kept at hard labour? Bailie Kerr replied in the negative, but promised to confine him in a dark cell, on bread and water.

Phillipstown, (in Ireland.)—John Buckley, James Acheson, Matthew Duffy, Michael Daly, and James Cusack, were indicted for firing the dwelling-house of Patrick Murphy, and for the murder of the same Murphy, and his sister, Mary Geraghty, on the same night. The case for the Crown was chiefly proved by two boys, of the ages of 12 and 14. Their evidence was, that between the bours of twelve and one o'clock, on the morning of the 17th of last April, the house of their uncle (Thomas Murphy) where they then were, was attacked by at least thirty or forty persons, variously armed; that three of them set fire to the house, and burnt it; that James Cusack, one of the prisoners, shot their uncle, T. Murphy; that the same man shot Mary Geraghty, mother of the younger boy, and also drove a bayonet into her eye; that another person, not the prisoner, attempted to cut her tongue out; that she died the next morning; that their grandmother died in a few days from terror and grief; she saw the transaction from outside the house, where she escaped. The younger boy identified all the prisoners as being at the murder: the elder, all but Duly.—The prisoners set up, except Acheson, each a separate alibi. Daly's alibi was proved by a respectable witness; but the other three seemed to have very little effect, being very improbable, and ill supported.—The Jury retried for, four hours, and pronounced a verdict of Guilly against Cusack, Duffy, and Buckley only.

Cusack, Duffy, and Buckley only.

INVERNASS, (Scotland.)—Donald Munro, William Munro, and Matthew Water, accused of mobbing and rioting, as also of violently cesisting and obstructing his Majesty's military officers or soldiers in the discharge and execution of their duty.—It appeared from the witnesses, that there was a market on 15th of May last, at North Don, Caitiness, to which recruiting parties of the 78th and 93d Regiments went, for the purpose of beating up for recruits. About six o'clock in the evening, the serjeants who commanded ordered the drummer to beat the long roll, to march home to Thurso, about nine miles distant. In course of forming the recruiting party. jeant Gunn waived his drawn sword, to induce the crowd to fall back. In the bustle of receding, a boy was pushed in against Gunn and fell. D. Munro said that he had no right to draw his sword and to return it to the scabbard, or else he would cleave the ser-jeant's head. The serjeant answered, that he drew his sword for the purpose of bending the line forming by the military, and that he could not therefore sheath it; on which Munro immediately struck Gunn, as did also many of the other country people; and the soldiery having come up, a general battle ensued, and lasted for some minutes.—On the part of the defendants it was sworn, that Serieant Dunn turned round to the prisoner, D. Munro, and accused him of having pushed in the boy, and on this being denied, said, "D—n you, Munro, I'll run you through the body;" and lifting to his sword, once hit him about the breast or head, and aimed a second blow at him, which was parried off by a switch that Munro held—that the people stapped in, and after this the affray became sommon to all, and the country people and military mixed up into a confused crowd, fighting against each other.—Guilty; and sentenced to three months? imprisonment in Wick jail; and the Munros to pay a fine of 301. each.

"LONDON SESSIONS.

On Tuesday, the London Sessions were held at Guildhall. A man named Wrny, was tried for having received a quantity of shoe-leather, the property of Mr. Miller, knowing it to have been stolen.—Mr. Miller stated, that he was extensively robbed, when his suspicions fell on a young lad in his employ, named Butler, who confessed to the robbery, and in consequence of this confession, the prisoner's lodgings were searched, and a quantity of leather found, half worked up, which was identified as the prosecutor's property. The witnesses were ordered to leave the Court.—Joseph Butler, the boy, was called into the box, when it was discovered that he had remained in Court during the trial. His evidence was, on this ground, objected to by Mr. Broderick, and the objection was allowed by the Court.—The Jury found the prisoner Not Guilty.

The prisoner was tried upon a second indictment, for receiving a quantity of leather, the property of Mr. Clow, a shoe-maker; the property could not be sufficiently identified, and the Jury acquitted the prisoner.

James Bright was convicted of having assaulted a gentleman in Smithfield, with intent to rob. The prisoner with some others, hustled the prosecutor, and statched at his writch, without success.—He was sentenced to be imprisoned for two years in Bridewell, and to be once publicly whipped, in the most effective manner.

and to be once punital waterpoor, a table of having stolen a silk handkerchief from the pocket of some person unknown, and was sentenced to be imprisoned one year, and to be once publicly whipped.

POLICE.

Bow-straket.—On Tuesday, a person calling himself Benjamin Bloomfield, was charged with fraudulently obtaining from William Shirley, the sum of 2001. It appeared, that in consequence of an advertisement in the Times newspaper of the 9th of April, Mr. Shirley had an interview with Bloomfield, at No. 32, Lincoln's Innfields, respecting a place in the Custom-house, which Bloomfield, it was alledged, falsely pretended he could procure for him. After considerable negociation, Mr. Shirley was induced to give him 2001, for that purpose, and for which he took his bond; but the place was not forthcoming.—He was remanded for a further hearing.

HATTON-GARDEN.—On Monday, a young woman of very interesting appearance, with a fine child, about four years old, in her arms, was charged with stealing 901. in Bank-notes from Mr. Holgson, a baker, at Camberwell.—The prisoner had been allowed to remain in the parlour with Mr. H. She had sought relief from the parish of St. Andrew's, Holborn. He was made acquainted with her distressed situation; but in the course of which he partook too freely of mixed liquors, fell asleep, and whilst in this situation, the prisoner's child, who was playing round him, it is said, took from his pocket, 901. in notes, which it gave to its mother. Shortly, after, Mr. H. awoke, and went away without discovering his loss. She, however, repented of her conduct, and gave herself up to justice.—The prisoner said she was a widow, and that her husband was a sugar-refiner. He died about three years ago, and she was in the greatest distress. She had a brother, a cashier, in an emineat banking-house in the city, and her father, who is still living, was a respectable clergyman in Staffordshire. She was discharged.

MARY-LE-BONE OFFICE.—On Tuesday, a youth, about 15 years of age, named Henry Jenkins, was charged with stealing several articles of wearing apparel, the property of Mrs. Salter, of Edgeware-road.—The prisoner stated, that he became one of a gang of 14 boys, the head or captain was about ten years old, who was noted for his expertness at plunder, and whenever a fresh one was admitted, he was taken under his tuition till he was quite perfect in the art. They met at a certain house about seven or eight in the morning, and then took different routes, two together; whenever they saw a gentleman's door or area-gate open, they crept slyly into the passage, and stole any thing that came to hand, and sold it immediately. The gang nightly met at their rendezvous to report the success they had met with in the course of the day, and those of the gang who were so unlucky as to meet with nothing were supported by the others. The prisoner appeared quite indifferent whilst giving the above statement. The Magistrate ordered the prisoner to be remanded for a week.

Mansion-House.—On Wednesday, an information was heard against Messrs. Todd and Co. of Fore-street, under the Wool Act, for having on the 22d Sept. in the port of London, shipped a quantity of worsted yarn without having procured a license or provided that an officer should be in attendance. The forfeiture upon the yarn itself and the lags in which it was contained is 3s. a pound, besides the forfeiture of the yarn itself, the bags, &c. Mr. Todd said, the thing had been done entirely in ignorance of the Act, and pleaded guilty, and observed that the penalty was greater than the yarn was worth. The securities for the payment of the penalty were then emerged into.

QUEEN-SQUARE.—On Tuesday, Henry Kertz was charged with obtaining money under false protences.—Mr. Everest stated, that in April, he kept the Cock, in the Haymarket, St. James's, and was served with: a declaration of an ejectment, in consequence of the improvements in that place. The prisoner, who had been represented to be a clerk to an attorney, said, he had lately commenced business himself, and would defend the cause; he was consequently employed, and at different times money advanced to him, till it was discovered he was no attorney, and the present proceedings were instituted.—The prisoner cross-examined Mr. Everest estate he sums he advanced at each time. Mr. Everest could not particularize dates, but upon the whole, he was certain he had advanced him altogether 721. He produced a list of the different sums, and about 531. of it was in the prisoner's own hand-writing,—The prisoner was fully committed, and the Magistrate told him, two sureties in 501. each, would be admitted as bail for him.

UNION-HALL .- Henry Palmer, charged with fraudulently obtaining bills of exchange to the amount of 2,0001, from Sir T. Champneys, Bart, applied on Monday, to be allowed to stand out on the bail he had given to appear to the warrant, till two o'clock on Tuesday, when he undertook to comply with the Magistrate's This application was agreed to on the part of Sir T. C.'s On Tuesday. Palmer's Solicitor brought a letter from him to the Magistrate, duted from Davis's Lock-up-house, in which he stated that he was then in the custody of the Sheriffs of Middlesex, to whom the Magistrate might issue his warrant to have him kept prisoner. An officer was immediately dispatched by the Magistrate with a warrant for the detention of the defendant, addressa to the Sheriffs of Middlesex.—Sir Thomas Champneys stated, that since the publication of the examination that had taken place before the Magistrate in this business, several gentlemen in the City, extensively engaged in money transactions, whose names be mentioned, had called on him and returned him their thunks for having prosecuted the defendant.

MARLBOROUGH-STREET.—On Tuesday, Deanls Keeley was charged with flinging his son, aged 14, from the window of his lodgings in Stanhope-court, Piccadilly, on Monday evening. The poor boy, appeared lame from the effects of falling from the window, which had spraised his ancie, but was clean and healthy. He said, that when he came home, his father made him strip off his jacket, and was about to beat him, when he fled to the window to call for help, his father followed him and flung him out, into the court. He had given him no intentional offence, having been out all day, endeavouring to earn a trifle by holding gentlemen's horsess to support himself, his father always refusing to maintain him.—

He was ordered to find bail.

On Wednesday a dancing master applied for the interference of the Magistrate to compel his wife to return to him. He described himself as living upon good terms with his wife, at an obscure viblage in Buckinghamshire. On Baturday se'nnight he accompanied her to witness an exhibition of strolling players, in a barn. The husband left his frail sib to see Pizarro, whilst he took a glass of comfort with a neighbouring farmer, and he did not return home till after the play was over. The lady, in the mean time, had become enamoured with the Bolla, and eloped with him in a neighbour's chaise cart. The husband discovered the retreat of the fugitives at Somer's Town; but the wife refused to leave Rolla, and the former sought advice how to make her. The only answer given was, by an action for Crim. Con.—"What!" said the dancing master, with emphasis, "an action against a strolling player!"

NEWMARKET PIRST OCTOBER MENTINO.—Monday—The Trial Stakes, a subscription of 10gs. each, for 3-yr-olds, 7st. 9lb.; 4-yr-olds, 8st. 9lb.; 5-yr-olds, 9st. 2lb.; 6-yr-olds and aged, 9st. 6th. D. M.

Lord Exeter's b. h. Sulina, 5 yrs old.

Mr. Udny's ch. h. Barmecide, 5 yrs old.

Mr. Wyndham's b. h. Robin Hood, 4 yrs old.

3 Mr. Vansitant's ch. c. by Comus, 3 yrs old.

4 Sir J. Shelley's b. h. Antar, 5 yrs old.

5 Mr. Bouverie's bl. h. Paralus, 4 ym old.

6 to 5 on Sultan.

The Grand Duke Michael Stakes of 50gs. each, with a Cup of 200gs. value, given by his Imperial Highness, for 3-yr-old colses.

1 de Grand Duke Michael Stakes of Sogs. each, with a Cup of 200gs. value, given by his Imperial Highness, for 3-yr-old colts, 8st. 7lb.; fillies, 8st. 3lb. A. F.
Lord Grosvenor's br. f. Bittern

Mr. James's Fleur-de-lis

20 to 1 agst Bittern—7 to 1 agst Tressilian.

Twesday.—The Newmarket St. Leger Stakes of 25gs. each, for 3 yr-old colts, 8st. 7lb.; and fillies, 8st. 4lb. D. I.
Lord Exeter's b. f. Augusta. I.
Lord G. H. Cavendish's b. c. by Partisan. 8
Duke of Grafton's b. c. Reginald. 3
Mr. Bouverie's b. c. Tressitian 4
Mr. James's Fleur-de-lis. 5
Mr.:Bouverie's br. c. by Blucher 6
2 to 1 agst Augusta.—3 to 1 agst Lord G. H. Cavendish's br. c.
—7 to 1 agst Reginald.
Mr. Uday's Abjer, 8st. beat his Royal Highness the Duke of York's Banker, 8st 12th. D. I. 300gs. h. ft.—7 to 4 agst Abjer.

Weilnesday.—Lord Exeter's Athenian beat Mr. Thornhill's Sardonix, T.Y.C. 100gs.—A gold cup of 90gs. value, Ab. M. was womby Mr. Batson's Rusicrucian, beating Lord Clarendon's Mirandola, Robin Hood, Soota, and Manchester.—A subscription of 50gs. B.C. was won by Mr. Wyudham's Littlejohn, beating Mr. Batson's Luss, and Major Wilson's Rotterdam.

Thursday.—The Town Plate of 501, for 3 yr old colts, 8st. 7lb. and fillies, 8st. 3lb. D. I.
Lord Stradbroke's br. c. Incantator 1
Mr. Fox's ch. c. North Wester 2
Duke of Grafton's b. c. Titian 3
Mr. Chiffney's b. c. Cuyp 4
Mr. Greville's b. c. Frimont 5 to 1 agst Incantator—2 to 1 agst North Wester—2 to 1 agst Titian.
Sweepstakes of 15gs each, for 3 yr old colts, 8st. 7lb. fillies, 8st. 3lb.—D. M.
Mr. Villiers's Tanais 1
Mr. Udny's brother to Sir Joshua 2
Mr. Greville's b. f. by Aladdin 2
Mr. Greville's b. f. by Aladdin 3
7 to 4 agst Tanais—2 to 1 agst brother to Sir Joshua.

The Harvest.—In Sussex the wheat is entirely housed or stacked, and in a more favourable state than anticipated a few days since; in all parts of Yorkshire the corn is rapidly withdrawing from the fields, and the country has again the prospect of a continuance of plenty of wholesome food; in Cumberland the grain looks well, the harvest proceeds with rapidity; and a few days of favourable weather will bring it nearly to a close; in the hundreds of Ex-ex, incredible as it may appear, some hop growers have burnt the bines without gathering the crop, because the present prices will not remunerate them for the duty and the cost of picking; in Herefordshire the farms on hilly districts have been blessed with more favourable weather for their harvest than has been experienced in several fertile counties, where the grain was ripe early.

Valuable Information to Families.—A saving of 301, in every 1001, may be effected by Families about furnishing their houses, in consequence of the recent extraordinary reduction in the prices of the best Town Printed Chintz Furniture, Moreens, Merino, Dannasks, &c. &c. Miles and Edwards have opened the New Chintz Furniture and Moreen Warehouse, No. 134, Oxford Street, (nearly opposite Hanover Square,) with an immense stock of the most superior designs, entirely manufactured within the last six months, which they will continue selling at prices full one-third lower than any other house can offer goods of the same description manufactured last year. The much admired French Stripes in every shade of colouring.

ADVERTISEMENT.] In our first introduction to a person, there is nothing conveys to the mind a stronger impression than the Teeth. set of Teeth identifies health, cleanliness, and beauty; but to yellow, black, or carious teeth, we turn with loathing and dis-gust. To all who wish to preserve or beautify the Teeth, Hudson and Company recommend their Botanic Tooth Powder as a sure preventive for all disorders of the mouth; it not merely cleanses, whitens, and beautifies the Teeth, but preserves them from decay to the extremity of age. It fastens Teeth that are looseprevents the decayed growing worse—removes the tarter, and cures the scurvy in the Gums, leaving them firm and of a healthy reduces. It sweetens the breath, is an antidote for Gum-boils, Swelled Face, and the Tooth-ache-and the Proprietors warrant that if used regu larly a tooth will neares decay, and the Tooth ach will not be known; and though so powerful an antiseptic, it is entirely free of acid, and so innocent that a child may take the contents of a Box. Sold, price 2s, 8d, by Jas. Atkinson, (wholesale agent) 44, Gerrard street, Solio-square: Messrs. Gattie and Pierce, 57, Bond-street: Riggs, 35, Bond-street: Sanger, 159, Oxfon:-street: Johnston, 15, Greek-street: Howell and James, 9, Regent- treet: Bayley and Blew, Cockspur-street: Prout, 249, Strand; Johnston, 68, Taile, 41, Cornhill: Niz, Royal Exchange: Rigge, 65, Butler's, 4, Chenpside: Sutton's, Bow Church-yard; Edwards, 66, Newberry, 45, St. Paul's Church-yard, and most Medicine Venders and Perfumers .- Caution. As there are numerous Tooth Powders called Butanic in imitation of the above, please to ask for Hadson's Botanic Tooth Powder,

NOTICES TO CORRESPONDENTS.

An inhabitant of St. Burtholomew the Lass complains that the Church of that parish is still kept in mourning, by what he is pleased to call the impudence of the Churchwardens.

THOMAS's favour has been received—the lines are excellent, but the subject has been treated in so many ways, that perhaps a serious poem would not be acceptable in this Paper; the production is well worth publication.

Jacky Calf, alias BETTY Bull, is come to hand:

We are fearful less the publication of the circumstances of Mn. M. and his wife might irritate, rather than do good; in a similar case, where LORD GROSVENOR was concerned, we offectwated the advantage without producing the evil; and we mention the subject here this week, that the FATHER may saften, and rescue his son from the miseries of a FRENCH PRISON. If this conswers the humans purpose our anonymous friend, and our Coventry correspondent, have in view, we shall be most happy—if et does not, we see no objection to publishing the appeal next Sunday. We should, of course, wish to hear if this hint has had any effect upon old Mn. M.—at present we need not say more.

The Loyal Englishwoman need not have told us that she was in a passion when she wrote; her best way will be to send us the nes of the parties she alludes to.

Lost and Found nener was lost to us-we received both; but we do not think the person's conduct justifies the application of the word abbreviated.

SINCERITAS must not accuse us of egotism, but we are obliged

80. repel the attacks of certain persons.
A. Z. should have subscribed himself A. S. S. On the 17th day A.Z. should have subscribed himself A.S.S. On the 17th day of August, 1820, the Lord Chancellor, at the termination of Mr. Brougham's speech, said, "that only two counsel could be heard "oneither side." Mr. Druman alone spoke, with Mr. Brougham; therefore we repeat Mr. Williams was not suffered to open his mouth in the Houre of Lords. If our correspondent alludes to examinations and cross-examinations, we quite agree with him; but in such proceedings how Mr. WILLIAMS could have displayed the "eloquence and turn for argument," which his friends tha tinkers and tailors of Preston alluded lowe certainly are not tinkers and tailors of Priston alluded to, we certainly are not aware. If A.Z. alias A.S.S. means to say literally that he opened his mouth in the House of Lards, we quite egree, for we opened his mouth in the Rouse of Larus, we quite eyem, for we saw ourselves many a noble Lord open his mouth a thousand times during the long-winded harangues of Dennah and Brodeham, and very widely too, who never spoke. We would give A. Z. one hint—not to use his master's seal when he writes to us, it might get his betters into a scrape. AMICUS IGNOTUS next week.

Our correspondents this week have increased to such a number as to render it impossible for us to notice them separately; we are infinitely obliged to all of them for their favours.

PRICE OF STOCKS AT THE CLOSE, SATURDAY.

Speculation during the week has been extensive; the Funds have advanced to prices nearly as high as they were before the alarm of a auvaneed to prioce iscary as right as they were before the marm of a war between Russia and Turkey. The Jews are among those who have profited by the late sudden change in the Funds. The November Account commenced on Tuesday last; but the continuation on Money Stock till the next week has been unusually large, cash having been scarce within the last few days, owing to the payments naving been scarce within the most lew unys, owing to the payments into the Exchequer. Some anxiety is manifested to know the determination of the Directors of the Bank of England relative to their discounting at 4 per cent.. and much speculation is affort upon the subject. It is supposed by many that such a measure will be resorted to ere long.

Consols opened yesterday morning at 76 1 1 for Money, and 761

Consols opened yesterday morning at 76½ 1 for Money, and 76½ for the Account, at which prices they closed in the afternoon. By letters from the continent, we perceive the Foreign Funds advance in proportion to those of our own country, in consequence of the peaceable dispositions manifested by the two nations, Russia and Turkey. The French 5 per Cents. are at 89 fr. 50 cents.; Neapolitan 5 per Cents. 73; Prussian Bonds 81½ to 52; Austrian Metallic 5 per Cents. 73; and Spanish Metallic 5 per Cents. 75; and Spanish Metallic 5 per Cents. 564. Metallic 5 per Cents. 561.

Reduced Ann	Exchequer Bills 10001. 31
Consols 771 1 1	5001. 2
Dit Aect 771	Small 5
4 per Cents	India Bonds 67 68 p
Navy 5 per cent 110 4	Omnium
FRENCH FI	UNDS, SEPT. 28.
5 per ct. Con. 22 Sept. 86-95	Bask Sh Div. 1 July 1548-7.
Recon. Div. 22 Marca 101	Ex. Lond. 1mo.25-50 3mo.25-30
	SSIAN.
6 per Cent. Inscrip.	2   5 per Cent. Metallics 78
Exchange 11	11-163—Met 3 1
AUS	TRIAN.
5 per Cent. Metallics	734-Exchange 10 4
SPA	NISH.
5 per Cent	e Evolunce
NA	PLES.
5 per Cent 69	-Exchange440 25 55
PRI	SSIAN.
5pr Cnt. Bonds, £100, 831	Ditto, £250 to £1900
HOL	LAND.
21 per Cent	Columbian Bonds 40;
Bank Shares —

A Monday's Edition, containing the latest News, the Stook List, the London Markets, and the State of the Country Markets by that morning's post, is published at Three o'clock.

MANUSCRIPT SERMONS, a few Original ones, the Property of a deceased Clergyman, may be had of Mr. WRIGHT, Bookseller, No. 46, Picet-street, in Lots, consisting of FOUR, price ONE POUND.

TRULY INTERESTING MODE of IMPARTING FOREIGN LAN-GUAGES.

GUAGES.

A PROFESSOR, Author of a highly-approved French Grammar, requests leave to inform Ladies and Gentleman desirous of acquiring a speedy knowledge of Foreign Languages, that he has discovered a new and easy mode of imparting them, by which he pledges himself (or he will forfeit all claim to remuneration) to leach persons of either sex to SPEAK FRENCH or GERMAN in Three months; to read, translate, and write correctly. Twelve Lessons; a select Evening Assembly and Convergatione on the above plan: separate nights for Ladies and Gentlemen. Terms Two Guineas per quarter; Entrance Half a Guinea. The advertiser, having his own conveyance, can attend Families and Schools at some distance from London. Apply or direct, post paid, to W. 134, Strand, near Waterloo-bridge.

JOHN BULL.

LONDON, OCTOBER 7.

THE reception of our beloved KING upon the Continent -the marked devotion and respect paid to him during his progress, must be truly gratifying to every Englishman. Our readers will find in our ordinary intelligence the details of his journey.

It should seem that his MAJESTY has highly offended the radicals by his excursion or should rather say, they appear disposed, if possible, to raise a question upon the constitutionality of it.

An article, which appeared in the Times of Monday, attempts to agitate—at least the subject—and in a few words speaks volumes :-

"It scarcely ever happened," (says that Paper,) " that either of the two first Sovereigns of the House of Hanover left the coast of Britain for those of Germany, without producing more or less of temporary evil by their absence. The public confusion of 1720 was so much aggravated by the departure of George I. for the Continent, that he was forced to hurry home again to save the country from destruction. So the rebellion of 1745 was encouraged and ripened by George II.'s protracted stay in Hanover; and when he came back, the civil war was already raging."

And what has this to do with GEORGE the FOURTH? Every body knows that the public confusion of 1720 was occasioned by the bursting of the SOUTH SEA BUBBLE; and every body knows that in the year 1745 a PRETENDER to the Threne was endeavouring to establish himself in SCOTLAND; that we were at war with France; that our KING was on the Continent, and that a price was actually set upon his head.

It seems, under these circumstances, not very strange that George II. should have been sent for, nor very wonderful that he should have made as much haste home as he

But where is the analogy?-We do not see it, although the TIMES does. He asks, " would George the Third have "done so?" The probability is that he would not have gone to the Continent, for he never did.

" Throughout a reign of sixty years that true-born " Englishman never crossed the threshold of his native "Isles." There might have been a good reason found for his late Majesty's national domestication in the troubled state of the Continent. GEORGE the FOURTH has given to England, after a series of the most splendid victories, a firm and honourable PEACE. To the throne of GEORGE the FOURTH have come all the Monarchs of Europe-the KINGS and EMPERORS of the carth-in kindness and in friendship. It might as well be objected to his MA-JESTY, that his late Royal Father had never received such a tribute, and that it was therefore undutiful in him to have accepted it.

But there is something truly cockney in the notion of " true born Englishman never leaving his native isles"it is the essence of cockneyism-for a true born cockney never gets out of the Bills of Mortality, and thus judging of Kings by himself, the cockney thinks it quite wicked to cross the Channel.

But one would really suppose that HIS MAJESTY had broken down some barrier of the Constitution when one reads the following: .... , ,

" It was," says the Times, " an express provision of the " Act of Settlement, 'that the KING should not go to his " foreign dominions without the consent of Parliament;'did we pause here, we might, indeed, consider HIS MA-JESTY'S conduct strange in quitting the kingdom without such consent; but we perceive immediately after, the Times adds, " and although, in subserviency to some of " the courtiers about GEO. I. who thought that it would be "a humiliation to the KING to ask the consent of Parlia-" ment, that clause of the original compact with the House " of Hanover was indiscreetly repealed in the second year " after their accession, still the sound policy of the framers " of the Act of Settlement, will stand recorded to all "future times."

So that, after all the King has by no means outstepped his prerogative since the restricting provisions of the Act have been repealed. The TIMES thinks indiscreetlywhat a slur upon the memo ry of those who sanctioned the measure.

But the alarm under which the Cockney laboure at the horrible things we are to expect under the domination of the Lords Justices, is truly ludicrous.

It is observable, in all their calculations upon the Constitution, hanging (naturally enough) is uppermost in the minds of the Radicals, and consequently, we have this sentence.

"Among the powers which the Lords Justices will have to exer cise, that of life and death, or of the remission of purishment, is one of the most important. The prerogative of mercy is taken away from the King, and transferred to hands unknown to the Constitution. In any case, therefore, where, during the administration of the Lords Justices, a sentence of death shall be enforced against a British subject, the unhappy individual (we speak without allusion to persons) may be sacrificed to the resentment of a knot of his fellow-citivens clothed with sovereign power; whereas when the K146, the common father of Englishmen, is on the spot, he, being a stranger to all vindictive feelings, because above the sphere of personal conflict and animosity, interposes the parental hand, and executes "justice in mercy."

We cannot exactly discover by this, who it is that they look upon as having his "turn come," but the absurdity of the whole thing is clear.

In the first place, when the Radicals talk of Ministers, they paint them (and fancy them, we believe,) a set of Ogres, with hoofs and horns, thirsting for blood, and sitting in council to invent new tortures and oppression. As far as the Lords Justices go, we certainly do not think so much gentleness, excellence, amiability, kindness of disposition, and goodness of heart (from the first named down to the last) can be congregated together in the persons of any other nineteen of His Majesty's subjects.

In the next place, be they wanted the trine that an " unkappy individual" (Chi a murderer, a traitor, or a Bank note forger) should be sacrificed to the resentment of a "knot of his fellow-subjects" at once knecks down the excellence of the "Trial by Jury," for it is the glory of our constitution, and the surety of the culprit that he is put into the hands of a knot of his fellow-subjects.

But the TIMES is a Cockney, and the boundaries of his earthly cares and knowledge are Hampstond and Highgata Shooter's-hill and Richmond. When he talks of sentence of death being enforced against a "British subject," he means a "London subject." - This is quite natural, for "London is all the world to him?" Throughout the country, (to which his mind as selden wanders as his body) the sentence of death is enforced every year against dozens of his fellow subjects, at the will and discretion of an individual judge, whe, in his own hand, has the right to order for execution, respite. or reprieve, without any reference to the KING, with " whose sovereign power he is clothed."

We sincerely feel for the nervous anxiety of the old Times upon the risque which he appears to look at with such horror; but we think we may comfort him, and we trust, since he so fully appreciates the value of the King's presence amongst us, that he will be ready to welcome HIS MAJESTY-on his return home with a hearty old English three times three.

THE KING.

NOBODY, who has read in the Post and Courier the account of the King's voyage from IRELAND, can have formed any idea of the imminent danger in which the Royal yacht actually was. We have heard of vessels which foundered in the same gale, of sloops of war seriously injured, and we are told that the flotilla were obliged to put back, but not an individual has thought it worth while to give us any thing like a narrative of the proceedings on board the ROYAL GEORGE.

When the yacht was endeavouring to double the Landsend, the weather was terrific; it blew a hurricane, and seemed setting in. SIR CHARLES PAGET told the KING that he would not be answerable for the consequences of persevering. HIS MAJESTY said, " PAGET, do nothing but what is right; act as you would do if I were not here."

In altering the course to run for Milford, a thick fog came on, and it was impossible to see a ship's length; the gale increased, and SIR CHARLES, naturally anxious in having a charge so precious in his care as our beloved KING, again felt it his duty to state the danger in which he thought the vessel. HIS MAJESTY received the communication with the greatest coolness, and again desired him not to think about him.

Still the weather grew worse, and while the yacht was under bare poles, or nearly so, a sea struck her wheel, and unshipped her tiller ropes; to any person acquainted with nautical matters this occurrence, in a storm, needs no remark; and SIR CHARLES felt it his duty (not able himself to quit the deck) to dispatch an officer to report the accident to the KING. "Tell PAGET," said the Monarch, "that "I am quite satisfied in having as gallant and skilful "officers, and as active a crew as Europe can produce-" for the rest we must rely upon PROVIDENCE."

Similar fortitude and presence of mind marked his Majesty's conduct in his short excursion to CALAIS: when the yacht arrived off that port, it was blowing hard, with a heavy sea running, the waves rolling in struck her on the weather side, and dashed furiously over her quarter-deck. It was reported that as his MAJESTY's barge was not arrived, and that no means of ensuring a safe landing were at hand, they must stand out to sea for the night. The KING asked if there was no French boat; a French fishing-boat was dancing before the yacht at the mement; the people offered their services. SIR EDMUND NAGLE and SIR CHARLES PAGET (both experienced naval officers) wished to deter his Majesty from going, but he called to the Frenchmen in their own language, and asked them if they could carry him safe ashore; they affirmed that they could: upon which his MAJESTY, turning with a smile to his nautical attendants, said, " Come-I am quite sure you do'nt mind a ducking;" and instantly went down the side—they of course followed.

The boat having got entangled in some ropes which were adrift, a sea completely washed the whole crew. SIR CHARLES PAGET, alarmed for the KING, was about to seize the helm, when the KING, touching his arm, said, "Be quiet, my good friend, leave the Frenchmen to ma-" nage their own boat in their own way, and I'll be bound " for them, they shall land us safe."

They however struck three times on the bar, and were very nearly swamped. The French on the shore were delighted at the calm heroism of his MAJESTY; and when he ascended the pier, his dignified, yet condescendinganimated, yet unruffled manner, won the hearts of all who saw him.

It will be seen that the Radicals were afraid of trying their strength at the election for Lord Mayor. Wood is somewhat too stale to be again set up as a candidate, and WAITHMAN declined the affair somewhat abruptly; that trust that nothing which appeared in this paper tended to alter his intentions.

Cortain it is, the Ex-Sheriff is bitterly angry with us, and has commenced an action against us, wherein he is perfectly right,-nothing conduces more to the perfect liberty of the press than checking any thing like freedom of discussion. We never invented one single story of WAITHMAN in our lives; we have repeated anecdotes as related and authenticated by others, who, when our day of trial comes, will of course he at hand to give the whole history, of which we have only selected bits.

MR. WALTHMAN ought to know enough of this paper to know that his private character, pursuits, connexions, conduct or propensities, can in no manner or way interest us, except as they bear upon his public pretensions; and that since he has had the decency to withdraw himself from any opposition to the worthy and respectable Alderman now elected to the Chief Magistracy, and is himself out of office, we do not feel the smallest concern about him one way or another.

It is quite ridiculous, however, to hear this good man vapour about "literary assassins," and "libellers," and "ruffians;" it is so easy to talk nonsense, that every man who can chatter rapidly fancies himself an orator; and in a place where gentlemen are scarce, and intellect a rare commodity, it is a mere bagatelle to rattle out hard names. Did it ever occur to MR. WAITHMAN to support with his influence—and his purse, MR. HONE, of Ludgate Hill? and did not MR. HONE publish the " Political House that Jack Built"-" The Matrimonial Ladder"-" The Slap at Slop," and many other works of a similar nature?

Is MR. WAITHMAN prepared to defend the works we allude to, or his personal active support of them and their publisher, on the grounds that they are delicate, honourable, fair, or honest? Is he prepared to give his countenance to the system which has for several years past been incessantly pursued in those publications? Because, if he is, we really cannot perceive how or in what way we have become subject to his anger and invective.

It cannot be because we have in some degree retaliated upon the radicals, and that HE has attracted his share of our notice—he is, by his own account of hunself, too fair and candid for such petty spleen. All we can say is, that although we never have yet remarked particularly upon the productions of MR. HONE, we would not for the certainty of being as wealthy as MR. BARING (who is building a palace in Piccadilly, as a proof of the badness of the times) have suffered one line of equal scurrility with the libels of MR. HONE (supposing it to have been written on the constitutional side in politics) to have appeared in BULL.

The last production which emanated from Mr. Hone. taken either as a specimen of libel or of caricature, is unparalleled, as we believe, in the annals of invective and indecency—we mean the " SLAP AT SLOP." With respect to the hero of the piece, we know nothing of him, nor do we think that the scurrility, as it affects him, is important, further than it shews the bitterness of private malice; but that we should be called assassins and ruffians by the supporter, neighbour, and ASSOCIATE of the inventor, designer, and publisher of such things as appear in other parts of that publication, relative to the most illustrious persons-virtuous and amiable women-the most exemplary prelates—the greatest heroes—the best and most eminent of our countrymen-in which neither sex, nor age, nor personal peculiarity, nor misfortune, nor accidental deformity are spared, nor private society respected, does seem so surprizing, that if we had not seen the Alderman's speech reported into several of the papers, we could not have believed him so blind to his own situation and pursuits; and those of his creatures and satellites, as to have uttered such unmeaning trash.

MR. WAITHMAN appears to have borrowed a little of the oblivious unction which the Chronicle has been using for some weeks past, when it talks big about personality and scurrility. The orderly and decent manner in which it takes the gentle set down we gave it last Sunday softens our hearts and feelings towards it prodigiously.

Our defence (for they attacked) is and was unanswerable -it is conviction out of their own mouths: but lest they should imagine that we are silent for want of materials to go on with, we shall continue to mention articles which may be adduced in support of our vindication, to quote which we have not room.

We beg, in the first place, to call the attention of our readers to a "Character from the Persian," in the Chronicle of July 16, 1812; and a poem in that Paper of Sept. 8, of the same year. On the score of beastly indelicacy, we beg to refer to an article in the Paper of Oct. 12, in the same year, with a Latin quotation, and for a striking mark of the durability and steadiness of its principles and attachments, as well as its great caution against personalities, we insert four lines, published upon the late RICHARD BRINSLEY SHERIDAN—the wit—the patron—the favourite, and the FRIBND.—Poor SHERIDAN had ventured to be moderate in the year 1812, and we have this:-

"No, no, his fire he still retains, "Whate'er you may suppose!
"Its lustre has but left his brains,

" And settl'd in his mose."

Let us contrast these with some infamous lines, which appeared in the Chronicle of JUNE, 1816, on the death of the same person, and we shall find a striking proof of political his whole heart and mind were set upon it, is certain. We | consistency, and of loyalty to the KING (whom the Chronicle now affects invidiously to praise) into the bargain.

In short, let any impartial person compare the productions, in verse or prose, of the Whig-radicals for the last eight or ten years, with any thing ever published, and the palm must unhesitatingly be yielded to them, not only for their excellence in sedition, blasphemy, attacks on females, personal invective, and the violation of domestic privacy, but for the invention and first adoption of the mode of warfare which characterizes their works.

We have, while on this subject, a word to say to the NEW TIMES. That Paper, of Thursday, says,-

"We do not defend JOHN BULL, for we have seen in his pages some indecent verses, and some uttacks on characters of distin-'guished virtue and piety."

And pray where has the NEW TIMES seen all this?—we are perfectly unconscious.

In our twenty-seventh number there is a parody of which the words are not exactly chaste; but when it is recollected that we were imitating MOORE, and writing of the QUEEN, that seems by no means surprising.

However, we can assure the New Times that we had many scruples as to admitting even that solitary instance of any thing like indelicacy; but, as we said in a notice prefixed to it, " Upon turning to the original, which is to be seen on the piano-forte of every young lady in the " bills of mortality, we find the parody chaste and correct " by comparison,

This might have saved us from the cut of the New Times, because indelicacy, though sung to a pretty tune, is indelicacy still; and while fathers and husbands sit to hear their wives and daughters warble forth MR. MOORE's indecencies in the evening, at the piano-forte, we caunot but sneer at the morality which would object to their reading parodies on his productions in the morning, at the break-

As for attacks on characters of distinguished virtue and piety-we deny thom. If the NEW TIMES means by characters—persons, we have made no such attacks:—if he means (as we suppose he does) that we have made attacks upon the characters of persons of distinguished virtue and piety-we still deny the charge. We have made attacks upon those who have characters FOR virtue and piety, but which virtue and piety we have no faith in; and our attacks upon such persons have been made with a view that their virtue and piety MAY be DISTIN-GUISHED from CANT, HUMBUG, and HYPOCRISY, by the meanest capacity. When we first took them in hand the distinction was almost too nice to be observable.

Thus far had we written when Friday's Chronicle came before us-and in it we beheld the following paragraph, in reply to the rash defence of us (pretty well qualified, as it is) above alluded to :- and thus it runs:

" As to the impudent assertion of this writer, by way of apologizing for the indecent verses, and 'attacks on characters of the most distinguished virtue and piety,' which he says he has seen in John Bull—that he has also seen 'ten times as many, and ten times as bad productions of the kind in The Chronicle itself.' our character, we trust, is too well known to render it necessary to reply to it. The attempt to confound the raillery which has occasionally appeared in the columns of The Chronicle with the infamous detraction, the merciless inroads into private life in JOHN BULL, can mislead no one. Our course, during a long political life, has been consistent, and, we trust, marked by honour. We may boldly say that this Journal has never been made by us the vehicle of private slander."

What the Chronicle's notion of raillery may be we really do not know; but our notion of barefaced impudence may be understood by reading this little article-written and published after we had last Sunday quoted from its columns the greatest part of the TWOPENNY-POST BAG. and a variety of filth which would have been rejected with disgust by BULL, and which is, really and truly, in every sense of the words, shameful and infamous.

THE CHRONICLE quotes from a provincial paper called the SCOTCHMAN, a letter, copied by that paper out of an old Magazine, addressed by the great EARL (as the Chronicle mis-calls him) BATHURST to DEAN SWIFT.

It begins with these words :- " I am convinced that our Constitution is gone, and we are idly struggling to maintain what in "TRUTH has long been lost."

The only possible object any body could have had in getting up and re-publishing this letter, must have been to shew that the wisest folks are often mistaken.

If our glorious Constitution had ever lost its vigour, e Gentlemen who now deplore its annihilation would most indubitably have been hanged at least thirty

Our readers will perceive there has been a meeting in Southwark to indemnify Sir Robert Wilson for having been dismissed the service, by giving him some money. The persons speaking, complained that the six acts complotely tied their tongues, and that they were unable, after the caution they had received, to express themselves with a force adequate to their feelings. A subscription was entered into. The A's and B's, and C's and D's of the Traveller, were received with great applause; and one pound subscribed in these words:—" DOWN WITH DERRY Down," excited much cheering and laughter.

We have not heard whether the subscriber is related to the late Mr. Bellingham; but, as a specimen of moderation, and sticking to the subject under discussion, we think the fact worth noticing.

In SIR ROBBET WILSON'S letter to his constituents, he claim to be the MAN OF THE PEOPLE, and labour through makes use of an expression unintentionally, or in the hurry of writing, which is incorrect; he speaks of purchasing his brevets. Brevets are not purchaseable in our service. must therefore mean "his commission," The most impor-tant brevet he ever received, was that of Colonel, which he obtained from having been appointed Aid-de-Camp to His

The CHRONICLE and TIMES, incapable we suppose of doing any thing themselves, borrow all their original matter from provincial papers. And the former journal of Friday has a quotation from the SCOTCHMAN, in which the gallantry of SIR ROBERT WILSON is brought forward in glowing colours to show the injustice of his removal from the army.—What nonsense this is—who ever doubted SIR ROBERT WILSON'S bravery?—Every British officer is brave, and nobody will dare to deny the courage of SIR ROBERT WILSON—but what has that to do with his conduct out of the field? Where was there a braver officer than LORD COCHRANE? yet, (though his offence was of a different complexion) his valour could not hold the star on his breast nor his pendant to the mast. For our own parts, we houestly confess that we wish it had seemed fit to the government to have granted SIR ROBERT WILSON a court martial; but as we in our hearts think the actions and motives of the government pure and just, we are bound to believe there are good and weighty reasons for denying it.

TO JOHN BULL.

SIR-It is not because the Edinburgh Review is sinking into that contempt with which it ought to have been met from its commencement, that we should relax in our animadversions upon its malignant tendency, or in our reprobation and exposure of its false and mischievous principles. It still speaks the sentiments, in its leading articles, of the Holland House directory, although its literary and critical department defies criticism itself, in the hands of the Examiner Hunts, and the man (I forget his name) who reviews himself, and takes shillings for itinerant lectures upon Shakespeare, to illustrate his beauties through a Cockney gloss and interpretation!

Such critics are worthy the company to which they have been introduced since "the young gentlemen" who first commenced the work have been matured into statesmen, and grown grey as practical reformers. The Cockney school of poetry and criticism is a most appropriate adjunct to the new Whig commentators and expounders of the Constitution of England.

I am induced to notice this sinking work at the present moment, because in its last Number it affords an illustration of one of the leading principles which the Whigs of the French school have laboured especially to inculcate through its means—I mean the demoralization of the country, by an attempt to bring into contempt both religion and morality through their empty ribaldry upon the professors of Christianity, and upon all who adhere to the old-fashioned and sterling morality of their forefathers. This crambe repetita is, as I observed in my former letter, concocted and dispensed from their head-quarters, though the Whig opposition Chronicles, down to the Whig radical press, in doses suited to the rank and station of the various recipients.

The review of BISHOP TOMLINE'S Life of MR. PITT afforded an opportunity of calumniating a bishep, not to be lost by the Scoto-Gallican disciples of the school of Fernay, and his Lordship is therefore treated as if he had disgraced himself, and his sacred function, by speaking in terms of admiration and affection of his illustrious pupil, whose memoirs his Lordship's situation and connexion with Mr. PITT during his life-time peculiarly, nay, exclusively qualified him to undertake.

They cannot charge his Lordship with a single false statement, and are compelled to desert even poor Bos ADAIR; but he is found guilty of being the enlogist and defender of MR. PITT-that is, he, as might naturally be supposed, partakes in the general sentiment of the country, and Europe at large, respecting that most extraordinary man; which sentiment, or public opinion, be it recollected, occasioned that never-to-be-forgiven offence, the banishment of faction and sedition from the councils of the State, in the person and party of his opponent MR. Fox !-But his Lordship's real crime is the ripping up old sores, by bringing to the recollection of the country, and conveying to the knowledge of the rising generation, the attempt of these Whigs to establish an oligarchy in equal opposition to the King and the People-to overturn the balance of the Constitution, by giving ascendancy to an usurping aristocracy—and by converting the government of India into a machine for perpetuating their unconstitutional domination!

His Lordship has given, as a necessary part of his valuable work, the historical details connected with these nefarious attempts upon the Constitution; and for the first time, in a regular series, are the details of Fox Whiggiam brought forward as matter of history to the consideration of the people of England. They are led to review (not like the hired Coryphœus of the Edinburgh Lucyclopedists) the effects of disappointed ambition, which the overwhelming influence of a boy, (minister at the age of twenty-three) effected over a Constitution, the most powerful that ever threatened the existence of our liberties and of the Throne itself. They see the baffled phalanx forming again after their defeat, changing their arms and now blazoning their standard to delude the country and draw the populace to their ranks. They see the man who would have sacrificed both the people and their liberties to gratify his own hungry ambition - would have identified with his own dictatorship, and upheld in the strength of despotism and lawless rule against the rights of the people, had not KING GEORGE THE THIRD entrenched himself within the Constitution, and rejected with indignation those who desired to violate it.

The French Revolution, its effects on this country, and the consequences which must have ensued (as they did ensue in every country but ours) had not the energies of a PITT been granted at the crisis to avert them, are here developed.

We hear the Whigs claiming the admiration of the country and the world, for the bloody tyrants who in succession triumphed over Religion and civil Government, and immolated in every fresh revolution, thousands of victims to their lust of power, their cruelty and vengeance, whilst, to allure the people of this happy and prosperous country from their allegiance to their King and Constitution, they dignified and elevated the flimsy-but atrocious efforts of French Jacobinism as the most stupendous work of human genius.

There is yet behind, the story of treason ripening against the state, and MUTINY organized in our fleets, (in the midst of a war in which our very existence as a nation was threatenad,) upheld, countenanced, and defended by these menmen whose despotism hurried them into the ranks of our enemics, and whose hardihood enabled them to display in a British Senate, the appalling exhibition of British Statesmen pleading the cause, palliating the atrocities, and even supporting the measures of a Foreign Government in hostility to the Monarch whose subjects they were, and to the country of which they were natives; and this too, I repeat, at a moment when the enemy had invoked the curse of CAR-THAGE upon our heads, and had sworn to destroy-every vestige of our NAME and LIBERTIES!

What, though the threat were vain-internal treason might have effected the ruin which their ally BONAPARTE in vain attempted to produce-treason was fomented by every act of popular delusion, which the Fox party, united with the Corresponding Societies of the Jacobins, could suggest or bring to bear upon it.

It is true, the magnitude of their crimes against their country, became the subject of our contempt rather than of our apprehension; not only because the steady and vigorous hand of a PITT was upon them, and rendered them powerless, but because the great and truly respectable portion of their own party, horror-stricken at their unnatural enmity towards the peace and happiness of the empire, and conscious of the evils which must result from a successful issue to their plots and machinations, secreted from their ranks, and openly opposed them, as a faction dangerous to the State, and hostile to the existence of the Constitution.

Is the Right Reverend historian then to be pardoned for bringing back such recollections to the public mind? Are the miserable remnants of this faction, who labour to subsist, and carry on their unprincipled intrigues against Government, by covering their nakedness with this Fox's tail, likely to bear with philosophy, a matter of fact exposition of the crimes which have leagued them in union, and stone can serve to hold them together?

Those who are too young to recollect these things, may be taught to throw off the shackles of a forced liberality, and when they compare the Radical harangues of the present junto with the open acts of hostility against every thing sacred among the institutions of their country, whilst the power and talents of the arch-heresiarch Fox were just sufficient to keep them together, as a body; they will at once see the object this rump of Whiggery has in view; and the narrow, contemptible, and selfish ends, which they are, through their popular acts, labouring to atchieve. Their maxims and their policy embrace at once a settled hatred to the Throne, and a contempt for the people. The secession of all that was truly respectable or good from the party, when it aimed at the division of the Constitution, in order to seize upon if, by the influence of an Aristocracy, is as conclusive of the criminality of the remnant faction, as the scream of the unfortunate QUEEN was of hers, on beholding the witness, whose testimony she KNEW ought to have been conclusive against her.

It is to the corruption and tyranny of our boasted press that guilt like this has escaped with impunity—that sophistry and special pleading have superseded the common principles of honesty and justice; and liberality been made a plea for the toleration and indulgence of all the worst passions of our

As an instance of the sweeping mode of confounding right with wrong—of rendering virtue and vice matters of indifference, and of the mode of estimating character in the liberal philosophy of the French and English Jacobins, I submit to you, and your readers, a short sentence from the Edinburgh Review, of the BISHOP OF WINCHES-TER'S Life of MR. PITT, premising, in the first instance, as a plain matter of fact, not denied by these pensioners of Holland House, that MR. PITT, was not a man even suspected of loose morals-that he was not given to intrigue-to adultery-to gambling, nor to any of those fashionable vices, which are equally repugnant to the good order of society, and to every notion connected with morality or religion. Whether MR. Fox were equally exempt from the follies and vices of the times, it is not to my purpose to inquire; it is sufficient to observe, that his warmest panegyrists have been compelled to be silent on this head.

It was, however, impossible to avoid some comparison of of the one was to be made the vehicle of illustrating the paramount and pre-eminent claims of the other to public reward and estimation. This then is the process: - they first insinuate, or rather assert, (if these gentlemen may not beg the whole question, their arguments soon fall to the ground) that MR. PITT. was guilty of some unwarthy act to get possession of power; and they infer, therefore, that if money instead of power had been his object, he would have become a swindler to have attained it; that he reserved the practice of, base arts for the gratification "of his ambition alone; which proves that his estimate of the object varied, rather than scrapulousness about the means.

"Subject to this remark," (the wretched creature continues) "we must allow Mn. PITT's character to be unimpeachable-in the ordinary sense of the term." That is, according to the old notions of old fashioned moralists.— But how is this candid admission qualified?-" The correctness of his demeanour" (mark the caution of the terms) "no doubt proceeded in a GOOD DEGREE" (these are your verbal oritics, who profess to reform the diction of their southern neighbours) "from PHTSICAL TEMPERAMENT!!" "It is time" (he continues) " that he fulfilled all the private relations of life in a manner the most exemplary," (really, this condescension in his favour is almost too liberal) " and that no man was EVER MORE BELOVED IN THE CIRCLE of his friends."

But do not exult, ye Pittites, for this evidence to private character is admitted only that it may be transferred with, greater effect to MR. Fox. " For this," adds the stickler for impartiality, "may, with perfectly EQUAL truth, be affirmed of his illustrious antagonist, whom, NEVER-THELESS, it has always been the practice to contrast with this in respect of STRICT MORALITY; while the ONLY DIFFERENCE appears, pretty clearly to have arisen from NATURAL COLDNESS, aided by the EARLY AND CON-FIRMED HABITS OF AN OFFICIAL LIFE!!!"

Here, Sir, you find the scale by which the moral virtues are to be measured in the new school of philosophy! We have nothing to do but plead a warm temperament for the commission of every crime and excess that can endanger the repose or corrupt the morals of mankind; whilst he, who, by an upright and conscientious support of religious principles and sound morality, has the boldness to arraign our conduct, or impede our progress, is fitted only to excite our pity for the coldness of his temperament, or to awaken our contempt for his constitutional bigotry and narrow-mind-

Such are the principles tendered to our acceptance by the French philosophers, their wretched compurgators in the Edinburgh Review, the NEW WHIOS, and their trainbearers, the Cornerrs, Hunris, and Hones; and such is the exchange proposed for the honest virtues, plain sense, vigour, and loyalty of our ancestors, who laid the foundation of our libertles in the laws, and not in defiance of them; who displayed the love of their country in sacrificing their prejudices to her welfare, and in opposing both her foreign and domestic enemies, with all their hearts and with all their souls; who loved and supported their KING without servility, and when, in defence of their rights, they opposed his councils, carefully and constitutionally distinguished between his royal person and his minister's, and who triumphed not in scurrility against the throne, nor sought to gain by calumny that which they despaired of obtaining through

Let Britons decide upon the alternative presented to their choice—be the British Constitution, as established by our illustrious ancestors, placed in the one scale, and the product of these new principles for the last thirty years in the

" In eadem re, utilitas et turpitudo esse non potest." " PAUL POTTER. Yours,

SIR ROBERT PEAT.

We give the following letter a place in Burn, as desired by its writer, with the greatest pleasure:-TO JOHN BULL.

Sra,—On taking up your paper this evening, I was much surprised and mortified, on finding my name blazoned in statics, in the "Notices to your Correspondents!" I feel the sting the more severely, because from the first number of your paper, to the fortysecond, I have not only taken it in myself; but I have read it with increasing pleasure and satisfaction to the present time. I have moreover recommended it to the perusal of those whom I esteem and admire.

I will venture to say, that no periodical publication, since the origin of printing, has been productive of more real advantage, whether it has reference to "God—the King—or the People"—as that –the King much valued and independent paper.

I have been slandered by a misguided morning paper; I have treated its slander with a silent, though, I trust, dignified contempt. But when I find that a title I have not clandestinely, but honour ably, received from perhaps one of the most amiable monarchs who ever swayed a sceptre, and which has been confirmed by the sign manual and letters patent of a still greater, and, if possible, more amiable Monarch (George the Third), I cannot resist this appeal to your justice in my vindication; and this I demand at your hands.

You have emblazoned my name in italics, as a foreign Knight, and not entitled to rank in this country; and I suppose your reason for having done so is, because I am a clergyman.

for naving done so is, because I am a corryginum.

Permit me to inform you, Sir, that my letters patent from the King of Poland, were signed four years before I was ordained, cussequently, I was at that period a layman. It was not till many years afterwards, and until a property in Poland was left to me by a relation, dependent upon my title being confirmed by the King of England, that application was made to his late Majesty to confirm my former patent by his sign manual, deo. deo. dec. which (after some scruples, I being then in Holy Orders) he most kindly the remainder of his life to undermine that Throne which he , the moral pharacters of these two great rivals, when the life I and most genolously aid. This patent to the College of Arms hearing date on the 2d of October, 1806, which was seconded in the said College of Arms, on the 27th of the arms mouth, in the Register 1, 37... yurshant to the wavrant to the late Duke of Norfolk, Barl Marshal, &c. &c. &c. and regularly Grazetted; without which I consider that no title is confirmed or acknowledged in this

It is perfectly frue, that an order issued from Carlton House, that ssessing foreign Orders, were not in future to hold rank, de dec. on account of the numerous creations, which took place upon the termination of the Peninsular and Continental wars, when tertimonials of foreign acknowledgments were to be seen at every Yet this order was long subsequent to the date of my retent; and consequently could not affect me. 14

To be suspected, encough such a openious as the two year paper, of arrogating to myself, and assuming a title, which does not belong to me, is highly derogatory to those feelings, which I hope and trust I possess. I would rather tear the star from my breast, and the corden from my shoulders, and for ever obliterate, I think, the last remaining honour of the illustrious Stanislaus, much as I ie. nerate his character, than submit, for one moment, to bear "honors," at which I ought to "blush."

You have thus, Sir, forced from me, the sentiments I entermine of your—I had almost said—invaluable paper; justice to myelf has compelled the remainder.

Having given you references, you can easily detect any inaccess acies I may have committed in this letter. If I have stated are thing wrong, your powerful pen is at liberty to correct—to cha-tise me. If I am right, I feel no hesitation in saying, you will do me justice.—I have the bonour to be, Sir, your obedient serrou, ROBERT PEAT.

P.S. Probably you will find, on research, that knighthood was considered an universal honour. The Kings of England set their sons to France, Spain, &c. &c. &c. to receive it in preference to conferring it themselves; and the sons of the different monarch in Burupe came to England for the same purpose. This, however, was the only honour that was universal.

We should remark upon this letter, that SIR ROBERT les entirely mistaken our motive for mentioning his name is our last number. In proving that SIR ROBERT WILSON'S Orders were not affected by his removal from the army, we quoted the names of several civilians, who are in possession of, and wear foreign decorations of honour. We placed SIR ROBERT PEAT'S name in Italics, and added to it three notes of admiration, as considering his case the strongest in favour of our opinion on the subject, as not only shewing that it is not necessary to be a military man to have the privilege in question, but that even Ministers of the Church are not disqualified from bearing badges of distinction.

SIR ROBERT PEAT is in error when he thinks that we insinuated that he had assumed a title " clandestinely," or " dishonourably;" and we trust the insertion of his letter will convince him that we had no such motive. As to the calumny of a morning paper, which SIR ROBERT alludes to, we never heard of it.

THEATRES.

All sorts of Theatres are now open, and the clamours of the anti-monopolists of dramatic property are, we hope, happy. These places, this season, put forth one new feature—they offer us performers from the regular Theatres.

This is a new system, and like all new systems seems strange at first. MR. INCLEDON, for instance, for whose strange and in whose cause the enhightened and in whose seems.

sake, and in whose cause, the enlightened audience of Cowent Garden Theatre, some years ago, were pleased to pt.

MR. BRAHAM with penny-pieces and gallipots, has condescended to appear at a place called the WEST LONDOX

THEATRE. We are glad to find, that it is from no failure in his finances, that he has been driven to this appared thangs for the worse, but that it is morely a method of the contract of change for the worse; but that it is merely a matter of taste.

MR. WRENCH, who formerly acted with much eclal, at the regular Theatres, enlivens the fanciful audience of the SANS PAREIL; and in a drama entitled Capers at Canterbury, (which might as well be called Girkins at Gloucenter) gives infinite delight to the "guardian naiads of the Strend;" a most extraordinary droll, of the name of WILEINSON, aids and abets him in the art of laugh-raising; and we have no doubt but that if bettermost actors will dive into such concerns, the managers will reap a good harvest; pretty MRS. BAKER, from the Haymarket, is also of the party.

The proprietors of the Little Theatre seem to be of the most benevolent turn of mind: they no sooner get any thing worth having, than they make a present of it to somebody che. MRS. BRUDENELL comes out in BELVEDERA, floods the boxes with tears, and ventilates the house with the sweet sighs of sorrowing ladies; and as soon as she has got footing, up they pull her by the roots, and send her to Covent Gar den, to play MRS. HALLER.

MISS WALPOLE, to be sure, was no mighty gift; but though some of the papers announced her as an Irish syres, they did not make so great a blunder as they have been charged with: an Irish syren is doubtless a syren that connot sing; and though we really wish the lady well, we are afraid that the same application of the national epithet may be made to her as an actress.

While talking of singers, it may be right for us to notices nighty civil note, which we have received from a gentleman who signs his name—(indeed it may be from a lady, for all we know), but what the name is, thanks to the excessive elegance of the hand, we cannot make out. MISS TREE is the subject of the communication, and we are informed by it, that for the last six months, she has been an invalid, and wholly unconnected with the business of the Theatre. The note goes on to tell us, that she is recovering fast, but that her voice is not sure (we quote literally) enough to be rentured on yet.

We are really obliged to our correspondent for the intelligence, and we are certain that our theatrical friends will join with us in wishing for the time when MISS TREE shall be restored to a profession of which she is, in every sense of the word, an ornament.

At Covent Garden, a Mr. MEADOWS has appeared as SCRUB, in Farquhar's incomparably witty, very-improperbut nevertheless-very-entertaining-play of the BEAUX STRA-TAGEM. SCRUB is an arduous character for a young beginner, but it was clear, though perhaps inadequate to the task of playing such a part, that the new-comer has much talent, and will, we have little doubt, be a truly useful performer.

His countenance is much in his favour, and to see "Make nows look cheerful," seemed to inspire the audience with a

MRS. DAVISON'S, MRS. SULLEN, is really cheerful feeling. a clever piece of acting , Jones's Archer is just what it should be, and MR. ABBOTT's bewitching carts appeared to enment advantage in AIMWELL, which he played remarkably well.

Ma. Engas is, it is said, most active in raising recruits for the next opera season at Paris, whether by beat of drum we cannot say the fife seems to be an instrument in great ocquest. There are rumours of a complete French Company for the next season in London, and some very intelligent persons are at the head of the scheme; many comical stories are told of the conditions upon which some of the principal performers are proposed to be engaged: the system appears to unite economy with novelty, but as the whole affair is only in petto, we dare not give out more.

The Old Times has got up a French letter, the subject of which is MR. KENNY's play of Match-breaking, which the writer tells us is little else than a translation from a piece of the same name in the French—if any thing were wanting to shew that MR. KENNY had no intention of appropriating the play to himself, it would be his retaining the original title; but the truth is, that there is a spirit of loyalty, and a display of right feeling pervading the whole of the performance, which is galling to the OLD TIMES—it hates that the stage should be made a means of enlightening the lower classes, or of eliciting expressions of the real sentiments of the nation, and they are so angry at the triumph of MR. KEXNY, that they cook up a letter from a Frenchman (as genuine no doubt as their last communication from PARIS), running down our writer.

We laughed a good deal at the correspondent of the Times, who dined at Paris, with Dr. Automarchi; but we laughed a good deal more when the "Frenchman," who writes the letter in question, quotes, as the original title of MR. KENNY'S play, the English title, literally—Le Present du Prince.—There is no such substantive in the French language as present; and yet the Frenchman begs the Times to excuse his Gullicisms.—Fudge!

MISCELLANEOUS.

It is a most unfortunate circumstance that the Editor of the late BEACON should have had the name he bears: Nimmo, in the Scots pronunciation, is about equivalent to NEMO, with the English

A Frankfort Paper states, that the Queen Dowager of Wurtemberg has invited her brother, the King of Great Britain, to visit her during his stay on the continent. In order to give him an agreeable surprise, she has purchased a small house is a village on the road, and furnished it tastefully, but after the manner of un irm. She has put up a sign, and on the approach of George IV. she in tends to take possession, and receive him in the character of the Intended Improvements at Westminster Abbey .- The uncient marble altur, which was erected in this noble edifice in the reign of lienry III. but was taken down, in order to facilitate the Coronation Ceremony, will not be again put up. Its place will be occupied with auntier, to correspond with the rest of this ancient building. Other improvements, we are informed, are about to take place in the interior.

THE ARMY .- The 1st Battalion of the 3d Guards, in Portsmouth Garrison; 64th Foot are on their march.—To Return to Eve-Land—From Bengal, 8th Dragoons, 17th Foot, 24th ditto, 59th ditto.—From Madras, 34th Foot, 83d ditto.—From Bombay, 17th Dragoons, 65th Foot. May be expected to arrive in England about the middle of the year 1828 .- From the West Indies, 58th Foot, 61st ditto. May be expected to arrive in January next .- To do OUT TO BENGAL TFrom Eugland, 16th Lancers, 13th Foot. To embark at Gravesend in May, 1822—From the Cape, 38th Foot-From England 44th Foot. To embark at Gravesend in May, 1822. -To Go To MADRAS-From England, 41st Foot. To embark at —То Go то MADRAS—From England, 41st Foot.—То embark at Gravesend in May, 1822—From the Cape, 54th Foot.—То Go то Вомвау—From England, 4th Light Dragoons. То embark in December next—From St. Helens, 20th Foot.

Lord Stewart recorded his opinion of the 10th Royal Hussars on the 28th Sept: in these flattering terms:—" Lord Stewart cannot refrain from gratifying his own feelings by expressing (and recording in Regimental Orders) to Lieut. Col. Quintin, the officers, noncommissioned officers, and privates of the 10th Royal Hussars, the very high sense he entertains of their regular state of discipline and appearance, their military demeanour and perfect appointment, in the inspection which he made of them on Wednesday."

The 55th Regiment, quartered in Emiskillen, have received a route for Dublin. The first division marched on Thursday morning (the 27th att.) They are to be replaced by the gallant 88th, a division of which has arrived under the command of Capt. Robinson Ident.-Gen. Teach has been removed from the command of the Plymouth Division of Royal Murines, for having countenanced a remonstrance from the officers of that division against the restoration of Lieut.-Colonels Savage and Abernethy to the service, after they had been removed in consequence of the judgment of a Court Martial; the one altogether from the list of officers of the Royal Marines, and the other to the permanent half-pay of the corps.

Lieux. General Sir T. Hislop, Bart. G. C. B. Commander in Chief of the Madras Army, is coming home in the Alligator, which sailed

The Barl of Dartmouth, on Tuerday se'might, laid the first stone of the new charch, to be called Christ Church, at West Bromwich. in Warwickshire, in the presence of an immense concourse of spec

NAVY .-- A Court Martial has been held on board the Queen Charlotte, (Capt. Hay, President) for the trial of Mr. R. L Ford, a supernumerary surgeon of the Salisbury, on a charge of dranken-ness, preferred against him by Capt. Wilson, of that ship. The offence imputed to him was proved. In consequence of the high Chads, of the navy, and Dr. Mortimer, of Haslar Hospital, and also on account of his long services in the navy, chiefly in the West Indies, the Court sentenced him cally to be dismissed from the Salisbury, and placed at the bottom of the list of surgeons.—The further services of the ships have been thus ordered:—Active frigate, Sir J. A. Gordon, K.C.B. to be fitted to take the Earl of Chatham, Governor of Gibraltar, to his command; the Liffey, Hon. H. Duncan, C.B. to be paid off, her period of the received the second of the command of the c of three years' service having expired; the Lee, 18, Capt. S. Blacker to join the Cork equadron. Capt. Maunde is appointed to command the Salisbury of 30 gans, which is preparing for the flag of Admiral Table, who is to command at Hallfax. In future the command on be Leeward and Windward Island stations will be entrusted to one Miniral instead of two. Sir C. Rowley, now at Jamaice, is ap-pointed to both ecummands. A reduction in the revenue cruisers is about to take place, and the individuals employed on board them, it s said, will be added to the preventive, or water-guard, which is b be augmented.

MR. J. T. PARBER BEAUMONT has subscribed fifty nds to SIR R. WILSON!!!- Am I a BEEF-EATER De1:41.

It is highly gratifying to see that Ma. WILLIAMS, Ma. WAITH-MAN's late colleague, has most carefully explained the difference of his politics from those of that Alderman. Ma. Williams has been an indefatigable and able Sheriff; he has done his duty to his brethen as became a good citizen and a good subject; and in clearly and distinctly disavowing all participation in Mr. WAITHMAN's views of "things in general," has, at the conclusion of his career, done a duty to himself. NAVAL APPOINTMENTS .- Rent-Admiral Fahle, to the joint command of the Leeward Islands and Halifax stations .-- CAPTAINS-Arabin, to the Argus; P. B. King, to the Bathurst surveying vessel; A. Milcan, to the Beaver; Sir M. Maxwell, to the Bulwark; W. G. Martin, to the Bustard; J. E. Walcott, to the Carnation; W.m. Hendry, to the Dotrel; Wm. Simpson, to the Gamett; C.C. Parker, to the Harlequin; T. Herbert, to the learns; A. Skene, to the Impregnable; Sir R. Mends, to the Iphigenia; W. F. Owen, to the Leven; The Earl of Huntingdon, to the Median; T. J. Maling, to the Northumberland; J. Couch, to the Perseus; D. C. Clavering, to the Phensant; E. Brace, to the Ramilies; F. Marryatt, to the Rosario; Sir J. Brenton, to the Royal Charlotte yacht; C. Adams, to the Royal Sovereign yacht; W. Maude, to the Salisbury; T. Huskisson, to the Senirumis; C. Phillips, to the Spey; T. Coe, to the Tees; C. Dashwood, to the Windsor Custle.— T. Coe, to the Tees; C. Dashwood, to the Windsor Custe.—Lieuts.—J. Puckford, to the Algority; A. Arabin, and D. P. Janis, to the Argus; F. Bedwell, to the Bathurst surveying vessel; J. Walmsley, to the Beaver; E. Wavell, and C. S. Jackson, to the Bann; W. Ramssy, to the Breen; C. J. F. Newton, to the Brisk; W. Jones (c), G. Pierce, W. Morris (b), J. H. Boad, and J. W. Aldridge, to the Bulwark; C. H. Gardner, and W. G. H. Whish, to the Bustard; C. Croker, and Wm. Suover, to the Carnation; T. Dulke, to the Cherokee; J. Eager, to the Cinker; E. Tolcher, to the Cyrenc; E. B. Stewart, and T. Cooke. (a), to the Doterel; W. F. Smith, to the Esk; S. D. Mercer, to the Forte; J. Roche, and F. Smith, to the Esk; S. D. Mercer, to the Forte; J. Roche, and H. Gossett, to the Harlequin: S. Edwards, to the Heron; T. Stopford, to the Hyperion; S. P. Tweed, and M. Mitchell, to the Icarus; St. J. Mildmay, P. Stokes, E. S. Clerkson, and C. P. Coppin, to the Typigenia; A. T. E. Vidall, W. Mudge, and T. Boteler, to the Leven; Wm. Mansell, to the Morgiana; F. Edwin, to the Myrmidon; J. Edgecombe, to the Nautilas; J. Everard, to the Nimrod; W. J. Cole, S. H. Bowker, J. H. Boteler, and R. Meredith, to the Northumberland; J. Sabben, and P. S. Manico, to the Perseus; J. Still, to the Pheasant; E. R. P. Mainwaring, W. R. Hughes, J. Bradley, and J. B. L. Hay, to the Ramilies; W. Doveton, and W. O. Wheatley, to the Rosario; H. Mainzy, and G. M. ton, and W. O. Wheatley, to the Rosafro; H. Manry, and G. M. King, to the Royal George yacht: W. Picking, J. R. Thomas, E. Belcher, and G. Dansford, to the Salisbury; J. Monday, H. Ogie, and A. Hoseason, to the Semiramis; M. Kent, J. Wheeler, and M. Dickson, to the Severn; T. H. Rothery, to the Spey; W. W. Pennyfather, to the Serimam; W. Richardson, to the command of the Surly cutter; J. C. Burnett, to the Spille; J. Wilkinson, J. Kingson, J. Cayendish, to the Tees: Wm. Hobson. combe, and the Hon. G. I. Cavendish, to the Tees; Wm. Hobson, to the Tyne; H. F. Greville, to the Vigo; S. E. Cook, and J. So. merville, to the Windsor Castle .- Ponseas-Mr. A. Earle, to the Argus; Mr. II. Wells, to the Bulwark; Mr. R. Walter, to the Bustard; Mr. W. S. Black, to the Cygnet; Mr. J. Ozzard, to the Doterel; Mr. J. Thompson (a), to the Euryalus; Mr. S. Spurling, to the Harlequin; Mr. R. Lewer, to the Learns; Mr. W. P. Browne, to the Iphigenia; Mr. T. Parley, to the Loven; Mr. W: Peche, to the Northumberland; Mr. G. Rowlett, to the Parthiam; Mr. J. Sampson, to the Ramilies; Mr. W. Turner, to the Rosario; Mr. J. Bryan, to the Salisbury; Mr. J. H. Fitch, to the Semiranis; Mr. J. P. Lamey, to the Severn; Mr. J. Barber, to the Spey; Mr. J. Sloggett, to the Tees.—SUBGROUS-Mr. W. S. Thomas, and Mr. Wm. Irwin (Assistant), to the Argus; Mr. A. Montgomery, to the Bathurst surveying versel; Mr. T. Robertson, and Mr. W. Cannon (Assistant), to the Bulwark; Mr. T. Kobertson, and Mr. J. G. Sebire (Assistant), to the Bulwark; Mr. J. Marsh, and Mr. J. Kelty. (Assistant), to the Doterel; Mr. P. Power, to the Harlequin; Mr. J. Reid, and Mr. C. Emmerson (Assistant), to the Icarus; Mr. R. Whitelaw, and Mr. Wan. Lane (Assistant), to the Iphigenin; Mr. J. Gay, to the Lepen; Mr. J. Cumhingham, and Mr. P. Lothian (Assistant), to the Northumberland; Mr. J. Kennedy, to the Pandons, Mr. A. Whyte, and Mr. J. M'Allister (Assistant), to the Ramilies; Mr. J. Urquburt, and Mr. S. Wallace (Assistant), to the Semiramis; Mr. J. Urquhure, and Mr. S. Wallner (Assistant), to the Spentanns, Mr. J. Cochmue, and Mr. B; Dickson (Assistant), to the Spent, Mr. Wm. Barr, and Mr. J. M'Laren (Assistant), to the Sybille; Mr. J. Lawson, and Mr. J. Embling (Assistant), to the Tees; Mr. W. West, to the Tyne.—Chaplaisa—The Rev. J. Kirby, to the W. West, to the Tyne.—CHAPLAINS—The Rev. J. Kirby, to the Balwark; The Rev. R. Whitehend, to the Owen Glendower; The Rev. Win. Evans, to the Queen Charlotte.

On Wednesday a Court of Directors was held at the East India

House, when the following Captains were swom into the command of their respective ships, viz:—Captain W. Hunter, of the Sir David Scott, for Bengal and China; Capt. W. Majoribanks, of the Thoas Coutts, and Capt. K. Smith, of the William Fairlie, for Madras and China.

The Bust India Company's chartered ship Molra, from Bengal has arrived and proceeded for the river. The chartered ship Lady Carrington, also from Bengal, has arrived in the Downs. The Company's regular ship, Marquis Camden, arrived at Bombay the

The Company's undermentioned ships arrived at Bombay as folhas company's uncernicationed saips arrived at Bombay as follows: — The Inglis, Capt. T. Borradails; Royal George, Capt. C. S. Timins, 20th May. Farquinarson, Capt. W. Cruikshank; Marquis of Camden, Capt. T. Larkins, the 21st May. Sailed from Portsmouth, the 23d Jan. last.

THE NEW SHERIFFS. -On Menday, the new Sheriffs, Allermen Garratt and Venubles, were presented to the Cursitor Baron at the Exchequer, and went through the usual ceremonies. The Common Serjeant, in addressing the Cursitor Baron, alluded to the late Sheriffs in the following terms:—" My Lord, I have also the honour to present R. Walthman, Esq. Alderman and knitter, and J. Williams, Esq. the late Sheriffs, who come to render to our Sove-reign Lord the King an account of the issues and profits of their office. The first of them, who is a Magistrate of the City of London, and who entered into office in that character, was lately distinguished at the close of his office, by being returned to the Court of Aldermen as one of two Magistrates qualified to be elected to the high and important office of Lord Mayor. Of the other genlliams, Esq. I must say trance to office, that no private feeling of a political nature should interfere with his public duty. His fellow-citizens will all agree that the declaration has been borne out, and that the most zealous attention has been paid to the duties of his office. His hu manny and kindness to all the unfortunate prisoners under his charge, have been most exemplary. He did not confine himself to the task of supplying prisoners with comfort and necessaries, but endeavoured by advice, to reclaim those who had wandered from social duty, making them better members of society."

On Friday a Meeting of the Electors of Southwark was held in the Town Hall, to collect some money for Sir R. Wilson, to com-pensate him for the loss of his commission. The Chair was taken by a Mr. George Wentherstone, and the business opened by Alderman Wood, who described the dismissal of the Major-General as man wood, who described the dismissal of the Anjor-tremeral as "a wiehed act." He then read the following letter:—

"ITO THE GENTLEMEN ASSEMBLED AT THE THREE TUNS TAVERN, SOUTHWARK, SEPT 25, 1831.
"GENTLEMEN I have this instant read the Resolutions which were passed at the Meeting held under your anspices. Impressed with the most grassful feelings for such a proud nemorial of your esteem, I still must entent you can be comed the Resolution relative to a pecuniary sub-cription. Economy and arrangements I have no dealer of making, will afford me ample means to counteract inconveniences, to which my tamily might otherwis means to counteract inconveniences, to which my tainity night other was re-exposed by the confiscation of my initiary income, and of the capital vestel fit the commission. I have, Gentlemen, I assure you, no fear that your bothity would prove any shackle on that independence of action which it is more than ever necessary for your interests I should maintain; but I renid not, without an abuse of your generous triendship, permit the proposed ex-critice in my favour. I remain, Gentlemen, with grateful sense of oblimation, your obedient servant, Paris, Sept. 30, 1821.

A Mr. Ryland proposed several Resolutions (to further a subscription for their Representative): in these Resolutions was the following paragraph—"Nor can we but feel that the advice given by his Majusty's confidential advisers to that effect; was mended more to punish an opposer of their measures, and a supporter of the late ever-to-be-lamented Queen, than for the benefit of the public service. Nor can we consider that advice, upon any ground, to be just, without an opportunity having been given for his defence, tending, as it has, to deprive Sir Robert Wilson of his commission, for which he paid upwards of 5000h, and after having rendezed the most eminent services to his country for nearly 25 years, during the most eventful period of our history."

Several letters of assistance were read, one from Barber Beaumont, desiring the Committee to enter his name for 301., and another from an editor of an evening paper, begging that the Committee would name some banker, to whom he might pay over the sum of 12301, as that sum was considerable.

A bridge is about to be built over the Thames, from Windsor to Eton, which is to be finished by November in the ensuing year.

HOWARD AND GIBBA'S BAKKRUPICY.—On Tuesday, the Commissioners held another meeting under this Commission, when Mr. Carrol's claim to prove for three bills of exchange for 13,2071. came under consideration. His proof was opposed on inhalf of the other creditors, by Mr. Treslove and Mr. Pollock.—Mr. Carrot said, that on the 15th of September, 1820, Gibbs applied to him for the loan of 3750l. for a few days. Witness gave him a cheque on his banker for the sum. When the promised time of payment arrived, he applied to Gibbs for the money. Gibbs was not provided, but desired he would draw on him at seven days, and the bill should be paid. He did so, but the hill was not honoured when due. He came to prove on these bills, and was not prepared to suswer as to the particulars of any other account. After some further conversation, it was determined that Mr. Carrol should be at liberty to go into further proof at the next meeting.

On Saturday the Commissioners held another meeting, when, amongst other proofs tendered, was one by Howard the bankrupt, for 9311, in the character of executor under the will of Mr. J. Camper, who died in 1910. The above sum it appeared was paid to the bankrupt on account of the wife and daughter of the deceased, and employed as other monies were which came into their hands in the way of their profession. An objection was taken by Mr. Treslove to this proof, but the objection was overruled by the Commissioners.

Mr. Carrol again attended to tender his proof on the three bills of exchange for 13,750l. but on account of the absence of his counsel, Mr. Montague, asked indulgence till a future day.

Mr. Treelove.— Have you brought your books and papers, Mr. Carrol? Mr. Carrol.—No, Sir. Mr. Treslove. -Then as I told you before, your attendance without them is weless. Mr. Carrol. Thank you, Mr. Treslove, but I do not go into the enemy's quarters for advice—I shall take that from my own counsel when he is present, not from you,—Adjourned

PROVINCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

BARNSTAPLE.-A few days mace, H. Sloley, a farmer, was summoned to answer an information for having two young bares in his house.' It was stated, that one of the workmen, in cutting a field of grass, mowed over two young hares or leverets, that were concealed in the grass, and killed them. He informed his master of the circumstance, who gave his workmen strict injunctions not to take the hares to his house. The boy, however, took them into the house, where a fellow named Blackmore, who had been working for Sloley, saw them, and immediately gave information to the Association for the Protection of Game in that neighbourhood.— The Magistrates convicted him in the full penalty of 101. and costs.

BIDEFORD.—A scene of desolation presented itself on the coast near Appledore and here, last week. It was strewed with the wrecks of property washed in by the tempestuous waves. A vessel belonging to Cornwall was made a complete wreck, and her crew drowned, but her sails and rigging were preserved through the zenl and activity of the mariners of the place. A vessel, without any person on board, was also brought in ; and some men, belonging to a Clovelly boat, were picked up at sea. Вигонтом.—On Wednesday, Mr. Green ascended in his balloon om the Gas-works at ten minutes past two o'clock. The day was particularly fine and the atmosphere clear. A brisk breeze from the north-west. A small balloon was let off at balf past one, which took an easterly direction, and was soon out of sight. The cords were cut at ten minutes after two, and Mr. Green ascended, having first desired the band to play God save the King, while he drank a glass of wine to His Majesty's health. The balloon rose at first but slowly, taking a south-eastern direction. It descended a little in a few minutes. Mr. Green, however, threw out a hag or a little in a few minutes. Mr. Green, however, threw out a hag or two of sand, and the balloon ascended majestically to the height of about one thousand toises. He then threw out two or three more hags, and ascended to such a beight that the balloon appeared to be no larger than a pigeon. It took a direction nearly due east, and in a few minutes was over the sea. One of the packets from Dieppen the Unity, Capt. Clear, having been driven out of her direct course by the wind, was off Seaford Cliffs, and observed the failtoon and Mr. Green drop into the sea. The packet's boat was instantly put off, and Mr. Green was first taken on board, and then CASTLETOWN .- A few days since, the Rev. Francis Langford, of this town, sent John Corneal and some other men, to draw off. tithes, whilst Corneal sent his companions for horses and cars, he was most inhumanly murdered, his head being severed from his CORK .- On the morning of Wednesday se'unight, John Moore, one of the constables of this district, went accompanied by his son and a person named Driscoll, with a warrant to arrest one Michael Lehane, on the lands of Rochestown. Moore told Lehane that he had a warrant against him and required him to surrender, when Lehane. who was arm younger Moore, and shot him dead.

STIRLING.—A few days since, John Clason, the person who was convicted of perjuty, at the Circuit Court, on Monday, the 17th ult. and sentenced to six months' imprisonment, fell from his seat in a fit, and expired in a few minutes.

	SHIP N
Arrived Mails	Pue	Arrived
1 Dublin	—		.Malta
1 Waterford			France
Gnerneey & Je		—	.Hamburgi	1., 2
l Holland		—	Flanders .	· · · · —
Gottenburgh.	1	-	Jamaica.	··· —
Lisbon	1	I	.Brazile	–

DEAL, October 5. Wind W. Arrived and salied for the River, the Zephyr, Cox, from Honduras. She has put back again, with the loss of two suchors and cables. Fortitude Increased from St. Kitt's; Britamia from Isalifax; Minstrel from Naples; Ceres from Africa; Good Intent from Lisbon; and Alexander from Cork. Arrived and remain, the Princess Mary, Bext, from the South Seas; Britamia Faterna; and George, Molburn, from Blyth for France. The Wind shifted about 3 A. M. Itom the S.B.W. to the N.W. and blews hard. The ships in the Downs rode all well.

ABERDEEN, October 2. The Yrhan, from Daris Straits, has arrived here with 9 fish, 140 tons. She was reported to be lost, along with several er is mored, from this circumstance, that the report may prove as in other cases. The Ythan had not heard of the loss of the Eliza groundless in o'her cases. The Ythan had not heard of the loss of the Elizabeth, of this place.

Digitized by Google

YARMOUTH, October 5. Four or five vessels, supposed to be colliers, cut from their anchors last night, under Eccles, close to this place.

PORTSMOUTH, October 5. Arrived H. M. S. Alligator, from Madras, sailed 2d June; from the Mauritius, 14th July; and from St. Helena, 27th August. Also the Tiger, Brash, from the Downs for New South Wales; and Only Son, Green, from the though one calle and slipped mother, "Two other vessels also slipped their cables. Sailed H. M. S. Rosario on a cruize.

PLYMOUTH October 4. Wind S.W. Arrived the St. Johannes, Mielson, from Hadmatalt for Cadir; and Friends, Hunt, from London for Gibraltar. The Mariner of Partmonth for Liverpsol, has put in here with less of mainmant, having been run foul of. The Success and Drake cutters have been paid off at this port. The crews are to be retained and employed in Ireland.

SCILLY, October 2. A glass battle was picked up on the 30th uit, by a pilot boat, with the following paper:—"Brig James, Demaison, master, from Intervool to Jamaica, this 16th, at 12 o'clock, all well, in latitude 50 deg. 6 min. N. longitude 5 deg. 48 min. W. Wind W.N.W. thick weather."

FALMOUTH, October 4. Wind S. Arrived the Bee, Raymond, from Pootsmouth 'or Cork and New South Wales.

RAMSGATE, October 5. Arrived the Regent packet, Collins, 'rom London for Limerick, having slipped her chain cable; Desire, Roundtree, from Sunderland, with her windlass broken; Coldilla, Urgnarh, from London; and Judith, Coward, from —, with loss of anchor and cables, have been brought in here. The Royal Sovereign, of this port, has brought on shore about 70 fathoons of 16-inch cable, a new buoy and buoy-rope, and an ancion of about 11 ewt.

GRAVESEND, October 5. Arrived the Ann and Amelia, Short, from Calcutta.

ONE HUNDRED BEAVER HATS, ROBERT LLOYD, ORE GUNDARD BEAVER HATS. ROBERT LLOYD, of 92, Newgate-street, original maker, and inventor of upwards of 100 different shaped GENTLEMEN'S BEAVER HATS, which for beauty, quality, and taste, are unrivalled in Great Britain. The process of manufacture is new, and so decidelly superier to the old, that although the price is only 25s. they will wear longer than any two of these initiation Beaver Hats commonly charged a Guinea; another guest advantage is, that in so unequalled a variety of forms, the wearer can choose what best becomes his person. Silk Hats, with double edges, 19s. each, a most incomparable article.

article.

N. B.—A Fourth Edition of Lloyd's Treatise on Hots, price 1s. IRISH POPLIN WAREHOUSE.—IRISH POPLINS, in all the most fashionable Freuch colours, cheaper than they can be bought in Dublin. Shawls and Searis of every description from 6s. to 15 gainess each; beautiful Norwich Crayes, Bombazines, Levantines, Gros de Naples, and all kinds of fancySilks for Dresses. West of England Ladies' Cloths, in all fashionable colours—greet bargains from 4s. to 7s. per yard, under the regular prices. Rich tienon Vereis, also an elegant article for Ladies' Pelisses and Mantles, which will resist rain, is extremely light, warm, and durable; to be had only at A. S. HARS and CO's, Bedford house, No. 11, Henrietta-street, Covent-gar len, London.

EXER THE TEPTH—A. DENTIFICIAL which although it

Henrietts-street, Covent-garlen, London.

POR THE TEETH.—A DENTIFRICE, which, nithough it has not the absurd pretensions of "generating enamel," or "converting the gums to coral," will be found to possess every requisite that can reasonably be expected—Also a TINCTURE that is warranted to afford relief in all cases, and in most will permanently remove the TOOTH ACID. These articles are perfectly innocent in their composition, and pleasant in their application, being the result of many years actual practice.—Prepared by J. GRAY, Surgeon and Dentist, No. 25, Old Barlington-street, London, price 2s, 9d, and is, 9d, each bottle of Tincture, and 3s, each box of Dentifrice-May also be had offar, Johnston, 98, Corability Mr. Samder, 95, 8d, James's street, Brighton; at Mr. Williams's Library, Cheltenham; and of hirs. Gould, 4, Milson-street, Bath, 8cc. 8cc. 8cc.

EASE and COMPORT in SHAVING .- To those Gentlemen who PASE and COMPORT in SHAVING.—To those Gentlemen who experience inconvenience in Shaving from a tender face or a strong beard, J. T. RIGGS most particularly recommends his celebrated MAGNETIC RAZOR TABLET, which, with its late improvement, he engages will produce so keen an edge as to superache all grading, honing, &c. and render the operation of slaving as casy and agreeable as it was before nupleasant and pain all. Its use is simple, is effect certain; price 7s. 6d. J. T. Rigge's Aromatic Staving Soap will also be found an invalual leadlition. Manufactory, 65, Cheanside, and 52, Park-atrect, Grosvenor-source.

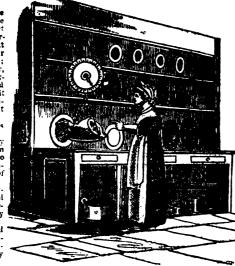

Aromatic Slaving Soap will also be found an invaluable addition. Manufactory, 65, Chearside, and 52, Park-street, Grosvenor-smare.

PATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP.—The Choaner Lung, increasing in laterest as the days shorten, the Patentee is induced to present this to the Public as a source of confort superior to any in this country, or perhaps the world. It a phraces brilliancy, perfect safety, and certainty for any length of time required, will bear any motion, can be recurated to born the longest or shortest night, discopearing in the morning without sanke or small. The same principle applies, and the Lamps equally portable, on elegant pedestals, for the dining table, sideboard, study, mant epicee, Sec.; and also fer the Glass Grecian Hunging Lamp of the hall, conservatory, passages, staircase, drawing-room lustres, &c. eleganth simple and much admired. It is a most essential acquisition in all these Lamps, that they will burn the whole evening without trimming, requiring to be repleniable with cotton only once in two or three months, and so simple that a child can trim them. The annual expense of light burning every might in the year, proportionate with condies, is, for the chamber as above described, 10s.; for the kirchen, equal to a can be eight to the pound sixes, 15s.; partieur or mould sixes, 15s.; and to tours, 17s.; suppose a dome lamp for the dining table, equal to four mould fours, 68s.; or hall, three mould sixes, 45s. Thus the degrees of light, more or less, can be regulated at pleasure solid to the occasion. By this statement Gentlemen may ascertain the great saving in proportion to their establishment, bearing in taind, that these Lamps burn as sweet as year.—Sold for the Patentee, by Thomas Pearce and Co. No. 26s, Lacing the front of St. General's Church, Strand who, to secure the reputation of this invention from fine effects of adulterate of all are bound to sell more but pure and genaine Spermacett. Letters addressed, post paid, from any part of the Kingdom, will meet with prompt atte attention

DIAL WEIGHING MACHINES.

MARRIOTT having obtained His Majesav's Royal Letters Patent, for an invaluable improvement in WEIGHING MACHINES, begs leave to recommend them to the Public, as the and useful arpurpose ever constructed; for accuracy, simplicity expeditio portability, it railed, as it instantone instantane-onsly shews the exact weight of any article, from OneOunce to a Ton, with-out the use of Weights. thereby ing time labour. ing perfe portable, may be used in any struc-tion—its uni-versal utility must there-force be underliable for Domestic purposes; in Shops, Warehouses, Coacl Offices, Market Houses, Barns, on Wharfs, at Reces and Fairs, for Cuttle force of andeniant for Domestic purposes; in Shops, Warehouses, Coach Offices, Market Houses, Barns, on Whants, at Recess and Fairs, for Cattle, Corn, Hay, &c. or for loading heavy Articles; it may be attached to the chain of a Crane, and shew the weight at the time of canning; it is also peculiarly well adapted for the Foreign, Markets. From its extreme simplicity, it is scarcely possible to be inaccurate; yet if it ever should be so, there is an adjusting Screw, which will momentarily correctif.

H. MARRIOTT having also made considerable improvements in his PATENT KITCHEN COOKING APPARATUS, feels a confidence in recommending it to the Public, as a most complete Article for Roasting Baking, Boiling, and Steaming, with economy in fuel, by one moderate-sixed Fire, and with a constant supply of from Twelve to Twenty Gallows of Het Water; also Warm Closets for airing Linen, keeping Dianer hot, heating Plates, Dishes, &c. the Colving Utensils are never solled, and it is a positive Cure for a Smokey Chimney. Kitchens fitted up with Steam Apparatus, embrocing all the late improvements: also Batin, Conservatories, Halls, Stairwases, and Fudiding's neated by Steam, upon a principle of perfect security, and equal diffusion of heat.—An improved Patent Spring Roasting Jack, to whythat the benefative of weights or pulles.—The whole may we seen delty in use at the Patentee's Manufactory, 84, Fleet-street, London; or land of most of the respectable frommongers throughout Eagland. 'N B. Smokey Chimnies cured on philosophical principles.

TRUE BRITISH SYSTEM OF EDUCATION;

Or, the powerful Principle of the Economy of Labour by Scientific Means applied to the Improvement of Education and of the Human Mind; under the patronage of the King, to whom the Work is, by permission, dedicated. This day is published, in 2 vols. 8vo. price II. 8s. in boards, the Pourth Edition, much enlarged and improved, of NATURE DISPLAYED in HER MODE of TEACHING LANGUAGE to MAN: being a new and infallible method of acquiring Languages with unparaleled rapidity, deduced from the analysis of the Human Mind, and consequently suited to every opacity. Adapted to the French. To which is pretized, a Developement of the Plan of Tuition; differing enlively from every other, so powerful in its operation, and so very economical, that a liberal Education can be procured even by the poorest of mankind; thus furnishing the great desideratum of enabling nations to arrive at the highest degree of mental perfection.—By N. G. DUFIEF, Anthor of the "Philosophy of Language," and of the "New Universal Pronouncing Dictionary of the French and English Languages," &c.

London: Printed for and sold by the Author, No. 2, Ely-place, Holborn; sold also by Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown: Edwards and Knibb; J. Sonter; G. and W. B. Whittaker; Simpkin and Marshall; Sherwood, Neely, and Jones; Harvey and Darton; Dulau and,Co.; and N. Halles.

The Author respectfully solicits the carnest attention of the Government, the Proprietors of the Hon. East India Company, and of the Public in general, to the following communications from India respecting the national advantages to be derived from his work.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Pearson to the Directors of the Missionary Society, London, dated Chinsurah, 31st of December, 1819;—

"I have lately completed, in the native language, an English Graumar; it is well spoken of by those who have seen it, and is likely to be in great demand by the natives, for whose use it is intended, It will be followed by a copious Vocabulary on the plan of Dunief's "Natu banks of the Gauges, the Candians, Hottentsts, Negroes, &c. &c."—Exangelical Magazine.

Battact from the Report of the Committee of the Calcutta School-Book Society; read at the First Annual General Meeting of the Subscribers, held at the Town-hall of that City:—

"Your Committee has, in conclusion, to advert to a very remarkable work, which has strongly attracted their attention, entitled, 'Nature Displayed,' by Mr. N. G. Dunef. The truths of most importance to mankind commonly lie long dormard, acknowledgel indeed, but not duly prized; till some one, gifted with common sense and sagacity surpassing those of his cotemporarles, points out to the world their momentous practical uses and corollories.

cotemporaries, points out to the world their momentous practical uses and corollories.

"Mr. Dufief has himself observed, what is indeed sufficiently obvious, that his manner of teaching a language is not suited to the case of the Frenc ionly. It is for this Institution steadily to keep the principle in view, and seize opportunities, as they occur, of applying it to all the languages within its sphere of operation and usefulness.

"Your Committee, adverting to the uncommon merit of the work, and considering its dissemination as calculated to produce just ideas on the subject of school-books, and as furnishing an admirable model for the preparation of many, have encouraged a proposed re-publication in Calcutta, by substricting for seventy copies," &c.

The following are the names of the Committee who made the above Report:—Hon. Sir B. H. East; J. H. Harrington, E-q.; V. B. Bayley, Eaq.; Rev. W. Carey, D.D.; Rev. J. Parson; Rev. T. Thomason; Major J. W. Taylor; Capt. T. Roebuck; Capt. A. Lockett; W. H. Macnaghten, Bsq.; C. J. Gordon, Esq.; James Robinson, Esq.; James Cader, Esq. Tressere; Lieut. F. Irvine, Recording Secretary; E. S. Montava, Bsq. Corresponding Secretary; Lient. D. Bryce, Collector; Mowluvee Undoolwahid, Nat. Sec.; Eaboo Tarinea Churun Mitr. Nat. Sec.; Mowluvee Crum Hoosyn; Mrityuxjoy Bidyaluncar; Mowluvee Undoolwahid, Nat. Sec.; Baboo Radhacant Deb; Mowluve Moohummud Rashid; and Baboo Ram Comul Sen.

Mowhwee Moohumanid Rashid; and Baboo Ram Comul Sen.

FRENCH PERFUMERY.—JRAN DEVEREAUX'S ESPRIT DE LAVANDE AUX MILLEFLEURS, possesses all the balmy fragrance of the Seshest flowers; its aromatic, cephalic, and nervine virtues, are instantly diffused through the most sparious apartments, while the fragrance at its seem revives every person around.—Sold in bottles, price 2s. 6d. and 5s. at the Depot for French Perfumery, 2s. Lembard-street, London; where is to be had JEAN DEVEREAUX'S MONTPELLIER SOAP for rendering the complexion delicately smooth, clear, and even; imparting a vivifying grateful perfame, and giving to the skin a most delicious feel and luxurious brilliancy. Price 2s. 6d, per packet.—Sold retail at 6s, Cornhill; No. 9, Regent-street, Pall Mall; 129, Oxford-street; 59, St James's-sreet; 22, Hatton Garden, and wholesale by Price and Gosnell-Perfumers to His Majesty.

Ly A gratuitous sample (on a handkerchief) of Jean Devercaux's celebrated Esprit de Lavande aux Millefleurs, will be presented to any Lady or Gentleman, which will prove its pleasing and reireshing properties, by appiving its any of his Agents, or at his Depot, No. 2s, Lombard-street, London.

PRICE and GOSNELL'S MACASSAR OIL, patronised by His PRICE and GOSNELL'S MACASSAR OIL, patronised by His Majesty and the Royal Family, gives strength and a beautiful glossy appearance to the Hair; imparts to it the most delizhtful perfume, and prevents its failing off or turning grey to extreme old age. Hair dressed with this celebrated Oil soon becomes soft, correly, bright, and luxuriant in its growth; and half that has been injured, made harsh, and turning grey, will be restored, by a few applications, to its natural colour, brilliancy, and beauty.—Sold by the sole Propriators, and only Importers, PRICE and GOSNELL, Perimeers to His Majesty, No. 12, Three Kings-court, Lombardstreet, London, in bottles at 3s. 6d.; los. 6d.; and 21s. each, bearing their signature on the label in red link.

CAUTION.—Messrs. PRICE and GOSNELL beg to caution the Nobility and Gentry against a spurious Macassar Oil, injurious to the hair, imposed upon the onbile by late-dressers/clasely styling themselves importers) who are equally incompetent to ascertain the danger of what they extol, as they are to discover what night be useful.—Ask for Price and Gosnell's Macassar Oil.

BY THE KING'S PATENT.

CHANGE of RESIDENCE induces the Patentee to acquaint the Nobility and Gentry, that in consequence of the counterfeits under the same name, he has confined the sale to such respectable houses (only) who deal in genuine articles. The PATENTYIOLET SOAP inwing a decided preference, both as a washing and shaving Soap, for its cleansing, beautifying, softening, and balsamic properties on the skin, that it was in consequence of these inestimable qualities His Majesty granted his Letter Patent. It should invariable he asked for as "Nall's Patent Violet Soap." It is sold in squares at 2s. 6d. and in boxes containing twelve squares, at 25s. or twelve small, at 15s.; the shaving cakes, at 2s. 6d. each, or in boxes, 4s. 6d. which are re-filled, at 2s. 6d. and it is forwarded to all parts of town or country, warranted to arrive safe, by addressing a line by post to the Patentee. Observe his name and signature is on the outside of the wrapper.—J. B. HALL, No. 28, Hadlow-street, Burten Crescent, London.

**BURGESS*** ESSENCE** of ANCHOVIES.—Warehouse, 170.

BURGESS' ESSENCE of ANCHOVIES.—Warehouse, 170, Strand, corner of the Savoy-steps, London.—John Burgess and Son, being apprized of the nuncrons endeavours made by many persons to impose a spurious article for their make, feel it incumbent upon them to request the attention of the Public, in purchasing what they conceive to be the Original, to observe the Name and Address corresponds with the above: the general appearance of the spurious descriptions will deceive the unguarded, and for their detection, J. B. and Sonsubmit the following cautions,—some are in appearance at first sight, "The Genuine," but without any name or address:
—some "Burgess's Essence of Anchovics;"—others—"Burgess's,"—and many more without Address.

John Burgess and Son having been many years honoured with such distinguished approbation, feel every sentiment of respect towards the Public, and earnestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to their purchasing what they conceive to be of their make, which they hope will prevent many disappoint ments.

BURGESS'S NEW SAUCE for general purposes, having given such great satisfaction, continues to be prepared by them, and is recommended as a most useful and course into Sauce: will keep good in all climates.

Warehouse, 107, Strand, corner of the Savoy-steps, London.—(The original Pilst-sauceWarehouse.) BURGESS' ESSENCE of ANCHOVIES.—Warehouse, 170,

THE only Article that REALLY PREVENTS the HAIR PALLING OFF, or TURNING GREY, produces a luxuriant Growth on the baldest places, and beautiful flowing Carls, is ROWLAND'S MACASSAR OIL,

ROWLAND's MACASSAR OIL,

The Original and Genuine, which for many years has been universally adahred, and is acknowledged the best and cheapest article for producing a beautiful Head of Hair, and produces WHISKERS, EYE-BROWS, &c. Its pre-eminent virtues have gained it the patronage of Royalty and the Nobiity, and is attested by an immense multitude of witnesses. Price 3s. 6d.; 7s.: 10s. 6d.; and One Guinea per Bottle.

Also, ROWLAND'S ESSENCE OF TYRE.—By merely wetting the Hair with this Preparation, the Proprietors warrant to produce immediately a perfect change in BED or GREY HAIR, WHISKERS, EYE-BROWS, &c. to a beautiful glossy and permanent Brown or Black, imitating the exact anatural colour. Washing makes this Dye the more durable. Ladies or Gentlemen may dye their Hair with ease and secresy. Price 4s.; 7s. 6d.; and 10s 6d.

10s 6d.

Sold, Wholeslae, Retail, and for Exportation, by the Sole Proprietors, A.
ROWLAND and SON, corner of Exportation, by the first turning on the right in Hatton garden, Helborn, London; and by appointment, by all Perfumers and Medicine Venders throughout Europe.
A. ROWLAND and SON respectfully caution the Public against spurious Articles. Under their Names impostors have signed their Imitations,
A. Rowlandson, which deception renders it necessary to observe the true signature, A. ROWLAND and SON, in Red Ink, wrete on each Bettle.

LONDON MARKETS. 34

CORN EXCHANGE, FRIDAY, COY. 3. The supply of Wheat since Monday has been tolerable h The supply of Wheat since Monday has been tolerably have, and some quantity remained over from that day's market; for the inferior sorts the trade is exceedingly dull and rather lower, but both old and new, of good quality sell on quite as good terms. Of Oats, the arrival has been very moderate, and though the trade is by no means brisk, Monday's prices are fully supported. In Barley, Beans, and Pense, there is no alteration to notice. Beans, and Pease, there is no alteration to notice.

-			** ** ** ** ** ** ** ** ** ** ** ** **
	RETURN PRICE of GRA	MIN, on board Ship,	as mader.
ASSEX ALCO	u vv neat (new)48<. 50s.	. Maple
Fine		White ditto
Old		. Boilers
Sesex W	hile (vew)	Small Beans
· ine		.   Old	3Au 1-E
Old		Old
Rye	s. 30s. 32s.	Feed Oats
Barley		. Fine
Fine		.; Poland ditto
duperfine.		Fine
Malt		Petatoe ditto
rine	63s. 68s.	Fine
Hog Peas	e	.1	11.7

PRICES OF GOLD AND SILVER.

Fortugal Gold, in Coin 0 0 0 p. oz.
Foreign Gold in Bars 3 17 101

New Doubloons 6 0 0	New Louis, each .
COURSE OF EXCHA	NGB FRIDAY, O	et. St. X
Amsterdam 12 16 C.F.	Trieste
Ditto at Sight 12 13	Madrid36	Cadiz
Rotterdam 12 17	Bilhoa354	Barcelona .
Autwerp 12 9	Seville354	Gibraltar
lamburgh 37 11	Legborn47	Genea
Altona	Venice 27 60	Malta
aris, 3 days Sight 25 70	Naples 394	Palerme ;
Ditto 28 —	Lisbon50	Operto
Bordeaux 26 —	Rio Innairo	. 491
rankfort on Main 157	Bahla
etersburg 3 U	Dublin	1
/ienna 10 23 Ess. flo.	Cork	F 10-4
	Dublin

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

FROM OCTOBER 1, TO OCTOBER 8, INCLUSIV

The only description of Colonial produce susceptible of co able fluctuations is that of Coffee; throughout the business of the present week this remark has been strongly exemplified. On Tagday 560 casks and 660 bags were brought to the hummer, when the foreign descriptions and better qualities of Pluntation, which in previously ruled much above the relative proportion of ordinary Jamaicas, found their level by experiencing a decline of above 5s. per cwt..; and Ordinary Havannahs were forced off at 92s, beginning 93s.; St. Domingos 97s. to 190s.; Good to Fine Middling Jamaille. 121s. to 128s. 6d.; a re-action has, however, subsequently taken place, (excepting Dutch, which went 4s. to 5s. lower yestered and the decime above stated has been recovered, which established and the decline above stated has been recovered, which establish the currency similar to that of our preceding exposition.—B.2. Sugars of good quality have gone off freely at very full prices; its Browns can be bought on rather easier terms, say 51s, its Bridding 56s, to 62s.; Good 64s. to 71s.; Fine 73s. to 77s. the turns from the West India Docks are 69,321 casks, which they nearly correspond with the quantity in October, 1820.—The Refined market is heavy, and prices rather lower.—Molasses have advanced to 24s.—At a small sale of Jamaica Rum, a reductional full 1d, per gallon was experienced; 15 to 18 per cent, over prior full 1d. per gallon was experienced; 15 to 18 per cent. over prod only is. Sd. per gallon; the tremendously overwhelming quanty on hand (34,480 casks) is conclusive, at least, against any amend ment .-- A speculative disposition still attaches itself to Brandle and 4s. 6d. has been realized.

Pernambuco Cottons have occupied attention for shipping its 123; a respectable quantity of Bengals have also been disposed at previous rates, in other respects the market has been quiescut, attention being excited to the sule at the East India House of next week; the catalogues of which being complete the exact quanti-stands at 12,362 Bengals; 6,031 Surats; 596 Madras, and 39 Bourboas, making a total of 19,219 bales; the arrivals this weeks these descriptions are upwards of 6,000 bales, which have ten depress the market; advices from Liverpool state, that little had be done in Cottons, and buyers had some advantage over the preceding week .- Tallows Y. C. command 46s.; the loss of ten ships from Davies's Straits have had some influence on this commodity.-The sale of 3,300 chests of Indigo went off with spirit, and the selowing augmented value has been fixed:—Blue and Purple 98.10 9s. 6d.; Fine Purple and Violet 8s. 9d. to 9s. 3d.; Fine Vide 8s. 6d. to 9s.; Good and Middling Violet 8s. 3d. to 8s. 5d.; Fine Violet and Copper 8s. to 8s. 6d.; Good and Fine Copper 7s. 6d. to 8s.; Middling and Low Copper 6s. 6d. to 7s. 6d.; Ordinary 5s. to 6s.

PRICES of the PUBLIC FUNDS. STOCKS. Mon. Tues. Thur. Bank Stock...
3 per Cent. Roduced ...
3 per Cent. Consols...
5 per Cent. Consols...
Consols for Account... 77 774 111 77 76 77 1391 77 778 763 76] 4 per Cent. Consols ... 5 per Cent. Navy .... Bank Long Annuities ... India Bonds .... 110 1095 109 100 € 109 a, 1 62 64 P 66 P India Bonds
Exchequer Bills, 2d.
Ditto, 24d.
Omnium 2 Þ

BIRTHS.

At Malta, on the 20th July last, the Lady for George Ward, it a being Paymaster to the Forces, of a daughter.
On the 29th ult. at her father's house, Badale, Yorkshire, the Lady of J. P. Beresford, Bart. of a son.
On the 29th ult. at Woolwich, the Lady of Lieut. Anderson, Revaluation on Tuesday last, at Bath, the Lady of Capt. Lysaght, R.N. of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

Yesterday morning, at St. George's, Bloomshury, by the Rev. % Orner Thomas Hunt, Esq. of Montague-street, to Louisa, youngest daughter of the late Dr. John M. Lettsom, and grand-daughter of the late William Names. Esq. of Russell-square.

In Scotland, Lord Edward Chichester, second son of the Marquis of Bussell, to Amelia Diana, daughter of Henry Deane Grady, Esq. of Merisasquare, Dublin.

At Streatham Church, on Wednesday, Lieut.-Colonel Darling, to Meri At Streatham Church, on Wednesday, Lieut.-Colonel Darling, to 1878. O'Rourke, widow of the late Lieut.-Col. O'Rourke.

DIED.

At East Acton, on Thursday, the 27th of September, Ann, the wilew of Bright Hemming, Esq. aged 76.
On Saturday. September 29, at his mother a house, in Wigmore-street in the 66th year of his age, General AndrewiCowell, formerly of the Codstream regiment of Gards.

the both year of his age, osered Addrews over, sometry of the Country of the Country of the Latinst, the infant daughter of Mr. John Williams, of Corubill.

On Saturday se'nnight, in the 58th year of her age, Penelope Ann, will'of John Gracroff, Baq, of Hackthern, in the Country of Lincoln.

On the 24th ult. at Margate, in his 75th year, James Brewer, Eq. of Challes Country.

On the 2sts at Starry.
Clapham Common, Surrey.
On Monday last, at Richmond, Mrs. Katherine Leslie.
On the 26th of September, at Starrington, Sussax, Col. Sharry Bisher.

NO. 11, SOUNSON'S COURT, FLEET-STREET, and enly Communications to the Editor, (post poid) are to

BORRES MANAGEMENT TO A LOSS OF THE PARTY.

REPUBLICANT PROPERTY OF THE

Furnished and the property of the property of

" FOR GOD, THE KING, AND THE PEOPLE!"

No. 44.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1821.

Price 7d.

NEW MUSIC.

To-morrow will be published, by CLEMENTI and Cw. 26, Cheapside,

FWELVE MONFERRINAS, for the Plano Forte, composed by

MUZIO CLEMENTI, Op. 49, price 5s.

63. The agreeable and familiar sayls of these little Pieces will be found secontable to all classes of performers.

A new SET of THREE SONATAS, for the Plano Foxte, composed and dedicated to L. Cherubini, by MUZIO CLEMENTI, being the 50th Opera of the Sonathor, price 104, 6d.

NEW MUSIC. - KIALLMARK'S universally-admired Variations NEW MUSIC.—KIALLMARK'S universally-admired Variations on the Plano Forte, by D. Bruguier, price 3s.—Perry: Grand Coronation March, composed and arranged as a Duet for the Plano Forte, price 2s.—Latour's celebrated "Le Betour de Windsen!" arranged as a Duet for two performers on the Plano Forte, by D. Bruguier, price 5s.—The popular Air, "Sul Margheo-d'un Rice," an Italian Air, with Variations as a Duet for two performers on the Plano Forte, by Edw. Booth, price 2s. 6d.—Boleddeus Tavourite Overture, "Du Cuific de Bagdad," arranged as a Duet for two performers on the Plano Forte, by T. Goodban, price 4s.—The above Duets are particularly recommended to the notice of the Musical World, being alranged by the first Masters of the present age.—London: Published by, Mayhew and Co. Music Selfers to Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Kent, 17, Did Bond-street, where may be had, Hart's Fourth Set of Quadrilles, including. "George the Fourth," Coronation Waltz, &c. 4s.

NEW MUSIC.—Lut published, mice 10.64

NEW MUSIC.—Just published, price 10s. 6d.

THE oblibrated CORONATION ANTHEM "I WAS GLAD," composed by command of the King, and performed as part of the angust Geremonial of His Majesty's Royal Coronation in Westminster Abbey, July 19th, 1821; by THOMAS ATTWOOD, Composer to His Majesty's Chapels Boyal.

Eondon: Printed by (and to be had at) the Royal Harmonic Institution, Lower Saloon, Argyll Rooms, Regent-street.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.

MRS. CHATTERLEY most respectfully informs her Friends and the Public, that her BENEPIT will take place on TUBEDAY, the 18th Instant; on which occasion-will be performed The SCHOOL for SCANDAL; andy Teasle, (first time) by Mrs. Chatterley; after witch, MATCH-MAKING, to epichede with A DAY-AFTER THE WEDDING. Tickets and Places to be had of Mrs. Chatterley, No.9, Craven-street, Strand.

TO GENTLEMEN WISHING TO FINISH THEIR EDUCATION, or those who may be desirous of avoiding the tedious and disagreeable restraint of scholastic rules.

IN a pleasant, and cheerful Village, about 40 miles South of London, ONE or TWO GENTLEMEN may be BOARDED and EBU. CAPEO in the more elegant and elevated Branches of Literature, on a Plan hitherto unattenspied. For lealth and recreation, the numerous Trout Streams, and the surrounding Country, afford every amusement for Angling, Sketching, and for Sporting.

Particulars and Terms will be given, by application, at 49, Newgatestreet.

In a few days will be published, in one vol. Crown 8vo. price 7s. 6d.

IRCTURES on the BIBLE and LITURGY.—By EDWABD

HAWKE LOCKER, Esq. F.R.S.—Pristed for Messrs. Hatchard and Son, Piccastily; Messrs. Rivington, St. Faul's Churchyard, and Waterlooplace; and Messrs. Knight and Dredge, Windsor.

Two Editions of these Lectures have already appeared in "The Plain Englishman," a periodical Miscellany of religious, political, and amusing information; which may be obtained of the same Publishers, in Monthly Numbers, price is, and of all other Booksellers.

MEDICAL BOTANY

MEDICAL BOTANY.

R. EMERSON recommenced his LECTURES on MEDICAL BOTANY, on Thursday last, the 11th October, at the Eye Infirmary, Marvie-Boue Street, Piccadilly, at a Quarter a ter eleven o'clock precisely. The Lectures will be delivered on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.—Ticket for the Course, consisting of Twenty-four Lectures, Two Guineas.

K. B. The Summer Course of Three Months, with Botanical Excursions, will commence in April as usual. Ticket Three Guineas—Perpetual to the Lactures, Five Guineas.

The Further Particulars of Mesars. Burgess and Hill, 55, Great Windmill-street.

ST. JOHN AT HACKNEY.

N. SUNDAY MORNING NEXT, October 21, a CHARITY SERMON will be preached in the Church of the said Parish, b. the Rev. J. B. HOLLINGWORTH, D. D. Rector of St. Margaret, Lothbury, and Minis er of St. Boriolpi, Aligate, for the benefit of 300 children, educated and clothed in the Parochial Charity Schools of Hackney.

Bervice to begin as usual at half past teh o'clock.

ROYAL WHSTMINSTER INFIRMARY for the CURE of DISEASES of the BYE, 7, Mary-le-Boue Street, Piccadilly.

THE LECTURES on the ANATOMY, SURGERY, and DISEASES of the EYE, annually delivered by Dr. FORBES, the Physician, and Mr. GUTHRIE, the Surgeon of this Insiliation, will commence on MONDAY, the 15th Inst. and be con inned every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, at a quarter before ten o'clock, until the Course is completed.

All poor persons, afflicted with Diseases of the Eye, may apply for advice on the same days at half past ten o'clock, and may in general be furnished with Tiekets of Admission, which have been left by different Governors of the Charity for that purpose.

GERMAN COMMON PRAYER.

GERMAN COMMON PRAYER.

Just published, in one very small volume, beautifully printed, price 5s.

A GERMAN TRANSLATION of the BOOK of COMMON PRAYER.—By the Rev. Dr. KUPER.—Printed for Samuel Bagater, No. 18. Paternoster-row; where may be had, in uniform Volumes, price 5s. each, Translations into Latin, Greek, Spanish, Italian, Modern Greek, or French; or the eight volumes is one Sat, including the English, price 3t.

THE NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE, (New Series) for Oct. 1, price 3s. 6d. will contain a Letter from Lady Morgan to the Reviewers of her Work on Baby; together with the following Orizinal Papers.—I. Germap Popular and Traditionary Literature—II. Snull-taking.—III. Verses given with my pleture to my brother.—IV. Letter from Spain, by Don Leacadio Dobrado —V. Song.—VI. Acquaintances.—VII. Letters from Montaigne the Vounger.—Address to the Grange Tree at Versailles —IX. Revolution in Fashkin.—X. Betany.—XI. To a Friend on her Birth-day.—XII. The Census.—XIII. Nurse's Song, translated from the German.—XIV. Morth German Peasantry.—XV. New Modes of Education.—XVI. French and Snglish Tragedy.—XVII. Song, by T. Campbell.—XVIII. The Philosophy of the London Cries.—XIX. The King in Ireland.—XX. To the Turquoise.—XXII. To Taurist.—XVI. Songel.—XVII. XM. The Care of Good Hope.—XXII. Stanzas to a Beauty.—XXII. Journal of a Tourist.—XXIV. Song.—XXV. Sonmal.—XXVI. Panniti's Epigrams—XXVII. Melancholy.—XXVIII. To Echo.—XXIX. Pearce's Account of Abyssinia (concluded) Political Events.—The Drama.—Fine Arts.—Varieties.—Bural Enonomy.—Uneful Arts.—New Publications.—Meteorological, Agricultural, and Commarcial Reports.—incidents.—Appeintments. & Printed for H. Colburn and Co. Conduit-street, and sold by all Booksellers. Just published, 4te. price 2s. but delivered gratis, on application, to Purchasers of the Work,

Just published, 4to. price 2s. but delivered gratis, on application, to Purchasers of the Work, chasers of the Work,
BTTER to the REVIEWERS of ITALY; including an "Asswers to a Pamphiet entitled," Observations upon the Calumnies and Magnerestastions in Lady Biargan's Italy."—By LABY MORGAN.
"Being slivided between the necessity to say semething of sayself, and my swn fathiess to undertake so awkward a task."—Pope.

"Mere regues———but they are friends.
Gue is due yellower in dispuise, apet keeps his press in an hollow tree, where, to conseal him,
He works by glow-worm light; the meon's too open—
The other reasons rag is the compositor;
Who in an angle where the eart imbabit,
(The emblems of his labour) will attended.

Whole days and nights, and was his award, out."
Time Vividicates. B. Jonases.

PHILLIPS ON FRUITS.
mely printed in Sec. with Three Plates, price 10s. 6d.
the Second Edition of Just published, hands

The Second Edition of The Country of the Second Edition of The Second Edition of The Second Edition of The Second Edition of The Second of Fruite Enough to Great Britain. By HENRY PHILLIPS, Printed for Thand J. Alliman, Prince and received the Prince and the Second of Second Train Mr. Phillips book, and when we look back on their variety, importance, and interesting makings of intelligence and aneocode, we feel assured that they must have been acceptable to the public. But it would be doing gross injustice to the author not to add, that they are but meagre samples of that mass of curious matter which he has laid before in. His work, for extent of information, utility, and cheer good qualities which on he desired in a production of its kind, is really deserving of the wavenest enlogy."—See Literary Gasette, Sept. 9, and four previous Numbers.

COSMORA MA.—SECOND EXBIBITION.

kind, is really deserving of the wavesest enlogy."—See Literary Gasete, Sept. 9, and four previous Numbers.

COSMORAMA.—SECOND EXBIBITION.

A VIEW of the FUNERAL of BUONAPARTE; Ditto of the Island of St. Helena, from the Ocean; the exterior of the Panthese, at Rome, by montlight; interior view of the same; exterior view of St. Pater; interior view of the same; exterior view of St. Pater; interior view of ditto; the callery of Raphael in the Vatican; the Valley of Grindowald, and the Olariers, in Switzerland.—Open from eleven in the foreoven to nine at night, 29, St. James's-street.—Admittance, is.

PRESTON'S SHEPPARD'S TOUCHSTONE.

Just published, closely printed, price 12s. PTUCHSTONE.

Just published, closely printed, price 12s. PTUCHSTONE.

THE TOUCHSTONE of COMMON ASSURANCES; or, a Prain and Familiar Treatise, opening the Learning of the Common Assurances or Conveyances of the Kingdom.—By MCHARD PRESTON, Beq. The Seventh Edition, including all the Nates and admittional References in the former editions and in the improved M.S. copy of Edward Hilliard, Esq. Also an enlargement of the Text, &c. by the addition of various Criticisms, Distinctions, &c. &c. and a copious Index.—By RCHARD PRESTON, Req. of the Juner Temple.

(BY Contiemen are requested to complete their Sets, to prevent the disavantage of their remaining imperfect.

London: Printed for J. and W. T. Clarke, Law Bookselbers, Portugal-street, Limcoln's Sim.

By This Work treats of a Fine—Common Recovery—of a Deed—of a Warrinty—of a Feofiment—of a Bargain and Sale—of a Gift—of a Grant—of an Attornment of a Lease—of a Feofiment, Gift, Grant, and Lease of an Emchange—of a Surrender—of a Conditionation of a Release—of a Statute—of an Oldigation—of a Defeasance—of a Testament—of an Use.

Just published, in 8vo. price 8s.

Just published, in Svo. price 5s.

A Concise View of the LAW on SALES, PURCHASRS, MORT-GAGES, LEASES, SETTLEMENTS, and DEVISES of ESTATES, in a Series of Letters.—By EDWARD BURTENSHAW SUGDEN, Sug. of Lincoin's Inn, Barrister at Law. The Fourth Edition, with Additions.

London: Printed for J. and W. T. Clugge, Law Booksellers, Portugalistrees, Lincoin's Inn, of whech may be had, by the same Author, il. 4s. bds., 2. A PRACTICAL TREATISE up POWERS. Third Edition, with Additions, Additions.

Early in November (to be ready with the Almanacks, and continued annually) will be published, in 18mo, price 2s. 6d.

THE WIT'S RED BOOK; or, CALENDAR of GAIRTY, for 1822. A Cellection of Original An-edotes, Facetise, Epigrams, &c. "Ridioulum Acri."—Hor.

Pleasantry with Pangorey,
London: Published by W. Simpkin and B. Marshall, Stationers'-court.

Just published, price 6d.

AN ANSWER to the ACCUSATIONS and ASPERSIONS of Mr. RICHARD PHILLIPS, F.R.S. Ed. &c. which were published in a Lotter addressed to Mr. Parkes by the said Richard Phillips, in the Twenty-second Number of the Journal of Science, Literature, and the Avis. By SAMUEL PARKES, F.L.S. &c.

Nec quisquam noceat cupido mili pacis; a tille

Qui me commont (melius um (angre, clamo)

Flepht, et insignis tola cantabitur ufbes—Her.

London: Sold by Simpkin and Matshall, Stationers'-court, and other Bopstellers.

In a few weeks will be published, by Saidwin, Craduck, and Joy,
THE PRIEST; a Novel, in 3 vols.; and
2. MAURICE POWELL, a Welsh Tale of England's Troubles; in 3 vols.; also, recently published, in 4 vols. price 11.8s.
3. THE SISTERS.

MANAGEMENT of SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Just published; by Baldwin, Craderk, and Joy, price 3e. 5d.

HINTS for conducting SUNDAY SCHOOLS, useful also for Day Schools, and Families. Compiled by the Committee of the Sunday School Science for Ireland. Second Ballition.

Dublin: Soid by Digdale, Keene, Timms, &c. and at the Depository of the Sunday Sckool Seciety.

DY For an account of this valuable Tract see the British Review for Sept. 1821. No. 36.

To BOUKSELLERS, STATIONERS, and PRINTERS.

TO BE DISPOSED OR, in the above Lines, a CONCERN which has been established for appearance of 80 years, and for respectability of connection cannot be excelled.—For particulars apply personally, or by Letter (post paid) to T. Y. Messra, Jones, Wiggins, and Co. Wholesale Stationers, Aldeate, London.

Stationers, Aldeate, London.

On Thursday next, will be published, price 5s, 6d, boards,

THE ROYAL PROGRESS, a Canto; with Notes. Written on occasion of His M—y's Visit to Ireland, August 1921. By

HUMPHRY OLDCASTLE.

HUMPHRY OLDCASTLE.

"Ant si tantus amor scribendi te rapit, aude
Carseris invicti res dicere multa laborum Pramis laturus."—Horst.

"For Creeshes savk pilair left te King? Phich ish he anit be? Shew me te shweet faish quickly. By Got, o'my convilence, tish ish he.
London: Printed by J. Green, Leicester-street, and sold by all Booksellers.

Seek you to train your Covaries here.

Seek you to train your favourite boy?
Bach caution—every care suppley;
And ere you venture to condide.
Let his preceptor's heart hearty'd;
Weire well his morals, life, hand scope;
On these designed to the these second by the second the county.

On those depend thy future hope.

THE HINDOSTANEE and PERSIAN LANGUAGES taught hy a Gen'leman aducated at the College of Fort William, in Bengal. Parenta and Guardians entrusting Youth to this Gentleman's taition, may rest assured that no attempt will be made, either by precept or example, to poison their juversile minds with the principles of Radicalism or Sedition.—
For cards of address apply to Mr. Ginger, Bookselter, 21, College street, Westminster.—Schools attended in the neighbourhood of Lendon.

CONSOLATION TO THETREMULOUS WRITTER.

THE Public may look to this most singular and unique Invention with confidence as an inestimable source of comfort to those who experience any difficulties in the command of the pen, occasioned by tremen in services affection, heat of climate, agitation of spirits, excess or ever-exertion, scalars from age or otherwise, isjury of the thamse or fingase by aprain or otherwise, even to the loss of part. This happy relief exists is a little INSTRUMENT, the appearance of which, when in use, excepted observation, is capable of giving firmness, confidence, and firedom, and cannot fail to answer the decitaing powers of a good penman, and materially improve-the perfermance of a had one. It is honouved by the pair romage and recommendation of Surgeon Astley Cosper, and other highly respectable prefessional gentlemen; in addition to which, it may not be improper to quote the inveloustary expressions of two scheetife and limit-rate Writing-masters, via. Dr. Kelly: "How survariantly, that so long as this world has paisted this has not been produced before; it will not only give relief to the tremulous, but is capable of assisting a good watter."—Mr. Touting: "Hilliams yet unborn will bless the invention."—A few minutes practice will prove its efficacy, and it has this advantage over all madicine, its power increase by use, and one precipition will last for life. Made in clastic gold.

Sold for the Patentee, by T. Pearce and Ca. No. 269, facing the front of 81. Clement's Church, in the Strand —Letters from any part of the Country, past putting with the promptly attended to. CONSOLATION TO THE TREMULOUS WRITER

NEW WORKS PUBLISHED BY JOHN WARREN, OLD BOND-STREET.

STREET.

A NESSAY on the STUDY of MODERN HISTORY; by JAMES

A SHERUOLD BOONE, Student of Christ Church, Orderd, Sta. St.

2. NOTES relating to the MANNERS and CUSTOMN of the CRIMITARTARS. Written during a Four Years' Residence among that Pasple.

By MARY HOLDERNESS. in I lime, with coloured plates, prisects of the CRIMITARTARS. Written during a Four Years' Residence among that Pasple.

The GELITS PARADISE, in Four Dunne. By JOHN BANIM; in icolosop Sto. St. 6d. —Also by the same Author,

2. DAMON and PYTHIAB, a Tracedy, in Five Acts, as performed at the Theatre floval. Corvent Garden. In Sto 3a. 6d.

4. OLIVER CROMWELL and HIS TI dES. By THOS. CROMWELL. With a Portrait, from an Original Painting in the Author's passession, a Fraceing of Cromwell's Signature and Seal to the Warrant for Beheeding Charles I. Original Memeirs of his Descondants, Letters, and other intervaling Doomments. In gro. price 1de.

5. La VS ON LAND. By HMARL FITZADAM, formerly an Able-Seamen on board the ——Frigate. In feelson Sto. price 7a.—Also by the same Author.

Seamms on board the ——Frigate. In foolean 6ve. price 7s.—Also by the same Author.

6. The HARP of the DESERT, centaining the Bettle of Algiera, dur. price 5s. 6d.

7. TAKINGS, or, the LIPE of a COLLEGIAN. A Poom. Hinstensed by Twenty-six Etchings, from Designs. By R. DAGLEY, Author of Science Comparing and Painting, for Designs. By R. DAGLEY, Author of Science of Drawing and Painting, dec. In royal 8vo. with 26 Phates, price 7s., 9. TABLE-TALK; or, Original Beasys. By WILLIAM HAZZETT. Contents:—On the Pleasure of Painting—On the Past and Future—One Gesis and Common Sense—Character of Cobbett—On People with One idea—On the Ignerance of the hearned—The Indian Juggiers—On Living to one's Self—On Thaught and Action—On Will-making—On certain Inconsistencies in Sir Joshua Reynolds's Discourses—On Paradox and Common Pasce—On Vulgatity and Affection. In 8vo price 14s. boards.—Also, by the same Author.

9. LECTURES on the Dramatic Literature of the Age of Elizabeth. Second Edition. In 8vo 12s.

10. A VIEW of the ENGLISH STAGE; or/ a Series of Dramatic Criticisms, 8vo. 12s.

10. A VIEW Of the BIVGLASSIS OF ROLE, by the Reviews, 8vo. 12s.

11. PARIS in 1815. Second Part. With other Pacens. By the Rev. C. CROLY, A M. In 8vo. 5s. 6d.—Also by the same Author,

12. The ANGEL of the WORLD, an Arabian Tale; Schastian, a Spanish

12. The ANGEL of the WORLD, an Arabian Tale; Schastian, a Spanish Tale; with other Peems, 8vo. 8s. 6d.

13. PARIS in 1815. A Poem. Second Edition, 8vo. 5s. 6d.

14. LINES on the Death of the Princess Charlotte, 8vo. 3s. 6d.

15. POEMS. By THOMAS GENT. In Feeliscap 8vo. 5s. boards.

16. JERUSALEM DELIVERED. Book the Four In. From the Italian of Tasso. Being the Specimen of an intended new Translation in English Spercertan Verse. Dedicated, by permission, to her Grace the Duchess of Bedford. By J. H. WIFFEN.—Also, by the same Author.

17. JULIA ALPINULA, with the Captive of Stamboul, and other Poems.

12mo. 7s. 6d.

17. JULIA ALPINULA, with the Captive of Stamboul, and other Poems, 12mo. 7s. 6d.

18. AONIAN HOURS, and other Poems. Second Edition, Svo. 7s. 8d.

18. AONIAN HOURS, and other Poems. Second Edition, Svo. 7s. 8d.

19. JOURNAL of a RESIDENCE in the RURMHAN EMPIRE, and more particularly at the Court of Amarpoorah. By Capt. HIRAM COM., of the Hon. East India Company's Bengal Naval Indantry. In 8vo. with esoured Pia es. 16s. hoards.

20. The GARDEN of FLORENCE, and other Poems. By JOHN MAMILTON. In foolscap 8vo. price 7s.

21. CONCEALMENT A Novel. Is 3 vols. 12mo. price 2ts.

22. MARCIAN COLONNA, an Italian Tale, with three Dramatic Scenes, and other Poems. By BARRY CORNWALL. New Edition. In 12mo. price 7s. 6d.—Also, by the same Author.

23. MIRANDOLA, a Tragedy, in Five Acts. Third Edition, 8vo. 4s. 6d. sewed.

24. A SICILIAN STORY, with Diego de Montilla, and other Poems, new

ed. I. A SICILIAN STORY, with Diego de Montilla, and other Poems, new 24. A SICILIAN STORY, with Diego de Montilla, and other Poems, new Edition, 12mo. 7s.

25. DRAMATIC SCENES, and other Poems, new Edition, 12mo. 7s.

26. DIEGO DIVILLA MORA, revisto e correcto di M. SANTAGNELLO, With an Aria and Accompaniment, by a Professor. In 12mo. price 8s.—Also, by the same Author, 27. A NEW SET o EKERCISES, illustrated with Notes, Explanations, and Directions for their Translation. Hono: 4s. 6d. bound.

28. A KEY to the above, being a faithful Translation of them in Italian.

12mo. 4s. 6d. bound.

29. BANNOCKBURN. A Novel. In 3 vols. 12mo. 18s.

ADBLPHI THEATRE, STRAND.

Capers at Canterbury having met with the greatest Success, it will, in order to accommodate the numerous Pre-puenters of this Theatre, who are prevented from attending early in the Evening, he presented as an After piece. Shouts of Laugh er and Applause, having a tended Brinno, on each Nigh of its Representation, to overflowing and crowded Auditmose, it will be repeated every Evening till further Notice.

It will be repeated every Evening till further Notice.

MONDAY, Oct. 16, 1821, and during the Week. The admised and favorite Burlette, called the DEUCE 18 IN HER; or, Two Nights at Madrid. Don John de Toledo, with Songs, Mr. Bellamy, from the Theatre Royal, Newcastle, his first appearance at this Theatre: Domma Beatrice, her Cousin, with Songs, Mins Hemmereley, late of the Theatres Royal, Dublin and Bath, her first appearance at this Theatre. A ter which, a new Farchcal Burletta, 'ranslated from the French, entitled BRUNO; or, the Sultan's Favorite. Shift, Mr. Wrench; Plod, Mr. Wilkinson; Rosetta, Mrs. Bryan; in the course of the Piece will be introduced, the Mincet de La Cour, by Mr. Wilkinson and Mrs. Bryan. The whole to conclude with (13th Time) a new Comic Barletta, in three Acts, entitled CAPERS AT GANTERURY. Captain Somerville, Mr. Wrench; Jacob Grogram, Mr. Wilkinson; Mrs. Huckaback, Miss E. Pitt: Jenny, Mrs. Bryan. An entire new Mole-Deams, in Three Acts, is in preparation, and will speedly be produced. Mrs. Baker, of the Theatre Royal, Haymarket, will shortly make her first appearance.

LAST NIGHT'S GAZETTE.

This Gazette contains dispatches from Rear-Admiral Sir H. Blackwa contabiling the details with expedition in the Topare, Capt. Lumley, against Mocha; the particulars of which we have already given in our Paper). The following are the names of the killed and wounded:-

Topase.-Lieut. R. G. Atkinson, royal marines; Mr. C. P. Gill, mas Tapare.—Licett. R. U. Akthasol, 1931 maries; St. C. F. Otti, marker mate; and Mr. F. S. Burnett, midshipman, killed; Licett. W. Morketty; C. M. Wright; Mr. Morton, bontswain; Mr. R. Ward, Admiralty undshipman, (since dead;) Mr. W. Stephens; W. Neil, bontswain's make; F. Berismon, quartermaster; William Stewart, wounded; I seamen killed, to. shipman, (since dead;) Mr. W. Stephens; W. Neil, bestweite's make; F. Breimon, quartermaster; William Stewart, wounded; I seamna killed, to woomstid; Besverely (Tof the latter since dead.)

Bust India Company's Cruleers and Artillery—2 seamen, 2 of the Bombay artillery, killed; T beamsh, 3 quarter gunners, 1 private of native-astiflery.

d. 37

Additional Return.

Additional Return.

Topaze—1 private marine ki led; 5 scances wounded.

B. I. Company's Cruisers and Artillery—Lieut, H. Wilson, of the Company's marines (severely: Lieut, W Jacob, of the Bombay artiflery, and seenmen, wounded.— Tetal—1 killed, 10 wounded.

nys marines (severely); Liedt. W Jacob, of the Bombay artimeny, and men, weanded.— Telai—i killed, 16 weanded.

BANERUPTS.

BELCYTER, J. London-lame, Enfield, seen-mann.

BU BOIS, J. and DU BOIS, E. Copthell-court, London, mannhank

ROSS, R. N. Helborn, book-dealer.

LEEWELLYN, J. and RELCHIER, N. Old Jowry, ship-brokers

TATE, R. Market Weighten, York, shopkenger/

TELAVIS, J. Oldham, Lamenshire, greece.

GREEN, T. Alfreton, Derbyshire, greece.

GREEN, T. Alfreton, Derbyshire, greece.

BFEAR, J. Shoffeld, merchunt.

SPEAR, J. Shoffeld, merchunt.

GLAYTON, J. Sincy, Lamenshire, und-ctaker.

EOLE, W. E. Kingkerswell, Devenshire, tanner.

EAWELIN, P. Belmennt-place, near Vanachel, shasterer.

DEN BERDALE, M. Midbook, Lands, shebker.

THO BEON, P. and THOMEUN, C. A. Don'd Coffee, hopen, Gandal

ANTENNY, W. Lusted Farm, Oldham, Reet, farmer.

TUESDAY'S GAZETTE.

CROWN OFFICE, OCT. 9.

Member returned to serve in this present Parliament.

Broongh of Sindtesbury—R. Leyeceter, jun. Req. in the room of the Hon.

E. Marbord, now a Peer of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

B. Marbord, now a Peer of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

PARTNERSHIPS DISSOUVED.

Harding and Wright, Birmingham, button-factors.—J. J. and H. Turnley, lightermen.—L. H. and P. Martelly and Wright, Size-lane, general-merchants.

—J. and F. Harcourt, Ipswich, frommongers.—Hilder, King, and Siley, Salchurst, Sussex, millers.—Vincent and Haiselden, City-read, ligen-drapers.—Chainer and Wilson, Lincoln, leathersellers.—Heath, Tyler, and J. and I. Danks, Stourport, carriers.—Meacock, Jones, and Davies, Runcern, Cheshire, (no trade.)—Tappenden and Knight, Newick, Sussex, grocers.—Wheelhouse and Matson, Water-lane, Thames-street, wine-merchants.—Plinder and Casson, Barnsley, millers.—Christopherson and Birdsall, Syston, Leicestershire, surgeons.—Jervis and Wright, Stockport, wheelwrights.—H. and J. Hosking, South Brent, Devossibre, farmer.—J. and W. Philpatt, Cricklewood, farmers.—Bull and Young, Salisbury-street, Strand, manufactaking jewellers.—Andrews and Mann, insurance-brokers.

Crickjewood, farsuers.—Bull and Young, Salisbury-street, Strand, manufacturing jewellers.—Andews and Mann, insurance-brokers.

BANKRUPTS.

BURSEY, J. jun. Goodge-street, Tottenham-court-road, lookseller.
HAMELIN, P. Belmont-place, Vauxhall, plasterer.
LOUND, W. Tooloy-street, linendraper.
DIVIDENDS.

Nov. 6, W. Ivens, Flecknoe, Warwickshire, grazier.—Nov. 6, M. Ivens, Upper Shuckburgh, Warwickshire, grazier.—Nov. 6, E. Ivens, Byfield, tanner.—Nov. 7, J. Anthouy, Cley next the Sea, Norfolk, grocer.—Nov. 3, I and R. Curney, Bast India Chambers, werchants.—Nov. 3, W. Cooper, Fleetmarket, linendraper.—Nov. 3, R. Portlock, Andover, coachmaker.—Nov. 3, S. Patrons, Hanver-street, coach-plater.—Nov. 3, T. Samson, Lynn, coachmaker.—Nov. 3, C. Woodcock, Norwich, coachmaker.—Nov. 5, W. Woodcock, Preston, timber-merchant.—Nov. 3, W. Ollivant, Manchester, citton-manufacturer.—Nov. 3, T. Ollivant, Manchester, silversmith.—Nov. 3, J. Davies, Canterbury, linendraper.—Oct. 30, R. Groning, Broad-street-buildings, merchant.—Oct. 30, J. Bevans, City-road, timber-merchant.—Oct. 30, T. Nicoll, Ware, sackmaker.—Oct. 27, T. D. Latham and J. Parry, Devonshire-square, merchants.—Oct. 30, J. M. de Quiros, Size-lane, merchant.—Dec. 5, R. Bulpis, Bridaewater, draper.—Oct. 31, J. Anderson, jun. Whitby, merchant.—Oct. 29, T. Stammers, Sudbury, and J. Stammers, Foxearth, merchant.—Nov. 1, B. Turner, West Bromwich, bayonet-maker.—Nov. 9, J. Wilkinson and W. B. Smith, Leeds, snuff merchants.—Oct. 30, E. Taylor, Sandal-Magna, cern-dealer.—Oct. 31, W. B. Mett, Brighton, wine-merchant.—T. Emery, Worcester, wine-merchant.—I. Cleugh, Leadenhall-street wholesale-linendraper.—J. Badcock, Upton-Pyne, miller.—E. Bushell, sen Bath, cabinet-maker.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—The news from Spain received at Bourdeaux say, that the epidemic is dully decreasing in violence, and that it is hoped that the first cold weather will entirely put a stop to it. We have now the certainty that the state of health in Cadiz and its vicinity is very good. The contagion which desolates Catalonia has not extended beyond Mequinenza.

Oct. 7.— Advices from Marseilles, of the 29th ult. announce, that the state of health in that quarter is most satisfactory, and that the cases in the Lazaretto become daily more favourable. A great number of Spanish smugglers have made an attempt to force the corden established near Fort Bellegarde, and were repulsed with the loss of three or four men; the bodies were burnt, as also the goods which they left behind them. The cordon has been drawn nearer to Barcelona, which prevents individuals from quitting the tewn, and keeps in awe those who are disposed to pillage. From the 19th to the 25th ult. inclusive, 224 deaths, and 339 new cases, occurred at Barcelonetta; and 143 deaths, and 303 new cases at

It is now discovered that the malady is an epidemic contagion of uncommonly malignant character; it resists all the remedies of art, and the number of victims augment daily.

The trial of Desjardin commenced yesterday before the Court of asize. The accusation is in substance as follows:—Anthony Simon Desjardin having been implicated in the process instituted against Louvel, by an order dated the 30th of March, 1821, the against Louvel, by an order dated the 30th of March, 1821, the Court of Peers declared that there was not competent ground to proceed against him, but consigned him by Mahdate of detention, before the Court of the first instance, as sufficiently implicated in the crime of instigating, in public places or assemblies, to the assassination of the Princes of the Royal Family. "By the precognition it has been established, that on the 16th of February, 1821, Desjardin repeated at a tavern, what he had previously uttered at the house of one Gonet: I am an accomplicated Lunal, there were one Gonet. the house of one Gonet; I am an accomplice of Louvel, there were seven of us ready to strike the blow; we drew lots for him who should undertake the business; the lot fell upon Louvel; when the moment arrived for doing his duty, he seemed to waver and to tremble; we made him drink a bottle of wine to embolden him; it was I who fabricated the poignard which cut short the days of the Duke de Berri; I walked a whole day in the Bois de Boulogne, armed with a gun, in the lope that that Prince would come there to hunt, with the determination to shoot him."—Witnesses were then called: the first was a police officer, who merely stated that he heard the prisoner utter the words charged in the accusation; another witness heard the prisoner declare that in two years there would not be a single Bourbon in France. Several other witnesses deposed to the same effect.—The Jury found him Guilty, but without the circumstance of the public place. The prisoner was in consequence acquitted of the accusation preferred against him.

Oct. 8.—ROYAL ORDENNANCE.—Louis, by the Grace of God, &c.—We have decreed and do decree as follows: The Chamber of Powering of the Decree of the Chamber of t Peers and the Chamber of Deputies of the Departments are convoked for Monday, the 5th of November.

Luring the sojourn of His Majesty the King of England at Lille, many persons solicited the honour of being admitted into his presence; among the number was Madame Bayand d'Armentieres, who was for some time the nurse to Mousieur the Duke de Bourdeaux, but who was obliged to retire from a deficiency of health. This lady presented her son, the foster-brother of the Duke de Bourdeaux, to his Britannic Majesty, who loaded the infant with caresses. His Majesty arrived on the 2d at Aix-In-Chapelle, having been escorted to the Prussian frontiers by a detachment of Belgian

A letter from Ax, dated the 28th ult, states, that some Spaniards ere about to enter France by the valley of Andorre, on which the inhabitants rose on masse, and vigorously resisted their intention.

LEIGE, Occ. 3.—The King of England passed through our town yesterday, at two o'clock. His Majesty ordered his carriage to stop-whits he received the congratulations of the authorities. During this interval, the garrison band played "God save the King." His Majesty immediately afterwards continued his route for Aix-la-Chapelle, where he arrived the same evening.

FRANKFORT, OCT. 1.—Their Royal Highnesses the Dukes Charles and William of Brunswick-Oels arrived here on the 29th ult. from Lausanne. These Princes are proceeding to Hanover, to see their august guardian, the King of England.

Oct. 2.— We learn from Vienna, that there is a rumour of a conspiracy which the Austrian Government discovered in Transyl. vania. It is said that several Ecclesiastics of the non-united have been arrested. On the other hand, the Assembly of the States of the Committee of Pest, have shewn some resistance to the propositions of the Court.

We have just learnt the change in the plan of the journey of the King of Bagland, who will not visit our city. A courier has arrived, on his way to Homburg and Stutgard, to invite His Majesty's sisters, the Landgravine of Hesse Horoburg and the Queen of Wurtemberg, to join him at Hanover. Another courier has gone to Durlach, where the two Princes of Brunswick are on a visit to their great aunt, the Dowager Margravine of Baden. The eldest of these two Princes, who is now entering his 18th year, is to be de- on a shooting excursion.

clared of age, to of the King of Consument as Soverell and the During and During the Agents to Lloyd's at Boulogue, data to the Soverell and the During the During the Agents to Lloyd's at Boulogue, data to the Soverell and the Later During the Agents to Lloyd's at Boulogue, data to the Soverell and the Agents to Lloyd's at Boulogue, data to the Soverell and the Agents to Lloyd's at Boulogue, data to the Soverell and the Agents to Lloyd's at Boulogue, data to the Soverell and the Agents to Lloyd's at Boulogue, data to the Soverell and Soverel current about the entrance of the English Channel. Whoever finds this will be good enough to acknowledge it in some public manner.'-Mem. The Sir Joseph Banks arrived in the river July 23, from Jamaica."

WABBAW, SEPT. 26.—The Russian Senator, Count Novozuzow, has communicated to the Government of the kingdom of Poland an invitation of the Russian Minister, Prince Gallitzin, to the inhabitants of Poland to contribute for the support of the Greeks who have fled to Russia.

Lishon, Sept. 27.— In the sitting of the Cortes on the 22d, a deputy presented a memorial from the Judge of Villa Nova de complaining of the depredations committed every night within his jurisdiction, by numerous bands of armed robbers, whose proceedings were as regular as if they were disciplined troops. The deputy, M. Bastos, desired that the most rigorous measures should be adopted. He was supported by several members; and M. Fran-zini said, that a general plan was under consideration for the organization of a police to extend through the whole kingdom, in the nature of the gendarmerie in France, and that he thought this would put an end to such disorders.

PETERSBURGH, SEPT. 11.—Our Government has published the PRIKEBURGH, SEPT. 11.—Our Government has published the detail of the ceremonies which were observed on the 17th and 18th of June last, on the occasion of solemnizing the obsequies of St. Gregory, the Holy Patriarch of Constantinople. This narrative concludes with the following paragraph:—"Thus the last pious duties of Christian faith and charity have been paid. conformably to the will of the vary plans Autocraft of all the Russias. Alexander to the will of the very pious Autocrat of all the Russias, Alexander I. to Gregory, the Holy Patriarch of the Eastern Orthodox Church, who suffered the death of the martyr."

Several Spanish and Portuguese ships have, in the course of this year, put into Guadaloupe, under pretext of damage, but, to all appearance, for the purpose of landing negroes, they being engaged in the slave trade.

THE FLORIDAS .- The United States schooner Revenge, four days from St. Augustine, states, that the inhabitants of St. Augustine appeared very well pleased with the change of government, and it was more than probable that a majority of them will remain there. General Jackson has ordained that "All the country lying between the river Perdido and Suwaney river, with all the islands therein, shall form one country, to be called Escambia." "All the country lying east of the river Suwaney, and every part of the ceded territories, not designated as belonging to the former county, shall form a county to be called St. John's.

HALIFAX, SEPT. 17.—The conflagration this morning was one of the most awful and destructive ever witnessed in Halifax. It of the most awful and destructive ever witnessed in Halifax. It originated in Sackville-street, in the bakery occupied by Shay and Milany, and before it was discovered had gained an alarming height. The troops, seamen of His Majesty's ships, and inhabitants, soon assembled; every exertion was made to extinguish the fire, but the whole block of buildings, with the exception of a house situated at the corner of Sackville and Blowers'-streets, occupied by Mr. H. Croskill, the houses occupied by Mrs. Neilson and Mr. T. Muirhead, in Barrington-street, and a stable belonging to J. W. Johnston. Esa. in Granville-street, were consumed. Of the pro-Johnston, Esq. in Grunville-street, were consumed. perty burnt, only about 1,500l. were insured, and the calamity has mostly fallen where it will long be severely lelt—upon widows and orphan children—upon industrious tradesmen, whose whole stock of worldly wealth was invested in the tenements they occupied. Twenty-one houses were consumed, with other valuable property. To the troops, and the seamen of the ships of war, the town is, as To the troops, and the seamen of the ships of war, the town is, as usual, greatly indebted for the exertions made by them, his Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, encouraging and exciting, by his influence and example, the efforts of every person. Sir Rybert Le Poer Trench, Col. of the 74th regiment, Col. Mackie, the Commandant of the Garrison, Col. Gauntlett, Lieut-Cols. Arnold, Ximenes, and Waterhouse, Major Crawford, and Indeed every officer of the garrison and military departments were distinguished for their activity and exertions. To Captains Funshawe, Bouchier, Calliar and Navisa. Collier and Napier, and the officers of their ships, every praise is due. Capt. Napier was on the roof of one of the houses, directing and working with a party of axe-men, and rendering very important services.

St. John's (N. B.) Aug. 25 .- By the brig Hope, Captain Hore, we learn that the fishery at Labrador, had, within a fortnight previous to her sailing, turned out favourable, and was likely to a ford those engaged in it a tolerably fair voyage. Captain Hore spoke an American vessel, the Master of which informed him, that there had been a serious quarrel between the Americans and some Nova Scotia fishermen, neur Cape Charles, in which 14 men were killed!

THE KING.

Dispatches were received on Friday morning from the Marquis of Londonderry, announcing the arrival of His Majesty, in high health and spirits, at Hanover.—He entered the city at nine o'clock at night, on last Monday. The town was all life and splendour: the streets were illuminated, the military drawn out on duty, the guns fired, the bells rung, and the population flocking from all sides towards the barrier through which His Majesty entered-all appeared animated with the most loyal and affectionate enthusiasm. Notwithstanding the distance from Brussels to Hanover, and the rapidity with which the King travels, his health had not in the least suffered beyond the ordinary fatigue consequent upon the movement and confinement of a carriage; and even of this His Majesty had less appearance than most of those who composed his suite.

All along the road preparations were made, to express the joy of the people at seeing His Majesty in this part of his dominions. All the way from the frontiers triumphal arches were erected. At Osnaburgh a numerous guard of honour, both horse and foot, has been formed, and the same at Nieuburg. For the conveyance of the i mmediate attendants of His Majesty, orders were given at every stage to have relays in readiness: (besides the horses for the King's carriage), horses for two berlins with six horses, a baggage-waggon with six horses, two chaises with four horses each, and two couriers' horses. Besides these, four carriages and thirteen horses were required for the Marquis of Londonderry and General Bloomfield. Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cumberland were pleased to admit the diplomatic body to an audience

On Thursday night, the Duke of York left town for a few days

THE QUARTER AREV

PRODUCE OF THE REVENUE OF CREAT SERVE

Taxes belonging to the Consolidated Fund Temporary Excise Annual Taxes	18 [9. 18 [9. 9,332,287 588,276 1,534,233	1820. £ 10,938,163 586,364 1,675,532,	18, Viz. 1831. £ 11,179,963 1,189,377 1,562,469
	11,454,796	13,199,965	14,040,793
October qu October qu	arter, 1821 arter, 1819	1	11,454,790
Improvement as compared with the	October

Improvement as compared with the decision of three millions were in full collection CHARGE.

Total Income of Consolidated Fund in the quarter ended 10th October, 1820 2,585,007 Extess of Income ٠. 1.305,298 Total Income of Consolidated Fund in the quarter ended 10th October, 1821 11,650,122 ••• Charge estimated at Excess of Income

Abstract of the Net Produce of the Revenue of Great Britain (exclusive of the Arrears of War Duty on Malt and Property), in the Quarter ended 10th Oct. 1821, shewing the Increase and Decrease on each head thereof.

1,650,193

				Quarters et	aded Oct.10	1 .	1
				1820.	1821.	Increase.	Decrease
Customs				£	£	£	1
	•	• •	• •	2,670,683	2,844,231	173,548
Excise .		• •	• •	7,552,021	8,149,226	597,205	i
		• •	• •	1,581,204	1,625,220	44.016
		• •	• •	375,000	342,000		23,000
Assessed Tax	C#	• •		760,576	793,532	32,956
Land Taxes		• •		174,522	207,481	32,959	1
Miscellaneou	5	••	••	71,642	61,222		10,426
		_		13,185,649	14,022,912	880,684	43,420

An Account of the Produce of the Excise Duties of Great Britain, (exclu-ve of any Arrears received of the War Duty ou Mail) in the Quarters ided 10th October, 1820 and 1821, shewing the increase or decrease on each Quarters end. Oct. 10. 1 .

					1820.	1821.	Increase	Decrease
Auction	8				£ 70,911	£ 57,818	' -
Beer					715,038		o mare	£ 13,09x
Bricks	and T	'iles			109,339	781,752
Candles						125,811	16,472
Coffee a		2009	••	• •	38,347	45,019	6,672
Cyder E	DATE V	, and Ver		••	( 00,000	90,619	127
Glass	,	, agu ver	uice	• •	20,206	12,591	j	7,61.
Hides at			••	••	88,188	132,727	43,939	•
	10 DK	7115	••	••	165,917	154,981	1	10,386
Норы .	• •	••	••	••	79,450	35,555	ı	43,892
Licence	8	••	• •	• •	80,420	82,483	2.063
Malt		••	• •	••	2,289,097	2,777,171	188,074
Paper		••	• •		146,170	152,787	6,615
Pepper		••	• •	• •	40,467	39,074	-,	1,393
Printed	Good	8	••	• •	188,252	151,247	- 1	37,004
Salt		• •	• •	• •	383,143	129,043	45,900	37,000
Suap	••		••		238,076	281,751	43,675
Cuinter	•	British	• •		547,775	545,340	10,013
Spirits.	··· 5	Foreign			565,433	572,773	7,340	2,425
Starch	•	••	• •		14,044
Stone B	ottle				779	16,420 858	2,376
Sweets			••		- 1,998		79
Tea		••				2,786	788
Tobacco	and:	C 18		•••	761,892	775,994	14,102
Vinegar			• •	•••	615,880	631,085	1	11,735
Wine		••	• •	•••	12,911	15,450	2,509
Wire	••	••	••	• • •	253,574	229,059		24,513
	••	••	••	•••	8,590	3,034		556
				1		8,149,226	750,445	153,240
				D	educt Decr	ease	. 153,240

Increase on the Quarter 597,205 Income and Charge on the Consolidated Fund in the Quarter ended 19th of October, 1921, INCOME. Unatoms Excise
Stamps
Post-Office
Assessed Taxes
Land Taxes
Miscellaneous
Unappromised 179, [25 61,222 Pensions
17,881 Imperial Annuities
Other Charges Unappropriated War Duties 105,122 9,173 143,764 £11,339,00 Brought from Supplies be-ing the amount issued in Ireland pursuant to Stat £311,115 57, Geo. III. c. 49. Total Charge

Deficiency to be provided for by an issue of Exchequer Bills chargeable on the growing produce of the Consolidated Fund, 5th Jan. 1822

INSOLVENT DEBTOR'S COURT.

FRIDAY.—Thomas Donaldson was opposed on the ground of breach of trust, in having converted money, intrusted to his care, to his own use. In his examination be said he had received 50. from Mr. Grainger, a friend of his, to take up a bill which had become due. He went into a public house, where he lost 81. or 91. of the money; and being ashamed to return after the loss, he went off to Paris with the remainder.—Mr. Pollock, on behalf of the isso-vent, said he could do no more than leave him to the mercy of the

Mr. Reynolds, the Chief Commissioner, told the insolvent, that he had been guilty of a great act of injustice, to give it the mildest term. Nothing could be more absurd than his excuse, that he was term. Nothing could be more unsure than his excuse, that he was allowed to go back and give his friend the remainder of the money, after his loss; for he was not assumed to go away with what he had in his possession; and by that act he did the same as if he had stolen it.—The judgment of the Court was, that he should be detained at the suit of Mr. Grainger for the space of twelve months, tained at the suit of Mr. Grainger for the space of twelve months, unless the money was paid before that time.

Thomas Baddeley, an attorney, was opposed on the alleged ground of obtaining money under a fraudulent pretence from Mr. Mason, a wine-cooper. It appeared from the statement of a clerk to Mr. John, an attorney, in Basinghall-street, that Mr. Baddeley had sold a lot of freehold property to Mr. Mason, to which he could show no title; an action was afterwards brought by Mason, for the deposit, and he gained a verdict.

Mr. Baddeley, on being quastioned by Mr. Pollock, said he had

Mr. Baddeley, on being questioned by Mr. Pollock, said be had defended the action in consequence of legal advice, and with the idea that Mason might be compelled to fulfil his contract. The property had since been sold with a good title, and part of the money given to Mr. Gale.

The Commissioner said there was no ground for opposition in this case, as Mr. Baddeley sold the property on certain conditions, which were known to Mason at the time, and he, acting only as an agest was not bound to produce a title.—Discharged.

Tuesday, the Duke of York held a Levee, at his office at the Horse Guards, as Commander in Chief, which was very assuccessful

ASSIZES.

CIRCUIT COURT, ABERDEEN, OCT. 6 .- George Thom, was ac cused of murder, compaited by means of poison. Headministered poison to a whole family of the name of Mitchell, with whom he was nearly connected, consisting of two brothers, and two sisters of his wife. One of the brothers died in consequence thereof, and the r members of the family have been so disabled, as to leave it doubtful whether they will ever recover so far, as to be able to follow their usual occupations .- James Mitchell, brother of the deceased, resided in the family with his decrased brother William has a sister named Jane, who was married to the prisoner about Whitsunday last; was not altogether willing for the marriage, but no quarrel took place on that account; Jane lived with her deceased brother at the time of the marriage; after which, she was taken honfe by her husband. The prisoner and his wife were not in the habit of visiting them after marriage; was once at Burnside after the marriage; he came on a Saturday, the day before they were all taken bad; witness and brother and sisters received him in a friendly manner, and asked him to stay that night, to which he agrebd. Before they went to bed on Saturday, the prisoner pro-posed to sleep in the kitchen; gave no reason for wanting to sleep there; the witness told him he might sleep where he slept before; prisoner did not insist to sleep in the kitchen; went with his brother William to bed in the inner room; witness went to bed in the kitchen; awakened on Sunday morning; did not hurry himself out of bed, it being Sabbath; heard a foot come into the kitchen before he saw any body: the leaves of the witness's bed were close at the time, so that he could not see. When up, he found himself in perfect good health; his brother and sisters appeared to be in real health; no complaints of being unwell were made. The break fast was ready; did not see it made; got milk pottage, because it was Sabbath morning; each of them had separate dishes The witness took a little milk to the milk pottage, the others took -no milk, as he thinks; heard no complaints from the others as to the pottage, but found something in the pottage, a taste that he did not like; got some milk from one of his sisters; said that he would begin to try them again; took two spoonfuls and then stop; brother William ate heartly, and a good deal more than the witness, as much again; heard no complaint of the taste from him; Helen made some complaints during breakfast; went away to dress for church; found himself unwell; when he got to church the sickness continued; found himself turning blind when in thurch. Brother said he was sick; he answered, I did not think you were sick; to which he answered he never was so sick. The witness came bome, took off his clothes, opened a window in the gable, and lay down on the floor. At this time he was like to burn within; when he saw William after coming from church, he was worse than any of them, complaining of the same feelings with them; the witness a dimness in his eyes; and observed a swelling in his brother William's breast, which was rising up in his throat; complained of his arms being powerless; his brother's arms were seized about the same time; kept the matter secret, because there was no person had been among them but the prisoner; wished not to let his neighbours know the cause of his illness, because they suspected the prisoner to be the cause of their illness; William, before his death, on the first Friday, after the Sunday, rode to Dr. Murray; got a plaster from him; put it on his breast that night; William rose to seek for a drink; could not find one; witness told him be would find one on the table; went to get one; retired to his bed again, but did not speak to witness; lay down on his bed, scretched himself, and gave a terrible groun, which witness did not think much of, as he had been so ill; after this lay quiet; witness was content, as he then thought he was sleeping; after a little time jogged him, but he would not speak; and again jogged him, time jogged him, but he would not speak; and again jogged him, but received no answer; put his arm over him, found a cold deep weat over him; he died immediately after. The prisoner and his wife came to Burnside the night before to the funeral. Witness sid not allow them to stay; does not recollect what reason he gave for their not staying; told them to go off; for they had nothing to do with them; they were very unwilling to go off; asked no explanation of his words.—Helen Mitchell, stated, that when she was getting supper ready; nobody in the kitchen at this time, but witness and prisoner; when the prisoner came into the kitchen, was preparing to stir in the meal; prisoner sat down at the kitchen fire and smoked his pipe; the meal at this time was on the hearth stone, and no more was put in after this time witness's back was turned to the prisoner when she went to the press for salt; after finishing the making the pottage, i.e. coming back from getting salt, put the tub in which the meal was into the press; prisoner was sitting by the fire all the time.—Several other witnesses gave similar testimony, but nothing conclusive against the prisoner.—A druggist at Aberdeen proved that a person came to his shop for some arsenic on the 17th of August but he did not sell him any.—The Lord Justice Clerk afterward summed up the evidence in a comprehensive manner, and detailed to the Jury the different bearings of the case, in a speech of two hours and a half length. The Jury returned a written verdict, finding the prisoner Guilty by a plurality of voices.—After a most impressive address from the Lord Justice Clerk, he was sentenced to be executed at Aberdeen, the 16th of November next.—The prisoner, who is a man of about 61 years of age, appeared unmoved on receiving the awful sentence; and on his retiring from the Ber, said to some of the Counsel near him, "Gentlemen, I am as innocent as any of you sitting there."

LONDONDERRY. -- An information directed by the Court of King's Besob, was tried here at our last Assizes. It was filed by John Shiel, Esq. a Magistrate, against Major Patterson. It appeared that a dispute had taken place between the parties in August which was amicably terminated by the interference of friends from that time until the 24th of November, when he received an insulting letter from Major Patterson. The letter was followed up by posting, in different parts of the country, notices similar to the words contained in the letter. These notices were to this effect:—

4 ** A** am necessitate* it to publish J. Shiel, Esq. of Castledawson, as a complete bully, and a most contemptible coward; and have only to add, that I shall be at home until the 7th inst.

"Grace leld, Dec. 1, 1820.

JOS. PATTERSON."

" Grace neld, Dec. 1, 1820. -Evider ce to these facts was given, and the Jury found the defeeder t Guilty.

CLONMELL.— A singular and successful instance of deception occurred in the Dock at our late Assizes. One of the prisoners, named John Barrett, was charged with having, on the 1st of Decomber last, robbed one Thomas Fitzmartin on the highway, of a 30s, noie. The witness stepped on the table, and noticed the prisoher's dress and appearance. He then turned his back to the docks; addressed the Judge and Jury, and related his story, which oc-cupied some time. In the mean time, the prisoner slunk back wards from the bar to the furthest extremity of the dock, and adroitly exchanged all his clothes with another prisoner, named Edwhile Collins, (who stood indicted for cow-stenling), and then quietly returned to the bar. The poor old witness having finished his story, was lastly called upon in the usual manner, to take the rod, and At this instant, Collins came forward to the identify the robber. identify the robber. At this instant, Collins came forward to the bar, with an air of guilty embarrassment, and well acted tremor, attribed in the brown coat, striped waistcoat, and blue neck-hand-kerchief, of his friend Parratt; and even wearing his old wig. The witness at once laid the rod upon Collins, and swore positively to his identity. He was warbed, and repeatedly questioned, but he parameted, and repeatedly questioned, but he parameted, and repeatedly are sufficient to the course an acquittal instantly ensued, and Barrett was dispharged.

POLICE.

GUILDHALL .- Peter Jonas was, on Tuesday, charged with ob-The prisoner v taining goods under false pretences. belonging to the parish of Christ Church, Newgate-street, and had been frequently relieved by the overseers; the relief afforded him, however, whether in clothes, food, or money, was almost immediately got rid of, and his applications renewed. During the last week heapplied to be furnished with some articles of wearing ap-purel, which the parish officers, recollecting how quickly the last articles he received had been made away with, refused to give him On Saturday he called upon the overseer, and presented him with a letter, purporting to be from the churchwarden, containing his con-sent for the prisoner to have the things required. Not doubting but it was genuine, the overseer gave him orders for the several articles upon the different tradesmen, to which he added, on his own discredecent in his apparel.—The prisoner was committed for trial.

MARY-LE-BONE-OFFICE.—Coffee Shops.—On Tuesday, the owner of one of these nightly receptacles for questionable characters, in James-street, Grosvenor-square, was fined 10t. for keeping his shop open in the night. He was committed to hard labour for three months in the House of Correction, being unable to pay the HATTON-GARDEN.—Monday, Samuel Horsey, well known as the King of the Beggars, was brought up by the Mendicity Society in a coach, attended by a numerous retinue, having been appreheaded whilst following his usual avocations near Middle-row, Holborn, on Sunday last. He appears about 60 years of age, and having lost both legs, moves himself upon a board with the nil of two short crutches. He has for many years received considerable sums of money, by means of which he lives in constant riot and profligacy. An offer was made by the Mendicity Society, to procure his admission into the workhouse of the Parish to which he belongs, but this he declined. The Magistrates committed him, under the new Vagrant Act, to the House of Correction for three

On Tuesday, at the above office, James Hall, one of the Paddington conchinen, appeared to answer to an information under the 50th of the late King, charging him with furiously driving his horses, by which the pole was broken, and the lives of several persons endangered. It was proved that while waiting at the Star Inn, four other coaches came up; and on one going away, the defendant said, "I'll soon overtake him," and went off at full galiop. He did pass him, and then slackened into a trot. On coming to the Blue coat Boy, the same coach again passed them, and on the defendant getting on the box he said, "D—that Jack, I'll cut his ear off," and again went off at a galley. He overtook the coach near the end of Penton-street, and in endeavouring to pass round the coach and to escape a chaise coming up, the pole broke, and the horses were propelled against their will down Pentonville-hill at full gallop, till they came very near Battlebridge During their progress, one of the passengers dropped off the couch, being fearful of an accident; another got down as soon as the couch stopped, and having paid his fare proceeded to where he was going not deeming it safe to go with the defendant. He was convicted in the penalty of 101, against which he intends to appeal.

UNION-HALL.—On Wednesday, John Price and William Grant, were charged with having broken into and robbed the house of Mrs. Kahl, of Camberwell. Mrs. Kahl and her daughter went out on Tuesday morning, leaving her house fastened. She had no servant, upon their return, about seven o'clock in the evening, she saw a light appearing and disappearing at the windows of her bouse; she procured assistance; upon opening the front parlour door, saw the two prisoners playing at backgammon. They were sitting on a sofn, and had the backgammon table between them; one of them instantly started up and said, "We will make no resistance;" they accordingly submitted quietly. On examination it was found that the house had been ranstoked from top to bottom, aid a small bag with some plate tied up in it was found on the table. In different parts of the house were found an extensive assortment of housebreaking Implements, picklock-keys, crows, &c. &c. also phosphorus and matches. They were committed for trial.

phorus and matches. They were committed for trial.

On Friday, John William Biggen was charged with having obtained goods and money in the name of Mr. Wilson. The prisoner went to the shop of Mr. Keats, in the Borough, and presented him a written order, purporting to be from Mrs. Sarah Wilson, for a piece of Irish linen, seven silk handkerchiefs, and some other articles, which were delivered to him. A trunk, which had arrived in by the Newcastle waggon, contained many of the articles the prisoner had falsely procured, and also a note to Mr. Blackett, a tailor, with the signature of Mrs. Sarah Wilson, authorizing the prisoner to receive a suit of fashionable clothes for her son. In the prisoner to receive a suit or usanionance contest on the soil. In the postscript of the note it said, "the clothes that will fit the bearer will fit my son."—Mrs. Wilson proved the letters were forgeries, and that she had never given the prisoner any authority to receive goods, either on her husband's account or her own. The prisoner was fully committed for trial.

A tall, respectable-looking person, possessed of very superior address, was brought up by one of the officers of Camberwell parish, under the act of vagrancy.—He stated himself to have been an assistant surgeon in the 56th regiment of Foot, and lately discharged in the isle of France. Since his return to this country, in consequence of having no allowance from Government, he has been reduced to the greatest extremites, and often obliged to sleep in He was on the previous night lying in a shed at Dulthe open air. wich. The Magistrate made an order for removing the unfortu-nate man to the place of his nativity, and humanely gave him a donation from his private purse for the relief of his present wants.

THAMES POLICE-OFFICE.—On Thursday a lighterman named

Wilkinson was charged with feloniously removing a quantity of merchandise from the East India Company's warehouses in Bowcreek .- Mr. Marsh, a master-lighterman, stated, that on the 5th inst. he sent the prisoner with an order to receive thirty packages of nux vomica, for a-Mr. Chapman, from the Bast India warehouses in Bow-creek, to be shipped on hoard the York Merchant. -James Morgan, the tide-waiter, received from the prisoner on the 9th inst. thirty bales, packed up in the Company's package. The prisoner was particularly anxious that hooks should not be used in getting them in, as he said the bags would be torn by them.-Mr. Albert examined the bales; he found them to contain cinders and other rubbish, instead of nux vomica.—Several other witnesses, who had been present at the time the bales were opened, spoke to the same effect.—He was fully committed.

BOW-STREET.—On Wednesday, J. E. Dickson, was charged by Sir Mark Wood, Bart. for fraudulently embezzling a check for 581. Os. 4d. which had been entrusted to him for a special purpose -The defendant said be was employed by the Baronet at his sent at Gatton, from March 1819, to the same month in 1820, as a clerk, and subsequently he did business for him on various occasions as an attorney. He certainly received it, but there was an unsettled account between him and Sir M. Word for business done.—Sir M. Wood deciled that he owed the defendant a farthing, had never employed him as an attorney; he never could have been such a block herd as to employ such a man in that capacity. The defendant resisted in his story.—Sir Mark said, he had the impudence of the very d——I, for there was no truth in it.—The Magistrate said he must give bail, himself in 2001, and two sureties in 1001, each, for his future appearance.

On Thursday Putrick Saul, a stout Hibernian, was charged with I throwing a lad named Emmett into a well, with intent to drown him. Patrick, in his defence, said the boys were constantly plaguing him because he was the only frishman among them, and he could get no peace of his life. The boy Emmett was particularly active, and was calling out, "Arrah, Pat, which way does the built run?" &c. He had borne this until the patience of mortal man could stand it no longer, and so he just took him gently by the middle and carried him to the well to give him a small taste of a ducking; and when I got him to the brink, your Honour, (continued Patrick) he made a sudden spring and sprunted clean out of my arms into the water, and the d—I a bit could I hold him at all-

Mr. Minshull.—But the least you could do was to help him out,

Patrick.—God bless your Honour, and so I would; but I only just stepped back a yard or two, to keep out of the splash that he made, and the urchin was out upon dry land in the twinkling of a The d-la help he wanted, depend upon it.

The patrol who apprehended the prisoner said, that when he asked him why he adopted such a strange mode of punishment, his answer was, "Why, you see, I didn't like to take the law into my hands and heat him with a stick, and so I just soused him into the well by way of a cooler."—Patrick was ordered to find bail.

Major Cartwright gave bail for the good behaviour of Sir Charless Wolseley, whose term of imprisonment expires on Monday next.

Envished Racks.—Wednesday.—These races were again re-

The Gentlemen's Subscription Purse of 50l. for horses, &c. of all ages, that never won Plate, Match, or Sweepstakes.

Nine started for the first heat, and eight for the second. The Judge Thursday .- 'The Freeholders' Subscription Purse of 501, for all Heats, three miles.

only placed the above.

Mr. Brathwaite's b. g. Philip, 5 yrs .. ..... Mr. Heathcote's b. h. Cardenio, 6 yrs 2 3
Mr. Field's br. g. Tybalt, 4 yrs 3 3
Mr. Wetherall's b. h. Saddlebuck, 5 yrs 4 4
Mr. Palmer's gr. f. Merrymaid, 2 yrs 7 5
But little betting.—Cerdenio and Tybalt against the field; second but the field grainst any one. A good ruce cond heat, the field against any one. A good race.

Sweepstukes of Sgs. each, with 20gs. added; all ages; beats, two-miles, and a distance. Mr. Field's ch. c. Friar Bacon, 3 yrs ..... 2 weight according to the Racing Culendar; but we was afterwards agreed that the stake should be divided between Liberty and Friar Bacon.

St. PAUL'S BALL AND CROSS.-The new bull and cross are nearly completed: in the construction the outline and dimensions of the old have been strictly adhered to, but improvement has been made in the interior to prevent a recurrence of failure; the iron bands, plates, &c. which were much decayed by rust, have been replaced with copper and gun metal. The bals is made of two-pieces, the old one consisted of fourteen—a fair demonstration of weighed half a ton, before it received its gens and ornaments.

The whole height of the copper work is 27 feet, and weighs above four tons. The iron spindle in the centre, and standards to strengthen the copper work, weigh above three tons, forming together a weight of above seven tons.

The New French Stripes for furnishing, introduced in such im-mense variety by Miles and Edwards, are equal in appearance and mense variety by affect and Edwards, are equal in appearance and infinitely superior in every other respect to the most costly Silks, either of Foreign or of British manufacture. The Public bave elso an epportunity of inspecting at the New Chintz Furniture and Moreen Warehouse, No. 134, Oxford-street, (nearly opposite Hanover-square,) the best assortment in London of Town Prints and Chintz Furnitures, Moreens, Merino Damasks, &c. &c. manufactured since the recent extraordinary reduction in the prices, and Families about to furnish will be able to make their purphases from this new stock for full one-third less than similar goods manufactured last year can possibly be afforded at.—N. A. From the Corner of Great Turnstile, Holborn.

ADVERTISEMENT.]-Sir Wm. Scott, has decided the right tointer in BRIDGMAN'S PATENT IRON COFFIN, and that parishes may not impose extra fees. As these coffins are the only safe ones, it is of high importance for the Public to remember they can be had only of EDWARD LILLIE BRIDGMAN, undertaker and patentee, Gosweil-street-road, Fish-street-hill, and Hoxton, where the Public may inspect them. Wood ceffins as usual, and from coffins at the same price as wood, and much cheaper than lead, which they much Patent cast-iron tombs and monuments very sup stone, and well suited for exportation.

ADVERTISEMENT.]—If the render is actioned with Fistula, or imilar diseases, we would ask, has be ever heard of the late-Martin. Van Butchell, who used to treat these complaints in a way peculiar to himself, and to effect cures almost universally without having recourse to either Cutting, Caustic, or Confinement, which is the usual practice?—We find his son, D. D. Van Butchell, surgeon, accoucheur, who resides at No. 48, South-street, Berkeley-square, continues to perform cures of the most dangerous cases by the same method, and is as completely successful. Both rich and poor, valo are thus afflicted, will do well to observe he requires no remun tion until they are satisfied a cure has been performed; in fact, the poor are relieved gratis, if respectably recommended.

ADVERTISEMENT.]—No Discovery of the kind has been so generally adopted in the Fashionable World, as ATKINSON'S VEGETA-TIVE HAIR OIL, or CURLING FLUID; it is now considered an indispensible appendage to the toilet, for regenerating the bair; it is so pre-eminent, that medical men of the first eminence prescribe it, and in all cases where the hair has fallen off from premature decay, such as fevers, accouchement, or other illness, change of climate perspiration, intense study, &c. it is warranted to restore it to its original thickness and beauty; for dressing the bair, it is far preferable to oils, extracts, or pomatums, making the bair softer and nore glossy, and giving it such strength and clasticity, that it retains its curl during exercise, or in damp weather. Price 3s. 6d.; 10s. 6d.; and one guinea.—Also, ATKINGON'S VEGETABLE DVE, well known as the only infullible article which changes grey or red buir on the head, or whiskers, to an auburn or black, so permanent that washing, &c. instead of removing, renders more durable.—
Price 5s.; 10s. 6d.; and one guinen.—And ATRINSON'S AMERIC-SIAL SOAP made by a new process, removes reduess, hardness, and unevenness from the skip, prevents its chapping, and makes it soft, while, and even. Price is, a square, or 10s. 6d, a dozen.—Sold at 44, Gerrurd-street, Soho-square, London; and by appointment, by Massrs. Guttle and Peirce, 37, and Rigge, 35, Bond-street; Grange, 126, Prith-street, and 45, Oxford-street; Baylay and Blew, Cockspur-street; Prout, 229, Strand; Rigge, 65, Cheapside; Johnston, 68, and Taite, 41, Combill; and most perfumers and medicine

NOTICES TO CORRESPUNDENTS.

M. P.'s favours have never been receive

We have to apologise for the unavoidable omission of PAUL Pornan's third letter—it will positively appear in our next num-

The letter of a RETIRED OBSERVER will be taken every core of. We are sorry to say the "Snully Dwarl" come to hand too te,—we shall take the party he alludes to under our special care

CRETO, QUIETUS, D.P.T., AN OLD SUBSCRIBER, and ODDS Bons, have been received.

CORLENSIS spill see his hint is not thrown away.

The publication GRECULUS alludes to is not by the person he mentions, nor was it ever thought or said to be so.

Pe will hold back the letter of the Covener Elector till next Sunday, but not longer.

M. P. must surely be mistaken.

We will reply to Nergy; next week—we both mean alike.

A.B. is right, and he will see we know it. We attended the trial every day, and our mistake only praves, that Ma.WILLIAMA's ments made as little impression upon us as they did upon any body clot.

e appeal from the parishes of St. Laurence, Jewry, and St. Mary Magdalon, Milk-street, would not be interesting to our readers, except such as are locally connected with it.

The subscription for the family of Houng is much injured by that in favour of Wilson; at one public-house in Paddington ninepence was collected, and at another in Marglebone only four petice has been received Barzeron is entitled to our best thanks.

Our correspondent from Cheshire came too late to hand. have no ream far a review of the Club this week, but we rejoice to see that the Eant or Grosvenon has proved, by his fine spreches, the justice of the character we gave him in one of our little poems, which runs thus-

"The Earl of Grosvenor is an Ass " -ertor of our freedom.

We never had more cause to be satisfied with these lines the after reading his Lordship's luminous oration of Tuesday last.
Our fair friend Thalia will see we have done all we could at first to meet her wishes — The person she speaks of is REALLY what she calls him, and was as much estuemed by his brother what she calls him, and was as much estuemed by his brother what she calls him, and was as much estuemed by his brother when the she had been a she calls him to be the state of the state o officers, in other days, as he is by his companions

The Poom beginning,—

"Shrubland Sir Billy,

" For ever deemed stilly;

" And emiling Sir Bon,

"With no we in his nob;" is good; but being local, and the persons mentioned being very obscure, we do not think it would answer.

The writer of the Letter beginning with " That fool the Editor of the Times," has too many friends.

We do not consider the subject ACCURACY refers to worth trying back upon.

The numerous enquirers after the QUEEN's plate subscription, and their shillings, must be quite sure that we know nothing about it: We are much obliged to Philotaur for his suggestions;—the first we shall avail ourselves of—the second we doubt the expe-

KNAVICUS VON SPADIKUS must excuse our non-insertion of his letter,—we thank him for his kind wishes.

Amicus Ignotus is delayed, from a difficulty we find of pressing the subject; for even if we were satisfactorily to establish the fact we both suspect, it seems as if the affair would be more awkward than it is at present.

We thank T. C.O., but we cannot afford so much space to such a person as BAMBER BRAUMONT, HUMANITAS is mistaken in his tenderness.

A. B.—MARIA—MANPRIDA—A LAY-MAN—DRAMATICUS— and our excellent friend from Dunnam, are received, with many others to which it is impossible to reply separately.

A Monday's Edition, containing the latest News, the Stock List, the London Markets, and the State of the Country Markets by that merning's post, is published at Three o'clock.

Published by James Carpenter, Old Bond-street, and Joseph Booker, New

BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY of PAINTERS and ENGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY of PAINTERS and ENGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY of PAINTERS and ENGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY of PAINTERS and ENGRAVERS, from the revival of Painting and the alleged discovery of Engraving by Finignerra.—By MICHAEL BRYAN.
In this work is given twe indexes, sliphabetical and chronological; and the Introduction comprises a brief account of the Painters of Antiquity. It also centains five Plates, sublibiting the particular Marks and Monograms used by the different Engravers; together with a List of their works. In two thick volumes, in the price &l.5s. in heards; and on superfine reyal paper, 91.

two thick volumes, in tie. price 51.5s. in heards; and on superfine reyal paper, 91.

2. A New and Compendious TREATISE of ANATOMY, and PROPORTIONS of the HUMAN BODY, adapted to the Arts of DESIGNING, PAINTING, and SCULPTURE, illustrated by Copper plates.—By W. P. WELLS Price 5s.

3. The MEMOIRS of COUNT GRAMMONT, illustrated with 64 Perparatis, beautifully engraved by SCRIVEN, from original Pictures, in 2 vols. Fraits, beautifully engraved by SCRIVEN, from original Pictures, in 2 vols. Gree price 8i.13s. 6d. and in 4ts. with press impressions of the Flates, 6i. 6s. Ditto in French, 2 vols. 8vo. 3l. 13s. 6d.

4. A PORTRAIT of THOMAS MOORE, Esq. from a Picture by M. A. SHEE, Esq. R.A. engraved in the line manner, by Mr. JOHN BURNET. Price 1i. 1s. proce, 1i. 1l. s. 6d.

5. A PORTRAIT of THOMAS LORD GLIFFORD, Lord fligh Transmurt to Charles II. Engraved by Mr. SCRIVEN, from a Misiature by SAM, GOOPER. Price 1Js. 6d. proof, 15s.

6. A SMALL WHOLE-LENGTH PORTRAIT of HENRY HOWARD, EARL of SURRY, engraved by SCRIVEN from the original Picture by Habbein, in the King's Gelicetion at Windsor, price 18s. proof impressions, 16s.

NEW ROYAL WEST LONDON THEATRE.

NEW, ROYAL WEST LONDON THEATRE.
TOTTENDAM Street, Charletre Street, Fitroy Square.
TOTE SIX NIGHTS ONLY—SIGNIOR ANTONIO. On MONDAY, TUESDAY, and WEDNESDAY. A new Eastern Drama called the PUNERAL PILE; principal Characters by Mr. Hentley and Miss Coller.
After which Signior Antonio's astonishing. Performance on the CORDE
DA VOLLANTE. To conclude with the Drams of LOYE and POLITICS.
The edipus Tyrannus of Sophocles will be preduced on Monday next.

PRICE OF STOCKS AT THE CLOSE, SATURDAY.

The public securities have continued to rise lately, and it is expected a further rise will take place. The peaceable aspect of affairs is such as to cause a material rise in the Government securities of the different countries. Tuesday next is fixed as the Account day; it is not expected that any failures will take place. Since our last number several different Stocks have opened, viz. Bank Stock, 3 per Cents Reduced, 31 per Cents, 4 per Cents, Bank Long Annuties, and India Stock. When the increase in the quarter just ended was known, a further rise in the Funds took place. The Funds were done yesterday at an advance of nearly one per cent.

Consols left off yesterday at 77% for Money, and 77% for the Account. The continuation to the next Account has improved, being now at an advance of about 1 per Cent. upon the present prices.—The French 5 per Cents. on Wednesday, were as high as' 90 fr. 60 cents.; Reconnoissances at 99 fr. 50 cents.; Bank Shares 3 Months 25 fr. 35 cents.; the Neapelitan Stock is at 734.

1 Reduced Ann. 77 61 74 7.	Exempler Bills 10001. 45
Consols 771'2 4	5001 5 4
Dit Aget 7724	500l. 5 4 Small/5 7
4-per Cents 954	India Boads where the T1 190:16
Navy 5 per cons 1101 4	Omalum
	UNDS, OCT. 10.
5 per ct. Con. 22 Sept. 90-60	Bank Sh Div. 1 July 1000
Recon. Div. 22 Marca 99-50	Ex. Loud. 1mo.25 50 8mo.25-8
1	981AN.
	2   Sper Cent. Metaliks 78
Brchange . 11	11-16f-Met 3 1
1	TRIAN.
1
o per Cent. Metallics .	. 733-Ezchange 10 4
SIP	anish.
5 per Cent	Exchange
48 •	APARE.
6 per Cent
	•
	Sepian.
5pr Cat. Bonds, £100, 851	î Ditto, £260 to £1000
, но	MAND.
21 per Cent	Columbian Bonds . 402
Bank Shares
4	ERICAN.
7 per Cent 102 6 per Cent. 1812 98 103	Sper Cent 101
1873 994 100
1814101 to 1	Bank Shares, £22 17s. 6d.
1

JOHN BULL.

LONDON, OCTOBER 14.

Many of our oldest subscribers have requested us not to waste time and paper, in answering the reiterated attacks of the CHRONICLE and TIMES, which ought to be used for much better purposes. We think we shall comply with their desire, for there really is not much amusement in either repeating or replying to the coarse investives of these disappointed and malevelent journals.

We cannot take leave of the subject, however, without a word or two at parting; but we promise to be as brief as we can.

The MORNING CHRONICLE, it will be remembered. ATTACKED Us as hirelings, and WRETCHES who would obey implicitly the orders of their paymesters. This, to be sure, is merely calling names, and can do the Chro-NICLE no more good, than it does us harm. The word WRETCH, indeed, is a strong term, and used to be applied only to such persons as parricides or murderers, or to secundrels who had expiated their villainies upon the public pillory; but its application by an honourable and respectable Paper, in a mere political controversy with an opponent whose only offence is his triumphant success. is most satisfactory to us, as being a convincing proof of the elegance of language, and the sprightly raillers of which that Paper is so justly proud.

When the Chronicle persisted in the attack, and chose, in running down THE BBACON, (after it was discontinued) to repeat their scurrility, we took leave to quote from its pages, with the date, the day, the month, and the year, proofs of its obscenity, want of principle, want of feeling-its remorseless attacks upon private life, spon honourable women, and upon the MURDERED DEAD!

These articles we laid before our readers with very few remarks—indeed, few were necessary;—the thing spoke for itself; the Chronicle felt it, and was silent. And, as the Courier of Friday says, we really think the best thing the Chronicle could do now, would be to hold its tongue and make the best of it. But all at once it has roused itself into action, and seems to hope to carry a point by industry which it never could attain by its spirit or ability.

It is to notice, for the last time, the uncomfortable flounderings of this old journal, that we must beg the patience of our readers.

In the first place, it should be observed, that where private character is unconnected with public conduct, we have never " made any inroads into domestic life." The Chronicle, which has been dangling after the Whigs for these forty years, must know, that if we were inclined to be either "PORCUPINES" or "SATIRISTS," (which, please God, we never will be) we might furnish plenty of amusement for our readers from the scandalous annals of Whiggism; but we never have done so; and having neither intimate knowledge of, nor personal feeling towards MR. PERRY, we never should have mentioned his name, nor have made an allusion to him, had he not published. his Paper of Tuesday, a speech of SIR JAN INTOSH, in the House of Commons, alluding not to the Chronicle—but to himself—as a public writer.

However flattering the testimony of a man so highly honourable, so rigidly conscientious, and so scrupulously upright as SIR JAMES MACKINFOSH, may be to MR. PERRY, it is no more a desence of the Morning Chronicle, as how conducted, than Dr. Johnson's verses to MR. EDWARD CAVE are a compliment to the present editors of the Gentleman's Magazine.

Every body, who knows any thing of the world, knows that MR. PERRY is too feeble to take an active share in The Paper at present; and his sanctioning the mad and ridiculous neasones which appear in its columns, alarms at 1600; Exchange on London at 1 Month 25 fr. 55 cents, and at us lest his mind should be equally impaired with itis Conclusive, however as la concept, as la ? may consider the sulogy of SIR JAMES MACKINGS me, who know how SIR JAMES was made a Whip are me dispessed to fall down and worship ME. PERRY at the dictum. To show, however, how little we are inclined ferm with all the provocation the Chronicle hangiven m) to "rip up old grievances," or to draw our means of diffence from "private life," we shall only meating to the JAMES MACKINTOSH and Ma. Rannand possession of a correspondence which protection possession of a correspondence water since, and a third person some years since, lish; but which, (unless pur intentions. some unbearable outrages,) mest containly will given to the world by us. This corresp private, bears most powerfully upon public dis yet we resist the overpowering advant MS-UPON PRINCIPLE.

The Chronicle of Friday teems with divin BULL—and in the great exertions it makes to innocuous abase gats itself into various a other little instances of its confusions, the the less comical ....

"We now witness, "he says," the defer literary licenticusness, and (what adds the id very men who are hypocritically exclaiming aga tiousness. However, this is not a novelty to the for the world has already had but too many proofs of the the Scots adage, that 'THE GREATEST TO FIE! ' "

In this remark we perfectly agree with the limit and as he appears pleased with the verification national saw, he may offer himself and his observations upon Bull, as the strongest possible illustration of its

Before we quote a following passage, we must beginne more, and once for all to onserve, that we LADY, who visited the Queen was noticed by us, whose name had not been previously printed and published in the Times or Chronicle. It is necessary to keep this in mind in looking at what the Chronicle says of our " slander and defamation."

"The adoption of this system of slander and defamation has been defended, first, as good and praiseworthy in itself-as a mean of preventing accession to a rotten cause; and secondly, on the ground of retaliation. We have already adverted to the case of the canvassing the characters of the witnesses brought forward against the late QUEEN, and shewn that there was no analogy between that case and the attacks levelled against all those who chose to countenance her MAJESTY after her acquittal."

There is, we must say, with all deference to the Chronick. a strong analogy between the cases.—In the first place, when it was that HER MAJESTY was acquitted, we are unable to surmise. If a majority of NINE in favour of the Bill against her be construed into a minority, why did a majority of FIVE expel the STUARTS from the THRONE of ENGLAND? Why did a majority of one send Lord Man-VILLE to a trial, or deprive the DUKE of CUMBERLAND of an annuity? The QUEEN never was acquitted, and that the Chronicle knows; that she never ought to have been acquitted, the Chronicle thinks; but as HER MAJESTY'S name is now obsolete, we shall not review it in a discussion upon that point, but remark only, that if it were fair and right to examine the characters of persons who were to give their evidence in a Court of Justice against HER MAJESTY, & was fair and right to examine the pretensions of those females who volunteered their testimony in her favour, and consented to be advertised in the Times and Chronick, as unblushingly and openly as persons, who for a fee of half-a-crown, acknowledge the wonderful benefits they have derived from some quack medicine, or detail the beautiful growth of their bair, occasioned by the application of oil and bear-grease, under the festering protection of His Royal HIGHNESS the DUKE of SUSSEX.

But the Chronicle can do nothing by all its worrying, tal it can deny that it published, on the days stated in our last number but one, the articles we gleaned-" not from thirty " years papers," but from the file of one year. It is really giving itself a great deal of trouble for nothing.

In alluding to the infamous libels we quoted, most et them relating to an august Personage, the Chronicle demurs to a proposition, that insinuctions against the cosduct and character of the Sovereign are worse than the same in private life, because the wound to personal feeling is as great, "and the injury to the state is greater;" and

" It has been forcibly observed by one of our consists that ' one of the unavoidable penalties attached to exaline is the impossibility of concealing its vices and follies. ... which in other walks of society would be purely personni, to the operate in a thousand ways upon political interests and party fel-

So that this abhorrer of attacks upon private life into out and cites exultingly, " that in " certain stations there u can be no private life.

We rejoice equally with the Chronicle upon this discovery, for it sets us quite at ease with respect to the allusions we have made to hising a footman, and sleeping in the same tent with him for six weeks-to masquerades and automtons—the Genius of History—the Bayswater Laundry—for venturing to mention which, we were rated very soundly by the Chronicle. However, since the Chronic has got such good anthority for making, intends into the private families of KIRGS, it is described hard if he will not allow us the much smaller privilege of screting into the domestic concerns of Queens, "As Actions, WHICH IN OTHER WALKS OF SOCIETY WOULD BE " PURRLY PERSONAL, IN THESE OPERATE A THOUSAND " WAY'S AFON POSTICAL INTERESTS AND PARTY PERD or Lugaran ... ...

There is one thing, and but one thing we wish to add:as we have before mentioned, the Chronicle talks of our having gleaned from its pages for thirty years, the few little scandalous and scarrilous things we have whaled toindeed these are his words :-

of The public impression of a particular journal is not to be shaken by abcontroved scakeness gleaned in a search through its columns for upwards of 30 years; and the writer who thinks that, by a paraticiof his industry in this way, he can disturb that character, will only succeed in convincing the world that his conceit is equal to his midigally . At is in value to think to overpower the comm of the world in this way."

May be so. But what will our readers say, if, instead of raking up the columns of this particular journal for thirty were to present them with three or four specimens delineny-and chesinence from sourrility-of honounable opposition-and of great talent-culled from the Chroniele of one day-and that day, LAST THURSDAY!!!

In that precious sumber, wherein we are out to picces, and where the Chronisla denies all the charges we have made and proved against it; we find the following instances of DELICACY.

WV.21.- Ipsæ lucte domum referent distenta Capeliæ " Ubera.

44 It would be invidious to point out the sort of persons so luminously administrated under the terms Goars with their BAGS full." OF CONSISTENCY.

"I rejeice to perceive, that the bold Scotsman is determined to drng the assassins of private fame in succession before the public tribunakof the British Empire."

OF HONOURABLE OPPOSITION.

-- suberunt prisoes:vestigia/neudis. "No one can mistake this allusion to Lord L-nd-nd-y, rotten boroughs, ster-chamber practice, and other little matters of this mature, now in such a happy state of vigorous administration."

OF TALENT. " MATRIMONIAL SYMPATHY. ** When they do agree, their unanimity is wonderful." SHEBIDAN'S Critic.

> "Once any man may go to sea, "But twice who goes must be a dunce,

" So Caro said; and what would he " Of him, that married more than once?

" Sir John a second time would wive,

" And oh! it made him very cross-"'Full oft he wish'd the first alive ?-

" And constantly deploy'd her loss. "With deep regret she's ever nam'd,

" Ah! why should such an Angel die! " My Lady too, as oft exclaim'd,

" None can regret it more than I!' "

If this is not what our great Poet emphatically and prophetically calls-" CHRONICLE SMALL BEER"-the

But though we occasionally laugh at the folly and inconsistency of the Chronicle, we turn with unfeigned disgust from the following article, which appeared in it on FRI-DAY. We apologise for quoting it; but it must be seen literally copied from that Paper to be duly appreciated.

"ILL LUCK.—The wife of M. de L. instituted a process before the Parliament of Paris, complaining of impotence in her husband. At the same time an action was brought against M. de L. in a Court below for seducing a young lady, who had proved with child by him. It seemed as if he must succeed in one case—he failed in both !- Menage."

in Let it be observed, that the French anas have been searched to select from their voluminous pages, this filthy incident, and pointless balderdash; that the thing is gross, disgusting, and licentious, beyond measure—that it has neither wit nor fun to recommend it—and that it is in cold blood given by the Editor to the eyes and ears of the wives and daughters of his readers.

With this last quotation we are satisfied, and we think our readers will be satisfied too, that the morality and propriety of a Paper in which this article appeared is exemplary, and that its respect for FEMALE BELICACY is unparalleled. AND THIS PAPER IS THE MORNING CHRONICLE.

THE Chronicle, with its usual consistency, is become a farious Tony, and abuses, with all the rage of a Jacobite, AADERMAN JAMES, the new Lord Mayor of Dublin, for having given as a toast, " the memory of KING WILLIAM the THIRD."

Such a bare-faced renunciation of all Whig principles meeds no exposure from us; but we trust that the friends of the late MR. Fox, and above all, LORD JOHN RUSSELL, who has been dabbling in historical tracts relative to that period, will call the conductors of the Chronicle to a serious

WE have a fault of a different kind to find with ALDER-MAN JAMES—he omitted, it seems, and it seems also out of respect to the Chronicle and its friends, the epithets of " trorious and immortal," which have now for upwards of a century been connected with the memory of our great

We see Tourns -the immerse majority of the people of Bagland are TORIES; but neither we, sor they are Jaco-Folution as the foundation of our present happy Constitution in Church and State, and we think that the memory of the illustrious Prince who achieved it is GLORIOUS, and OUGHT-TO BE IMMORTAL. And we confess that we equally despise the half-condescension of ALDERMAN JAMES, and the entire impudence of the Morning Chronicle. Yet we admit exactly in the same degree, for ALBERMAN JAMES probably meant well, and wished (how vainly, he now sees) to promote conciliation and a spirit of peace; does any one believe that the Morning Chronicle is actuated by similar motives?

On this delicate subject we are unwilling to dilate, but we cannot deny ourselves the pleasure of registering once more our opinion, that the salvation of this country depends on the maintenance of that system of Constitution in Church and State established by King WILLIAM of GLORIDUS and IMMORTAL MUMCAY; and that while we drink political toests, that georisus and immortae MEMORY "shall be in our flowing cups freshly remembered."

THE meeting held in couthwark to take into consideration the propriety of commencing a public subscription for SIR ROBERT WILSON, professed to be a meeting of the electors of Southwark. We are requested by several of the inhabitants and electors of the Borough to state that it was a meeting, not exclusively—of electors, and that the most active person in the business, a MR. HALL, is not an elector, and consequently had no right to be of the party.

This appears the more extraordinary, as Mr. HALL, on account of his zeal and activity, is put forward as one of the deputation to the High Bailiff, and subsequently as Scenstary to the Committee

As assignee of a person who four years since became bankrupt, MR. HALL receives the rent of some small houses in Tooley-street, but the qualification of an elector of Southwark is the beneficial occupation "of premises in his own right."

MR. HALL was, it is true, one of the Overseers of the Poor of Southwark, and how he managed then is best known to the parishioners. He was employed at Munchester to collect information after the riots at that place; and was an agent for Mr. Whitbread at the Middlesex election, in which capacity the joke goes against him—that he treated many of his Borough friends with a jaunt to Brentford, who had no more right to vote for Middlesex than he has for Southwark.

The appointment of this non-elector as Secretary to the Committee, casts a suspicion over the whole assembly as to their being electors, and is therefore a measure highly reprehensible on the score of prudence.

In the course of the proceedings, Mr. ALDERMAN WOOD produced a letter from J. T. BARBER BRAUMONT, Esq. subscribing fifty guiness—and added, "This gentleman is a magistrate:"—he might certainly (as being more to the point) have informed the company that he was managing director of the County Fire Office. We, however, take WOOD'S own words, and repeat them, in the hopes that they will attract the notice of his Mejesty's government—"Mr.
J. T. Barber Beaumont 18 A MAGISTRATE, and a fifty pound subscriber for SIR R. WILSON."
As every body knows MR. J.T. BARBER BEAUMONT, nobody can be deceived by any thing HUMPTY-DUMPTY may say about him; but as the wise HUMPTY produced another letter from a country gentleman in Gloucestershire, it may be necessary to illustrate that epistle with a remark or two.

A Mr. HAWKINS (for that is the name of Mr. WOOD'S country correspondent) says, in a letter to the Alderman, that "he " is requested by many respectable inhabitants of Circnester " to request him (the Alderman) to transmit through him any prospectus or plan which might be adopted in Southwark!

A list of the persons who made the request would be a most satisfactory document. It may be as well to state that Mr. Richard Hawkins, who steps forward to declare "the senting." " ments of the GREAT BODY of the people on this occasion," is a retail grocer in Cirencester—that he was the active promoter of an address to the late Queen Caroline, which WAITHMAN presented to her-and that very recently he was a strolling player!

ORIGINAL POETRY.

WILSON'S SUBSCRIPTION. Tune, "Scots, wha' kae."

Whigs! who have with MICHAEL dined, Whigs! who have with BENNETT whined, Hasten now to raise the wind

For a Knight dismissed! Gold will foil th' oppressor's lash, Now's the time, to spill the cash, See proud TAYLOR, by a dash, Strikes him from the list.

Who, will fail to ope his trunks? Who will be a stingy hunks? None, but such a wretch as fanks

At BULL's satiric touch. OGDEN, COBBETT, HUNT, and HONE, Your pity and your pence have known, And WILSON, even Tories own, Merits quite as much.

By our anxious hopes of place, Common wrongs and joint disgrace, We can never show a face,

Or must make him rich. Ou, then, Whigs! and let's requite The luckiess, senseless, starless Knight. Who rivals Baken in the fight,

And WAITHMAN at a speech.

HUMBUG. No. I.

THAT judicious, body corporate, THE PUBLIC, or to speak more properly, the hirelings of the press, who call themselves the public, are just now busy with a nine days

This person, the wife, or widow of a MR. Sunam, has lately found out, or at least only lately favoured the world with her knowledge, that she is the daughter of the late DUKE of CUMBERLAND, brother to GEORGE THE THIRD by a Miss Wilmot, the daughter of a certain DR. Wilmot. to whom it is alleged His ROYAL HIGHNESS was married priority, and by the said Dr. WILNOT himself in—we

This poor woman has made herself conspicuous in the streets of London for some time past, by a vulgar-tawdry carriage, and a bad imitation of the livery of the younger carriage, and a bat imitation of the livery of the younger branches of the Royal Family, and having by flux extravagant equipage very naturally got herself into difficulties, she now appeals to the public from a spunging-house, and claims certain Royal legacies to which she pretends to be cutiled, and the rank of station and apanage of a PRINCESS of CUMBERLAND.

As this ridiculous affair seems to us to full especially under the head of Humbug, and as we are the professor chemies of every kind of cant and nonsense, we shall condescend to throw away two or three words upon the subject.

In the first place, we will observe, that the poor woman does not even know the name of what she pretends to be, does not even know the name of what she pretends to be, even if she were the legitimate daughter of H13 ROYAL-H16HNESS, she would not be a Princess of Cumber-land, but a Princess of England. CUMBERLAND was a Perrage, created in the person of the late DUKE, descendable to heirs male only, and even a son would not be Prince of Cumberland, but a Prince of England, and a Per of England by the title of DUKE of CUMBERLAND; the only prince theory to our law with a distinct title being the Prince known to our law with a distinct title being the PRINCE of WALES, and even that, is so little of a female fief, that the only daughter of a KING would not be PRINCESS of WALES.

In common parlance and to avoid confusion, the world is in the habit of saying PRINCESS CHARLOTTE of WALES, PRINCESS SOPHIA of GLOUCESTER; but these illustrious wons never designated themselves by any such addition, and still less did either of them presume to arrogate the style of CHARLOTTE PRINCESS of WALES, or SOPHIA RINCESS of GLOUCESTER.

We notice this preliminary blunder of MRS. SERRES. as marking a degree of ignorance. in our opinion wholly incompatible with the station she claims.

That she may be the daughter of the late DUKE OF CUMBERLAND and of MISS WILMOT, is possible; may, it is possible that some kind of ceremony between those parties may have preceded her birth; we say this may be, because MRS. SERRES says it is so; and because we are the well read in notels and towards and to know that too well read in novels and romances, not to know, that Princes are like other men, too apt to deceive beautiful and unprotected damsels; and that one of the most ordinary modes of seduction practised on all the CLARISSAS, until the 26th of March, 1754, was a sham marriage; but by the celebrated marriage act of the 26th of GEORGE II. this ready resource of hard run novelists was utterly destroyed; and as we presume the alleged marriage must have taken place subsequent to that time, it behaves MRs. SERRES to shew, by the existing records, that the marriage between her alleged parents was selemnized by banns in the face of the church," or by a license, from an Archbishop or a Bishop.

We have seen in some of the papers, a copy of a certificate of this marriage; but it was either undated, or we have forgotten the date; if the date be posterior to the marriage act, it is check-mate against MRS. SERRES; if it should not be so, there are several other objections which occur to us, but which it would be idle to bring forward until this main difficulty be answered. But we cannot help, even now observing, that if MRS. SERRES were to establish this claim, she would place herself, as it seems to us, in a very disagreeable predicament, for, by the statute of the 12th of GEORGE III. (1772.) "No descendant of "GEORGE THE SECOND is capable of contracting matri-"mony without the previous consent of the King, under the Great Scal, and any marriage contracted with-"out such consent, is absolutely null and void." So that the PRINCESS OLIVIA OF CUMBERLAND, if, as we believe, her marriage with Mr. SERRES took place subsequent to 1772, would be in a condition very distressing to any lady of sensibility.

The COURIER seems to suspect that this lady is likely to be elected into the station lately vacated of QUEEN of the Radicals, and that we shall have subscriptions from B. alias EARL GREY, and D. alias Decoy-Duck LAMBTON. to enable this illustrious sufferer to place herself at the head of the female society of ENGLANI

Notwithstanding all the abuse which we have suffered, and of which we are so proud, for having chronicled the QUEEN'S Visitors, we engage, that if any of those illustrious ladies should pay a similar respect to Her Highners the PRINCESS OF CUMBERLAND, we shall do our little endeavours towards obtaining them that consideration which such charity and condescension would deserve; and that they may not plead ignorance of the present resi-dence of this illustrious personage, we (for they all read JOHN BULL) acquaint them, that she is to be found at Mr. DAVIS'S, No. 45, KING-STREET, SOHO.

THERE appeared in the TIMES of Wednesday three mortal columns of the transactions of a "Female Bible Auxiliary Society," in which a number of asses appear to have moved resolutions almost as absurd as the harangues which introduced them.

We are very sorry that we have not time to expose the paltry trash, which, under the abused name of RELIGION. was vented at this ridiculous meeting, and we are afraid that the thing will be too stale for our next number; which is the more to be regretted, because as all those fellows were evidently actuated by a spirit of personal vanity, and a desire to see their names in the newspapers, public ridicule would be undoubtedly the most just and the most appropriate punishment of their folly.

Two or three observations, however, we must makethe first is, that, considering the peculiar nature of the avsociation, it is somewhat surprising that all the speakers should have been males-pedants, either in buz-wig-or greasy locks, and the least likely of any collection of names we have ever perused to carry with them the feelings of a female auditory.

We should next take the liberty of reproaching these godly persons with some little deficiency in gallantry and personal attention to the ladies; for the reporter of the TIMES begins by saying, that a commodious platform was erected for the Secretary, the President, and the Committee, all males,-whence the speakers, all males also, might, at their case, address the female auditory: whence we conclude, that the ladies were left squeezing and treading upon one anothers toes, in a kind of pit, whiist the REV. MR. OWEN, MR. HUGHES, DR. WARDLAW, MR. BEVAN, and a Mohaicl: Chief, were accommodated with the places of

Our next remark is one which will perhaps excite a smile upon the countenance of our readers, as it certainly did upon ours; for the principal topic of the day, indeed the chorus and burden, as we may say, of the song, was, "the children yet unborn would be deeply indebted to the "labours of the female contributors." We assure our readers we have not invented this, it is a true and even verbal report of the transactions, and, as far we could judge, the only part of them which seems entitled to any credit.

In the course of the proceedings, Mr. Clayton, Jun. introduced "an ILLUSTRIOUS STRANGER," to the notice of the meeting. This illustrious stranger was no other than the Mohawk as before mentioned, who was set before the ladies in the picturesque and not unelegant garb of his nation .-The TIMES says :- " He addressed the meeting with great naiveté!! and was announced to the audience as Colonel

The Duchass of Kent was elected President. Her Royal Highness is at present Patroness of the CITY OF LONDON Truss Society, No. 10, Grocer's Hall Court, Poultry.

We have one serious and important observation to make. Do these people believe that they are acting consistently with the precepts of the Gospel, with just views of female duties, or with any regard to the highest and best attributes of the female character, when they assemble, or try to assemble, in promisenous crowds in filthy taverns, and to mix in the noise, the confusion, the boldness, the irregularities; the hubbub, and, we will even say, the indecency of a popular assembly?

Alas! if there be any who think so, they are miserably unacquainted with the best and the sweetest distinctions of female excellence. They may, perhaps, turn the heads of a few poor women, and metamorphose good wives and happy mothers of families into brawlers and spouters, but they never will seduce the brightest and best portion of GoD's creation-the gentle, the dutiful, the modest, and the pious WOMEN of ENGLAND; and if they were to produce this effect-if our women were to be drawn from the peaceful paths of duty and affection, into the vortex of public polemics-England would not be worth living in.

No. 111. THE ARTS.

WE have the highest respect for the arts and for artists: we are perfectly aware of the numerous qualifications requisite for a painter-we know and feel the difficulty, and duly consider the quantity of talent necessary to the painting even of a bad picture. The years of probationary labour expeuded before even the pallette comes into use, the days and nights of watching, and toil after it is assumed, and the variety of chemical, mechanical, and scientific knowledge, which must be brought to bear upon a subject before the idea of the painter can be transferred to canvas.

These feelings, and this respect for the art, and professors of painting, make us slow to censure; and, although, we have long had our eyes upon some of the public exhibitions of the season, we have refrained from commenting upon them till the common curiosity of the town had repaid, in some measure, the care and anxiety of those in whose studies they had their origin.

MR. HAYDON, a sonnet-writing cockney, ranking high in the administration of the smoky kingdom of Cockaigue. distinguished himself last year, by exhibiting a picture of the "Entry into Jerusalem," which, like Tom Thumb's Cow, was "larger than the largest size." Elated with the success of this immense performance, (of which one groupe only was at all finished.) Mr. HAYDON, this year, put forth a work representing "the Agony in the Garden?" the divine subject saved the silly artist, and we were upon that account silent; else, for MR. HAYDON, who wears his shirt collars open, and curls his hair in long ringlets, because RAFAELE did so, and who, if it did not provokingly turn down over his mouth, would turn up his nose at the Royal Academy, indeed we should have felt very little tenderness.

But with respect to MR. WAND's allegorical picture of WATERLOO, we had different feelings—the picture had good principle about it, and the weeks, months, and years, which have been bestowed upon it demanded some recompense; the idlers of Piccadifly did not feel the occasional disbursement of a shilling. In pleasant society WARD'S exhibition room was as good a place wherein to "laugh a sultry hour away" as any other: and auxious that MR. WARD, after having expended so much time, canvas, and colorr, should get something by it, we have patiently let him draw his reward from the pockets of those good easy tolks, who read newspaper puffs and believe them; and who go and vow all over London that a picture is wonderful and subline, merely because the painter, at the directors of the British Institution, founded " for the express purpose of encouraging the Fine Arts," and is about to be engraved and disseminated throughout the country, as a specimen of the works taken under the especial care of that Institution; it really becomes a duty to save the nation from a charge of bad taste so heavy as must arise out of the patronage of such a ludicrous daub.

This may be a picture painted for the Institution at their desire, and the execution of it is no proof of their want of judgment, because they desired to have such a picture, and they have got it, and we have thereby no proof of their approbation; but since they have got themselves into a scrape, they certainly should not allow a print to be made from it, even if they suffer the painting to remain in existence.

If it be possible to îmagine one thing upon earth more irresistibly ridiculous than another, it is the composition of this enormons thing—the size of it is thirty-five feet by twenty-one-in the centre appears the DUKE of WEL-LINGTON in a pearl car—under his feet are legs and arms, and heads in glorious confusion—before him rides a pretty little naked boy upon a lion-over him in the clouds are a group of young gentlemen with wings, representing the Duke's victories, who look like Mrs. WILKINSON'S Preparatory Academy turned out for a bathe; and amongst these pretty little dears are Peace and Plenty, and a great angel overshadowing the whole party.

But this very absurd-jumble (at which, through a little hole, BLUCHER and PLATOFF are looking with some surprice,) is, by no means the most ludicrous part of the affait in the clouds are two persons, called by MR. WARD, Ignorance and Error, (one of whom has a dirty handker chief tied over his eyes,) beneath whom are dogs heads with wings—a tipsy looking cock-eyed owl trampling a heavy stone Osiris into the earth-a little calf without a head—a red night cap—a watchman's rattle—an old crow—Paine's Rights of Man—Voltaire's works—a sick harpy—a devil sucking his fingers—a hobby horse's head, and a heap of chains—here is the allegory all of which we shall attempt to explain in MR. WARD'S own words—for he is an author as well as a painter, and absurd as are the productions of his pencil, the nonsense of his pen is, of the two, the more exquisite.

In the foreground of the picture is a skeleton evidently afflicted with the head-ache, before whom runs a little wide-mouthed waddling frog with a long tail, and beyond these a group which doffes description. The horses, (particularly the near wheeler,) have a very droll and cunning expression about the eye; but the four persons leading them, whether considered as to their drawing or colouring, are beneath all criticism; a pupil of six months standing ought to have been flogged for doing any thing so bad.

In short, the whole thing in its kind closely resemble the overgrown transparencies painted to be stuck up at Vauxhall, or the Cumberland Gardens, or for public rejoicings, and ought as soon as it has answered its purpose like those be obliterated, and the stuff worked up for something else.

In a book published upon this performance, MR: WARD medestly says, that he is not ambitious to be considered an author, and adds, that there exists some insuperable objection to his ever being one; but still, he professes to attempt in his own simple style an explanation of his ideas. He feels quite confident of public favour and indulgence, and then gives us his view of the thing:-as a specimen of this said style, we shall quote his notions about envy-its beauty we confess, is evident-its simplicity we are afraid is somewhat questionable.

"Where shall we find a safe retreat for envied greatness, from the mirey breath or slander's feverish tongue; dark in the bosom of the ocean's fathomless abyss, on the cloud-cleaving Atlas, or at the extremi y of east or west. High on the gilded dome, or palace pinacle, should merit's fairest hard carned honours shine, once seated there, the sickly eye of speckled Jealousy, or Envy's snakey tribe, with iron nerve, and cold in blood, will sean the mark, and the envenomed javelin cast, with secret but unerring aim, and what is to screen him from the foul attack? The shield of Worth intrinsic, bound about with truth, and conscious innocence, and where that lives, all other covering only tends to hide its blushing beauties from the rising sun, and dim the face of day.

"So the firm onk's deep roots, eccentric, winding through the heaving earth, fast bound and chasmed deep, with many a widening gap, by blazing Sol's mid ray, at summer's sultry noon, opposes strength to strength; er round the impervious rocks, in weighty balance to its broad brunch, and highly lifted head, up to the mountain's summet, shrinks not from the prospect of the blackening storm, and while it sends its sweeping arms around over the circling numerous ACRES, shadowing under its expanded greatness, fears not the threatening blast, nor for protection looks to man. Too great to need a screen; it were children's play to throw a montle orer its full broad majesty, to try to save its foliage luxuriant from the rude element. The attempt would be as weedy mus-LINS CORWED INSIDITY; its flinsy partial covering would only hide its full matured richness; and the first breeze of whirlwind's opening rising tempest, tear from the disdninful surface to streaming raggedness the feeble effort, and open to the eye the golden fruit, freshening by the tempest, and glittering in the storm.

We know very little of human nature, if MR. WARD, in spite of his disclaiming any wish to be considered as an author, does not think all this very fine. By way of simply explaining his allegory, it is particularly useful;—of Mr. WARD's view of the necessity of such explanation we may assure ourselves by his very apposite allusion to MILTON, WALTER SCOTT, HOMER. and BURN, (as he calls him). This paragraph we must quote:

"It is contended by some, that a picture should be made up only of such materials as are capable of telling its own story; such confinement would shut out the human mind from a depth of pursuit in every branch of art. Poetry requires prose fully to explain its meaning, and to create an interest; for who would be without the notes in WALTER SCOTT's Lay of the Last Minstrel, or A GLOSSARY to the Poems of Burn, the Argument to MILTON Or HOMER? If then it be necessary to make use of language to explain poetry, should not the same medium be used to explain per-sonification? It has been thought necessary on the stage to send a person between the acts as a comment on the past, and a preface to the future, and can we, I ask, understand what is yoing on, even in nature, by dumb shew? If we see a crowd of people as-sembled in the streets, do we expect that the action and expression trilling charge of seven shillings and sixpence, has thought should inform us the cause of their congregating in an unusual manproper to tell them that it is so, in the public journals.

But when we find that this picture was painted for the ask "what does all this mean?"

To which we most candidly reply,

MR. WARD then proceeds in the following manner: "WELLINGTON has his hand upon the trl-color ved cro the shield of BRITANNIA, expressive of the Chr. vien's ca. blem, and the three colours of which it is composed are the colours answerable to the three principles in trivery!!!

Red is the first flery principle in the Godhead; Blue the second in the Saviour or Mediator; While the third in the Dove of Pen

This ingenious explanation of the mysteries of the Unite Jack, must be highly satisfactory to every thinking Englishman: there is indeed, but one drawback to the holy pleasure we feel at MR. WARD's sublime discovery. which is, that the Revolutionary flag of France, was composed of the same three colours.

The enlightened artist then informs us-speaking of BRITANNIA, " that the twisted lock of hair laying in from upon her bosom, and over the right arm, is emblematic of what do you suppose reader? - " of the spirit of justice."

"Justice, stern and unrelenting, whose sword is forward, and whose piaited hair is answerable to THAT sword, and make in the person of Justice the number three, as expressive of the Tinity, or the whole of Godhead manifested in the awful administration. tration of justice. That sword is serpentine; as empressive FLAME, Deity in its principle of fire.

This is "finely confused, and very alarming;" but ob

"With the other hand, she points through the medium of the Trident, to the Trinity in Unity, commanding him to look up to Providence as alone able to give success to his efforts."

This puzzles us, pointing through the medium of the Trident" appears to us to be something like looking the SUN, through the medium of a toasting-fork; but we may be wrong.
MR. WARD then continues:

"The cat and broken spear are emblems of rebellion and anacby. -p. 11.

"The BRITISH LION is minjestically observing the effects of his own operations; his countenance shews no symptom of the reign of passion—anger is alone signified by the movement of his tail."

For this illustration of natural history MR. WARD appears to be indebted to MATHEWS, who, in his "at Home," told a capital story of a showman and one of the noble beasts in question, in which, while his head is in the lion's mouth, he anxiously enquires of a byestander, "Dathe way his tail?" That bit of waggery being indicative (as MR. WARD has comically painted it) of the ire of lion

MR. WARD, as matter of information, tells us, page 19, that "the pulm tree grows to the height of fire hundred What date the feet, and bears the DATE and COCOA NUT." trees MR. WARD alludes to might have borne we cannot say, but certain it is, that modern palms have left of growing to the height of five hundred feet; which, considering it to be about three times the height of the Monument, and one hundred feet more than the height of St. Paul's, is not so very surprising.

The following information, conveyed in page 20, is likely to be very interesting from its importance.

"Juvenile antagonists in the streets dare not strike an units."

blow, take the other by the hair, or maltrent him when falses upon the ground. In such case, he not only loses his battle, but also-his character!!!"

At page 22 we have, perhaps, the most finished description of docking a horse that ever was put to paper; it is somewhat lengthy, but it will repay the lover of the sublime for his trouble in reading it.

"Can any thing be so far from true taste, as to round them of a dog, or to cut them off; whatever may be the beauty, bed or character, or to cut off the THUMB, or fifth toe, and call its DEW CLAW, and consider it of no use! To chop off the tail of a waggon horse, so necessary and useful to that class of creature; above all, to separate every joint of the tail, with all the missy attending upon it, in order to reverse the order of Nature, and attending upon it, in order to recerse the order of Maure, as make that turn up, which ought to turn down, all equally show the want of taste, as the want of humanity? Who has ever wisessed the operation last alluded to, if not, pause; and is your imagination, behold a nobly formed, and finely tempered creature, let from the stable in all the pride of health, and all the playful confidence of being led out, and held by his master, and his friend view the holbles fastened to his less his feet drawn to a noint as view the hobbles fastened to his legs, his feet drawn to a point, as himself cast to the earth, so contrary to his expectations and his hopes; observe the commencement, and the lingering proces; behold the wreathing of the lovely and as useful animal; how does his heaving breast manifest his astonishment, while his greatly oppressed and labouring heart beats high with resentment, at being thus tampered. His quivering flesh sends through every por streams of sweat; his open nostrils are bursting with agony of bot and spirit, while his strained eye balls flash as with the fixed gland and spirit, while his strained eye-balls flash as with the nace year of expiring nature. Heard you that groan? poor animal. The have began the deed of burbarism! he faintly shrieks, 'tis as the pitious cry of the timid hare,' when sinking under the deadly give of the fierce, agile, and ravenous grey hound. How he grids is teeth, and bores his tightly twitched and twisted lip, and smoothing that the think little are provailling which is aching forther nostril, into the thick litter, or grovelling, rubs his aching forehed in the loose sand; now the sudden and convulsive effort! what a struggle! every nerve, sinew, tendon, stretched to its full bearing with fearful energy! Oh! that he could now disencumber his fetered limbs, and spring from his tormentors. Those limbs that would joy fully bound over the broad plain, or patient bear the combrous load, nor utter one complaint in the deep toil; or drag with unwearied submission, harnessed, galled, and parched with this, the lumbering machine to the very borders of his opening tomb. He groans again, the struggle's over, and he again lays down; while the hoarse breathing and his panting sides, prove that all his energies, his mighty energies, have failed: and the work goes on, sill continues, and now another and another gash, and now the iron book, to tear cut from among the separated complicated bones, the tenacious ligament that binds the strong vertebræ; and lastly be burning steel to staunch the streaming blood. Tedious process but at length it ceases, and the noble, towering, majestic steed is hed back, tottering, trembling, reeling, and dejected, to repose apparently in peace, but ah! another torment, the cord, the weight the pulley, day o'er day, and week after week, to keep the lijs of the gaping, throbbing, aching wounds, usunder, to close no more for ENOUGH! ENOUGH! our country's shame, for crucky & not our natural character, our country's vice."

We by no means intend to ridicule Mr. WARD's humanity; but, we confess, as throwing lights upon an allegorical picture of the DUKE of -WELLINGTON's triumphs we do not consider the passage quite as much to the purpose as it might be. At page 29, Mr. WARD states (and with every appear ance of believing it) that "Cicero was once a lisping infant, and Sampson, at one period, could not go alone;"-to which assertious we must beg to ald, for Mr. WARD's saisfaction, that "Rome was not built in a day."

In his simple style, at page 30, Mr. WARD, speaking of ignorance, says Loose velue of thought, imaginative intellects, evaporation As the school boy's frothy bubble, rising from the turbid elements' sear and water, "its inflated globule, exhibits in proud mimicry the Rainbow's gaily painted hees, and calls rude mirth to dance upon its glittering numface, when suddenly it bursts, and all is gone!'

We shall conclude our extracts from this explanatory pamphlet with the following:-

"SHAPELESS FORMS OF DEATH. —Perhaps no part of picturesque representation is so difficult as this. The poet here has much the advantage. Ossian may, by a language all understand, throw the imagination into a delirium, and there leave it bewildered and wandering, in all the confusion of material immateriality; but in painting it is necessary to give a substantial shape to a shapeless form, and substance to a vision. It is not for him to give the ghost of my father as a misty cloud covering a whole meuntain, ghost of my father as a misty cloud covering a whole insulatin, or enlarging itself to the broad expanse of the capacious plain, like the flaky layers of a thick fog, on the opening dawn of a mist dispersing sunbeam. But the painter must embody disembodied beings, and "give to airy nothingness a local habitation and a name." Here the various shapes of blood, and carnage, are to be contamplated, in the imagery depicted, as common balls, bomb shells, fiery rockets, swords, spears, and bayonets, with all the horrible effects of their operations; us moving in the conflicted elements; from the head of death's gloomy tribes, the large desth-bat, under the arm of the fell monster Death, who is grinning with savage pleasure, at the havoc he is making. The monsters are breathing fire, and from their pextiferous dugs, dropping streams of blood, as the milk of their nourishment."

Having given some of MR. WARD's ideas as they are written, we leave those who have not seen his picture, to judge what such kleas must be, upon cauvas, with a clumsy hand, and the worst possible taste.

To say that MR. WARD is mad, is not what we would pretend to say; but coupling his painting with the articles which we have caught and prescrived, from his pen, we must believe that there are many very worthy persons at present in Bediam, who could paint allegories full as well, and describe their meaning afterwards with infinitely more perspicuity.

All we have to do in this affair is to call upon the Directors of the British Institution, if they mean to patrouise REAL merit, or to make their rewards honourable and of value, to disclaim all approbation of the most illustrious and full-sized specimen of pictorial HUMBUG that ever drew shillings out of the pockets of JOHN BULL.

We have indeed been told that the Institution have (somewhat too late) discovered that they employed an animal painter, to paint them an allegorical picture—they were not aware of their mistake in the outset; but in order to rectify it and induce MR. WARD to rub out his allegory, they have resolved, it is said, to give him an opportunity of shewing his talents in his own line, by sitting to him for their likenesses, —it is added that the portrait of Mr. RICHARD PAYNE KNIGHT, is already in a high state of forwardness.

MR. WILLIAMS.

WE have received several letters, (two of them from Peers) nsisting that we were mistaken in our assertion that MR. WILLIAMS had not spoken at the bar of the House of Lords, on the QUEEN'S trial. We are always ready to idmit any inadvertence or mistake into which we may nave fallen: but do the gentlemen who are so good as to orrect what appears to them an error, see no difference etween talking and speaking? And will they not admit hat it is possible to prate for four hours without saying my thing ?- " Fie, fie, you used not to be so dull."

TO JOHN BULL.

DEAR BULL,-They are making a woundy racket about subscription to set up a newspaper in Scotland, at which he nincompoop subscribers appear to have been so much larmed as to have withdrawn their contributions.

It is wonderful how readily the most loyal men in that art of the united kingdom are to seize any excuse for eeping their money in their own pockets. To their pruence I have nothing at present to say, but to the impuence of those-pretended friends of a free press, who ould deny an Englishman's right to support with his purse publication whose politics he admires, I would put one uestion-whether, a few years ago, a gang of most notoions Whigs did not subscribe to set up an evening paper f their own? And I would more particularly ask, hether your friend, (and a good friend he has unintenonally been) the HON. HENRY GREY BENNETT, was not principal in that scheme? I am, dear Bull, yours STATESMAN.

THEATRES.

WE last week noticed cursorily the performance of MRs. RUDENELL, in The Stranger, at Covent Garden Theatre, at had not room for any remarks upon her representation ER. The play, as we formerly said, is to us, a ry unpleasant play. A deep interest is excited for guilt, id the reconciliation of the long separated couple at the inclusion, is an incident subversive of moral feeling, inasuch as it holds out the prospect of pardon to female error, hich, in real life, rarely, if ever, is granted. The appearance of the boy and girl, and their being made the chief uses of forgiveness, adds to the fault we complain of, in as uch as the desertion of children by the mother increases the ime of the faithless wife.

A German writer of eminence observes, that the jurisdicm of the stage begins where the dominion of the law ter-nates—vices and follies, which the law takes no cogniace of, and which are daily committed with impunity, may, the stage, be held up to reprehension and ridicule.— When' (says this author) "the helpless and childish LEAR a seen scattering his white locks in the night storm, hew bominable does ingratitude appear to the spectator. Who, when he sees the midnight watchings of LADY MACBETH, "but feels the miseries which a blood-stained conscience "must inflict?" And subsequently, after telling us, that the theatre, if properly conducted, is in a higher degree than any other public institution, a school of practical wisdom, he adds, "Even supposing the stage incapable of diminishing "the sum of vices, it has the salutary effect of laying them "open to the eyes of the unwary. In this world we are doomed to live with knaves and fools; if we cannot shun "them, we must learn to counteract their knaveries and follies. The stage renders them incapable of taking us by "surprise-it betrays to us the secret of detecting and disarming them; and though BEVERLY has, perhaps, never " reclaimed a determined gambler, nor GEORGE BARNWELL checked a London apprentice once entered upon a guitty career, still, in those uninitiated in vice, these plays may prevent that, which they might be incompetent afterwards to cure." And then, concludes the same author—" Though " the dreadful remorse of MRS. HALLER should not deter one voluptuary from his criminal pursuits, and the picture of baneful seduction should not be capable of quenching " his guilty flame, will it not enable unsuspecting innocence " to see through the artful garb of seduction, and teach it to "tremble at the vows and the homage of the vile seducer?"

Taking this German author on his own ground, and admitting the potential influence of the stage, we certainly think not. The libertine, who would seduce the wife of his friend. The libertine, who would seduce the wife of his friend, and the wife who encourages the addresses of the libertine see in The Stranger a termination to the affair they have in progress, " devoutly to be wished." The lady and her paramour live together just as long as it is agreeable—they then separate; the lady gets very comfortably established in a very respectable family, and in the end, is reconciled to her good man, and resumes her place in his family, patronized and supported by half a dozen Baronesses and Countesses, and welcomed home by her children, who are equally glad with their father to see her come back.

We have known instances in real life, where ladies sepa rated from their husbands—nay driven from the door of the husband's house, charged with criminality, have been subsequently restored to their domestic circles and society, and the husbands have gone so far as to swear, that they never suspected their virtue. But these are rare occurrences, and we think it a dangerous thing to hold out to growing guilt a hope of such a result as is produced in the play under discussion.

MRS. BRUDENELL was extremely interesting in MRS. HALLER. She seems full of feeling, and there is a fe-minine delicacy about her, which calls for something like affection. Her mild countenance, her modest and unassum ing manner, and her apparent devotion to her profession, all demand encouragement, To say that she is a great actress would be (as yet) to say too much; that she must always be a pleasing and affecting one, is to say the truth; and when time and practice shall have given her confidence, and put her at her ease on the stage, we have little doubt but that she will claim much higher commendation than in her outset we feel authorized to bestow upon her.

Young seems made for The Stranger. The plaintive tone of his lamentation—the pangs of recollection—the feelings awakened by the song—the grief for the loss of all he loved—the desolate singleness of his condition—the subdued high tone of injured honour, which he has all along maintained changing to the thrilling burst of forgiveness—all these, and all that could render the part powerful and heart-breaking, Young presented to the audience. To compare any man in our memories with JOHN KEMBLE, seems little short of treason; but great as he was in The Stranger, (and it was, perhaps, the linest piece of acting ever seen), to him only is YOUNG second, if second at all.

At the Haymarket there have been sad doings. We never dip our pen in gall without a painful feeling; but when justice calls for the sacrifice, we must not decline to obey. We have every wish to speak leniently of (for there is little to praise in) the Haymarket company; but making every allowance for small means and circumscribed measures, we cannot resist the demand made upon us, in our capacity as judges, by the performance, at that theatre, of COLMAN'S comedy of the Jealous Wife.

In the whole range of the modern drama there is not perhaps a better comedy; but as its characters are supposed to move in fashionable life, and possess the attributes of good society, the attempt to play it at the Haymarket, with the present banditti of actors, was the height of rashness, ill judgment, and bad taste-to repeat it, after it had received its full meed of disapprobation, appears to us to have been the beight of assurance.

To speak of MR. CONWAY'S MR. OAKLEY, is to awaken the most unpleasant recollections—there never was any thing seen so bad. His consumnate affectation, his barbarous pronunciation of the English language, and his entire incapacity to express any passion or feeling, kept us in a continued fever of disgust.

Worthy to be the representative of his wife, was MRS. H. JOHNSTON—the ranting, screaming, and kicking, which she indulged in, might have aptly illustrated the vulgar rage of the maudlin vixen of St. Giles's, but by no means resembled the suspicious irritation of the jealous wife of St. James's.

An Albino, of the name of LACY, played CHARLES. This person, in itself, is worth all the admission money, as a show; it has white hair and red ev a caravan, to fairs as a sight, would realize as much money as it gets now, (and a great deal more than it is worth) without the trouble of acting at all. To criticise its performance, would be not only useless, but impossible.

The fatal mist of stupidity seemed on this occasion, to have enveloped MR. DECAMP, whose LORD TRINKET produced a tribute of disapprobation from the audience, which, we are sorry to say, was particularly well merited.

MR. WARD played CAPTAIN O'CUTTER. MR. WARD, some weeks since, appeared drunk before the public, in HAWTHORN, in Love in a Village, the only excuse for which is, that if he had been sober, he never would have presumed to play it. This stupid-looking person is unequivo-cally the worst substitute for an actor that ever sniffed lamp: and although he was announced in the Haymarket bills, as "from the Theatre Royal, Dublin," we think it necessary, for the credit of the reetropolis of the sister-country, to state, that he never acted there in his life. All we can say is, that after the experience they have had of his talents, and after the insult he offered to a London audience, in their theatre, the implied encouragement he receives from the managers of the Haymarket, by their allowing him to appear again, is very disgraceful to the whole concern.

The only man (except Mr. Oxberry, who played Sir HARRY BEAGLE remarkably well,) who seemed like an actor, was MR. TERRY, and even he appeared mystified at the scenes which were going on. Whether it was owing to the want of support, or his surprize at the mode of carrying on the business, we do not know, but even his MAJOR OAKLEY was as far from being good, as any thing not very bad could possibly be.

MISS BOYCE acted and looked extremely well; and MRS. JONES, in TOILETTE, was as good as the best of her predecessors in the part.

What the policy of producing this play was, we are at a loss to imagine. Was it to court a comparison with Covent Garden?—A judicious manager of the Haymarket, with the present company, would as soon think of acting a genuine genteel comedy, as he would of reviving Timour the Tirtur, without the horses, or of rivalling ELLISTON in his Coronation.

On Wednesday, Ron Roy was produced for the first time at the Haymarket. We might again ask why? To be sure, there was MISS CAREW, with her bright eyes; and MISS CORRI, with her sweet voice. The latter lady, by the way. has subdued her tones (perhaps in consequence of her late indisposition)—to a softness, so delicate, that for all the advantage the audience at the back of the front boxes derive from her performance, she might as well warble out of the balcony of the "United Service Club;"—one gains about as much satisfaction from her neat cadences, and pretty little shakes, as one should by listening to a musical snuffbox in St. Paul's Cathedral.

MR. TERRY'S ROB ROY had neither the force, the mysteriousness, nor the weight, which MACREADY gave to the character. First impressions are dangerous things, and per-haps it is because we had established MACREADY'S ROB ROY as a standard in our minds, that MR. TERRY's appeared to us to be every thing but what it ought to have been.

MR. TAYLEURE played BAILLIE NICOL JARVIE, and MR. OXBERRY is in the theatre! The bad taste of leaving an actor out of a line of parts, in which he has most effectively followed LISTON, to cram a most unequivocally unsuccessful performer down our throats, needs no comment.

We have no doubt, at Dunstable, or wherever this large melancholy person comes from, it might have been considered "vastly funny"—it was execrably bad, to our way of thinking; and we should plainly say so, but that we are quite sure MR. TAYLEURE did his very best; and it is no fault of his if it was not better. That we were annoyed by seeing him, is the fault of the managers.

We must however admit that the Opera altogether was much better got up than we expected, and if to please an audience be (as it is) the great end of theatrical performances, Rob Rov may be considered to have attained itit was very well received indeed.

It may be necessary here to observe, (and we believe it is), that the MR. WARD, of whom we have spoken, is not the Mr. WARDE, a gentleman who performed at the Haymarket with great success, two seasons since. The two persons are in every respect as unlike as possible.

Those of our readers who know any thing of the Journal through which the Bridge-street crew communicate their sentiments to the public, may have been somewhat astonished at the particular warmth of affection with which John Bull is now spoken of. We have heard it reported (but of course, we only speak to the probability of the report, and not to its truth) that a sort of copartnery has lately been entered into between John Bull and the Bridge-street crew—by which the latter, who have nearly expended all their subscriptions in defraying Mr. Murray's trip to Lancashire, are to have a certain share of the profits of the Sunday Journal, in consideration of which, the expense of defending John Bull bereafter against so many prosecutions, is to be defrayed by the crew.—Chronicle.

His Majesty will open the next Session of Parliament in great state. The state couch, which has undergone a variety of improvements, and its beautiful paintings by Cipriani cleaned and retouched where necessary, is now complete, and with the superb harness, is in the Royal Mews. The body of the carriage has been restored to its original form, being open in both front and sides, with elegant plate glass windows, so that His Majesty's person will be distinctly seen by the spectators in going to and returning from the House of Peers.

According to letters received at Carlton Palace, the King is not expected to return till the last week in November. His Majesty is represented to be in excellent health.

The gold plate which was ordered to be made in lieu of those articles which were carried off by some enthusiastic hands from the Coronation banquet, was on Saturday deposited in the Jewel-house, at the Tower, which now once more boasts the whole Regulia complete.

The new Duchy of Cornwall-office, now building near the site of the Savoy, close to Waterloo-bridge, will be a lofty edifice, cor-responding with Somerset-house, and in a line with it and the

The Right Hon, William Arbuthaot is chosen Lord Provost of Edinburgh for the ensuing year. The late Queen's servants were discharged last week, and paid up to Michaelmas.

ADVERTISEMENT.]—Advantageous opportunity for parchasing Bedding at the oldest established Feather Warehouse in London, 40, Drury Lane, opposite Great Queen Street and corner of Long Acre. Walker and Co. having succeeded Mr. John Barrowcliffe, (retired from business) take this method of acquainting the Nobility, Gentry and Public, that they continue to sell on the very lowest terms; and having imported and laid in a large and extensive new Stock of prime Dantzic and Irish feathers, Beds, Mattrasses, Paliasses, Blankets, Fourpost, Tent, Waterloo and half Tester Mahogany or Sfalned Bedsteads, with or without Furnitures. The Pronietors are persunded the Public will find it their interest in purgany or Sfained Bedsteads, with or without Furnitures. The Proprietors are persuaded the Public will find it their interest in purchasing Bedding, &c. &c. at the above Warehouse. The undernamed will denote the cheapness of their feathers,—Best White Goose warranted, well stoved, sweet and free from dust, 2s. 6d. to 3s. per lb.; Common do. 1. 6d. to 2. 3d. per lb.; Best Grey Goose warranted well-dressed, 1s. 10d. to 2a. 6d. per lb.; Common do. 1s. to 1s. 9d. per lb.; Best Poultry, 1s. to 1s. 4d. per lb.; Common do. 10d.—Ready-made Ticks sold at Prime Cost to Purchasers of Feathers. Feathers.

PATTERSON'S SPARE-BED WARMER.

JOHN PATTERSON, Furnishing Ironmonger, No. 41, New Bridge-street, Blackfriars, (the second House from Lodgate-hill), invites the public attention to an Implement he has contrived, on scientific principles, by means of which all the inconveniences and dangers attending damp, or unaired Beds may be completely obviated. This implement, (called a "Spare-Bed Warmer,") is compact, portable, and simple in its application. It is used with hot water; so confised as to make evaporation, or leakage, impossible. The heat it affords is very considerable, quite pure, and, incredible as it may appear, will continue, when the Implement is placed within a Bed in the manner directed during soventy-two hours; that is, during, at least, three days and nights. In this way, spare Beds, which, from being only occasionally slept in, are often tetally unfit for use when wanted, may be kept always in a dry and wholesome state, without expense; with scarcely any trouble, ser attention; and without the unpleasaxtness of their being slept in, from time to time, by servants, as is practised in some familles; and by which the health of the servant is endangered, and he end in view not effectually answered. Beds, also, not slept in for some time, from the absence of families, or individuals on journies, or at country residences, may in the same way be kept prepared for use, without the troubles me, and only partially serviceable, practice of spreading the Feather Beds cefore-free; or the still less effectual, as well as offensive and unwholesome attempt to dissipate the moisture, by common warming-pans, heated with coal. The injuries to health from the use-of damp or imperfectly aired Beds, are known by all medical men to be of the most acriams character. Many of the severest maladies by which the human frame is afflicted through life owe their origin to this cause. An inspection of the Implement in question will satisfy any person of the probability of its great usefulness; and a single experiment will demonstr clearly explained, &c.

Printed for J. J. Stockdale, 33, Pall Mall.

Printed for J.J. Stockdale, 33; Pall Mall,

ROTZEBUE'S VOYAGE OF DISCOVERY.

On Thursday next will be published, in Three Vols. Svo. illustrated with numerous Plates and Maps.

A VOYAGE of DISCOVERY, into the SOUTH SEA and BEERING'S STRAITS, for the Purpose of finding out a North-East Passage, undertaken in the Years 1815, 16, 17, And 18, at the Expence of his Highness the Chancellor of the Empire, COUNT ROMANZOFF, in the Ship Ruric, under the Gommand of the Lieutenant in the Russian Imperial Navy, OTTO VON KOTZEBUE.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London.
These volumes offer to the Navigator, the Geographer, the Institute and Philosopher, and the Moralist, much interesting information on the wonderful conformation of the Coral Islands, the exploring of Beering's Straits, the undoubted Discovery of a large Sound, and several new groups of Islands, and an account of the Voyagers' intercourse with the Inhabitants of the Countries visite', who appear to be the most animable of all the people hither-to met with in the South Sea.—The Papers of M. Chamisso, the Naturalize of the Expedition, present a vast accession of information relative to the Geography and Natural History of the Great Ocean.

CHESHUNT, HERTS, 12 miles from London.—TO BE SOLD, er LET

CHESHUNT, HERTS, 12 miles from London.—TO BE SOLD, er LET

A Singularly nent and desirable COTTAGE RESIDENCE, with Greenhouse, Paddock, Lawn, and Waiks, very tastefully laid out, and in neat condition, situate at TURNER'S HILL, on the Hertford and Ware Read. Particulars and Tickets for viewing may be had of H. Crawter and Sons, Surveyors, &c. Cheshunt. Letters to be post-paid.

Sons, Surveyors, &c. Cheshum. Letters to be post said.

TO ALL WHO VALUE THEIR SIGHT.

THE, SIGHT of the aged restored, the weak Sight strengthened, and the perfect Sight preserved to extreme old age, upon unerring principles, by BILADBERRY'S PATENT SPECTACLES, established thirty years, to be had only at 28, Helles-street, Oxford-street (opposite Hanoversquare), the first door out of Oxford-street, on the left hand, and at no other place in the United Kingdom. Orders from the country will be immediately attended to. Removed from 322, Oxford street.

ATTIFICIAL TEETH, ou an unprecedented principle.—Mr. GRAY, Men ber of the Reyal College of Surgeons, in London, continues to supply the loss of Teeth, on the successful system introduced by himself in 1813, which has been found to answer all the purposes of the human Teeth, in mastication, articulation, appearance, &c. and to remain perfectly secure in their places by the pressure of the a mosphere; thereby avoiding pinning to stumps, tying, twisting wires, or fastening springs to the adj ining Teeth, or any attachment whatever to the remaining Teeth; and consequently, is stead of injuring, afford them support. These artificial Teeth may be taken out, and replaced by the wearer with the greatest facility. To those who feequire whole or half sets, Mr. Gray undertakes, at his own risk, to furnish pieces which shall answer all the purposes above described, without the incumbrance of the spiral springs, which are usually attached to such pieces.

Admitsely V. CHOLISAND POLITIMES for the Eigendrause Parks.

THARTY THOUSAND POUNDS for the First-drawn Prize, 30th of THIS MONTH, (October).—Three of £38,000, and 30 other Capitals!—Ali Money!—Every Ticket drawn singly!

Tickets and Shares are selling by T. BISH, 4, Corabill, and 9, Charing. Cross; who has sold more than half of all the £30,000 Prizes that have ever been.

ever-been.

[13] The Prices of Stocks are affixed, hourly, against BISH'S Office, in Cornhill, by which the Public can see the fluctuations.

THIS MONTH.

HAZARD and Co. the Contractors, remind the Public that the Drawing of the present MONEY LOTTERY will commence on the 30 th of THIS MONTH. They have the greatest pleasure in acknowledging the repeated testimonies of approbation beslowed on the Scheme, which combines all the points that the Public bare so long called for. There are Three of £39,090!!!—Thirty offer Capitals:—All Sterling Money:—Not Two Blanks to a Prizes.—No Classess; and no Stock Prizes.

HAZARD and Co. have already had the pleasure of selling all the £30,000 Prizes in One Lettery, and hope to repeat their good fortune in the present lottery. They shared and sold in the Last Lottery No. 15,702, a £21,000! and 6,054, a £15,000! at their old and very fortunate Offices, 93, Royal Exchange; 26, Cornhill: and 324, Oxford-street.

DYTON Stock, Broker, Z. Cornhill: and Lompard-street, bares large.

EYTON, Stock-Broker, 2, Cornnill, and Lombard-street, begsleave

EYTON, Stock-Broker, 2, Cornhill, and Lombard-street, begsleave to recommend to his best friends, the Public, the Scheme of the present GRAND MONEY LOTTERY, which commences drawing 30th this Month (October). There are Three Prizes of £30,309 Money, besides 30.0 ther grand Prizes of £5,900, £2,000, &c. &c. — Each Ticket decides is own fate.—No Classes; and the old grand system revived, o not Two Blanks to a Prize EYTON being so confident that it will give such general satisfaction to the Public at large, that he anticipates there will be a great rise in the price of Tickets and Shares, therefore he recommends an early purchase. EYTON, in the last Lottery, was particularly fortunate, having sold 9,782, a Prize of £7,500,—2,021, £600, besides soverrdininar Capitals.

THREE OF £39,000 MONEY!

J. and J. SIVEWRIGHT solicit the favours of the Public at their Old and Fertunate Offices 37, Cornhill, 11, Holborn, and 38, Haymarket, Lendon; where they had the satisfaction, in the very inst Lottery, to share and selt No. 4,421. £25,000; 2,053, £21,000; 1,446, £4,000; 9,182, £2,400; 12,730, £2,400; 19,023, £2,100; besides many smaller Capitals. And they also sold in Shares all the £20,000 Prizes in one Lottery of the preceding Contract. J. and J. SIVEWRIGHT have no hesitation in recommending the Scheme of the present Lottery (which begins on TUES, DAY, 30th THIS MONTH) to the attention of their Friends and the Public;—it contains Three Prizes of £30,000 and 30 other Capitals.—All Money—with not two Blanks to a Prize £30,000 for the first-drawn Prize. Tickets and Shares are on sale at their fortunate-offices, where they hope to have the pleasure of paying to the Public one or more of the £30,000, Prizes and Subtessare on sale at their fortunate-offices, where they hope to have the pleasure of paying to the Public one or more of the £30,000, Prizes and Subtessare on sale at their fortunate-offices, where they hope to have the pleasure of paying to the Public one or more of the

WILSON on the URINARY ORGANS, &c.

Just published, in 882, price 148, boards,

LECTURES on the STRUCTURE and PHYSIOLOGY of the MALE URINARY ORGANS of the HUMAN BODY; and on the Nature and Treatment of their Diseases; delivered before the Royal College, of Surgeons of London in the Summer of the year 1821.—By JAMES WILSON, F.R.S. Professor of Anatomy and Surgery to the College; Lecturer on Anatomy and Surgery at the Hunterian School in Great Windmillstreet, &c. &c. &c.

London: Printed for Burgess and Hill, 55, Great Windmill-street, Haymarket.—Also, lately published, by the same Author;

2. LECTURES one the BLOOD; and on the Anatomy, Physiology, and Surgical Pathology of the Vascular System of the Human Body, 8vo. 12s.

3. LECTURES on the Structure and Physiology of the parts composing the Skeleton, and on the Dispases of the Bones and Joints of the Human Body, 8vo. 12s.

4. OBSCHVATIONS on the Incorrections of the Science of the Human Body, 880, 128.

4. OBSELVATIONS on the Incurvations of the Spine, arising from softness of the Bones, and on their Treatment, particularly in regard to the Female Sex: Idao some Kenarks on Absenceses of the Hip Joint, and on-Incurvations of the Spine from carious Yertebra: Svo. 3s.

SUBSCRIPTION in AID of the WIDOW and CHILDREN of the late J PATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP Mr. WILD, who was surdered in Union-street, Whitechapel.

THE Widow and Children beg to express their unfeigned gratitude to the benevolent Public, who have so promptly and humanely interfered to avert the dreaded evils of want and poverty, which, in addition to their calamitons deprivation of a tender husband and affectionate father, threatened to overwhelm them. Through the exertions of her kind friends, the sum of 3901, has been already subscribed, and is now invested in the public funds in the names of Edward Cohen, Esq. and Mr. Harris, until a sufficient amount can be obtained to purchase an Amulty, or otherwise procure a permanent provision for the unfortunate family.

Subscriptions centinue to be received by Messrs. Hammersleys, Pall Mall; Messrs. Praed, and Go. Fleet-street; Messrs. Fry and Chapman, Mildred'scourt, Poultry; and by Mr. Harris, No. 19, Whitechapel.

AN INFALLIBLE CURE FOR THE TOOTH-ACHE.

AN INFALLIBLE CURE FOR THE TOOTH-ACHE.

MRS. BURCHETT, 11, Ball-Alley, Lombard-street, effectually removes the Tooth-Ache, however inveterate and painfu. The remedy is simple and easy in its application, and is no ways injurious to the Teeth.

RISH POPLIN WAREHOUSE.—IRISH POPLINS, in all the most fashionable Franch solours also make the state of the search and the search and the search as th most fashionable French colours, cheaper than they can be bought in Dublin. Shawls and Scarfs of every description from 6s. to 15 guineas each; beautiful Norwich Crapes, Bombazines, Levantines, Gros de Naples, and all kinds of fancy Silks for Dresses. West of England Ladies' Cloths, in all fashionable colours—great bargains from 4s. to 7s. per yard, under the regular prices. Rich Genoa Velvets, also an elegant article for Ladies' Pelisses and Mantles, which will resist rain, is extremely light, warm, and durable; to be had only at A SZEARS and CO's, Bødford house, No. 11, Henrietta-street, Covent-garden, London.

ONE HUNDRED BEAVER HATS. ROBERT LLOYD, of 92, Newgate-street, original maker, and inventor of nywards of 100 different shaped GENTLEMEN'S BEAVER HATS, which for beauty, quality, and taste, are unrivailed in Great Britain. The process of manufacture is new, and so decidedly superier to the old, that although the price is only 25s. they will wear longer than any two of those imitation Beaver Hats commonly charged a Guinea; another great advantage is, that in so unequalled a variety of forms, the wearer can choose what best becomes his person. Silk Mats, with double edges, 18s. each, a most incomparable article.

article.

N. B.—A Fourth Edition of Lloyd's Treatise on Hots, price Is.

EASE and COMFORT in SHAVING .- To those Gentlemen who experience inconvenience in Shaving from a tender face or a strong beard, J. T. RIGGE most particularly recommends his celebrated MAGNETIC RAZOR TABLET, which, with its late improvement, he engages will produce so keen an edge as to supersede all grinding, horning, &c. and render the operation of shaving as easy and agreeable as it was before unpleasant and painful. Its use is simple, i's effect certain; price 7s, 6d. J. T. Rigge's Aromatic Shaving Soap will also be found an invaluable addition. Manufactory, 65, Cheapside, and 52, Park, atrect, Grosvenor square

HALL'S sublime TURKISH PASTE, CIRCASSIAN and FACE POWDER.—The above elegant preparations, which are so universally approved by Ladies of the first rank and fashion, as the most tanocent and beautiful assistant to nature, by imparting to the skin that soft and inconceivable fairness, is now prepared, in the bighest state of perfection; the Proprietor having lately imported a quantity of the necessary ingredlents, will prevent in future any possible disappointment.—One Pound Note Packages, containing two large Pots and two Packets of the Powder, or four small Pots and four small Packets, are forwarded to all parts of Town or Country, and warranted to arrive safe.

N. B. Observe the above are only to be had of the most respectable Dealers of Perfumery or Milliners in the Country, in single Pots, at 10s. 6d. and 5s. 6d.; and the Psweder in Packets, 2c. 6d. and 1s. 6d, and should be asked for in the name of the Proprietor, whose signature is on the outside of each.—Patent Violet' Soap and Chemical Laboratory, No. 28, Hadlow-street, Burton Crescent, London.—J. B. HALL.

URENCH PERFUMERY.—JEAN DEVEREAUX'S ESPRIT HALL'S sublime TURKISH PASTE, CIRCASSIAN

Burton Crescent, London.—J. B. HALL.

L'RENCH PERFUMERY.—JEAN DEVEREAUX'S ESPRIT DE LAVANDE AUX MILLEFLEURS, possesses all the balmy fragrance of the freshest howers; its aromatic, cephalic, and nervine virtues, are instantly diffused through the most spacious apartments, while the fragrance o its scent revives every person around.—Sold in bottles, price 2s. 6d. and 5s. at the Depot for Firench Perfumery, 2s. Lombard-street, London; where is to be liad JEAN DEVEREAUX'S MONTPELLIER SOAP for rendering the complexion delicately smooth, clear, and even; imparting a xivifying grateful perfame, and giving to the skin a most delicious feel and luxurious brilliancy. Price 2s. 6d. per packet.—Sold retail at 6s. Cornhuit No. 9, Regent-street, Pall Mall; 129, Oxford-street; 52, James's street; 22, Hatton Garden, and wholesale by Price and Gosnell Perfumers to His Majesty.

L'F A gratuitous sample (on a handkerchief) of Jean Devereaux's celebrated Eaprit de Lavande aux Milleheurs, will be yresented to any Ludy or Gentleman, which will prove its pleasing and refreshing properties, by applying te any 9. his Agents, or at his Depot, No. 25, Lombard-street, London.

DRICE and GOSNELLES MACASSAR OH.

PRICE and GOSNELL'S MACASSAR OIL, putronised by HiMajosty and the Royal Farrily, gives strength and a beautiful glossy appearance to the Hair; imparts to it the most delightful perfume, and prevents its falling off or turning grey to extreme old age. Hair dressed with this celebrated Oil soon becomes soft, curly, bright, and luxuriant in its growth; and bair that has been injured, made harsh, and turning grey, will be restored, by a few applications, to its natural colour, brilliancy, and beauty.—Sold by the sole Proprietors, and only importers, PRICE and GOSNELL, Perfumers to His Majesty, No. 12, Three Kings-court, Lombardstreet, London, in bottles at 3s. 6d.; 10s. 6d.; and 21s. each, bearing their signature on the label in red ink.
CAUTION.—Messrs PRICE and GOSNELL beg to caution the Nobility and Gentry against a spurious Macassar Oil, injurious to the hair, imposed upon the public by hair-dressers (faisely styling themselves importers) who are equally incompetent to ascertain the danger of what they extol, as they are to discover what night be useful.—Ask for Price and Gosnell's Macassar Oil.

10 (1961-1985) PRICE and GOSNELL'S MACASSAR OIL, putronised by Hi

BURGESS's NEW SAUCE for general purposes, having given such great approbation, and the demand for it continuing to increase, JOHN BURGESS and SON beg most respectfully to offer this their best acknowledgments to the Pablic for their liberal patronage of the same; its utility and great convenience in all climates, has recommended it to the most distinguished forcign connexions, who have all spaken highly in its recommendation.—It is prepared by them ONLY; and for preventing disappointments to families, all possible care has been resorted to, by each bottle being scaled upon the cork with their irm and address, as well as each label having their signature, without which it cannot be genuine.

JOHN BURGESS and SON'S long established and much-esteemed ESSENCE of ANCHOVIES, continues to be prepared by them after the same manner that has given the greatest satisfaction for many years.—Warehouse, '97. Strand, corner of the Savoy-steps, London.—The original Fish-Sauce Warehouse.

To Messrs. ROWLAND and SON, Preprietors of the Macassar Oil.

GENTLEMEN,
TAKE the earliest opportunity to relate the surprising virtues of your Oil on two of my chidren, the one seven, and the other nine years of age.

In November, 1807, their Hair came off in small parts, and continued so to do until it was very souch reduced. Alarmed at this circumstance, as there was no appearance of it coming again, I tried several oils, compositions, &c. without effect, when a Lady, who had witnessed the extraordinary effects of your Oil, entreated me to try it, which I did, and in using four bottles of the Macassar Oil, I have the gratification to say, their heads are completely covered with thick and strong hair.—You have liberty to make this public, and you was refer any one to and you may refer any one to

and you may refer any one to

Your humble Servant.

Newington-green, Middlesex, Nov. 14, 1808.

To Messrs. Rowland and Son, Kirby-street, Hatton-garden, London.

Gentlemes,—in consequence of the good effects of your Macassar Oil, I have it in command from his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias, that you will, without delay, swad the sum of ten gunness worth to the Emperor of Russia, St. Petereburgh, and receive the amount of the same from his Excellency Count de Lieven, his Majesty's Ambassador at the Court of Great Britain.

Great Britain,
I have the honour to be, Gentlemen, your most obedient Servant,
JAMES WYLIE.

Thave the honour to be, Gentlemen, your most obedient Servant,
JAMES WYLIE.

A. ROWLAND and SON respectfully caution the Public against spurious Macassar Oil. Their's is the original and genuine, which for many years has been universally admired for improving the growth of hair, producing beautiful curls, and rendering itsoft and glossy; in short, it adds to the hair a superlative beauty. Price 3s. 6d.; 7s.; 10s. 6d.; and One Guinea per bott.e.
Sold, wholesale, retail, and or exportation, by the sole Proprietors,
A. ROWLAND and SON, No. 1, corner of Kirby-atreet, the first turning on the right in Hatton-garden, Holborn, London; and by appeintment, by Messrs. Hendries, Titchburne-street; Messrs. Smyth, 117, Gattie and Peirce, 57. Bigge, 35, Thevenot, 7, Overton, 47, New Bond-street; Delcroix and Co.
Old Bond-street; Bayley and Biew, Coekspur-street; S. Berry and Co.
Perfomers, 17, Johnston, Chemist, 15, Greek-street, Soho; T. and C. Buller, Chemists, &c. 4. Cheapside; J. T. Rigge, Perfumer, 65, Cheapside; Newberry and Sons, 45, Edwards, 66, St. Paul: a Church-yard: Burgess, 68, Hobborn-hill; Barelay and Sons, 95, Fleet-market; Prout, 229, Lowe, 330, Strand; Rowney, 196, Hatton-Garden; Johnston, 68, Cornhill; Sutton and
Co. Bow Church-yard; Barteliot, 22, Hatton-garden; Tait, 41, Cornhill; Bolton and Tutt, Royal Exchange; and by most Perfumers and MedicineVenders. None are genuine without the Signature "A. Rowland and Sons."

PATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP.—The Chamber Lamp, increasing in interest as the days shorten, the Patents is induced to present this to the Public as a source of comort superior a any in this country, or perhaps the world. It embraces brilliancy, series afety, and certainty for any length of time required, will be any motion can be regulated to burn the longest or shortest might, disappearing a the morning without smoke or smell. The same principle applies, and the Lamps equally portable, on elegant pedestals, for the dining table, sideboard study, mantlexiece, &c.; and also for the Glass Grecian Hanging Lamp for the hall, conservatory, passages, staircase, drawing-room lastres, & elegantly simple and much admired. It is a most essential acquisition in the hall, conservatory. Passages, staircase, drawing-room lastres, & elegantly simple and much admired. It is a most essential acquisition in a so simple that a child can trim them. The annual expense of light burning very night in the year, proportionate with candies, is, for the chamber a above described, 10s.; for the kitchen, equal to a cande eight to the pend 12s.; parlour er mond sixes, 15s.; and to fours, 17s; suppose a dome land of the dining table, equal to four mould fours, 69s.; or hall, three modisizes, 45s. Thus the degrees of light, more or less, can be regulated a pleasure suited to the occasion. By this atatement Gent emen may accrual the great saving in proportion to their establishment, bearing in mind, the these Lamps burn as sweet as wax.—Sold for the Patentee, by Those Pearce and Co. No. 298, facing the front of St. Clement's Church, Streat who, to secure the reprintation of this invention from the effects of adulteras oil, are bound to sell none but pure and genuine Spermaceti. Letters at dressed, post paid, from any part of the Kingdom, will neet with prom

LONDON MARKETS.

CORN EXCHANGE, FRIDAY, Oct. 12.

There has been a supply of Wheat this week from Essex, Ken, and Suffolk, and a great part of the Monday's arrival remains and Sirrors, and a great part of the Monday's arrival remning unsold, the trade was exceedingly dull this morning, and except for the finest parcels, from 1s. to 2s. per quarter lower. Bartey alm meets a very heavy sale, and is about 2s. per quarter change; and Beans go off slowly, at a similar decline. Having been largely supplied with Oats this week, the trade is dull, and the sale make at a reduction of at least 1s. per quarter. In other articles we have no variation to notice. have no variation to notice.

RETURN PRICE of GRAIN, on board Ship, as under.

THE GENERAL AVERAGE PRICES of BRITISH CORN, as receivedly from the Inspectors in the Maritime Cities and Towns in Enghand Wales, according to the Gazette of the 13th of October, calculate follows:—

GENERAL AVERAGE WHICH COVERNS IMPORTATION.

Wheat, 64s 7d—Barley, 35s 2d—Oats Pease	, 22s 10d—Rye, 32s 0d—Beaus, 34s 5d.
PRICES OF GOI	LD AND SILVER.
Portugal Gold, in Coin 0 0 0 p. ez. Foreign Gold in Bars 3 17 10 1 — New Doubloons 0 0 0	New Dollars 0 4 9 p.c. Silver in Bars Stand 0 4 101 New Louis, each . 0 0 0 —
COURSE OF EXCHA Amsterdam 12 17 C.F. Ditto at Sight 12 14 Rotterdam 12 18 Antwerp 12 10 Hamburgh 38 1 Altona 38 2 Paris, 3 days Sight 25 75 Ditto 25 5 Bordeanx 26 5 Frankfort on Main 157 Petersburg 3 U Vienna 10 23 Ess. do.	ANGE,—FRIDAY, Oct. 12.  Trieste Madrid36 Cadiz39 Bilhoa .351 Barcelona. 34 Seville .334 Gibraltar39 Leghorn .461 Genon .53 Venice .27 60 Malta .6 Naples .394 Palermo .118 Lisbon .59 Oporte .30 Rio Janeiro .481 Bahia

COMMERCIAL REPORT, FROM OCTOBER 8, TO OCTOBER 13, INCLUSIVE.

Plantation Sugars, except low Browns, which have faller to 50s. 6d. have been in very good demand, at rather enhanced prices Coffees have also been in extensive request at the full value of last week; foreign may be quoted 2s. higher .- Yesterday's sale of East India Cotton excited much interest; about half the quantity of fered was taken in, but a great proportion has since been placed, and out of 19,219 bales offered, we consider the actual quantity disposed of may be estimated at 14,000 bales; Surab went from 1 to 1 lower, without any spirit; The following prices have, in consequence, been established :- Ordinary 6 to 62; Fair 61 to 64; Good Fair to Good 65 to 74; and Prime 8 to 81; Bergals enjoyed much attention, and suffered scarcely any diminution in value; Ordinary 54 to 58; Fair to Good Fair 54 to 58; Good 51 to 61; the Fine parcels were taken in, otherwise there we buyers for such at 62; Madras Good Fair 6g to 63; and Good 7; in other descriptions of Cottons very little has been done. -The Liverpool Cotton Market is still heavy .- Tallows have fallen by 44s. 6d.—Brandies have lost their speculative disposition.—Other articles without change.

THE REPORT OF THE PARTY OF THE	OWNER, THE REAL	<ul> <li>BAETING/22</li> </ul>		Table Comment	42 1/10	0.702
STOCKS.	Mon.	Tues.	Wed.	Thur.	Frid.	18
ank Stock	Sept. Of	1949	1940	214.00	236]	1 2
per Cent. Reduced		-	100	769	761	107
per Cent. Consols	774	771	778	773	779	1774
per Cent Consols	10 mg	( New York	Transfer of	873	874	199
onsols for Account	77	777	775	779	78	7 per Cent. Consols	DESCRIPTION OF THE PERSON OF T	10 325 013	-	3 mg 1000	958	93 per Cent. Navy	110	110	110	-110	110	Ann ank Long Annuities	10.90	D-41 (N)	D. DEPEN	72-100	1922	100
ndia Bonds	65 p	64 p	67 p	67 p	68 p	716
xchequer Bills, 2d	5 b	2 p	2 p	50	7 p	1008
itto, 21d	A	3717000	NO CHARLES	No. of Contract of	0621	15.4
mnium	-	7 8 9 9 9	J- Par	675-124	5-0	144

BIRTHS.

of his Excellency Sir Colin Halket, K.C.B. and G.C.H. of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

MARKHAUES.
W. Chase, Esq. of Eaton, Norwich, to Susan Elizabeth, daughter of Philip Utton, Esq. of Aldeby, Norfolk.
On Saturday se'unight, at St. James's Church, Henry Charles, second set of Henry Hugh Hoare, of Baru Elms, Surrey, Esq to Mrs. Prince, younged daughter of the late General Ainsilie.

DIED.

At Kensington, at the house of her daughter, on the 7th instant. Mr. Thurtle, aged 80 years.
On Thursday, at Clapham, Mrs. Newbery, aged 75, widow of Mr. F. Newbery, of 8t. Paul's Church-yard.
On the 8th of May, near Calentta, aged 68 years, Colonel Colin Mackente.
C.B. of the Madras Engineers, Surveyor-General of India.
On the 10th of June last, in the 42d year of his age, during his passage home for the recovery of his health, Captain William Perkins, 10th regiment of Bombay Native Iniantry.

LONDON: Printed and Published by R. T. WEAVER, of No. 11, JOHNSON'S COURT, FLEET-STREET, where only Communications to the Editor, (post paid) are received.

JOHN

BULL.

" FOR GOD, THE KING, AND THE PEOPLE!"

No. 45.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1821.

Price 7d.

On Monday last was published, by CLEMENTI and Co. 26, Cheapside, TWELVE MONFERRINAS, for the Piano Forte, composed by MUZIO CLEMENTI, Op. 49, price 5s.
The agreeable and familiar style of these little Pieces will be found acceptable to all classes of performers.
A new SET of THREE SONATAS, for the Piano Forte, composed and dedicated to L. Cherubini, by MUZIO CLEMENTI, being the 50th Opera of the Author, price 10s. 6d.

NRW MUSIC.—Just published, price 10s. 5d.

THE CORONATION ANTHEM, "I WAS GLAD," composed by command of the King, and performed as part of the angust Ceremenial of His Majesty's Royal Coronation in Westminster Abbry. July 19th, 1821; by THOS. ATTWOOD, Composer to His Majesty's Chapel Royal.

London: Printed by (and to be had at) the Royal Harmonia Institution, Lower Saloon, Argyll Rooms, Regent street.

NEW MUSIC.-KIALLMARK'S universally-admired Variations

NEW MUSIC.—KIALLMARK'S universally-admired Variations on the favourite Air, "Cease your Funning," adapted for two performers on the Piane Forte, by D. Bruguier, price 3s.—Perry's Grand Coronation March, composed and arranged as a Duet for the Piane Forte, price 2s.—Latour scelebrated "Le Retour de Windset," arranged as a Duet for two performers on the Piane Forte, by D. Bruguier, price 5s.—The popular Air, "Sui Margine d'un Rio," an Italian Air, with Variations as a Duet for two performers on the Piane Forte, by Edw. Boath, price 3s. 6d.—Boleldieu's favourite Overture, "Du Calife de Bagdad," arranged as a Duet for two performers on the Piane Forte, by T. Goodban, price 4s.—The above Duets are particularly recommended to the notice of the Musical World, being arranged by the first Masters of the present age.—Lendon: Published Maybew and Co. Music Sellers to Her Royal Righness the Duchess of Kant, 17, Old Bend-street, where may be had, Hart's Feurth Set of Quadrilles, Inciuding "George the Fourth," Coronation Walta, &c. 4s.

TAMES THOMPSON will find a LETTER addressed to him

JAMES THOMPSON will find a LETTER addressed to him at No. 2, Gough-square, Flost-street.

DRIVATE TUITION.—A Clergyman, for many years accustomed to the Tuition of a few PRIVATE PUPILS, would be glad to fill ap a VACANCY with the Son of a Gentleman whose health or education requires more than usual attention. The Terms are 175 Guineas per Annum. The distance from London ten miles. Letters to be addressed to Rev. B. L. Mr. Reymolds, Bookseller, 137, Oxford-street, Loudon.

LONDON AND HULL STEAM PACKET COMPANY.

THE Public are respectfully informed that the KINGSTON STEAM PACKET continues to leave the Tower Stairs on Tresday mornings, at 9 e'Clock, for Hull, with Passengers, and fine Goods of every description.—Agency-Office, Stanton's Wharf, Tooley-street.

WANTED, by a LADY, a SITUATION as GOVERNESS, or DAILY GOVERNESS. She is competent to teach Music and Singing, which she has studied under one of the first Masters; Drawing, Geography, Freach, Writing, and Arithmetic, and the Harp to beginners.—No Office-keeper need apply —Direct (post paid) to A.B. at Mr. Davis's, 35, Coventry-street, Pieradilly.

37 A Plano Forte, as good as new, to be sold cheap.

Just published, by C. Chapple, Boukseller to His Majesty and their Royal Highnesses the Dukes of York & Cambridge, Royal Library, Pall Mall.

EXPROIENCE; a Satire. By JULIUS. Book I. price Ss.
Also,
2. NAPOLEON, and other Poems. By Samuel Gower, Esq. 7s. boards.
3. HIGH BIRTH; a Satire. Addressed to a young Nobleman. Price 3s. 6d. stitched to celeured paper.

By In a few days, LETTERS of JULIUS, Vol. 1. Smail Svo.

SMIRKE'S:SHAKSPKARK, No. 2.

SMIRKE'S:SHAKSPKARK, No. 2.

Just published,

Just published,

LLUSTRATIONS of TAMING of the SHREW, heing the second Number of ILLUSTRATIONS of SHAKSPEARE, from Picture painteri expressly for this work by ROBBRT SMIRKE, Req. R.A. Engraved in the finest style by the most eminent Historical Engravers. The Play illustrated is published at the same time.

No. III. "Merry Wives of Windsor," will appear in November. Printed for Rodwell and Martin, New Bond-street; and sold by Colnaghi & Co. Cockspur-street, and the principal Booksellers in the United Kingdom.

Co. Cockspur-street, and the principal Booksellers in the United Kingdom.

SPANISH GRAMMAR.

Just published, by Samuel Bagster, No. 15, Paternoster-row,

A SPANISH GRAMMAR; by the Rev. FREDERICK NOLAN;

A price 2s, 6d. Where may be had, by the same Author, the Latin, Greek, Hebrew, Chaidee, Syriack, French, Italian, and German Grammars, 2s. 6d.
each; forming a POLYGLOTT GRAMMAR, in which the genius o the principal Ancient and Modern Languages is explained upon an uniform plan, and, by a new and simple principle of Analysis, applied to the imprevements of the latest and most approved Grammarians.

This day is mublished points for the state of the latest and most approved Grammarians.

This day is published, price Ia. 6d.

A SERMON, in which are considered some of the Principal Objections to Communion with the Established Church. Preached on September 23d, 1821; being, the Lord's Day immediately subsequent to the Opening of a New and Enlarged INDEPENDENT CHAPEL, at Ashford, in Kent. By the REV. JOHN NANCE, D.D. Published by request.

Lendon: Printed for F. C. and J. Rivingtos, No. 62, St. Paul's Churchyard, and No. 3, Waterloo-place. Pall Mail: sold also, by J. Elilott. Ashford.

Lendon: Printed for F. C. and J. Rivingtos, No. 62, St. Pasis Churchyard, and No. 3, Waterloo-place. Pall Mali: sold also, by J. Eillott. Ashford.

THE KIT-CAT CLUB.

Just published, in 1 large vol. super-royal 4to. with Plates, price 4l. 4a. boards.

THE MEMOIRS of the CELEBRATED PERSONS composing the KIT-CAT CLUB: with a Prefatory Account of the Origin of the Association: illustrated with 48 Portraits from the Original Paintings by Sir GODFREY KNEILER.

"The Kit-Cat Club, generally mentioned as a set of wits, were, in reality, the patriots that saved Britain.—Horace Walpole.

London: Printed for iturs, Robinson, and Co. 90, Cheapside.

By This work, besides an introductury Memoir of the Association itself, eoutains Biographical Notices of the forty-eight Members of the Kit-Cat Club, viz:—The Dukes of Somerset, Richmond, Grafton, Devonshire, Mariborough, Vollague, Kingston, Newcastle, Manchester, Dorset; Marquis of Wharion: Earls of Lincoin, Huntingdon, Dorset, Essex, Carli-le, Burlington, Berkeley, Scarborough, Sodolphin, Halifax, Stanbope, Wilmington, Carberry; Viscount Cohham: Lerds Mohun, Cornwallis, Somers, Stannow, Sir Robert Walpole, Godfrey Kneller, John Vanbrugh, Samuel Garth, Richard Steele; Messrs. John Tidcomb, William Petieney, (afterwards Eth. Richard Steele; Bessrs. John Tidcomb, William Beineny, John Dormer, Edmand Dunch, William Walsh, William Congreve, Charles Dartiquenave, Edmand Dunch, William Walsh, William Congreve, Charles Dartiquenave, Edmand Bunch, William Walsh, William Congreve, Charles Dartiquenave, Edmand Bunch, William Congreve, Charles Dartiquenave, Charles Dartiquenave, Charles Dartiquenave, Charles Dartiquenave, Charles Dartiquenave, Charles Dartiquenave, Char poses of Hiustration, for which (owing to the multiplicity of allusions to celebrated characters contained in its pages), it is peculiarly adapted, a copions index is added.

Just published, in 12mo. price 9s. hoards.

THE COOK'S ORACLE; containing Receipts for Plain Cookery on the most Economical Plan for private families: also, the Art of composing the most Economical Plan for private families: also, the Art of composing the most simple, and most highly finished Broths, Gravies, Soups, Sauces, Store Sauces, and Flavouring Essences: the Quantity of each Art Side is accurately stated by Weight and Measure; the whole being the result of Actual Experiments instituted in the Kitchen of a Physician. The Third Edition, which is almost entirely re-written.

Printed for A. Constable and Co. Ediuburgh; and Hurst, Robinson, and Co. Cheapside, Lordon.

"For practical receipts we recommend particularly and chiefly the Cosk's Oracle, familich, along with the plainest directions, there is more of philosophy, and, if we may so speak, of the literature of Gastronomic, than in any work we have seen. "Suppl. to Engy. Britan. article Food."

"Those of Gur readers who have been used to the imperfect and barbarous seemed ature of Mrs. Gians, and who have washed the recent progress of the science in this country, will be surprised at the rapid strides which have been used towards the improvement of the art of cookery; and we may venture to prophery; that the Cosk's tracle will be considered as the English institute of coskery, and may well carn for its author the proud title of Apicius Britunale us.— Edinburgh Rassiew, No. 89.

PHILLIPS ON FRUITS.

Just published, handsomely printed in Svo. with Three Plates, price 10s. 6d.

the Second Edition of DOMARIUM BRITANNICUM; an Historical and Botanical Account o Fruits known is Ornat Britain. By HBNRY PHILLIPS.

Pringed for T. and J. Allman, Prince a street, Hanover-square.

We have now approached the sides of our selections from Mr. Phillips's hook, and when we look hack on their variety, importanced, and interesting melange of intelligence and ancecote, we feel assured that they must have been acceptable to the public. But it would be doing gross injustice to the author not to add, that they are but meagre samples of that mass of curious matter which he has laid before as. His work, for extent of information, utility, and other good qualities which can be desired in a production of its kind, is really deserving of the warmest enlogy."—See Literary Guzette, Sept. 9, and four previous Numbers.

MALAY ANNALS; translated from the Malay Language.—
By the late Dr. JOHN LEYDEN. With an Introduction, by Sir
THOS. STAMFORD RAFFLES, F.R.S. &c. &c.
Printed for Eongman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, Leudon; of whom may be had.

2. The POETICAL REMAINS of the late Dr. JOHN LEYDEN, with femoirs of his Life.—By the Rev. JAMES MORTON. In Svo. price 12s.

PORTER'S TRAVELS IN GRORGIA, PERSIA. &c.

Just published, in 4'0. with numerous Engravings of Portraits, Costumes, Antiquities, &c. &c. vol. 1, price 41 14s. &b. beards,

TRAVELS in GEORGIA, PERSIA, ARMENIA, ANCIENT BABYLONIA, &c. &c. during the Years 1817, 1818, 1819, 1828.—By Sir ROBERT KER PORTER, &c. &c.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, Lendon, Vol. 2, which sompletes the work, will be published in the course of next mouth.

In a few days will be published in 1 vel. No. with Plates and Wood Cuts,
A COURSE of LECTURES on Drawing, Painting, and Ragraving, considered as Branches of Hogans Education,—By W. M.
CRAIG. Delivered in the Royal Institution on successive Seasons, and read subsequently at the Russell Institution.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London.

In a few days will be published, in Sva. Vol. I. of LECTURES on the ELEMENTS of BOTANY. Part I. con ECTURES on the ELEMENTS of BOTANY. Part I, containing the Anatomy and Physiology of those Organs on which the Growth and Preservation of the Plant depend: with Explanations of the Termino Goy counseled with these Parts. Hinstrated with Marginal Cuts and Copper-plates.—By ANTHONY TODD THOMSON, F.L.S. Member of the Royal Collège of Surgeons, &c. &c.

Princed for Lougman, Hurst, Rees, Orms, and Brown, London; of whom may be had, by the same Author,

2. The LONDON DISPENSATORY. In 1 large volume 8vo. (revised and altered according to the last edition of the London and Edinburgh Pharmacopoulas), price 18s. boards.

COXE'S SHREWSBURY CORRESPONDENCE.

CONE'S SHREWSBURY CORRESPONDENCE.

Early next Month will be published.

THE PRIVATE and CONFIDENTIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

of CHARLES TALBOT. Duke of Shrewsbury, principal Minister to King William, for a considerable Period of his Reign.—By the Rev. Archdeacon COXE.

This Collection comprishs his Epistolary Intercourse with the King, as well as with Lords Somers, Stunderland, Oxford, Halffax, and other distinguished Characters of the Time; and is einclosied with Historical and Biographical Notices. With a Portrait of the Duke of Shrewsbury, from an eriginal Painting, by Sir Peter Lety.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Recs, Orme, and Brown, London.

MISS AIKIN'S NEW WORK.
Shortly will be published, in 2 vo e. 8vo.
MEMOIRS of the COURT of KING JAMES the FIRST.
By LUCY AIKIN.
Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London; of who may be had.

2. MEMOIRS of the COURT of QUEEN RLIZABETH.—By LUCY AIKIN. In 2 vols. 8va. price il. 5s. boards, with a Portrait from the rare Print, by Crispin de Passe, the 4th e4.

3. ANNALS of the RRIGN of GRORGE the THIRD.—By JOHN AIKIN, M.D. In 2 vols. 8vo. A New Edition, brought down to the Period of His Majesty a Decease.

of His Majesty's Decease.

BURCHELL'S TRAYKLS IN AFRICA.

In the Press, and speedily will be published, in Quarta,

TRAYKLS in the INTRRIOR of SOUTHERN AFRICA.—

By WILLIAM J. BURCHELL, Esq. with an entirely new Map, and namerous other Engravings from the Author's own Drawings.

Mr. Burchell's Researches in the Interior of Africa, during five years, ever 4,500 miles of ground, besides numberless lateral excursions, have produced a multitule of discoveries and observations which have never yet been laid before the public.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London,

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orac, and Brown, London, DR. WARDLAW'S LECTULES.
Next week will be published, in 2 vols. 8vo.

LECTURES on the BOOK of ECCLESIASTES,—By RALPH WARDLAW, D.D. of Glasgow.
Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London; of whom may be had, by the same Author,
2. DISCOURSES on the Principal Points of the Sociatan Controversy.
In 8vo. the Third Edition, 12s.
3. UNITARIANISM INCAPABLE of VINDICATION; a Reply to the Rev. James Yate's Vindication of Unitarianism. In 8vo. 10s. 6d. boards.

Rev. James Yates's Vindication of Unitarianism. In 8vo. 10s. 6d. boards.

Next week will be published, in 1 vol. 4to. with Maps, Plates, and Vignettes, PRAVELS in PALESTINE, through the Countries of Bashan and Gliead, East of the River Jordan: including a Visit to the Cities of Geraza and Ganala, in the Decapolis.—By J. S. BUCKINGHAM, Esq.
Member of the Asiatic Society, Calentta; and of the Literary Societies of Madras and Buosbay.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London.
On Monday, the 29th inst. will be published, in three thick vols. 8vo. with Plates.

BIBLIOGRAPHIA SACRA; or, nn Introduction to the Literary and Ecclesiastics; titistory of the Sacred Scriptures, and the Translations of them into different Languages.—By the Res. JAMES TOWNLEY, Author of Biblical Ameedates.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London.

On Monday, the 29th inst. will be published, in 3 vols. 12mo.

On Menday, the 29th inst. will be published, in 3 vols. 12ma.

THE HALL Of HELLINGSLEY, a TALE.—By Sir S. E.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London

Next week will be published, in I vol. 8vo. with Maps and Plates,

A VOYAGE to AFRICA, including a particular Narrative of an Embassy to one of the Interior Kingdoms, in the year 1830.—By WILLIAM HUTTON, late Acting Consul for Ashantee, and an Officer in the African Company's Service.

Prin ed f. r Longman, Hurat, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London.

In a few days will be published, in 4 vols. 8vo.

THE SPEECHES of the law Right Hon. HENRY GRATTAN.
Edited by his Son, MENRY GRATTAN. Esq.
Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London; of whom

may be had,
The SPEECHES of the Right Hom. EDMUND BURKE, in the House of Consums and in Westminder Hall. Suck-yels. 8vo. Price 21. 16c.

in hoards.

3. The SPECHES of the Right Hon. CHARLES JAMES FOX, in the House of Commons. In 6 vols. Src. (with an introduction by the Right Hon. Lord Ersking) price 41, 4s. beards.

4. SPESCHES of the Right Hon. WILLIAM PITT. In 3 vols. Sec. 11 11 54 beards. 11, 11s. 6d, beards.
5. SPEECHES of the Right Bon. WILLIAM WYNDHAW; in 3 vols.
8vo. 11, 16s, boards.

GUY'S ASTRONOMY FOR SCHOOLS.

Just published, illustrated by 18 beautiful Plates, price only 5s. neatly bound, the Second Edition of PLEMENTS of ASTRONOMY, familiarly explaining the general Physics of the Heavally Redian Phenomena of the Heavenly Bodies, and the Theory of the Tides; to which is subjoined a complete Set of Questions for Examination, for the use of Private Students as well as Public Seminaries. Intended as a Companion to the "School Geography" of the same Author. By JOSEPH GUY, formerly Professor of Geography, at the Royal Military College, Great Manlow. London: Printed for Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, Paternoster-row. By whom also are published the following popular School Books of the same Author, vir.—

2. The SCHOOL GEOGRAPHY, with seven Maps, Seventh Edition, prise 3s. bound in red.

3. The POCKET CYCLOPÆDIA; or, Miscellany of Useful Knowledge, Eighth Edition, 12me, price 8s. bound.
4. NEW BRITISH READER, with 17 Wood Cuts, Third Edition, rice 3s. 6d. bound.

5. SCHOOL CYPHERING BOOK for Beginners, on fine Writing Paper,

5. SCHOOL CYPHERING BOOK for Beginners, on fine Writing Paper,
4to. New Edition, price 3s 6d.
7. NEW BRITISH PRIMER, with numerous Cuts, price 6d.
7. NEW BRITISH PRIMER, with numerous Cuts, price 6d.
9. CHART of GENERAL HISTORY, Ancient and Modern, price 7s.
roloured; on cauvas and rollers, 10s. 6d. and varnished, 1ds.
10. A GEOURAPHICAL KEY to the Problems and Questions in Quy's Geography, price 1s. 6d. sewed.—Alve by Mr. JOSEPH GLY, Jun.:
11. The KNGLISH SCHOOL GRAMMAR, price 1s. 6d. beand.
12. The NEW LATIN PRIMER, price 2s. bound.
13. NEW EXERCISES in ORTHOGRAPHY, price 1s. bound.

WHIST RENDERED FAMILIAR, by a new and easy Introtroducti n to the Game; declared from the best Authorities.—By J. G. troducti n to the Game; deduced from the best Authorities.—By J. G. POHLMAN.

Lendon: Printed for Baldwin, Cradeck; and Joy; by whom are also London: Printed for Baldwin, Cradock; and Joy; by whom are also published,

2. A PRACTICAL TREATISE on the GAME of DRAUGHTS. Containing Moves of Games Drawn, or, equally well played, &c. and Tabular Representations of the Critical Situations: to which are prefixed, Ruler, Principles, and Instructions; by the same Author, 18mo, price is. 6d.

3. CHENG RENDERED FAMILIAR by Tabular Demonstrations of the various Positions and Movements of the Game as described in the Analytical Treatise by Phillidor, &c. &c.; by the same Author; with an elegant Prontiplece, royal 8vo, price il. is. boards.

4. The BACKGAMMON TEACHER, a Treatise new and original throughout, in which the sure means of attaining superiority at that Game, are elearly pointed out.—By W. GREEN. 18mo, price is. 6d.

Published by Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, Paternester-row, INTS for CONDUCTING SUNDAY SCHOOLS: useful also for Day Schools, and Families.

Published by Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, Paternaster-row, HINTS for CONDUCTING SUNDAY SCHOOLS: useful also for Day Schools, and Families.
This Work has been cumpiled by the Committee of the Sanday SchoolSociety for Ireland, and the Second Edition is now to be had of the Booksellers. See price 2s. 6d.
The above Work has been thus noticed by the British Review, No. 35, for September, 1921:—
"We had thought to have said nothing more for a long time to come, having already said so much, on the exhausted subject of National Education; but the little treatise on which we have been commenting, shaving accidentally fallon into our hands, we found its contents too interesting and valuable, to feel ourselves at liberty to withhold such means as we may possess of seconding its pure and laudable designs. Who has written it we know not; but as we presume it speaks the sense of a very large destription of respectable persons in Dublin, we cannot help congratuisting the lish nation on the possession of such a fund of excellent sense, on a subject far the most interesting that can at present engage its attention, in an operative, busy, and efficient state. We feel that we can safely say, that the business of Educarion is well understood in Ireland—atleast as well as in our own country; and we trust to the energies of that intelligent people, to follow out so good a leginning to its great and infallible results. While in this country we feebly struggle with the corrupters of the rising generation, and faction pursues its ends by a course that leads to the aushilation of what it contends for: while here, among the patrons of education, are found those who so little know what education should be, that when the people emb-dy, themselves in their own defence against the pollutions of the press, they are among the foremost to oppose the design; while here, with the domes and turrets of our prosperity glittering in the sun-beams, binaplenur and section traverse our streets, and threaten the basis of our security, Ireland

LAST NIGHT'S GAZETTE

OFFICE OF ORDNANCE, Oct. 13, 1821.

OFFICE OF ORDNANCB, Oct. 13, 1821.

Royal Reg. of Artillery.—Sec. Lieut. H. Mathiaa, from half-pay, to be Sec. Lieut., vice Jellis, resigned, July 1, 1631.—Capt. G. Cobbe, from half-pay, to be Capt., vice Holcroft, retired on half-pay, 24th July.—First Lieut. T. A. Lethbridge, from half-pay, to be First Lieut., vice Boghurst, retired on half-pay, Aug. 1.—Sec. Lieut. J. Wynne, from half-pay, to be Sec. Lieut, vice Homfray, deceased, July 2.—Gent. Cadet J. Deschamps to be Sec. Lieut, Aug. 1.—Lieut.-Gen. and Col. Sir E. Howarth, K.C.B. to be Col. Comm.—Brevet Col. and Lieut.-Col. E. Pritchard to be Col.—Brevet Lieut.-Col. and Major. Col. and Lieut.-Col. E. Pritchard to be Col.—Brevet Lieut.-Col. and Major J. W. Tobin to be Lieut.-Col.—Brevet Major and Capt. J. Brome to be Major.—First Lieut. G. Durnford to be Sec. Capt.—Sec. Lieut. G. Elliett to be First Lieut.—Capt. F. Gordon. from half-pay, to be Capt.—Sec. Lieut. C. J. Welbh, from half-pay, to be Sec. Lieut., Aug. 6—First Lieut. J. Semerville, from half-pay, to be First Lieut. Vice Earle, retired on half-pay, 10th Aug.—Sec. Capt. E. R. Chapter, from half-pay to le San Capt vice Polartane retired Capt. F. R. Chesney, from half-pay, to Le See. Capt. vice Robe a retired on half-pay.—See. Lieut. D. Warren, from half-pay, to be Sec. Lieut., vice C. P. Jones, retired on half-pay, Oct. 18.

Corps of Royal Engineers—Fiftt Lieut. G. C. D. Lewis, from the half-pay, to be First Flant.—See Lieut. P. Bandalah as he Blant Lieut.

to be First Lient .- See. Lieut. F. Randolph, to be First Lient .- Sec. Lient, W. Trevelyan, from the half-pay, to be S R. S. Hastler, from the half-pay to be Capt.—First Lieut. J. C. Victor, to be Sec. Capt.—First Lieut. T. H. Blackiston, from the half-pay, to be First Lieut.—Sec. Lieut. J. P. Kennedy, to be ditto.—Sec. Lieut. G. W. Dixon, from the half-pay, to be Sec. Lieut. 10th June. - Brevet Maj. T. Moudy, faon the half-pay, to be Capt .- First Lieut C. Grierson to be Sec. Capt .- First Lieut. C. H. Beague, from the haif-pay, to be First Lieut. -Sec. Lieut. J. I. Hope, to be ditto .- Sec. Lieut. T. A. Larcom, from the balf-pay, to be Sec-Lieut.-Ist July.

Commission in the Oxfordshire Regular Militia.—C. O. Bowles, Esq. to Le Lieut.-Bol., vice Wall, resigned.

BANKRUPTCIES SUPERSEDED.

GOODWIN, J. Bristol, coal-merchant, FIRMSTONE, J. P. and FIRMSTONE, W. High fields, StaJord, troj of coal-masters. GLEAVE, S. Warrington, shopkeeper.

BANKRUPTS: STREI, W. Charlotte-treet, Florey-aquare, baket. SURREY, J. aud.BURREY, J. Mark-lane, meelmes. in at which is

TUREDAY'S GAZETTA

TWHITEHALD, OCTAG. "A A dispatch has the 'midding been resulted by Viscobiat Sidmouth from the Marquis of Loudon's respirated Hannver, October 9, and stating that the King serived at that city on the apprecading day, at three p. m., in good health; and had been respired by his Hannverian subjects, on His Majesty's approach to the trapital and throughout the journey, with the utmost demonstrations of conductive humans. joy and attachment.
PARTNERSHIPS DISSOLVED.

Rand G. Dearden, Roshdale, cera-daslers.—Brough and Raddelsy, Leek. ilk-manufachirers.—Adams and Sutton, Sudbury, brewers.—W. and D. Sowirds and Muschamp, Bregaley, common brewers.—R. and R. Higghs. Ballette, Markett — 20 Mer. Land Union, Uninatiorough, Trommonigers. Searle, Strian, and Gill, Horrabridge, yaru-manufacturers.—R. and T. En-twels. Holland, and Greenhalgh, Boltan, (no trade)—J. and M. Bristow, Rat-Illichighway, engine manufacturers.—Staw, Wadayoth, and Roth-well, Hangingwald, Volkshire, worked-machine-makers.—G. and W. White, Edmonton, linen-despers.—Betters and Armstrong, Spalding, grocers.— Fillingham and Kiming, Oxford-street, linen-drapers.—Temple and Wil-hamson, Keswick, woollen-manufacturers.—Bishop, Score, and Hollingbery, Tokenhouse-yardattorsee.

BANKRUPTCY ENLARGED.
TAYLOR, J. New Cut, Lambeth, ironmosper.
BANKRUPTCY SUPERSEDED.
ORLFFITHS, G. Grantham, timber-merchant. BANKRUPTS.

BUTT, T. Tewkesbury, miller, GARDNER, B. Leigh, farmer, HORROCKS, W. Liverpool, corn-dealer, INMAN, K. J. Blackman-street, brazier, WALKER, F. Ripon, money-scrivener. DIVIDENDS

DIVIDENDS.

Nov. 6, J. Boyes, Jun. Wansford, Yorkshire, sarpet-manufacturer.—Nov. 6, E. Paine, Jun. Lawrence-Pountney-hill, merchant.—Nov. 10, S. Snews, Albemarks-street, Piccasility, dreas-maker.—Nov. 10, H. Harris, Chippen-Beld-wood-mill, grocer.—Nov. 17, B. and J. Troughton, Wood-street, silkmen.—Nov. 10, W. Nedby, Lamb's-Conduit street, upholsterer.—Nov. 10, M. Jones, London-road, upholder.—Nov. 6, E. Harsant, Wapping, carpestel.—Nov. 10, C. Besaman, Bishopogaies-street, finen draper, Nov. 10, T. Heimes, Long-acre, comch-maker.—Nov. 13, P. Paint, Honford, butchen.—Nov. 15, B. W. Fox and W. P. Smith, Plymouth, merchants.—Nov. 7, R. Howard, Bitckport, manufacturer.

CHRTIFICATES—Nov. 6,

J. Worsley, Liverpool, wine-merchant.—H. Wilson, jun. Nofthgham lace-manniacturer.—T. Johnson, jun. Wakefield, merchant.—J. Bickinson, Manchester, dealer.—V. Hammond, Ludlow, wine-merchant.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

Paris, Oct. 13.— The King has just raised to the Peerage, Baron Pasquier, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Member of the Chumber of Deputies.

The progress of the yellow fever in Spain demonstrates the necessity of the measures prescribed in the recent Royal Ordonnance. The contagion existed on board three vessels in Masseilles roads; from the 22d to the 25th ult. four more vessels were declared infected; since which no other ship has caught the infection. The total number of victims, up to the 6th instant, was six, and at that date, there were only four in the Lazaretto, two of whom were cases of onlinary aliments. Seven days ago, a Danish ship was stranded in the night, about two leagues from Marseilles. Two of her crew died of the fever on the passage. The ship was burnt without delay, and the man conveyed to the Lazaretto.

The Duke of Suxe-Coburg has given a Constitution to his State. The duty of drawing it up was imposed on a Comenission, which finished its labours about the beginning of August. The Duke signed it on the 8th of the same month. It is divided into ten characteristics. date, there were only four in the Lazaretto, two of whom were e algued it on the 8th of the same month. It is divided into ten chapters, and is so voluminous, that if drawn out in large characters, it would cover a considerable portion of the Duchy.

Oct. 15.—A private letter from Marseilles, dated the 7th instant, annousces, that on the previous evening, two Spanish ships put into that port through stress of weather. The crew, on their knees, im-plored to be admitted in the Luzaretto; but this was refused them. As she did not put to sea again, as ordered, the authorifies threatened to sink ber, and mortars were ranged for that purpose; on seeing this they setsail in despair. She was from Malagar.

It is affirmed, that the Emperor of Russiu has promised General Hulot, the brother of the recently deceased widow of Marshal Moreau, that the pension of 60,000 roubles granted by him during her shall be continued to Mademoiselle Moreau, her surviving daughter.

The Cardinal Archbishop of Paris is in a state which excites the most alarming disquietude.

Some disturbance took place at Lyons, on the 9th instant, on the occasion of about 200 of the citizens giving a dinner to M. de Cor-

Letters from Perpignan, dated the 6th instant, state, that advices received there from Burcelona, since the 29th uit, are of the most grievous character. That ill-fated town is a prey to the most appalling scourges of contagion and famine. The children, whose mothers have fallen victims to the deadly contagion, are suckled by

It is said in a Vicana article of the 5th instant, that Russia h demanded guarantees from the Ottoman Porte, to ensure the main-tainance of the civil and religious rights of the Greeks, and that in consequence the English and Austrian Ministers had proposed to the Turkish Government, that all the fortresses in the Peloponnesus, with the exception of Tripolizza, and also that of Novarino Duranzo, in Albania; Salonichi, in Macedonia; and Widdin and Belgrade should be occupied by mixed garrisons, consisting of Russian, Austrian, and English troops. It is added, that the reception given by the Ports to these propositions was not known. The same report, in substance, is given under the head of Augsburg.

Banlin, Oct. 3.—It is now decided that the King of England will make a visit to our Sovereign. Already preparations have re-commenced in the Palace of Potsdam, in which His Britannic Majesty will (it is expected) reside six days. The apartments in the Boyal Castle of William I. in this capital, are also being fitted up for that Monarch's accommodation.

Lisbon, SEPT. 29.—The Charge d'Affairer of his Britannic Majesty has quitted this capital, and as some people say, without his passports. The reason of this abrupt departure is said to be the determination of the Cortes to enforce the reform of the tariff of our customs, pursuant to the 25th article of the treaty of 1810. By this alteration, and the increase of 15 per cent. the consequence of it, all British merchandize will in future pay-customs to the amount of 60 per cent. Letters recei ed from Barcelona, dated the 3d inst. mention, that the fever rages with such fury that they bury 250 persons per day and that many of the villages in the neighbourhood are entirely de-populated. From the 23d to the 25th ult. inclusive, died, in Barcepopulated. From the 23d to the 25th uit, inclusive, died, in Barcelone, 199—Barcelonetts, 146—Seminary, 44—Total, 389. This includes those who died in the city, and in Barcelonetta, in four riccioes tace who died in the city, and in Barcelouetta, in four days, of all kinds of diseases; but the faculty estimate that three-fourths are of the yellow fever. The number of patients now in the city, Barcelouetta, the Semisary, and the home of the Vice-Queen, is 431, being an increase of 31 in one day. The number of deaths having been 76, cured and removed 13, and new cases, 120.

By accounts from Mequinenza, of the 24th, 25th, and 26th, the contagion seems to be spreading there also, but not in so great a degree.

TORTOSA.—This unhappy town, which is filled with death in all its parts, and its visinity, especially Las Roquela, where the contagion commits dreadful ravages, is worthy of the greatest compassion; and an hospital of convalescence is confided to the Sisters of Charity of San Vincente, Paul, and Young Eleves.

MADRID, ERT. 28 .- Opening of the Extraordinary Cortes. ..

rend, in which he A notice from the Secretary and the property of the time to open the first t the Hithof October us the Cortes my motives for believing it advisable to call an Extraordinary Meeting of the Cortes, nothing has so much engaged my attention as the desire to see them assembled. I now see them with the greatest satisfaction, and give myself wholly up to the pleasing and just hope of the good which the country will derive from their labours. The subjects which I have prepared to lay before the Cortes for their country which I have prepared to lay before the Cortes for their country which I have prepared to lay before the Cortes for their country and are mostly such, the regulation of which is necessary for the more speedy consolidation of the Constitutional System, such as the division of the territory, and the best means of pixeling according to it, the Political Government, the Cortes, the Military Ordinances, the Plant of Decree of the the best means of pincing according to it, the Political Government, the Cortes, the Military Ordinances, the Plan of Decree of the Organisation of the Naval Force, and the Decree for the Organisation of the Active Military. Ordinances, the Plan of Decree of the Organisation of the Active Military Processing the Decree for the Organisation of the Active Military Processing to the Organisation of the Mayal Force, and the Decree for the Organisation of the Military wife you to place every thing in consonance with the International law of the State, leaving the Administration research and the International Active Military and which it often meets with for what of this necessary harmony, and which the Government with the Constitution, have a great influence on the general prosperity, such as the measures to be adopted to restore the tranquillity, and to prospet the welfare of the Americas, the examination and reform of the duties of customs, the means necessary to prevent the serious loss which the nation sustains by the currency of false or defective foreign coin, & the project of a Decree on the Charitable Constitutions; though all the subjects that are going to be discussed by the Cortes are of so much importance, the fact itself, of their being assembled to discuss them, is still more so. This new proof and guarantee of the union which prevails between the chief powers of the State must convince all the enemies of our Institutions their efforts to subvert them will be vain.—I shall take Institutions their efforts to subvert them will be vain.—I shall take advantage of the period in which the Cortes will continue assembled, to give orders to propose any measure or project which may appear to my Government necessary and urgent, as well as to ask their co-operation, when circumstances may require. The field, Gentlemen, is most extensive-which is open to your seal and to your takents; and those qualities which so greatly distinguish you, combined with the prodence and circumspection which have marked all your deliberations, ensure to the country the completion of those advantages which it should own to you.—I have the confidence that you will gain is both respects the admiration of the nation and ers, entitling yourselves more and more to the particular concluded his speech, the President made a suitable reply, even ph-menting His Majesty for having called this extraordinary meeting of the Curton—A. Committee was then appointed, to draw up an Answer to His Mojesty's Speech; and the Assembly adjourned till the following day,

SEPT. 30.—The Cories are chiefly engaged in matters of form wach as appointing the sersual Committees, dec.—In the Sitting of to-day the principal subject of discussion has been the plan for the new division of the Spanish testicity, which it appears will be a t of time and difficulty.

Extract of a letter from Modrit, dated Oct. 1;—"We are quite free from the fever here as yet; but it is reging dreadfully in Catalonia, and is reposted to have speed to Saragossa. There have been several heavy failures of late in Calls?"

Oct. 4.—It is said that an eatire regiment has conspired against be Constitution. The Culonel, and several superior officers of his regiment, have been transferred from Madrid to Herensia, and there confined in dangeons. It was this Colonal who furnished the de-tackment to recort the portrait of Riego, in procession on the 18th ultimo.

Tranquility prevails at Smyrna and Constantinople at the date of the last navices—from the former place to the 2d, and from the latter to the 19th ult. They same that the visit of the English Admiral, Sir Graham Moore, to Smyrna, had no other object than to ascertain the actual situation of the port, and he did not even communicate with the shore.

Odkssa, Sept. 18.—Baron Strogonoff, who received a very flat r from the Emperor Alexander, with an invitation to pro overing irries nous the name coefficients, with an invitation to pro-oued to St. Petersburgh, left as a flow days ago. The Dragomans, and individuals attached to the legation, remain here.

We have received accounts from Constantinople to the 14th:

Perfect tranquility prevailed. The Turkish State continued to buy up corn. About 200 ships had sailed from the Mediterranean. buy up corn. About 260 ships had sailed from the We do not doubt here of the continuance of peace.

NEW YORK, SEPT. 14 .- On Sunday afternoon last, about six 'clock, a most destructive tornardo was experienced in Northfield, Warwick, and Orange, in the county of Franklin, (Mass.) It first struck and demolished a house and harm in Northfield, and thence passed to the easterly part of that town, and destroyed the house of C. Holton, seriously injuring him. From Northfield it passed into C. Holton, seriously injuring him. From Northfield it passed into Warwick, completely demolishing, in its course, the house of Mr. Brown, a daughter of whom, about 14 years of age, perished inits rulns; and the barn and out-buildings of a Mr. Ball. At a little distance cest of Mr. Ball's, in Orange, a house, two barns, and a blacksmith's shop, all belonging to Mr. Smith, fell-prostrate before the blast. The family, consisting of eleven individuals, escaped death by retreating to the cellar; all, save one, a young woman, with a part of Chilerent whom the country of the cellar. by the name of Stearns, who was crushed to death by the fulling timber. Several others were, however, so ecriously injured that their lives are despaired of. So sesistless was the force of the tornado, that the stoutest trees were uprooted, stone fences removed, immense rocks torn from their bads, and even the surface of the earth itself broken up, as if with the ploughshare of destruction.

HEALTH OF OUR CITTES. -- Boston, New York, and Philadelphia, according to accounts, have enjoyed an usual degree of health. We believe not a solitary case of malignant fever has been reported in either of these cities. In Baltimore cases of m int fever con tinue to be reported; on the 5th inst. four deaths occurred. In Norfolk, on the 6th inst. there were four deaths; since the storm it has diminished. Savannah papers up to the 2d inst. continued to speak of their city as enjoying a degree of health unexampled at this season. New Orleans, at the date of the last accounts, continued entirely free.

THE KING.

On Shurday so'nnight, His Majesty first entered his Hanoverian dominions, and in the evening he reached Osnaburg; on Sunday evening the Royal Cavalonie halted at Nieuburg, and on Monday it reached this city. Guards of Honour were stationed on the way and triumphal arches were erected at each place where even slight hope of His Majesty's coming existed. Besides the couch in which His Majesty travelled, accompanied by the Marquis of Conyagham and Lord F. Conyagham, there were two carriages drawn by six horses each, and two others, drawn by four horses each, containing the Royal attendants. The Marquis of Londonderry and Sir B. Bloomfield came before His Majosty, or Londonderry and Sir B. Bloomfield came before His Majesty, procession, and the Guard of Honour, composed of citisens or honor and reached Hanover on Saturday evening.—Within about two back, halted in the streets; soon after, the citizens defiled before the Ruglish miles from Hanever is a village, called Side nts were stationed in order to receive His M ibree regim the right of those troops the Governor George all majors, to Duka of Cambridge, and the Duke, of Cambridge, and the Duke, of Cambridge, and the Duke, of Cambridge, accompanied by all the Staff Officers in Limover, had talken the places, in one to await the arrival of their Rayal Brothers, a Biggs, His Major approached the village, the Duke of Cambridge and rapidly approached to the capital of the Continental dominious his Royal Highness, returned to the troop.

Lis Continental dominious his Royal Highness, returned to the troop. The there regiments were then regulated in such a maner that the King's carriage pussed along the line of soldiers, who were drawn up on the chanses, or highway, The numbers of the Royal carriage was known by the toud acclamations of the solders, where thrice repeated as the carriage appeared to aght of solders, tallen. Their Royal Highnesses, the Gorgraph Linguistics and to Duke of Cumberland, rode one on each side of the kings carriage. which was followed by the Staff Officers.—The melcone of he soldiers was such as could not but be acceptable to the King, but when the line of soldiers ceased, the inhabitants of Hanover has oame forward in crowls to ball their first King who haden visited Hunover from Great Britain. More than two hundred sat fifty carriages there met His Majesty, and it must have been high gratifying to him to perceive the crowds who hailed his appro In His Mujesty the people beheld their deliverer from the mavey, a foreign yoke—they saw in him the descendant of their former renowned princes and warriors, and in his Royal person they also Their gractings were sincere and affectionate, and they were turned with that ease and grace which has obtained for His Liesty the sppellation of the first gentleman in Europe. Thousand, the has obtained for His Liesty the sppellation of the first gentleman in Europe. Thousand of Hanorerians through a round in order to catch a glimps of the Sovereign, and warmly expressed their feelings of standard respect.—The Royal carriage was met on its passesses the spect. respect. The Royal carriage was met on its measurement of the other regiments with colours flying and bands paying its appreach to Merrenbauses, about these explosis, the thinder of twenty-one cannons announced to the serrounding country the joyal tidings of His Majesty's arrival, and they were heard for miles round. Hefore the castle of Hertenhausen, now the Boyal False, the Royal Guard of Light Industry were drawn up in form of a concent, and they received the first King of Hanover who had our visited Hanover with military honours and sincere gravitation. After slighting from his carriage, His Majesty was received on a centrance into his Palace by the Duchesses of Cambridge and Camberland, and hand in band with their Royal Highnesses, one of berland, and hand in hand with their Royal Highnesses, one deach side, His Majesty appeared on the balcony of the Palace, as euch side, His Majesty appeared on the balcony of the Paine, and was greeted by the crowd with renewed acclamations.—During the evening the Marquis of Londonderry, Count Munster, and the various Ministers of Hanover were presented, and paid their respects to His Majesty. His Majesty spent the day of his arnul in private with his brothers. On the 9th, his Jungerial Highness the Archduke Ferdinand was presented to His Majesty, and likewise Prince Prederick of Hesse, and the Prince of Tournat Tais. The King dined in private with his brothers, and the above tioned Princes, and the Princes of Brunswick, who were pres to His Majesty on his arrival. At table, Prince George, hon of the Duke of Cumberians, and Prince George, son of the Duke of Cumberians, and Prince George, son of the Duke of Cambridge, were presented to the King by their parents. On the 100, hadere His Majesty's solomn entry, the Officers of the Royal House hold, and the General and Superior Officers, were presented. in the evening, when the King drove through the Chy to view the illuminations, the Duchesses of Cumberland and Combridge, and the Archduke Ferdinand, were in the carriage with His Majesty. On the 11th, after the Archduke Ferdinand and the Massissal Londonderry had had an audience, the following presentations were made to His Majesty in the Audience Chamber, by the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Count Munster, hereditary Land, Marshal of the Kingdom, viz.;—Count Grote, the Prussian Ambassados; General Canicof, the Russian; Baren Just, the Senon; Marquis de Montter, the Franch; Count Wurzengerode, the Wustemberg; Count Spiegel, the Austrian; Resention, the Danish; and Count Papenheim, the Bavarrian; also, the Deputies of the Hansestic Citis; Syndie Gulschow, from Jashpeck; Syndie Von Sienen, from Lind illuminations, the Duchesses of Cumberland and Ca Syndie Gulschow, from Anhock; Syndie Von Sienes, from Hen-burg; Burgomuster Von Groning, from Breunen; Count Selich, from the Duke of Saze-Gothu; President Mattania, Deputy from the Duke of Oldenburg. After the Royal Princes, the Princes of Breewick, and Prince Frederick of Hesse and been edmittee, and the light Chamberlain and Chamberlains on duty, had entered, the Manusi of Londonderry presented all the English, and the Ambassadors, their suites, and the subjects of their respective Sownerigns. The light Chamberlain then presented his Highness Prince Gustavus of Mechanica and his attendant Gun. Pinter and all the Civil Officer present burg and his attendant, Gen. Pints, and all the Civil Officers press; and after them his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, all the Staff Officers of each regiment, and the Officers of the two Carely and infantry Regiments of the Guard. The number of passent-tions was so great, that the Drawing-room insted from one other till four, during all which time his Majesty remained standing, most graciously saluting, to every one. At eight in the evening, the ladice were received, who were presented singly to the King by the Countess of Munster. The King kissed each lady on the fore head, and spoke in the most condescending manner. His Majest, accompanied by the Duchesses of Cumberland and Cambridge, walked several times through the rooms, while the massic was playing, conversed with several of the persons present, and retired to his apartments at half past ten o'clock.

On Wednesday se'might, the inhabitants of Hanover had be happiness of seeing their beloved Sovereign make his soloma and —His Majesty mounted his horse at Herrenhauses, as half-gen one o'clock. The procession proceeded through the avenue of He-renhausen, at the cutrance of which His Majesty allowed the Cuy Guard, on horseback, to escort him. In the avenue, the Regiment of Cavalry were drawn up on each side all the way to the city. The side avenues were crowded with spectatom, who followed be procession with increasant acclamations and cries of "God savable King," in which the troops joined.—At the and of the areas a trumphal arch was erected, His Majesty was welcomed zens of the suburbs, in state dresses, and young indies, who strengt flowers before him.—At the gate the Chail Authorities and the Clergy, complimented His Majesty. A salute of 101 guss anounced the entrance of His Majesty within the scale of his fairful German capital. His Majesty passed through a double flow of the state of the strength of the state of artillery to the triumphal arch, where some young hades presented a poom, which His Majesty most graciously received.—Accepanied by the ringing of all the bells, by the thursder of the canon, and, what must be certainly the most agreeable to His Majety. the incessant rejoicings of the multitudes that through the speed, the Royal procession advanced very slowly, so that eregistry could see their beloved Monarch, who, with an affability that cited feelings of gratitude and delight in all, saluted on all selections of the could be seen as the country of the he rode along. After the detachment of the Research that opened the procession, followed nine State carriage. by six horses. Immediately before the King rode his Royal Raness the Duke of Cumberland; on the King state that of Cambridge, and on his left the Archduka Kerdinand. of the order of the Guelphs. The splendid principles of the order of the Guelphs. The splendid principles is the paired by a numerous suite of cavalry, passed by the paired of the discess, and then of the military, through several against to the paire of the Duke of Cambridge, where His Majority, the Royal Lucy, and the King's immediate attendants, dismounted and entered. The procession, and the Guerl of Honour composed of editions on bone prince in military army; when the Majorty operand in the Princess at the balcony, and acknowledged, by repeatedly bowing, the joyful huzzas of the people. About four o'clock, the processor put resetf in motion to return to Herrenbansen. His minjesty rode in a state carriage, drawn by eight white flories, and, passing through several streets, left the city by the Cleve Gate to return to Herrenbrauseb. Abother salute of Artiflety announced His Majesty's Coparture. In the creating the city was firstly filluminated forms. parenties—in the evening the city was nicty intimused; trans-parenties while histriptions where displayed on all sides, wild there was not a single house inflittationated. "His Majorty, with the Prin-denses, and the Officers of his Court, came to the city and drove historical this streets to view the illuminations. The Duke of Cam-The Duke of Cambridge rode by the side of the King's carriage. Wherever His Majesty passed he was received with transports by the crowds, who continued to throng the streets till a late hour, indulging in the Maypiness of having their Sovereign amongst them.

Digitized by Google

The following extract of a letter from Osnabruck, gives some Mirtier interesting details of the reception His Majesty met with in his progress to the capital of his kingdom.

This progress to the capital of his kingdom.

This progress to the capital of his kingdom.

This progress to the capital of his kingdom.

and attachment to his Majesty. A triumphal arch has been erected on the spot when the boundary line is drawn, and the decorations, though composed of the most simple materials, do credit to the arch taste and ingernity of the parties who devised them. The arch is bastained by four posts, festooned with branches of palm, intermingled with the greenest foliage of the forest; and the whole is surmounted with the imperial crown, having the letters "G.R." Inscribed underneath, on a shield of azure blue. Similar arches are constructed at every village I have come through, and the people anneals anxious to rival each other in testifying their after. people appear auxious to rival each other in testifying their affec-tion to a Sovereign, whose name and family are connected with Their fondest associations. At Ginndorf, the first villings I came to after passing the frontier, I found the landlord of the finn, who is also the post-master, brushing a suit of antiquated uniform, in which he hatemed to appear before his Majesty. He said he would present his Royal Master with wine of a hundred and twenty years old, poured out in a gold cup, and expressed his earnest hope that his Majesty would condescend to accept the libation. His daughter, who attended in the room with some refreshments, on seeing ar English gentleman tender a sovereign in payment, immediately anatched it from his band, when she understood that it was strimped with the likeness of the King. Fixing her eyes upon it with a took existing delight, she contemplated it for a few moments, and then ter pressing it three or four times to her lips, declared she would the presing it three or four times to her lips, declared she would not part with it as long as she lived. Surprised at the emotion she berayed, the gentleman asked it she had never seen the coin before it mind she replied, that this was the first time she " saw the likeness of the good King of Hamover."

COURT OF COMMON COUNCIL.

rix Ga Thursday a Court of Common Council was held at Guildhall with: Witerman Garratt presented a report, signed by the Lord Edges-elect, Mr: Alderman Venables, and himself, relative to inwiting the King to size at Guildhalt on Lord Mayor's day. The seport stated the various interviews which they had with Lord Sidmouth on the subject, who, on the last occasion, informed them the Majory would be on the Continent on the day in question, and that his Majory desired the ceremony might not be delayed on

dir. Oldidin then proposed a resolution, expressive of the regret of the Corporation on account of his Majesty's unavoidable absence on the day; which was agreed to, and a copy of the resolutions disorbe burnsmitted to Lovi Side

A motion was arranged to the fine paids of the Alderman Garratt, to be excused serving the office of the first of the excused serving the office of the first of the excused serving the office of the motion, and since consented to excuse y closely by a first of the motion, and highly collected Alderman Garratt.

highly callegand Aleman Garrett, which was sheriff it was said we'll—be host inore valuable; was said we'll—be host inore valuable; which is the any fine could be.—The medical was carried than installed.

If the medical was remed than its light with the same amoluments at the predector or.

Mr. Examinate the predector or any accusion to the High Railief.

Mr. Paveliston occasion to put a question to the High Bailiff seep) as to his reasons for refusing to call a meeting in Southwark, to take into consideration the dismissal of Sir Robert Wilson from the army.

After some trifling discussion on the propriety of questioning the Balitu instanter, Mr. Alderman Browne moved an inquiry into the exemistances of the High Bailiff's conduct on that occasion, which

3-42 Report From the Committee to whom the Petition of Messrs *Beckwith Brander, Potts, and Ren, had been referred (praying for compensation for the losses they had sustained in consequence of the Spafields riots) was read; it stated that 11001, should be awardid those persons for their losses

***Some conversation arose on this Report being read, in the course

Alderman Browne agreed in the propriety of the Report, and whit certain that any error which the Chiof Magistrate on that day might have fallen into, was not intended.

Mr. Alderman Wood felt himself called upon to address the Halderman that he had com-

Court, by the allusion made to him. He denied that he had com-mitted any error, had he had a thousand constables he could not have guarded every shop in the city; the meeting took place at an carly hour. Watson came into the city before he (Ald. W.) was apprised of his coming—there were no constables at hand, and all the mischief was done in a few hours.

T. N. Williams attacked the conduct of Alderman Wood on day of the riots, and was of opinion the Alderman had not done that duty by sending out scouts to learn the temper of the people. Why were not the comtables ordered out till one o'clock? the po Some all that he knew was the "Mint it was sterilege to bring a red-coet into the city." When the "mob came into the city." said Mr. W., " I saw the constables runfing helter-skelter up and down, and round the Exchange, and the after them as if to get out of the danger, for which they had not the foresight to provide. essistance which the Mugistrate who spoke last gave to his fellow estizens was, to shift himself up in the Exchange; and all that I

Tr. Alderman Wood said, all these charges were unfounded. He "Mid stationed ten officers at Spafields. It was not true that the officers were not called out till one o'clock; he had called them out at eight o'clock to attend an execution, and they were not sepa-"nated will "the Wot was quelled; the scampering people, to whom "in. W: find afficient, were the riobers, and he (Mr. Ald. Wood) had taken one of them prisoner into the Royal Exchange." Dare he "M. William's) simil up and say, that he (Ald. Wood) was affaid to therefore say is, God protect us from such worthy Magistrates in will out of the Exchange.

Tr. Favell denied that Mr. Alderman Wood shut himself up in the "Richange, as tweeted, for he had sallied forth in pursuit of the "Hoters, and had left him (Mr. F.) in full command of the Exchange! Buring this conversation much warmth was expressed and inter-"raption given to the spenkers, and cries of order raised, but at length HE Report was agreed to.

The Liord Chief Instice and this day set Niel Pring at West minster. His Landship only wek-undefended o them of public interest.

INSOLVENT DEBTORS' COURT.

On Monday, Richard Pouiter was opposed for fraudilently making away with property. The insolvent adultted, that he had been possessed of various articles of chim, &c. &c. which he had sold for his support before he was committed to prison. At one time he had a horse and gig, which he represented as his own; but his statement now was, that it belonged to a person in the Rules, and entrusted to him to dispose of. He had been discharged about seven years ago, since which time he had been detained at the suit of the The debts on his schedule amounted to about 4,600L but he had not received value for more than one-sixth part of that amount. — Witnesses were examined, after which the Court said that he was not a proper person to be discharged forthwith, and remanded him for six months.

WESTMINSTER SESSIONS.

On Thursday, James M'Carthy, Richard Rowhottom, Thoma Harris, Wm. Hardy, John Davidson, and Wm. Jones, were charged with ristously assembling, on the 15th of June, in the vicinity of Tothill-street, Westminster, the Anniversary of the Battle of Waterloo, and endangering the lives of his Majority stubjects.—[It will he in the recollection of our renders, that the defendants were charged with murder (one man having unfortunately lost his life) by the verdict of the Coroner's Jury, and tried at the Old Balley, when the two first named defendants (in the present case) were Adolphus said, he had now only to move that the delegating by called to the bar, as he understood that no evidence would be offered against them, for the purpose of pleading to the indictional proving that notice had been served on the proceeding. The purpose by the purpose of the purpose o and proving that notice and been served on the procedurer.—Also prisoners having pleaded Not Guilty, and the service of the nofice having been proved.—Mr. Const (the Chatrana) addressed here on their conduct, and advised them in luture to profit by the lendy shewn them on the present occasion. They were then discharged.

POLICE.

Bow-STREET.—On Wednesday, several small boys, the eldest not more than nine years old, were brought up to put in ball to answer to an indictment for a riot! Sir R. Birnie took up the warmats and called the defendants before him seriating. The first man was William Grant, labourer, and the call was answered by a little red heired urchin about eight years old. This "labourer" was followed in succession by the remainder of the soys, most of whom were about the same ago, and descho, same June Storens, spinster, a child of the same age as the "labourer."

Sir R. Birnie-Why, in the name of all that is wonderful, what is the meaning of all this?-The officer explained the enuse of their is the meaning of all this?—The omerexpanses being brought there, and sold the pressentire was present.

Mrs. Euphemia Middleton, a lady apparently on the serge of 70,

Mrs. Euphemia Middleton, a lady apparently on the serge of 70, his administration of serious flows as wearn't have been the lady and t preschied hazani, a new tibegreat trapidity of nestanistion, and marmit of manner, reinted sundry hardships and a new marm which she had suffered from the defendants. Every day during the time that the Queen was lying dead, these youngsters, with others, to the amount of 700 or more, assembled about her house, called hier influence manner, and some had threatened to same her; while others swort she was a witch, and ought to be burnt.

Sir R. Birnie asked where Mrs. Middleton Myed? and she said in Brompton-row.

Sir Richard—And pray what is the meening of all this noting that you have so eloquently described?—That is the very thing I want

Sir Richard—But surely the farce of bringing up children like these to a police office to be bound over might have been avoided. Mrs. Middleton assured the Worthy Alderman that her life was in iger, and punish them she would, let the consequence be as it

Sir R. Birnio-But there is some cause for all this, is there not One Gentleman hinted that Mrs. Minketon kept suther an extenve assortment of cuts and other animals, for which she evinced a more than ordinary degree of fondness, and this served as a sort of standing joke amongst the neighbours.

The fither of one of the boys mail, it was but the other day that Mrs. Middleton gave out to the neighboars that she had secested orders from Level Liverpool, to went alighe inhebitants of Brompton to the devil, and government would pay the travelling augences!

Sir B. Birnie said, these children were brought up on Bench warrants, and he therefore could do nothing less than order them to give bail; had it been otherwise, he should have known how to not. "Here Officer," added the diagistrate, "take these december and approximate, and let those who have friends give bail, and those who have friends give bail, and those who have not, may be discharged on their own recognizance."

Willium Smith and Daniel Taylor, were charged at this office with stealing the whole contents of a carrier's v aggon on Epping med Watson, travelling from London to Lowe Porest. A carrier be theaton in Resex, with packages of verious kinds in his waggon, stopped on Saturday night at the White Lieu on Epping Forest, and put his waggon into the Inn-yard. He got up about half-past two on Sunday morning to resume his journey, when he found that his waggos had been plundered of all its contents. The borse-pared, after riding about until day-light, apprehended the prisoners with part of the stolen property in their possission. They were remanded, On Thursday, a decent looking middle-aged mark, stated, that some weeks ago he went to live with a Mr. and Mrs. K. at Bermpton you are helden, and happened to wention to his marker that he ton-row, as butler, and happened to mention to his master that he had a considerable sum of money in the hands of a person at a certain rate of interest; his master told him he could put him in a way of making much more of his money if he would place it in his hands; in the course of three or four days he got the money (2871.) from the person, and delivered it to his new master. In the interim several new articles of household furniture had been brought into the house, and about a work after the master had got the money he called the applicant into his chamber, and said, "Samuei, you know I have been getting furniture and other things lately, and although I can no cobliged to pay my hills immediately, it will be a great saving to me if I do; and I dare say you will have no objection to allow me the use of your money. Texpect a remittance of 2000! in a few days, and I will then place your money out for you in such a way as shall bring you at least eight per cent." The applicant cheerfully concented, but before the day mentioned for the arrival of the remittance, Mr. and Mrs. K. suddenly left the house, and had not since been heard of. The Magistrate said it was a wicked transaction, but he could not render the applicant any service, it being a more debt. His only remedy was by action against the man if be could find him. The unfortunate butler departed, seem-man it second and him. The unfortunate butter departed, seemingly much disappointed at the result of his application.

GUYDHALL,—Several persons have been apprehended for circulating butter several persons have been apprehended for circulating butter several persons on these counterfect covereigns is every counter; they are manufactured of gold of an inferior value, and are in appearance very new and bright. By particular attention to their weight, they may, however, easily to detected, even without the scales, by they are exceedingly light.

On Monday, Bowie Cotterell, the watchman of Aldermanhury, was charged with having sensuited Mrs. Chinappe. On Manustra the base of the watch house, that he chould let him self in when he came home in the morning. She met the defendant staggering about the home in the morning. She met the defendant staggering about the strate, and his inhit to him, "Why watchman, you are druck." He intractionally that her to the watch-home; which they rendered it, lift in his first to the watch home; which they rendered it, lift in his first charge to her hundred lift is wantan of the lower than had long intested his heat. Mr. Osborne, of course, sook the defendant into custody. The prisoner in this defendence, said he was subject to cramps in his feer; which consentes which the street. The Alderman said, it was quite implicating difficulties defendant, after being guilty of such conduct, could be allegated common a watchman. On referring to the Act of Parliament, it was found thin the could only be dismissed by the officers of the West, or by two Magistrates. He was ordered to find hill.

Union Hall, — Light Bread.— Whether 18 "Parliams a bloom the Union Hall.—Light Bread.—Routing of Thirling a histories Weston-street, Southwark, Dended Cally as information charging him with baving sold bread short of weight. In three quartern loaves, purchased at defendant's shop, a deficiency of 18 ounces was ascertained. One of the loaves was 'I' ounces deficient. He was fined 5s. per ounce.

ounces was ascertained. One of the loaves was II ounces deficient. He was fined 5s. per ounce.

An elderly woman, named Smith, was brought up on father a curious charge. An officer who took her into custody, stated, that it was her practice to go into a shop, and after remaining some time employed in looking over articles, to take up something or other, and say—"This will do me; now give ind my change." This address has frequently surprised the shopman, who know he will received, no money from her; but the moment be told her, that he had no money of hers, she has burst into tears, detailed the sum, the occasion, and the moment she had given it into his possession, and hoststed upon having her change with the utmost later the woman had walked out with money and goods. The inclusive regretted that he prosecutor appeared against so vite an impositor, and assured her, that if at any future period she should make her appearance before him upon such a charge, she should make her appearance before him upon such a charge, she should make her appearance before him upon such a charge, she should make her appearance before him upon such a charge, she should make her appearance before him upon such a charge, she should make her appearance before him upon such a charge, she should make the labous at Brixton for three months.

Thursday, James Welch, a private in the Markes, was charged with assaulthin will. White. On inquiring into the circumstances, if the more of tankers, of whom the complainant was one, purely because he is a soldler. The Magistrate dismissed the constabling him her an appear a pale.

then lodged a charge against Cook, a tunner, for stabbing him in the groin, a night of two before, while he was standing near a public-house. Cook was accordingly apprehended, and be denied the charge altogether; but Welch persisting in the truth of it, and identity of the man, he was remanded for a further investigation.

LAMBETH-STREET. -On Monday, Smannah Stater, the mistress of an infumous house, in George-yard, Whitechapel, and Ellen Griffiths, were charged with being privy to and emisting in an art tack on a person named Fawcett, who had been Inolks enough to enter the house with a female on his return home, about nine o'clock enter the house with a remain our uns return nome, aroun arms of clock at night. They were admitted by a woman of small waters, who undered them into a partour. Mr. Fawcet (then give some money to buy spirits, but soon after, one of the winder left the from, and the other forced him through a back thou fulfor which which comminicated with t e back door of a public bount, where he was atmicked by three or four ruffinns; knocked-dewn; and kieled at the body so violently, that one of his ribs was broken on his right side. To prevent his calling out for help, they thrust a handler-chief into his mouth; and robbed blur of his watch, four sovereighs, and 10 shillings in silver. The prisoners were remanded, MANSION-HOUSE.-On Monday, George Lee, was charged with having robbed the office in the Tower, for the deposit of records belonging to the Ordnance, and other deparaments, of records of importance, which had been sold as waste paper.—The prisoner was seen to come out of the office with a heavy load upon his shoulders, which he delivered to a portes with a knot, who was waiting outside the Tower, and they proceeded to Mr. Price's, a cheesemonger, in Binfojingute-street. A Marshahman went to the stop of Mr. Price, with several gentlemen of the Ordinance office, when Mr. having robbed the office in the Tower, for the deposit of records be-Price very readily shewed them some books, which he said be had bought that morning. The gentlemen identified fourteen large folio volumes which were produced—documents of importance which ought not to be abroad.—Mr. Price stated, that the prisoner came to his shop some months ago, and asked the writness whether he wanted any waste paper. He replied, he did, and the prisoner brought him a considerable quantity, for which be paid 4d. a pound. -The prisoner was remanded.

MARY-LE-BONE OFFICE. John Fellower was charged by Mrs. Hill, with defreuding her of 301.—The procedurix some time ago, advertised a douceur to any person who could procure a presentation for a child (her grandson) to a public school. The prisoner told her that he was uncle to Admiral Fellows, and that he could procure a presentation either for the Charter-house or Christchurch under these pretences, he obtained of her 151, in cash, and a bill for 151, more. Some time having clapsed, and no presentation being procured, information was given to the officers, who apprehended him at an observe lodging-house near the Hampstond-road, On application to Admiral Fellower, it appeared that no such person was known to the family.—The prisoner was remanded for further examination. He is a tall lusty mun, far advanced in years, and emetetably diseased.

Managemental Memory Howe, the St. James's grave-digger, and Wyatt, the Sexton, were examined on the charge of stealing lead forming the inscription plates of coffins. Evidence was given that the Sexton had a light in his room, in the churchyand, whilst the grave digger was carrying off the lead, and Wyatt three times told the watchman that he should be dismised if he dured to interfere, as the lead was his (the Sexton's) property, and he had given it to Howe .-- A woman who had received the stolen goods, was also brought up, but there was no case against her.

It turned out, that the inscriptions were wrenched from the coffins in the vaults. Howe was remanded, and Wyatt was admitted to Worship-Synust.-On Thursday, Jemima Matthews was of human nature. One of the parish constables of Spituifields, stated, he proceeded to the residence of the prisoner, in Upper Catostreet, and found the wretch at the bar, surrounded by eight childrem. A supper, consisting of a variety of mosts and vegetables, stolen by the hands of these liftle ones, whom she had trained to thieving, was making ready on the fire. Three children, Frederick Clark, John Clark, and John Balter; were owned by their parents. The children seemed so much under the control of this infamous woman, that they were afraid to tell the truth until she was removed from the bar. Little Balley then said they were daily sent out to stell what they could, and bring it home fir the evening. When they could get nothing else, they stole meat from the but vegetables from the green-grocers. She had a pack of eards by which she told their fortunes whether they would succeed, or whether they would be caught by the officer. Mr. Swabey observed, thus since he had attended this office, he never witnessed a case of so much impuitve . The prisoner was committed for further examination, and the Magistrate intimated, he should desire the purish to prosecute her for the misdemeaner. In exciting these children to commit felonies. The children are detained in custody at present, with the intention of having them produced as witnesses against her.

If the young lady who did not at first see what she wished to see last Sunday, will point out where a latter may safely reach her, she shall hear farthen from me on the subject which appears near her heart. The last paragraph of her letter has interested us

We have written to Mosmon.

He has been represented to us, that the Surgeon who first ena-mined Honny's supposed found his appea full of stones and brick-bata, and token he was told that he could not survive, his observation was, that he only regretted he had not done for some of the splitters. We know nothing of the fact, nor of the name of the Surgeon, but ha is itated to us to be a brather-in-law of the Ruy. Ma. Repton, Curate of St. James's; we therefore give this information a place, in order that it may be satisfactorily confirmed or contradicted; and we hope that the gentleman alluded to will make a public statement on the occasion—had we known his name we should have made a private application to him on

THE VISION OF BULL shall appear as soon as possible. The office favour shall be forwarded to Thomas as soon as it can be found, but amongst the great number of our communications it is at present mislaid.

"We must hear more from our correspondent about MADAME

CATALANI before we enter upon the subject We have received many letters on the subject of Cibber's statues of Raping and Melancholy Madness, amongst which, one from a projessional person points out the impropriety of suffering them look exposed to the sight of the patients or their friends, as jeritaling to the one, and distressing to the other. This, we thin holds good no more with the present Hospital than the old one. This, we think Another correspondent upon the subject, signed Currus, shall, if possible, have a place in our nest.

The letter about Lamnous liberality to our next.

The correspondence between Miss.

and Du. B.

amatters too much of scan-mag.

ematters too much of scan-mao.

It was the mucle of Mn. WILDB, and not his father, we believe, who is, or was, the Sherif's Officer—but was will enquire; and we must inform our friend Scantaton, that it is not for Mn. Wilde, the Queen's executor, that the subscription to forming in the City.

We are obliged, from press of other matter, to abridge for this work our natices to our numerous friends.

PRICE OF STOCKS AT THE CLOSE, SATURDAY.

Tan public securities continue still on the rise. The prices of Grain are much lower, in consequence, the event of an importation of wheat, so fully anticipated, is not likely to take place this mason, at least. Tuesday was account day; it passed off without any defaultors. Consols opened yesterlay morning at 754 for Meney, and 78¢ for the Account, and closed at 78§ of Money, and 78¢ for the Account. The French 5 per cents, were on Wednesday at 98 ft. 5 cents.; Bank Shares, 1,595 ft.; Exchange, at 1 months, 25 ft. 55 cents, and at 3 months, 25 ft. 35 cents; Neagolitap, 5 per cents at 72‡.

POARD and LODGING—A GENTLEMAN can be accom-modated with the above, an maderate Terms, in a highly respectable Family, at Mrs. THOMPSON'S, 33, Ladgate-hill.

A Monday's Edition, containing the latest News, the Stock List, the Lemica Markets, and the State of the Country Markets by that morning's post, is published at Three wellock.

JOHN BULL.

LONDON, OCTOBER 21.

THE most gratifying accounts of the enthusiastic reception His Majusty meets with, wherever he goes in his Hanoverian dominions, continue daily to be received. The King's health appears improved, rather than impaired, by the fatigues of his journey, which by those who have been over the same roads, will be duly appreciated.

In London every thing appears to be at a stand, except BEGGING, which, spite of the laudable exertions of the Mendicity Society, is flourishing in all its branches.

THE GREEKS have been taken up with singular zeal and liberality, by a person of the name of LEMPRIERE; and his benevolent example has been most honourably followed by a gentleman calling himself X, Y, Z, who has generously subscribed a One Pound Bath Bank Note, in aid of that suffering nation.

We have little doubt but that under these circumstances and aided by the patronage of the Moining Chronicle, the cause will prosper prodigiously. although we must confess, that it is kept in few hards; LURDS FITZWILLIAM, GRBY, GROSVENOR, &c., &c., who do not miss the money, and who do not care what they do, so as they can find a political bugbear to supply the place of her late MAJESTV, have disbursed fargely: But, by the people, (who are supposed to be so much interested in the affair) we cannot find out much more than a couple of hundred pounds as yet contributed.

It is curlous to observe how shy even the nobodies are of putting down their real names-what are they ashamed of? perhaps nothing—and it is only to bear testimony to the loyalty of their Knight, that one signs himself "JAMES Navormon," another, " an old officer of the late Imperial "while a third, to satisfy any scruples of delicacy which the object of the charity might feel, clubs his twenty shillings in these words-" Date OBOLUM Beli-

"WOOD'S TESTIMONIAL" speculation flags. We wish we could find out why there are no contributions to it from WORGESTER. HONEY and FRANCIS'S fund looks up.-Since our last that enlightened statesman and patriot, JOHN DUKE of BEDFORD, has subscribed TEN POUNDS to , it; as has MR. STEVENS ten shillings and sixpence.

The Quant's plate subscription scena quite forgotten. "to earry the object of the Committee into effect;" and to lea We have no remark to make upon this, (which, as a leave no doubt is JOSEPH terary production, is contemptible) but, as we said before The Quant's plate subscription, scena quite forgotten.

are) who did actually put down their shillings, do not make some after about it; for one parts we believe it will turn out that nothing at all was subscribed, and that, like the amuity which the Whigs were to have perchased for her MAJESTY, it was to use the only word we can find for it all HUMBUG!

WERR any proofs wanting of the real value of Whig and Radical patriotism, the systematic opposition shewn to every measure of Government, be what it may, would afford us innumerable onci.

In the blind, ardent; and scalous struggle for power and place, all shades of distinction are lost-ull modifications rejected, and nothing but point-blank hostility cherished. This leads the worthy patriots into most comical situations; and although we have watched them and their mouthpleces pretty closely, we never have found a more beautiful proof of opposition consistency than is displayed in the TIMES newspaper of Thursday lust.

Amongst all the heavy charges brought by the opposition against Ms. PITT, the imposition of the "Income Tax" was perhaps the most important; it was held to be an inquisitorial tax—a tax which arbitrarily enforced the disclosure of every man's circumstances, and was certainly the most unpopular tax we ever remember; and so the opposition took care to tell us every day and every night-till they came into place; and then they continued it, with all its harassing and disagreeable accompaniments, making but one alteration, which was, to take ten per cent. from every man's income, instead of five.

This is not only a proof of the value of their opposition, but a good specimen of what we should have to expect, it by any dire misfertune the Whigs should get into office. Yet even this (though recorded in history) is not half so entertaining as the paragraph which we shall quote from the TIMES; because the INCOME TAX is now abolished. the country is relieved from its obnoxious operation, and, as far as one can judge, there is no chance (unless there were a change of Administration) of its revival.

Let us see what the patriotic old TIMES says upon the subject.

"Do we not find it stated in 'Parnell's Principles of Currency and Exchange, 'In ' Foster's Rasay on the Principles of Commercial Exchanges,' and again in a recent publication entitled " Entry on the Political Economy of Entire Pthat of a man deriving his revenue from one country, choose to spend that revenue is another, that this will not, per se; be injurious to the country whence he derives his revenue? And it is very possible that these men may be right, and that the whole was reduces itself to this that A agreeing daily to furnish B with a dinner, it must be of little consequence to A where B cats it; but still this objection will remain, that the absentes contributes nothing by taxation to the public revenue of that country whence he derives his means of subsistence. Now a deneval tax an insome would reach this man, and being substituted for tenes on commodities, it would have this famber effect, that it would probably cause him to return. One of his motives for residing abroad is sconemy; but if saxes on commulities were repealed, it is perfectly certain that in ab part of Europe could the comforts and convenience, and even the elegent loxustes of life, be obtained on such moderate terms us in the country. here but . Is it not right that every man should be taxed seconding to his means? And then comes the question, what are his means? The means of every man (if we are still to leave the source whence they are derived untouched) are his revenue, his power to command things that are useful and delightful; and this shows the policy of an income-last in prefetence to taxes on commodities; for in an income-tax every man is made to contribute according to his power, but in same on commodities he only contributes to the extent that he exercises that power; and so that while the miser escapes, the free liberal character pays double. But if the liberal man will imitate the conduct of the other, he may also escape. No doubt: but then how will you get your money?

... But if an income-tax be imposed, ought not a distinction to be made between the income derived from property or capital, and that which is derived from industry alone: I must own that I have thought so, and I have said so; but I now have my doubts upon the subject, and at any rate, the matter is deserving of consi-

This is an extract from a long letter published in the TIMES of Thursday, written after the manner of WILLIAM COBBETT, and signed ABRAHAM TUDBLA, which appears to be the way the TIMBS spells TWADDLER; and whether it be taken as a proof of the consistency of Whig-radical opposition, or as a hint of what the patriots would do, if that opposition succeeded to its fullest extent, is quite worthy the notice of those who have either FAITH or HOPE in the faction.

The same principle of blind opposition to ministers, led the poor silly Times to put forth a leading article on Wednesday, about Receivers-General, of Land, and other Taxes, which produced a letter in their Thursday's paper from an old friend; who takes pity upon their stupidity, and is kind enough, seriously to set them right. The subject is altogether worthy the great mind of the Cockney Editor, and nobody, but one of the same school, would have taken the trouble of correcting him.

This friendly letter, however, begins with-" Your "remarks in this day's paper respecting the Receivers-"General of Land and Assessed Taxes, are not, I think, " quite correct." This is a gentle let down. A little farther on, the kind friend adds :- "I think you are ALTO-" GETHER in a mistake as to the course ministers are taking

His hishelf which up his author comments this pentle and pleasing testiments of his respect for a Cockney's strongestion and infallect:— A war will not again bloom the distribution of the comment of the comments of the com for the purpose of considering the subject, and Uthink, a consideration of the evidence taken inforg that Committee printed by order of the House, of Commons, that you will find the large stated here to be correct, and that you specified that mitinformed on the subject, was the language out a Poor Our Times!! ... Printe Bin W add w

OUR readers may have romarkat, that we live tope very lightly on the subject of the Scots newspaper called the Beacon. We are quite sure that such men as those whose names are subscribed to the bond, and the support of that paper, can receive no injury from the abuse a scurrility which "During to be logal in the went of times," has brought upon them from the Whig radical pr as for the general principle of aiding a political publication, it requires no serious defence, for whether at money or talent, every periodical work we have, is like the Middlesex Hospital, supported by "voluntary contrib

But If money only, be the thing objected to and a scription for the establishment and maintendance of a party paper, held to be subversive of the liberty of the pres Why it should, since it affords ample opportunities in reply, we do not see;) we cannot choose but wanter we the Whies, and Whig RADICALS, should themselves has attended the same system. A horate of variable BROOKER'S, set up an evening paper in this very low is BROOKER'S, set up an evening paper in this very low is London; that BROUGHAM. BENNETT, and WHERE, were leading men in it. BENNETT was considered (2000 err not) as editor, and BROUGHAM certainly. was a viluminous contributor. This paper was established, and the conductor promised FOUR THOUSAMD POUNDS. Promise; is conductor promised FOUR THOUSAMD POUNDS. Promise; is the difference between the TORY paper of Scotland, and the WHIG journal of St. James's Street, is this that when the said conductor asked for his family thousand. when the said conductor asked for hier fours then pounds he could not get it. with the s ; badeiage ...

THE Chronicle's reputation for History, Geography, in general Literature, stands almost as high an its same by delicacy. The beastly extract from the French ma, which we exposed last week, was a proof of the laster-weak On Monday, by way of beginning the week well, the wi rose port of the Chronicle favoured us with the following versification of DR. GARTH'S old joke against the claim of DUCHESS of MARLBOROUGH: 100 Aug. 100 Au

The Duke who in war fear'd no enemy's quarties of the In peace who was pleased in tyo Justimeter gastes. Had a wife, feight gins, who, 'tis very well known. Had a wife, to blights, who, his vary well knowing.

Was strong in the blog, and loud in her tone, fall the line of the loud o

Lord Bolingbrok a statistice Wahnele, discovered within a great Dake of the property of the statistic was a statistic day of the statis What is known to women is known to the world." † Dr. Garth.—See Walpellona, p. 8. Chroniate, Oct. 15.

This wit and poet did not know, and will be very muc astonished to learn, that the Miss JENNINGS. garters the DUKE loved to tye, was no other th lealous Duchess herself!!!

We really did not believe, until we read Mond Chronicle, that there was any mamempleyed, even on the Chronicle, so ignorant as not to know that the adder Duchess of M. was the celebrated Sanda Janana hand the street the same

THE MORNING CHRONICES

IT would be as dishonourable in us to state the Chronicle now upon our own account, at it would be disgraceful in a man to kick a fallen antagonisty but we are driven to call not only public attention, but the attention of the Proprietor of the Chronicle himself, total tion of the Proprietor of the Caronicle himself, to the following rhymes, which form paid of a song about Linux; which appeared in that paper on Friday.

Newspaper poetry claims at all times examples from liferary criticism, but us the most appairing doctrices may be inculcated in the veriest doggles of Caronicle, we really feel compelled to asketlie Morning Chronicle, whether the sentiments contained in the following recess. are the avowed sentiments of that paper, and wh are (which is of much more consequence) the avowed se timents of the WHIGS?

After speaking of ENGLAND'S triumphs over her foesthe song runs thus: - which entire on tod ; soliton of

"And shall we perish by the orm
"That laid ambition low? " Shall dark misrule at home alarm out "Our rights and freedom? No! beening

" A HOLLOW PERJURED CREW " The day they warred with LIBERTY " The holy band SHALL RUE:

CHORUS. " Hail! Britons, hail! the Spring of Freedom With countless blossoms from thy patriot tambs.

" O'er Europe, and the western wave,

" Emancipation flies; Behold! no more the patriot breve and Learney of M. O'er prostrate freedom sight, and a series of By Spain's example Albion sees. [53] Vier to every the sees of the liberties of th we do wish to know whether the threat conveyed in the first of the above verses—the compliment to Messra Das-PARD, BELLINGHAM, THISTLEWOOD, and Co. in the Chorus-and the designation at the end of the song of that victory, which not only saved our country, but raised her to the highest pinnsole of glory, are sanctioned by the gentleman "who," as his friend Sir James Mackenvosu said, " has been, for more than thirty-seven years, the conductor of the principal opposition paper?" and if they are, whether the WHIG OPPOSITION still sanction HIM?

An answer to these questions, not less important to our own security than to Whig respectability, will, we think, be satisfactory to ALL PARTIES.

Tio sque with the RADICAL INGENUITY.

THE following trait of Radical ingenuity will be found particularly entertaining by the lovers of stratagem :-Alt appears that Warson, PRESTON, and Waddington Cthe two first gentlemen being survivors in the THISTLEwood toutine, and the last the dear little placard holder to the Spa-fields Meeting,) having deliberated upon some means of insulting His Majesty, hit upon the plan of getting up an Address of Condoleuce upon the late riddance the country has experienced. The idea was pronounced admirable, and it was resolved the honourable triumvirate to call a meeting to take The subject into consideration, and the usual mede of giving publicity by placarding the town was to be adapted; But, unfortunately, the whole party could muster only seven and elevenpence-out of which a pot of WHIT-SEREAD's entire was to be paid for ;—this sum disbursed in printing, would go but a little way towards the dissemination of their patriotic intentions through this vast metropolis, and the "ways and means" did not appear to be highlt was hoped that the OLD TIMES would do them the Dawour to insert an advertisement gratis, but that hope soon vanished; a subscription Warson declined, as he had already troubled his friends; WADDINGTON also abjected to a subscription, as mean, and declared that he sepond never hold up his head again, if he himself felt windebted for his existence to the charity of any dirty dog in London, who chose to send him a shilling; besides The market was glutted with sub-criptions—flere was HONEY'S, and WOOD'S, and FRANCIS'S, and WILSON'S. and the poor people burnt out in Prince's-street, and the GREEKS and several others, so that there was no chance of doing any thing in that way.

Here the actions of the triumvirate were palsied, till fired with something like inspiration, the exquisitely gifted little man with the great mind, hit upon an expedient for promulgating the intentions of the party, which, by perform of common intellect maver, could have been contemplated. L. Dar & Mars. A. C.

WADDINGTON suggested, that he should with the seven in shillings and sixpence, balance in hand, after paying WESTERNAD, get as many bills printed as he could, which were to be stuck about just in the neighbourhood of the JACOB's WELL ale-house, at which the meeting was convened, and then, certain that the distribution of se small day number as could be procured for three half-crowns, consend he really accless in giving the affair publicity, it was agreed that he should go before the LORD MAYOR with a complaint, that some persons had tern down a placard, it which he was to put in a copy to prove its innecessee, by it which means the affair of the intended meeting and the instagarport of the bill, together with the time and place mentioned, would altogether appear gratis in all the Police Reports of the daily papers.

The trick was actually played off with perfect success the first time, and repeated with equal effect a day or two ages. sericione people attribute the whole scheme to the LOHD bleavor himself; but those who have the misfortune to we know his Lordship the most intimately, aftern, that there more a great deal too much ingenuity about it to be his for Eordship's. For our parts, we agree with those gentlemen remeter rather think that the plan originated really with WADDINGTON, and that THORPE merely consented to curitonistyent it, and play Well to WADDE's Moonshine; not it todinay nt! THORPH is quite stupid enough to have been ow Jaumbugged himself.

Monnine Chroner.

estimate of the following letter from an angle of the following letter Elector of Coventry: we have held it back, unwilling to socialis upon priests affairs, even though connected with public politics; but no notice having been taken of our hints, er any hesitation in showing the full merit of we feel no lon the public benevolence which the person alluded to has evinced towards the people of Coventry.

TTO PETER MOORE, Bog. M. P.

Coventry, Oct. 6, 1821. ir is impossible for me, one of your constituents, to suffer your extraordinary munificence to go unnoticed. Your gift of the Thousand Founds, bestowed upon the poor of this deserves to be recorded in letters of gold; whether considered as to its amount, the manner in which it was made, or its perfect disinterestedness.

Every smooth in full of your praise; but those who know by what a tremendous sacrifice we have been so favoured, naturally feel the obligation in a much greater degree; and leat The warning More so bliefelier deem;

af the violence you must have dide to your private feelings, in anaking this public offering. I will (as no man can dislike)

if a special the second must have to show them and the second man and the sec

Were you as wealthy as those notheren who slub that five hundred pounds a piece in w political subscription. should be inclined to took upon your domation much in the same way as that in which I regard the re; but knowing, as, I do, the struggle you have made to review our poor, I cannot but wenerate the motives, and glory in the act.

When I recollect that your son, who has sat in Parliament with full as much credit as yourself, to whom you allowed, as a hashelor, eight hundred pounds per annum, is now, and has been for two years, languishing with his wife in a dengeon, for debts not exceeding two hundred pounds. When I recollect that, but for a public rabeription, that son, and that wife, with four innocent babes, would have perished for whith and when I recollect that those four innocent children are now doed, and that the broken hearted mother and her husband have about thirty pounds per susum to starve upon -then it is that I duly appreciate the gift—the noble, generous gift you have bestowed upon town.

To raise this sum, williont one onject except that of doing ood, you have consented to neglect those who are nearest and dearest to you you mortify your own flesh and blood or clieve the paupers of Coventray, and in the purest spirit of charity, which beginnets not at home, have presented us with a sum, the fourth part of which would restore a son, a husband, and a father to light, and the and liberty.

It is impossible, I think, sufficiently to extol your simbst unexampled generosity; indeed, COVENTRY seems to be pered as the scene of self-devotion, to the public good, and I have no doubt, that in afterages your name will so down in history, with that of LADY GODIVA, who generously sacrificed every feeling of NATTHE and DECENCY, for our advantage.—I am, Sir, your admiring constituent, A COVENTRY BLECTOR.

A CORRESPONDENT, provoking from his quaintness, puts the following snip-snap questions upon a paragraph in a letter which appeared in the Chronicle about WILSON, signed, "A Friend to the Fullest Investigation;" and he puts them

" He (Sta R. Wilson) has suffered the severest melitary priva-"Hen in the discharge of his duty to his Sovereign." WHAT?

"He has rendered immortal services to his country." WHERE? He has thanfferled a steady and determined valous in the field of blood." First Fit to (a said WHEN I SHE The Sinds "By his prefound skill he has contributed to schleve so many victories."

The conservation that the distributions WAICH

To ell of which, we unhesitatingly answer with SORUB, "As near as we can guess, we can't tell." Another correspondent writes thus :---

FREEND JOHN-In the Marning Chronicle of the 15th stant, appears a statement of SAR ROBERT WALSON'S present and future losses, signed by "P. a Half-pay Officer who, (if he he so) ought to be sent to the right-about with his idol, for the ignorance he displays on a subject better understood by every non-commissioned officer of the army. He states, that the Ex-Major-General would have been entitled to 11. 12s. 6d. per day, if he had ever gained the rank of Lieutenant-General, and Il 18s, as General.

Now, John, the fact is, had the " poor knight," behaved himself (as Pat would emphatically express it), and hereafter gained those enviable ranks, he would sepan have been entitled to more than what his tricks have lost him now; namely, $1 is, per day. Any junior clerk will tell him of an old regulation to that effect. The ultimate benefits mentioned by Ma. P. might, to be sure, "through his Sovereign's favour" have reached him, if he had not grossly insuited his best and most liberal benefactor; but having so done, he is describedly, "cut off" from those benefits. "The ille lackryme.

Colonels of regiments will be obliged to the sagacious Mr.

P. to make good his assumption, that their emolaments amount To 8001, per ann., and the said Mr. P. will do well to cau-tion the Knight not to lend his money at " ten per cont." unless he wishes to draw him hato fresh somposiess me wishes to draw him into fresh scrapes—wide the p and time of security and with the land of the land Quantity Par-

ORIGINAL POETRY. and da

LINES TO LADY HOLLAND, of many line On the Legacy of a Snuff-Box, left to her by BUOMAPARTH. BY THE BARL OF CARLIELE.

Land a reject the gift! 'tis tinged with gore! Those crimson spots a dreadful tale relate; It has been grasp'd by an infernal Power; And by that hand which sent'd young Enghieu's fate.

Lady, reject the gift; -beneath it's lid. in ... Direord, and Slaughter, and selenties War, With every plague to wretched Man lie bid-Let not there loose to range the world afar.

Say, what congenial to his heart of stone. In the each bosom could the Tyrant trace? When Anes; the slove the conda's friendship own,

Think of this pile, to Eddison so dear, at Where Sully feasted, and where Rogers' song Still adds eweet music mathe perfumed air, And gently leads each Gruce and Muse along.

Pollute not then their scenes—the gift destroy: "Twill sears the Drysde from that lovely shade; Wish them will fly-all must peace and joy, And screaming Pionds their verdant haunts invade.

That mystic Busi lash sangis power to raise Speciment presidenting a ghastly fund; They illiver shy elembers, eleted, the super days, Starting Bond Moseuw's spows, or Egypt's sand.

The warning Mose so idjecteller deem; Day Plange the ourstationistist wide. Ontopis flood 5 .... in a Original known often majorife afre mini in a new wife

TO JOHN BULL

C. I. Z AND LETTER III. A MYCY .IF we were to perceive, among a crowd of public maranders, certain men urging them forward, or facilitating the means of carrying on their depredations,—if, in the presecution of some base revenge, we saw persons supplying arms, or contriving ambushes for a band of assassins, in order more securely to immulate their victim, abould we besitate to pronounce those abettors equally criminal with the actual perpetrators of the act? And by what species of sophistry, er by what paradox do the self styled Whige, who have superieded the old constitutional Whige for the last thirty years, hope to evade the sentence of an impartial posterity, or establish the line of demarcation between the rancorous and diabolical ravings against the KING and GOVERNMENT of the country, uttered and published by the HUNTS; the HONES, and the WARDINGTONS, and their own system of hostility, less barbarous indeed, in its outward forms, through a cold and calculating refinement of policy, but strictly in unison with their principle, and equally aiding and abutfing the spirit of hostility against every establishment in church and state.

It has been justly said in the first of causes, and is true in ALL that are great and universal, that " He who is not with un is against us;" and indifference in the agitation of such miestions is more than suspicious; but where all that we hold dear-all that is sacred in life, is threatened, what is to be predicated of those who espouse the cause of sedition, openly abet acts of rebellion, and constantly reward every man whose conspicuous vices have subjected him to the penalties of our insulted lamba to lit is idle and childish or argues a conviction of the folly and weakness of those to whom the plea is addressed, to suppose that the dopes or abettors of it are freed from any criminal intention, because the anarchy they invite would involve them, their rank, their property, and all that they possess in life, in one common ruin.

It is too late in the history of the world to remon upon the result of events which are contingent upon the follies or passions of mankind, or to judge of the policy of men from the sup-position that they are bast acquainted with their own interests. We can know the motives of no man-we must, in all events, judge from his conduct; and if we find an incendiary prepared to fire our premises, we stop not to enquire whether revenge, a thirst of plunder, or a mistaken zeel first influenced the attempt. It is the fact and its influence upon his neighbours, with which alone we have to do. The Duke or ORLBANS looked to a throne whilst he was preparing a scaffold for his own immolation—but no one doubts that his fate was richly earned, and that an ignominious death was the just return for having encouraged the Howns, the HUNES, and COBBETTS of Paris to vilify and write down the monarchy, and in arming the assassin host of Jacobius to shed the blood of his sovereign!

HB was, at first, only a senders WHIG—he imbibed his principles in the English school. This is no assumption, but an historical fact. He was himself a member of BROOKES's. the FOXITE club, and many of his most active partisans were in the habit of associating and corresponding with the Whigs of this country long after the horrors of the revolution had displayed themselves. The appetency of this Prince for political power and ascendancy increased in the ratio of his apparent approximation to the objects of an unhallowed ambition! A design of influence in the cabinet, which had spurped his counsels from its knowledge of his vices, limited his early views; but when the madness of the people, seduced by his artiflees, opened the way to universal anauthy. he aspired to the first place, for which he trusted to his riches and his influence; -wretched man! - and imbrued his hands in the blood of his king to ensure it.

Shall wis then hazard our liberties-fry experiments upon the constitution-act upon the factions cries of partisansand invade the throne, the altar, and the sanctuaries of justice, upon the hare assurance that those who counsel these things must be influenced by just and equitable notionsby lawful and unauspected motives—because they have a stake in their country, and because they may hazard their own rights, privileges, and possessions, should the constifution be eventually overthrown. Had this ORLEANS, the first Prince of the Blood, no stake in the country? Did he, immeasurably wealthy as he was, run no hazard of such consequences t. And yet, did he not risk all—LOSE ALL! and become himself a victim amidst the millions of those become himself a victim amidst the millions of those who had fallen under the scourge he, and his followers, had prepared for them?

What is the end-the object—the purpose of a constitution, and a fixed onde of laws, if not to check the encroschments, the lawless ambition, and the thirst after power excited by the sapiring or vindictive passions of men?—What, but to resist the perpetual tendency of turbulent and ambitious agilators to liberate themselves from all controul, or to seize into their own hands, all those fences so sedulously set up, to hed round and secure our rights and liberties-securities which seem equally (when duly maintained) to save the community from the despotism of the throne, and the ten-fold greater despotism of an infuriated and ignorant rabble.

When, then, we see men of rank, of fortune, of inflaence in society, lending themselves to a delusion which must inevitably, in the common course of events, (which they, God help them! with all their talents, and all their estates to boot, cannot turn or avert) lead to the overthrow of all existing institutions, are we to lose sight of what we have at stake because they choose to trifle with their own; or, like idle gamesters, risk their all in order to multiply it? Shall we subject ourselves to a game of chance, because ambition has more influence over the minds of those soured expectants of office than the security of their property—or because the thirst of power predominates over the more prudent calculations of safety and security.

This is no vapouring, no groundless suspicion, no affecta-tion or apprehension of chimerical danger; she proof is all pefore us—if we will but look it fairly in the face. It is the Policy of faction to cast a veil before our eyes; it is the vocation of their servants and dependants to write us out of our senses, and to blind us to the machinations of their employers. It is the TRUTH only which these men dread, and it is the sprehension of this that has brought the whole host of political adventurers in and out of Parliament upon our shoulders.

The press is their strong-hold, and they would monopolise it; they would man it exclusively with their own partisans. Their ranks are filled with needy and proffigate mercenaries, who take the word of command from their leaders, and, reckless of consequences, root up and destroy whatever stands in their way, or seems to stay their progress. Essays man knows the arigin; the solves, the means, and the essays of the Edinburgh Review. Those who are more conternant with works of this nature are awaie, that the principles which it was established to propagate in this country are identified with those of the French Encyclopedists and Economists, who, by undermining and ultimately extirpating all reverence for religion or government, directly paved the way for the French Revolution. They know also, that the junto of free-thinkers, amongst whom the Scotch Review originated, were proud of distinguishing each other under the mannes of certain of their arch archetypes amongst the French philosophers. They have run the same career, and, I grieve to say, with no small share of the success which accompanied the march of their infidel masters.

the march of their infidel masters.

It is to be remembered that the demoralization of a whole people must be a work of time; prejudices and feelings are to be overcome by degrees. It is by sapping and undermining, not by open assault, that these are to be taken. It cost the French philosophers upwards of seventy years to reduce France completely to their yoke; the seeds indeed were scattered as early as the reign of Louis XIV., at least towards the latter period of it, by what the French authors describe as "the invasion made by phi"losophy on the Republic of Letters." They began to take root in the soil upon the death of that monarch, developing their blossoms by degrees through a profligate regency, and shewing fruit during the reign of Louis XV.

But it was reserved to the mild government of Louis XVI. to ripen the rich harvest of philosophy, and to mark the epoch of triumphant rebellion with the peculiar characteristic of jacobinism—black and glorifying ingratitude!—The forbearance of the government was the signal for its overthrow.

Those who do not discern the same causes operating in the signs of the present times must, I repeat, be wilfully or judicially blind. The train laid for our destruction may be traced line by line in every part of the French scheme. I quote the observation of an early defender of the revolution in France. Within the present century a great revolution in France was effected in the human mind; philosophers ceased to be isolated (that is, there were no clubs or affiliated societies.) It is but lately that the people have been taught to read, and still later that they have learned to thank."

Who but must regard with jealous eyes the scheme of education prepared by one of the early Scotch Reviewers; a man forced into public notice by his greater daring and undisciplined ambition, above his patriotic and philosophical colleagues!—a scheme, whose jesuitical juggling to neutralise religion in its application to the education of the poor, was so subtle as to alarm even the enemies of the Church, and to call forth the opposition of those, for whom he was covertly

Such was the plan of the French philosophers. But the field is too wide to admit our exploring it at present; I cannot, however, conclude this letter without selecting a passage from the "Memoires Secrets pour Servir a l'Histoire de la Republique des Lettres," to which I have before alluded:—
"The invasion made by philosophy upon the Republic of Letters in France, forms an epoch remarkable for the Revolution it has effected on the minds of the people. All the world now is perfectly acquainted with its results and its effects. The authors of the Persian and Philosophical Letters had sown the seeds, but three classes of writers have beyond all doubt matured them." These three are the Encyclopedists, the Economists, and the Patriots, as I have before observed; but the editor of the Memoirs goes on to say:
"This host of philosophers, who took the lead in the various departments of literature, first obtained power when the persists were extinguished—the real epoch in which the PRESENT REVOLUTION took its rise."

Now, Sir, it is curious that these Memoirs were written and published in the year 1760, nearly thirty years before the Revolution was actually effected. Let Englishmen pause and reflect upon this!—Let them listen to the exultations of the philosophers from the wynds of Edinburgh to the lanes and purlieus of Pleet-street, at the progress of the human mind—the dispersion of prejudices—and the revolution almost a feet of the mids of men!—Let them only ask themselves what is intended to be conveyed to the public by "the march of enlightened philosophy?"—"the approaching day of retribution?"—" the birth-day of liberty?"—"the overthrow of hypocrisy, and the regeneration of Britain?" which are softly insinuated from the north, and swell in the blast from the Hunts, the Cobbetts, and the Hones nearer home.

Words are things in a very extensive sense; and when the public mind is day after day moulded into a belief of the necessity of a change, and becomes familiarized with the probability of it, a single popular commetion—an accidental congregation of a multitude—the artful propagation of a falsehood, such as we have lately witnessed, may light up a fire, in which our dearest interests, nay, our very existence as agreat and flourishing people may be consumed.

PAUL POTTER.

"The King's hounds, the whole of which were nearly destroyed by disease at Brighton, last year, have been renovated this season, by various couples of fine dogs, presented to His MAJESTY by the EARL FITZWILLIAM, the EARL Of DRRBY, and the DURK of GRAVION. The breed of the EARL FITZWILLIAM and the EARL of DRRBY, are said to be the finest in the kingdom."

The Counier's mode of renovating dead dogs by the substitution of living ones, is ingenious. Those furnished by the RABL FITWILLIAM, the BARL of DERBY, and the DUKE of GRAFZON, we conclude to be Fox-hounds, and we hope to see them out for many years to come.

THEATER

Soals time since, when a question arose puon the powers of the Minor Theatres, with subject to their licences, the subject created a visible sensetion amongst the apparation religion themselves intentees, and a great deal of the time of amorteurs and printers was occupied in clipping the King's English, and wasting paper, by the writing and publishing of study pemphlets, called "Thoughts," and "Considerations," and "Reviews," and we fought what else, concerning the stage.

One of these essays, far better than the rest, proved (at least upon americans of its own making) very sutificativity, that a general ruin would ensue, should the Miner Theoretic hold the place they then (last year) held; and many ingenious similes, quaint figures, and striking metaphon, were invoked to aid the argument.

The author we illude to, in his book, which is denominated "Impartial Observations," in the outset of his statement, speaking of the legality of the performances exhibited at the Minor Theatres, says...

"The legal question, is this case, need not occupy a moment. The point has already, in more than one instance, been most fully and clearly decided.

and clearly desided...

"In the year 1787, in the case of the Royalty Theatre, when Delpini and Bannister, sen, were convicted under the statute of the luth of George II.; which conviction was confirmed, upon subsequent application to the Court of King's Bench. Again, in the year 1791, in the case of the Royal Circus, when Palmka and Bannatt were convicted under the same act; which conviction was afterwards confirmed, upon an appeal to the Magistrates at the Quarter Sensons. Also, in the case of Macheady, at the Royalty Theatra; in the case of the Pantheon; and in other instances.

stances.

"It is perfectly well understood by all persons who are conversant with the statutes under which places of public entertainment are licensed and regulated, that the establishments called Astley's Amphitheatre, the Circus, Sadler's Wells, the Coburg Theatre, the Regardy Theatre, and the Regency Theatre, are merely houses Heensed from year to year, by the Magistrates of the district, for entertainments of Music and Dancing; that they have no authority for any thing in the nature of scenic representation; that their conduct, at the present period, subjects them every hour to various heavy pains and penalties. By the statute of the 16th of George II: for performing entertainments of the stage, without sufficient license or authority, to a fits of 501. for each of sense; and to other penalties. And that, their abuses, increasing from day to day, have only continued during so long a period, inasmuch as that they have been tolerated by the parties in terested in suppressing them.

"At law, the Minor theatres can have no defence.

"But it is not enough, in such a case as this, that the law should be satisfied. There is an authority which stands above the law: the voice which has power to enact, has power to reneal; and it is not upon the letter of an existing Act of Parliament, that a question of moment will eventually flepend. The Public have a right to be made parties to this suit. The Public opinion, important upon every question, is any contest between theatrical establishments becomes irresistible; and unless the Proprietors of the Theatres Royal. Drury Lane and Covent Garden, can distinctly show that the proceedings which they have commenced against the Minor theatres, are founded equally upon justice and necessity, their victory at law would, in effect, amount to a defent. It will be understood, that no allusion is here intended to the Olympic, or Adelphi Theatres; although it would not be difficult to show that those theatres have overstepped the original intention of the Lord Chamberlath, as completely as the House of the other class have exceeded the letter of the ir licences."

Subsequently, the author branches out into discussions upon what is, or what is not, the national drama; and into inquiries, wherever real houses be better than basket ones, or timed better than real water, with which we have nothing to do.

We do not consider the Minor Theatres at all amenable to serious criticism; and upon that principle, the pretty light pieces of the Lyceum, and the shewy nonsense of the Transthamic houses, have been alike exempt from our animadversions; and as we are perfectly indifferent to the failure or success of any theatrical speculation, we should (as far as theatricals go) perhaps have remained silect upon the subject we have now touched upon, had not our attention been called to it by the Police reports of the metropolis and its authorits.

This may sound strange to those whose eyes are not directed to every thing noticeable; but if our readers will turn to the papers of the last two weeks, they will find that the Minor Theatres are scenes of the most brutal outrages. From the Coburg (happily named) Theatre, several Chimney-sweepers were brought before the Magistrates, for lounging on the stairs, and dirtying the ladies; and one of them was convicted of "having emptted his soot-bag upon the head of the audience in the pit," by which it would appear, that when these gentry frequent these places, they carry their sacks with them, as bettermost men carry their suff-boxes. They were discharged, and the proprietor was gravely desired by the Justice, not to allow chimney-sweepers again to take their sacks into the play-house with them, and with this admonition, (which William Spencer or Sam Rogers would call a "soot-able one) the affair was dismissed.

At another of these places, in Tottenham-street, it appears, by notices placarded about the streets, that some persons choosing to express disapprobation of the performance, were assaulted by the actors and managers; and the latter has put forth a manifesto, declaring his intention of PROSECUTING any of those "who call themselves gentlemen," who may venture, in future, to censure any thing produced at his theatre. If any interest could be excited about such things, and such people, this person should be made to retract his insolence publicly; as the case stands, it is beneath public contempt.

Again, upon the apprehension of a thief, who subsequently set fire to a watch-house, we are told, that on the way to the gaol, he was recognized by MR. BAXFORD, of the Westminster-road, as the person who had knocked him down in the gallery, at ASELEY'S THEATER, and rebbed him of his hat.

Really, we think, it instead of assuing the point of law

Really, we think, if instead of arguing the point of law with the Minor Theatres, the proprietors of Covent Garden were to select an account of the outrages committed nightly in these dens of iniquity, they would not only do great good to their own cause, but to society in general.

The public; we mean the decent, the well-disposed, real, genuine Logish public new control of their character for judges of the state of the public of the public done in the pobability of their character character is the white done to character of the public done to the public done

,by

If the apprehension of being stheinstage in taste, have but little effect upon Julian Built, we not trust, that a sense of propority will keep him kind using and supporting what are called Minon Taxawhich are a fagrant disgrape to a metropolic page which are a fagrant disgrape to a metropolic page.

It would be quite impossible for us to contain the selection of the selection o

It would be quite impossible for us to contide of the splendour with which BEVECTOR'S play of EXILE has been revived at Covert Cabran. All the mificence of Theatrical pageantry, to which we have before accustomed, sinks by comparison will the before the procession of ELIZABETH to her Covertion.

of the procession of ELIZABETH to her Corecations.

It is curious to observe how the hyper-critics of the papers quarrel with the exertions of Managers to an and please the town; at one time, it is profunction to the effect of SHAKSPEARH by loading his plays with tacle; at another time, it is a pity to waste so mach deur upon a piece of REYNOLDS's—and whys—Is speakers magical writings can be aided and strengthened scenic and decorative illusions, the Managers of this The surely do honour to his name and memory, by straining nerve to illustrate his plays with classical magnificence, the contrary, REYNOLDS's dramas are weak, the has the spectacle makes up for any paucity of interest, or do of dialogue; but—(particularly as relates to the Extra do not admit the want of wit, of humounters of interest, or do of dialogue; but—(particularly as relates to the Extra do not admit the want of wit, of humounters of interest, or do find the first. As a proof that the composition of set Comedies is not quite so easy a task as many of the Creiting Critics think, we find, that since this very Min. Reynolds in smartly and gaily touched by his hand, we are doored; if a smartly and gaily touched by his hand, we are doored; if the day smartly and gaily touched by his hand, we are doored; and rather disagreeable; flat when they first come from the persist in play-going, to see new Tragedies which are in the composition much like "new cheese," tastelers, insioid, and rather disagreeable; flat when they first come from the person and seldom endurable beyond eight or mine days:

**BARESTRICTOR**

**The Composition**

**The

We wish some of these Cock ney Critics would try to wish a Comedy, they perhaps would their learn the difficulty of the task; but there is not one of them who can even make the attempt, and they know it.

Young in Darlan was, as usual, excellent. The part is bis own. He made it originally, and the same superior taken which first gave it importance, upheld it nobly on Wednesdy. The innocent and lovely Alexina, found a fit superatains in Miss Foods, who, contrary to the western succeeding season. If Madans Cottin could have seen her without any of that irritation which even the wisest upy woman feels when she looks at a very pretty one, how hopes she would have been to have seen her Elizabeth so per soutified.

LINTON is too well known in the Course to need a work remark; but FARREN in the Governor was need to all style of acting was different from that of any of his predections, and was uncommonly effective. FAWCETT was all animation and bustle in SERVITZ, and his points and idea told as well as ever. MRS. FAUCIT made an elegant indicated as well as ever. MRS. FAUCIT made an elegant indicated an elegant indicated the property of the property of the public for nearly twenty years) sang some of the was sweetly.

The success of the show was beyond measure the shouts rent the theatre during the march of the precession and we must again say, that we never have seen any the equal to it on the stage. We trust that it will be as profit to the Proprietors, as it is gratifying to the Proprietors.

WHIG PURITY OF ELECTION

MR. EDITOR,—Meeting with an article in your passes that of April last, respecting EARL GROSVENOR's condition the admission of strangers to Eaton-hall; I am induct through the medium of your paper, to give publicity similar conduct in the Noble Duke, of Arundel castle, when the conduction of the Honourable Earl's in the conduction is as well known that of the Honourable Earl's in the conduction of the Castle, my object in visiting from whence I proceeded to the Castle, my object in visiting Arundel being to see it when I was denied admission of the castle, my object in visiting the castle of t

Having gone over last week from Worthing and I ordered my servent to put up his horses at the Crown in from whence I proceeded to the Castle, my object in which Arundel being to see it, when I was denied admission of ground of my not being furnished with a ticket from Norfolk Arms-inn, (the property of His Grace,) the land of which, the porter told me, had the explaint and granting such tickets.

Upon this I returned down the term and such that is should obtain the castle of a watter of course.

cation for a ticket, (not doubting but that the hould obtain one as a matter of course) I was, however, deliberately asked by the people of the house where my horses were no tickets could be granted but to their own customets, of in other words to those who did something for the house. And I was told these orders came from His Grace's steward, his WATKINS.

ATKINS.

I felt so much annoyed at the moment with this can and so indignant at the proposed terms upon which I so see the Castle, that I quitted the town with any finally indicately and returned here.

This illiberality to strangers I afterwards forthe with tributable to the same motive as that of Earl Onforce was the contract of t

This illiberality to strangers I afterward, food, tributable to the same motive as that of EARL GROSTEAN (before noticed by you) opposition to the other fine sioned by its support of MR. BLAKE in his recent in over the Norfolk interest in the Borough of Acustle.

Mr. Editor, your very obedient servant,

Worthing, Oct. 13, 1821,

A. WORTHING, 181

Government propose to reform the olice of Recover terral of Counties, and to fix the allowance at thou. per annum, but not be permit them to retain balances in hand. The amount of the said by this reform is estimated at 15,6591, annually.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A custom has grown very common in London, for which we coiless we did at a loss to find an excuse—a reason for its having —a reason for its having contained so generally, is not so difficult to be discovered. We mean start of lensing that the annual of chapels to wine and spirit phase. We are very far from preaching up the humbag of the Saintenance of the property of the play or play or the play or play or sit or sit or oft-bottomed chairs, (which certain dewagers of stiff principle hold to be too great luxuries for such sinners as the creatures of this world), but we really do think that the making a wine-vanit of the lower floor of a temple consecrated to the Divinity is a most shameful and flagrant breach of the decencies of public Protestant worship. The Dandy Chapel in Albemarie-street, has a regular shop and awelling-house under it, where, doubtless, samples are tasted, and bestles finished, in a spirit of any thing but that which is apposed to admitte the congregation above; Bedford Chapel, Spring graden Chapel, and many others; indeed, we be-lieve almost all the regular chapels in London, are profuned in the same way. Surely our Bishops should look to this.

The Marchianess of Londonderry has quitted North Cray for Government have entered into a contract for 10,000 loads of mabogany for ship-building, on account of the high price of oak timber, and its liability to the dry rot.

THE ARMY.— The depot at Newport, Isle of Wight, consists, at present, of detectments from the following corps:—The lat, the 6th, 8th, 9th, 12th; 14th, 16th, 18th, 24th; 38d, 37th, 38th, 48d 45th, 53st, 71st, 72d, and 93d Regiments of Foot, making, in the whole, a force of 2000 men, or therenbouts; all of whom are quartered in Albany Barracks, and are under the immediate command of Colonel Ross.

The 22d Regiment of Foot, commanded by Col. Sir H. Gough has arrived in Dublin from Liverpool. They are to replace the 49th in Waterford—the latter regiment will embark for the Cape of -Respecting the Reductions of the Regiments of CINCULAR. Republication of the King has been pleased to order the establishment of the Regiment of Foot under your command, to be reduced from the 24th instant, inclusive, so as to consist of the numbers specified as follow:— Regiment of Foot, eight companies. 1 Colonel; 1 Lieut.-Colonel; 2 Majors; 8 Captains; 10 Lieuts.; 6 Ensigns; 1 Paymaster; 1 Adjutant; 1 Quartermuster; 1 Surgeon; 1 Assistant Surgeon; 1 Serjeant Mujor; 1 Quartermaster Serjeant; 1 Programmater Serjeant; 1 Armourer Serjeant; 1 Schoolmaster Serjeant; 1 Assistant Surgeon; 1 Schoolmaster Serjeant; 1 Assistant Surgeon; 1 Schoolmaster Serjeant; 1 Assistant Surgeon; 1 Schoolmaster Serjeant; 1 Surgeon; 1 Schoolmaster Serjeant; 1 Surgeon; 1 Sur jeant; 6 Colour Serjeants; 16 Serjeants; 24 Corporals; 1 Drum-Major; 14 Drummers and Fifers; 552 Privates.—Total 650.

ST. JAMES'S PARE.—On Wednesday morning several workmen balenging to one of the Gas Companies commenced the long-contemplated, and exceedingly necessary, plan, of lighting this beautiful place with gas, during the autumn and long winter exemings.

Letters of Administration of the personal estate and effects of the late of the lat the late Christophe, King of Hayti, were, on the 3d inst. granted by the Prerogative Court, to his widow and relict, residing at Osborne's Hotel, in the Adelphi. The property within the diocese of the Archbishop of Canterbury was sworn under 9,0001.

Mr. W. E. Hardy, who has been for many years Deputy Keeper of Newgate, was on Monday last appointed Keeper of Rehester Gool, in the soom of Mr. Bridle.

A new prices is to be erected in place of Tothill-fields Bridewell ADVENTISEMENT.]—The superior merits of the present Lottery Scheme have obtained for it a great degree of public approbation A plain statement of its leading features will be its best encombum. It comemis THERE PRIZES of 30,000, and many other capitals.— All the Prizes are of STERLING MONEY; and the good old fashion of "Not Two Blanks to A PRIZE" is ugitin restored: "Esta Scheme isse plens and simple, that no one can fail to understand it on the first perusal. The Drawing BROINS on the 36th of the PRESERVE MONTH (October.) -SWIFT and Co.'s Offices, No. 11, POULTRY 12, CHARING-CROSS ; and 31, ALDGATE HIGH-STREET have been fortunate to the public in the sale of great Prizes, particularly the last 30,0001. Money Prize ever drawn.-Schemes at large grads.

ABVERTHERMENT.] In our first introduction to a person, there is nothing conveys to the mind a stronger impression than the Teeth. A fine set of Teeth identifies health, cleanliness, and beauty; but to yellow, black, or carlous teeth, we turn with losthing and stagest. To all who wish to preserve or beautify the Teeth, Hudson and Company recommend their Botanic Tooth Powder as a sure dy and preventive for all disorders of the mouth; it not merely cleaners, whitens, and beautifies the Teeth, but preserves them from decay to the extremity of age. It fastens Teeth that are loose prevents the decayed growing worse—removes the tartar, and oures the scurvy in the Gums, leaving them firm and of a healthy redness. sweetens the breath, is an antidote for Gum-boils, Swelled Face, ad the Tooth-ache—and the Proprietors warrant that if used regularly. a tooth will never decay, and the Tooth-ach will not be known; and though so nowerful an antiseptic, it is entirely free of acid, and so innocent that a child may take the contents of a Box. Solid, price 2s. 9d. by Jas. Atkinson, (wholesale agent) 44, Gerrard Soho-square: Measrs. Guttie and Pierce, 57, Bond-street: 80, Bond-street: Sanger, 150, Oxford-street: Johnston, 15, Trigge, 20. Bo Breek-street: Howell and James, 9, Regent-treet: Bayley and Blew, Qockspur-street: Prout, 229, Strand; Johnston, 68, Taite, 41, Cornhill: Niz, Royal Exchange: Rigge, 65, Butler's; 4, Cheapsite: Satton's, Bew Church-yard: Edwards, 66, Newberry, 45, 84. Paul's Church-yard, and most Medicine Venders and Perfect of the Church and Addition of the Power and Perfect of the Perfect of t CAUTION. As there are numerous Tooth Powders called Butanic in imitation of the above, please to ask for Hudson's Botanic Tosth Powder.

ADVERTMENTAL. If the reader is afflicted with Fistula, or almilar diseases, we would ask, has he ever heard of the late Martin Van Butchell, who used to treat these complaints in a way peculiar to himself, and to effect cures almost universally without having resonant to either Cutting Caustic, or Confinement, which is the usual practice?—We find his son, 'D. D. Ven Butchell, surgeon, acconchem, who resides at No. 48, South-street, Berkeloy-square, continues to perform qures of the most dangerous cases by the same method, and is as completely successful. Both rich and poor, who are thus afflicted, will do well to observe he requires no remuneration until they are satisfied a cure has been performed; in fact, the poor are relieved gratis, if respectably recommended.

MUNTING INTELLIGENCE .- H. Jolliffe, Esq.'s Pox-hounds meet to morning at Ber Bills; Wednesday, at Nutfield Cross; Saturday, at Kingswood Gate.—The Surrey Fox-hounds, to-morrow, at the Fox, Keston; Thursday, at Limpsfield Common; Saturday, at -The Sanderstead Harriers meet to-morrow, Wedneday, and Saturday, at kennel.

Newmarket Second October Merting, 1821.—Monday.— Second Year.—One-third of a subscription of 25 gs. each, for 3 yr. old cols., Set. 95.; and fillies, 8st. 8ib. A. P. bona filde the pre-porty of subscribers.

D. of Gunners b. c. Regimeld
Mr. Thornbill's b. c. by Rubers

The Garden Stakes of 100 gs. each, T.M.M.
Lord Jersey's Sports, 7st. 11th.
Mr. Wyndiam's c. Bluck-and-all-Bluck, 6st. 7th.

7 to 4 on Sporus.

Sweepsinkes of 200 gr. euch. A.P.

7 to 4 on Augustu. Mr. Udny & Abjer, Sat. 7th, aget Lord Exeter's c. by Ardrond Sat. A.F. 390 ga. h. ft.—A dead heat.—5 to 4 aget Abjer.

Mr. Uday's Pantouffe, 7st. 1815. rec. 60 gs. from Mr. James's Fleur-de Liu, 5st, 1815. T.Y.C. 200 gs. h. ft.

Thenday.—One-third of a subscription of 25 ga each, for 4 yr old colis, 8st. 1015. and fillies, 8st. 715. D. I. hepa fide the proof subscribers.

Lord Maynard's c. by Partisan, 3 yrs old, 7st. 1lb ...

61b. R. M.

5 to I agst North Wester-5 to 2 agst Luss-5 to 2 agst Carbo-naro—2 to I agat Incantator. Mr. R. Wilson's c. by Walton, out of Mockbird's dam, rec. 40gs.

rom Major Wilson's c. by Juniper, dam by Trumpeter, 8st. 7lb. each. A.F. 100gs. b. ft.

Thursday. — Mr. Rous's Euphrates, 8st. 7lb. beat Mr. Greville's Oracle, 8st. A. F. 100 gs. h. ft. — 2 to 1 on Euphrates,
The Town Plate of 501. for 3 yrolds, 7st. 4lb.; 4 yr olds, 8st. 4lb.; 5 yr olds, 8st. 1lb.; 6 yr olds, 9st. lib.; and aged, 9st. 4lb. T.M.M. Mr. Rous's ch. g. Euphrates, 5 yrs old

Lord Clareadon's ch. f. Mirandola, 4 yrs old

2 Mr. Ratson's h. c. Rosic resign. 3 yrs old

3 3

11 to 8 on Euphrates.

PROVINCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

BEVERLEY.—Yesterlay se'nnight, a fine pheasant cock was found perching in the drawling-room of General Vyse. The servant had put up the window to air the room, and was surprised to find this new visitor in the evening; he had strayed there in the course of the day, and taken up his residence for the night. The bird was secured, and sent as a present to the General at Lichfield.

BOURN.—The Lincolu old coath, from London, was on the point of setting off after changing horses at the Bull Ina, when the spirited animals took sud len alarm, and drew the coach out of the usual road, over a heap of builling materials lying near the new Town Hall, overturned it, and the driver, Joseph Brightmore, had both his arms and both broken.

both his arms and both broken.

CARLISLE .- At Kirkby-Stephen Fulr, a few days ago, a young man was tricked out of a horse of 251, value. A person proffered to exchange horses with him, during which time a man whispered in the young man's ear to etrike the bergain, and he would give him 254. For the ether horse, as it exactly suited him. The yearth seemed to hesitate, but agreed the former should get upon his horse and try its pacings, while he himself held the one professed to him; the man rdingly mounted and rode off. In this dilemma the young man looked about for the man who had agreed to give 251, for the horse he held, but to no purpose, he had fled also; consequently he was left with a 51, bargain in exchange for that of 251.

CARMARTHEN. - On the night of the 4th instant, as Mr. Richards, auctioneer, of this town, was riding home from Llandilo, some penon who was diving furiously, came in contact with his horse, near Cethy-bridge, by which he was thrown off, and shortly afterwards found dead.

Cambridge .-. On Friday se'might as the Rev. Mr. Tomson and another gentleman, of Somesson, near this town, were returning home in a one-home chaise, the horse took fright, the chaise was overturned, and M:. Touson was thrown out. His back was broken by the fall, and he died a few hours after ands.

Cong.—A curious species of fraud has occurred here. Persons have been in the habit of applying to the Churchwardens for an order to get a coffin on a representation that some pauper was dead who had no friends to procure one; and those orders were afterwards, said to the coffin maker at about half the sum at which he charged the parish, as if a coffin had been really furnishe

DONCASTER.—A short time since, a child, four years old, son of Mr. Clarke, Church-streef, fell from the window of the attic story; but formunately a man was passing at the time, when the head of the child came in contact with his shoulder, by which the fall was roken, and the child was taken up only slightly ligiured. Dunder.—As the whale-ship Achilles was coming into harbour on the 11th inst. she was, by the carelessness of the pilot, it is said, run against the powder magazine. The eastern turrer of the magazine was laid in ruins by the shock, and the bowsprit of the ship was also broken. The achilies brought home three boats' crews, belongng to the Dexterity, of Leith.

The Earl Falconberg of Grimsby, one of the whale-ship late Greenland fishery, was cut through by the ice, under which the vessel soon disappeared, and the Leviathan, of Hull, was literally penetrated by the ice on each side, until it cut through, and carrie away the mainmast. The loss of the fine ship Dexterity, of Leith was attended with aggravating circumstances; for having got $2 fish, a violent gale of wind came on while the greater part of the fish, a violent gale of wind came on while the greater part of the crew was absent in the boats, and the ship was driven on a reef of rocks and bilged; so that on the return of her boats and seamen with six fish, sufficient to fill the vessel, it was found that their ship was lost, and with great reluctance, but of hard necessity, it was

On Wednesday afternoon, as the Salisbury luggage van was proceeding out of town through the Strand, when nearly opposite Northumberland-street, the axietree savidently broke, and the van was thrown on its side; one of the proprietors, named Wyburn, was sitting on the box at the sime with the driver, and was precipitated under it. On being taken up, he was quite dead, and appeared most dreadfully disfigured.—An inquest has been held on the body, when the Jury, after animalver ing on the impropriety of loading the coach so heavily, returned a verilet of "Accidental Death, with a Decdand of 5s. on the wheel."

THOROUGH BASS.

Just published, in small tip price is, neatly half bound,
THE CRILD'S INTRODUCTION to THOROUGH BASS, is Conversations of a Portnight, between a Mother and her Daughter of Ten Years old, thustrated by Plates and Cuts of Music.

Loshion: Princed for Bachwin, Oradock, and Jay, Paternoster-row: and N. Haites, Javestia Library, Picashidy.

Deep The Author of this work eulors, we think, the just distinction of faving given to the invasical world the most perspictions, intelligible and popular treatise upon this backnied subject of thorough base that we have yet seen. It is the offering of a mind-assuffancement, and directed by first genuine good sense which leads its powersor to selve and preserve the cannot serve of a subject, and to give them the exact form which is most consistent with the Author's and Readers purpose.—Quarterly Magnad Review, No. 17.

PRACTICAL and UNIVERSAL SYSTEM of GAUGING. Just published, price 9s. 6d. in Loards, or 10s. 6d. very strongly and nearly half bounds.

THE UNIVERSAL GAUGER of GREAT BRITAIN and this LAND, and General Sprite Calculator: being a Practical System of Gauging, by Pen, Sliding Rule, Tables, Callipers, and Logarithms, according to the Measures hitherto legally adopted in the British Dömmions: and also according to the new Imperial Callous and containing spwaris—of 40,000 Original Calculations on Gauging, Spirits, &c. By W.M. GUTTERSDUK, Londou: Printed for Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, Paternoster-row. 33 This Work contains also a general Spirit Calculator and Ready Reckoner, but a proof strengtk, and at 7 per Cent. above proof; and a Table for finding the Value of any Number of Articles at any Price, from a Partiting ad infaitton, by only a single operation of Multiplication: Also the Use of Hydromoters, Saccharometers, and Lactemeters, &c. &c.

IMPROVED PRENCH DICTIONARY.

This way is published, in 1980, price 10s. 5d. bound; the Second Edition of A FRENCH and ENGLISH and ENGLISH and FRENCH DICTIONARY. By M. DE LEVIZAC, Author of the Practical Grammar of the French Language, &c. &c. theroughly revised and improved; the two Parts carefully cultated, with the indication of all the fregularities of the French Pronunciation; by C. GROS.

London: Printed for Baldwin, Crudock, and Joy. Paternester-row; G. and W. B. Whittakes, Ave Maria-lasse; and Dulau and Co. Soho-aquage.

By This Edition has been carefully revised by the Dictionnaire de l'Assients, has received considerable Additions, and contains a greater number of Words than any other School Dictionary of the French Language, though encoding R in bulk and size.

FOR XALING PERSONS

POR YOUNG PERSONS.

Just published, in 18mo. price 2s. 3d. half bound,

PALPH RICHARDS, the MISER, with a Frontispiece; by

JEFFERYS TAYLOR, of Ongar.

London: Printed for Baldwin, Cradeck, and Joy, Paternoster row; by whom also are published of the same Author,

Z. ESOF IN RHYME, with some Originals. 12mo. price 4s, half bound, with an Emgraving to each Fable.

2. HARRYS HOLDDAY: or, the Doings of One who had Nothing to de.
Second Edition, 18mo. 2s. 6d. half bound. Also, just published,

4. LESSONS of LOVE; or, Family Instruction. Written by a Mother for her Ghidren. S. 6d. half bound.

5. LIVES of LEARNED and EMINENT MEN, taken from authentic Sources. 2s. 6d. half bound.

CHESHUNT, HERTS, 12 miles from London.—'TO BE SOLD, et LET on LEASE, on LEASE,

A Singularly nent and desirable COTTAGE RESIDENCE, with Greenhouse, Paddock, Lawn, and Walks, very tastefully laid out, and in neat condition, situate at TURNER'S HILL, on the Hartford and Wage Read. Particulars and Tickets for viewing may be last of H. Crawter and Sons, Surveyors, &c. Cheshunt. Letters to be post-paid.

Sons, Surreyors, &c. Cheshunt. Letters to be post-paid.

ARTIFICIAL TERTH, on an unprecedented principle.—Mr. GRAY, Mesiber of the Royal College of Surgeous; in hondon, continues to supply the less of Tooth, on the successful system introduced by himself is 1813, which has been found to answer all the purposes of the human Teeth, for mastication, articulation, appearance, &c. and for resisting perfectly secure in: their places by the pressure of the a mesphera; thereby parsiding pinning to stumps, tying, twisting wires, or fasteningsgrings to the adjuning Teeth, or any attachment whatever to the remaining Teeth; and consequently, instead of injuring, afford them support. These artificial Teeth may be taken out, and replaced by the wearer with the greatest faulty. To those who require whole or half sets, Mr. Gray undertakes, at his own risk, to formish pleases whole when half answer all the purposes above described, without the heamshrages of the spiral aprings, which are usually attached to such pieces.—Et. Sid Burlington-atreet.

LASK and COMERT. IN SHAVING.—To those Quentiernes who

PASE and COMFORT in SHAVING.—To those Gentiemen who experience inconvenience in Shaving from a tender face or a roug bound.

J. T. RRIGH most particularly recommends his established MAGNETIC RAZOR TABLET, which, with its late improvement, he angages will produce so keen an edge as to supersede all grinding, houng, &c. and redder he operation of sliaving as easy and agreeable as it was before unpleasent and painful. Its use is simple, is effect certain; price 7s. 6d. J. T. Rigge's Arpmatic Slaving Soap will also be found an invaluable addition. Massifactory, 65, Cheapside, and $2, Park-street, Grosvenor square

BY THE KINGS PATENT. CHANGE of RESIDENCE induces the Patentee to acquaint the CHANGE of RESIDENCE induces the Patentee to acquaint the Notifity and Gentry, that in consequence of the counterfeits under the same hame, he has confined the sale to such respeciable beness (only) who deal in genuine articles. The PATENT VIOLET SOAP having a decided preference, both as a washing and shaving Soap, for its cleansing, beautifying, softening, and balsamic properties on the skin, that it was in consequence of these luestimable qualities lets Majesty granted his Letters Patent. It should invariably be asked for as "hall's Patent Violet Soap." It is sold in squares at 2.6 d. and is. 6d. and in boxes centraining twelve squares, at 250 or twelve small, at 15s.; the signify cakes, at 25. 6d. each, or in boxes, 4s. 6d. which are re-filled, at 25 6d. and it is forwarded to all parts of town or country, warranced to arrive acts, by addressing a line by post to the Patentee. Observe his name and signature is on the outside of the wrapper.—J. E. HALL, No. 28, Hadlow-street, Burton Crescent, London.

DURGESS' ESSENCE of ANCHOVIES.—Warehouse, $79, Strand, corner of the Savey-steps, London.—John Burgess, and Son, being apprized of the numerous endeavours made by many persons to impose a spurious article for their make, feel it incumbent upon them to roquest the attention of the Public, in purchasing what they conceive to be the Original, to observe the Name and Address corresponds with the above: the general appearance of the spurious descriptions will deceive the unguarded, and for their detection, J. B. and Samsabmit the following cautions.—some are la appearance at farat sight, "The Genulne," but without any name or address:—some "Burgess's Essence of Anchovies;"—others—"Burgess's,"—and many more without Address.

John Burgess and Son having been many years bonoured with such distinguished approbation, feel every sentiment of respect towards the Public, and carrestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to their purebawing what they conceive to be of their make, which they hope will see yent many disappointments.

BURGESS' NEW SAUCE for general purposes, having given such a most useful and convaniont Sauce: will keep good in all climates.

Warehouse, 107, Strand, corner of the Savoy-steps, Loniou.—(The original Pists souceWarehouse.) RURGESS' ESSENCE of ANCHOVIES .- Warehouse, Fish-sauce-Warehouse.)

FRENCH PERFUMERY.—JEAN DEVEREAUX'S ESPRIT

DE LAVANDE AUX MYLLXFLEURS, possesses all the balmy fragrance of the freshest dowers; its aromatic, cephalic, and nervine virtues, are instantly diffused through the most spacious agestments, while the fragrance of its scent revives every person around.—Sold in bottles, price 2s. 6d. and 5s. at the Depot for French Perfumery, 2s. Lembard-street, London; where is to he had JEAN DEVEREAUX'S MONTPELLIER SOAP for rendering the complexion delicately sup-ob., clear, and even; imparting a vivilying grateful perfame, and giving to the skin a most delicious feel and luxurions brilliancy. Price 2s. 6d, per packet.—Sold retail as 68, Cornhill; No. 9, Regent-street, Pal Mail; 129, Oxford-street; 29, 181
James's-street; 22, listion Garden, and wholesale by Price and Gosserel Porfumers to His Majesty.

**Ey' A gratuitous sample (on a handkerchief) of Jean Devereaux's celebrated Esprit de Lavandis aux Millestens, will be presented to any Lady or Gentleman, which will prove its pleasing and refreshing properties, by applying t- any o his Agants, or at his Depat, No. 28, Lomisord-street, Loudon.

DERICK and GOSNELLEN MATASSAR SHIL, materialed by Elic.

DERICK and GOSNELLEN MATASSAR SHIL, materialed by Elic.

**DERICK and GOSNELLEN MATASSAR SHIL, materialed by Elic.**

DRICE and GOSNELL'S MACASSAR OIL, petronised by Ric Majesty and the Royal Family; gives afferight and a beautiful gidesy appearance to the Hair; in paris to it the most delightful perfume, and prevents its falling off or turning give to extreme old age. Hair dressed with this celebrated Oil seen beacases soft, curry, bright, and luxariant finite growth; and hair that has been injured, made harsh, such turning grey, will be restored, by a few applications, to its natural colour, brillinkry, and boasty.—Sold by the sole Proprietors, and only importers, PRICE and GOSNELL, Perfumers to his Majesty, No. 12, Three Kings-couft, hombind-street, Londons, in boilles at 3a. 6d.; 10s. 6d.; and 21s. each, bearing their signature on the labelia-red link.

CAUTION—Measure FRICE and GOSNELL beg to caution the Nobility and Centry against a sparious Macassar Oil, injurious to the hair, implied upon the public by hair-dressers (inlesty styling themselves importery) who are equally incompetent to assertain the danger o what they gr'd, as they are to discover what might be useful.—Ask for Price and Gosnell's Macassar Oil. DRICE and GOSNELL'S MACASSAR OIL, patronised by Ric

Digitized by Google

The Frankfort Papers, which arrived yesterday, have anarticle from the frontiers of Moldavia, dated Sept. 20, which states the cause of the Greeks in that quarter to be hopele cause of the wires, in this quarter to be appeared, advanced upon them, and pompelled to finge party settle to the convents of them, the red field to the affirmed by a Greek with manual field to the affirmed by a Greek with manual field. Constants these few months as less than $0.000 these hays in that capital. The Turkish fleet, it was stated, had gained some advantages over the Greeks near Santarino, and sailed for the Mores

The papers are wrong in saying that Wilson is going to France when he leaves town, he is going down to Long Grav, to ask his Lordnip addrice upon his case, which is much too delicate to put upon paper.

The King, it is said, intends to pay a visit to the King of France, and that he will occupy the Palais Bourbon, which is fitted up for His Majesty's reception.

Mr. Richard Going, Chief of the Police, was shot dead on the road to Rathkeele, on Sunday se'nnight, about two e'clock, by a band of ruffinns, disguised in white shirts, over their clothes; he received nearly fifteen musket-balls, and bud his thigh shuttered by slugs.

The house of Mr. Morris, in Waterloo-row, near the New Cut, was destroyed by fire of Friday night. A woman escaped from the flames by throwing hereself from the third floor into a blanket, which was held to receive her.

General Sir George Walker, who has met with a severe accident by his borse running away with him, continues in a dangerous state, his shoulder-bone being fractured in two places, independent of which he received a severe internal bodily injury

The inhabitants of Hampton have been recently kept in terror by a gang of ruffians, who have scarcely permitted a night to pass without committing a robbery of some kind or other. Dwellinghouses, out-houses, stables, &c. have been plundered, and every houses, out-houses, stables, &c. have been plundered, and every thing portable indiscriminately carried off.

On Tuesday morning, during the absence of the mother, the infant daughter of Mr. Morris, of Union-street, Lambeth, aged about six years, fell into the fire. She was dreadfully burnt, and died in St. Thomas's Hospital the following morning. Verdict, Accidental Donta

WESTMINSTER SESSIONS .- On Friday, Mary Mason, the wife of W. T. Mason, was tried for deserting and exposing two of her children under the age of two years, at the doors of two of the inhabitants of Marlborough-street, but owing to the want of proof, that she had actually left them at the doors, she was acquitted; but detrained to be punished as a vagrant.

SOUTHWARK SESSIOKS.—On Friday, William Ladd was indicted for violently assaulting Elizabeth Humphries.—The prisoner had for violently assauring Euranoviii Euriphico. — in principle in arreurs of lodged with the husband of the prosecutrix, and being in arreurs of lodged with the husband of the prosecutrix, and being in arreurs of lodged with the husband of the prosecutrix, and being in arreurs of lodged with the husband of the prosecutrix, and being in arreurs of lodged with the husband of the prosecutrix, and being in arreurs of lodged with the husband of the prosecutrix, and being in arreurs of lodged with the husband of the prosecutrix, and being in arreurs of lodged with the husband of the prosecutrix, and being in arreurs of lodged with the husband of the prosecutrix, and being in arreurs of lodged with the husband of the prosecutrix, and being in arreurs of lodged with the husband of the prosecutrix, and being in arreurs of lodged with the husband of the prosecutrix, and being in arreurs of lodged with the husband of the prosecutrix. rent, received notice to quit, and was shut out. In about six weeks, he called, and demanded a tub which he had left; a dispute and he struck her several violent blows, particularly of abdomen, which (she being pregnant) brought on premature labour, and injured the child. He was found Guilty, and sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment.

Stephen Taylor was indicted for assaulting Mrs. Newton, with the lid of a saucejan, (which he had just bought) as she was passing along the Borough-road. In this case too, premature labour ensued, and the child exhibited marks of the prisoner's violence.—He sued, and the child exhibited marks of the prisoner's violence.—He was found Guilly, and sentenced to be imprisoned aix months.

Bow-street.—On Friday, Benjamin Bloomfield was re-examined on the charge of obtaining money under 'false pretences, when Mr. Harmer, attorney for Mr. Shirley, said, he had advised his elient not to proceed against Bloomfield, a bond having been given, and ho did not think a conviction would follow. The Magistrates, however, seemed to be of opinion, that a false pretence had been used; but Mr. Shirley said, his object was to blow up a nest of conspirators—a set of the most dangerous and designing men, of whom he believed Mr. Bloomfield was the dupe, and the victim.—The case was then ordered to stand over.

The demand for the NEW PRENCH STRIPES for furnishing, introduced by MILES and EDWARDS, still increases, and this is not surprising, when the great advantages they possess over the most expensive Silks made use of for the same purpose are taken into nsideration. Families about to furnish their houses may now effect the important saving of full one-third in the expense, in consequence of the extraordinary reduction in the prices of all manufactured articles within the last few months, and they have manuactured articles within the list lew mouths, and they have an opportunity of inspecting at the New Chints Furniture and Moreon Warehouse, No. 134, Oxford Street, (nearly opposite Habover Square,) an entirely new stock for the best Town printed Chintz Furnitures, Moreons, Merino Damasks, &c. &c. which are selling at such prices as will astonish every person who has been in the habit of purchasing from goods manufactured in former years.—
N. B. From the Corner of Great Turnstile, Holborn.

ADVERTISEMENT. ]—Advantageous opportunity for purchasing Bedding at the oldest established Feather Warehouse in London, 40, Drury-lane, opposite Great Queen-street, and corner of Long Acre. Walker and Co. baving succeeded Mr. John Barrowcliffe, (retired from business) take this method of acquainting the Nobility, Gentry, and the Public, that they continue to sell on the very lowest terms; and having imported and laid in a large and extensive new Stock of prime Dantzic and Irish feathers, Beds, Mattresses, Palliasses, Blankets, Fourpost, Tent, Waterloo, and Hulf-tester Maho-gany or stained Bedsteads, with or without Furnitures. The pro-prietors are persuaded the Public will find it their interest in purprictors are persuaded the Public with and it their interest in purchasing Belding, &c. &c. at the above Warehouse. The undermand will denote the cheapness of their Feethers:—Best White Goose warranted, well stoved, sweet and free from dust, &s. &d. to Ss. per lb.; Common do. 1s. &d. to 2s. &d. per lb.; Best Grey Goose warranted well-dressed, 1s. 10d. to 2s. &d. per lb.; Common do. 1s. to 1s. &d. per lb.; Common do. 1s. to 1s. &d. per lb.; Common do. 10d.—Ready made Tick's sold at Prime Cost to Purchasers of Einthers. Feathers.

•	SHIP	nkws.
Arrives Malls	Due	Arrived	Maile	Due
lDublin			Malta
1Waterford			.Prance
1 Guernsey &.			.Hamburg
Helland			.Flanders .
Gottenburgh			Jamaica.
DRAI. Oct 19 -Wind			.Brazils

DEAL, Oct 19.—Wind W. arrived and sailed for the river, the Freton, Morgan, from Belfast; and Hope, Wood, from the Mediterranean. Came down from the river, the John, Eibeck, and John, King, for Jamaica; Mars, Evans, for Liverpool; Merca's. Editings, for Antigua; Ridley, Ridley, for Trieste; and Mevageseey, Bowden for Naples. Sailed the Elizabeth, Riber, for New York; Lady Mackworth, Capes, for Honduras; and Idris, Evans, for Havre.

PORTSMOUTH, Oct. 19.—Wind W. Passed by the Ranger, Carter, from New Brunswick, for London. Arrived H. M. S. Hind, from a cruise; and Neptune, Blomden, from Malagar, for Havre.

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 18.—Wind N.W. Arrived the Hawkesbury, Hun'er, from Quebee; and Harries, Cunting, from Malaga, and Gibraltar. Sailed the Francis and Ann, Thomas, for London.

MONTROSE, Oct. 16. Arrived the Movarch, Young, from Davis Straits, with 19 fish, 150 tons, and Hero, Young, from ditto, with 14 fish.

HULL, Oct. 18.—Arrived the Keiro, Colquinoan, from Davis Straits, with 4 fish, 140 butts! Egginton, Wilson, from ditto, with 8 fish, 290 butts; Lerd Wellington, Boyden; Progress, Merčer, and Mary Prancis, Williamson, for ditto.

ABERDEEN, Oct. 16. Arrived the St. Andrew Newton Pavis

ABERDEEN, Oct. 16. Arrived the St. Andrew, Newton, from Davis The Elizabeth, Davis, from Wales to Galway, was lost on the 14th inst.

The Milliam, Maris, from water to Galway, was lost on the fath inst. near Doulan, country of Clare.

The William, M'Neilago, from Irvine to Dublin, was lost ight inst. near Campbellown; erew and part of the materials saved.

THE Public this Thousand doub TO-MORRON time, a new Grand Mele SAIR'S BRIDE CARS Maj. r-Dome it with the state of the state o

RE-UPENING of the BEYPTIAN TORE, Ist November. RE-OPENING of the ESYPTIAN TORS, 1st November.—
If he Proprietor of the Egyptian Tomb feels himself bound to express his gratitude for the great encouragement the Public so liberally bestewed on him during the late *co-on, and has the pleasurs to announce that, deeply impressed with a praper sense of what he ower them who so highly encouraged his former exertions, that he has spared no pains or expense to-gratify their curically on Egyptian Antiquities.

In addition to the former Exhibition he has introduced Six Models in Wax, representing the following Monuments:—
The great Pyramid of Shuphrene, on the reduced scale of 120 feet in 1 foot, every stone of the exterior and interior of the passage, chambers, and porticules, are in the due proportion, and so exactly contrived as to give the most correct idea of those ancient Monuments.

The Interior of the Temple, in the Isle of Philos, is most minutely executed and pointed.

and painted.

That of Herman es is also represented, stone or stone.

The entrance to an Egyptian Tomb in Gobnon, with an Archway over it, to elucidate the origin of the Arches.

That part of the Model of the Temb of Psamis, which hitherte has not been put before the Public, will be placed so as to give a complete idea of the Tomb.

the Tomb.

The great Temple of Issumbul, in Nubia, with all its Colorsal Figures, Sec. in their due proportions, will give a complete idea of the Higyptian excavations.—Admittance, is.

N. Ja. The Proprieter takes this early opportunity to amounce that the Egyptian Tomb will be finally closed at the end of February, 1882.

Just published, continued to the King's Return from Ireland, with a New Head (engraved by Hea'h) of Dr. Goldsmith, price Sc. bound, the 17th DINNOCK'S IMPROVED EDITION of Dr. GOLDSMITH'S

HISTORY of ENGLAND, from the Invasion of Julius Cusar to the Death of George the Second; with a Confluentien to the Reign of George the Fourth; with a Classical and Modern Map, Questiens for Examination, Copious Notes, &c.

"We consider this to be one of the most complete Books of the kind for Education that has ever yet issued from the Press, and the improvements so ropious, as io marit a distinct culogium. The Editors deserve servy praise for the pains and labour they have bestowed in perfecting the Publication."—Literary Gasatte.

for G. and W. B. Whittaker, Ave Maria-lane; of whom also may be had,

2 PINNOCK'S IMPROVED EDITIONS of Dr. GOLDS NITH'S HISTORIES of GREECE and ROME, with numerous Additions and Improvements; on the Plan of the Flishry of England; 12mo 1 price 5s. 6d. each.

Model Series E. Tribia RV No. 27. Old PBERS' BRITISH and FOREIGN LIBRARY, No. 27, Old Bond-street, London.

EXTRA CLASS.—Subscribers paying 101, 10s. a Year; 61.6s. the Half Year; or 31, 13s. 6d. the Quarter; are allowed 15 Volumes in Town, and 30 in the Country, and are cuitled to the immediate Perusal of every New Work desired.

acetted.

A86 I — Subscribers paving 51. 5s. the Year; 3l. 3s. the Half Year; on.

per Quarier; are allowed 12 volumes in Town, and 24 in the ry.

County.

CLASS II.—Subscribers paying 4l. 4s. the Year; 2l. 12s. 6d. the Half year; or 1l. 11s. 6d. per Quarter; are entitled to 8 Volumes in Town, and 16 in the Country.

CLASS III.—Subscribers paying 3l. 2s. the Year; 2l. 2a. the Half; or light, per Quarter; any allowed 5 Volumes.

An immediate and abnushmet supply of every New Work, being added to this extensive Library, of the established works in the various branches of English, French, and Sedlim Literature, ensures to Subscribers the greatest possible accommodation.

Books sept to the Continent in any Quantity, by paying a proportionate subscription.

AUPPOLK

TO BR LET, furnished, for One, Two, or Three Years, n good FAMILY HOUSE, with a Manor, and the Right of Sporting ever more than 2,000 Acres of Land well stocked with Game, and strictly preserved—For particulars enquire of Messus. Forster and Co. 6, New Square, Linsoln's HOUSE, TILBURY, and HARNESS.

HOURS, TLBURY, and HARNESS.

TO BR SOLD, the Property of a Gentleman, a modern TILBURY HORSE, and HARNESS. The Tilbury nearly new. Also a well-based flay Gelding, carbonily nearked; in excellent condition, and very quick in his paces. To be seen at Hillier's Stables, Duke-street, St. James's, where the owner may be referred to.

TUESDAY, 30th of THIS MONTH, THE GRAND MONEY LOT.
TERY HEGINS.
CARROLL, the Contractor, reminds his Priends and the Public of the approach of the Drawing. The Scheme has received the most decided approlation; it contains Three #30,000!!!—Thirty other Capitals, and not Twe Bianks to a Prize. There are no Classes, and every Prize is decided approve that it we flanks to a Prize. There are no Classes, and every Prize is Sterling Money.

CARROLL's Offices, 19, Cornbill, and 26, Oxford-street, have always been remarkable for the Sale of Capital Prizes. The very last £39,000 Prize ever drawn, also No. 46, a £21,000! Prize, and many ether Capitals in the last Lottery, were all shared and sold by CARROLL.

TUESDAY (30th THIS MONTH) Three Prizes of £30,000, and TUESDAY (30th THIS MONTH) Three Prizes of £30,000, and 30 other Capitals, all Sterling Money!—Not Two Binks to a Prize.—£30,000 for the First-drawn Prize on the lirst Day of Brawing.

J. and J. SIVEWRIGHT request the Public's favours at their 64d and Portunate Offices. 47, Cornhill, 38, Haymarket, and II, Holborn, where they sold in Shares last Lottery No. 4,421 £25,000, and where they have been very successful in the sale of £30,000 Prizes.

NINT TUESDAY WEEK.

C'RAND STATE LOTTERY.—All Sterling Money!—Three Prives of £30,000, and 30 other Capitals; besides 6700 other Prizes!—Not Tanes.—No Classes.—Every Ticket drawn singly.—First-drawn Prize, 30th THIS MONTH, (October) will receive £30,000!

will receive 2,000; Tickets and Shares are selling by T. BISH, 4, Cornbill, and 9, Charing. Cross; who has sold more than half of all the £30,000 Prizes that have ever need.

27 The Prices of Stocks are affixed, hourly, against BiSH'S Office, in.

Cetubill, by which the Public can see the fluctuations.

Wheathere were Three £70,000 Money Prizes in a former Lottery BISH

SDBP THEM ALLIE

DATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP. batts NT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP.— In bontemplating the lives and property that have been sacrificed to the use of candles, it is natural to conclude, that it has either been found difficult to invent a complete substitute, or that its importance has escaped observation, and it is not a triding gratification to the Patentee, that, in this invention he has so far succeeded in the at empt as to produce a light that embraces every perfection, and is alike applicable to every domestic use, and can be so regulated as to suit every occasion. Its safety is such that no person on secing it can doubt for, a moment its security against danger of fire, and, bearing any mo ion without agitating the dame, renders it highly valuable as a meving light. As a Chamber or Night Light, it can be regu-Berson on secring it can could lor, a moment its security against danger of five, and, bearing any me ion without agirating the fiame, renders it highly valuable as a newing light. As a Chamber or Night Light, it can be regulared to burn the 1- need or other than a never-failing brilliant flame, ready at the moment if is wanted, disappearing in the morning without smoke or smell, superseding the Bed Candle, and, in its general use, a preserver of the carpets from tallow or wax, the price, in neat Japan Stands, 10s. and in bronze, 15s. to 20s. The same principle apples, and the Lamps e,milly portable, on pedetals, varying in siee and elegance, for the dining table, sideboard, study, bracket, door, or fan-light, &c.; and a so Glass Grecian Hanging Lamps, for the hall, stair asse, passages, conservatory drawing room, mantlepiece, lustres, &c.; and for the accommodation of those who have square, vase, or other hall lanthorns, the bursages of which are so universally complained of for the oil they somsours, and the insufferable smoke and smell they emit, the Patentee, in compliance with the request of many, now applies this principle to such, with all its advantages, at 12s. to 13s. each. Familles in the country, who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity, have only to send the exast size of the aperture at the bottom of the lanthorn in which the burner is intreduced. It is a most essential acquisition in all these Lamps, that they require no attention when in me, and the expence, in best apermacer oil, through the whole system, only about a third of tailow canders, burning sweet as wax, and so simple that a children reputation from the effects of adulterated oil, are bound to sw'(mome but pure Spermacett, in which the oundenness of the Public will never be abused. Letters, post paid, from any part of the Kingdom, will meet with abused. Letters, post paid, from any part of the Kingdom, will meet prompt attention.

e Poplin Warehous regular p Pelleses s durable :

Just published; gries 3a. by John Calley, 16, Prices.

DRACTICAL ORSER VATIONS on the USE of the CURE of JAYA PEPPER. in the CURE of GONORRHEA; with Can by HENRY JEFFREYS, Est. Senior Surgeon to the St. George's perior a Bargeon in the St. George's a Cases in Surgeon.

9. CASES in SHRHERY, Significant the Nature and Structure of STRUEOUS or SOME STRUEOUS OF SOME STRUEOUS OF SOME STRUEOUS OF ST

LONDON MARKETS

CORN EXCHANGE, PRIDAY, OCT. Our market has been abundantly supplied with Grain during the week, and the trade in consequence is exceed and lower. Wheat meets a heavy sale, at a decline of Wheat meets a heavy sale, at a decline of from is. 2s. per quarter for the better kinds, and more for the thin ordinar 2s. per quarter for the better kinds, and more for the tain ordinal sorts, which from the greater part of what is now here. Barley, though taken off rather more freely than on Wednesday, is full in the per quarter cheaper than on Monday; and Boans and Posse set he avily, at a similar declina. The Oat trade is from is, to 2s per quarter lower, the arrival this week being large, and greatly exceeding the demand. In other articles there is no material variation to notice.

RETURN PRICE of GRAIN, on board Strong

THE GENERAL AVERAGE PRICES of ERITTON CO.
weekly from the Inspectors in the Maritime Cities and Too and Wales, according to the Gazette of the 30th of October follows:— SHARRAL AVERAGE WEIGH SOTHERS INFORTATION

Wheat, Sie 4d - Barley, 35e 5d - Oats, 2ie 11d - Rye, 26e 5d - Hand Peace, 3le 5d. PRICES OF GOLD AND SILVE

LINICAD OF DOT	THE TAND STRANDS
PortugalGeld in Coin 0 0 p. es. Foreign Geld in Bars 3 17 101 New Doublooms 0 0	New Dollars Stand 0 4 10 New Louis, each 0 4 10
COURSE OF EXCHA Ameterdam 12 17 C.F. Ditio at Sight 12 14 Rotterdam 12 18 Antwerp 12 10 Hamburgh 36 I Altona 38 2 Paria, S daye Sight, 25 75 Ditte 26 5 Bordeaux 96 5 Frankfort on Main .157 Petersburg 3 U Vienna 16 22 Ess. flo.	NUE.—PRIDAY, Oct. 1981 Tricate Madrid

COMMERCIAL REPORT,
FROM OCTOBER 15, TO OCTOBER 29, INCHES

Plantation Sugars have continued in good demand, with variation in value. The home consumption is greater than we ever known, which is a strong indication of the progressively in proving state of the country. The quantity of Coffee brought to auction, being much greater than the demand, prices have in conequence given way, from 2s. to 4s. per cwt. Some speculation has manifested itself in Tobaccos, which has caused an improvemental 1 to 1. Spirits of all descriptions, are exceedingly depressed; ala small sale of Jamaica Rum, 12 to 16 over proof only brought 1s. 6d. per gallon, and stronger in proportion. The price of Brandy is altogether nominal. Since the sale of India Cotton, a good deal of business has been transacted at a premium of 1 to 1 upon Surat, and in one instance #; Benguls are also held with much firms with every prespect of an augmented currency in both sorts. Of add bales of New Orleans presented to public notice on Thursday, pay 50 bales were quitted at 104 to 11d. in bond, for good fair to print. There appeared several export orders, but at limits, inclusion with the views of the holders. The Liverpool Cotton Market is still devoid of animation. Notwithstanding the improved value of Tallow in St Petersburgh, no offect whatever has been product here. Yellow Candle offering plentifully at 44c. 6d.

PRICK	of the	PUBL	CFON	10.7
STOCKS.	Mon.	Trues.	No.	The said
Bank Stock		238	-	(C)
3 per Cent. Reduced	77	77	273 9	22.00
3 per Cent, Console	78	78	78	16000
34 per Cent Consols	87	87		25.0
Consols for Account	78	7.53	748	- 1 3	705 44
4 per Cent. Consols	-	964	- 60	•
5 per Coat, Navy	1102.	111	111	z. Z	1
Bank Long Annuities		-			1
India Bonds	7 / p	72 P	71 3
Exchequer Bills, 2d	5 p	4 9		52.436
Ditto, 21d	_
Omnium	_			7 Table 1

BIRTHS

Ou Tuesday last, in Great Cumberland-street, Lady Glamman, heir, which died the same day.

Ou the 9th inst. at the Palace, Chester, Lady Charlotte Law, of the At Walmer, on Mour ay last, the Lady of Roar-Admiral Barvey, ter, the 9th inst, at Edinburgh, the Lady of Rear Albahar City mander-in-ChieL; of a daughter. MARRIAGES.

Vesterday) ast, Mr. Clipperton, of Norwich, Soliston, as hand danghter of George Bayne, Esq. of Norwich, Soliston, as hand danghter of the late A. Cockburn, Esq. Afer, days since, at Otterden Church, Kent, the Hon. Capt. Afer, days since, at Otterden Church, Kent, the Hon. Capt. M.P. to Charlotte, second daughter of the late A. Cockburn, Esq. On Tuesday morning, at his house to Hans-place, Henry Philicarchy beloved and deeply lamented by his namerous family. On the 7th lust, suddenly, in her carriage, Mrs. Williams.

On the 7th inst. suddenly, in her carriage, Mrs. William Anglesen, Lady of Owen Williams, Esq. M.P. for Marlows LONLON: Printed and Published by R. J. WEAVER, & No. 11, JOHNSON'S COURT, FLERT-STREET, above only Communications to the Editor, (part pole) are resist.

Digitized by Google

No. 46.

(Pelephala)

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1821.

Price 7d.

On Monday last was published, by CLEMENTI and Co. 26, Cheapside,

WELVE MONFERRINAS, for the Piano Forte, composed by MUZIO CLEMENTI, Op. 49, price 5s.

The agreeable and familiar style of these little Pieces will be found acceptable to all classes of performers.
A new SET of THREE SONATAS, for the Piano Forte, composed and ledicated to L. Cherubini, by MUZIO CLEMENTI, being the 50th Opera f the Author, price 10s. 5d.

TEW MUSIC. KIALLMARK'S universally-admired Variation EW MUSIC. KIALLMARK'S universally-admired Variations on the favourite Air, "Cease your Funning," adapted for two performers in the Plano Forte, by D. Bruguier, price 3s.—Perry's Grand Coronation March, composed and arranged as a Duet for the Flane Forte, price 2s.—Latour's eelebrated "Le Retour de Windso," arranged as a Duet for two performers on the Plano Forte, by D. Bruguier, price 5s.—The popular Air, "Sal Margine d'un Rio," an Italias Air, with Variations as a Duet for two performers on the Plano Forte, by Edw Booth, price 2s. 6d.—Boledlein's ravorite Overture, "Du Califie de Bagdad," arranged as a Duet for two performers on the Plano Forte, by T. Goodban, price 4s.—The above Buets are particularly recommended to the notice of the Musical World, being grranged by the first Music Sellers to Her Royal Highness the Duehees of Kent, 17, Old Bond-street, where may be had, Hart's Fourth Set of Quadrilles, instuding "George the Fourth," Coronation Waltz, &c. 4s.

TO NOBLEMEN AND GENTLEMEN OF RANK.

TO NOBLEMEN AND GENTLEMEN OF RANK.

CLERGYMAN, who has lately retired from the office of Tutor of a College, has taken up his residence in a Midland County, there he receives into bis House FOUR PUPILS, under 15 Years of Age, erms and Address to be had of the Editor of this Paper.

EWSPAPER .-- A PROVINCIAL NEWSPAPER, Established some Years; being the only Paper published, and possessing an almost exclusive Circulation in Three Counties. TO BE DISPOSED of on Advantageous Terms. Applications by letter (post paid), addressed Z. Z. care of the London Agents, Messrs. Newton and Co. Country Newspaper Office, b, Warwick-square, Newgate-street, London, with responsible reference, will be duly answered.

RURNISHED APARTMENTS WANTED for a SINGLE GENTLEMAN, in a respectable neighbourhood in the West or North end of the Town. £40 a year is the most that will be given, Letters, (post paid) to be addressed to C. P. at Mr. Brown's, Grocer, No. 1, Marchmontstreet, Russell-square.

paid) to be addressed to C. P. at. Mr. Brown's, Grocer. No. 1, Marchmontstreet, Russell square.

A TLAS ASSURANCE COMPANY.—LIFE DEPARTMENT.

The Directors hereby give notice to Persons desirous of effecting Insurance on their own Lives, or on the Lives of others, that the Lives insured by this Company are allowed to pass by sea, in decked vessels, from one part of the United Kingdom to another, and to and from the Islands of Guernsey and Jersey; and also in time of peace to pass in King's ships and packet or passage vessels, between the British and French Ports in the English Channel, and to include the month of the river Thames, without extra Premium, and without being subjected to the inconvenience of applying for the special leave of the Directora, as heretofore required by the usual conditions of Life Policies.

HENRY DESBOROUGH, Jun Sec.

Persons assured for the whole term of Life, will have an addition made to bethe Policies every seventh year, on the principle so beneficially practised till lately at the Equitable Assurance office; or the amount thereof may be applied in reduction of the future payments of Premium. Policies may also be effected for the whole term of Life, on a plan peculiar to this Office, whereby the Premiums exert fifth year, pravided no claim has been made for loss. Preposals fully explanatory of the principles and rates of the Company may be had at the principal Office in Cheapside, London, and of the several Agents in the country.

Early in the ensuing week will be published.

Early in the ensuing week will be published,
PRINT of the late JOHN RENNIE, Esq. To be had of Mr. W. Daniell, No. 9, Cleveland street, Fitzroy-square. Price 12s. A proofs will be taken on India paper.

Just published, by W. Sams, Bookseller to his Royal Highness the Duke of York, St. James's street.

THE LETTERS of JULIUS, Vol. I. price 7s. 6d. Where may be had.

EXPEDIENCE; a Satire: by JULIUS. Book I. price 5s.
The second volume of the Letters is in the Press.

EXCERPTA EX LIVIO.

Just published, in 12mo. price 6s. bound.

EXCERPTA EX LIVIO, CUM J. B. L. CREVIERII, NOTIS, intervis allowances absolute for the control of the contro integris aliorumque selectissimis. In usum Scholarum "Maxima debetr r pueris reverentia."—Juvenal Printed for G. and W. B. Whittaker, Ave Maria-lane

Just published, in I thick vol. 12mo. price Sa. bound,

CLAVIS HOMERICA; or, Lexicon of the Words which occur in the Iliad. Translated from the original, with Corrections and Additions—By JOHN WALKER, A.B.
Printed for G. and W. B. Whittaker, Ave Maria-lane, London; and J.

Cumming, Dublin.

Cumming, Dublin.

Just published, in 2 vols. Syo. price 24s. boards, a New Edition of MC-WILLIAM Commonly called the ALCORAN of MO-WILLIAM ED; translated from the original Arabie. With exclanatory Notes, taken from the most approved Commentators. To which is prefixed, a Preliminary Discourse. By GEORGE SALE, Gent.

Frinted for Scatcherd and Letterman; J. Cuthell; J. Nann; Longman and Co.; Baldwin and Co.; G. and W. B. Whittaker; Lackington and Co.; T. Hamilton; E. Edwards; Ogle and Co.; R. Saundera; Baynes and Sen; and W. Mason.

THE QUARTERLY REVIEW, No. L. wa. published

This day is published, in S vols. Svo. 36s. a Third Edition.

IFE of the Right Hom. WILLIAM PITT. By GEORGE TOMLINE, D.D. Lord Bishop of Winchester.

Printed for John Murray, Albemarie-street:

TOMLINE, D. D. Lord Bishop of Winchester.

Printed for John Murray, Albemarle-street;

This Day was published, with Plates, Wood-Cuts, &c. in Octavo, 7s. 6d.

THE QUARTERLY JOURNAL of LITERATURE, SCIENCE, and THE ARTS. No. XXIII.

Contents.—I. On an Ancient Monument of Sculpture in Stone representing the Theban Sphinx, which was recently discovered at Colchester. By C. W. A. Hay, Esq., A.B., F.A.S. Vith Plates and Wood-cuts.—II. Some additional Facts relating to the Division of the Eighth Pair of Nerves. By A. P. W. Philip, M. D., F.R.S.E., &c.—III. On Secret Writing, in Reply to Mr. Chenerit's Challenge. By the Rev. Edward Hincks, A. M., formerly Fellow of Trin. Col. Dublin.—IV. Contributions towards the Chemical Rnowledge of Mineral Substances. By the late M. A. Klaproth. Continued from Vol. XI.—V. Captain Kater on the Construction of a Balance. With a Wood-cut.—VI. On Pitchstone. By J. M. Culloch, M. D., F.R.S., &c.—VII. A Translation of Rev's Essays on the Calcination of Metals. By John George Children, Esq.—VIII. A turther Inquiry ixto the Nature of the Products of the Slow Combustion of Ether. By J. F. Daniell, Esq. F.R. S. and M.R.I.—IX. On some New Electro-Magnetical Motions, and on the Theory of Magnetism. By M. Faraday, Chem Assist, at the Royal Institution. With a Plate.—X. Dr. Hastings on the Division of the Eighth Pair of Nerves.—XI. Meteorological Observations. By J. F. Daniell, Esq. F.R. S. and M.R.I.—XII. An Account of some Observations and Experiments made by Mr. Green suring his Ascent in a Balloon on the 6th Sept. 1821. Communicated by R. H. Solly, Esq. F.R.S., and M.R.I.—XII. An Account of some Observations and Experiments made by R. H. Solly, Esq. F.R.S., and M.R.I.—XII. An Account of some Observations and Experiments made by R. H. Solly, Esq. F.R.S., and M.R.I.—XIII. Proceedings of the Royal Society of London for the Year 1821. Part 1.—XV. Astronomical and Nantical Collections, No. VII.—I. An Essay on the easiest and most convenient method of calculating the Orbit of a Comet from Observati

the state of the s

DR. CHALMERS S ECONOMY of TOWNS.

THE CHRISTIAN AND CIVIC ECONOMY OF LARGE TOWNS, No. 9. On the Relation that subsists between the Christian and the Civic Esonomy of large Towns.—By THOMAS CHALMERS, D.P. The dirst volume of this Work may be had, price 8s. 6d. boards. Also, 2. Dr. CHALMERS'S COMMERCIAL DISCOURSES, 8vo. 8s. boards. 3. Dr. CHALMERS on CIVIL GOVERNMENT, 8vo. 1s. 6d. Published by G. and W. B. Whittaker, London; and Chalmers and Collins, Glasgow.

FAUSTUS, by GOETHE—NEW TRANSLATION.

Just published, by Boosey and Sons, 4. Broad-street, a New Translation of PAUSTUS, from the German of GOETHE; beautifully printed in one vol. 8ve. on a fine hot-pressed paper, and embellished with a correct and highly-finished portrait of the Author, price 6x. Also, just published, 2. RETSCH'S SERIES of SPIRITED GUTLINES to FAUSTUS, engraved by Mr. MOSES; 4to, boards, 14s.

AN INTRODUCTION to the MAKING of LATIN; comprising, in an easy and an appendious Method, the Substance of the Latin Syntax; with proper English Examples (chiefly Translations from the Classic Authors), in one column, and the Latin Words in another. To which is subjoined, in the same method, a succinst Account of the Affairs of ancient Greece and Rome; intended at once to bring loys to an acquaintance with History, and with the Idiam of the Latin Tongme; with Rules for ascertaining the Genders of Nouns.—By JOHN CLARKE. The Thirty-fourth Edition, materially corrected.

Printed for F. C. and J. Rivington; Scatcherd and Letterman; W. Ginger; Longman and Co.; G. and W. B. Whittaker; J. Richardson; Sherwood-and Co.; Lackington and Co.; J. Mawman; Baldwin and Co.; J. Nunn; Boosey and Sons; E. Williams; T. Hamilton; E. Edwards; and J. Souter.

MARMONTEL/S INCAS.

and Sons; E Willams; T. Hamilton; E. Edwards; and J. Souter.

MARMONTEL'S INCAS.

Just published, a New Edition, price 6s. bound,

ES INCAS, on he Destruction de Pérou, par M. MARMONTEL; revu et corrige d'après les meilleures editions de Paris.—Par
V. WANOSTROCHT, LL.D.

Prinfed for Boosey and Son; B. Dulan and Co.; Mawman; G. and W. B.
Whittaker; Simpkin and Co.; Ogie and Co.; where may be had,
2. ABREGE de L'HISTOIRE de GIL BLAS de SANTILLANE. Par
Dr. WANOSTROCHT. 6s. bound.
3. BELISAHRE. Par MARMONTEL. 12mo. 4s. 6d.
4. ABREGE de VOYAGE d'ANACHARSIS. 8vo. 8s.
5. NUMA POMPILIUS. Par FLORIAN. 12mo. 5s.

TO MAGISTRATES AND SOLICITORS.
Just published, price 8s. boards.

A COMPENDIOUS ABSTRACT of the PUBLIC GENERAL ACTS, passed in the 1st and 2d of Gra. IV., being the 2d Session of the Public Residence of the Public General Residence of the Public Residence of the Public Residence of the Public Residence of the Public Residence of Great Britain and Ireland, with Notes and Comments, by T. W. WILLIAMS, Esq. of the Inner Temple, Bartister et Legente.

Notes and Comments, by T. W. WILLIAMS, Esq. of the inner accepts, rister at Law.

Printed for W. Wright, 46, Fleet-street; where also may be had the Abstracts for 1816, 17, 18, 19, 20, and 21, together or separately.

NATORAL HISTORY.

Price 6s, illustrated with 29 Beautiful Coloured Plates,

A SELECT CABINET of NATURAL HISTORY, with an Historical account of the Silk Worm, and an elegant Method of obtaining every exact and pleasing Representations of Plants, by the late GEORGE SHAW, M.D. F.R.S. Principal Naturalist of the British Museum. To which is added, The Gardener's Eulendar, and Lady's Flower Garden.

Printed for W. Wright, 46, Fleet-streek.

Printed for W. Wright, 46, Fleet-streek.

BEAUTIES OF THE LIVING POETS.

Just published, a New Bdition, price 7s. bds. embellished with a Benatiful Engraving.

THE BEAUTIES of the MODERN POETS, being Selections from the Works of Byron, Scatt, Campbell, Rogers, Crabbe, Colman, Southey, Moore, Wordsworth, Montgomery, Coleridge, &c. &c. &c. including many Original Pieces never before published, and an Introductory View of the Modern Temple of Faure. By D. GAREY.

London: Printed for W. Wright, 46, Fleet-street.

AMPORTANT NEW NOVEL, in 3 Vols, price 15s. bds.

THE REPUBLICAN'S MISTRESS, a Novel founded upon Facts. By CHARLOTTE SMITH.

N. B. The, MS. of this Work was in the possession of a Nobleman, and by his authority is now offered to the Public.

London: Printed for W. Wright, 46, Fleet-street.

AMERICAN BOOKS,
Just Imported by John Miller, 69, Floet-street.

HILADELPHIA JOURNAL, of the MEDICAL and PHYSICAL SCIENCES, No. 1.
2. NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW, No. 7, (New Series).
3. ARCHELOGIA AMERICAN, Vol. 4.
4. JOURNAL of the ACADEMY of NATURAL SCIENCES, 2 vols.
5. NUTTALL'S GENERA OF NORTH AMERICAN PLANTS, 2 vols.
6. COMPENDIUM FLOR.E PHILADELPHICAE, By Dr. BARTON, 2 vols.
2 vols.

2 vols.

7. DR. BARTON'S MEDICAL BOTANY, 2 vols, 4to.

8. JOURNAL of JURISPREDIENCE, Nos. 1 to 3.

9. THE BACKWOODSMAN; & POPID. BY Mr. PAULDING.

10. VINDICIE HIBERNIGE; or, IRELAND VINDICATED. BY Mr. CARBY.

Mr. CARRY!

On the 1st of November will be published, price 5s. No. VIII. completing the Pourth Volume of Pourth of the Present Century: continued quarterly.

Contents of Vol. IV.—1. Howelf's Pamiliar Letters—2. Ferdusi's Shah Nameh, Persian MS.—3. Gaule's Distractions, or the Holy Madnesse—4. Chalkhill's (Isaac Walton) Thealma and Clearchus—5. History of the Knights Templars—6. Rojert Southwelf's Works—7 Memoirs of Gandenio di Lucca—8. Bacen's Novum Organum—9. George Chapman's Dramatic Works—10. The Juice of the Grape—11. Life at Benvenuto Cellini, by himself—12. Poetical Literature of Spain—13. Dryden's Prose Works—14. Lawrence's Arnalte and Lucendo—16. Aschau's Toxophilius, or the Schole of Shootings—16. Davenpott's King John and Matilda—17. Andrew Fletcher's Political Works—18. Lovelace's Datasta—19. Sir John Wynne's History of the Gwedir Pamily—20. The Early Knglish Drama, Plays of Christopher Marlowe.

Published by C. and H. Baldwyn. Newscate street, and B. Triphock. Other Pourth Pourth

Marlows,
Published by C. and H. Baldwyn, Newgate-street; and R. Triphook, Old Bend-street.

Just published, in 3 rols, 12mo, price II; Is, the Third Edition of SEFUL KNOWLEDGE; or, a Familiar Account of the various Productions of Nature-Mineral, Vegetable, and Animal-which are chiefly employed for the use of man. Illustrated with numerous Figures, and intended as a work both of instruction and reference; by the Rev. WM. BINGLEY, A.M. Author of Animal Biography.

London: Pristed for Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy; Harvey and Darton; and F. C. and J. Rivington.

and F. C. and J. Rivington.

HISTORY OF FRANCE, FOR YOUTH.

Just published, in 12mo. with six Engravings from Original Designs, price 7s. boards.

SHORT HISTORY OF FRANCE; including the printers of the Empire by Pharament to the SHORT HISTORY OF FRANCE; including the printarion of Louis KAIII—By Mr., MOORE.

Description of Louis KAIII—By Mr., MOORE.

Description of the same Work, in 2 vols. illustrated with 32 Plates, printed uniformly with the long-esteemed Works of her Mother, Mrs. Trimmer; price 8s. bound lared.

London: Printed for Baldwin, Gradock, and Joy, Paternoster-row; and N. Hailes, Piccadilly; by whom also are published, the following esteemed Works of Mrs. Trimmer; viz.—

2. SCRIPTURE HISTORY and PRINTS; in 2 vols. price 2s. sewed.

3. SCRIPTURE LESSONS from the OLD TESTAMENT, with prints; 2 vols. sewed, price 4s.

s. sewed, price 4s. SCRIPTURE LESSONS from the NEW TESTAMENT, with prints;

2 vols. sewed, price 4s.
5. ENGLISH HISTORY, with Prints; in 3 vols. sewed, price 5g. 6d.
6. ANCIENT HISTORY, and ROMAN HISTORY, each in 2 vols. price each 4s.

Just published, by Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, in 12mo, price 7s.

KETCHES of the MANNERS and INSTITUTIONS of ROME and GREECE.

Just published, by Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, in 12mo, price 7s.

KETCHES of the MANNERS and INSTITUTIONS of the ROMANS.

To troccupred to the Author, that a concise account of the state of society in Ancient Rome, clothed in plain language, divested, as far as possible, of Latin terms, and praned et all subjects which offend against delicatey, could not fail to be serviceable to young persons of both sexes, who are completing their education; and might perhaps, not prove unacceptable to some of riper years.

"Carefully and judiciously compiled from a variety of the best sources, there are few books of the kind which we could recommend to be put into the hands of young persons with greater satisfaction than this little volume. Its contents embrace, we think, every subject of importance connected with Roman society, and all that may be worth knowing of the domestic affairs of a nation, essentially warlike, and (compared with modern civilization) barbarons, is to be gathered from this publication in a pleasing form.—

Literary Gazette.

2. ESSAYS on the INSTITUTIONS, GOVERNMENT, and MANNERS-of the STATES of ANCIENT GREECE; by HENRY DAVID HILL.

D.D. Professor of Greek in the University of St. Andrew's. 12mo, price 7s. with a copious Index.

"To young persons who are just entering upon the higher classies, and to studious men who are desirous of repairing, by their own industry, the accidental defects of an imperfect education, a more useful assistant, we think, cannot be well furnished. In the first six essays, the author treats of the heroic age, and those institutions which cencerned the Greeks generally; in the subsequent ones he confines himself to the snauners and customs of those two leading states in Greece. An Essay on the Government, Manners, and Religion of the Persinns, a people whom the more brilliant history of the Greeks has been suffered to throw too much into obscurity, ve prosecuted."—Quarterly Rev. No. 43.

Just published, on a large sheet of Columbier Drawing Paper, price 7e. coloured in divisions; 19s. 6d. on a roller, or 14s. if varnished.

LIVER'S GEOGRAPHICAL AND STATISTICAL CHART.

LIVER'S GEOGRAPHICAL SYNOPSIS of the WORLD, and Topographical View of Great Eritain and Ireland; exhibiting the extent and grand division of the World, with a comprehensive Description of the four Quarters of the Globe, and the principal islands belonging to each; a Topographical Account of Great Britain and Ireland, with an Astronomical Synopsis of the Sun and Planets; particularly adapted for Libraries, Public Offices, &c.

London: Printed for Baldwin, Cradock, and Jay, Paterno-ter-row; by whom also is published, a New Editien improved, of

2. GUY'S CHART of GENEBAL HISTORY, Ancient and Modern, our a large sheet of Columbica Drawing Paper, price 7s. coloured; 10s. 6d. on canvas and roller, or 14s. if varnished.

WORKS IN DIVINITY.

a large sheet of Columbier Drawing Paper, price 7s. coloured; 10s. 6d. on canvas and roller, or 14s. if varnished.

WORKS IN DIVINITY.

Published by Baldwin, Craduck, and Joy, Paternoster-row,

THE CHRONOLOGY of our SAVIOUR'S LIFE; or, an inquiry into the true time of the Birth, Baptism, and Crucifixion, of Jesus Christ; by the Rev. C. BENSON, M.A. Author of an inquiry into the Sacrament of Baptism. In 8vo. 6s. boards.

2. OBSERVATIONS on the CANONICAL SCRIPTURES; by MARY CORNWALLIS, of Wittersham. In 4 vols 8vo. the Second Edition, revised and corrected, price 2l. 2s.

BY The Purchasers of the first Edition may obtain copies of a complete Index, now first printed, price 1s.

3. SERMONS. By the Rev. THOMAS BOYS, A.M. of Trinity College, Cambridge; 8vo. price 10s. 6s.

4. DISCOURSES on the THREE CREEDS, and on the Homage offered to our Saviour on certain and particular secasions, during his ministry, as expressed in the Evangelical Writings by the Greek Term IPOXKINEG. By EDW. NARES, B.D. In 8vo. 10s. 6d. boards,

L. An INQUIRY, chiefly on Principles of Religion, into the Nature and IPONYMER. By BBW. NAKES, B.D. In 870, 108, 60, boards,

5. An INQUIRY, shiefly on Principles of Religion, into the Nature and Discipline of Human Motives. By the Rev. Jetta PENROSE, M.A. Author of the Bampiant Lecture Surmons for 1898. 8vc. 10s, 6d, boards.

B3. The object of this work is to supply a manifest desideratum in moral and theological science, by shewing systematically the connection between principles of religion and those #virtue.

5. LBCTURES- on the TEMPER and SPIRIT of the UHRISTIAN RELIGION. Addressed to the numerous parties which agitate and divide this Empire; by MATTHEW. ALLEN, E.M. R.M. S.E. &c. Author of Outlines of a Course of Lectures on Chemical Philosophy. In small 8vo. 8sboards.

boards,
7. CHRISTIAN ESSAYS; by the Rev. SAM. CHAS. WILKS, A.M. of St. Edmund Hall, Oxford. In 2 vols. 8vo. 14s. boards.
8. LECTURES on the Principles and Institutions of the Roman Catholic Religion; with an Appendix, containing Historical and Critical Hustrations; by JOS. FLETCHER, M.A. The Second Editios, corrected and enlarged, price Sc. boards. Mac. wheels, will be unblished.

Religion; with an Appeninx, containing ristories and crifficial lines; rations; by JOS. FLETCHER, M.A. The Second Editios, corrected and enlarged, price 9s. boards. Also, shortly will be published.

9. The RESURRECTION of LAZARUS, is a Course of Sermons, om the Eleventh Chapter of St. John; from the French of BEAUSOBRE.—By the Rev. H. COTES, Vicar of Bedlington.

MAD. DE STAEL on the FRENCH REVELUTION.

Just published; in 3 vols, 8vo. price II. 16s. the Second Edition of CONSIDERATIONS on the PRINCIPAL EVENTS of the PRENCH REVOLUTION: a Postumous work of the Baroness DE STAEL, edited by the Duke de Broglie and the Baron de Stael; and translated under their superintendence.

London: Printed for Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, Paternoster-row; by whom asso is published, in 3 vols. 8vo. price II. 16s. The Second Edition of the French Original, printed from the Manuscript.

"Madame de Stael, whose guifus it would be a reflection on our own taste not to admire, and on our own candour not to extol; has, towards the end of her admirable posthumous work, done, in general, noble justice to the English character. She had talents to appreciate, and opportunities to examise it, in its highest condition, and most advantageous forms."—Moral Sketches by Mrs. Hannak More, page 25.

Just published, io 6 vols. price les, 6d. half-bound, the Twelfth Edition, of by Mrs. Hannah More, page 25.

Just published, io 6 vols, price 10s, 6d. half-bound, the Twelfth Edition, of MVENINGS AT HOME; or, the Juvenile Budget opened: consisting of a variety of miscellaneous pieces for the instruction and anusement of young persons. By Dr. AIKIN and Mrs. BARBAULD. Loudon; Printed for Baidwin, Cradock, and Joy, Paternoster-row; and B. Hanter (meessor to J. Jehnson), St. Paul's Church-yard. By whom also are published.

2. The WOODLAND COMPANION; or, a brief Description of British Trees, with some Account of their Uses. By Dr. AIKIN. Third Edition, illustrated by 28 Plates; 9s. nearly half bound.

3. ARTS of Life :—I. Of Providing Food—2. Of Providing Clothing—3. Of Providing Shelter; described in a Seites of Letters, for the Instruction of young persons. Third Edition, half bound, 2s. 6d. By the same.

4. NATURAL HISTORY of the YEAR, being an Enlargement of the Calender of Nature. By Mr. ARTHUR AIKIN. Fourth Edition, 12mo. 3s. 6d. bound.

5. JUVENILE CORRESPONDENCE; or, Letters designed as Examples of the Epistolary Style, for Children of both Sexes. By Miss AIKIN. Second Edition, 18mo. half-bound, 2s. 6d.

LAST NIGHT'S GAZETTE.

WHITEHALL, Oct. 24, 1871.

Dispatches have been received by Viscount Sidmouth from the Marquis of Londonderry, dated Hanover, the 18th Instant, announcing the intention of His Majesty to return to England; and that the King has been pleased to fix upon Thursday the 25th instant, as the day of His departure from Hanover for that purpose. outh from the Marquis of BANKRUPTS DICKS, J. London-street, Tottenham Court-road, carpenter.

WILLCOX, J. S. and THTERTON, F. J. Theobald's road, coach makers.
CALLOW J. Princes-street, Sobo, medical bookseellers.
GERMAINE, G. Bristof, merchant.

HART, J. Braiford, Wits, shopkeeper.

BAMBER, W. BURY, T. & COCHRAN, T. Hayton, calico printers.

HOWARD, T. C. Hartley-Wintney, Southampton, surgeon.

GOODMAN, late of Witherley, Leicester, Jobber in cattle.

STEPHENSON, R. Cvitingham, & HART, R. Seulcoates, merchants.

TURSDAY'S GASHYTH

PARTNERSHIPS DIGSOLYED.

J. and J. R. Cushey, Phowled, seedeners.—Handsword, Binderic Responses, and Lanconic, University, Seedings.—Person Responses, Seedings, Condenses, Physics Burney, Proceedings, Condenses, Physics Burney, Proceedings, Condenses, Partners, Proceedings, Condenses, Proceedings, Condenses, Proceedings, Partners, Par

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

Par a, Oct. 21.—Archinapy of Paris.—The last Bulletins of the health of Monseigneur the Cardinal Talleyrand, had announced enough to prepare us for the intelligence that this illustrious and excellent Prelate, would shortly be translated from that carry which he adorned by virtues that reflected honour on the Ciepts, which he adorned by virtues that reflected honour on the Ciepts, which he adorned by virtues that reflected honour on the Ciepts, which he adorned by virtues that reflected honour on the Ciepts, which he adorned by virtues that prefered honour on the Ciepts, which he adorned by virtues that the recreive of those eminent qualities which distinguished an Eccleciastical Prince. His decease took place yesterday, at twe viclock in the morning. He died without a struggle. He was prepared for this event by an holy resignation to the Divine Will, and he was strengthened in the last extremity, by all the supports of religion. He was born at Paris in the year 1736, and was christened Alexander Angustus Talleyrand Perigord. Descended from one of the most litustrious families in Prance; he was, after an education quite worthy of his rank and of the profession which he intended to embrace, soon promoted to a Bishopric and raised to the digitity of Archbishop of Rheims, which entitled him to anoint the Princes of his country.—By the death of the Archbishop of Paris, Louis XVIII. will have a mitre, and his Holineses a Cardinal's hat to dispose of. In looking over the list of the Sacred College, we find a great proportion of the members of very advanced ages. His Holiness is upwards of 79; the Cardinal Archbishop of Pirra 85; the Cardinal Archbishop of Sienna 81; the Cardinal Archbishop of Paris. Oct. 22.—This day the mortal remains of his Eminence the deceased Archbishop of Langres 81; and several others are about 90. The youngest is the Cardinal Rodolph, John Joseph Reinier, Archduke of Austria, who, most likely, will wear the triple crown long before he reaches the age of the present Pope is nominated a Peer of France.—Swirnald's Debata.

Lord Londonderry is expected to arrive in Paris in the course of a few days.—Constitutionel.

It is said that the Abbe Duc de Montesquieu, Peer of France, will be appointed Grand Almoner to the Crown.

Farmen Electrons.—The result of the Elections is now known. Every one calculates the probabilities, and compares the relative force of the party to which he attaches himself. It has been justly said, that every name which comes forth from the Electronal arm is a declaration of principle; and here it is seen beyond a doubt, that France rejects the Revolutionists. The Chamber will then present, according to every probability, a majority decidedly resolved to insure the triumph of legitimate Royalty.—Mondeur.

The last advices from Marseilles state, that the few individuals who have been attacked with the contagious fever are perfectly recovered, and that the state of health in that city, and on beard the ships in the harbour, is perfectly sound.

covered, and that the state of health in that city, and on beard the ships in the harbour, is perfectly sound.

Letters from Perpignan, dated the 13th inst. give the following details respecting the state of Barcelona:—On the 9th, the French physicians arrived in this ill-fated town. The people througed to the inn at which they alighted, and hailed their with a thousand thanks, as their deliverers. The arrival of these courageous physicians has inspired general confidence. The number that have died in Barcelona from the 7th of Sept. to the 6th of Oct. is upwards of 10,000. Apprehensions are entertained, that the populace en masse will endeavour to break through the cordon, if it be not removed to a more distant circumvallation.

Brussels, Oct. 17.—The Assiges at Ghent have sentenced Mr. Houdin, the Proprietor, and M. Peseux, the Editor of The Journal de Gand, the former to a fine of 1200 francs, and the lutter of 000 francs, for expressions relative to the affairs of Naples injurious to the allied Sovereigns. The accused were restored to liberty as soon as sentence was passed.

allied Sovereigns. The accused were restored to liberty as soon as sentence was passed.

Frankport, Oct. 14.--The change in the travelling route of the King of England appears to have been occasioned by the lead state of the roads from Dusseldorf to Osnahruck, which, at the period of his return, would, in the event of rain, render travelling impracticable. His Majesty's carriage was overturned on the Munster route; happily no accident was the consequence. The King's departure for Baden will take place about the 23d inst. His Majesty will probably stop at Gottingen and Cassel, therefore it will be the 28th before he can arrive here.

Oct. 17.--We have received the following intelligence from the frontiers of Moldavia, dated the 26th ult.:--"It is asserted that the Klaja Bey have heen decapitated, and his head sent to Constantinople. The new Sersskier has caused the Bishop of Roman to be nut in irons."

put in irons.

put in irons."

HANGTER, Oct. 16th.—The beautiful Princess of Salms, daughter of her Royal Highness the Duchess of Cumberland, who is nineten years of age, is particularly noticed by his Majesty. The King's Physicians declared, that it was absolutely necessary that his Majesty should keep his bed five or six days, for which reason, the dinner at the Duke of Cambridge's, the procession to the church, and the arrand parade on Sunday morning, are countermanded. His excellency the Minister V. Arnswarldt, will set out on the 21st for Gottingen, to prepare for the arrival of the King, which, if his Majesty's health will permit, is to be on the 25th.

A robbery has taken place at Hanover, which has occasioned a good deal of conversation, as well as much activity on the part of the police. Sir B. Bloomfield left his watch in a chamber adjoining to his room. He was absent for a short time, a person with a the police. Sir B. Bloomfield left his watch in a chamber adjoining to his room. He was absent for a short time, a person with a message from the King having detained him when on his way back to his chamber; but on returning, he discovered that the watch was gone. This loss is the more vexatious to Sir B. Bloomfield, as the watch was the gift of the King, and contains within it a fine likeness of his Majesty. All the endeavours of the police to get any traces of it, have as yet been fruitless.

Hangen, Oct. 16.-Accounts from St. Petersburgh of September 98, say, that Baron's Strogonoff strived there on the 25th; the Majesty. All the endeavours of the police to send a large sum of money to relieve the Greek facilities.

Viewal, Oct. 8.-We have just learned, that our capital will not be henoured with the presence of the King of Great Britain. Prince Nicholas de Esterhazy dispatched an extraordinary courier, with peremotory orders that his hotel here; and even his residence rying on, have has changed access and strict access and part of Chanters and From that or continue the chanters are continued to the chanters are continued to the chanters are chanters are a rupture; here is a second of the head of the second of the chiefs of the shipter is a second of the chiefs of the shipter is the second of the chiefs of the shipter is the shipter is the second of the chiefs of the shipter is the shipter is the shipter is the shipter is the shipter in the shipter is the shipter in the shipter is the shipter in the re against an suspensent. We have this instant been informed, which had fillasian Ambanasach has just made a new communication to declare. Canadicationmed.

We know, Thom and the superior in the Banant.

And Many Thom and the suspensions in the Banant.

And Many Thom and the suspensions in the Banant.

And Many A. A. The Secritors are going on here, and certes of turbulenge and seasefur has elace in different parts of the city. The Many is described a sease of the Ministers of Joseph had been, beater which had been beater with the suspension of the Many in the city. The Many is described in the suspension of the many of the country of the sovereign mobile, who intimated to bin that it he should be done as abligate done not be successed; and General Castance had been abligate done in the suspension of the suspen

THE MING.

Tite Ring.

On the 18th, in the forenoon, His Majesty gave a private audience to the General in Chief, Count Beuningsen, and the Counters. Benningsen. His Majesty then gave a public audience, sitting on the Throne, and surrounded by the Dakes of Cambridge, she Ministers, the Chief Officers of the Court, &c. to the School of the Ministers, the Chief Officers of the Court, &c. to the Deputations from the General Assembly of the States of the Kingdow; the Mereditory Landmarchall, was at their head, having on his right hand, the President of the Scoond Chamber. His Majesty replied in the most gracious terms to the Address spoken by the President, Count Mecreveld. The High Chamberlain then presented deputations from numerous public bodies and cities. His Majesty received them standing, and answered the Addresses most graciously in the German language. In the afternoon, her Boyal Highness the Landgravine of Hesse Hombourg arrived in Hanover. In the evening, the officers of all the corps gave His Majesty a serenade by torchight, which had an uncommonly fine effect; above 1800 brothes colicted in a small compass in the garden of Herrenhausen, spread a mass of light which at a great distance was taken for a large hall of fire. The King appeared at the balomy of the palace fronting the garden, and was welcomed with the londest acclamations. On the 18th, the King reviewed the troops, near Stocken; fourteen butallions of infantry, several brigades of artillery, and eight regiments of cavalry, were collected. His Majesty, and horse back, and the Princesses and a numerous suite in carriages drawn by sit and four horses. Both the troops and the numerous speciators (200 carriages were fawn up opposite the life) received His Majesty with the most enthusiastic transports of loyalty. When the King had returned to the centry, the Governor-General, behind the troops and the numerous speciators (200 carriages were fawn up opposite the life) received His Majesty with the most enthusiastic transports of loyalty. When the King had retu the Genthey to good with the learning of the first warrer sear account to the though fourther learning of the first the property and it definitions and developed the first warrer property and it is the parish of Kildi melecut day; Westlemberg on typic business of the parish of Kildi melecut day; Westlemberg on typic business of the parish of Kildi melecut day; Westlemberg on typic business of the parish of Kildi melecut day; Westlemberg on typic business of the parish of Kildi melecut day; Westlemberg on typic business of the parish of Kildi melecut day; Westlemberg on typic business of the parish of Kildi melecut day to the request Mr. Furlong objected; they then commenced his insertions, and and the parish of the parish of the parish of the request Mr. Furlong objected; they then commenced his insertions, and debto among the ruffiness, who run array in all directions, and without obtaining any free-arriva. Therefore, the wind his parish of the parish of the red with a state of the parish of th through the streets of Limerick the most marked indifference and observable in the conduct of the lower orders. The Charlevilla, yeomanry are now on permanent duty, in consequence of the yeomanry are now on permanent duty, in consequence of the yeomanry are now on permanent duty, in consequence of the yeutrages which occur nightly in that neighbourhood: We hear that the Adare yeomanry corps, which was most distinguished during the rebellion, is also to be placed on duty. Their Captain, Richard Smith, Esq. has liberally offered 501 for the apprehension of the murderers of Walsh. A yeomanry corps is shout to be established at Hospital, in the county of Limerick. May, Gennair John Lambert, K.C.B., has been directed to fix his head-quarties at Newcastle, in the County of Limerick, and to draw thicker has many troops as he shall think necessary to put a total step to outrages. The 43d, are reported to be on their march to Limerick and it is also stated, that the 11th and 49th regiments are so defined for the Limerick district. The 42d Highlanders, are going to Limerick. Three Troops of the 3d Drag, are in Limerick garrison. At the county of Limerick Sessions, Michael Haley was principled to the county of Limerick Sessions, Michael Haley was principled to the county of Limerick sessions, michael Haley was principled to the county of Limerick sessions, michael Haley was principled to the county of Limerick sessions, michael Haley was principled to the county of Limerick sessions, michael Haley was principled to the county of Limerick sessions, michael Haley was principled to the county of Limerick sessions, michael Haley was principled to the county of Limerick sessions, michael Haley was principled to the county of Limerick sessions, michael Haley was principled to the county of Limerick sessions are constituted by Mr. Adam Corneal, for having assaulted bith on the session of the session would be appeared to the county of Limerick sessions are constituted to the county of Limerick county of Limerick county of Limeric

MOADAY. COUNTY OF LINEAUCAN PROSECULAR AND ANALYSIS ANALYSIS AND ANALYSIS ANALYSIS AND ANALYSIS A

At the county of Limerick Sessions, Michael Haley was pitched by Mr. Adam Corneal, for having assaulted bim on the lime of August last, by striking him with a speak, and, at the same lime anying, he would kill him, for having gone out at night, assaining the Magistrates in apprehending the housest fellows who tritled him. Torrance. Mr. Corneal applied to Mr. Barrington, Croim Solicitor, stated, that he was in attendance, as a witness for the Croim at the last Assizes, in the prosecution for the murder of Mr. Tarren, and required his assistance. Mr. Barrington, according attended this prosecution, and put the Court in possession displaying the case, and of their injurious tendency. The Jury Mr. Inches of the case, and of their injurious tendency. The Jury Mr. Ingare of the case, and of their injurious tendency. The Jury Mr. Ingare of the case, and of their injurious tendency. The Jury Mr. Ingare of the case, and of their injurious tendency. The Jury Mr. Ingare of the case, and of their injurious tendency. The Jury Mr. Ingare of the case, and of their injurious tendency. The Jury Mr. Ingare of the case, and of their injurious tendency. The Jury Mr. Ingare of the case, and of their injurious tendency. The Jury Mr. Ingare of the case, and in the memoral, and was incretofice of good character, the control of the country of Mayo, a meeting of the Magistrates has been advertiged; a strong disposition to severe associations, and corn and substance of the Magistrates has been advertiged; a strong disposition to severe associations, and corn and substance of the Magistrates has been advertiged; a strong disposition to severe associations, and corn and substance of the Magistrates has been advertiged in the their country. We shall not the desired of the Magistrates has been advertiged in the desired of the Magistrates has been advertiged to the Magistrates has been adv

COURT OF THE PROPERTY OF THE P

individuant v. The Earl Isinta Contravine The plaintiff sought to be secover the amount of four bills of exchange, in an action of Assembly to be secover the amount of four bills of exchange, in an action of Assembly to the opinion of Laster Court sitting in Sense, on certain special points. The plaintiff of was administrator to the late W. Hope, Esq. of the East Indies, who had realised unsaiderable property, who turned the property he had into four bills of exchange, which were transmitted to England by the Jane, Duckess of Gordon; and Mr. Hope, with his family, took his passage to England, in 1809, in another vessel; which was robot with all its crew. The questions on which the points turned were: first, whether an action of Assumpsit could lie against the intestate's Power to Atterney for three of these bills, was legally be distherized to indorse these; thereby whether the company could of metal the Statute of Limitations.

blead the Statute of Limitations.

The Court, after hearing the arguments of Counsel, took time to consider their judgment.

LORD MAYOR'S COURT, GUILDHALL.

LORD MAYOR'S COURT, GUILDHALL.

A question of some importance relative to the admissibility of the common Sergeant, in the case of Harding and others, plaintiffs, saminst Heyliger, defendant, and Alcharne, garnishee.

The Common Sergeant, in the case of Harding and others, plaintiffs, saminst Heyliger, the wife of Capt. Heyliger, had obtained from the course of the Common Sergeant, and Alcharne, garnishee.

Archarles a packer in the City, to be packed up, in order to their design forwarded to Mrs. Heyliger, then at St. Omer's, in France. Against these goods, which, from their quantity, were contained an no less than 65 packages, several foreign attachments were issued while in the hands of Mrs. Alchorne, the garnishee, and among others by the plaintiffs, for a claim of 2521, due to them. Measurements of the property of the property of the correct Christian name of the correct of the property. By this piece of management, Measurements, and the property of the property attached, there appeared every two-bability of their recovering the whole of their debt. The garnishee, however, was advised to try the case with them, upon the growing that the goods were not delivered to her in the name or as the property of Captain Heyliger. On the trial in the Mayor's Court trible Jury found a verdict for the validity of the attachment, thereby an deciding the property to be the defendant's. The goods attached that the goods were not delivered to her in the name or as the property of Captain Heyliger. On the trial in the Mayor's Court trible Jury found a verdict for the validity of the attachment, no prevent of the property to be the defendant's. The goods attached the growing the property to be the defendant's. The goods attached the growing the property to be the defendant's. The goods attached the property which, according to Mrs. Heyliger, statement, had been were not delivered to her attachment, no prevent and the property which, according to Mrs. Heyliger's statement, had been beginned to the trial and the only purchased

MIDDLESEX SESSIONS.

MIDDLESEX SESSIONS.

"Monday, Thomas Dane, a jeweller, in Regent-street, was abdicted for having in his possession on the 21st of August last, due pair of diamsand ear-rings, value 20. one pearl ring, 11. one tury quoise stone set in gold, value 21. and one gold chain, value 21. the property of George Ellmore, he (the defendant) knowing the same to have been stolen. It appeared that a lad, named Mitchell, had been suspected of robbing Mrs. Ellmore of property to a great resemble and, is consequence of information she went to the designment, and, is consequence of information she went to the designment, and, is consequence of information she went to the designment, and, is consequence of information she went to the designment, and the officer to whom he was given in the sendant as soon, where she discovered some of her property in his window; her husband and the officer to whom he was given in the manner in which he became possessed of the articles. Twelve manner in which he became possessed of the articles. Twelve manner in which he became possessed of the property in his possess, who had seen the stones in his possession before he had mannactured that he might be allowed to produce six witnesses, who had seen the stones in his possession before he had mannactured them into the articles produced on his trial; why takey had not been called he could not tell. Mr. Alley and Mr. Alle Smith for 14 days, Sentt for seven days, and the female was fined is in the Buckingham Sessions, Susar Swift, was indicted for send-sing a threatening letter with a view to extort money; it appeared that she had lived as housemaid to Mr. Manwaring Davis, of Addington Heure, from July, 1819, to March, 1820, when she left the place without assigning any reason at the time for so doing. On the let of August last, a letter was delivered to Mr. M. Davis by his servant, signed "Swift," wherein she stated, that her reason for leaving her place was what she had seen between Henry Horne and him. A second and third letter, in a similar style, were sent to Mr. Davis. The charge is stated in the third letter, but with meshall not cully our columns by a repetition. With respect to the ademand, she says, "I am requested by you to say what will satisfy me: I should rather have left it to you. Six hundred pounds will datirfy me—I will not take less. Say when and where I may receive him—On the lat of September, Swift and her brother-in-law, Elichard favin, were taken before a Magistrate, when the four letters were produced, and acknowledged by Swift to have been a bent by her; but that her brother, Savin, wrote them. He did not deny this, but said he wrote nothing more than what his sister dictented to him. These confessions were not signed by the parties, that were verified on oath by two Magistrates who were present at the examination. The Jury returned a verdict of Not Guilly. Immediately after the preceding trial, Swift and Savin were indicted for a conspiracy, and tried by the same Jury, with the same result.

STATE OF SERVICE

On Thereday, John Bensevani strebble absentives of see, was indisted far see along a piece of printed cottes were to slop in Mountainese, the along and on their yet was seen seminist down Onkleys street, which was picked up by an accomplier, who, on the purposit becoming hos, dropped it alon. The prisoner was seen surpaid with a gang of this was picked up by an accomplier, who, on the purposit becoming hos, dropped it alon. The prisoner was found Guildy.—The Chairman sans, sherecrould be no absent he was leagued with a gang of this was in the prisoner was found for the grand fur yound a state bill against Henry Palmer and Thom. Josek Farks, for a misdenacemour, and another for a comprisery, both at the peacention of Sir Tho. Champnery, Bart. for having obtained bills of enchange from him to a large amount on pretence of getting them discounted.

On Thursday, William Grifiths, a boy, was convicted of stealing a coat, value left, the property of James Lowe, on the same night, in the same place. The Court sentenced him to seven years 'Intra-pertaclous,' the property of James Lowe, on the same night, in the same place. The Court sentenced him to seven years 'Intra-pertaclous,' the property of James Lowe, on the same night, in the same place. The Court sentenced him to seven years 'Intra-pertaclous,' the property of James Lowe, on the same night, in the same place. The Court sentenced him to seven years 'Intra-pertaclous,' the property of James Lowe, on the same night, you and the prisoner Guilty, and the Court sentenced him to be transported for seven years.

A fellow, named Christopher Watts, was charged with having stolon a trimks from behind the currisage of Lady M. A. Warke.—The Jury found the prisoner Guilty, and the Court the Court devention, and seen them pick the pockets of a mumber of persons in the fair. Mr. Watter, the keeper of the god, in formed the court, that boys of this description were new sent down to the hullen, at Portsmouth, where a sehol was established for their clucation; and that the disci

These Sessions commenced on Wednesday, when Ann Norris and Mary Palmer were indicated for assauking J. Thompson, and stealing ds. from his pesson. As the processor as the 9th inst. was walking in Whitechapel, Palmer came running towards him, seemingly at grest agitation, and begged for Gen's sake that he would cupe with her to the assistance-of a person whe was in great distress. He accampanied her to a house mear the spot, and went up stairs into a bed-room; where Nogrie made her appearance and demanded some money "for the room." The processor refused to give any, and was anxious to make his suit; but the prisoner placed her back against the door, and swore with a disgusting oath that she would have some money, or he should not go out of the house slive. Apprehensive of some violence, he gave her a shilling, but that would act satisfy them, and he gave them he some. They endeavoured to rife his pockets; they dragged him anto another poom, where they got him on the floor, and Norris asid several times "Murder the "Atlempth, after a desperate struggle he extricated himself, and escaped. The transaction took place between two and three o'clock in the afternoon, and witness was perfectly sober. Verdict-Guilly, Duth. Agad 21 and 16. The Learned Judge, in the course of his charge to the Jury, observed, that it was really a fearful consideration, shat such a scene as had been described should occur in the heart of the Metropolis, and almost at noon day; and he thought it was, a matter well described should occur in the heart of the Metropolis, and almost at noon day; and he thought it was, a matter well described should occur in the heart of the Metropolis, and almost at noon day; and he thought it was, a matter well described should occur in the heart of the Metropolis, and almost at noon day; and he thought it was, a matter well described should occur in the heart of the Metropolis, and almost at roon of the Metropolis, and almost at roon day; and he thought it was, a matter well described should occur in the heart

POMCE.

Bow-Strest.-On Monday, an attorney, (whose name is for some improper reasons concealed in the reports in the daily papers,) was charged with a fraud on the Stamp Office, by obliterating the writing on a probate stamp, value 3M in order to obtain the repayment from Government to that amount. He was ordered to payment from Government to that amount. He was ordered and bail.

On Wednesday, a further examination of Mr. Bloomfield, on Wednesday, a further examination of Mr. Bloomfield, of liaving obtained money under false pretences took place. Mr. C. Phillips attended as Counsel for the accused. Sir R. Birnie, and Mr. Minshall, were the preseiding Magistrates, and when the defendant was brought in, Sir R. B. desired Mr. Bhearley the prosecutor, to be called; but that person did not appear, and in a minute or two after, a letter signed "W. Shearley," was put into the hands of the Magistrates, the purport of which was, that he had made some discoveries which induced him to believe, that he had been mistakes in accusing Mr. Bloomfield with a franklent intention, and that under the circumstances, he should withdraw his charge, and he did so by the advice of his Solicitor! A charge was made by a person on behalf of a Mr. Aspinall, who, he stated, had been defisuated of 200. but when this charge came to be enquired into, it turned-out that Mr. Aspinall had taken a bill for the money; so that charge was abandoned. Mr. Phillips said, he was instructed to state a fact which must place. Mr. Bloomfield's character beyond suspicion—a fact acknowledged by the prosecutor himself, and for the publication of which as as honourable individual he felt a laudable anxiety. At the period, when the sum of two hundred pounds was paid by the prosecutor for Mr. Bloomfield, a bond was entered into by that gentlefrant by which he bound himself to repay that south the said of the sum of two hundred pounds was paid by the prosecutor which he bound himself to repay that south bond became due; Mr. Bloomfield was waited noon by the prosecutor; and he then communicated to him the failure of that negociation and tendered him the smount of the bond, which the prosecutor falt he would not be justified in receiving before he returned the instrument upon which the suns had been obtained. Air. P alluded to the ungenerous and even slanderous instructions flung out against a distinguished individual, für Henjamin Bloomfield.

the instrument upon which the sous had been obtained. Air. P. glittleded to the ungenerous and even alanderous instruments fleng out against a distinguished individual, für ideajamin Bloomsfeld, by that portion of the Press whose interest, or whose infertible pulley is was-the bleet every the Sovereim. It was Mr. Bloomsfeld's most services of the control of the pullent individual so singled, to had not the slightest knowledge of these transactions. Mr. Minshull said the Mayistrates thought it was expedient that some security should be given for the appearance of the defendant if he should be wanted, and he must therefore give built, himself in 1001, and two surrates in 301, seeth; before he was set at hereact. In 1001, and two surrates in 301, seeth; before he was set at the soften on Monday; a man, named Levi; and Leva along the should be made to the soften on Monday; a man, named Levi; and promise to be forthcoming at the proper hour. As soon as the name of Levi was called, the prosecutor, who was also a Petiticate lane Jew, was not to be found; but it was soon ascretained that his departure had been sanctioned by Hyam, notwithstanding the charge of robbery upon which that coastable yas-bound to detain blim. Levi was discharged, and then he said, that Hyam told him that if he would give half a guines he whould not be locked up. Levi offered all he had (a crown.) which was accepted, and he was his own mastre upon those terms until the next day, when he appeared according to his undertaking. Drinkwaget the offere said, that a man who had been in the putice-room in the earty part of the day pointed out to him the person who charged the case of Hyam, who permitted him to excape. Lewis Lyons declared that it was the notionous practice of Hyam to levy cutivous the control of the put to the day pointed out to him the person who charged the control of the day pointed out to him the person who have control of the c

A Court of Common Council was held on Friday, when Mr. Ald. Waithman called its attention to his conduct as Sheriff on the 26th Aug., which he again defended, and introduced three letters, one from Earl Bathurst, desiring to know the precise time at which the alleged outrage on the civil power took place; the second an answer thereto from the Sheriff; and the third a letter from one Mortimer, belonging to the Sheriffs' Office, confirming the details given by the Sheriff some time since of the transactions on that day. All these documents were ordered to be entered on the journals.—Mr. Favell then moved a vote of thanks to Joseph Hume, Esq. M.P. for his assiduous attention to his duty in Parliament, and for his indefatigable exertions in promoting every object which may tend to enconomize the public expenditure, and to present him with the freedom of the city in a gold box. This motion occasioned some debate, and Mr. Alderman Browne moved the previous question, but at length the original motion was carried. but at length the original motion was carried.

freedom of the city in a gold box. This motion occasioned some debate, and Mr. Alderman Browne moved the previous question, but at length the original motion was carried.

**Advertisement.**]—We know that the Papers marked W in "The Country Constitutional Guardian" are from the pea of the "Author of the Letter from the King." This new monthly paradician, published at Bristol, will be introduced to town, on Thursday next, by Messys. Rivington, St. Paul's Churchyard, and Waterioo-place; of whom, and of every London Bookseller, it may be punctually had.

**Advertisement.**]—No Discovery of the kind has been so generally adopted in the Fashlomable World as Atkinson's Vegetable Hair Oil, or Ourling Flaid; B is new ennoidered an inside pensible appendage to the toliet, for revenerating the hair; it is no pre-emisont, that medical men of the first eminence pre-aribe it, and in all cases where the hair has fallen off from premature decay, such as fevera, accessionement, or other illness, change of climate, perspiration, internet stany, &t. it is warranted to restore 4t to its original blackness and beauty; for dreesing the bair, it is far preferable to oils, extracts, or p. matums, making the hair softer and more glossy, and giving it such strength smd shabitoky, that it retains fits curt during exercise, or in damp weather, Pri e 3s. 6d.; 10s. 6d., and one guinea.—Also, Atkinson's Vegetable Dve, well known as the only infallible article which changes grey or red hair on the Read, or whiskers, to an auburn or black, so permanent that washing, &c. instead of removing, renders soore durable. Price 5s.; 10s. 6d., and one guinea.—And Atkinson's Amirosial roap, made by a new proceas, removes redorss, bardness, and inventees of removing, renders soore durable. Price 5s.; 10s. 6d., and one guinea. Advertisement.—A-Advantageous opportunity for purchasing Bedding at the oldest extal ushed Feather Warehouse in London, 46, Priury lane, 0, opposition of the fact Queen from the site of the principal state this south of the proposit

NOTICES TO CORRESPONDENTS.

.. The unprecedented patronage by which this paper honoured, demands not only our warmest acknowledgments to the Public, but our most strenuous exertions to render it in all the emotic, one our most streamous exercises to remove at what the parts worthy the support it receives. We have, at a very considerable expense, council a new tire to be founded expensive for John Bull, with which it is this day, for the first time, printed. The chief advantage arising from its adoption will be found by our renders in the power it affords us of publishing, of least, one-third more of original matter than we have hitherta have sale to sie. been abla to give.

least, one-third more of original matter than we have hitherto been able to give.

X.Y's exvellent Song is unavoidably delayed till next week, in order to enable us to give the music of the air to which it is written. The fourth Letter of PAUL Porters is also inevitably postponed. Defensos shall have a place next week.

Systetators has been received, and deserves our acknowledgments. A Lover of Truin in our next.

We have not the slightest notion who Joe Hurcombe is—is he above? We never heaved of him, and shall really feel obliged by our friend, who sent us an account of his conduct in St. Groupe's Fields, if he would give us some information—Bull has neither time more space to waste upon any thing obscure.

H. has come to hand, and the anecdotes he relates of a certain Judge shall be enquired into.

A correspondent who subscribed to creet a monument to the memory of the Rev. Mr. Pickening, late Uwale of Paddington, visibes us to ask the Rev. Mr. Mancun, of Radicul celebrity, at that place and Northampton, whether any steps have been taken towards carrying the design into execution? and in what Banker's hands the amount subscribed is lodged?

The M.P. to whom we replied last week, is not the correspondent who firmished us with an attack upon a most exemplary person, to whom we never meant to reply.

E.S.D., W.S.X., A Factor, An Apple-woman, Scrittator, Q., Stephen Duck, Lines to Lady Dacre, Fun, Fashionable Movements, and Bo-reep, are received.

We are much obliged to an Inhabitant of the Barough. We bedieve that the conduct with which he charges one of the persons named is felony by law. The proof of the practice, which he sent visionally the parties yet.

The letter from Sheffield shall be taken care of as soon as possible, as shall that from Somernething to our correspondent whose initials are O. B. for not inserting his letter about Wilson last week; the trush verds had in this paper.

B.S. puts a case which is libellous, even if founded in truth.

G.B.'s quotations are from a work so despicable, that it w

This paper.

B. S. puts a case which is libellous, even if founded in truth.
G. B.'s quotations are from a work so despicable, that it would not be fair to notice it as an instance of II hig ribaldry.
VENTAN certainly shall be noticed, he came too late for this week, as did the Parody.

as did the Parody.

If e will endeavour to make the arrangement a Constant Reader suggests; indeed we have done so in our Monday Edition already.

No. IV. has been reprinted-two or three times.

"A Family Man" and we quite agree; he will admit the necessity funpleasant as it was) of what we did-we see no cause for repetition.

DETECTOR is all rays welrome.

THALIA will find that her better has been received by us hast night, and not before.

The work our correspondent from Plymouth alludes to, we have newer seen.

We are obliged to our correspondent for his information; but we neer already apprised that Olive, akias Princess of Combertand, took up her abode in the Fleet preserving.

The School of Elequence, and innumerable articles, have arrived too late.

tensation and .... In our paragraph respecting Ma. Hunn's freedom London, for "voted the freedom of the Lify in a Pill-box" read

A MONDAY'S EDITION, containing the LATEST NEWS, the STOCK LAST, the LONDON MARKETS, and the STATE OF THE COUNTRY MARKETS by that Morning's Post, is published at Three o' Clock.

PRICE OF STOCKS AT THE CLOSE, SATURDAY.

During the last week, the fluctuations in the public securities have been pretty extensive; but vesterday afternoon they parily regained their former prices. They opened at 77‡ for Money, and 77‡ for the Account.

l Exchequer Bills .... 10001.54 p 5001. 4 6

FRENCH FUNDS.

69-95 | Bank Sh Div. 1 July 1590 99 25 | Kr. Lond. 1 mo. 25 55 3 mo. 25-35 5 per ct. Con. 22 Sept. Recon. Div. 22 Marca

JOH N BULL.

LONDON, OCTOBER 28.

WE beg to call the serious attention of our readers to a most important communication, which we have received from IRELAND. It will be found highly interesting, as developing the real state of that disturbed country, and the cause of the commotions by which it is agitated; indeed the interest it must create is greatly increased by the com-mission of fresh outrages, which have taken place since is was written, and of which, we lament to say, authentic and distressing accounts will be found in other parts of our

There was a debate in the Common Council on Friday, about Mr. HUMB.—To analyze such a thing would be to waste time. He was voted the freedom of the city in a pill bex, which the Lord Mayor was directed to order.

WE know from experience that the fishwomen, the dustmen, chimney-sweepers, and such gentry, admirers and followers of HUNT, CAROLIEB, WADDINGTON and Co, talk—(and talk like blockheads,) with raptures of the conduct of SIR ROBERT WILSON in the rescue of LAVALETTE; but they are the people who count THIS-TLEWOOD a martyr, and deplore that distinguished military officer Colonel DESPARD, as a victim to tyranny. And we are, therefore, not surprised at the unconnected trash which they pour forth in extelling the present political bugbear for his flagrant breach of the laws of a country in which he was living; but one thing does surprise —and that is, that SIR ROBERT WILSON himself should have alluded to the affair: feeling, however, that justice should be done to all men, we have no besitation in giving some extracts from SIR ROBERT'S examinations and letters at PARIS, quite sure, that as he thinks great advantage will arise to him by the publication of a few documents, his case must be proportionably improved by re-calling to the recollection of our readers, a few more.

The first curious paragraph which presents itself to our notice, and which marks the character of Sir ROBERT's domestic corre it this, which is contained in a letter from his brother. to tonga on letter from his brother.

"If," ways Mr. Wilson, "the in-propers to coverence the capt."

If," ways Mr. Wilson, "the in-propers to coverence the capt."

"ps, and caps visible to serve as a beacon of alarm in France and in foreign countries."

This puragraph, Ser Robbert Wilson says, in his answer to the Court, "is a piece of reasoning purely special attree and hypothetical, without any present object."

No doub! it is so—because Sir Robbert Wilson says so. But if in any ordinary case—in a case or loing, we will say out of the present outrages in Ireland, the police were to out of the present outrages in Ireland, the police were to find in a man's trunk, a letter to his brother, in which he said, "If it is intended to burn down Mr. O'Flannagan's "house, the fire ought to be put to the thatch, because it will communicate more quickly to that than to any other part," what would the police to ?- As we profess to know nothing what would the police to ?—As we profess to know nothing of Irish police, we cannot say; but we think that MR. O'FLANNAGAN would hardly sleep the quieter in his dwelling for being told, that the words "were purely speculative and hypothetical;" nor do we imagine his apprehensions would be entirely overcome, by being assured that the communication had "had no present object."—At all events the subject is rather a strange one for an Englishman to speculate upon, while writing to a British officer.

man to speculate upon, while writing to a British officer.

SIR ROBERT subsequently says, that his brother's speculations arose aut of his disapprobation of the conduct of the Allied Powers. But, we would ask, to what country, and to what order of things does MR. WILSON'S Letter allude, which is not FRANCE, nor a foreign country ! and which Letter it appears was written in ENGLAND.

It is droll enough to observe, that, in the translation of the French trial, SIR BOBERT'S brother in question is called SIR EDWARD WILSON—though he has quite as much right tow title as SIR ROBERT, as he is not so great a goose as to assume one, it may be as well to set the mistake right by observing, that it arose from a clumsy translation of the word Sieur, which is always applied in France to persons of inferior rank and circumstances.

However, passing from the long tedious details of legal proceedings, more tiresome in France than in England, and leaving SIR ROBERT and SIR EDWARD to their fraternal speculations upon keeping up a fire, and overturning ternal spectramions upon keeping up a arc, and overturning the order of things, we will give part of Sir Robert's Letter to Lord Grey (who is said by Sir Robert to be a very "discreet man,") which, we think, many of our readers may have forgotten. The British GREERAL says to the Noble Earl-" It was determined that the fugitive to the Noble Earl—" It was determined that the fuglive should wear the English uniform. I had no difficulty in procuring from SIB CHARLES STUART, at my request, and on my responsibility, passports for GENERAL WALLIS and Col. Lesnock—names which we chose, because they were not preceded by Christian names."

This is the first top of this house, because they

This is the first step of this honourable action -- Sin Ro-BERT WILSON, trusted and confided in by SIR CHARLES STUART, obtains two passports under FALSE PRETENCES, and smuggles away a convicted French felon in the UNIFORM OF A BRITISH GENERAL.

The second step is equally meritorious; they find GENE-RAL BRISBANE'S Aid-du-Camp; they tell him, that they were obliged to go through Compeigue, with a person who must remain unknown, and that they wished to stop in some retired quarter, "He (the Aid-du-Camp) frankly " replied," says Wilson, " that he would entirely TRUST "TO US; that his existence depended on preserving his estua-"tion, but he would not hesitate in acceding to our proposition since he saw we were interested in it."
Thus a Brother Officer is implicated innocently in a crime at which his principle; and loyalty would have revolted, had it been named to him; und Wilson consoles himself for thus putting a young gentleman's life and character in jeopardy, to save Mr. LAVALETTE, by "encouraging a hope, that a day would one time "arrive, in which it might be possible for him to acknow." " lege the service.

We are glad for the officer's sake that be has suffered nothing by his reliance on Sir Robert and his friends, as we are inclined to think unless Brother EDWARD's fire burns brighter than it seems likely to do, that the day is far distant, when Brother ROBERT will have the power of acknowledging any thing except the charity he has received from a "humane and benevolent public." Nor is this officer the only victim of his conduct: the sephew of his patron and benefactor, LORD HUTCHINSON, was also inveigled into the scheme, and all his best hopes and prospects blighted.

Now, coolly and dispassionately, we ask our rea upon his own shewing, there is any thing very honourable, or very meritorious in all this conduct? The laws of a country are violated. The English ambassador, representing the KING of England, is tricked out of two passports, by an ENGLISH OFFICER. A condited French felon is drest up in a British General's uniform. The character and existence of a young officer are most seriously endangered. The culprits are subsequently taken, tried, convicted, and imprisoned; and this is the fact to which SIR ROBERT WILSON is compelled to revert, to shew that he ever did any thing worthy of remembrance; added to which, let us never forget that the principal testimony brought forward in his favour, is extracted from the brief of his paid, hired, advocate, into which brief his praises must liuve been of a necessity put by SIR ROBERT WILSON himself.

The real fault of the government has been its LENIUNCY with respect to Wilson. He should have been dismissed the service for this very affair, it would not only have been right and just towards our own Sovereign, whose uniform had been disgraced, and whose representative had been cheated, but to the KING of FRANCE, against whose life and safety the amiable Monsieur Lardette had been convicted of couspiracy

SIR ROBERT has published various certificates and documents: but one were to have escaped his memory which we think it quite thir to insert in this place; for his conduct after the itribing consideration evinced towards him in its promulgation is so extraordinary, as almost to incline us to excuse all his actions upon the score of some derangement of intellect.

"GENERAL ORDERS.
"Horse-Gues-"Horse-Guards; May 10, 1816.
"So long as Mujor-General Sie Robert Wilson, and Captalé

John Histrate Mascin, of the Commander-in-the function was the trial, the Commander-in-the making any core atom on their conduct.

The Proceedings Maying now torminated, the Commander of the Prince Regent's commands to the last their trial and conviction of those Officers. The trial and conviction of those Officers in the trial and conviction of those Officers of the instance of Major-General Sir Robert Wilson, the Trial and conviction of those Officers of his standing in His Majesty secrets, had high displacement that officers of his standing in His Majesty secrets, had high displacement in the same and the continuous ston, and a nazervine true and of a Major-General, should have been as unmindful of what was due to his profession, as well as by the Government under whose protection he had contained the deal his seek to counteract the laws and defent the public instince of the was to counteract the laws and defent the public instince of the was to counteract the laws and defent the public instince of the was to counteract the laws and defent the public instince of the was to counteract the laws and defent the public instince of the was to counteract the laws and defent the public instince of the for his Royal Highness consider the means by which the was to counter and the well then for his Royal Highness cannot admit, that any circumstance ontid fustify a British Officer in having obtained to some year partexers, passports in feigned names, from the representative of his one of the passport for himself, and a subject of his Most Christian Majesty, under seathened in the public in the surface of the Prench Government, but to carry him such disquise through the British lines?!"

"While the Prince Regent cannot but consider it was a such disquise through the British lines?"

"While the Prince Regent cannot but consider it holding so high a rank in the army, he should have conduct of Captain John Ik Hutchinson, for having been himself an active instrument in atra action of so culpable a nature, more especially in The radicals who spoke at the City meeting (of which we have given an account in another part of our Paper, affect to meer at WILSON's degradation, and to call it anounable; but we know every turn of WILSON's mind. we can see into his heart of hearts—and WE KNOW that we can see into his heart of hearts—and WE KNOW that he feels his dismissal bitterly and peignantly, and we rejoice that he does so. Knowing this, however, we are quite of opinion that the document just quoted must at least counterbalance the testimonies of foreign Officers, of Civil Lords, and the splendour of Continental Orders, in which he is rivalled by those mirrors of knighthood, Manual HOWNAM, FLYNN, and AUSTIN.

IRELAND.

It is with equal grief and astonishment, that the Emple has seen that the visit of the KING, which was stated to have had so miraculous an effect in tranquillizing IRELAND, has been unaccountably fullowed by the most extraordinary burst of turnult; of murderous, bloody, treasonable turnuls.

which ever has disgraced that country. 1122 a south in It seems at first sight hard to reconcile this said a disturbance, with all that has been said of the effect of the KING's visit; but, we believe, that the circumstance admits of an explanation, not only easy in itself, but important and even satisfactory, in a large and (if we may use the expression) imperial consideration of the subjects.

It has been the fashion for the last fifty years to lay to the charge of a bad government, all the unifortunes of IRBLAND; and to attribute to mere political and party causes, the spirit of disturbance, which seems never to be wholly extinguished in this unhappy country, a last the late events contradict this hypothesis, with a force which there are relating a special contradict.

there is no refuting: some of those persons who know, who have known IRBLAND best, have been always of opinion that political causes could never have exclusively perated the mischiefs complained of; that there was some thing in the national character of the people, and in the circumstances under which the British set lement of the country was effected, which disposed the lower population to restlessness and turbulence; and to prefer a life of ammation and danger, to the sober, but dull regularity. legalized society.

We will not waste time in eaquiring how far there dope sitions may have been created, or encouraged by an interest and obsolete modes of government: such modes have low ceased to exist, and for the last twenty years at less man who knows any thing of IRELAND, can honestly attribute to the system of government, these barbacous and barbarian practices, which have never been wholly suppressed, and which have now burst into the violence of a conflagration.

conflagration.

The King's visit had, on the aveval of all parties, stilled (if it did not remove) all political dissension; all the mon of the most levilority and political dissension; all the men of the most decided party feelings, suspended, we should almost say, resigned, all political differences; and throughout the whole Island, there did not exist a murau of dissension, or even the slightest pretence for discord. As far as regards politics and party, no nation was even before in a state of such entire tranquillity and union.

And it is upon this calm, that a thunder-storm burst, a storm of the blackest hue, of the most furious violence, of the bloodiest consequences? Is it then much to say that we must look to other, than what usually called political causes, for these horrible outrage No disease can ever be removed by a physician who mistakes its cause; and we firmly believe, that the tranquillimites of IRELAND, has been mainly immeded by the unfounded, and, in our opinion, absurd notion, that the disease is one which the acts of a government (in the political sound the word) can care; disturbances arise, notoclassic and the present disturbances arise are also and the present disturbances are also and the present disturbances are also are also and the present disturbances are also ar deniably, out of questions between landlord and tenals, and it is probable, that both sides are to blame: some man in the state of the state o it is to be doubted from the experience of a century, whether any reasonable concessions on the parts of the landlords, would induce the idle, the restless, the passionste, the vindictive peasantry, to pay their rents with regularity or good will. These semi-barbarous classes understand but imperfectly the first principles of commerce, even in their own peculiar concerns; they are always ready to do violence to any of their fellows, who should presume to under-salt them in the potato market, and equally ready to commit similar violences upon these who should not lower the price of potatoes to what these ambi-dextrous economists might think reasonable; but of questions relating to the soil itself, they have no more conception than a Chinese has of skating.

If a landlord or his steward were to be so unreasonable as to expect his tenants to pay their rents at quarter-day they would be looked upon in this country as insane, and would inevitably be shot like mad-dogs. If on the expiration of a lease, a new tenant should offer a better rent than the old one, it would require the aid of Major General Sir John Lambert, and his brigade of hussars, to put him in possession of the farm, and in about one week, or sooner if the dragoons were withdrawn, the stock would be destroyed, and the out-houses and farm-yard burned to the ground. If, however, the new tenant should be either bold, or obstinate enough to disregard these gentle hints, the or vostinate enough to queregard these genute rines, the progress of no mathematical demonstration is more certain than that on the first dark night ensuing, the unimppy intruder and his family would be personally assaulted, driven with injury from their burning dwelling, or, not improbably, buried in its rains!

We have at this moment before our eyes, recent instances of every step in this progression of crimes, and we under-state the enormity of the transaction by not representing human murder as the most usual and ordinary mode by which the rioters express their dissatisfaction; and even whilst we are penning this paragraph, the account of fresh atrocities, all originally arising out of the letting and leasing of farms, advance in bloody array in support of our argument. It has been said so often that it is generally believed, that the absentees are a principal cause of this misery; this is a very short-sighted, and at the same time a merely theoretic view of the subject: no one could be mad enough to deny, that the residence of gentlemen on their own estates has a tendency to keep their tenantry in order and subordination; but this effect must of necessity be limited to one residence; a landlord cannot be in two places at once, and if LORD COURTENAY were to reside in LIME-RICK, he must of necessity be an absence from Devonshire; and it does happen, that in this particular case, which is at present so much insisted upon, the landlord is an absenter from England as well as from IRBLAND. But nobody would think of justifying burglary, or murder, if such enormities were to occur in Devonshire, on account of his Lordship's absence.

It happens, that the estate of LORD COURTBNAY has been, in this instance, particularly the scene of commotion, but it has not been so exclusively; all the neighbouring countles, and the surrounding estates of resident landlord are equally disturbed. It is moreover a curious fact, that the north of IRELAND, which is the great seat of absentee property, and in which the proportion of great resident proprietors is very small, has always been distinguished for comparative good order and obedience to the laws, whilst the south of INBLAND, from which there are few absences, and where the resident gentlemen are as numerous as perhaps in any part of England, has not, for the last fifty years, as we have already said, enjoyed one mouth of uninterrupted tranquillity. It will be very unpopular, (but in telling truth we do not care about the popularity) to suggest, whether it may not be the very reverse of the absence cause which produces the mischief, and whether the resident gentlemen do not exert a more close and narrow system of renting their lands, than the agent of the absent proprietor? The agent, though anxious to do the best for his employer, is anxious also to do it with ease and comfort to himself; he is, above all, anxious that the landlord should receive no complaints from histenants, and that he should see no arrears in his accounts these results can only be obtained by a fostering hand, and by moderate rents; and, in short, the agent acts under a restriction very useful in curbing human passions that of having little personal interest in the affair, and being moreover responsible for his proceedings.

On the other hand, the resident proprietor is wholly irresponsible: in his view of the subject, he owes no account of his management to any one; he knows the exact value of every field; he watches its produce, and calculates the farmer's profits, and then, with a desire, but too innate in human nature in general, and particularly strong in Irish landlords, he thinks himself justified in bringing into his own pocket, the very greatest sum that the land is capable of producing.

Let us not be misunderstood, as pushing this argument to the absurd extent, either of justifying all absentees, or of arraigning all resident landlords; but we use it for the limited purpose of shewing, that, neither in the fact, nor in the theory, is it true, that the disturbances in IRE-LAND can be in any serious degree attributed to the ab-senter. But even if it were otherwise, who could blame an absentee? Who, that can remove himself from it, will remain in such a state of acciety, where every morning brings to light some new act of atrocity, and every evening closes upon him with the fear that he himself is about to he a victim? If, actuated by principles of personal honour and of public duty, and undeterred by the fate of others, a public-spirited gentleman should exert himself to apprehend the murderers, and should happen (as is generally the case) to be unsuccessful, he would probably be pureshed only by the burning his stack-yard, or the houghing his cattle; but if, unfortunately for him, he should be able to find the offenders, he would probably, even before they were brought to justice, he mardend in his own avenue, or sitting at his table in the presence of his family.

Thestants not funded tower staff the inter-Housens, the new of the agent afgland manual A 70 K. HOSKINS, the non of the agent eleber PHIRES A KARREST S, and the musder of Mr. Gaines, a Ministrate, who had endeavoured to discover the persons guilty of the former outrage, attest the dreadful truth of the picture we have drawn.

What follows is more entraordinary, and almost as af-ficting, The gentlemen of the country how, to a certain degree, under this intimidation: some by the country, and others, more mischievous, purchase security by an abau-domment of their duty, and, justesd of a determined and vigorous opposition to such detestable practices, a kind of truce is catablished with, and concessions made, to the anonymous and undiscovered murderers, who, like what we read of the secret brotherhoods, of GBRMANY, in the middle ages, immolate their victims in all the safety of obscurity, and with all the precision of light,

MR. HOSKINS, the father of the young gentleman murdered (even while the Royal presence Muminated the ca-pital) is displaced, and the appointment of another agent at once gratifies the malignity and encourages the audacity of the murderers. We know nothing of Ms. Hoskins: he may have been a harsh man; but there not only in no proof that he was so, but there is abundant evidence that the same spirit of outrage and of blood affects districts far, ar removed from the sphere of 1116 influence.

We have upon our table the provincial papers for three counties with which Mr. Hosa ms has not the most remote connection, which afford us melancholy instances of similar atrocities. Without, therefore, admitting any personal considerations, we cannot but doubt, first, the justice, and, next, the policy of giving this lawless banditti the triumph of Mr. Hoskins's removal.

The public has seen, in the newspapers, that Lord Courtenay's trustees, whose agent MR. HOSKIDS WAS alarmed at the state of the property, sent down a committee to examine into the causes of the evil. These gentlemen were received by the populace with the most extmordinary demonstrations of joy—their carriages were drawn into town amidst bonfires, illuminations, and ringing of bells, and the worthy committee were astonished that so goodhumoured, frank, and affectionate a tenantry could be even suspected of a disposition to riot.

We shall say nothing of the kind of examination that was made; but the result was, as we have said, the removal of Mr. Hoskins. What followed? increased disturbances—more extensive plundering—more frequent murders in all directions; and the committee of pacifica-tion say torches, kindled at the honfires for their arrival, applied by "frank and affectionate" incendiaries to the dwellings of the neighbouring gentry. We should like to compare a letter, written by these gentlemen on the 9th of October, the morning after they arrived, with that, which they would have written a few days after; the first would have been all hope, and the latter all despair.

But it is not committees and trustees slone who mistake he disease, and, of course, the applicable remedy

It happened that a person of the name of MICHABL SHAUGHEBRY, was convicted at our late Assizes of burglary and arson, of being, in short, one of these banditti; of course, it will be supposed, that immediate and exem-plary justice was executed upon this wretch: no, so strong was the power of intimidation, that by the desire of persons whose interest and whose duty night, we think, equally to have forbidden such a compromise, SHAUG-NESSY is made a kind of HOSTAGE in the hands of the Secretary the High Sheriff of the County has received " a third respite for this offender, with an intimation that SHAUGNESSY'S existence will depend upon peace being restored to the western part of the country, and that the arms plundered by the banditti should be restored.

We must here observe, that the first object of these lepredators is always the acquisition of fire-arms, by which are to accomplish their ulterior objects.

All this is sufficiently lamentable, but what follows is as extraordinary in another point of view.

"The gracious and merciful advice of the Government," such is the phrase used as to the conditions on which the life of Shaugnessy should be spared,) has been "com-"sunicated"—to whom do you think?—" to the Right " Ren. DR. TUOHY, the Roman Catholic BISHOP of LIME-RICK. for the purpose of being announced by the Roman "Catholic Clerry to the congregations of the parishes which are most disturbed."

It will be recollected, that some surprise was created a Session or two ago by a declaration of the Right Hon. MR. GRANT, the Secretary for IRELAND, that the Roman Catholic Clergy were the main engines by which the tran-quillity of the country was maintained: it seems strange that the police of a nation, of a free people, of so large a portion of the British empire should be mainly preserved by Ecclesiastics, by Roman Catholic Ecclesiastics, by men wholly unconnected with the Government, and little more than tolerated by it: it seems that MR. GRANT continues to be not only convinced of the fact, but satisfied as to its policy: for we see that in this, our dreadful emergency, the Right Rev. Dr. Tuohy and his priests are joined in a new-fashioned commission of the peace with Sir John LAMBERT and his dragoons.

We have the highest respect for the blameless life and good disposition of the Roman Catholic Clergy, but we are afraid that Ma. GRANT's eulogy, and the confidence with which he entrusts them may have a tendency to prove too much, and to place the characters of these Gentlemen in an awkward and suspicious point of view; for, if their in-fluence be more powerful than the whole moral, political, civil and military force of the Government, and of the Nobility and Gentry of the country altogether; how is it that such a system of lawlessness has been permitted to grow to so dreadful an enormity?

Upon this delicate part of the subject we are not desirous of saying more, but, in truth and candour, we could And we are the more emboldened to notice not say less. it, because it is so obvious as already to have attracted, in a very remarkable manner, the attention of the public. The following paragraph has already appeared in one of our provincial papers:—

"What the Magistracy, the Protestant Clergy, and the Catholic "Priests should do hereafter, it shall be our duty to indicate. We

CHURCH AND THE STATE OF THE STA of Limerick pack deep and simula substitute disgrace could have peut MAZ *** *** *** *** The state of the county imperinds a samplete and searching view, not only of the this passantry; but of their civil and preservat Maconduct of the meses without presuming to decide upon the justice of this appeal to the Catholic Clergy on general grounds, it must be confessed that the accept see of Ma: GRANT's praise econs, in fairness, to sender them liable to:the blame imputed in the above paragraph; if, as the Right Honourable Gentleman said, the peace of IRBLAND is in their hands, it requires no strain of lagic to prove that the disturbance of IRELAND must be in their hands also.

We confess, however, that we do not concur in MR. GRANT'S opinion; miserable would be the state of IRR-LAND if it were true; and if, with such civit and military establishments-with thousands of Magistrates, and ten thousand police officers, the lives and property of six millions of people, of all Christian sects and denominations, are to depend upon the secret exertions of the priesthood of a single sect; we say secret exertions, because we believe MR. GRANT himself will not assert, that the mere public exhortations of the Catholic Clergy have ever produced any such effect.

We could have rendered this communication much more interesting, and more striking, by a detail of the circumstances of horror, which are every minute crowding upon us; and we could have appealed to the passions of our readers, by tales of misery more touching than the most pathetic tables of the novelist or the most striking terrors of the drama; but these facts are to be found in their plain and unadorned simplicity of horror, in all the public newspapers; we wished to confine ourselves to such observations as should lead reflecting persons to a discovery of the real causes of mischief, which we, from personal experience, and an intimate knowledge of the people, pro-nounce to be, in the first place, the comparative indifference which the Irish have, in all times, and under all cir-cumstances, shewn about shedding human blood, and the indistinct, and, indeed, we may say, barbarian notions of property, which the populace possess—in short, we have been desirous of showing our readers that the offenders are neither loyalists not rebels—neither Orangemen nor united Irishmen—neither an oppressed tenantry nor misguided fanatics; but simply, plainly, and in two words, ROBBERS and MURDERERS!

What the consequences of all this confusion are to be. it is not possible to tell; what the remedies, it is not for us to suggest; we do our duty, a most painful one—in laying a few of the facts before the British Public, who are but too ignorant of the real state of affairs; and of invoking the British Ministry to take such measures as to their wisdom may seem most proper for ensuring to us on this emergency, the first, the dearest, the most necessary privileges of civilized seciety, the security of our persons and the enjoyment of our properties. For whatever is to be done for our permanent protection, and for the eradication of the seeds of disorder, we must not look to a Government, but to ourselves. Limerick, Oct. 18, 1891.

All England has been surprised and delighted to learn that Mr. Lambton, at the expense of 51 lbs. came up from Durham, in the Edinburgh Mail, to take the chair of the meeting called for fixing the remancrating price of Sir R. Wilson's services. It will be seen also, that this meeting returned Mr. Lambton their thanks for having originated the subscription, and for his PRINCELY DONATION of 5001. Before John Bull partakes of this admiration and applause, he begs to be answered the following question: has not Mr. Lambton an UNSETTLED MONEY ACCOUNT with Sir R. Wilson, of which 5001. makes but a very small part?

ORIGINAL POETRY.

MONSIEUR DUPIN.

Wito has e'er been at Paris has heard of Moreau, Of Berthier, Macdonnell, and brave Augeresu; But a nuch greater soldier just now figures in The fist of French heroes, called --Monsieur Droin

This Mossicus Duris is a lawyer by trade, Nor is it known how he a soldier was made; But Wilson-to merit alice and a-kin--Will vouch for the laurels of - Monsieur Dupin!

And when, in his need, he was forced to request That those would speak of him who knew him the best, -- His life and his deeds--out of service and in-He Aired this hero, called-

To be sure, poor Durin could know little or nought Of whom he had conquer'd, or where he had fought; But this was no wonderful cloud to be in, For the world knows as little as-- Monsieur Dupin !

If you ask why Duris should be summon'd to speak. Who knew nothing of him? your question is weak; For those who the least of his actions have seen Can speak the most of them-like Monsicur Dupin!

The best of his fame is the writing a book! But 'tis one thing to fight, and another to look ! "In the rear of the army, and in a whole skin,
"I could write one myself," cries brave Monsicur Dupin!

On that day in Spain, when his troops lost the field, Which, at the first colley, they hasten'd to yield, He wrote and he ran, and he made such a din--"As I myself should"—exclaim's Monsieur Dupin! Being put on the shelf on account of that day. He lay, by doing nothing, but drawing full pur; The army declar'd 't was a shame and a sin-

"It is just my own practice," -- rays Mensieur Dupin! His next glorious deed was the breaking a jail--His only deed, too, where successedid not fail! The guilty he saved-lest the innocent in--

'Tis exactly what we do," --- eavs Monnieur Durin.

And is it, then, strange, in the day of his need, Durin should be Aired to praise and to plead? In Spain, or in Egypt, where'er he has been, Great Wittoon has done iust as much as Durin.

WITH our veneration for the Church of me established, our devotion to its tenets, for its ministers, it is impossible not to notice a builded ence, which, if it were not on so important a subject, would be dicrous, and being on to important a subject is lament-

In the third column of the second page of the MORNING Post of Friday the 19th inst., amidst other Irish intelligence, there is an account of two visitations held by two Erish Archbishops, in which the one, the ARCHBISHOP OF ARMAGH, expressed his disapprobation of the Bible Society, and the other, the ARCHBISHOP OF TUAM, lamented that any difficulty should be thrown in the way of that excellent association.

There is some confusion in the report of what passed at ARMAGH; a sermon is stated to have been preached by an Ecclesiastic of the extraordinary name of HINCK; and this Reverend Gentleman seems to have conducted a good arnent in a manner almost as extraordinary as his name; and if we did not find him preaching at the visitation of the Lord Primate of IRELAND, we should have thought him some crack-brained dissenter. But our business is not with MR. HINCK. It seems doubtful indeed whether the reparter has not confounded MR. HINCK and his GRACE, for e cannot discover, where the sermon ends and the pastoral address begins; but the following observation, at least, is unequivocally, (though, we suspect, erroneously) attributed to the Archbishop:—" His Grace has no objection to the a circulation of the Holy Scriptures—what Clergyman can "have any?—but he objects to their circulation, without " note or comment."

We apprehend that this must have been the observation of the gentleman with the absurd name, for his Grace canmat be unaware that the Scriptures, published under the autherity of the Church of England, are absolutely without mote or comment. His Grace could not have talked such nonsense: he, we have no doubt, insisted on the propriety of uniting with the distribution of the Scriptures the distribution of the Liturgy of our Church, that most mirable form of public prayer, the most comforting assistant in private devotion, and the most touching, as well as the most able commentary upon the Holy Scriptures that ever has proceeded from human pen, if indeed that, which a selection from the very words of divine inspiration, can be called a human performance.

Our readers will see that we have not indulged in an ille hyper-critiscism, contrasted as the proceedings at Armagh appear to be with those which took place at TUAM. we cannot but suspect MR. Hinck's nonsense, " Hincilla lackryma," has been put into the mouth of the Archbishop with a view of depreciating at once his fitness for his exalted station, and his knowledge of the important subject under discussion.

But the report proceeds with the account of the visitatien at TUAM, where the Lord Archbishop, who seems to , to be a neophite of the sect that profanely and uncharitably designate themselves as Evangelical, appear fastead of delivering a charge to have held some familiar chat with his clergy upon several important topics.

"His Grace did not deliver any formal charge, but he made several observations."

And, as this remark follows immediately the statement. that " the REV. MR. GALBRAITH preached a most ex-cellent sermon," it would seem (if the report be correct) that his Grace's observations were made parenthetically during the pauses of MR. GALBRAITH's discourse, as if his Grace, whatever he might do with the Scriptures, could not venture to permit his Archdeacon's discourse to be attered "without note or commentary," a prudential caution which we wish his Grace of ARMACH had practised with MR. HINCK.

His Grace of TUAM then proceeds to lament that the branches of the Bible Society (reprobated by the Primate) had not been more generally established in his diocese. but his Grace hoped with the aid of the Clergy (we wonder he omitted the formula, "and with the blessing of GoD,") to introduce that Association into his diocese.

After this, the reporter tells us the upshot of the affair with a majorite, which is almost ludicrous; for, says he

We have very sincere pleasure in adding, that when the Rev. Gentlemen, who attended there, met together at dinner, they came to a resolution ——" of course, one would expect, to consider the topics of his Grace's charge, and the means of patronizing the Bible Society. No-

- to create a fund for the maintenance of Clergymen's

These Irish visitations seem to be comical affairs; in one the Archbishop will be obliged to disavow his preacher, and in the other the Clergy seem to have thrown over the Archbishop.

Now, if we do not forget, his Grace the ARCHBISHOP OF TUAM is the learned Prelate who made such an unhappy hand of the PROPHET MALACHL, in the affair of her late hand of the PROPHET MALACHI, in the affair of her late

BAJESTY the QUEEN. or, we should rather say, to whom the reporters of the day attributed some canting trash, that would have disgraced a Methodist, tub; perhaps, it may account for his Grace's interlocutory interruptions with MR. GALBRAITH, that this Reverend Gentleman was so indiscreet as to select the text of his sermon from, of all the books in the Bible, the Prophet MALACHI aforesaid.
If MR. GALBRAITH be a wag, he perhaps imitated SWIFT and STERNE, who have Ventured to excite a smile the pulpit; a dangerous practice at best, and one which in the pulpit; a dangerous practice at best, and one which we never could approve, yet as the thing was to happen, we confess we should have liked to have seen his Grace's mutenance, when the preacher announced the text from MALACHI.

But, seriously, and we say it in seriousness and sin-the opinions of two life lietdry to one another, and both of them d by such chancy circumstances, appears to as likely ad more injury than can be counterbalanced by the exertions of their Graces, however exemplarily ( fulfil their diocesan duties.

If MR. HINCK and MR. GALBRAITH choose to have it known, that they preached most excellent Visitation serons, let them say an, and sign it (as Dogberry s "with their names;" but let not the character of Church, and the interests of religion be mixed up with such vain trash, and above all, let not the scoffer, or the sectarian, already ten powerful and too active, be encurraged by such violent discrepancies as the charges of these two Archbishops exhibit.

LADY MORGAN'S ITALY.

THIS leaden book has cost more in advertisements, we believe, than any book ever published, and we are happy to think with less success. Nobody buys it—nobody reads it, and, what is still more surprising, nobody pretends to have done so. A lady or gentleman durst no more confess in society that they had read LADY MOBGAN, than that they had been at the Tottenham-court-road Theatre."

The Quarterly Review, in a poor and feeble article, touches this string in the right chord; but the writer wanted either taste or spirit, or perhaps both, to play upon it properly. He adduces two or three flagrant instances of the system of puffing, by which it has been endeavoured to force this unhappy work into notice; but he seems to have been miserably ignorant of the extent to which the practice he reprobates was carried.

It is not worth our while to war with the dead, when we know that they are dead, and we shall not waste our paper on LADY MORGAN'S Italy; but we suggest to the Quarterly Reviewer, if he chooses to return to this subject, to collect, from the various newspapers, the criticisms which the publishers of this work paid to have slily inserted; for, idle as the tribute of newspaper criticism is, even when unbought, the poor bookseller could obtain no other, and that only by paying for its insertion, although, to give the trick some kind of effect, the form of an advertisement was carefully avoided.

But all this puffing having failed, they resolved to make a bold stroke for a sale," and LADY MORGAN publishes a tten—GRATIS, for as the book itself would not sell, sahe wisely thought a commentary onit, less likely to go off; and so her letter is given away to any body who will accept of it; a little later in the year the whole impression might on these terms, have been dispend of for the purpose of lighting fires; but, bitherto, we are afraid, that the gratuitous pamphlet has been as little accepted as the expensive

But mark the knavery; this pamphlet professes the greatest indignation at, and even contempt, for all periodical criticism, and yet it is certainly published, and we even suspect, written by the same hand, which has filled every publication, (in which a place could be bought) with favourable criticisms upon her tadyship's work; and, although a novice might judge from her Ladyship's violence, that she was grievausly afflicted by the seyere criticisms she has undergone, it is quite clear, to those who know any thing of the transaction, that her real grievance is, that she is thought too contemptible to be criticised at all.

But we have now to announce a delicious piece of ingenuity these various advertisement-criticisms were suited with great art to the supposed characters of the newspapers in rhich they appeared; those in the Chronicle were all of a foam for LIBERTY; the applause of the STAR had no colour, and meant nothing at all; in the TRAVELLER her Ladyship was represented in the enticing character of a literary bag-man; in the MORNING HERALD she was praised for her fecundity in scandalous anecdote, and to praised for her fectuality in scandards anectode, and to crown the whole, poor BULL—JOHN BULL—we—we outselves were inveigled by the paltry consideration of twenty shillings, to insert our testimony "of the gay, lively, and "familiar manner in which her Ladychip touched the follies of meiety!!!" We have not access to the books of the CHRONICLE, or the STAR, or the TRAVELLER, or the rest of the papers in which these variegated puffs have appeared, but our own experience satisfies us, and, we think, will satisfy our readers, that their praises followed, not the payment of Sl. 13s. 6d. for the work, but the receipt of seven shillings and sixpence for the advertisement. Addio Signora good night, Lady Morgan.

MRS. SERRES.

The following matter of fact expose is copied from a Leeds Paper of Saturday se nnight:—

"A claim to Royal parentage, however fallacious, has often been attended with consequences most disastrous in the country where

"A claim to Royal parentage, however fallacious, has often been attended with consequences most disastrous in the country where it is made, and an attempt to excite public sympathy by false pretensions is the most effectual way to dam up the streams of charity. We will not say that the 'Princess Olive' is an impostor, but we will state the pedigree and connexions of a real Olive Wilmott, and the details will probably not only shake the faith of Mr. Sheriff Parkins, but of every other person in the country who may have given credence to the tale of woe.

"It happened, then, that in the year 1772 (mark the time), there was born in the borough of Warwick, a young lady, the daughter of Mr. Robert Wilmott, a house-painter, by Anna Maria, his wife. This infant was baptized at the parish church of St. Nicholas, in that borough, on the 15th of April, 1772, by the name of Ofine. When of a proper age she was put to school, and displayed the first fruits of a very vivid imagination; and such was her power of invention, that if she had honestly employed her faculties in the production of a new series of Arabian Tales, she might at this moment have been in the enjoyment of rispect and competency. Subsequent to quitting school, she went to reside with her uncle, the Rev. Dr. Wilmott, who enjoyed the living of Barton on the Heath. While in this situation, she appeared as a witness upon a very extraordinary trial for a burglary in her uncle's house, against two men, who were tried, convicted, and executed for that offence. Her story was most marvelleurs, and her own conduct, as she represented, most heroic. After the death of the Doctor, a look was preparation assessment, and so much regard had she and reparation. Abstract made an offer second the hold from the public the letters, real or protest member of them, then decembed for a valuable of member of them, then decemed, for a valuable syndrotted of them, then decemed, for a valuable syndrotted of the first of t baptism of Olive Wilmott. It is as follows;

April 15, 1772 (Baptized) Olive; daughter of Robert and Am Maria Wilmott.

"We have not another word to add mon the subject, except inquire whether the Olive Wilmott, christened at Warwick as a daughter of Robert Wilmott, in 1772, is the same Olive Wilmott, who was christened in London, in 1621, as the daughter of the Duo of Cumberland? If not, there is here a most extraordinary mischene of names, dates, and circumstances."

We have not another word to add upon the stillert either the fact speaks for itself.

CHAPEL VAULTS.

TO JOHN BULL.
SER--Admiring sincerely the tendency of your paper to drop opular prejudices, I hope to be attended to with our in adoption of your usual practice, I venture to outice the intrin in your No. 45, for Sunday, Oct. 21, 1821, of at least an ma censure. See page 359.

In building places of worship, the skilful anchisect simplies view two objects: STABILITY and COMFORT; and these two objects are ensured by strong, roomy, and substantial vacurs. In Church of the Establishment, the vaults become invariably receptables the remains of people of rank and fortune; but, in Chapels, with constitute the property of private individuals, such approximate of the waults would not be suffered by the perochial incumbent by his Diocesan.

What, then, Mr. Editor, shall the lay and clerical post expensive chapels in and all round London do with their less handsome vaults? I contend, upon some considerable examinate of the question, that to let the same to wine-merchants, by when they shall be used strictly and merely as store-cellars, as a places of tippling resort, is their most obvious and innocent applications and innocent applications and innocent applications are supplied to the supplied to cation. I have been engaged for five and twenty years, at Cha loate-street Chapel, Pimlico, as assistant-minister; and, thronte that long time, not one charge of the slightest act of indec the respective tenants of the vaults, or by their people within them on week-days, ever reached my cars.

Chelsea.

We have a high respect for the Rev. Writer of this letter, this we gladly insert, but as he has doubtless witnessed the ceremy of consecrating places of worship, he may perhaps be sible infens us schether the ground upon which a chapel is built, is not schedule consecrated, or whether the holy sanction and benediction are on after the building is finished, and extends no farther downset than the first floor. We never taxed any body occupying cells under chapels with "acts of indecorum," it is to those who fast convenient to lease out ground made holy by the fathers of a church, for the purpose of storing wine and beer, that our desmittions apply, and we must, with due deference to our Rev. Consepondent, think justly. I remain, Sir.

TO JOHN BULL.

Ivelchester Gaol, Somewart, Oct. 18.

Ser. -- The period being now fast approaching when I am to get up the governorship of this gaol, I am anxious to account my friends and the public, for the allonce with which I have hiter borne the mass of foul and calumnious accusations lately benefit

That I am to be dismissed from my charge in conse such accusations, the public have been long since informed; but was not until the 16th instant, that I could procure from the Mactrates, a statement of the proofs upon which my dismissi w founded. That the Magistrates had the power to dispense withit services whenever they pleased, no one can doubt; but as my or duct has been made the subject of investigation before a hight Court than that of a Committee of County Magistracy, it is wesary to my defence that I should wait, until I become acquimed with the decision of that Court also.

The public doubtlessly decide, that because I am to be dismissed the charges of HENRY HUNT are proved; but such is not the ferand as soon as the Report of His Majesty's Commissioners in reach me, I trust to make my innocence clear to the world.

I have remained silent hitherto, because I would not prejoke that Report, and because I would not follow in the steps of my that Report, and because I would not follow in the steps of a calumniator, by foisting exparte statements upon the world. It defence, however, will soon be completed, and to the great large of my country, I look for that justice which I feel my case desert, and my public character demands.

I cannot close this letter without reverting to the fact, that had been kept in the governorship of this establishment ever soot the 27th of July, against my inclination, and repeated application for instant dismissal. This is a circumstance, Mr. Edwar, a which I shall leave the public to make their own comment. But it is rather odd if my conduct has been so obnorous as an enemies represent, that I should be kept in the situation fit for when the High Sheriff had the power to dismiss me in three must add, too, that the period of my dismissal has been above tend by my own earnest and repeated application.

To your love of strict and impartial justice, I look for the insertion of this. I have been much abused; but the people of Englannever yet failed ultimately to do justice to the warred, and on the anticipation of their verdict I quietly repose.—1 have the honor to be, Sir, your very obedient servant, W. BRIDLE, Keeper of his Majesty's Gaol at Ivelebel.

Keeper of his Majesty's Gool at Ivelcheke

The Rev. Mr. Repton presents his compriments to the Edita of "John Bull," and in consequence of an allusian to him a last Sunday's paper; he begs to say, that he has no knowledge the subject to which he refers, and that he has no relative in the medical profession.

6, Cleveland-court, St. James's, Oct. 23, 1921.

o, Cieveiand-court, St. James's, Oct. 23, 1881.

Two or three years ago, a very respectable shoemaker in Chester testreet was taking a walk in Lambron's Park, where he met lewho said, "Pray, Sir, who gave you leave to walk in my Park." The man answered, "Sir, I have not got any person's leave; I have all aways leave in your father's time, and I am sorry if I have greany offence." Mark the answer of the noble and independent noter—"Get out, you rawal," and suiting the action to the window of the park-gate with such force against the poor man's lad, as to throw him with considerable force on his fact in the public road. At the last Durham election, Lambton's alled is this man, and begged his vote and support; the man answerell, "No, Man, and the greanswell manner you do in private can never be a faishful sound of the public."—Whether the shoemaker formed abuse common of Mr. Lambton's public qualification, we do not present to know of Mr. Lambton's public qualification, we do not pretend to know

THEATRES.

A successful play at ovent Garden is like roasted mutton a Eron-a standing dish; and the Exilt promises to keep its place here as long as Elliston's Coronation at the other theatre. We ad mire Young, we delight in Lisron, Fawcerr is excellent, and FARREN perfectly good; Mrs. Faverr is majestic, and Mrss Foore bewitebing but we cannot consent to go every night, and watch his splendid play, for the sake of informing our readers whether Mrs. TEXNANT sas encored, or Mr. Dunuser house. The EXILE s on its legs-and so are the horses; and there we must leave them

-the first to run, and the latter to draw, as is their duty.

At the Little Haymarket, a lady has made her appearance in Machearn in the Beggars' Oceaa. We do not know whether the proprietor of this theatre is married, but he certainly shews a great partiality for ladies who "wear the breeches." Last year Madame Vestrus, with her rosylips and sparkling eyes, was Gav's hero, and now we have the Monarch of the Road enacted by another fair damsel. It seems quite a feature of this theatre: in all old plays revived, or new ones produced, we have of a surety the delightful MRS. CHATTERLY, or pretty MRS. BAKER, in boy's clothes. Nay, last season, his fancy this way led him to give us Sin Hanny Wilhandsome darne, who seemed to have no particular turn for that, or any other character on the stage, except her readiness in shew

The present debutante has great claims to public favour; her voice is peculiar, and peculiarities (except such a peculiarity as Irish Johnstone's brogue) are, generally speaking, great obstacles to decided success. Her voice resembles that of MBS. KENNEDY; it is of a fine quality, deep and powerful: the consequence is, that, like Mas. KENNEDY, she is constrained to appear in men's characters, that the songs she has to sing may be within the compass of

This is the best excuse we can make for the unnatural assumption of such a part as MACHEATH by a lady, which, we are quite sure, judging from our own feelings as spectators, must be revolting to female delicacy to act.

The fair novice seemed considerably agitated during the per formance, and the whole of her acting appeared one continued struggle against feelings, which, in her lovely sex, are at all times quickly and strongly exciteable, and which naturally must be called into play by so tremendous an effort as such an exhibition before the public, for the first time, must be.

Comparison are odious, and we will not therefore put her Mac-HEATH b the side of VESTRIS. The smart easy impudence of the CAPTAIN, as depicted by that fascinating creature, who could make even the filth of GIOVANNI in LONDON endurable, certainly was out VESTRIS was an experienced actress when she played MACHEATH, and it would therefore be invidious not to say absurd, tomake them paralle cases. The young lady sang severa lof the song particularly "I the flear to a Man," and "The First Time at the Looking Glass," admirably: indeed, her effects in the latter, were superior to those of her bright-eyed prequeessor. Upon the whole, it was a very successful firs tappearance. It is quite new to u to see such an actor as TERRY part as Peachum; bu a the same time, very gratifying. Tenny's merits are hardly yet understood by the town, a man who can successfully harrow up the feelings in the higher walks. 4 Tragedy, ho can excite our laughter in Comedy, and maintain his place in Farce or Opera, can have no mean share of Theatrical talent. The truth is, as we once cursorily observed, while touching upon the characters of the present actors in private life, Ma. Terra is a scholar and a gentleman. He has read much, he has written successfully; and it is impossible for a sensible and gentlemanly man, with qualities of person and voice, such as Mn. TERRY possesses, to be a bad actor. Such a person as MR. Kean now, though he may be (not that he ever was in any thing we have seen) excellent in some parts, has in himself, a thousand imperfections, which must disqualify him for any thing but one line of acting. Censorious dwarfs, and bow-legged syrants (to learn which he has just enough reading to comprehend) he may hit off, because Nature has eminently qualified him for that particular line; but to represent any oble, or gentlemanly, would be for MR. KEAN, a task as im possible to perform, as it would be for MR. Conway to excite a tear, or MR. TAVLEURE to raise a smile.

MR. J. RUSSELL is certainly the best Filch we ever saw, if we except poor little SIMMON's of Covent Garden. We would, however, recommend a close adherence to the text, which (witty as it is) is quite coarse enough. Low Comedian itthey run riot in vulgarity, sometimes are so very comical, a tope extremely offer sive. We do not mean to infer that Mr. Russell was so, but it is a good thing to keep a curb in the mouth of actors of his class in such parts

MR. WILLIAMS was an excellent LOCKIT, and MRS. JONES a very worthy Lucy. Miss Count's little musical snuff-box played very nicely, not that we heard a great deal of it. We are somewhat surprized that Miss Canew was not the Poury; we suppose, it was because Miss Court played it last year, that she played it this; but wever wise this regulation may appear to managers, we do not at all agree as to its good effect upon audiences: if nations had gone upon such a principle, we might have painted ourselves blue to this day, and the trade of a taylor been unknown amongst us. if improvement were the great object, and nobody who has heard Myss Carew sing, and seen her act, can for a moment at her Polly would really have been the best to be had while Miss Stephens is away, and our pretty Miss Tree ill.

The opera went off remarkably well, and promises to draw good we hate HUMBUG, and hear a vast deal about the gentlemen of the press, we cannot but open our eyes with amazement to the thick and thin puffs, which the editors of the morning papers (evidently without ever having visited the play-houses) thrust into their columns about Theatricals, and particularly about the Hayever having visited the play-houses) thrust into market: it really is absurd, and we wonder how gentlemen, who, we suppose, have an opinion of their own, can consent to be made such fools of, either for love or money. Let every man be praised, if he deserves it; but the fulsome nonsense of the puffs we allude to can only have the effect of making managers ridiculous, and newspapers contemptible.

We have received a host of letters about the MINOR THEATRES We have received a host of fetters about the Mison I marken, to which it is impossible to reply. One gentleman, who writes a rery good hand, and not very bad English, dilates, somewhat at large, upon the immoralities of the Patent Theatre, and alluding to the allair of the chimney-sweepers at the Cobourg Theatre, gravely and seriously writes thus:—

"Indeed, as far as any moral feeling goes, a Little soot is not a support and degradation of virtue." &c. &c.

had as the contempt and degradation of virtue," &c. &c. The idea of seriously defending chimney-sweepers in peppering The idea of seriously defending chimney-sweepers in peppering the pit with soot, is really too good, and quite unanswerable:-Another very claborate performer in pen and ink, defends, and we believe with much justice, the SURREY THEATRE from our sweeping ce sure: but is his real, he represents the danger of attending any Theatre, except that, to be very great, and gives a history of persons standing on the front rows of Pris, and knocking people do with untirellas, and kicking each others shine, &c. none of which we must say, we ever saw in COVENT GARDES. To convince us d'its superiority, Ma. Othorn kindly sent us a free-ad nission fo the season, to this said SURREY THEATRE, which we have returned to him, lest he should imagine, in speaking of his house as favor-ably as we sincerely believe it deserves, we were influenced by his

One of the Minor Theatres has met with an unpleasant accident, we mean that called the Regency Theatre, situated in Gaywood-court, Prospect-place, St. George's-fields. This formidable rival to the last of the Krambes, and Ma. J. P. T. G. L. W. Cooke at the Coburg, was most suddenly annihilated by the Police on Wednesday night, who detected the performers in the fact of acting "the Miller and his Men," (a piece to which spectacle and scenery are indispensable) in a small room, the curtain being--a blanket.

Some idea of the state of the drama in that part of Surrey may be formed when our readers are told that the price of admission was twopence, and that the following notification was posted over the Check-taker's box--" Chex taken hear;" the whole corps dramatique were sent to the House of Correction for a month, and the unfortunate person whose duty it was to take the "Chex," was committed for three months to the same place; a check he little contemplated, and which, as far as his daiblings in the drama go, amounts, we should think, nearly to check-mate.

On Wednesday, advices were received at Carlton Palace from Hanover, dated on the Wednesday preceding. His Majesty's attack of the gout has been very slight, and, we rejoice to say, he is recovering from it rapidly. His Majesty was to set off from Hanover on Wednesday, on his return to this country.

Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cumberland, and family, are expected to arrive in England early in the spring, from the Continent. His Royal Highness has in his dispatches to Colonel Thornton, within the last week, requested that their apartments might be put in proper order for their reception by February.

Mr. Moore, the Author of Lalla Rookh and other Poems, is at present in London.

Ata General Ordination holden at the Cathedral Church of Nor-ments might be put in proper order for their reception by February.

Ma. Moore, the Author of Lalla Rookh and other Poems, is at present in London.

Ata General Ordination holden at the Cathedral Church of Norwich, on Sunday the 14th, the following gentlemen were admitted into the holy orders of Priests and Deacons: "Deacons." Deckwith; R. E. Hankinson, B. A.; T. Wilkinson, B. A.; Corpus Christi College; J. Bloomfield, Christ College; W. Burroughes, B. A.; W. Frost, B. A.; Clare Hall; C. Codd, B. A.; S. Dunn, B. A.; St. John's College; E. Edwards, B. A.; J. P. Stevens, B. A.; Jesus College; C. Henning, B. A. Queen's College; R. Lubbock, B. A. Pembroke Hall; T. Northmore, M. A. Emmanuel College; J. Pratt, B. A. Trinity College; all of Cambridge. J. Fowle, B. A. Wadham College, Oxford; R. Jay, Marischal College, Aberdeen.—Priesrs-R. Cobbold, B. A.; W. S. P. Wilder, B. A.; Caius College; J. Sprigge, St. Peter's College; T. Temple, A. M. Queen's College; W. H. Wyatt, B. A. Pembroke Hall; all of Cambridge; J. Irvine, M. A. Marischal College, Aberdeen; W. T. Goodchild; G. N. Smith.

The Navy.-Commodore R. Mends, is expected to sail for the coast of Africa, in the Iphigenia Frigate, shortly. Capt. J. Nourse, C. B. is appointed to the command of the Cape of Good Hope, and St. Helena, with the rank of Commodore. The Newcastle, 60, with Rear Adm. Grifith Colpoys, from Halfax, is daily expected to return home. Capt. W. T. Morgan and Lieut. T. Johnson, are appointed to the Confiance if, at Deptford. Maj. B. Fletcher, has embarked at Portsmouth, with a detacument of the Royal Marines, on board H. M. S. Liffey. The Andromache frigate, in Portsmouth harbour, isordered to be prepared immediately for commission. The Grecian schooner was paid off las tweek.

On Wednesday, a Cour to Directors was held at the Ea India House, when the ship Regent, of 1916 type, was taken up? rone voyage to China. The Company's service.

The New French Straites for Drawing-room Furnite Beds, Lioraries, Boudoire &c. introduced by Miles and Edwards, M

NEW WORKS PUBLISHED BY JOHN WARREN, OLD BOND-STREET.

A NESSAYon be STUDY of MOLERN HISTORY; by JAMES A N ESSA Yon be STUDY of MOLERN HISTORY; by JAMES ASHERGOLI 100NE, Student alchrist Church, Oxford, Svo. 8s. 2. NOTES relat. 1, 10 the MANNE R Sand CUSTOMS of the CRIMTARTARS. Written during a Four Years Residence among that People, By MARY HOLDERNESS. In 12mo, with coloured plates, price is 6d.—The CELT'S PARADISE, in Four Duans. By JOHN BANIM; in foolscap Syo. 5s. 6d.—Also by the same Author.

2. DAMON and PYTHIAS, a Tragedy, in Five Acts, as performed at the Theatre Royal, Corent Garden. In Syo. 5s. 6d.

4. OLIVER CROMWELL and HIS TIMES. By THOS CROMWELL With a Potrtait, from an Original Painting in the Author's possession, a Parsimile of Gromwell's Signature and Seal to the Warrant for Beheading Charles I. Original Memoirs of his Descendants, Letters, and other interesting Tocuments. In Syo. price 14s.

5. LAAS ON, HAND. By ISMAEL FITZADAM, formerly an Able Seaman on board the ———Frigate. In foolscap 8vo. price 7s.—Also by the same Author.

3. The HABB of the DESERT contribute the Bettle of Alviere Seamed and Contributed the DESERT Contributes the Bettle of Alviere Seamed Contributes the Bettle of Alviere Seamed Author.

same Author.
6. The HARP of the DESERT, containing the Battle of Algiers, &c.

6. The HARP of the DESERT, containing the Battle of Algeria, confidence of the Containing the Battle of Algeria, containing the Battle of Algeria, containing the Battle of Algeria, and the Light of twenty six Etchings, from Designs. By R. DAGLEY, Author of Select Geme from the Antique, a Compendium of the Theory and Practice of Drawing and Rainting, &c., In royal 8vo, with 26 Plates, price 21s.

8. TABLE TALK; on Original Essays. By WILLIAM HAZLITT, Contents:—On the Pleasure of Painting—On the Past and Fature—On Genius and Common Sense—Character of Cobbett—On Peeple with One Idea—On the Lipnerance of the Learned—The Indian Jugglers—On Living to one v Self—On Thought and Action—On Will-making—On certain Inconsistencies in Sir Joshua Reynolds's Discourses—On Paradox and Common-place—On Vulga; ity and Affection. In 8vo. price 14s. boards.—Also, by the same Author.

place—On Vulgarity and Apections same Author,
9. LECTURES on the Dramatic Literature of the Age of Elizabeth
9. LECTURES on the Dramatic Literature of the Age of Elizabeth Second Edition. In 8vo, 12s., 10. A VIEW of the ENGLISH STAGE; or, a Series of Dramatic Cri-

10. A VIEW of the ENGLISH STAGE; or, a Series of Dramatic Crificisms, 8vo. 12s.

11. PARIS in 1815. Second Part. With other Poems. By the Rev. G. CROLY, A.M. In 8vo. 5s. 6d.—Also by the same Author.

12. The ANGEL of the WORLD, an Arabian Tale; Sebastian, a Spanish Tale; with other Peems, 8vo. 5s. 6d.

13. PARIS in 1815. A Poem. Second Edition, 8vo. 5s. 6d.

14. LINES on the Death of the Princess Charlotte, 8vo. 3s. 6d.

15. POEMS. By THOMAS GENT. In foolscap 8vo. 5s. boards.

16. JERUSALEM DELIVERED. Book the Fourth. From the Italian of Tasso. Being the Specimen of an intended new Translation in English Spencerian Verse. Dedicated, by permission, to her Grace the Duchess of Bedford. By J. H. WIFFEN.—Also, by the same Author.

17. JULIA ALPINULA, with the Captive of Stamboul, and other Poems, 12m. 2vo. 6d.

2mo.7s.6d.

18. AONIAN HOURS, and other Poems. Second Edition, 8vo.7s.6d.

19. JOURNAL of a RESIDENCE in the BURMHAN EMPIRE, and nore particularly at the Court of Amarapoorah. By Capt. HIRAM COX, f the Hon. East India Company's Bengal Naval Infantry. In 8vo. with covered Pla'es. 16s. boards. ured Places, 16s. boards. 20. The GARDEN of FLORENCE, and other Poems. By JOHN HA-

20. The GARDEN of PLOTES CER, and clust Pools. By SMILTON. Infoolscap 8vc. price 7s.
21. CONCEALMENT. A Novel. Is 3 vols. 12mo. price 21s.
22. MARCIAN COLONNA, an Italian Tale, with three Dramatic Scenes, and other Poems. By BARRY CORNWALL. New Edition. In 12mo. price 7s. 6d.—Also, by the same Author,
23. MIRANDOLA, a Tragedy, in Five Acts. Third Edition, 8vo. 4s. 6d.

A SICILIAN STORY, with Diego de Montilla, and other Poems, new

26. A Scotland Science, and other Poems, new Edition, 12mo. 7s.
25. DRAMATIC SCENES, and other Poems, new Edition, 12mo. 7s.
25. DIEGO DI VILLAMORA, revisto e correctio da M. SANTAGNELLO.
Vith an Aria and Accompaniment, by a Professor. In 12mo. price 8s.—
18o, by the same Author.
27. A NEW SET of EXERCISES, illustrated with Notes, Explanations, and Directions for their Translation. 12mo. 4s. 6d. bound.
28. A KEY to the above, being a faithful Translation of them in Italian.

22. BANNOCKBURN. A Novel. In 3 vols. 12mo. 18 .

The fronzie or of the Egyptian Tomb seels himself bound to express his scatitude for the great encouragement the Public so liberally be towed on him during the late seaton, and has the pleasure to amounce that, deeply impressed with a case thom who as highly compared with a case thom who as highly compared with a case thom who as highly compared with a case them who are highly compared with a case them who are the case them who are the case the case the case of the to ship during the late season, and has the pleasure to announce that, deeply implessed with a praper sense of what he owes them who so highly encouraged his former exertions, that he has spared no pains or expense to gratify their curiosity on Egyptian Antiquities.

In addition to the former Exhibition he has introduced Six Models in Max. representing the following Monuments:

The great Pyramid of Shephrene, on the reduced scale of 120 feet in 1 foot, every stone of the exterior and interior of the passage, chambers, and porticious, are in the due propor ion, and so exactly contrived as to give the mest correct idea of those ancient Monuments.

The Interior of the Temple, in the Isle of Philoe, is most min stely executed and bainted.

and painted.

That of Herman es is also represented, stone for stone.

The entrance to an Egyptian Tomb in Gomon, with an Archway over it, to clucida' et he origin of the Arches.

That part of the Model of the Tomb of Psamis, which hitherto has not been put before the Public, will be placed so as to give a complete idea of the Tomb.

the Tomb.

The great Temple of Ibsumbal, in Nubia, with all its Colossal Figures. Sc. in their due proportions, will give a complete idea of the Egyptian excavations.—Admittance, is.

N.B. The Proprietor takes this early opportunity to announce that the Egyptian Tomb will be finally closed at the end of February, 1822.

DIE HUNDRED BEAVER HATS. ROBERT LLOYD, of 92, Newgate-street, original maker, and inventor of apwards of 100 different shaped GENTLEMEN'S BEAVER HATS, which for beauty, quality, and taste, are unrivalled in Great Britain. The process of manufacture is new, and so decidedly superior to the old, that although the price is only 25s, they will wear longer than any two of those imitation Beaver Hats commonly charged a Guinea; another great advantage is, that in so sneedy a street of forms, the wearer can choose what best becomes his person. Silk Hats, with double edges, 18s. each, a most incomparable article.

ALL'S sublime TURKISH PASTE, CIRCASSIAN and FACE POWDER.—The above elegant preparations, which are so universally approved by Ladies of the first rank and fashion, as the most innocent and beautiful assistant to nature, by imparting to the skin that soft and inconceivable fairness, is now prepared, in the highest state of perfection; the Proprietor having lately imported a quantity of the necessary ingredients, will prevent in future any possible disappointment.—One Pound Nete Packages, containing two large Pots and two Packets of the Powder, or four small Pots and four small Packets, are forwarded to all parts of Town or Country, and warranted to arrive safe.

N. B. Observe the above are only to be had of the most respectable Dealers of Perfamery or Millners in the Country, in single Pots, at 10s. 6d. and 5s. 6d.; and the Pewder in Packets, 2s. 6d. and is. 6d, and should be asked for in the name of the Proprietor, whose signature is on the outside of each.—Patent Violet Soap and Chemical Laboratory, No. 2S. Hadlow-street, Burton Crescent, Lendon.—J. B. HALL.

ASE and COMFORT in SHAVING. To those Genflemen who expected informatic particularly recommends his celebrated MAGNETIC RAZOR TABLET, which, with its late improvement, he engages will produce so keen an edge as to supersede all grinding, honing, &c. and render he operation of shaving as easy and agreeable as it was before unpleasant and painful. Its use is simple, is effect certain; price 7s. 8d. J. T. Rigge's Aromatic Shaving Seap will also be found an invaluable addition. Mansafactory, 65, Cheapside, and 52, Park-street, Grosvenor-square ARTIFICIAL TEETH, on an unprecedented principle.—Mr. ARTIFICIAL TEETH, on an unprecedented principle.—Mr. A Fourth Edition of Lloyd's Treatise on Hats, price Is RATEFICIAL TEETH, on an unprecedented principle.—Mr. GRAY, Menher of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, continues to supply the loss of Teeth, on the successful system introduced by himselfin 1813, which has been found to answer all the purposes of the human Teeth, in mastication, atticulation, appearance, &c. and to remain perfectly secure in their place sby the pressure of the a mosphere; thereby avoiding pluning to strongs, twing, twisting wires, or fastesing springs to the adjoining Teeth, or any attachment whatever is the remaining Teeth; and consequently, instead of injuring, afford them support. These artificial Teeth may be taken out in andreplaced by the wearer with the greatest facility. To those who require whole or half-sets, Mr. Gray undertakes, at his own risk, to furnish pieces which shalk answer all the purposes above described, without the incumbrance of the spiral springs, which are asked attached to such pieces—25.9d Burlington-atreet.

DURGHSS's NIAW SAUCE for general purposes, having given such a probation, and the demand for it contisuing to increase, JOHN BURGHSS's and SON beg most respectfully to offer this their best mechanistic great convenience in all climates, has recommended it to the most distinguished foreign contexions, who have alless then highly in its recommendation. It is prepared by them. ONLY, and for preventing disappointments to families, all possible care has been resorted to, by each bottle being scaled upon the cork with their firm and address, as well as each label having their signature, without which it cannot be genuine.

JOHN BURGESS and SON'S long established and much-esteemed ES-SENCE of ANCHOVIES, continues to be prepared by them after the same manner that has given the greatest satisfaction for many years.—Warehouse, 107. Strand, corner of the Savoy-steps, London.—The original Fish-Sauce Warehouse.

Warehouse.

DATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP.—In montemplating the lives and property that have been sacrificed to the use of chudies, it is natural to conclude, that it has either been found discuit to invent a complete substitute, or that it has either been found discuit to invent a complete substitute, or that it has either been found discuit to invent a complete substitute, or that its importance has escaped observation, and it is not a trialing grafification to the Patentze, that, in this invention he has so far succeeded in the at empt as to produce a light that embraces every perfection, and its alke applicable to every domestic use, and can be so regulated as to suit every obtained. Its safety is such that superson on seeing it can doubt for a moment its security against dangered fire, and, bearing any my ion without agitating the flame, renders it highly valuable as a meving hight. As a Commber or Night Light, it can be regulated to burn the congest or shortest might, siving a never failing brilliant flame, ready at the emoment it is wanted, disappearing in the morning without smoke or smell a superseding the Bed Candle, and in its general use, a preserver ( 'be carpets from tallow or wax; the price, in near Japan Stonda, los, and in honoze, 15s. to 20s. The same principle apples, and the Laurge table, sideboard, study, bracket, door, or fan light, &o.; and also Glass Green Hanging Lamps, for the hall, staircase, passages, conservatory draming-room, mantiepiece, lustres, &e.; and for the accommodation of these who have square, was, or other hall inthorus, the burners of which are suniversally complained of for the oil they consume, and the insufferable smoke and smell they cent, the Patentee, in compliance with the request of many, now applies this principle to such, with all its advantages, at 12a, be 14s. each. Families in the country, who wish to avail themselves of this epiportunity, have only to send the exact size of the aperture at the bottom of the fauthorn in which the burner is introduced

Prompt attention.

CALVADOS CLOAKS, and other CURIOSITIES.—RILRY, Cever grateful to the Public for their kind support, begs to inform their that he has on SALE a boundless STOCK of FASHIONABLE CLOAKS.
FINE HABIT CLOTHS, and RICH SILKS, in every novel and brilliand colour, at one-half their value, viz.:—Bath Cloaks, fashionably made, 10s.
each; ditto, 12s.; Beaver ditto, 14s.; Brighton Envelopes, 15s. each; Tabury Wraps, 16s. 6d. each; ditto, richly trimmed, 18s. and 20s. each; ditto out sizes, of the most superior cloth, 25s. each; Calvados Cloaks, fur bound;
Seal ditto, richly trimmed with flush, Lapland Moss, and every other fashionaable trimming; real Camel's Hair ditto, of the same materials as the Indian Shawls (warranted to improve in wear); Grecian Mantles (a new article, to, be seen at no other house in Leadon); 300 Cloth Slawls, bound and fer Sea of tito, renew primance with mark, Lapland Moss, and every other lastness able trimosing; real Camel's Hair ditto, of the same materials as the Indian Shawis (warranted to improve in wear); Greetan Mantles (a new article, to be seen at no other house in London); 300 Cloth Shawis, bosund and tasselled, from 19s. each; supersine Pelisse Cloths, two yards wide, 5s. per yard; fine Spanish Wool ditto, 7s. 6d.; Ladies' Habit Cloths, in every fashiomabe, shade, 10s. per yard; a few pieces of Scarlet, White, and Black, the fineral made, at very reduced prices; Bath Coatine, 2s. 3d. per yard; A 1301a, S. 2l., and Braganza Shawis, of every new and fashionable pattern; Lustre Crape, 18s. the dress; Lapland Cords, 4s. 6d. per yard; Soi de Paris, 5s. 9d., read Gros de Naples, 3s. 9d. and 4s.; Figured ditto, 4s. 3d.; Gros de Tours, as tell, and 6s. per yard; figured Taffetas, 3s. 6d.; Poplins and Lustres, be the right ditto, 2s.; Irish ditto, 2s. 6d. and 2s. 9d.; figured Poplins, 1s, 81. relation of the control of the co We have to announce the rare occurrence of two Public Meetings this week. One presided by that tried friend of the country, Dr. Warson; the other, by the "yellow dandy" Lambron. The object of both meetings appears to have been the same, in the mode of creating a disturbance, did they alone differ; and as far as speechlying goes, if our time were to come over again, and we were compelled to abandon one of them, we really do not know to which we should prefer going, to get a hearty laugh at the follies of the faction. Dr. Warson's affair claims precedence in point of time at any rate. Monday evening was fixed for the assemblage of the useful classes, at the Paul's Head, Cateaton-street, and about seven o'clock, the Doctor took the Chair. He was accompanied by his friends Mr. Waddington, and Mr. Walker, the keeper of a coffee-shop.

riends Mr. Waddington, and Mr. Walker, the keeper of a coffee-shop.

The Doctor opened the business of the meeting extremely well, and told the useful classes-"That they were met for the purpose of preparing an Address of Condolence to the Kiro, on the death of preparing an Address of Condolence to the Kiro, on the death of that most illustrious, beautiful, great, large, high-minded, thorough-bred, terrible, virtuous, uncrowned, calumniated, dreadfully persecuted, and quite broken-hearted lady, the Queek. (Cheers) The enemies of the cause are on the alert, says the Doctor. "Government intend getting up a plot against me; (hear, hear,) but I am determined not to get up a plot for them (great cheering) at least for a year (loud laughter). I shall go no farther." (continued cheering.)

The Doctor then warming with the subject, began to be eloquent, and had even commenced an eulogium on her late Majesty, when some fiddlers, who were engaged for a hop in the next room, struck up, "Moll i' the Wad." A poor unhappy dog, who had comfortably gone to sleep during the oration, awakened by the jig, barked with all his might and main, and the peals of laughter which overcame the audience, and drowned the voice of the Doctor, were tunuithous.

when some fiddlers, who were engaged for a hop in the next room, struckup, "Moll' the Wad." A poor unhappy dog, when the fiddlers in the sext room, struckup, "Moll' the Wad." A poor unhappy dog, when the fiddlers stricked down stairs, the under and main, and the peals of laughter skicked down stairs, the Uncoron proceeded to read some resolutions, upon which, he was called to order by a very gentlemanly looking person, who told him, that it was not usual for the Chairman of Meetings to propose resolutions.

This observation create esolutions.

This observation create esolutions.

This observation create esolutions.

This observation create esolutions are an expensively at the common thall, that no apposition is suffered-the gentleman was called upon to give his name to—Da. Warson—it is hardly necessary to say this was refused. Upon which Ma. Walkers stepped forward and said, "In a Public Meeting that no person would refuse to give 'up his name but a thicf, a spy, or some damnable character."—[Loud cheers and laughter.]

Here the action of the parcene of tunult and contison: chairs, and the what hables flew in all directions; and some officers of the Lord Mayor, anxious, no doubt, for the safety of his Lordship's crony, Ma. Wadding, and with a better expression of countenance) returned, and endeavoured to the expression of countenance) returned, and endeavoured to his resolutions together than the company. "Ye negative some the his resolutions together was a superior of the safety of his Lordship's crony, Ma. Wadding, and with a better expression of countenance) returned, and endeavoured to his resolutions together than the content of the safety of the safety of his Lordship's crony, Ma. Wadding, and with a better expression of countenance) returned, and endeavoured to his resolutions together than the countenance of the party of the safety of the

and to Ned Ellice, and George Woodenspoon, Esq. for their public services.

After Favell, came that, sweet little fellow Grey Bennett--(he, who subscribed one pound to his friend Captain Romeo)--he who ever stands forth in the cause of charity--in this case he came forward chiefly to speak to character, and, by way of recommending Wilson to public favour, mentioned that he had known him twenty-eight years ago, at which time he, Bennet, was in the army! What a sweet little fellow he must have been for a soldier, for, if the Peerage speaks right, he could have been very little more than fwelve or thirteen years of age; and considering that he is no giant now at full grouth, we are at a loss, except as a drummer (which, we conclude he was not), to discover in what capacity our minute friend could have acted at the time he mentions:-- but, says he, "I was an eye-witness of that achievement, which reflected the greatest honour, and obtained for him the first medal that was bestowed on a British officer." Taking Wilson's name and Bennett's figure together, we could not, at the moment he said this, get rid of the association in our mind of Cock Robin and his friend in the story, who answers to the question of--Who saw him die?--with die?--with

I, said the fly,

With my little eye:

and we really must say, that to a gallant officer like Wilson, the testimony of a lad such as Bennert was at the time spoken of, is about as serviceable to him as the answer of the buzzing, trouble-some, nasty little insect was to his namesake in the story-book.

To follow our worthy friend through the nonsense he talked, for we may say he is a frothy stupid little fellow, while spouting at a tavern, without risking a breach of privilege, would be to set down all the same things that all the same set have said for the last dozen years. He terminated his harangue amidst universal cheering; but whether it avose from approbation of his speech, or from joy at its conclusion, we were unable exactly to learn.

JOHN BULL.

He was succeeded by a gentleman of the name of Jones, who in spite of Mr. Lambton's injunction to hear every body-was most shamefully treated.

Mr. Gale-Jones, as a speaker, is quite equal to Lameton, superior to Bennert, and beaus Hume out of the field-besides which, he was personally qualified to have addressed the meeting-for, like Wilson, he opposed the Government-like Wilson, he was sent to jail-and like Wilson, he had a begging box put round for him. The treatment of this person, if it was caused by the fear of his excelling the crack mountebanks of the day, shows the narrowness of their minds; and if he was stopped because he was neither rich, nor of high birth, it proves that the professions of justice and impartiality made by the whig radicals are false, and that though they will strain every nerve to use their inferiors, they are too proud to be associated with them.

But the great joke of the day was Hume himself, after ringing the changes upon murder, massacre, Manchester, Wilson, Honey and Francis, affected 29,989 officers who were in the service;" "for," added the great goose, "I have taken the pains to ascertain "the noomber," at which the shouts of laughter were terrific; and Hume, whose speeches are seldom interrupted except by coughing or snoring, seemed quite surprised at the shout of mirth which his auditors raised, and said, "he did not know to what to attri-" bute such an expression of their feelings."—What adult clod must Joseph be!—why, the whole room was laughing at him, and his absurd calculations; and uncivil and unceremonious as it was, it was impossible to restrain the burst of ridicule: in deed, we beli good health.

cheered, and considering all his late anxieties, appeared in very good health.

Mr. Ellice came forward, and as he was in Whig radical company, called Ministers by several harsh names. Had this trimming gentleman told the company how much his tone alters, when trying to live on good terms with those whose names and characters he was then traducing, the Whig radicals we think would have held him about as cheap, as the Tories do; and the pleasure, pride, and satisfaction which he said he left in being there, would have been converted into pain, humiliation, and shame, which a politician without principle cannot fail to feel when his hollowness is exposed, and his insincerity detected.

The Meeting ended as it had begun, and the radicals separated peaceably, and without any fresh acts of violence. There were some windows broken at Warson's assembly; and we have received a letter from an interested person, to assure us, that the Master of the Paul's Head Tayens, let his room to a Mr. Jenkins, without knowing the sort of company he was to expect. We are very glad to make this fact known, and we only wonder that people who have such a house as the Ciry of London Tayear, and a stock in trade so valuable and desirable as their's is, can consent for the sake of hire, to suffer such meetings as those of Thursday to be held in their rooms. It is highly disreputable.

Bristol, 10th October, 1821.

THE COUNTRY VERSUS LONDON.

THE COUNTRY CONSTITUTIONAL GUARDIAN, and LITERARY MAGAZINE.—The events of the 14th of August, have given reason to dread the influence of a metropolis, where mob-law has been upheld by two inquests; and the vast majority of the yet uncontaminated population resident in the country can no longer tamely look on, and mark wi's dangerous apathy, the threatening steps of civil commotion rapidly treading on the heels of the Constitution. The history of the world is little more than the detail of the factions and exuberancies of the various seats of empire. Pelitical associations are but the airy castles of timidity; and the mutually abusive jargen of the metropolitan journals is but the humbug of trade, well understood by its rival proprietors, and tending only to confuse and bilister the pskile mind.

From the second city in the Empire then, is about to emanate the daring but fearless attempt, of counterpolising country opinions against those of a licentious capital; and of counteracting the errors of the press by the exercise of cotemporary powers.

In the metropolis itself, such an attempt will be hailed with pleasure by thousands; and in the country, it will be supported by a spirit of emulation. The Country Constituti mal Guardian will be printed and published by John Matthew Gutch (Proprietor and Editor of Felix Farley's Bristol Journal) at Bristol, on the 1st day of every mon'h, commencing in November next; but although printed there, published there, and edited there, it has been found, from custom and the course of trade, that it can be circulated with greater punctuality and at less expense from the metropolis; book-sellers, therefore, and news venders will be pleased to direct their orders to Messrs, Rivingtons', St. Paul's Church-yard, and Waterloo-place, London; by whom it will be supplied with as much regularity as other periodical works. Price 2s. But all communications (post paid) must be addressed solely to Mr. Gutch, at Bristol; or, for the sake of convenience, under cove

N SIX EASY LESSONS OF ONE HOUR EACH....Mr.

E. BRADBURY, Private Tutor at Westminster School, solicits the attention of Ladies and Gentlemen to his unrivalled and infallible system of beautiful PENMANSHIF; whereby he pledges himself to teach persons of all ages to write with ease, elegance, and expedition, (whatever may be the deformity of their present writing) in six regular Lessons, or he will forfeit all claim to remuneration. This system, as it equally promotes the attainment of a bold and masculine hand calculated for business, and of a light and graceful manuscript adapted to Ladies; also secures to the Popil the certainty of writing straight, without lines, with wonderful dispatch and accuracy. Upwards of two thousand specimens, and numerous recommendatory letters may be seen, and references given to persons of the first distinction, some of whom are upwards of fifty years of age... Private tuition at home. Ladies and Gentlemen attended at their own residences. A new and practical system of Short Hand, taught in a few lessons... Apply, (or direct, post paid) at the Academy, 464, Strand,

COSMORAMA.—SECOND EXHIBITION.

COSMORAMA.—SECOND EXHIBITION.

VIEW of the FUNERAL of BUONAPARTE; Ditto of the Island of St. Helena, from the Ocean; the exterior of the Pantheon, at Rome, by moonlight; interior view of fittor interior view of fittor; the Gallery of Raphael in the Vatican; the Valley of Grindewald, and the Glaciers, in Switzerland.—Open from eleven in the forenoon till nine at night, 29, St. James's-street.—Admittance, 1s.

ROWN'S COFFEE-HOUSE, Mitre-court, Temple.--L. W forms his Friends and the Public, that he has taken the above House, where he trusts, by the most assiduous attention to their comforts, and the strictest system of economy, te merit a continuance of their patronage and support. Cemmercial and Professional Gentlemen will find their accommedations particularly studied, and the hed-rooms spacious and open.—N. B. A variety of Publications and the London Gazette taken in.—October 1821. ns his Friends and the Public, that he has taken the above H

Publications and the London Gazette taken in.—October 1821.

FOR THE FACE, NECK, and ARMS.—The Ladies are assured that all the cosmetics ever yet discovered do not possess, in an hundredth degree, the good qualities of PRICE and GOSNELL'S PATENT NAPLES CREAM, as a beautifier and clearer of the skin. Sunburns, pimples, freckles, ringworms, tetters, spots, tan, redness of the noze, & are often peculiar to tender and delicate complexions; by the regular application of the Patent Naples Cream once a day, or twice or thriee in a week the skin and fluids are gradually cleansed and cooled, and assume that clear and transparent white and red, which denote them is a healthful state. Its innocent, efficacious, and refreshing qualities render it an excellent and salutary wash for infants, as it keeps the skin soft, cool, and free from dryness.—Sold in London only by the Patentees, Price and Gosnell, Perfumers to his Majesty, 12, Three King-court, Lombard-street. Price 5s. and 10s. per bottle. Also, Price and Gosnell's Rose Bloom, for beautifying the countenance, is the best and most innocent cosmetic yet known in the world, and which imparts such a natural and lively bloom to the skin, as cannot be distinguished from nature. Price 5s. 8d. per bottle, with directions for use.

Just published, price 28.

DBSERVATIONS on the REPORT from the SELECT COMMITTEE of the HOUSE of COMMONS, to whom the several Petttions complaining of the depressed state of the Agriculture of the Unites Kingdom, were referred in the Session of 1821. By GEO. WEBB HALL, Bsq. Chairman of the General Committee of Management for the Petitioners.
Sold by Sherwood, Neely, and Jones, Paternaster-row; J. Harding, 36, 81, James's-street; B. Wilson, Royal Exchange; and Evans and Rully, 29, Bedge-row, London. Where may be had, price Is.
2. OBSERVATIONS on the Propriety of granting Protection to the Agriculture of the United Kingdom, &c. &c.—By JOHN ELLMAN, Jun, DELPHI THEATRE, STRAND.—Monday, Oct. 29, and during the week, CORSAIR'S BRIDE; Count Lorenzo, Mr. Warkim Barroughs; Bmily, Miss E. Pitt; After which, BRUNO; or, the SullangPayourite. In the course of the piece will be introduced, the Minust de la Court, by Mr. Wilkinson and Mrs. Bryan. The evening's entertationents to conclude with the celebrated Pahtomine of the FAIHY of the NORTH STAR. To-morrow week, will be produced, an entire new Musical Burletta. Boxes, 4s. Pit, 2s. Gallery, 1s.

£30,000 MONEY!! for the First-Drawn Prize NEXT TUESDAY.

#30,000 MONEY!! for the First-Drawn Prize NEXT TUESDAY, and J. SIVEWRIGHT request the Public attention to the LOTTERY which begins NEXT TUESDAY, the leading Feature Three Prizes of #20,000! and 30 other Capitals! Every Ticket drawnsly, each deciding its own Fate! All Money! And not Two Blanks to tice!

Tickets and Shares are Selling by J. and J. SIVEWRIGHT who seld in the Last Lottery, 4421 a Prize of £25,000, and many of £30,000, £20,000 &c. &c. have been distributed to the Public, at 37, Cornhill, 38, Haymarks and 11, Holborn.

TEXT TUESDAY.---HAZARD and Co. Contractors for the present LOTTERY, remind the Public that the Drawing will commence on TUESDAY NEXT, when the first-drawn Prize will receive £30,000!!--The universal approbation bestowed on the Scheme render any observation on its merits unnecessary. Every Prize is Sterling Money—Three Prizes of £30,000!—Thirty other Capitals!—Not two Blanks to a Prize!—Tickets and Shares are selling at HAZARD and Co.'s old and fortunate Offices, 93, Royal Exchange, 25, Cornhill; and 324, Oxford-street where they sold in the last Lottery, 15,702, a.£21,000; 6,054, £15,000, and all the £30,000 Prizes in a former Lottery.

LONDON MARKETS.

THE GENERAL AVERAGE PRICES of BR. TISH CORN, as receive weekly from the Inspectors in the Maritime Cities and Towns is Englas and Wales, according to the Gazette of the 20th of October, calculated a follows:

GENEBAL AVERAGE WHICH GOVERNS IMPORTATION.

Wheat, 58s 4d—Barley, 31s 2d—Oats, 20s 5d—Rye, 26s 10d—Beans, 32s 2d

Pease, 32s 3d.

£ 6.6d.

New Dollars . . 0 0 0 p.c.

Silver in Bars Stand 0 4 11 —

New Louis, each . 6 0 0 — Petersburg ..... — 3 U Vienna ..... 10 22 Ess. flo.

COMMERCIAL REPORT, FROM OCTOBER 22, TO OCTOBER 27, INCLUSIVE.

Markets generally have possessed much steadiness, without, however, any activity. The ordinary qualities of Plantation Sugars are 6d. to 1s. per cwt. lower. St. Lucias yesterday by the hammer 50s. to 52s.; other sorts fully maintain their previous rates.—The quantity of Coffee brought to public notice was limited to 886 casks and 1070 bags, a great proportion of which was taken in at the extreme prices of last week;—an increased demand was yesterday experienced, which caused an enhancement in value of about 2s. per cwt.,—good St. Domingos readily brought 102s.—We have esperienced a very moderate business in Cotton, and the currency of last week has been hardly supported, which is also applicable to the Liverpool Market.—100 Chests of Indigo (fine Violet) advertised for sale, were disposed of by private contract, averaging 9s. per 1b.

STOCKS.	Mon.	Tues.	Wed.	Thur.	Frad.	Sat.
Bank Stock	2404	940	210	240	2394	- per Cent. Reduced	778	TTA	774	274	774	767
per Cent. Consols	78	781	789	781	78	774 $
of per Cent Consols	87	88	879	88	879	-
Consols for Account	783	783	788	784	782	776
per Cent. Consols	964	964	964	96%	968	960
per Cent. Navy	1111	1118	1114	1116	1114	111
Bank Long Annuities		-		-	-	198
India Bonda	73 p	74 p	73 P	72 p	78 p	453
Exchequer Bills, 2d	5 p	4 P	6 P	4 P	4.0	5 4
Ditto, 21d	-	-	1	-	-	-
Ompium	-	-	-	-	-	-

BIRTHS.

At Twinstead Hall, Essex, the Lady of Sir George Denys, Eart, of a son.
In Upper Seymour-street, the Lady of Robert Westley Hall, Esq. High Sheriff of Essex, of a daughter.

At Chelmsford Rectory, the Lady of the Rev. John Giffard Ward, of twind

MARRIAGES. On Saturday, at Hampstead, Mr. George Willis, of St. James's-street, is Sarah, only daughter of Charles Terry, Esq. of Bedford-raw.

At Walthamstow, on the 22d inst. J. W. Freshfield, Esq. to Frances James Sims, of Church-hill-house, Walthamstow.

On the 23d inst. 3.5, Marrie, Naminatory, Church W. C. House, Fig. 18th

On the 22d inst. at St. Mary's, Newington, Surrey, H. F. Hawker, Esq. 19th Foot, to Eliz. Jesephine, youngest daughter of J. Wheeler, Esq. Ordnance storekeeper, Weeden Beck, Northamptonshire.

On the 25th inst. at his house in Queen Ann-street, in his 71st year, Sir Wm. Young, G.C.B. Admiral of the Red, and Vice Admiral of Great Britain On the 11th inst. at the advanced age of 80, Mrs. Rose Ray, reliet of the late Robert Ray, Esq. of Gay Bowers, Danbury, Essex.

Lately, at Napley, Madelina, the wife of James Du Pre, Esq. of William Park, Benconsfield.

Park, Beaconsfield.
On Sunday last, at Marshalls, near Romford, Essex, Mary Eliza, falle at Mr. Rowland Stephenson, of Lombard-street.
At Woolwich, in the 72d year of his age, Thomas Burnett, Esq. store-keeper of that dock-yard.
Miss Mary Mountain, sister to the Lord Bishop of Quebec.
The Hox. George Joselyn, fourth son of the late Earl, and by ther is the present Farl of Roden.

LONDON: Printed and Published by R. T. WESTER, at No. 11, JOHNSON'S COURT, FLEET-STREET, where only Communications to the Editor, (post paid.) are received.

JOHN

" FOR GOD, THE KING, AND THE PEOPLE!"

No. 47.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1821.

Price 7d.

NEW MUSIC.—KIALLMARK'S universally-admired Variations on the favourite Air, "Cease your Funning," adapted for two performers on the flano Forte, by D. Bruguler, price 3e.—The oelebrated German Air," Miss Nherrard's Recreation," so usuch admired on a Plano Forte Lesson, arranged as a Dnet for the Harp and Plano Forte, by the Author, John Paddon, price 5s.—Latour's favourite "Le Retour de Windeor," arranged as a Duet for two Performers on the Plano Porte, by D. Bruguler, price 5s.—The popular Hungarian Air, arranged with interesting Variations, for two Performers on the Plano Forte, by J. Jay, M.D. price 3s.—Boleldlau's favourite Overture, "Du Califé de Bagdad," arranged as a Duet for two-Per ormers on the Plano Forte, by T. Goodban, price 4s.—The above Duetts are particularly recommended to the nutice of the Musical World, being arranged by the first Masters of the present age.—London: Pob ished by May-how and Co. Music Sellers to her Royal Mighness the Duebpss of Rent, 17, Old Bond-street, where may be obtained every New Musical Publication.

NEW MUSIC FOR THE PLANO FORTE.

Old Bond-street, where may be obtained every New Musical Publication.

NEW MUSIC FORT THE PIANO FORTER.

ESTETTO for the PIANO FORTER, with accompanisents for Two Violins, Violoucello and Base, by F. Kalkbrenner, price 8s.—Capriceto on the favourite Air.—"Bid Me Discourse, "by ditte, price 2s. 6d.—Nith Fantsale, introducing Bishop's admired Air.—"Come Live with Me," by Ries, price 4s.—Brittons Strike Home," with Variations) by J. P. Burrowes, price 3s. 6d.—Kiallmark's Divertimento, arranged for the Harp and Planoforte.—"Mrs. M'Donald," a favourite Scotch Air for the Harp and Planoforte.—"Mrs. M'Donald," a favourite Scotch Air for the Harp and Plano forte, by N. C. Bochsas, price 6s.—The Royal Mibernian Quadrille, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La Dausamanio," a new set of Quadrilles, by C. T. Sykes, price 3s.—"La D

NEW MUSIC, JUST PUBLISHED.

"TRANCE BELOVED NATIVE LAND," the Popular Balled, enng with universal applause by Mrs. Bland, in the favourite Entertainment of Monsieur Torson, arranged by T. Cooke.

Lendon: Printed by, and to be had, at the Royal Harmonic Institution, lower Saloon, Argyle Rooms, Regent-street.

RIENTAL EDUCATION.—A MARRIED CLERGYMAN, of the Batablished Church, receives into his House a limited Number of YOUNG GENTLEMBEN, whom he prepares for Admission into the Hon. Bast India Company's College at Haileybury, and their Military Sominary at Addiscombe. A Gentleman of considerable attainments, as an Oriental Scholar, undertakes to instruct them in the lilindoctance and Persian Languages.—For cards of address apply to J. M. Richardson, Bookseller, 23, Corahill; or to Mr. Sams, Bookseller, 1, St. James's-street.

A CLERGYMAN, residing in a healthy part of Kent, about forty miles from London, receives into his Family BIGHT PUPILS under the age of 14 years, at 150 Sulneas a year each.—For further particulars apply to Messrs. Rivingtons, Waterloo-place, Pall Meil.

TO NOBLEMEN AND GENTLEMEN SPRANK.

TO NOBLEMEN AND GENTLEMEN SPRANK.

A CLERGYMAN, who has lately retired from the office of Tutor of a College, has taken up his residence in a Midland County, where he receives into his House FOUR PUPILS, under 13 Years of Age. Terms and Address to be had of the Editor of this Paper.

YETERINARY COLLEGE.

R. COLEMAN will begin his COURSE of LECTURES on the ANATOMY, PHYSIOLOGY, and PATHOLOGY of the HORSE, on MONDAY, the 12th of Nov. at twelve o'clook.—Veterinary College, Nov. 1, 1821.

TXPERIMENTAL PHILOSOPHY, Guy's Hospital, by WILLIAM ALLEN, P.R. and P.I.S. and JOHN MILLINGTON.
Professor of Mechanics to the Royal Institution. The usual COURSE of LECTURES on this interesting subject will commense on TUESDAY. November 6, at half past six in the evening, and he centinused every succeeding Tuesday at the same hour. The Course will consist of Twenty-four Lectures, and embrace the interesting subjects of Mechanics, Pneumatics. Hydrotatics, H

TLAS ASSURANCE COMPANY.--LIFE DEPARTMENT.

The Directors hereby give notice to Persons desirous of effecting finaurance on their own Lives, or on the Lives of others, that the Lives in order by this Company are allowed to pass by sea, in decked vessels, from one part of the United Kingdom to another, and to and from the Islands of Guernsey and Jervey; and also in time of peace to pass in King's ships and packet or passage vessels, between the British and French Ports in the English Channel, and to include the mouth of the river Thomes, without extra Premium, and without being subjected to the inconvenience of applying for the special leave of the Directors, as heretofore required by the naval conditions of Life Policies.

HENRY DESHOROUGH, Jun. Sec.

Persons assured for the whole term of Life, will have an addition made to their Policies every seventh year, on the principle so benchically practised ill lately at the Equitable Assurance office; of the amount thereof may be applied in reduction of the future payments of Prenium. Policies may also be effected for the whole term of Life, on a plan peculiar to this Office, whereby the Premium is payable for a fixed number of years only.

FIRE, DEPARTMENT—Policies for 2500 and upwards, will be entitled under the system of Assurance practised by this Office, to participate in the surplus Premiums every fifth year, previded no claim has been made for loss. Proposals fully explanatory of the principles and rates of the Company may be had at the principal Office in Cheapside, London, and of the several Agents in the country.

A YOUNG MAN of good character and respectable connections wishes for a SiTUATION as VALRT to a Single Gentleman, or any other Place of Trust. No objection to Town or Country.—Address (post paid) R. D. at Messra. Stinton and Co. 12, St. James's atreet, Pall-mall.

(post paid) R. D. at Messra. Stinton and Co. 12, St. James's street, Pall-mall.

TO PARRITS AND GUARDIANS.

ANTED, by a MARRIED FEMALE of respectability, without incumbrance, residing in an airy and healthy situation, the CARE of a FEMALE CHILD, from two to five years old, to whose mosts and improvement every maternal attention would be paid. As this by no means a common Advertisement for Nurse Children, it is requested that none but such as are respectable will answer it; the society of such a Child, and not remuneration, being the object, as the latter would be let entirely at the discretion of the Parents. This will be a most desirable situation for a Child whose Parents are going abroad—Reference will be given to the relatives of a Child who was under the Advertiser's are for a considerable time; besides others, the most respectable. For eards of address apply at Mr. Morley's, Taifor, No. 461, Strand.

Just published for 1821

Just published, for 1821.

CATALOGUE of LAW and MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS. CLARKE, Portugal-street, Lincoln's Inn.—Libraries parchased at cash price. Catalogues, 3s. each.

This day is published, in 3 vols. 8vo. 36s. a Third Edition.

IFE of the Right Hon. WILLIAM PITT. By GEORGE TOMLINE, D. D. Lord Bishop of Winebester.

Printed for John Murray, Albemarle-street.

THE QUARTERLY REVIEW, No. L. was published

This day.

CIUERO'S WORKS COMPLETE.

Just put lished, elegantly printed in 4 vols, royal No. trice 31, 3s. Loards.

THE WORKS of MARCUS TULLIUS CICERO, in History,

"Philosophy, and Rhetoric; translated by MRLMOTH, GUTHPIER, and MIDDLETON. To which are now first added, a Series of Disserta. Some from the Academy of inseriptions: explanatory of such of the Roman mansers, custops, and institutions as are necessary to an accurate knowledge of this author. Compiled by the Edi or of the Corpus Historicum. The four volumes contain—I. Middleton's Life of Ciercy—B. Cierco's Letters to his Friends—3. Cierco's Two last Pleadings against Verges—4. Cierc's Letters to Attleas—5. Cierco on Friendship and Old Age—6. Cierc's Orations—
7. Cierco's Treatise on the Roman Senate.

Lordon: Printed for J. Davis; 2nd sold by Sherwood, Neely, a of Jones, Paternoster rear.

BRITISH IMPERIAL CALENDAR FOR 1822.
On the 20th instant will be published, pri e 4e. 6d., bound with an Almanack, 7s.

THE BRITISH IMPERIAL CALENDAR for 1822; cone taining a General Register of the United Klogdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and its Colonias. Also, Lists of both Houses of Parliament, the Peerage, the Privy Council, all the Official Departments of the State, and Branches of Public Service; the Army and Navy; the Church, the Law, National, Scientific, or Commercial Companies and Institutions; with many additional articles of public utility.—By JOHN DERRETT, Editor of the Peerage of the United Kingdom, and Baronomage.

Londom: Printed for Winchester and Varnham, No. 6l, Strand: Soatcherd and Letterman: J. Mawman; Peacopk and Bampton; W. Blacklock, Lackington and Co.; J. Booker: J. Boother: S. Bagster: E. Lioyd; Sherwood and Co.; J. Ridgway; Suttaby, Evance, and Fox; Chapple, and other Proprietors.

Co. J. Ridgway: Suttaby, Krance, and Fox: Chapple, and other Proprietors.

BIGHTEEN BUNDRED AND TWENTY.

In a few days will be published.

FIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND TWENTY: a Poem.—

Particle First.

Printed for John Biller, 69, Fleet-street.

TO CHURCHWARDEN'S AND OVERSHERS, &c.

Just published, piles 5s, 5d. sewed, the Fourth Rdition (in which useful Extracts from the late Veetry Act are incorporated) of

THE CHURCHWARDEN'S and OVERSEER'S GUIDE and DIRECTOR, written and arrainged for the use of Parish Officers, and other, desirous of acquising Parochial information; on an entirely new system, in which every branch of Parish Business, and other matters resisting thereto, and the various Duties of Parish Officers, are familiarly and minutely explained.—By J. ASHDOWNE, Member of the Honourable Society of Lincoln's lim.

Printed for G. and W. B. Whitaker, Ave-Maria-lane. Also, by the same Author.

Author,

2. The PARISM OPPICER'S ALPHABETICAL REGISTER, shewing the names of Paupers receiving occasional or permanent Parochial Relief, whether residing in their own parishes or elsewhere. Price 2s. 6d. sewed.

Just published, heautifully printed in one Volume Svo. 10s. 6d. boards, KETCHES of UPPER CANADA, Domestic, Local, and Characteristic; to which are added, Tractical Details for the Information of Bmigrants of extry Class, and some Recollections of the United States America. By JOHN HOWISON, Baq.
Printed for G. & W. B. Whittaker, Ave-Mania-lane, London; and Oliver in Boyd. Edinburgh.

and Boyd, Edinburgh.

Just published, in T vols. 8vo. price 3.2e. boarde,

LLUSTRATIONS of BBLICAL LITERATURE; exhibiting a View of the History and Vare of the Sacred Wri ings, from the earliest Period to the present Century; including Biographical Notices of Translators and other eminent Biolical Scholars.—Dy, the Rev. JAMES TOWNLEY, Author of Biblical Anecdotes.

Printed for Longman; Hurst, Reea, Orme, and Brown, London.

Just published, in 8vo. price 10s. 6d. boards.

ALAY ANNALS: translated from the Malay Language.—
By the late Dr. JOHN LEYDEN. With an introduction.—By SIR
THOMAS NTAMPORD RAFFLES, K.B.S., &c. &c.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Reea, Orme; and Brown, London. Of whom may be had.

may be had.

2. The POETICAL REMAINS of the lam Dr. JOHN LRYDEN, with Memoirs of his Life.—By the Revolanes MORTON. In 8vo. 12s. board-memoirs of his Lite.—By the Revolaties MORTON. In 8vo, 12s. boarce, Just published, in 3 vols. 12mo, price 18s. boards, THE HALL of HELLINGSLEY; a TALE. By Sir E. BRYBGES, Bart. &c. &c. London: Printed for Longman, Hyrst, Beev. Orms and Brown. Just peabled, in 1 vol. 4to. with Maps, Water, and Vignettes. £3. 13s., bds. TRAVELS IN PALESTINE through the Countries of Bashan and Silead, Rast of the River Jordan: including, a Visit to the Cities of Gerara and Gamaia, in the Becapolis, By J. S. BUCKINGHAM. Esq. Member of the Asiatic Society, Calcutta; and of the Literary Societies of Madias and Bombay.

Member of the Asiatic Society, Calcutta; said of the Literary Societies of Madras and Bombay.

London: Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, & Brown.

DR. RVANN'S HISTORY of ALL RELIGIONS.

Just published, in 18mo, the Fourteenth Edition, with the addition of an Account of the Sands, an Indian Sect resembling the Quakers, of the recent Seceders from the Church of England; and of the Jerkers and Barkers in the United States of America; embellished also with a new Engraving of Eight Heads, price 6s. Boards;

SKETCH of the DIFFERENT DENOMINATIONS of the CHRISTIAN WORLD. To which is prefixed, as Outline of Athelsm, Deism, Theophilanthropism, Mahometanism, Judaism, and Christianity; with a Fersusaire to Religious Moderation. By JOHN EVANS, LLD, &c. tianity; with a Persuasive to respect to the LLLD, &c.
LLLD, &c.
London: Printed for Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, Paternoster-row
London: Printed for Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy, Paternoster-row

DUBLIN.—Just published, in royal Ismo, price 10s. dd. elegantly printed.

N. HIISTORICAL GUIDE, to ANCIENT and MODERN
DUBLIN.—By the Rev.G. K. WHIGHT. Illustrated by 17 Engravings of the principal Views and Buildiags, after Drawings made expressly for the Work, by George Petric, Eq. and with a new and accurate Plan o the City.

London: Printed by Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy.

Ry A few capies, with proof ampressions of the Plates, are printed in 8vo. Ib. 1s.

By A few copies, with proof ampressions of the latter and the five of the library and the fraveller, since it contains a very adentate and minute account of all public institutions, whether religious, civil, charitable, or scientific. All the public huildings of this beautiful city, the more recent ones of which are noticed in no other work, are fully described. The lists of the principal collections of pictures, &c. will be found exceedingly serviceable by those who visit shart matronalis.

of pictures, &c. will be found exceedingly serviceative by those who visit that metropolis.

ENGLISH SYNONYMES.

Just published, in 8vo. the Meerind Edition, greatly enlarged and corrected, price II, is, boards.

NGLISH SYNONYMES EXPLAINED; in Alphabetical Order, with conious filustrations and Examples drawn from the best Writers. By GEORGER CRABE, of Negalien Hall, Oxford.

"It is to be wished that some each work as the Abbe Girard's Synonymes Francoises were undertaken folgor tongue. Nothing would contribute more to concise and elegant writter." Blair's Inectance.

-t.nodon: Printed for Ballwid, Cradock, and Joy, Paternoster-row; and T. Boosey and Sons, Broad-street.

Published in I vol.sto. price 23, 12s, 6d, in boards.

Published in I vol-sto, price 21, 12s, 6d, in boards,

FULL ART of HORSRMANSHIP, altered and abbreviated according to the principles of the late Sir SIDNEY MEDOWS, illustrated by 30 Copper-plates. By STRICKLAND FREEMAN, Esq. Printed for James Carpenter, Old Bond-street. O whom may be had, by the same Author, in 1 vol. 4to, pages 11. Fig. 6d, plain, and 21.2s. coloured, 2. OBSERVATIONS on the MRCHANISM of the HORSE'S POOT, its natural spring explained, and a made of aboeing recommended, by which

Its natural spring explained, and a made of shocing recommended, by which the foot is defended from external injury with the least impediment to its spring. Illus rated by numerous Copper-plates.

spring. Illustrated by numerous Copper-plates.

CONCENTRATED RECORD of and RSY to, MEDICAL LITERATURE it; 1809, obj. 1, syo. 11s. boards.

THE MEDICAL INTELLIGENCER, or Monthly Analytical concentrated Record for Medical Literature, and comprising the substance of every original formunical Literature, and comprising the substance of every original formunication, Mem.ir, or Record inserted in the Transactions of Learned Equicities, the Monthly and Quarterly Journals, No.; with a DOURGE INDEX, arranged alphabetically and sytematically, forming a Key six all the Shows works, containing information connected with the profession for 1820.

London: Printed for Europess and Hills. 55, Grean Windmill-street, Haymarket, and solf by six Booksellers.

N.B. The 28th number of the about work will be published on the 1st of November, price 1s. 8d.

November, price is 5d.

SOMETHING NEW ELEGANCE with ECONOMY.—In a large well appointed Bonse in the immediate vicinity of Portnansquare; Ladies and Gentlemen may enjoy the combots of a private free-field, and the advantages of cheerful agreeable, and highly respectable society. References very strictly organized. Cards at Messra, Olitze, booksellers, Vere etreet, Bond-atreet; and Messra, Underwood, booksellers, 33, Floct-street.—N. B. A man cook Mepf.

Just published,

PLACKWOOD'S EDINBURGH MAGAZINE, No. LVI. for October, 1871.

Contents:—I. Letter from Mr. Coleridge—II. Selbotion from Ms. Culeridge" Literary Correspondence with Friends and Men of Letters; No I.—III. The Buried Alive—IV. Ham She ulix—V. Meteorological Observations Extraordinary—VI. The Floating Beaces—VII. Letter from Alexander Sidney Trott.—IX. Mr. Ogle of Bibloyle—X. An Exposulatory Letter to C. Nurth, Eq.—XI. Chauser and Don Juan—XII. The Change—XIII. The Change—XIII. The Silent Grare—XV. The Native Melody—XVI. Moseow (written after the luvasion of Russia by the French)—XVIII. Letter from David Hume, Req.—XVIII. The Voyages and Travels of Columbus Secundus: Chap. 12. The King's Birth-day; Chap. 14. Chrie opher. Columbus mistakes for a Highwayana—XIX. Letter from Thomas Hope, Esq. Author of Annastaius—XX. Familiar Episities to Christopher North, from an Old Friend with a New Face: Letter IV: On the Personalities of the Augustan Age of English Literature—XXI. Adventus. In Hiberniam Rexis vers aloge perfects Historis—XXII. The First Murder: or, the Rejection of the Offering; a Sacrad Drama—XXIII. Midsight Despendings—XXIV. On the Decline of the Tusan Ascendancy in Italian Literature—XXV. Tom Brown't Table-Taik—XXVI. On the Present State of Public Affairs at Heme—XXVII The Virgli: of St. Mark—XXVIII. Note Apologotical—XXIX. Works preparing for Publication—XXX. Monthly Register, &c.

Printed for T. Cadell and W. Davies, Strand, Lethon; and W. Blackwood, No. 17, Prince's—street, Edinburgh.

NEW and MSTABLISHED SPORTING BOOKS.

The BNGLISH SPANIBL or POINTER.

Just published, in 8vo. price 10s. 6d. in boards, the Second Edition of PRACTICAL ESSAY on BREAKING and TRAINING the ENGLISH SPANIEL, and POINTER. To which are added, instructions for attaining the Art of Shooting Flying; more immediately addressed to young Sportsines, but designed also to supply the best means of curring the errors of some older ones.—By W. DOBSON, Esq. of Eden Hall.

London: Printed for Sherwood, Necly, and Jones, Paternoster-row; est whom may also be had, when may also be had,

2. THOUGHTS on FOX and HARE HUNTING; in a Series of Letters to a Priend—By PETER BECKFORD, E.-q. Elegantly printed in Structure on fine Wove Paper, and illustrated with numerous Cuts. Price 14s. is boards—The Publishers beg leave respectfully to recommend the present Edition of Mr. Beckford's valuable work to the notice of Sporting Gentlemus, which will be found to surpass all preceding Editions in elegance of paper, printing, and illustration. The Author's Noice, also, which have leng been omitted, are here introduced, and render this Edition peculiarly desirable.

3. Billings Mars B. Ordones.

long been omitted, are bere introduced, and render this Edition peculiarly desirable.

3. BRITISH FIELD SPORTS; embracing practical Instructions is Shooting, Hunting, Coursing, Racing, Flebing, &c.; with Observations on the Breaking and Training of Dogs and Horsey; also, on the Management of Fowling-pieces, and all other Sporting Implementation by W. H. SUOTT. Second Edition; designating printed, and Minetrated with appeared of Sixty highly-finished Engravings. Price il. 18s. boards, demy Svo. or on royal paper, with proof plates, 31.3s.

4. An ESSAY on HUNTING; in which a great variety of most important information is communicated under the heads Hunting, Lawfulness, Beacetts, Pleaving, Pastine, Game, Secont, Hounds, the Horse, Huntimans, Sagacity, &c. &c. Reprinted verbatim from the Original Edition printed in the year 1733. Str. 7s. hunting—440, 12s.

3. The SPORTSMAN'S REPOSITORY, comprising a Series of highly-fluided Engravings, reprosenting the Horse and the Dog in all their rarieties; executed in the line manner, by JOHN SCOTT, from Original Paintings by Marshall, Reinagle, Glipin, Stubbs, and Cooper. By the Auther of British Field Sports."—This work is beautifully printed in 4to. and is embellished with 40 highly-finished Copper-plate Engravings, and numerows Wood Cuts. Price 3 guiness, in hoards: it may be had in six parts, 10s. 8d.

each.

6. The SPORTSMAN'S PROGRESS; a Peem, descriptive of the Pleasures derived from Field Sports: with Thirteen Wood Cuts. Price ts.

Pleasures derived from Pield Sports: with Thirteen Wood Cuta. Price to. 18 Wed.

7. SOMERVILE'N celebrated Poem of THE CHASE; to which is managed, his Poem of Field Sports; with Memoirs of the Author, and an Essay on the Chase, by EDW. TOPHAM, Esq. Illustrated with Engravings by Mr. SCOTT. Price 6s. is boards.

8. The ANGLER: a Poem, in Ten Cautos; comprising proper Instructions in the Art, with Rules to choose Pishing-rods, Lines, Mooks, Floats, Balts, and to make Artificial Flies; Receipts for Pastes, &c.—Ry T. P. LATHY Esq. With upwards of Tweats Wood Cuts. 10s. 6d. boards.

9. SPORTING ANECDOTES, original and selected; forming a complete Defineation of the Sporting World.—By PIERCE EGAN. Price 9s. in bds.

10. The SPORTSMAN'S VOCAL LIBRARY; containing, mearly 406 of the best Songs relating to Hunting, Racing, Shooting, Angling, Hawking, Archery, &c. Price 9s. in boards.

& J. SIVEWRIGHT are selling undrawn Tickets and Shares at their Offices, 37, Cornbill, 38, Daymarket, and II, Hellorn, where they sold and shared in the Last Lottery, 4,421, £25,000; Two Prizes of £4,000, &c. &c.

Rish Wilson!

Rich Wheel. All Money. Two of £30,000? Three of £5,000? Two of £2,000? &c. &c. Not Two Blanks the a Prize. 6,500 Tekets already Drawn. £70,000 Money? for the first drawn Prize Second Day, 20th Hooth (November).—Tickets and Shares are also selling by their Agents.

LAST NIGHT'S GAZETTE.

CROWN-OFFICE, Nov. 3, 1821.

Member returned to serve in this present Parliament.—County of Sales.—Rowland Hill, of Hawkestone, in the sald county of Sales, Esq. in the 1.000 of John Cotes, Esq. deceased.

BANKRUPTCY SUPERSEDED.

PAGE, J., Upton-upon-Severn, Worcester, tanner.

BANKRUPTS.

ROBINSON, J. Nicholus-lane, London, merchant. BRIGHT, R. sen. Nassau-place, Commercial road, balerdache NEWCOMB, F. S. Gadshill Gillingham, Kent, denier. PORTER, J. Washington, Nurfolk, dealer. BAKER, W. Lloyd's Coffee-house, incurance-broker CASS.T. Ware, dealer in corn. CLUNIE, J. Camberwell, baker. POWBLL, J. the elder, Windsor, tail or.

VINCENT, W. Old-road, Stepney, rope-maker. CLIFFORD, E. Chancery-lane, broker. TURNER, J. Praed-street. Paddington, chipamba. OLDING, J. Old Change, stationer SAINTMAIC, J. J. and UAZBAU, L. M. A. Raddiffacer, Chares

TOWLER, T. and J., Wakefield, York, wonlsta; lers.

DALTON, P., Wakefield, York, liquor-merchant, STIRLING, W. and J., Copthall-court, merchants. BUTLIN, T., Baker-street, Mary-le-bure, apotheoary. TOVBY, P. R., East-street, Lamb's Conduit-street, mer; heat. MORRIS. W. Well-close-square, tavern-keeper. M'CARTY, J. Strand, wine and spirit-meret.aut. INGRAM. T. Lower Thames-street, dshmouser BINCKES, J. M. Minories, sales mau. PARSONS, T. Castle-street, H. Ibarn, jewelles WYCHERLEY, W. Trefhant, Salopshire, meltutes, DBBBLE, B. B. Welbeck-street, Caventieb-square, uphaleterer.

THESDAY'S GAZETTE.

WHITEMALL, Oct. 30.

A dispatch from the Marquis of Londonderry, dated Hanover, the 24th inst. was yeaterday received by Lord Viscount Sidmouth, announcing that Bis Majesty's departure from Hanover was postponed to the 29th instant.

PARTNERSHIPS DISSULVED.

PARTNERSHIPS DISSULVED.

Latchford and Davis, Birmingham, pearl button-inskers.—Daulby, Eighton, and Crump, jup. Transmer, ship brilders.—Dove and Collier, Shipgion-upon-Stour, Worcestershire, surgeous—Hibbert, Wankiyn, and Bradelay, Manchester, (in trade.)—Sydenham and Jolliffs, Charles-street, westlanders.—R. and R. B./Fhillips, Footherley-ball, Staffordshire, school-masters.—W. and P. H. Lacos, and R. Greenhow, jun. New Bridge, Denbighshire, iron-miners.—Godden, Mace, and Waterman, Tenterden, bankers.

BANKRUPTS.

CABLE W. Aldeburgh, bakers.

Bysis and Gunnell, Poultry, printers.

BANKRUPTS.

CABLE, W. Aldeburgh, baker.

GUBLING, G. Chesterfield, wine-merehant.

HITT, T. Chat S., Lawrence, butcher.

HULBE, S. Nottingham, silversmith.

JOLLEY, N. Charing-cross, positerer.

LAWHENCE, G. Evesham, viotualler.

SMITH. R. Howden, Yorksbire, tallow-chandler.

WYCHERLEY, W. Trefnant, Staffordshire, farmer.

DivIDENDS.

Nov. Z., J. Beck, Sweeting s-alley, watchmaker.—Dec. i, J. Duffil, Bromsgrove, grocer.—Dec. 4, J. Peet, Asiton-within-Mackerfield, hinge-manufacturer.—Nov. 21, P. Dewsbury, Altringham, corn desier.—Nov. 21, T. Stafford, Bath, jeweller.—Nov. 24, M. Hay and T. A. Turner, Newcastle-street, printers.—Nov. 6, C. R. H. Balley, Swallowfield, dealer.—Nov. 17, J. Richardson, Sloane-street, apothecary.—Nov. 24, D. C. March, L. Deane, R. Westbrook, sen. and H. B. Deane, Heading, bankers.—Nov. 26, C. Thebester.—Nov. 23, T. Dowding, West Stower, desler.—Nov. 26, C. Gardiner, St. John street, ironmonger.—Nov. 24, D. Pitt, Fenchurch-street, hessief.—Nov. 24, A. Nordbiad and H. Middletos, Kingston-upon-Hull, merchants.—Dec. 7, J. Clay, Kingston-upon-Hull, merchant.—Nov. 24, J. Warwick, St. Alban's, draper.—Nov. 24, P. D. Albott, Powis-place, Great Ormond-street, manuse-broker.—Nov. 29, R. Bass, Colchester, maltater.—Nov. 28, G. Mardisty and J. Cowing, Bedferd-court, Covant-garden, woollendrappra.—Nov. 20, L. A. Cox, G. Weston, J. Furber, and G. Cox, Littie Britsin, bankers.

Britain, bankers.

CERTIFICATES—Nov. 29.

A. Radford, London-rossi, stationer.—S. Davis, But-s, Staffordshire maltrier.—J. Coombes, Lower Shadwell, cooper.—S. Storr, Churwell, York-shird, ciothier.—T. isarehead, New Malton, cora factor.—R. Reily, South-amplon-row, man-milliner.—C. Palk, East Teigmmouth, linen-draper,—J. Tysrman, Bristol, haherdasher.—J. Nelson, Rendail, corn-dealer.—U. Yarrew, Chiswell-street, shepkeeper.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

Paris, Ocr. 27.—Yesterday, after mass, the King gave private audiences to the Margravine of Anspach, and Sir Charles Stuart. Sir C. Stuart, the English Ambassador, received yesterday evening, a courier, dispatched by the Marquis of Londonderry, to ansounce to him that the King of England will not visit Paris.

A courier from St. Petersburg arrived at the Foreign Department on Friday evening, with dispatches of the utmost importance. Last night a courier left Paris for that capital.

It is announced that the official documents between Russia and the Sublime Porte will very soon be published.

The Vice-Chancellor, Sir John Leach, arrived in Paris last week, from a tour through the South of France and the Pyreness.

The Constitutioned states, that several estates in France, particularly in Berry, had been lately purchased by Englishmen.

One of the most deplorable and most desolating consequences of the contagious fever at Barcelona is the death of 1,500 young men, who were enrolled in the National Guard forming the health cordon.

Fances Electrons.—All the papers have made their calculations respecting the results of the elections. It appears that they attribute 14 nominations to the opposition, while the majority obtained 73. Some go further, and distinguish the two sections, which they think they discover in the majority. The right side, they say, lost 54 Deputies, of which it recovered 47; the centre has also recovered 26 Deputies, which the renewal of the series had caused it to lose. These calculations are very hypothetical. The only incontestable result is, that the opposition had not one-sixth of the election.—Moniteer.

The Viscount de Rounlt, the assassin of General Count Dugeon,

The Viscount de Roualt, the assassim of General Count Dugson, his relative;) not having appealed against the sentence, was ordered for execution on Thursday. About three o'clock, the crowd assembled on the Place de Greve. The rain fell in torrents, but that did not prevent at least 30,000 persons from attending. It was was with great difficulty the gendarmes kept space enough for the operation. At four o'clock, the Procureur du Roi, who performs the office of Sheriff, arrived, and took his station at a window opposite the guillotine, and at ten minutes past four, the latal cart same with the culprit, a priest, and the executioner; his hands being bound behind him, he was assisted out of the cart, kneit at the foot of the scaffold, prayed fervently about two minutes, acknowledged the justice of his sentence, mounted the scaffold with a firm step and composed manner, and in three seconds more he was numbered with the dead. At the same bour the Court of Assize sondemand a backney-conchman, for the assassination of his mistress, who had borne him eight children. He heard sentence of death pronounced with perfect indifference.

Frankroar, Ocr. 22.—Advices from Vienna state, that the Divan has already sent to Petersburgh a note in reply to the answer given by Russia. This note is, it is asserted, drawn up in very moderate terms, and such as accord with the position of the Porte, and its desire to avoid war. It is not doubted that M, de Lutzow, the Austrian Internuncio, has had nuch influence in its drawing up. The general persuasion is, that the principal object of the journey of M, the Prince Metternich to Hanover is to engage the Eaglish Cabinet to establish a perfect concert between the Plenipotentiaries of Austria and England, in their proceedings with the Porte.

Brussels, Ocr. 26.—It is certain that His Britannic Majesty, at his return from Hanover, will stop one or two days in this capitul. on.—Moniteur.
The Viscount de Roualt, the assassin of General Count Dugeon

BRUSSELS, OCT. 26 .- It is certain that His Britannic Majesty, at his return from Hanover, will stop one or two days in this capital. It is even said that our King and the Royal Family, will come to Brussels to receive him. Lord Clancarry, the English Ambassador at our Court, has already arrived from the Hague, to attend upon Brussels to receive him. Lord Clancarty, the English Ambassador at our Court, has already arrived from the Hague, to attend upon his Sovereign; and the necessary preparatious are making in his hotel with all diligence.

Letters from Vienna, state that the Cabinets of Vienna; London, and Petersburgh, are not yet agreed on the affairs of Turkay, but that much harmony and intimacy is remarked between the two first Courts.

Madain, Oct. 16.—The Herculena frigate, from the Havannah, has brought news of the arrival of General O'Donjou at Vera Cruz, where he took the oath and entered on his functions on the 23d of July, on which day be published an energetic proclamation to the people of New Spain, showing the evils to which they exposed themselves, if they persisted in separating from the mother country: he issued also a proclamation to the troops, praising their good conduct. He set out for Mexico with a few soldiers, but was forced to return, pursued by the insurgents to the very streets of Vera Cruz, where, after an obstinate combat, they were defeated, with loss of 150 mer.

Saracossa, Oct. 10.—The superior Board of Health has been informed by its Commissioner, Don Augustin Quinto, that the sickness at Mequinenza is drawing to a close; for want of food, hardly 20 inhabitants having remained in the town, the greater number having pone into the country; that even should any of those latter be attacked, no great alarm need be excited, as the families are kept asunder, and the duty of the cordon was strictly performed.

Barcelona, Oct. 10.—Yellow Fever.—New cases, 361; cured, 66; deaths, 267; remain, on the 9th inst., 665, of whom 111 are stated to be convalescent. This list includes the city, Barcelonetta, and hospital.

Puzara us Sanya Maria, Oct. 6.—From the 1st to the 6th, instated to be convalencent. This list includes the city, Barcelonetta, and hospital.

PUERTA DE SANYA MARIA, OCT. 6.—From the 1st to the 6th, inclusive, there have died in this place and hospital 39 persons; 52 have been cured, and the number of the sick is at present 814.

LEBRIGA, OCT. 6.—This town begins to be attacked by the fever. In eight days 33 persons have been seized with it; eight have died, and two recovered, and the cases of the others ere in general dangerous. Almost the whole population have gone into the country. The Alcalde and Muncipality facilitate the only means of salvation, by distributing among the people wood and reeds to build barracks.

LINBON, OCT. 17.—The sittings of the Cortes proceed in their neual tranquil course, their discussions, besides the debates on the articles of the Constitution, in succession, which are continued from day to day, relating chiefly to matters of local interest and internal regulation. The Minister of the Foreign Affairs gave copies of the correspondence between himself and the Beitlish Charge d'Attaires, on the remonstrances of the latter against the increase of duties on some articles: it was resolved, after some observations, to refer it to the Committee of Treaties, after whose opinion some measure might be adopted.

to the Committee of Treaties, after whose opinion some measure might be adopted.

Sr. Petersburg, Oct. 6.—His Majesty the Emperor returned yesterday to Zarskojeselo, in perfect health, from reviewing the regiments of the guards at Witepsk. The weather is unexpectedly warm and fine, and is highly favourable to the ripening and harvesting of the corn, which has been kept back by the wet summer. Nowo Tacherrabs (Capital of the Don Cossacks), Aug. 20, O. S.—From the very beginning of June we have had here an extraordinary drought, and the heat ran to 320 Reaumur, by which the grass in the Steppes, which furnishes the fodder for the cattle in the winter, is quite scorched up; nay, even the bay that was mown is in some places burst up. The Commander of the Corps of Cossacks here has taken the requisite measures for the preservation of the herds of hores that pasture beyond the Don, on the Calmuck side.

NEW SPAIN

NEW SPAIN.

Declaration of the Independence of Mexico.—[From the Charleston Gazette of September 27.]—By the arrival yesterday of the brig Catherine, Wellsman, in five days from Havannah, we have received some late accounts from Mexico, and particularly from the seat of war.—A cessation of hostilities between the Patriots and Royalists has taken place. On the 11th of August, Colonel Santana had agreed to the proposition of the Viceroy, that the gates of La Vera Cruz should be thrown open the next day, the prisoners on both sides should be liberated, and that the country people be allowed to come unarmed and in no great numbers.

"Plan of the Government that is to be established provionally for the purpose of securing our holy religion, and establishing the Independence of the Mexican Empire, under the title of the Administrative Junta of North Amerika, proposed by Colonel Don Augustin de Yturyide, to his Excellency the Count del Venadito, Viceroy of New Spain:"—

1. The religion of New Spain is and shall be the Catholic Apostolic Roman religion, without toleration of any other.

2. New Spain is independent of Old Spain, and of every other Power, even upon our own Continent.

3. Its Government shall be a limber Monarchy, conformably to the Constitution that may be adopaced by the kingdom.

4. Its Emperor shall be Don Fredinand the Seventh; but in case he shall not personally appear in Mexico within the time that the Cortes shall specify, in order to take the oath, the most Serene Infant Don Carlos, Don Francisco de Paula, the Archduke Charles, or such other individual of the reigning family, as Congress may think proper, shall be called in his place.

[The 5th, 6th, and 7th Articles of this plan provide for the meeting of a Cortex, and in the interim an Administrative Junta, until the arrival of Don Ferdinand the Seventh.]

8. If Don Ferdinand the Seventh shall not condescend to come to Mexico, the Junta or the Regency shall govern in the name of the nation, until the Emperor who is to be crowned shall be fixed

This Government shall be maintained by the army of the three guarantees hereinafter mentioned.

10. The Cortes shall determine upon the constitution of a Re-gency, until the arrival of the person who is to be crowned.

11. The Cortes shall afterwards establish the Constitution of the Mexican Empire.

12. All the inhabitants of New Spain, without any distinction of landians, are citizens of this monarchy, and Mexican Empire.

12. All the inhabitants of New Spain, without any distinction of Europeans, Africans, or Indians, are citizens of this monarchy, and eligible to eyery office, according to their merit and virtue.

The 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20, "Articles provide for the protection of persons and property, regulations of the clergy, the departments of the state, and for the establishment of a protecting army, to be denominated "The Army of the Three Guarantees," and for the ealizaments and commissions."

21. Until the Cortes shall otherwise direct, proceedings in criminal cases shall be agreeable to the Spanish Constitution.

22. In case of conspiracy against the Independence, the culprit shall be imprisoned until the Cortes shall determine upon the punishment of that greatest of all crimes, except those against the Divine Majesty.

23. Such persons as may attempt to foment disunion, shall be watched, and reputed as conspirators against Independence.

24. As the Cortes who are to be installed are to frame a Constitution, it is necessary that the Deputies should receive powers sufficient for that purpose; and, as it is also of much importance that the electors should know they are to be represented in the Congress of Mexico, and not in that of Madrid, the Junta shall prescribe just rules for the election, and shall designate the time of it, and the time of the opening of the Congress; and as the elections cannot now take place in March, the time shall be extended as much as possible. There is a second document, called "Articles of Adjustment entered into at Cordova, between Don Juan O'Donoju, Vice King, and Don Manuel Iturbide, Commander in Chief of the Imperial Mexican force." In these articles, the Independent Sovereignty of Mexico is also proclaimed; but we are unable to say whether they form a separate Treaty between different individuals, or whether they are only an imperfect abstract of the Convention mentioned above.

82. Late Affair at Pensacola.—We noticed, mentioned above.

SEQUEL OF THE AIFAIR OF COLONEL CALLAVA.

NEW YORK, SEPT. 24.—Late Affair at Pensacola.—We noticed, a lew days since, the dispute between Governor Jackson, of Florida, and the late Spanish Governor Callava. The National Intelligencer says, "In an account of that transaction, published in the Louisiana Advortiser, we find the following additional particulars, which are wholly unnoticed in the statement copied from the Floridian." It appears from this statement, that Governor Jackson at Pensacia possesses the same character that General Jackson did at New Orleans. There the late Judge Hail issued a Habeas Corpus to take a man out of jail; but instead of having the usual effect of such papers, it threw his Honour into jail. And had not the rheumatism very fortunately come to the relief of Judge Fromentin, his Habeas Corpus would probably have placed him alongside of Callava, unless there were separate cells in the prison.

THE KING.

The health of the King is restored to the great joy of the Hanoverian people. His Majosty is thoroughly recovered from his late severe fit of the gout. The Bulletin of His Majosty's health, was exhibited at the Palace of the Governor-General, and on every day is was enquired after with cagerness. The congratulations were universal, when it was declared that the King had had a good night, and that His Majosty felt himself quite recovered. The amusements of Hanover had scarcely any attraction. The manœuvres of the soldiers, the chace, the balls, the theatre, seemed without life, as the King, the Monarch whom all longed to see, was known to be absent.—On Thursday, (the 18th ult.) His Majosty was pleased to send the royal carriage for the Marquis of London immediately waited on the King, when His Majorty expressed his desire to confer upon his Lordship the honour of Grand conderly, to Walmoden Gardene, where the Marquis resided, who immediately waited on the King, when His Majesty expressed his desire to confer upon his Lordship the honour of Grand Cross of the Royal Guelph Order. His Lordship, as well as the Marquis of Conyngham, was accordingly invested with the insignia of the Order. On the same day, the infantry and cavalry celebrated the anniversary of the battle of Leipsic by a feu de joie on Meckel Heath. They afterwards passed in review before his Imperial Highness Prince Ferdinand of Austria. His Royal Highness the Dake of Cambridge entertained at dinner all the Ambassadors and Ministers from the various Courts, as well as all the Generals in Hanover. In the evening, the festivities terminated by a most brilliant exhibition of fire-works in the garden of Hexrenbausen. The city of Hanover and its suburbs was deserted on that night, for all the people flocked to Herrenbausen. Thousasds were ascembled round the Palace and the garden, and on the balcony. There were admission tickets of various descriptions issued, by which all disorder was prevented. At nine o'clock the exhibition commenced by a general display of rockets, amid a discharge of artillery. The moon amid the stars, the sun in meridian glory, the star of the Order of Guelph, and the white horse of Hanover, were exhibited. A temple, as it were by enchantment or the touch of the magician's rod, displayed the well-known letters G. R. IV. under the crown; over the temple hovered a suardian genius. The people, with loud accle mations, welcomed the display of the name of their King; and the acclamation when sky pyramids on each side of the temple, suddenly exhibited the initials of the various branches of the Royal Family. A thousand rockets darted into the air, and, amid the thunder of cannon, the exhibition terminated.—On Friday morning, the city was all in motion; kinten, chaines, waggons, and wehreles of every dearingtion, were sider requisition, in order to convey the lovers of hasting to the Haller Bridge, where the boar hunt was to take place. The manner of hunting the swine in the forests of Germany is not remarkable for pleasing exercise or samesement. The peasantry of the districts around the place where the hunt is to take place receive notice, and they, with rustic weapons and with dogs, and loud shouts, assemble all the wild animals within the amphitheatr or place fixed for the exhibition. The huntsmen then shoot the animals, who have no chance of escape. It may, however, prousagreable to English sportsmen to know that there are some dogs trained to catch the boar by the ears, and to hold until the lunter plunges his spear into the animal's throat, or drives it through his head. On saising the boar each of the two dogs spring over the boar's back, and thus he is forced to submit to the slangther. The number of boars, shot, speared, and shain, exceeded eighty, of der there were also several, and of smaller animals the number was also great. In the evening his Royal Highness the Governor-General, gave a splendid ball, to which 400 of the most distinguished persons here were invited. Among the strangers who have lately arrived, are—The Duke of Mecklenburg Strelit, the Prince of Solms, Mr. Rose, the English Ambassador at Berlin, and Count Von Bentinck. There has been a grand display of utilitery, but the absence of His Majesty has rendered all exhibitions dull. The cavalry and infantry have proceeded to winter quarten, and when his Majesty departs, Hanover will lose all those attractions which have within this formight been so splendid.

**The Lameruck C

ment of rent, and the land has been let to a new tenant. In another case, in which a house was broken into, the object appears to have been the destruction of a title proctor's papers.

COURT OF KING'S BENCH.

Monday.—Rawlins v. Pearson and Others.—The questions in this case were whether a pawnbroker comes within the operation of the Bankrupt laws; and secondly, whether the plaintiff, so had ceased to take in pledges for five years, was (in the eventotite court deciding in the affirmative of the first prosecution) liable. It was proved on the trial of an action for money had and received, that the plaintiff continued to sell unredeemed pledges. The Coart decided, that a pawnbroker was within the operation of the different Bankrupt laws; and secondly, that continuing to sell pledges being a necessary part of the business of a pawnbroker, he was liable. Judgment for defendants.

MIDDLES AN SESSIONS.

On Monday, Mrs. Denman, a person of respectable a persone, her daughter, a child at out 10 years of age, and 13 boys from the age of eight to 14, were out to the bar, or an it dictment for a not be considered to 14. There were five other persons in the indictment, a: Brompton four of whom pleaded missionners; and one fitt not come in for frial."

A.Mrs. Middleton, the prosecutrix, deposed, that, on the 13th of Aug., about five o'clock in the evening, a crowd of boys, amounting to about 150, collected before her door; the crowd continued to increase till it was dark, at which time there were about 1000 persons present. They threw stones at her door and windows, and broke all the lower windows in the house, also the blinds. When she looked out at any of the windows they cried out, "There she is! murder her! stone her to death!" Some of the stones struck her yiolently, from the consequences of which she had been suffering ever since. The witness identified all the prisoners.—Several other winesses confirmed the prosecutrix's testimony.—Mr. Broderick, for the defendants, said, the riot had been entirely caused by Mrs. Middleton's having cruelly beaten the young female defendant: and that she was certainly mistaken as to some of the defendant, Hannah Denman, at her door, about five o'clock on the evening of the riot; and others of them proved alibis on the part of some of the defendants, and that the others, though present, took no part in the riot.—The Jury, after a short consultation, acquitted all the defendants.—Mrs. Middleton declased, with great emotion, that after what had taken place she could not sleep in her house without a guard. The Magistrate assured her she should be protected.

POLICE.

· POLICE.

that after what had taken place she could not sleep in her house without a guard. The Magistrate assured her she should be prosected.

POLICE.

Mansion-House.—On Monday, a labouring man, named Potter was charged with having uttered a 51. Bank of England note, to a brandy-merchant, in Tower-street, for two gallons of brandy. The brandy-merchant, in Tower-street, for two gallons of brandy. The brandy-merchant suspecting something was designed, gave a private order to his servant to fill the bottle with water. This was done, and it was given to the prisoner, who went away with the bottle with water. This was done, and it was given to the prisoner, who went away with the bottle with water. The was done, and it was given to the prisoner, who went away with the bottle with water they were explaining to the prisoner proved to the satisfaction of the Bank, that he had been imposed upon by some person in the street, and they consented to his being dischanged. In the prisoner was the water have in the watch have just departed, ganges sally forth, and waylay such busy stirring old trade-men as they may catch showed at that hour, and whom they rob with the utmost impurity.—The Lord Mayor committed the prisoner to take his irial at the next Sessions.

Mansing the protect to take his irial at the next Sessions. The control of the prisoner to take his irial at the next Sessions. The control of the prisoner to take his irial at the next Sessions. The control of the prisoner to take his irial at the next Sessions. The control of the prisoner to take his irial at the next Sessions. The control of the prisoner has a session of the prisoner was the sessioner. The control of the prisoner was the sessioner with a prisoner to the prisoner was the sessioner with a subsery and steep prisoner was the prisoner was produced, it was of a p begging in the streets. This man End bood trequently carried to this office for the same offence, and as often let off without punishment, on account of his being blind; but such was his attachment to his old profession of a soldier, that he always fought well before he could be secured. Mr. White ordered him to be confined for three months in Bridewell on bread and water, and directed that his pension night he stopped for that time, to meet the expence of his board and lodwing.

Town-Hall, Sournwark.—On Thursday, William Payne was charged with attenpting to murder his wife.—Rebecca Payne, a girl, about 16 years of age, the daughter of the prisoner, deposed that her father came home about one o'clock to dinner; he took up a rope and beat her with it, saying it was because she had not taken her little sister to school. He then went to her mother, who was standing at a neighbour's door, and knocked her down with lis fast; she had given him no provocation whatever. When she got up he beat her with a rope, and also with his fast; and upon her falling on the ground, he kicked her in the ribe and loins; he then seized her by the hair, and dragged her several times up and down the kennel. He took a knile out of his pocket, and cut and stabbed her with it, and was attempting to thrust it into her, when a bystander, amidst the cries and screams of all present, seized it, by which his hand was attempting to thrust it into her, when a bystander, amidst the cries and screams of all present, seized it, by which his hand was shockingly cut.—The officer, produced the knife; it was a clasped knife, about six inches in length.—The woman complained of internal injury; it was thought some of her ribs were broken; the bridge of her nose was broke, and a wound about an inch deep inflicted; she was covered with lacerations and bruises. She was conveyed to St. Thomas's Hospital.—The Magistrate asked the prisoner what he had to say? He replied, that his daughter neglected taking the other child to school, and that his wife was out gad

OLD BAILEY.

Monday,—William Weston, a silveramith, was indicted for felonously forging the Hall Mark of the Goldamithe Company, on vacive silver aponas. The prisoner, is uppeared, was employed by and common and the prisoner, is uppeared, was employed by and common and the stamp forged, the spoons were taken to the Hall; the Deputy Warden declared, that the mark was forged. The Jury pronounced the prisoner Ad Guilly.

1 Toznav.—George Sumons, a lad only 12 years of age, was the common and the stamp forged, the spoons were taken to the Hall; the Deputy Warden declared, that the mark was forged. The Jury pronounced the prisoner Ad Guilly.

1 Toznav.—George Sumons, a lad only 12 years of age, was the common and the stamp for the state of t the night before.—The clib had been in existence for a considerable time, and was composed of males and females. The former were mostly single labouring young men, the latter were chiefly servant girls out of place, and prostitutes of the lowest order. They assembled for the purgoes of playing at a game of chance called the Alligator, and on each night the rule was that there should be a raffle for some trinket, and the whole ended with a dance.—The prostitutes were doomed by the Magistrates to hard labour in the House of Correction for one month each. Those of the servant produced friends to become responsible for their good behaviour, were delivered up to them. Those of the nen who could not bring forward persons to speak to their characters, were also sent to hard labour in Bridewell, as rogues and vagabonds.

Robert Hale, who broke out of Brixton Gaol, with several other delinquents about six months ago, when under sentence for felony, was taken on Tuesday, at the fight, at Moulsey Hurst, by two patroles of Bow-street. Hale was in the act of stripping to fight with Gibbet, a boxer, for a purse, which had been made up round the rink by amateurs. Hale made some slight resistance, and expected to have been assisted by his friends present, but was disappointed. The constables bore him off in a chaise. He offered them 20 sovereigns to let him escape, but they refused; and he was committed to Horsemonger-lane, and will be sent to his old apartments.

Queen-Souare.—On Wednesday, a blind man, named Kitely, an out-pensioner of Chelsea, at is, 3cl. jet day, was charged with

The wanted a plane-forte for the use of als children and family, and desired a man to be sent to see ht properly fixed. It was to be lent on hire at 3th, per month. The prisoner asked the price, and was answered that it would be 45 guineas, if he should be inclined to purchase it. The piano-forte was accordingly seat. The money paid for the instrument by the witness was 3tl. The witness heard nothing of the prisoner until wishin a few weeks ago, when he was under examination at Union-hall on another charge. Six months was the time specified for purchasing, but he had never offered to do so.—John Harrow, servant to Mr. Foster, of Geschstreet, auctioneer, proved paying 3tl. to the prisoner, for the pianoforte, on the 30th Aug. 1820. The instrument was sold, on the following Saturday, to a person named Bygrave, for 3ll. 10s.—Mr. Beeby, the landford of the house, stated, that he had engaged the prisoner's wife to take care of it, and let it for him. On one occasion, the prisoner said, he believed he had agreed to let it to the Archbishop of Tuam. The Archbishop never went into the house. The witness was aware, in the first instance, that the prisoner was in the King's Bench. On seeing the piano-forte, the prisoner was in the King's Bench. On seeing the piano-forte, the prisoner was in the King's Bench. This closed the case for the prosecution.—The prisoner, in his defence, said, it was his intention at the time to have paid for the instrument, and both he and his wife were now willing to bind themselves in any way for the payment. There was now property coming both to him and his wife.—A person named Bull proved having paid to the wife of the prisoner the third of 175l. while he was in the King's Bench, and that there was still momey coming to them.—The Common Serjeant summed up the evidence, and the Jury found the prisoner failty.

The pianoforte was produced in Court. By the verdict, Mr. Chappell was entitled to it, and consequently took it away with him.

PUGILISM

PUGILISM

On Tuesday, the plains of Moulsey were again the scene of attraction for the Fency, and the swells and amateurs were numerous. Bunn had been defeated by Brown in a room a few months since, without the slightest chance of success; but the friends of the former, entertaining an opinion that the result would be very different in a ring and upon the turf, Bunn was therefore backed for 501. without any hesistation. Brown had Spring and the Gas as his seconds. Both of the men appeared in excellent condition. Brown was the favourite, guineas to pounds. Hudson, as his seconds. Both of the men appeared in excellent condition. Brown was the favourite, guineas to pounds. Round 1. Bunn endeavoured to plant two blows with both thands, which Brown stopped. Bunn let fly with his left hand, which was also stopped with great skill by Brown. Brown now took the lead, and planted so severe a sobser, that Spring observed, "My man for 1001."—7. The combatants went to vork on meeting at the scratch; till Bunn went on his face, and Brown made a hit and fell with his knees on his body. "Foul, foul;" and "fair, fair." 8. Bunn received a facer, that sent him down on his back; Brown with much dexterity got away. He also put in some heavy nobbers; Bunn went down on his back: Brown hit him as he was agoing down, and again fell with his knees on his body. "Foul, foul;" and "fair, fair." 10. The Bow Boy put in a beavy blow on Brown's neck, and also a severe facer; but they did not in the least tend to check the ardour of Brown. Both down, but Bunn undermost.—11, 12, and 13. In favour of Brown, but Bunn undermost.—11, 12, and 13. In favour of Brown, but Bunn undermost.—14, 12, and 13. In favour of Brown, but Bunn undermost.—16. Bunn went sharply up to his adversary, but his efforts were stopped with the utmost sang fruid by Brown. A pause. Brown new to have a subsection of the part of the stakes." This occupied 19 minutes and a half.

Second Four,—After some little time had elapsed, a purse was collected of 104. and young Belasco ent be found. Gas was backed freely at six to four, and he was backed to win in 20 minutes, at edds taking. The battle will be for 100 guineas aside.

The great superiority of the new French Stripes over every other article used for farnishing is now universally admitted; and since their first introduction, the domaid for expeasive Silk has been gradually diminishing.—The colours are all warranted, and the prices do not exceed one fifth those of Silk Tabbores. They can only be precured at MILES and EDWARDY'S New Chintz Funiture and Moreen Warehouse, No. 124, Oxford-street, nearly opposite Ha over-square.

Advertisement, —Monopolite.—We hate Monopoliseas: but there is no rule without an exception; for example—when BiSil monopolized the selling all Three 250,000 Prices in one Lottery, he could not help it, and we foreave him. Again, there are only four Capitals above the value of 2200 yet drawn in the present Lottery, BISH monopolized them also, as he sold all Advertisement)—In our first introduction to a person, there is nothing ourseys to the mind a stronger impression than the Teeth. A fine set of Teeth identifies health, cleanliness, and beauty; but to yellow, black, or carious Teeth, we turn with loathing and digust. To all who wish to preserve them from decay to the extremity of age. It fastens Teeth that are loose—prevents the decayed aroning mores—enouves the tartar, and carea the scury in the Gume, leaving them firm and of a healthy reduces. It sweetens the breath, is an antidote les qum-boile, swelled face, and the toolh-ache—and the Propieters warrant, that it used regularly, a tooth will never decay, and the tooth-ache will not be known; and though so powerful an antiseptic, it is entirely free of acid, and so innocent that a child may take the contents of a Box.—Sud, price 2s. 9d, by Jas. Alkinson, (wholevae agent) 44, Gerrard-street; Shoo-square: Means, Gat ie and if irree, 57, Blond-street; Hayley and lites, Cockayur-street; Howell and James, 9, Regent-street; Barley and lites, Cockayur-street; Howell

NOTICES TO CORRESPUNDENTS.

Our friend "OLD ENGLISH FARE" will see we have made use of his hint.

"A TERRIER" is a sporting dog; we were thankful for all his hints, which shall come into pluy, and we hope to hear frequently thirts, which shall come into pluy, and we hope to hear frequently from him.

It appears that the person who hired the room at the Paul's Head, in t atention-street, for Watson's meeting, was not Mr. Jensing, but a News-center of the name of Jensin, himmy in Featherstonestreet, City-road; the hire was five shillings,—and this at a once expectable tapers!

J. G. amigram is good; but it has an air of ridiculing religion.

1. G.'s opigram is good; but it has an air of ridiculing religion which we cannot patronize.

If e shall be highly flattered by the communications L. N. X.

It's shall be highly flattered by the communications L. N. X. allules to.

It's shall have an opportunity of using the information of X. Y. Z. when we touch at large upon the character of the person it relates to. It's do not think the facts mentioned by Anglicanum to be sufficiently importent to interest our readers.

INTERTIGATOR will see where we are indebted to him; —we shall be very glad to hear further from him.

Interests connot must usely us to hear up the faces of Man Supericular and the state of the supericular state.

very glad to hear farther from him.

JUNTIOUS cannot surely wish us to keep up the farce of Man. Serrun, and her claim. He refer JUNTIOUS to the letter of her putrou and friend Man. Parring, who it is fair to conclude must know as many publiculars of her history as any body else; and surely when her own advocates and patrous coafess themselves satisfied of the RUMBUS of her pretensions, it would be the height of absurdity in us, who never considered them seriously, to come forward to vindicate them.
The copy of Burn, alluded to by our hearty friend Tan Pipps, must have met with some peculiar accident.

We are afraid that "Pity the Sorrows" would be found samewhat heavy.

We are afraid that "Pity the Sorrows" would be found samewant heavy.

Our friend's strictures upon the Highland Society fall into the error they condenn, and while he advocates delicacy, he becomes samewhat indelicate himself. We have a charming bit of Latin on the very nib of our pen, but in this age of illumination we cannot trust going ladies even with the dead languages. We must condidly confew we laughed heartly at his jokes, and so least at the name of the house he selects for such "a guthering;"—we never heard of the "Wooden Spoon and Stoyrach-ache" as the sign of an time before.

A.B.C.D. is very entertaining, and an able vindicator of the store; but see tike Almacks, and we like the Anuviar-Rooms,—and bons can we satirize that which has in it nothing absurd?—If nothing else destroyed theatres, the hours at which plays commence totally prevent persons living in society from attending them;—however, we will think the subject over, and do what we can for our rural friend.

Quant may be quite sure that there is no sham.

QUEET may be gaite sure that there is no sham.

A.O.P., PLAYFAIR, YOUNG BULL, TIMOLEON, MESTOR, and several others, are deferred till next week.
(her friend Mercuston's kind communication did not reach us as usual, this week. We are obliged to him for his hints for our interest and have attended to them.

A MONDAY'S EDITION, containing the LAYEST NEWS, the STOCK LEW, the LONDON MARKETS, and the STATE OF THE COUNTRY MARKETS by that Morning's Post, is published at Three o' Clock.

PRICE OF STOCKS AT THE CLOSE, SATURDAY. The Funds have varied in the course of the week about 2 per cent, owin to a variety of reports relative to the affairs of Turkey: towards the entitley appeared more favourable, and it is calculated they will reach 80 per

nts. 774 †
Reduced Ann. 774 †
Comols..... 775 † 78 78 †
Dit Acct 784 † 784 †
4 per Cents.... 96 † | Ezobequer Bills .... 10001. 5001. Small -4 per Cents.... 96 1 India Bonds ...... Navy 6 per cent 1102 111 Omnium .....

FRENCH FUNDS, Oct. 80. & per ct. Con. 22 Sept. 90 | Bank Sh Div. 1 July 1595 99-45 | Br. Lond. 1 mo. 25 45 8 mo. 24-25 econ. Div. 22 Marca

JOHN BULL.

LONDON, NOVEMBER 4.

WE are rejoiced to state that the latest accounts received from Hanover give the most gratifying information respecting our Sovereign's health. His MAJESTY, on Tuesday "nuight, received visits from the LANDGRAVE of HESSE HOMBURG and the DUKE of WEIMAR, and afterwards dined with the Princes at present at Hanover, at which dinner the Marquis of Londonderry, Prince Met-TERNICH, COUNT TAUENZIEN, &c. were invited.

In the evening, the citizens of Hanover serenaded their beloved Monarch by torch-light, (there were upwards of 600 torch-bearers present.) His Majesty shewed himself to the citizens at the window, who saluted their Monarch with the loudest acclamations. The music played the popular tune-Heil, unserm, Kanig heil-(Hail, a health to our KING, hail!) which the transported multitude accompanied with their voices. The popular air of Landervater. Schutz, und Rather-(the Country's Father, Protector, and Counsellor) was played and sung. His MAJESTY at the conclusion opened the window, and bowed in the most gracious manner to the citizens, and intimating a desire to speak, the acclamations in a moment subsided, and H18 MAJESTY addressed them in nearly the following words:

" I am recovered, and rejoice that I can be again among my Hanoverians, from which I have been unhappily hindered through illness. I regret all the trouble they have given themselves, and thank them for i'.

"I gratefully acknowledge the love and attachment of my Hanoverians. I have always been a Hanoverian. will live and die a Hanoverian."

The joy exhibited at these sentiments, which were pro-nounced with a distinct and powerful voice, excited the most enthu lastic applause, which continued for some mi-

On the following day his MAJESTY gave private audiences to the DUKE of BRUNSWICK and most of the Foreign Ministers.

It was expected that his Majesty would se! out on Monday last for England through Gottingen.

SIR ROBERT WILSON, and his friends, as silly as himself, have called the public attention to his military services. in a way which renders it a duty on our parts to examine those services, and to expose a long, and hitherto successful, system of "charlatauery," or mountebankism, which we hope and believe has no parallel-certainly none in the British army. If in pulling away the false feathers with which the Daw has decorated himself, we should leave him in a state of pitiable nudity, let him blame, not OUR re luctant candour, but his own insupportable ranity, and his own egregious folly.

The least title of praise which this boaster assumes to himself is that of HERO, to which he has about as much claim as to the rank of kulght! We are not disposed to deny any Englishman the merit of personal courage; it is a kind of national instinct, and no doubt SIR R. WILSON possesses his share of this quality: but, since he forces us to speak out, we must say, that, although we have attentively read all his certificates, we cannot find any occasion in which either his courage or his conduct were peculiarly distinguished; indeed, as we read the certificates published by himself, and the biography published by his friends, it would seem doubtful whether he had ever been actually UNDER PIRE more than once in his life. This seems, even to us, hardly credible; yet when we recollect, that a man who has the vanity to trumpet his own praises, probably leaves nothing untold, we know not how to come to any other conclusion. If, however, this be otherwise, WILBON, to whom it is no pain to speak of his own exploits, can easily publish a supplementary pamphlet, with a statement of the exact dates and places where he ever happened to be within reach of the enemy's bayonets.

No doubt he was so on the 24th April, 1794, being then about 16 years of age, and a cornet in the 18th Light Dragoons, when two squadrons of German and two of British cavalry attacked and defeated a superior force of French, both cavalry and infantry. To hear this matter now talked of by WILSON and his partisons, one would think that it had been a pitched battle, and that SIR ROBBRT was the victorious Commander-in-Chief; whereas in fact it was a " trifling skinmish," followed by no advantage, and in which CORNET WILSON was the junior officer of all.

The DURE OF YORK, then Commander-in-Chief of the allied army, and who must have been, on every account, anxious to make the most of the conduct of the English, treats it in his dispatch, published in a London Gazette of the time, quite in this light; and did not even think it necessary to mention the name of any officer engaged in the affair, except that of MAJOR AYLETT, the commanding officer, and even he is mentioned only as being the single officer wounded. His Royal Highness, at that time, little thought that this skirmish was to make the world ring, and to confer more katalithunds than had been conferred for the battles of BLENHEIM of MALPLAQUET.

And this brings us to the extraordinary affair, Willson's pretended KNIGHTHOOD, into which (having heard and read doubts as to its authenticity) we have taken the pains to examine, and can venture to assure our readers it is all HUMBUG.

It has been so often stated, and is now generally believed, that this little action was swelled into some degree of importance, by having taken place under the very eye of the EMPEROR OF GERMANY, and his having preserved the rery person of his IMPERIAL MAJESTY from capture; and that in consequence, the EMPEROR decorated, on the very field of battle, his gallant deliverer with the Cross of MARIA THERESA. Nothing can be more false. The EMPEROR OF GERMANY was not on the spot, nor within twenty miles of it; and so far was he from giving the crosses on the impulse of the moment, and while glowing with gratitude for his deliverance, that this distinction was tardily and reluctantly conferred just seven years after the event!

But this is not all !!

The whole husiness was, we have reason to think, an ffair not of spontaneous reward, but of protracted solicitation and intrigue: for four years (during which we had evacuated the continent, and Austria had made peace) no notice, no, none at all was ever taken of this heroic action! This was not the fault of ONE, nor of perhaps more than one. of the British officers concerned in the affair, and at last in March, 1798, (the sublime exploit was atchieved in 1794) the Austrian government, wearied out with solicitations for the Cross of MARIA THERESA, gave each of the eight English officers employed, a GOLD MEDAL, with a proof regret that he could not con the MARIA THERESA! Thus, then, instead of a Cross bestowed spontaneously by the EMPEROR and in the field, we find that WILSON obtained four years after, by much begging and praying, a gold medal from COUNT THUGUT, the prime minister at Vienua!!!

See the London Gazette of 19th June, 1798.

But the MARIA, THERESA was obtained at last. What will not the craving perseverance of vanity accomplish?-Gutta cavat lapidem non VI sed SEPE cadendo.'

In the year 1806, Wilson procured an appointment to the army, then destined for Egypt, and he went, as his biographer (probably himself) tells us, overland; and in his way, he contrived to open some communication with the AUSTRIAN authorities. By a wonderful coincidence, just at this moment, the EMPEROR OF GERMANY, awakes from I a seven years trance, and recollects the brilliant service of 1794.

" Respexit tamen, et longo post tempore venit." And lo! the Cross of MARIA THERESA, was conferred upon little Major William Aylett, Major Pock. LINGTON, CAPTAIN RYAN, LIEUTENANTS CALCROPT and BLOUNT, and CORNETS KEIR, BUTLER, and WILSON; and although this little cross gave them no more claim to Bai-TISH KNIGHTHOOD, than WATSON has to the appellation of Doctor, or Mrs. SERRES to the title of Highney; and although the letter announcing the grant in the London GAZETTE was carefully addressed to LIRUT. COL. AYLETT, and not to SIR W.M. AVLETT; and, in the enumeration of the names, expressly excluded every thing that could look like a permission to use the style and title of a KNIGHT; yet, we say, Wilson had the impudence, and the others had the stupidity to assume the dignity of Knights of this

We think our readers will agree with us in calling this hungry solicitation of a foreign honour, and this unfounded assumption of a domestic one, a mixture of meanness and of impudence unparalleled. It is, however, well worthy the approbation and imitation of WILSON's friends, and we do not despair of soon finding these worthies designating themselves as SIR SAMUEL FAVELL, SIR PETER LAMBTOF, and SIR GALB JONES.

After this affair, in 1794, WILSON'S biographers tell us nothing more of their hero, till 1797, when we are informed that he returned to England and married. That, between 1794 and 1797, he did nothing in the line of service, may be fairly concluded, from his own and his friends' silence: it is indeed said, that in this interval, he carried off an interpreter, and was pursued for eight miles by French hussars; but this exploit docs not seem to be much insisted on; nor does it appear that a shot was fired, or a blow street. To carry off a civilian-prisoner, and to be pursed in his flight, seems a kind of service congenial to Wilson's talents.

We are next told, that during the disturbances in Ireland, in 1799, he served in that country, as Aide-da-Camp to General Sr. John. It may be so-but we have searched all the Gazettes, and several newspapers of the time, and can find no mention of WILSON, and hardly the name of his General. We think we may venture to assert, that in this distinguished pertion of his military life our here never saw powder burned unless at a review.

In 1801, he joined, as we have already said, the army is Egypt; where again he had the good fortune to find himself an Aide-du Camp; and, accordingly, in reading over the Gazettes of the whole of that splendid service, we find the magnanimous name of WILSON, but once mentioned, and that is on an occasion, exactly, in our spinious suited to his character and abilities. A flag of truce was sent to Colonel Cavalier, "by Majon Wilson, of Hompssch's, requiring him to surrender;" which, being surrounded and outnumbered beyond the power of resistance, it required not even much of the Major's eloquence to induce the Frenchman to do so.

From 1801 to 1809, the hero wrote for the booksellers... made his quarterly half-pay affidavit-and went on civil missions. The most perilous achievement of this period, is stated by his biographers to be—that, in the disgnise of a Russian hussar, he was present at the conference at Tilsit. We call this " perilous," because, we suppose that a British Colonel, if taken in the disguise of a Russian hussar, would have been, by the laws of war, liable to be hanged; and this, as far as we have discovered, is the greatest military danger to which this illustrious commander has crer been exposed.

In the year 1809, we find him employed in disciplining about 600 Portuguese, called, somewhat too magnificently, the LUSITANIAN LEGION. That he DID nothing with these troops, is really no imputation against WILSON, but to assert that he did something, when, in fact, he did nothing, seems to us a little blamcable. On this subject, WILSON addressed a letter to the electors of the Borough, in answer to a statement in the QUARTEBLY REVIEW, to which a reply was published in the QUARTERLY REVIEW, and as we never heard that SIR ROBERT made any further defence, nor attempted to deny the truth of the Reviewers' second statement, we shall appeal to this statement for an account of his conduct in the Pass at Banos—the only affair in which he and his LEGION appear to have been engaged.

"It was an action," says the uncontradicted Reviewer, "Which, though only a trivial skirmish, ending in an unaccount able " rout, was described with all the pride of a VICTORY.

"But what, after all, was the battle of Banon? The advance " guard (we believe, under COLONEL GRANT) consisting of about " 400 men, occupied Aldea Nueva, SIR ROBERT WILSON res " with the rest of the corps, in the position and pass of Bano-The former party skirmished during the greatest part of the day "with the enemy's piquets, and being at last driven in, retired "upon the position of the main body; the PLIGHT and DISPERSION O " the WHOLE corps immediately followel; and here ended the bank 4 of Banos!!

This battle SIR R. WILSON described in Two letters, and in TWO ways—the one was for the judicious PUBLIC; the other for the Commander in Chief. And now let us read the DUKE OF WELLINGTON'S answer, which WILSON has been such an ass as to publish :--

" I do not comprehend the matter; I do not understand now " troops could have behaved so well as SIR ROBERT has stated in his "Poblic dispatch, and be so trittedly notten as he has described " them in his privage better; I have sent the dispatch home to strak or or itself; and I would have sent it back for nevision, if the for delay might not have been injunious to Sir Robert Wilson."

This extract is published by WILSON hisuelf, and implies, we think, imputations, (and not against his military character only.) which we should have thought intolerable, even to SIR ROBERT WILSON: but he has published it!!!

No one will be surprised that this adventure ended in Wilson's coming home, and every body who lives in society, knows, that the years from 1809 to 1815—the most glorious in the annals of the British army, were spent by him, on full pay indeed, with walking about the streets of London, criticising, and depreciating the conduct of LORD WELLINGTON, and prophecying the defeat and ruin of his army—an additional and striking proof of SIR ROBERT WILSON'S military skill!

We have already alluded to the case of LAVALETTE, in which he prostituted his public character, and betrayed private confidence, insulted the hospitality of France, and degraded the character of England. His proceedings in the affair of the Queen's funeral we shall have abundant opportunities of discussing hereafter. We have here confined ourselves to his military services; and as we have honestly quoted EVERY occasion in which he is alleged to have served, we trust we shall be borne out in saying, that, in the WHOLE ARMY, there does not seem to be an officer who has deserved LBSB either of the emoluments or honours of his profession. It would appear, that, except from 1794 to 1797, he pever served in the usual regimental course; that of the twenty-four years which have since elapsed, he has hardly actually served as many months; that, while he did serve it was, for the most part, in some irregular line, and that for all his service, regular or irregular, he has not a WOUND TO SHOW, nor do his panegyrists state him ever to have been spontaneously in a position of personal danger, except on the two occasions of his DISGUISE at TILSIT, and his commitment to JAIL in Paris on account of LAVA-LETTE'S affair !!

MR. LAMBTON attributes WILSON'S not obtaining the order of the Bath to the hostility of ministers. The above statement of SIR ROBERT'S SERVICES will answer this accusation; but, moreover, every man in the army knows that to have received the honour of the Bath, it is necessary by the statutes, that the claimant should have been, at some time or other, mentioned in the Gazette as having DISTINGUISHED HIMSELP AGAINST THE ENEMY. Now, poor SIR ROBERT was never mentioned at all, that we have been able to find, except as the bearer of a flag of truce in Egypt, and in the double faced affair of Banos.

We are not surprised that WILSON should have talked LORD GREY and MR. LAMBTON into an opinion of his merits. He has bamboodled wiser heads than theirs. In 1810, either in pity for the disgrace of Banos, or to stop his mouth, he was, most improperly, made Aide-de-Camp to the late king, and we have seen by a letter lately published by himself, that the DUKE OF YORK once intended to have given him a cavalry regiment. He has been allowed to knight himself, and he has been called by this assumed title in the army list, and in the world; and to crown the whole, the world has been induced by these marks of official favour, to give some degree of credit to, we verily believe, the GREATEST QUACK that ever appeared upon the public stage. And this is the person who complains of want of favour, and of the enmity of ministers! We, on the other hand, say, and think, that if WILSON gives the ministers some trouble, it is no more than they richly deserve; first, for their undeserved patronage of, and secondly, for their half-measured forbearance towards him.

THE Radicals of Bolton and its neighbourhood have resolved, it appears, to present a white counterpane to MR. ORATOR HUNT, with a suitable inscription:—in the centre is "the figure of a dog, in a circle, with the motto—PERSEVERANCE." This, if considered as an apposite hisroglyphic, must also be considered rather satirical; for, a dog who perseveres in walking in a circle, walks without end, and must be a very stopid dog indeed.

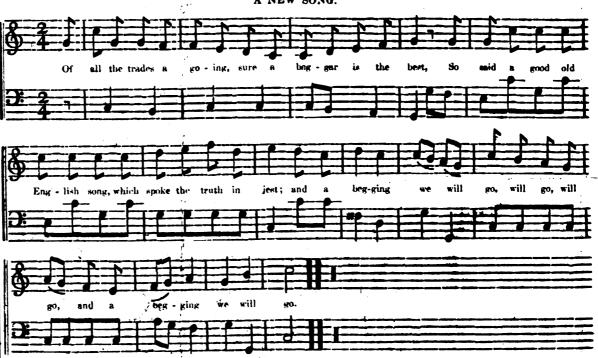

There is one thing connected with Mr. Hunt's confinement, which is worthy of notice, and to which we consider it our duty to call the attention of those in whose province the good order and condition of prisons may be. Mr. Henry Hunt is not only allowed to hold "Radical Lesces" in his jail, but to SELL libels in the very place of his incarceration.

Superadded to this, an illicit connexion, which he is openly suffered to maintain with a married woman, in his prison, is an outrage on the decencies of our police, unparalleled, as we believe, in the country; and in short, the more we look at the marked indulgence shewn to this man, the more we are determined to sift Someraetshire Radicalism to its very dregs; and we think we shall be able, in the course of our research, to throw a few new and interesting lights upon the subject, which may shew in their time colours, some HIGHLY RESPECTABLE gentlemen of that country.

OLD BAILEY.—These Sessions closed on Friday, when sentence of Drath was passed on Joseph South, Edward Hill, and John Sowerby, for uttering forged notes; Jas. Eddows, Edw. Jn. Franklin, Samuel Hayward, and William Hicks, for burglary; John Jacobs, William Brady, and John Linch, for highway robbery; Ann Morris, Mary Palmer, Amey Steele, Elizabeth Davies, Mary Ann Sullivan, and Ann Turner, for robbery; Thomas French, for house-breaking; Benjamin Abbott, for horse-stealing; and William Mars, for stealing in a dwelling-bouse.—Twelve (mostly boys) were sentenced to be transported for life; two for fourteen years; and the control of the sevent years.

THE BEGGARS.

A NEW SONG.

Of all the beggars going, who prey on public pence,
The Whig excels in wants and wose, in tricks and impudence;
So a begging we will go, will go, will go, so a begging we will go.

The beggar in the public ways, his ills, as merits shews, Is lame, or blind, or idiot-struck, or mants his hands or toes; When a begging he will go, will go, when a begging he will go.

So, by their faults, the etarving Whige, attempt to raise the wind, In Council, roots--in action, LAME--in understanding, BLIED; And a begging they do go, do go, do go, and a begging they do go.

Old CHARLEY was the leader, the BAHFFYLDE MOORE CAREW, Of that audacious, lying, tricking, filthy, drunken crew; And a begging he did go, did go, and a begging he did go.

This cunning Fox, he prayed, and whined, & swore from door to door,
That fall'a from a good estate, his virtues kept him poor;
So a begging he did go, did go, did go, so a begging he did go.

In fact, the rogue play'd, wench'd, and drank two sinecures away, And only begg'd to have the means to wench, and drink, and play; So a begging he did go, did go, did go, so a begging he did go.

And all the Club at Brooken's, most gaderous of men—Gave readily, what they were sure of-cinning back again.
When a begging he did go, did go, did go, when a begging he did go.

Scots GEBALD next went begging, a suff'rer by the law; He sent the French red cap about, sediction's alms to draw; And a begging he did go, did go, did go, and a begging he did go.

But, whether this sub-cription, succeeded ill or well, We never heard; but some folks say, that Mackintona could tell; And a begging he did go, did go, and a begging he did go.

When bloody Brillingham destroy'd a man he ne'er had known, On the lamented felon's grave, their sanguine alms were strown; And a begging they did go, did go, did go, and a begging they did go.

To take man's life, by law or war, Whigs count a horrid thing, But THIS was an ASSASSIN of a servant of the KING; So a begging they did go, did go, so a begging they did go.

When vulgar Hoxe to market brought, his pointless parody,
And season'd his sedition with a spice of blashhemy,
Then a begging he did go, did go, did go, then a begging he did go.

His graceless Grace of Binroun, the bold example sets,
And pays his mite to comfort him--I wish he'd pay his debta;
For a begging they do go, do go, do go, for a begging they do go.

And by his sire's example led, my Load of Tattsrock, Subscribes ten pounds, to prove himself-a chip of the old block: And a begging they did go, did go, did go, and a begging they did go.

And Serrox, on his death-bed, as it was thought to be, Encourag'd the blasphemer, just to vex the Ministry; When a begging he did go, did go, when a begging he did go.

When Conserr stole the bones of PAIRE, it was with the intent To raise a penny rate, to buy a seat in Parliament; And a begging he did go, did go, did go, and a begging he did go.

But the pure Whigs of Covertar had quite another sense, And much preferred receiving pounds, to giving him their pense; For a begging they do go, do go, do go, for a begging they do go.

When guilty of a libel, the bold BURDETT was found,
And sentenced by a Torr Judge, to pay two thousand pound,
A begging he did go, did go, a begging he did go.

He afterwards refus'd the aid; but not till the account
Had shewn him that they ne'er could raise a quarter the amount, Though a begging they did go, did go, did go, though a begging they did go.

From begging for the poor they took to begging for the Great, And begged that they might buy the Quzen annuities and plate; And a begging they did go, did go, & a begging they did go.

We have not heard if their success in this was bad or good, But hope it was the latter, for the sake of MATTHEW WOOD; For a begging he did go, did go, for a begging he did go.

A begging he did go indeed, this patriot and sage, But 'twas for his own profit when the QUEEN went off the stage; And a begging he did go, did go, did go, and a begging he did go.

But we have reason to suspect, that this subscription pines, And is about as profitable as his Cornish mines;

So a begging he will go, will go, will go, so a begging he will go.

And next, lest any class of crime, unbonour'd should escape, The tender Waithman recommends the case of Mr. Snark; And a begging he does go, does go, does go, & a begging he does go.

We know not whether BROUGH'N has yet subscrib'd, but think he The crime being only rongent—a petty breach of trust; [must, So a begging they will go, will go, will go, so a begging they will go,

When CAPTAIN ROMEO ran away from Naples, in a funk, With nothing but a pound of Maccaroni in his trunk,

A begging he did go, did go, did go, a begging he did go.

To keep this pilot of the cause of Italy affect,
Enthusiast BENNETT's gen'rous hand subscribes—a one-round
And a begging he did go, did go, did go, and a begging he did go.

We have not breath to spend on all the vicious, or the vile-On Woolka, Watson, Wardington, Hunt, Honey, and Carlies, But a begging they all go, all go, but a begging they all go.

From all the sails, in all the land, their begging boxes spread, And e'en the grave, at Faction's call, delivers up its dead; And a begging they do go, do go, do go, and a begging they do go.

But lastly comes a beggar-man, who would be knighthood's shame, But that the title he assumes is only a faire name;

When a begging he does go, does go, when a begging he does go.

The soldier, or the smior, who accosts one in the street,
Can shew the scars he got, or tell the enemy he beat;
When a begging he does go, does go, when a begging he does go.

But here's a bold impostor, the sauciest of the batch, Who never won a fight at all, and never got a scratch; Yet a begging he does go, does go, does go, & a begging he does go.

He has not dealt in blows and blood as silly people think, But is a very hero,—in the way of pen and ink; But a begging he does go, does go, but a begging he does go.

And thus he can produce us, of the battles he has seen, Certificates on paper--having none upon his skin,

When a begging he does go, does go, when a begging he does go.

While other soldiers Paris took, and France at freedom set, This rival hero storm'd a jail, and rescued LAVALETTE. And a begging he did go, did go, and a begging he did go.

So as from no French foe-man's head he ere won laurel leaf, He hires a French advocate to praise him from his brief; And a begging he does go, does go, does go, & a begging he does go.

Thus we have seen subscriptions which disgrace our factions times, Por ev'ry shade, both light and deep, of follies and of crimes; When a begging they do go, do go, when a begging they do go.

For drunkards, gamblers, libellers, thieves, amugglers, defamators, For forgers and blasphemers, and for murderers and traitors.

A begging they do go, do go, a begging they do go.
To Wilson's list we wish success; because we hope the money
Will go to the poor families of Francis and of Hoxey;

Will go to the poor families of Francis and of Honzy; Since a begging they do go, do go, do go, since a begging they do go,

For all folks must agree, else differ how they may,
That they were kill'd upon the field, whence Wilson sneak'd away;
Though a begging he does go, does go, though a begging he does go.
X. Y.

TO THE EARL OF GROSVENOR.

My Lord,—I some time since saved you from an unpleasant exposure in the affair of Mas. Healy; this must prove (blunt and plain spoken as I am) that I have no personal wish to annoy you—it is not to cut or wound that I address you, but to do that, which perhaps, your Lordship may consider little less disagreeable—it is to have the pleasure of laughing at you, and, I think, I shall succeed so far as to set every body else who reads this letter laughing too; always excepting your Lordship, who, fond as you are of the ridiculous, are the last man in the world to see the joke of it.

Wite, my dear Lord, have short memories they say—and there is another class of persons, to whom long ones are held to be necessary. Now, without enquiring into your wants and qualifications, I shall, to refresh your recollection, quote a few words which came out of your of mouth on the 9th of October, at a meeting of Whigs from all the counties in England, called the Cheshire Whig Club, and contrast them with a few of the actions of your past political life. You said (and, perhaps, a can recollect a thing gone by only three weeks at that meeting, that-"If they looked at the principles which the Club had recognized in its Resolutions, and on which principles the constitution of 1698 was founded, they would perceive that those principles had been violated, by every successive Tory administration within the last forty or fifty years, and if they took a vetraspective glatic at the events. It is last three and twenty years they would find that the great principles of the Constitution as petablished by the Revotution of 1688, by the virtue of our ancesters, had been continually infringed upon with fuccess."

Pure, noble, immaculate, independent Whig-why, my dear Lord, had you drank more than unualdreaming or did you mistake WHIGS for WITS, and think nebody in the room had a better memory than yourself?

You stigmatized all Tory Administrations for the last forty or fifty years, and very well done the speech was for you, if you had not whispered it; but had you forgotten that on the 6th day of June, 1803, just after you had sucseeded to the Peerage, you got up and opposed a mollen of my LORD PITZWILLIAM's for censuring the Administration, and that you declared "the Tony Ministers worthy " of the confidence of Parliament and the Nation."

Do you not remember on the 4th of July, in the same year, that you again vindicated the TORY Administration, and were even called to order for your zeal on the occasion? You must surely recollect, that you did both these things, and, perhaps, my Lord, we may find a good reason for your conduct, you were, I think, a Lord of the Admiralty, in the years 1789 and 1790. In 1798, I believe you were appointed one of the Commissioners of the Board of Controll, and sat under the Presidency of the late LORD MELVILLE, and held that office till 1801; so, that for twelve of " the last " three and twenty years, during which, Tory Administra-" tions have been infringing the rights of our ancestors" YOU WERE IN OFFICE WITH TEEM.

And had you really forgotten all those twelve years, and had you moreover forgotten while you were haranguing your friends at Chester, that you had uniformly, for that space of time, opposed that Illustrious Patriot, CHARLES FOX, whose memory you said was so dear to you, and whose example you held up for imitation.

But, it appears, that your Lordship concluded your speech, by giving a little advice to the younger part of the Members who had enrolled themselves under the banners of the Club, and who were desirous of maintaining its principles and those of the Constitution. "He (your Lordship) thought himself warranted in so doing, "because he had had some experience in the political world, "his spring and summer were gone, the leaves of autumn were shedding around him, winter was fast approaching, and Time " was hurrying him on to eternity. He gave this advice, although " he hoped that the principles they now professed they would always retain, and that was, that IF THEY DID CHANGE their political opinion and influence to the side of their present adversaries, let it not be done from the seductions of power, or the blandishment "of a Court, but from honest, upright, and conscientions motives and conscients. If they did so the world would soon do them "justice, would soon appreciate and respect their worth; but if " they acted otherwise, the world would not long be deceived, they would be unmasked and their pretensions exposed. Lamentable "indeed was it to consider the number of individuals of talents, " distinction, and respectability, who had unfortunately fallen into "the snare power had laid for them. He trusted it would not occur again, and his Lordship concluded by returning the gen-"tlemen thanks for the honour they had done him."

Nothing can be more amiable than this Patriarchal advice to the Whiglings; but, my dear Lord, were you not aware that young as they might be, their fathers had told them every thing about you and your hatred for Tories; be assured, there was not one of them who did not know that you became a Whig, because MR. PITT would not appoint you first LORD OF THE ADMIRALTY instead of LORD BARHAM. Nay, I would venture to bet a good round sum that there is not a housemaid at EATON HALL, who does not know the fact as well as I do.

You cannot imagine, my dear Lord, how excessively foolish all this makes you look; and, the truth is, that the flourishing advice about shunning the snares of power was all superfluous; you may rest assured, that while England is in her senses, a temptation to your present party is not likely to present itself again.

I have done for the present: but I should seriously advise you to turn to the Court Kalendar, and satisfy yourself, that you were for many years a subordinate Member and hanger-on, of Tory Administrations; and having got that well into your head, contrive to keep it there by some odd association, with bottles and glasses, after the manner of PROFESSOR VON FINAGLE; so that when you are cocked up another time to spout after a tavern dinner, you may be struck by the sight of surrounding objects, with reminiscences which may, even if they render you dull, at least keep you respectable.—I am, my dear Lord, your brother Tory, BULL.

ARCHBISHOP OF ARMAGH.

London, October 30, 1821. SIR—You have published in your paper of the 28th inst. observations founded upon an account in the Morning Post, of what had passed at two Irish Archi-episcopal visitations, and which account, as far as it regards the visitation held at Armagli, I am pretty certain, is materially incorrect.

in it; it is stated, through the injusts of Mn. Hinns—" that "the Primate objects to the operation of the Holy Scrip"tures, unless accompanied by notes and comments—(without "note or comments)." New this, I think, I can venture to assure you, Sir, is directly the opposite of what is known to he the sentiments of his direct. I am a native of Mn.
thrus's—parish, and there had many opportunities of hiscoming infunctely acquainted with the various frivolous Sectarian opinions that divide and disturb the inhabitants of that part of the North of Ireland, and I never heard it said that the Primate had made any such objection as that attributed to him. It is mention have been made at all respecting the girculation of the Holy Scriptures; in Mn.
It was a visitation vermant the probability is, that their dissemination with notes and comments was objected to.
Such an objection would have had a two-fold reference, in it, it is stated, rarough the mouth of Mn. Hinks-" that Such an objection would have had a two-fold reference, first, with regard to the Roman Catholic Testament, which, as no doubt you well know, differs quant the text in no essential point from that next by Church of Englandmen, the explanatory notes alone, being the subjects of contention between the parties; and secondly, the preven-tion of the distribution of counter-note Testaments by those who arrogate to the universe the distinguishing appellation of Evangelical, with about as much protession, and as little justice; we have the 1980 limit to D. sainled. Would to God, that there were some more effective stimu-Would to God, that there were some more effective stimulant to induce the Irish Englestant Clergy to do their duty (which is well understood by their neglected parishioners,) than the enjoyment of anothous sevenues; and, in default of doing that duty, a summary mode of purishing them. From the knowledge I have of their characters, I would suggest the experiment of fining them occasionally.

I confess I was parely inside the walls of the church of the parish in which I was born, a neger one answering my purpose; and, in this one, it is best of my recollection.

never saw its Rector. His less, however, has been, and is at present, little missed; the flock having now (as they generally have had lately), the advantages of most attentive and excellent Curates. Fought not here to omit paying my tribute to the charitable disposition of the old incumbent's young wife

I have only further to observe, that the MR. Hinks in question, is one of those very learned, mathematical odd question, is one of those very learned, mathematical one fellows, who may do very well for Dublin College, but who are generally ill-suited, until they have forgotten the greater part of their Collegiate acquirements, to undertake the duties of a country Rectorate, or of any thing else. I am, &c.

L. N. X.

We insert this letter with pleasure, and it is with still greater satisfaction we are able to publish the following correspondence upon the same subject:—

BIBLE SOCIETY, IRELAND.—"At the last Annual Meeting of the Belfast Auxiliary Bible Society, held October 22, the following documents were read by the Secretary:—

"CORRESPONDENCE
With His Grace the Lord Primate, and His Grace the Archbinhop of Dublin.

"LETTER FROM SIR GRACE THE LOBD PRIMATE.

"Great George's-street, July 14, 1821.

"Sir,—As I understand you are Secretary of the Hibernian Bible Society, I request you will have the goodness to inform the Society, that I wish to have my name withdrawn. A friend to the circulation of the Scriptuses, I have, for many years, given my countenance and support to the Hibernian Bible Society; and it is with much reluctance, and even pain, that I feel myself obliged to withdraw from it. It would be useless to detail all the circumstances which have induced me to form this resolution. I cannot, however, forbear stating, that the constitution of the Society—as it appears to me—has beer gradually changed since its original formation; and it is quite notorious, that, at its public meetings, speakers introduce topics which are not only irrelevant to the business of the Society, but, in some instances, utterly inconsistent with their avowed object of circulating the Bible without comment.

"Those meetings consist of a number of persons whose religious with their avowed object of circulating the Bible without comment. "Those meetings consist of a number of persons whose religious opinions are at variance with each other, and each person has a right to express, without check or control, his own religious opinions in his own language. Under such circumstances, it is impossible to prevent observations being made which are injurious to the Established Church, and offensive to its members. I cannot, therefore, consistently with my sense of duty, any longer sanction the proceedings of the Society, or continue even its nominal patron. Being in a weak state of health, and overwhelmed with business, I need scarcely add, that I mean not to enter into any discussion on the subject.—I have the honour to be, your faithful servant, "To the Rev. Dr. Sableir, Secretary of "W. ARMAGH. the Hibernian Bible Society.

LETTER FROM THE RBY. DR. SADLEIR TO HIS GRACE THE LORD

"Dublin, July 19, 1821.
"My Lond,—I am directed by the Committee of the Hibernian "My Lond,—I am directed by the Committee of the Hibernian Bible Society to convey to your Grace their regret at the determination you have expressed to relinquish the office of Patron of their Society. In compliance with your Grace's wish that discussion should be avoided, the Committee will only state, that, on the most mature deliberation, they are fully satisfied that no change has been introduced into the constitution of the Society since its original formation; and beg leave to add, that had your Grace been pleased to intimate the circumstances which made it apparent to you that such change had taken place, the Committee would on the present, as on a former occasion, have given the subject the most respectful consideration, and cheerfully and thankfully availed themselves of your suggestions.—The Committee cannot conclude without expressing their further regret that your Grace should conceive that at the public meetings of the Society observations might be made injurious to the Established Church, and offensive to its members, as they are perfectly conscious that nothing of this kind ever took place, ncr from the arrangement of those meetings could possibly have occurred without instantanimadversion.—I have the honour to be, your Grace's most obedient servant,

"Secretary to the Hibernian Bible Society.

"To his Grace the Lord Primate, &c.

" To his Grace the Lord Primate, &c.

"LETTER FROM HIS GRACE THE ARCHEISHOP OF DUBLIN.
"SIR—Having at my last Visitation publicly stated my objections to the proceedings of the Hibernian Bible Society, and my reasons for notany longer continuing a member; it only remains for me to request that you will take the proper steps for withdrawing my name from the Society.—I have the honour to be, your obedient servant,

(Signed) "JOHN, DUBLIN."
To the Secretary of the Hibernian Bible Society.

"LETTER FROM REV. B. W. MATHIAS, TO HIS GRACE THE ARCH-BISHOP OF DUBLIN. "Dublin, July 19.

"My Lord—I am directed by the Committee of the Hibernian Bible Society, to express to your Grace their regret, for the loss of your Lordship's patronage, which they had so many years enjoyed. Not having heard or seen your Grace's charge, they cannot advert to the particular circumstances with which your Lordship is dissatisfied, but they are perfectly unconscious of any departure from the line of proceedings which had so long met your Grace's approbation. I have the honour to be, &c. &c. "B. W. MATHIAS." To his Grace the Archbishop of Dublin."

Onn of the greatest advantages of the public press, is the unfettered disconnation farms wide, of useful knowledge. We have read with great w. tisfaction, the account of a discovery, which assumes to be of the first importance to this country, and which, independently of the mercantile superiority, which it must eventually give us over the Continental wine markets, is intrinsically (from its ingenuity) worthy of the med new liar attention. ार्क काल व्याप्त व्याप्त वर्षा

As it should be, in this instance, party and political pear to have had no influence over the desire of the "a tlamen of the press" to promulgate acientific knowledge and the Whig and the Tory journals have equally confributed their aid to put the country in possession of the fal. lowing highly interesting and invaluable document

" How to hake Champagne from Grapes equal to For Gather the grapes when they are just turning, or about helitipe; pound them in a tub, and to every quart of berries so pounded, put TWO QUARTS of water; let it stand in a mash-tub for fourteen days, when it is to be drawn off; and to every gallon of lique put three pounds of lump-sugar; when dissolved, cask it; and after working, bung it down. In about six months it will be my TO DRINK, when it should be bottled, and tied down, or wired if it is intended to be kept more than one year.

With all our admiration for the patriotism which could give a place to this prescription, we must confess, it does not afford any very flattering proof of the taste of the gentlemen of the press," in the particular article of foreign wines. The part of the result, upon which we confess ourselves the most sceptical, is that, which we are told to look for at the end of the first six months.

THEATRE.

THE Haymarket Theatre closed a very unprofeshie season on Friday night; the performances were the Begger Opera, Match Making, and a Roland for an Oliver,
The debutante in MACHEATH, whose name, it appear, is BLAKE, had considerably improved since her first appearance, and her acting, which had been greatly embarassed by the novelty of her situation, the first night of her performance was free and easy; she promises to be really a valuable acquisition in those parts where her voice will fill—a very arduous province of the musical department of the theatre. MISS R. CURRI was also more animated and efficient than we remember to have seen her. A MR. HAMMOND played FILCH instead of Mr. RUSSELL, for which we can find no particular reason, but that Mr. RUSSELL played it remarkably well; his successor, however, was by no means bad.

After the play, MR. TERRY made his appearance with a farewell address, in which, after complimenting the town upon their great liberality, he cutered into a review of all the difficulties of establishing what he called "an independent company," and announced a resolution on the part of the proprietors to be even with the winter theates for keeping open all the summer, by keeping the summer theatre open all the winter

This, we believe, is all talk, for as far as we know any thing about it (which is not much) we think that the Licence for the Little Theatre is only for seven months. beginning with April; there was some more talk in the address, which we hope may come to something, for we were promised the best actors, the finest singers, and the most superior artists that can be procured for our next year's amusement.

Judging from what we have seen, we trust some sew selector may be appointed to make engagements; for the very first and last resource of the Haymarket, with its independent company, this season, was to call in the sta-blished favourites of Covent Garden and Drury Lane to its aid, and we must admit (and so must every body) the entire failure of all the new faces which were brought before us from the remote parts of the Empire.

MRS. CHATTERLEY and MISS CAREW were established favourites in London, and very deservedly so; and if the Proprietors of the Haymarket go upon the scheme of engaging popular performers who are not retained elsewhere, the plan of an independent company may indeed be practicable; but we must not have a Theatre, which now, for the first time, erects itself into a third winterhouse, and puts on airs, and talks of the legitimate drama, a school for beginners.

With respect to the accommodations of the House, they are excessively incomplete; the semi-circular fronts to the boxes stand out so far from the seats, as to render leaning forward on the cushions impracticable for ladies. While, as the seats have no backs to lean backward against, our fair countrywomen are subjected to a torturing perpendicularity, totally destructive of comfort or convenience.
The Proprietors, too, have fitted up a box, which they the KING's box-and how will it be supposed it is decorated? with a few yards of scarlet calico, and a little yellow worsted fringe! in short, wherever we trace the works of the proprietory, we find, that the ghost of the Farthing which appeared to DAVID GARRICK, at the Tobacconists shop in Coventry-street, has been stalking a little farther down the Haymarket of later days. ...

From all we can see of the conduct of the Hayanket Theatre, it appears to us that it is under the guidance of persons NOT by genius theatrical. A brewhouse or a distilery would not thrive unless the owner or his managing man knew something of brewing or distillation-how is it to be expected that a theatrical proprietor can make the best of his concern without being theatrical, particularly if when his managing man is quite au fait, he has no power! In mere matters of pounds, shillings, and pence, your dill calculating fellow, who concentrates his cash and his in-tellect on Saturday night to pay his people, may and must get on, if the routine of his business brings him in the quarfaire; but, in matters of taste and fancy, and in catering for the amusement of the public, this will not do -an empty beuches, or benches covered with paper, will reward the plodder who tries the experiment.

The bane of all theatrical speculation is partitionly. The public have arrived at so high a pitch of refinement, that they are not to be humbugged; and when they see that every exertion is made for their amusement—that no expence is spared to please the eye or gratify the understanding, they will reward it; but if, on the contrary, the dramatis personse of our best plays are to be filled up by the refuse of provincial companies, who have no earthly recommendation to a manager but the lowness of their terms. they will turn with contempt from the barn-like mummery

With respect to the Haymarket, we would observe, that the Old Scenes which we have remembered these thirty years, still remain; nay, that to save the expense of new ones, the just proportions of the Theatre have been destroyed, and an unseemly proscenium introduced:—all this is bad, mean, and undeserving.

We must say, that MR. TERRY's address held out a promise of better things, but promises and performances, particularly in a Theatre, are different things. He deligent the conveys and emphasis of a man anxiously. vered it with the energy and emphasis of a man anxiously desirous for the success of the concern, and concluded it by the usual farewell of the performers amidst very general applause.

MISCELLANEOUS.

must farewell of the performers amidst very general applianse.

MISCELLANEOUS.

We cannot refrain from answering the calls of many most respectable correspondents to notice the price of butcher's meat at present in the metropolis. At the East end of the town, mutton is selling at five pence a pound; nay, in Holborn, and as a westward as the vicinity of Red Lion-square. Beef at the sense price, tool inferior parts, but what are called text for the price, but it is a duty they over to the public, and by doing which, they might confer a great benefit upon their interiors, to resent the demands of their tradespaces. The incolent alsepheceper of Bond-streeter Piccadilly, know-then the public, and by doing which, they might confer a great benefit upon their interiors, to resent the demands of their tradespaces. The incolent alsepheceper of Bond-streeter Piccadilly, know-then the public, and by doing which, they might confer a great benefit upon their interiors, to resent the demands of their tradespaces. The incolent alsepheceper of Bond-streeter Piccadilly, know-then the public, and the several with the suppel will have it a fewer chests by their twadesmen, will obselve all will have it effect and that heads of families instead of allowing their retainers to be feted and treated by their twadesmen, will obselve such proteins and that heads of families instead of allowing their retainers to be feted and treated by their twadesmen, will obselve such proteins and the proteins of the sever chests will, make fortunes, and that the articles of donestic theory, their bills, and wind their own affairs, pay at present.

The King's Palace, in Pal1-nal1, has undergone repairs previous to His Majesty's return to England. It has been new painted, for Thursday, the Lords Commissioners of the Regency met at one o'clock, in the Council Chamber, Whiteball; the Archibishop of Canaderbury, the Doke of Wellington, the Lawd Chamellor, Lords Schotter, and the service of the serv and we cannot hear any arguments against that decision. Hunting Intelligence.—Mr. Chaworth's hounds neet at Sywell Wood; Wedneyday, at Stamford Hall; Thursday, at Nobottle Wood; Saturday 10th, at Figwell Woods; at half-past ten each day. Newmarker Third October Merting.—Monday.—One-third of a Subscription of 25gs, each, for 5 yr. olds, 8st. 8th.; 6 yr. olds, 9st.; and aged, 9st. 3th. B. C. Bona fide the property of subscribers. Ld. Egremont's gr. b. Little John, 5 yrs. old 1 1 R. R. H. the D. of York's h.h. Banker, 5 yrs. old 2 to 1 agst Little John.

Mr. G. L. Fox's North Wester, 8st. 2th. beat Mr. Bouverie's Tressilian, 8st. 8th. Ancaster M. 200gs. h. ft.—5 to 4 on North Wester.

D. of Grafton's Lawrence. 7st. 19th. heat 1d. Exercise Athenian.

JOHN BULL.

Mr. James's Ajax, 8st. 4lb. rec. 7kgs. from Duke of Grafton's f. by Orville, out of Medora, 8st. 1lb. As. M. 2005a. h. ft.

Theeday.—Mr. Crockford's. c. by Selim, out of Palma, 8st. 7lb. beat Mr. James's c. by Cardinal York, 8st. First half of Ab. M. 100gs.—6 to 2 on Mr. Crockford's.c.

Mr. James's Ajax, 8st. 6lb. heat Mr. Greville's sister to Plumper, 7st. 13lb. T.Y.C. 30g.—6 to 3 cn. Ajax.

Handienp Sweepstakes of 1kgs. ach, for 2 r. olds and upwards T. C.

Sir J. Shelley's Ivanhoe, 4 yrs. old, 9st. 13lb. 1 ld. $tradbroke's incantator, 3 yrs. old, 7st. 1lb. 2 g. old of the sister of Plumper, 7st. 13lb. T.Y. C. 30mical, 5 yrs. old, 9st. 4lb. 3 Mr. Crockford's c. by Selim, 3 yrs. old, 7st. 8lb. 3 Mr. Crockford's c. by Selim, 3 yrs. old, 7st. 8lb. 3 Mr. Crockford's c. by Selim, 3 yrs. old, 7st. 8lb. 3 hovereis's Plumper, 8st. 4lb. beat Mr. Prendergast's Letitia, 8st. 5lb. D.M. 100gs. h. R.—2 to 1 on Plumper.

Mr. Hone's Euphrates, beat Sir J. Shelley's Sporus, 8st. 4lb. each, T.M.M. 100gs. h. R.—2 to 1 on Plumper.

Mr. Mone's Euphrates, 1 for a graving a feather, 3 yr. olds, 7st. 5lb.; 4 yr. olds, 8st. 9lb.; 5 yr. olds, 8st. 3lb.; 6 yr. olds, 9st. 7lb.; and aged 3st. 10lb. Last three miles of B.C.

Mr. Baboa's b. f. Luss, 4 yrs.

Mr. Vansittart's ch. c. by Conus, 2 yrs.

My. Vansittart's ch. c. by Conus, 2 yrs.

My. Wilson's b. f. Rotterdam, 4 yrs.

Sto 4 agst Luss—6 to 4 agst Mr. Vansittart's ch. c.

Wednesday.—Mr. Greville's Oracle, 8st. 12lb. beat Mr. Prendergast's Kildare, 8st. 4lb. D. M. 10kgs. h., ft.—6 to 4 agst Mr. Prendergast's Kildare, 8st. 4lb. D. M. 10kgs. h., ft.—6 to 4 agst Mr. Prendergast's Kildare, 8st. 4lb. M. 10kgs. h., ft.—6 to 4 agst Mr. Wyndham's gr. c. Midas, 2 yrs.

Mr. Batson's b. f. Freak, 3 yrs.

Mr. Batson's b. f. Freak, 3 yrs.

Mr. Wyndham's gr. c. Midas, 2 yrs.

Mr. Wyndham's gr. c. Midas, 2 yrs.

Mr. Wyndham's gr. c. Midas, 2 yrs.

Mr. Fox's North Wester, 8st. 10b. Duke of Grafton's Lawrence, 8st. 4lb. Ak. M. 100gs. h. ft.—6 to 4 on Amy.

Thursday.—Mr. Hunter's Gustavus, aget Romp.

Mr. Bouverie's Arbutus, 8st. 22b. rec. 80gs. 6com Mr. Prenogast's Letitia, 8st. 8lb. D.1. 200gs. h. ft.

Mr. Bouverie's Arbutus, 8st. 21b. rec. 80gs. from Mr. Prendergast's Letitia, 8st. 81b. D.1. 200gs. h. ft.

Tuesday night, Mrs. Fisher, landlady of the Ekephant and Castle Ravera, kent-road, being indisposed, retired to trd, and fell asleep; during her slumbers, some person, entered her apartment and sided her pockets of money to a considerable amount; they also unlocked the drawers, and b-sides stealing some jewels, they carried off other property.

Mr. Shellito, of Croydon, was thrown from his horse on Tuesday, sear East Grinstead, and killed on the spot.

On Saturday last, an industrious old woman, named Miller, at Mertsham, Surrey, during breakfast, left her husband, and was shortly after found in a small pond at the back of the house, dead. A few days since, Mr. Thomas Wells Fitzjeun, of Baldock, Herts, put a period to his existence by placing a leaded pistol to his mouth; be had been spending the evening at his own house, apparently very comfortable, when he suddenly left the room, directing his steps into the garden, and taking with him a loaded pistol, the contents of which he discharged into his mouth.

Aninquisition was held on Mondaynight, at the Bull, Tottenham Green, on the body of W. Boorman, aged 45. The deceased, a few years ago, had been a linen-draper at Upper Clapton, but from misfortunes in business, together-with his large family, having a wife and nine children, he was reduced to a very low state, and was obliged to live in a back room, nearly in a state of starvation. The unhappy man employed himself selling oysters at the different public houses, and those who knew him would now and then administer to his wants. Some time back his wife went into a decline, and he was observed to be always in a melancholy state. On Sunday mounding, the melancholy news reached the ear of the sick wife, that her unfortunate husband had been found in a cow hovel belonging to Mr. Usher, at Page-green, Tottenham, with his throat cut.—

The Jury returned a verdict of Insanity.

Death A Tayressat's.—Coroner's hig

Published by James Carpenter, Old Bond-street,
DDRESS to a YOUNG LADY, on her Entrance into the World.
Second Edition, in 2 vols. price 12s. in boards.
Contents:—On reading the Scriptures; on the Babbath; on Truth; on Happiness, and exercise of Virtue; on Vitue of Mind; on Pride, as laimical to the inilder Virtues, and destructive of amiable Affections; on Puties of Children to Parents, and the Happiness consequent of their Observance, &c. &c.

2. An ESSAY on LIGHT READING, as it may be supposed to infinence noral conduct and literary taste. By the Rev. EDW. MANGIN, M.A. pric in beards.
3. A COLLECTION of Buigmas, Charades, Transpositions, &c., &c. Fifth idition, price 4s. in boards.

4. NOURJAHAD, by Mrs. SHERIDAN. A New Edition. price 3s. 6d. 5. The WORKS of SALLUST, translated into Basilish by the late AR. THUR MURPHY, Esq. with a Life of Sallust, by T. M. 8vo. price 9s. in boards, on roval paper, 12s.

Published by James Carpenter, Old Bond-street, and Joseph Booker, New Bund-street.

THE FINE ARTS,

BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY of PAINTERS & ENGRAVERS, from the revival of Painting and the alleged discovery of Engraving by Finiguerru.—By MiCHAEL BRYAN.

In this work is given two ludexes, siphustical and chronological; and the lutroduction comprises a brief account of the Palaters of Antiquity. It also contains five Plates, exhibiting the particular Marks and Monograms used by the different Engravers; together with a List of their works, is two thick volumes, in 4to, price 51.5s, in boards; and on superfine royal paper, 9].

used by the different Engravers; together with a large of section with the volumes, in 4to, price 51.5s, in boards; and on superfine royal paper, 91.

2. A New and Compendious TREATISE of ANATOMY, and FROPORTIONS of the HUMAN BODY, adapted to the Arts of DESIGNING, FAINTING, and SCULPTURE, illustrated by Copper plates,—By W. F. WELLS Price 5s.

3. The MEMOIRS of COUNT GRAMMONT, illustrated with 64 Portraits, heautifully engraved by SCRIVEN, from original Pictures, in 2 vols. 8vo price 31, 13s. 6d. and in 4to, with proof impressions of the Plates, 61.6s, Ditto in French, 2 vols. 8vo. 31, 13s. 6d.

4. A PORTHAIT of THOMAS MOORE, Esq. from a Picture by M. A. SHEE, Esq. R.A. engraved in the line manner, by Mr. JOHN BURNET, Price 11, 1s, proof, 11, 11s. 6d.

5. A PORTHAIT of THOMAS LORD CLIFFORD, Lard High Treasurer to Charles II. Engraved by Mr. SCRIVEN, from a Miniature by SAM, COOPER. Price 16s. 6d. proof, 15s.

6. A SMALL WHOLE LENGTH PORTRAIT of HENRY HOWARD, BARL of SURRY, engraved by SCRIVEN from the original Picture by Hobbelu, in the Ming's Collection at Windsor, price 12s proofing Picture by Hobbelu, in the Ming's Collection at Windsor, price 12s proofing Picture by Wester.

D. of Gracon's Lawrence, 7st. 12lb. beat Ld. Exeter's Athenian, Set. 12lb. T.Y.C. 2093s. h. R.—Even-on Lawrence.
Mr. Hunter's. Gustacus, 7st. 13lb. beat Mr. G. L. Fox's Pacha, Set. 12lb. D.M. 1603s. 100 ft.—6 to 4 on Gustavus.
Lord Dunyieh's Mesofis, 7st. 11lb. beat Mr. Udny's Pantoufie, Set. 17lb. P.M. 1603s. h. ft.—Even on Mesotis.
Mr. G. L. Fox's Paintbrush, beat Mr. Bouverie's Plur Der, Set. 4lb. each, A. N. 2003s. h. ft.—Even on Mesotis.
Sir John She, 12y's Sporus, Set. 7lb. rec. ft. from Mr. Bouverie's Arbutus, Set. 11lb. T.M.M. 2003s. h. ft.
Lord G. H. Cavendish's c. by Partisan, out of Ridicule, Set. 4lb. rec. 1003s. from Mr. Bouverie's Tressilian, 18st. 7lb. A.F. 2003s. h. ft.

10 Charles II. Engraved by Mr. SCRIVEN, from a Miniature by SAM, 600PER. Price 10s. 6d. price 10s

RISH POPLIN WAREHOUSE—Intem Poplina, in all the ment feshionable French colours, cheaper than they can be bought in Dublin. Shawle and Scarfs of every description from 6s. to 15 guinous each; beautiful Norwich Crapes, Boubasines, Levantines, Gross de Naples, and all kinds of fancy Silks, for Dresses. West of Singland Laddes Ciuths, in all fashionable colours—great bargains from 4s. to 7s. per yard, under the regular prices. Rich Genoa Velvets, also an elegant article for Ladles' Pelisses and Mantles, which will resist rain, in extremely light, warm, and durable; to be had only at A SMEARS and CO.'s, Redford house, No. 11 Henrietta-street, Covent-garden, London.

ATCHES...-J. ACKLAM respectfully acquaints those persons in want of a good Waten, at a moderate price, he is enabled, owing to some recent ready-money purchases he has made in new and second-hand Watehea of every description, to offer them at prices materially to their advantage, from Two Guineaa upwards, many of tnem made by the first makers in London.—J. A. begs to state, as reputation is his object, his wish is never the sell a Watch that will not give satisfaction; to obtain that end he gives to purchasers the peculiar advantages of twelve mouths 'trial, with liberty to exchange them in that time if not appropried of.—No. 423, Strand, corner of Bedford street.—Old Watches taken in exchange.

CUNS, by the most esteemed London Makers.—Mesers. KENT, AVERY, and VINCENT, No. 63, Bond-street, corner of Brook-street. Hanover-square, beg to acquaint Noblemen and Phortsmen, they have now for SALE, the best and most extensive STOCK of Double and *night Barrefiled GUNS in the Kingdom; among which are about 100 of Joseph and John Manton's, and a proportionable Assortment of all the other approved Makers, via. Wm. Smith, Purty, Moore, Stevens, Wilkinson, Mortimer, Egg, Forsyth, Neck, Clark, &c.; the whole of which are warranted, and if not approved, way be exchanged within twelve months. Also Travelling, Helster, and Pocket Pistols, from 14s. a pair upwards. The greatest price given for all kinds of Fire Arms, Swords, &c.

all kinds of Fire Arms, Swords, &c.

DATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP.—In sontemplating the lives and property that have been sacrificed to the use of candles, &t is natural to conclude, that it has either been found difficult to invent a complete substitute, or that it has either been found difficult to invent a complete substitute, or that it is importance has escaped observation, and it is not a trigling gratification to the Phaentee, that, in this invention he has so far auccaseded in the at empt as to produce a light that embraces every perfection, and is alike applicable to every domestic use, and can be so regulated as to suit every occasion. Its safety is such that no person on seeling it can doubt for a moment its security against dawyer of fire, and, bearing awyme ion without agitating the fiame, renders it highly valuable as a movin flight., As a Chamber or Night Light, it can be requisited to burn the conject or shortest night, giving a never-failing brilliant fiame, ready at the emoment it is wanted, disappearing in the morning without smoke or sayell suppressing it he Bed Candle, and, in its generature, a preserver t. coarpetsfrom tailaw or wax; the price, in neat Japan Shands, 10s. and in brenne, 15s. to 20s. The same principle apples, and the Langue equally portable, on pedestalls, varying in size and elegance, for the dining table, sidebpard, study, bracket, door, or fan-light; &s.; and also Glass Grecian Ranging Lamps, for the tail, staircase, passages, conservatory, drawing-rosm, mantleplece, lusures, &c.; and for the accommodation of these who have square, vase, or other hall lanthorms, the burners of which are so universally complained of for the soil lanthorms, the burners of which are somewhat as well they small, the Patpatee, in compliance with the request of many, now agadies this principle to such, with all its advantages, at 12s. 14s. each. Families in the security, who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity, bave only to send the execute, but noughless of the aperture at th DATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP.—In prompt attention.

abased. Lettere, post paid, from any part of the Kingdoin, will meet with prempt attention.

BY THE KING'S PATENT.

CHANGE of RESIDENCE induces the Patentee to acquaint the Nobility and Gentry, that is consequence of the counterfeits under the same name, he has confined the sale to such respectable houses (only) who ideal to genuine articles. The PATENTY/OLETSOAP having a decided preference, both as a washing and shaving Soap, for its cleaning, beautifying, softening, and behamble preparties on the skin, that it was in consequence of these issest mable qualities His Majesty granted his Letters Patent. It should invariably e saked for as "falls Patent Violet Soap." It is sold in squares at 28. 6d. and it is forwarded to all parts of town or country, warranted to arrive asfe, by addressing a line by post to the Patentee. Observe his name and signature is on the eathle of the wrapper.—J. B. HALL, Na. 28, Hadlow-street, Burtan Crescent, London.

A RTIFICIAL TRETHA on an unprocedented principle.—Mr. 28, Hadlow-street, Burtan Crescent, London.

A RTIFICIAL TRETHA on an unprocedented principle.—Mr. 28, Hadlow-street, Burtan Crescent, system introduced by himself in 1818, which has been found to answer all the purposes of the human Teeth, in maxication, articulation, appearance, &c. and to remain perfectly secure in their place by the pressure of the amosphere; thereby avoiding pluning to stumps tying, twisting wires, or fastening springs to the adjuding Teeth, or any attachment whatever to the remaining Teeth; and consequently, instead in juring, afford them support. These artificial Teeth may be taken out an dreplaced by the wearer with the greatest farility. To those who require whole or halfaste, Mr. Gran and advanced to such pieces.—Mr. 1900 Burting Townshered.

DURGESS's ESSENCE of ANCHOVIES.—Warehouse, 170 pieces which hall answer all the purposes apove-user insure without stor incumbrance of the spira isprings, which are usually attached to such pieces.

— 28.04 Bartington-street.

DURGESS's ESSENCE of ANCHOVIES.—Warehouse, 170 Bitrand, corner, of the Savoy-steps. Lendon,—John Burgers and Soo, being apprized of the name, our medavours made by many persons to impose a spurious article for their make, feel it incumbent upon them to request the attention of the Public, in purchanian what they conceive the tire decipinal, to observe the Name and Address corresponds with the above: the general appearance of the spurious descriptions will decrive the unguapited, and appearance at first sight, "The Gennies," but without any name or address: same "Burgess's Essence of Anchevies;"—others—"Burgess's,"—and many more without Address.

John Burgers and Soo having sheet stany years honoured with earh distinguished, approbation, feel, every sentiment of respect towards the Public, and earnestry solicit them to inspect the Labels previous to their purchasing what they conceive to be of their make, which they ope will prevent many disappaintspants.

BURGESS'S NEW BAUCE for general purposes, having given such great satisfaction, continues to be prepared by them, and is recommended as a most useful and convenient Sauce: will keep good in all climates.

BURGESS'S NEW BAUCE for general purposes, having given such great satisfaction, continues to be prepared by them, and is recommended as a most useful and convenient Sauce: will keep good in all climates.

Por Convelsive Fits, Epileptic Fits, Spasmedic Complaints, &c.

PR. HADLEY's CONVULSION POWDERS.—Patronised and sanctioned by Hery Grace the Duchess of Rutland Right Hon. Lady Amberst.

Bight Hon. Lady Amberst.

Bight Hon. Lady Cayesdish.

Lady Carliarine Walpole

Lady Catharine Walpole

Lady Catharine Walpole

Lady C. Dundas.

Hon. Mrs. Begerton.

Her Grace the Duchess of Ruiland
Right Hon. Lady Amherst.
Right Hon. Lady Liemore.
Right Hon. Lady Liemore.
Right Hon. Lady Cavendish.
Lady Caroline Lamb.
Lady Caroline Lamb.
Of all diseases incidental to the human frame, none are more affecting than Convulsion Fits, Eppleptic Fits, Eppens, &c. The late Dr. Madley, of Derby (the diseoverer of this invaluable medicine) used it in private practicefor upwards of fifty years with the must dattering success in the various complaints, as under, which is proved by incontroverthis faots.
The powerfail writnes of this Foundar in a short time relieves the sufferer and by due perseverance in its application, completely extirpates Convulsion Fits in infants and adults; also Epileptic or Falling Fits; strengthensha must weakly stomach; allays, infammation, and resource the must violent Spasmydic Affactions. It likewise has the bappy effect of cradicating Fits which females are subject to during pregnancy or subsequent acconvenement. This Powder is a grand restorative in all cases of relaxation, debility, and Spanments Augusteets during pregnancy, which familes are subject to during pregnancy, which familes are subject to during pregnancy.

This Powder is a grand restorative in all cases of relaxation, debility, ame weakness, in children and adults; it gradually strengthens the stomach, increases the appetite, promotes significant, and in a phort time restores the patient to prefet health, without consinement or alteration of diet.

Extracts from letteraddressed to Dr. Hadley:—

From the Hon. Mrs. Egerton.

Tatton Park, Sept. 2, 1890, mentioning your intention o

From the Hon. Mrs. Egerton.

Dr. Hadley,
Sir.—Ithis morning received your letter, mentioning your intention o bringing your Couvale-in Rewder iste more general nuclea. I have so very high an optulon of it, from the cases I have seen performed, that I thick your will be doing a public sarvice. I remain, Sir., yours, dec. E EGELTON have tier the Mon. Lady Lismere. Septamber 2, 1820.

This is to certify, that I have used Hadley's Convulsion Powder in my family and many others, and approve of it, efficacy.

From Lady Walpole.—Hillingdon, Uxbridge, Jan. 26, 1819.

Dr. Hadley.—Sir, I shall have great pleasure in detting you to make use of my name when you publish the Convulsion Powder. Its great efficacy in my own family and friends, and to the poor, I have experienced for many years. I am your humble servant,

Sald in bottlessat 6s. 6d. 11s. as 183s. each, by appointment of the Propriet or by Mr. Sangar, Medicine Warr Lines, 1840. Uxford-stree; Messis. Bartlay and Sons, 95. Fleet-market; Issers. Newbery and Sons, 45. St. Paul's Church-yard; Buttou and Co. Bow Church-yard; Butter, 4, Cheapside: Evans, Long-lane, Buitthied Prout, 1981. Strand; Strandling and Nix, Royal Exchange; Johnstone. Corphill: and, by their appointment, by most respectable Medicine Venders in every Town throughout the United Kingdom.—Ask for Hadley a Convulsion Fowder.

THE ARMY.

ulum of the Prices of the Commissions in the Army, and Air terations in the Dil	INCHT OF HOL		A-bas.

Commissions.	Price.	Diff Co	Januen
Cornets	£1,500	100
Lieutenants Captain	3.00
Major Lieutenant-Colonel	5,270 7,230		900
	LIFE GUARDS
Cornet Lieutenant	1,260 1,782 3,500		525
Captain Major	3,300 5,350		,715 ,850
Major Lieutenant-Colonel	7,950		,800
Cornet	840	DRAWOUND	#PO
Lieutenant Captain	3.834		330 ,035
Major Licutenant-Colonel	6.176		350 .690
•	POOT GUARDS		jew
Ensign Lieutenant	1,200 2,050		850
Capt. with rank of Lieut Major, with rank of Color	:Col. 4,800 el 8 .300	· ;	,750 ,500
Lieutenant-Colonel .	9,000 NG RHGIMESTS	•	700
Breign	450	/	Sen
Lieutenant Captain	- 700 1,800		350 100
Major Lieutenant-Colonel	3,200 4,500	!	,400 ,300
IN PUSILE	ER AND RIPLE		_
Second Lieutenant First Lieutenant	. 500 700
DIFFERENCE IN VALUE BE	WEHN YULL AN	D HALF-PAY CO	Infantry.
Lieutenant-Colonel .	1,573 0 0	•	1,514
Major Captain	1,372 0 0	: :	949 511
Lieutenant	632 13 4		367

TO JOHN BULL. SIR-Your correspondent, the subscriber to the late MI PICKERING's monument, is informed, that the said monument is in a state of great forwardness, and would have been erected ere this, had not a long continuance of severe illness prevented the sculptor from fulfilling the contract.

Of the sum subscribed, fifteen pounds were advanced on account, some months back; and the remainder is ready to be paid, immediately on the completion of the committee's design, by your obedient servant, J. H. POPE. 6, Somerset-street, Portman-square.

TO JOHN BULL.

MR. EDITOB—My reason for addressing you is, that the country may know something of the truth (as far as it can be gleaned from the different narrations—for widely different are they in their tale) of the guard of honour to the late Queen, said to be formed from amongst the most independent of the Bucks Yeomany. Now, Sir, living in the neighbourhood where the first and second troops of the First Regiment are resident, (and these troops only were present), I can vouch for the following facts, if the parties are to be believed.

After the dismissal of the regiment by SIR W. CLAYTON on the evening of the Coronation, these troops were proceeding to their quarters, when a carriage drove rapidly past them, and some persons cried out, "the Queen!—the Queen!—About twenty (not more) prest eagerly on to get a sight of the great Lady, but, being disappointed, reined in, and went quietly to their quarters, with the exception of about six, who determined to follow the carriage to Brandenburgh-house, which, according to their own account, they did. Here the matter would have rested, but for the Editor of the provincial paper, who must needs tell the world to what high honours the Queen had arrived; and, in a paragraph evidently meant to convey more than was expressed, the public were informed of the event.

The parties implicated had refused to acknowledge their participation in the act, when challenged by their Colonel, which induced him to contradict the statement, and brought about a recrimination.

Now, I hope, through the medium of your invaluable paper, to let the Editor, the Colonel, and the public know the situations which these independent yeomen hold in life, and what claim they have to be so styled. Four of them I personally know: -one is a journeyman taylor, one a jour neyman collar-maker, one a labourer! and the fourth, the only one who can in any way claim the appellation of yeoman, is a respectable farmer's son, who has since tendered in his resignation—I suppose, unwilling to meet his brother soldiers, whom he had by his thoughtless conduct so much

Every one of their comrades that I have conversed with on the subject agree in condemning their behaviour, not only for the act itself, which, from their general character, they were not surprised at, but for their meanness in deny ing it while they were embodied, and in making it their boart when they were dismissed.

I have no doubt that a proper mark of the feeling of the regiment awaits them, should they have the effrontery to meet it when it is next assembled; and certain it is that, unless some signal mark of disgrace is set on them, many of the real yeomen of the regiment will shew their proper sense of feeling, by refusing to serve in the same corps with them.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant, and constant Amersham, Oct. 31, 1821.

Henry Palmer and Josiah Park, charged with a fraud and conspiracy, have been admitted to bail by the Court of King's Bench, to which court they had removed the indictment by certiorari. The bills and securities obtained from the gentleman who presented them, amounted it appears to £3,000, and the Chief Justice restrained the parties from using their bills. It really would be a public benefit if more of these sort of transactions were exposed to view. Young men of fashion and fortune are too often the dupes of money lenders and their vicious agents.

view. Young men of fashion and fortune are too often the dupes of money lenders, and their vicious agents.

On Thursday morning, between six and seven o'clock,, a free broke out in the premises of Mr. George Hope, corn merchand, at the bottom of Old Gravel-lane, Wapping. The flames communicated to the granary, the whole of which soon became one general body of fire: it continued to burn until about nine o'clock, when the roofs fell in with a tremendous crash. The houses of Messrs. Lloyd and Lyons, in the rear, were materially damaged.

Marlborousi-Straber.—Frederick Marriott was charged by the proprietors of Hatchett's Hotel, Piccadilly, with forging a check for the sum of &5, on Messrs. Smith, Payne, and Smith, bankers.—He was remanded till Wednesday.

LYMPIC TENERS, New York of Strand, To-MOR-ROW, November and 1821, an 2011 100 to be Spoken by Mr. Oxberry. After which, PhDEO LDBG; or figure he is Arale !- Don Gusman de Pachengrille, J. Baber (from the Treater Royal Brietol) -- Don Rambres de Fouriss - Italia fiet from the Itapan de Joseph Company of the Theory of the Th with align Courter Tombiling, Ministructure, The or the Ministry the wonderful strength and the street the quadratic Medical Street that the street of the s

No. 17, Ludgate-street, three doors from St. Paul's.

DURTON ALE and BOTTLED STOUT.—FEATHERS

TAVBRN, Hand-court, Holbern, nearly opposite Great Turnstile.—

J. MILBS, Son-in-law to the late Mr. John Goodman, for thirty years proprietor of the abeve mentioned House, begs to acquaint his Friends and the Public, that he has now on 8ALE some of the most approved BURTON.

ALB, and in the highest possible perfection, it being brewed by the same brewer who served his Father. Quart bottles, 14s. per dozen; and Pints 7s. per dozen. The Bottled Stour is particularly rine, and in high condition—

N.B. For the information of Gentlemen of the inns of Courts, &c. J. M. begs to acquaint them that hot J. Ints as usual are ready every quarter of an beur, between the hours of four and seven, likewise every other delicacy the seasons afford, including Soups, &c.—Privat; Rooms for Parties.

TERICE & GOSNELL's MACASSAR OIL contempined by his

BRICE & GOSNELL'S MACASSAR OIL, patronised by his Majesty and the Royal Family, gives arrough and a beautiful glossy appearance to the Hair; imparts to it the most delightful perfame, and prevents its falling off or turning grey to extreme oid age. It all dressed with this celebrated Oil so corridge soft, early, bright, and luxuriant in its growth; and hair that has been injured, made hash, and turning grey, will be restored, by a few applications, to its natural colour, brilliancy, and beauty.—Sold by the sole Broprietors, and only Importers, PRICE and GONNELL, Pertunerate Min Aligesty, No. 12. Three Kings-court, Lombard-street, Lombon, in bottles at 3s. 6d.; 19s. 6d.; and 2]s. such, bearing their signature on the label in red. isla.

CALTHON.—Messrs. PRICE and GOSNBLL beg to cantion the Nobility and tientry against a spurious. Macassar Oil, injurious to the hair, imposed upon the spuilte by hair-dressets (raisers styling themselves importers) who are equally incompetent to ascertain the danger of what they exist, as they are to discover what might be useful.—Ask for Price and Gosnell's Macassar Oil.

RICH WHEEL:—ALL MONEY PRIZES!

CARROLL, the Contractor, begs leave state, that although 6,500 Tickets were drawn the first day, the following rich Wheel remains for the second day, 20th NOVEMBER, when the first-drawn Prize will receive £30,000:—Two Prizes of £30,000, Three of £5,000, Two of £3,000, Two of £1,000, and Four of £500; hesides others of £30,000, £200, &c. &c. and not Two Blanks to a Prize.

ET Tickets and Shares, warranted undrawn are on Sale at CARROLL'S truly fortunate Offices, No. 13, Cornhill, and 26, Oxford-street.

COSMORAMA.—NECOND EXHIBITION.

VIEW of the FUNERAL of BUONAPARTE; Ditto of the Island of St. Helens, from the Ocean; the exterior of the Pantheon, at Rome, by moonlight; Interior view of the same; exterior view of St. Peter; interior view of divic; the Gallery of Raphael in the Vatican; the Valley of Grindewald, and the Glaciers, in Switzerland.—Open from eleven in the forenoon till nine at night, 23, St. James extrest.—Admittance, is.

DIAL WRIGHING MACHINES. MARRIOTT having obtained His Mingesty's Royal Letters Patent, for an inversable improvement in Whitehing MACHINES.

begy cave to recommend them to the Public, as the most perfect and useful article for that purpose ever constructed; for accuracy, simplicity expedition, and portability, it stands unrivalled, as it instantaneously shews the exact weightof any article, from One Ounce to a Ton, without the use of Warner. Weights, thereby sav-ing time and labour. Being perfectly

tion—its universal utility must therefore be undentable for Domestic purposes; in thops, Warehouses, Coach Offices, Market Houses, Barns, on Whatfs, at Races and Fairs, for Cattle, Corn, Hay, &c. or for loading heavy Articles; it may be attached to the chain of a Crane, and shew the weight at the time of craning; it is also peculiarly well adapted for the Foreign Markets. From its extreme simplicity, it is accracity possible to be inaccurate; yet if it ever should be so, there is an adjusting Screw, which will momentarily correct it.

correct it.

H. MARRIOTT having also made considerable improvements in his PATENT KITCHEN COOKING APPARATUS, feels a confidence in recommending it to the Public, as a most complete Article for Roasting Baking, Boiling, and Steaming, with economy in fuel, by one moderate-pixed Pite, and with a constant supply of from Twelve to Twenty Gallons of Het Water; also Warm Closets for airing Linen, keeping Dlaner bot, heating Plates, Dishes, &c.; the Cooking Utensils are never solled, and it is a positive Cure for a Smokey Chimney. Kitchens fitted up with Steam Apparatus, embracing all the late improvements: also Baths, Conservatories, Haks, Smircases, and Buildings, heated by Steam, upon a principle of perfect security, and equal diffusion of heat.—An improved Patent Spring Reasting Jack, to obviate the necessity of weights or publis.—The whole may be seen daily in use at the Patentee's Manufactery, 64, Fleet-street, London; or had of meet of the respectable frommongers throughout Kingland. N. B. Smokey Chimnics cared on pallessphinal principles.

Vienda, Dec. 29, 1814
To Mesers. Rowland and Son, Kirby-street, Hatton-garden, London Gentlemen,—In consequence of the good effects of your Macanar University in command from his Imperial Majesty the Emperod all the Russithat you will, without delay, send the sum of ten guiceas-worth to the Eperor of Russia. St. Petereburgh, and receive the amount of the same in his Excellency Count de Lieveu, his Majesty's Ambassador at the Great Britain.

The above Letters may be seen at the Proprietors.

A. ROW LAND and SON respectfully caution the Public against was a constant of the control of the control

VERY SUPERIOR OLD PORT, of the favourite Vintage 1912; TO BE SOLD, about ONE HUNDRED and FIFTY DOZEMS that has been six years in bottle; is well worth the attention of any Let or Gentleman commencing house-keeping; in Lots of not less than The Dozen.—Apply at No. 7, Blenheim-street, New Bond street.

LONDON MARKHAS

There has been a fair supply of Wheat this week, since Monday has been very dull, and that day's as supported. Barley also meets a dull sale, and the qualities are full ls. per quarter cheaper. Heanify value, but Pease of both sorts are rather lower of the day trade is dull, though not cheaper for model of the raticles there is no variation to negice.

other articles there is no	variation	n to potice.
RETURN PRICE	of GRA	N. on board Shin, sand
Fuser Red Wheat (new)	404. 480.	The state of the s
Pine	4 Rd. 46H.	White dille and a real Print
Old	60s. 66s.	Boilers
Hasex W hite (new)	40a. 56s.	Small Booms Lot Files
Fine	58s. 604.	Small Boans Ler Fill
Superine	620. 64a.	Tik Benn (new)
Old	.70s. 76s.	Old
Rye	.25s. 3ls.	Food Outs
Barley	92s. 24s.	Fine
Fine	.26s. 27s.	Poland ditte
Superthe
Malt	63s. 68s.	Petalos ditto
Fine	.70a. 79a.	Petaloe ditto.
Hog Peuce	.274. 284.	The state of the s

THE GENERAL AVERAGE PRICES of BRITISH CORN, so re-weekly from the Inspectors in the Maridam Cities and Towns in Engiand Wales, according to the Gazette of the 20th of October, calculated ORNERAL AVERAGE WHICH GOVERNS IMPORTATION Wheat, 50s 4d—Barley, 31s 2d—Onts, 20s 5d—Ryc, 2ts 10d—Beans, 32s 2d Pense, 32s 2d.

PRICES OF GO	ILD AND SILVER.
∡€ s. d.	1	£ 1. 6 1.
Portugaltiold,inCoip 0 9 0 p. oz	. New Dollars	4 54 2.0
Poreign Gold in Bars 3 17 101	Burer in Burs Stan	d 0 4 11 -
New Doubloous 0 0		• • • +
COURSE OF BXCI	LANGE PRIDAY, NO	v. 2.
Ameterdam 12 14 C.F	.   Trieste	Bes. S
Ditto at Sight 12 11		Cadia,
Rotterdam 12 15	Bilbon354	Barcelona .
Antwerp 12 7	Seville35	Gibraltar 3
Hamburgh 37 10	Legbera47	Genoa
Altona 37 11	Venice 27 60	Malta 6
Paris, 3 days Sight 25 60	Naples394	Palermo!!
Ditto 25	Lisbon 50	Operto
17100	17130011	O DOLLAR

Ditto	Rio Janeiro  Rio Janeiro  Bahia  Dublin  Cork
STOCKS   Mos.   T	PUBLIC FUNDS, 1002. Fed. Thur. 175 566 1774 776 1774 776 1774 776 1774 7774 7774 77

On the 28th ult. the Lady of the Rev. Wm. Moreton,

On Tuesday, in St. James's square, Lady Grantham, of a state of the square of the squa Lady Cranbourne of a son.

MARRIAGES.

On Wednesday last, at St. George's, Bloomsbury, by the Rev. Thomas Gronow, of Court Herbert, Glamorganshire, to Mary Medicat daughter of the late Dr. J. Miers Letteom, and grand-daughter of the late Wm. Nanson, Eq. of Russell-square.
Tuesday, at St. James's Church, Sir Wm. Johns'one Hope, M.P. seed the Lords of the Admiralty, to the Right Hon. Maria, Countess of Athlans. On the 30th ult. at Harlaw, Liest. Col. Johnson, of the Stit Regt. to Level Julia, second daughter of Wm. Sima, Esq. of Hubert's Hall, Essex.
On the 30th ult. at St. Mary's Church, Dover, James Walker, Esq. to Herietta, eldest daughter of the late Major J. M. Grant, of the Barrack Department.

ment.
At Edinburgh, Capt. Thornton, H.P. 78th Regiment, to Helen, daughters the late John Smull, Esq. of Overmains, Berwickshire.

DIED.
On Wednesday, at Dunbar Ca-tle, the Counters of Lauderday; at Dunbar Ca-tle, the Counters of Lauderday; and the Counte

On Wednesday, at Dunbar Ca-tle, the Countees of Landerday, at Dunbar Ca-tle, the Countees of Landerday, the was occasioned by a spark catching her muslim dress, in consequence of which her Ladyship expired in half an hour in great agony. At Guyerat, on the 20th May last, Lieut. Charles Bassets Raban, of the 26 Regt. Native Infantry, Bomi ay, and interpreter in Mahratta. At Bridge-road, Lambeth, Sophia, wife of David Allan, Esq. Dep. Commissary-General to His Majesty's forces. At Beliast, Major Andrew Patison, of the 6th Royal Veteran Battalion. and late of the 39th Regt. of foot.

On the 18th uit, at Sens, in France, Frances Klizabeth, youngest daughter of the Rev. Sir A. Elton, Bart. of Clevedua Court, aged 26.

In the 82d year a her age, Mary, the wife of John Martin Leake, Eng. of Woodside, Old Window?.

At Ormly, Catthness, Capt. D Sinclair, late of the 30th Regt. of foot.

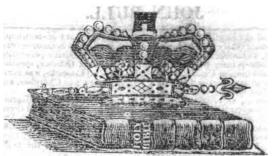

At Croom's hill, Blackheath, on Wednesday morning, Mrs. Campbell, the wife of Colonel Campbell.

At Croom's-hill, Blackurife of Colonel Campbell.

LONDON: Printed and Published by R. T. WEAVER, at No. 11, JOHNSON'S COURT, PLEST-STREET, where only Communications to the liftier, (post paid) are received.

Digitized by Google

JOHN

" FOR GOD, THE KING, AND THE PEOPLE!"

No. 48.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1821.

Price 7d.

SCOTTISH RONDOS, for the PIANO FORTE, by J. F. BURROWES. No. 1, price is. 6d.; Goulding and Co. 20, Solio-square BURROWES. No. 1, price is. 6d.; Goulding and Co. 20, Solio-square.

NEW MUSIC FOR THE PIANO FORTE.

IS MAJESTY'S WELCOME HOME, a First Set of naw.

Quadrilles, in which are introduced the celebrated La Gogue and La Gavotine; also King George the Fourth's lianoverian Valce, as danced at the Foreign Courts, selected and arranged, with proper figures, by Oswald Johnstone, price 4s. Le Tour de Hanover, Ronde a la Valce, compased by J. W. Holder, Mus. Bac. Oxon, price 3s. Operatic Air, No. 10, "My native Highland Home;" Air by Bishop, arranged by J. W. Holder, price 3s. Fourth Fantasic by F. Ries on the Air, "And has she theu failed in her truth, price 4s. "The Emerald fale," Irish Air, as a Rondo, by ditto, price 3s.

"Britens, strike home!" Introduction and Variations by J. P. Burrowes, price 3s.—Pablished by Goulding, D'Almaine and Co. No. 20, Soho-square.

TEW MUSIC.—KIALLMARK'S universally-admired Variations on the favourite Air, "Cease your Punning," adapted for two performers on the Piano Foite, by D. Bruguier, price 3s.—The celebrated German Air," Miss Sherrard's Recreation," so such admired as a Piano Forte Leeson, arranged as a Duett for the Harp and Piano Forte, by the Author. John Paddou, price 5s.—Latour's favourite "Le Retour de Windsor," arranged as a Duet for two Performers on the Piano Forte, by D. Bruguier, price 3s.—The popular Hungarian Air, arranged with interesting Variations, for two Performers on the Piano Forte, by J. Jay, M.D. price 3s.—Boleidieuse favourite "Du Califo de Bagdad," arranged as a Duet for two Performers on the Piano Forte, by T. Goodban, price 4s.—The above Duetts are particularly recommended to the notice of the Musical World, being arranged by the first Masters of the present age.—London: Published by May bew and Co. Music Bellers to her Royal Mighness the Duchess of Kent, 17, Old Bond-atreet, where may be obtained every New Musical Publication.

NEW MUSIC.

Just published by CLEMENTI and Co. 26, Cheapside; a Second Edition of ORENZO TO JESSICA. An Original English Air, now a singing with unbounded applanse, by Mrs. Salmon; the (words from a Scene in the Merchant of Venice), by W. F. Collard; the Symphonies and Accompaniments by J. C. Cliften. Price 2s.

TWELVE MONFERRINAS, for the Piano Forte, composed by Muzic TWELVE MONFERRINAN, for the Figure Force, composed by studio Clementi, Op. 49. Price 5s.

The agreeable and familiar style of these little pieces, will be found acceptable to all classes of performers.

THREE SONATAN, composed for the Plano Force, and dedicated to L. Cherubini, by M. Clementi, Op. 50.

Price 10s. 6d.

EW MUSIC.—The WITCH of DERNCLEUGH, a Musical Drama, as performed with unbounded applause at the English Opera House, composed and arranged by Mr. Reeve; the Overture, 2a. 'When the Youth kneeling,' is, 6d. 'Though twined around my Heart, Dear,' is, 6d. 'Though twined around my Heart, Dear,' is, 6d. 'It is the Hour,' is, 6d. 'At early Blush of Morning Bright,' is, 6d. 'At early Blush of Morning Bright,' is, 6d. -Published by G. Walker, at his Piano Forte Répository, 17, Soho-square, and 64, Burlington Arcade; where may be had, an extensive variety of Music, at half price. Plano Fortes, new and second-hand, at very reduced prices, for ready money only. A six Octave Cabinet, Forty Gulneas, not to be equalled wider Fifty-five.

equated snoer Fifty-five.

TOREIGN McCSHC.—T. BOOSEY and Co. Importers of Foreign Maple, 28, Helles-street, Oxford-street, respectfully inform the Nobl ity and Public, that they have just published (gratie) a CATALOGUE of CHOICE COMPOSITIONS of the most admired FOREIGN COMPOSITIONS of the most admired FOREIGN COMPOSITIONS of the most admired FOREIGN. Composition of Hecthoven, Hummel, Moscheles, Steibelt, &c. for the Plane Forter; and of Berbiguier. (darletgkey, and Romberg, for the Figure. This Catalogue also contains all the Operas of Mozart, Rossini, &c. arranged for the Plane and Voice, the Foreign correct, elegant, and chang. McLions.

This day is published, in 3 vols. 8vo. 38s. a Third Edition.

IFE of the Right Hon. WILLIAM PITT. By GEORGE TOM LINE, D.D. Lord Bishop of Winchester.

Printed for John Murray, Albemarlesizeet.

COVENT-GARDEN and DRURY-LINE THEATRES.—
To be LET by the NIGHT, a LARGE PRIVATE BOX at CoventGarden Theatre, situated on the tier over the Dress Circle, towards the sentre of the House, most comfortably fitted up with an anti-room, fire, &c.
and every way calculated for a large Party of Dirtinction—Also other Boxes, well situated, and excellent Boxes for seeing the whole of the Coronation at Drury-lane. Free Admissions for the Season for both Houses—Apply at J. Andrews's New Circulating Library, 167, New Bord-street, near Grafton-street.

If the YOUNG MAN who went from his Father's house on Monday, the 15th inst. leaving on a Slate the words "I AM QUITE SAPE," will either return, or immediately send his address by 10st, her will be treated with the kindest indulgence. The young man will hasten to accept this invitation, if he can imagine the anguish which his continued absence occasions to his PARENTS, who are willing to forgive whatever may require forgiveness. Hitherto the utmost secresy has been observed, but this cannot be continued unless he returns.

DRIVATE TUTTION.—A Clergyman, for many years accustomed to the Tuition of a few PRIVATE PUPILS, would be glad to fill up a VACANCY with the son of a Gentleman whose health or education may require more than usual attention. Terms, 175 Guineas per annum. Distance from London ten miles.—Letters to be addressed to Rev. B. L. Mr. Reynolds, Bookseller, 137, Oxford-street, London.

A RESPECTABLE WIDOW LADY is desirous to accommodate TWO SINGLE GENTLEMEN with FURNISHED APART. MENTS, in an airy and pleasant situation, upon moderate terms, in the New road, at No. 2, Claremont-place, Pentenville.—References will be given and require 1.

NEMONICS.—MR. JAMES ACLAND, Professor of the Science of Muemonics, having invented a new and practical system, tending materially to facilitate the Studies of History. Chronology, Geography, Statistics, &c. will be happy to give Private Tuition. For Terms, &c. apply by Letter (post paid) to Mr. Acland, care of Messra, Harris and Son, St. Paul's Church-yard.

Just published, in 3 vols. 8vo. illustrated with numerous Plates and Maps.

Passage, undertaken in the Years 1815, 16, 17, and 19, at the Expence of Illis Highness the Chaucellor of the Empire, Count Romanzoff, in the Ship Rurie, under the command of the Lieutenant in the Russian Imperial Navy, OTTO VON KOTZEBUE.

Printed for Longman Hurst Pass Come and P.

VON KOTZEBUE.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London.
These volumes offer to the navigator, the geographer, the natural philosopher, and the moralist, much interesting information on the wonderint conformation of the Coral Islands, the explering of Behring's Straits, the undoubted Discovery of a large Sound, and several new groups of Islands; and an account of the Voyayers' intercourse with the inhabitants of the countries visited, who appear to be the most amiable of all the people hitherto met with in the South Sea.

The papers of M. Chamisso, the Naturalist of the Expedition, present a vast accession of information relative to the Geography and Natural History of the Great Ocean.

SPANISH AMERICA.

Just published, in 2 vols. 870. price 11. is. boards.

Just published, in 2 vols. 870. price 11. is. boards.

PANISH AMERICA; or, a Descriptive, Historical, and Geographical Account of the Pominions of Spain, in the Western Hemisphere, Continental and Insular; illustrated by a Map of Spanish North America and the West India Islands; a Map of Spanish South America, and an Engraving, representing the comparative Altitudes of the Mountains in those Regions.—By R. H. GONS YCASTLE, Captain in the Corps of Rayal Engineers.

Printed for I obscasa, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London.

Just published, in I vol. 8vo. with Maps and Plates, price 18s. boards, VOYAGE to AFRICA, including a particular Narrative of an Embassy to one of the Interior Kingdons, in the year 1820.—By WILLIAM HUTTON, late Acting Consul for Ashantee, and an Officer in the African Company's Service.
Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London.

Just published, in 12mo: price 4s. in sheep,

REEK TERMINATIONS (including the Dialects and Poetic Licences) alphabetically alreaged, and grammatically explained, on the Plan of the "Latin Terminations, or Clue for young Latinista."

By JOHN CAREY, Li.D. Classical French and English Teacher, &c.
Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London; of whom may be had, by the same Author,

LATIN TERMINATIONS made Hasy; or, a Clue for Young Latinists and Non-Latinists to trace the original form and signification of Noune and Verbs, from their Terminations, alphabetically arranged, with explanatory References to the Grammar. A new Edition, in 12mo. price 2s.

S. SCANNING EXBRCISES, for Young Prosodians, 4s. bound.

LATIN PROSODY made Easy, price 7s. 6d. bound.

CLAVIS METRICO-VIRGILIANA, price 1s. 6d. bound.

The FTON LATIN PROSODY illustrated, 1s. 6d. bound.

ALPHABETICAL KEY to "Propris Que Maribus," 3s.

SRRLETON of the LATIN ACCIDENCE, 1s.

DR. WARDLAWS LETTURES.

DR. WARDLAW'S LETTURES.

Just published, in 2 vots. Sto. price 18s. boards,

ECTURES ON THE BOOK OF ECCLESIASTES.—By

RALPH WARDLAW, D.D. of Glasgow.

Frinted for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, Lendon; of whom may be had, by the same Author,

2. DISCOURSES on the PRINCIPAL POINTS of the SOCINIAN CONTROVERSY, in 8vo. the 3d Edit. 12s.

3. UNITARIANISM INCAPABLE of VINDICATION; a Reply to the
Rev. James Yates's Vindication of Unitarianism, in 8vo. 10s. 6d. boards.

Mev. James Vates s Vindica lon of Unitarianism, in 8vo. 10x. 8d. hoards.

M'ADAM ON MARING ROADS.

Just published, in 8vo. price 5s. 6d. bdv. the Fourth Edition, with considerable additions,
additions,
EMARKS on the PRESENT SYSTEM of ROAD MAKING;
with Observations deduced from practice and experience, with a tiew to the revision of the existing Laws, and the introduction of improvement in the method of making, repairing, and preserving Roads, and defending the Road fund from misapplication.—By JOHN LOUDON MADAM, Esq. General Surveyor of the Roads in the Bristol District.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London.

Printed for Longman, Huret, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London.

DR. BATEMAN'S MEDICAL WORKS.

Just published, in 1 vol. 4to..getth upwards of 70 commerced Plates, price 121, 18s. hounds, DELINEATIONS of the CUTANEOUS DISEASES, comprised in the Classification of the late Dr. William; including the greater part of the Engravings of that Author, in an improved state, and completing the Series as intended to have been finished by him.—By T. BATEMAN, M.D. P.L.S. Physician to the Public Dispensary and to the London House of Recovery.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orne, and Brown, London.

The Series of new Engravings, representing those Diseases which should have been figured in the subsequent Parts of Dr. Willam's unfinished Work, may be had by the possessors of that work, apparate, price 71, boards.

2. A PRACTICAL SYNOPSIS of CUTANEOUS DISEASES, according to the arrangement of Dr. Willam, exhibiting a consise view of the diagnostic symptoms, and the method of treatment. The Fifth Edition, price 12s. 8vo. bis. with a Plate of the Eight Orders, beautifully coloured.

3. A SUCCINCT ACCOUNT of the TYPHUS or CONTAGIOUS FEVER Of this Country, with the appropriate method of treatment, as practiced the House of Recovery. To which are added, Observations on the Nature and Properties of Contagion, tending to correct the popular Notions of this Subject, and pointing out the means of prevention. Second Edition, price 6s. 8vo. boards.

Just published, in royal 8vo. illustrated with Plates, Put Second, price 15s.

Just published, in royal 8vo. illustrated with Plates, Put Second, price 15s.

Just published, in royal 8ro. illustrated with Plates, Part Second, price 15s.

O BSERV ATIONS on those DISEASES of FEMALES, which are attended by Discharges.—by CHARLES MANSFIELD CHARKE, Member of the Royal College of Surgeons; and Lecturer on Midwifery in London.

Recently published, a New Edition of Part I. of the above Work—OR Microus Discharges.—In royal 8vo with Plates, H. 1s. boards.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London.

Printed for Longman, Horst, Bees, Orne, and Brown, Loadon.

MAWE'S TRAVELS IN BRAZIL.

Second Edition, Edustrated with coloured Plates and a Map, 8vo. 18s. bds.

TRAVELS in the INTERIOR of BRAZIL; with Notices on its Climate, Natural Production, Agriculture, Commerce, Population, Manners, and Coronas and a particular Account of the Gold and Diamond Districts, Including a Voyage to the Rio de ta Plate.—By JOHN MAWE, Mineralogist.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orne, and Brown, Paternoster row; and the Author, 149, Strand, London; of whom may be bad, by the same Author.

2. LESSONS on MINERALOGY, Third Edition, 7s, boards.

3. DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE of MINERALS, Fourth Edit, 7s. bds.

4. The SHELL COLLECTOR'S PILOT, coloured plates, 5s. bds.

5. WODARCH'S ELEMEN'TS of CONCHOLOGY, with plates, 7s. plain 12s. coloured.

Just published, in 2 vols. 8vo. the Second Edits.

Just published, in 2 vols. 8vo. the Second Edition, with Six Portrairs, price II. 8s. boards.

M. RMOIRS of the PROTECTOR, OLIVER CROMWELL, with Original Letters, and other Family Papers.—By the late OLIVER CROMWELL, Esq. a Descendant of the Family.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees. Orme, and Brown, London.

"We must take our leave of the present Author, thanking him for the valuable addition which he has made to our historical liverature."—Monthly Review.

Review.

HISTORY OF THE REBELLION in 1745 and 1746.

Just published, Second Edition, 8vo. with Portraits of both the Pretenders, from Original Pietners, price 15s. boards.

MEMOIRS of the REBELLION in 1745 and 1746.—By the CHEVALIER de JOHNSTONE, Aid-de-Camp to Lord George Murray, General of the Rebel Army.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, Londer.

The Memoirs now presented to the public were port together by an eye-witness of all the transactions duting Charles Edward's expedition. The writer of them is an open, brave, frank, and impetenous soldier, who gives a plain narrative of events. "—British Critic, Feb. 1821.

"These Memoirs have fortunately fallen into the hand of an able Translater and Editor."—Eciectic, March, 1821.

"These Memoirs possess all the interest of a remanes, and exhibit traits of the character and feelings of the times."—British Review, No. 33.

of the character and feelings of the times."—British Review, No. 23.

Published by Longman and Co. Paternoster row, price 4s. 6d.

ASES ILLUSTRATIVE, of the TREATMENT of STRIC—TURES in the URKTHRA, &... by the BILATOR; with minute directions for its use. Also, a Case of the Extraction of Stone from the Male Bladder by it; Observations on the Nolution of Stone, by a new mode of the jection, and on Lithotomy.—By JAMES ARNOTT, formerly Surgeon in the Hou. Bast India Company's Septises.

"These measures, in truth, present such improvements in the curé of Strictures in the Urghra, and other membraness casals, as leave little doubt in our minds of their forming a newera in their treatment."—"In our own practice, we have succeeded in permanently dilating and curing thread Strictures by two ai-plications of the Dilator, and by passing a No. 13 Bougie a few times after."—Institute Medical and Physical Journal, No. 259.

"The Dilator is one of the most useful, as well as ingenious instruments, that have of late been devised by the Industry of Surgeons."—Medical Intelligencer for April, 1821.

same Author, A TREATISE on STRICTURE of the

Also, by the same Author, a URBTHRA, 4 plates, price 7s. "We are of opinion that this is by far the best systematic Work on the subject in the Buglish Language."—Quarterly Modice-Chirurgical Review, Vo. 8, 1919.

Just published, in royal 8vo. price 65. boards,
SIR HERAUD of ARDEN. A Tale.
Multoe Castra Juvant.—Horat.
Printed for G. and W. B. Whittaker, Ave Maria-lane.

Printed for G. and W. B. Whittaker, Ave Maria-lane.

COMPANION TO THE SCRIPTURES.

Just published, in 4 vols. Soo. revised, corrected, and enlarged, the Scoond Edition, price 21. 2s.

BSERVATIONS, CRITICAL, EXPLANATORY, and PRACTICAL, on the CANONICAL SCRIPTURES.—By MARY CORNWALLIS, of Wittersham, Kent.

London: Published by Haidwin, Cradock, and Joy, Palernoster-row.

This work is intended to supply a centined Commentary upon the Old and New Testaments, and to asfat in the perusal of the Sacred Volume, to which it will be found a judicious and pleasing companion. It explains to the unlearned Reader the Oriental Customs, of which, from the continual allusions to them, some knowledge is necessary to compepteend the meaning and purport of the text; and will therefore be found peculiarly useful to families, and those who have not the leisure or the opportunities of investigating such particulars by their own labour.

BOOKS published by JAMES CAWTHORN Cockening street.

BOOKS published by JAMES CAWTHORN, Cockspur-street.

JOURNEY through ALBANIA and other PROVINCES of TURKEY in BUROPB and ASIA, illustrated by Views of Athens, Constantinople, and various other Plates, Majus, &c.—By J. C. HOBHOUSB, Seq. M.P. Second Edition, 2 vois. 4to. 5i. 5s. bearis.

— the work itself will have a standard place in all collections of voyages and fravels; a place which it will fally merit by the industry and ardour of research conspicuous throughout, as well as by the spirit, vivacity, and good sense of the general narrative."—Quarterly Review, No. 19.

2. WRIGHT'S POEMS; containing "Horm Ionicm," and other Poems. Third Edition, 7s. 6d. boards.

"Mr. Wright, late Consul General for the Seven Islands, is author of a very beautiful poem, just published; it is entitled "Horm Ionicm," and is descriptive of the Isles and the adjacent coast of Greece."—Lord Byron's English Bards.

Just published, in one vol. royal 8vo. price 10s.

TAR TABLES for the YEAR 1822, for more readily ascertaining the Latitude and Longitude at Sea during the Night; containing, viz.:—The apparent time of the Trausils or Passaze over the Meridian of 61 of the principal fixed Stars, including the North Pole Star, to be taken out at sight for every day of the year, without reference to any other Book: also the Meridianal Aitfudes of these Stars in every degree of Latitude from 60 North to 60 South inclusive; and in the parallel of cortain frequented situations with the Bearings and Aitfudes of the other Stars that are above the horizon at the same time.—Also, the Horary Angles, in apparent time, of six of the Stars, to facilitate the operation of finding the Longitude by the North Pole Star for every Minute of the night by the most simple operation.—To which is added, as an Appendix, the Equation of Time and the Sun's Declination for 1822; and a description of a Temporary Rudder that may be made in a few hours, and applied to any kind of vessel whatever, with a sopper plate Engraving thereof.—By THOMAS LYNN, in the service of the Hon. East India Company. Alsophy the same Author, price 10s.

2. SOLAR TABLES, belug the Logarithmic versed-sines of time, reduced to Degrees, commonly called Log. Bising, calculated to geery second of time, and thereby facilitating the operation of finding the Latitude by double Aitfudes of the Nam or Stars, and the Lengitude by Chronometer.

Printed for the Author, and sold by Black, Kingsbury, Parbury, and Allen, Leadenhall-streef.

Just published, by W. Sams, Bookseller to his Royal Highness the Duke of

Just published, by W. Sams, Bookseller to his Royal Highness the Duke of York, St. James's-street,
THE LETTERS of JULIUS, Vol. 1, price 76. 6d.: where niny be had.

2. EXPEDIENCE: a Sattre.—By JULIUS. Book Caprice 5s.
The Second Volume of the Letters is in the Press.

The Second Volume of the Letters is in the Press.

VILLIAM SAMS, Bookseller to His Royal Highness the Duke of York, most respectfully submits to the Nobility and Gentry, the following TERMS of SUBSCRIPTION to his CIRCL'LATING LIBRARY, No. 1, St. James's-street, opposite the Palace: -Subscribers paying 51.5s, the year; 31.3s, the half-year; or 11.16s, per quarter, are allowed 12 volumes in town, or 24 in the country, and are entitled to newest-and most expensive works in the library. Subscribers paying 41.4s, the year; 21.12s 6.1, the half-year; or 11.11s.6d, per quarter, are entitled to eight volumes in town, or 16 in the country, sucluding new publications in the 8vo. or duodecimo sizes. Subscribers paying 31.3s, the year; 21.2s, the half-year; or 11.1s per quarter, are allowed six volumes in town, or 12 in the country, but green tentified to the immediate perusal of new works. —Families staying in town for a few days, can be accommodated with the perusal of wo ke by leaving a deposit of the value of the books. —N. B. Ne catra Class.

Just published, in folio, price, bound in calf with Maps, 81. 86, bound without Alaps, 61. 68. a New Editio: of LAHU'S CHRONOLOGY, or HISTORY of the WORLLY from the Creation to the end of the Year of our Lord, 1814. - The two last sheets, containing the most remarkable events of the last 14 years, may be had with the new Index separately.

Printed for John Maynard, Panton-street, Haymarket, and Joseph Parker, Oxford.

Oxford.

AGAZINE OF NOVELTIES.—A. SHEARS and Co. BedLiporters of Irish Poplina. Tabbinetts and Velours, in the most exquisite splendour of Modern Colours, appropriated for Morning and Breising Dresses. Curlous and superb Seals Down Cloth, much admired for its elegance, warmth, and texture, to be had solvely of A. S. and Co. introducers of the grandest selection of French and Norwich Cachemeres, Prunetta and Angola Crapes, Satin Cloths, Satin Partoons, Paris and Peravian Plaids, French Levantines, Crape Chinners, Genoa and British Velvets, Ladies beautiful Habit and Dress Clothe; also, the most choice and magnificent Designs in Edinburgh, Norwich, Seal skin and Braganza Shawis, from 2 to 20 Guineas each.

LAST NIGHT'S GAZETTE.

WHITEHALL, Nov. 8.—The King landed this morning about nine o'clock at Ramsgate, and arrived at Cariton-House this afternoon second after six, in perfect health.

*Commissions signed by the Vice-Lieutenant of the North Riding of the County of York.

J. Morley, Esq. to be Dep. Lieut.—E. Turton, Esq. to be ditto. Dated 12th Mac. 1821.

BACK, 1921.

Richtmond Furester Yeomanry Cavalry.—J. D. Tweely, Gent. to be Cornet.

Dated 2d June, 1821.

HARVEY, C. S. Newcastle-upon-Tyne, brush-manufacturer.

BANKRUPTCY SUPERSEDED.

HARVEY C. S. Newcastle-upon-Tyne, brush-manufacturer.

BANKRUPTS.

FORBES, J. and NASH, H. Oxford-street, chemists and druggists, HALL, T. Bagle-street, Red Lion-square, esach-maker.

RAWLINGS, J. and EVANS, J. Lelcester-squaref tailors.

ANGEL, J. Sculcostes, Yorkshire, block-maker.

JUHNSGN, J. Sculcostes, Yorkshire, cornfactor.

FORSTER, G. F. Margate, coal-merchant.

WILKINSON, J. High-street, Wappiur, wil-merchant.

ATKINSON, T. Newgate-street, warehouseman.

CARD, J. Lloyd's Coffee-house, merchant.

BLYTH, J. Newcastle-under-Lyme, draper.

C. I. CAMERON, Gray's-lan-lane, hardwareman.

G. PLOWBR, York, victualler.

G. HARTLEY, Penrith, Cumbertand, hardwareman.

T. ARTHUR, Glamorganshire, shopkerper.

M. HUBLE, Tunbridge, Kent, victualler.

TRAYHORN, R. Portses, Southampton, glasier and painter.

KEYLAND, T. and ADAMS, J. Birmingham, gun-makers.

AUSTIN, H. De B. Northumberland-street, Mary-le-bone, brieklayet.

CRANDLER, C. East Stonehouse, Devon, master-mariner.

BULMER, S. Oxford-street, weollen-draper.

POOL, W. Smith-street, Cerkenwell, coal-merchanf.

ALEXANDER, I. Old Basley, seach-master.

GELSTHORP, J. Molynemz-attreet, Saina Mary-le bone, surpenter.

KNIGHT, J. Mile-end-road, builder.

Digitized by Google

TUESDAY'S GAZETTE.

PARTINERSHIPS DISSOLVED.

J. and J. Stophesson, Nipoa, Yorkshire, linen-drapers.—Hargreaves and M. Kie, Mauchester, calleodeslers.—Anderton and Nayler, Leeds, grocera.—Coombe, Maish, & M. Young, Great Tower-street, agents., J. T. and G. Singer, Westbury, maltaters.—Everett and Peacock, Berimondsey, full-mongers.—Hall and Butler, Groen. Let. and Peacock, Berimondsey, full-mongers.—Hall and Butler, Groen. Let. Bankkupts.

BAKKR, W. Ticehurst, Esauex, blacksmith.
BANTUN, W. Northwiels, grocer.
CRUMP, J. Birulingham, namey-servivener.
DE UGARTE, D. Wilson-street, Pinsbury-sphare, merchant.
KMBLETON, R. South Shielda, wine-m-richant.
GIBSON, T. Jun. and BAVKS, J. Liverpool, ship-bread-bakers.
HEPPENSTALI, J. Don-aster, agricultural machine-maker.
LLOYD, C. Theirord, Norio k, bookseller.
SMITH, W. Plymouth Dock, cablinet-maker.
HRILGROVS, It. Warningsamp, Sussex, woolstapler.
TAYLOR, F. Adlington, shopkeeper.
TEASDALE, T. Newington, lineudraper.
WHITE, S. U. Nottingham, cotton-spinner.
DIVIDENDS.
Nov. 17, R. Shargus, Davies street, Berkeley-sqhare, dealer in china.—Nov. 10, J. Day and J. Spratswell, Tavistock-street, drayera.—Nov. 10, J. and R. Cleugh, Leadenball-street, w-noleadle insendrapers,—Dec. S. J. Archer, Ware, miller.—Nov. 27, J. Cook, Eye, Suffelk, miller.—Dec. S. J. Arrone, Posterrart, grocer.—Nov. 30, T. Bagnad, Birmingham, toy-maker.—Nov. 27, H. ewitt, North Shields, lineudraper.—Nov. 27, J. F. and J. Dulois, Alderman's-walk, merchants.—Nov. 22, G. Gailick, Westport, tanner.—Dec. 6, J. Merrell, Hailax, grocer.—Dec. 11, J. Packer, Painswick, clothler.—Dec. 4, D. Giles, Lyford, Berkshire, mealman—Dec. 3, T. Price, Rodberough, civil-engineer.—Nov. 21, M. Haffner, Cannou-street, carpenter.—Nov. 27, G. M. Thurkle, Now-street-square, wine-merchant.—Nov. 23, Nov. 30, S. W. Birks, Rotherham, mercer.—Nov. 27, G. M. Thurkle, Now-street-square, wine-merchant.—Nov. 23, Sulfer, Rotherham, mercer.—Nov. 27, G. M. Thurkle, Now-street-square, wine-merchant.—Nov. 30, S. W. Birks, Rotherham, mercer.—Nov. 27, W. Stantforth, Little Ess-cheap, wine-m

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

SPEECH OF LOUIS XVIII. ON OPENING THE SESSION OF THE CHAMBHRS.

"Gentlemen,—It is always with confidence, and, on the present occasion, under favourable auspices, that I come to open this Session. In preceding years, I was compelled to participate my gricts with you. More happy now, I have only to return thanks to the All-powerful for the constant protection which He has vouchsaled to France. The son, with which Heaven has soothed my sorrows, grows with the public prosperity, and continues to be to me a source of consolation and hope. This child, my heart feels confident, will be worthy of us; he will nerit the love with which my subjects surround his cradle. My relations with foreign Powers have never ceased to be amicable, and I have a firm confidence that they mill continue to be so.—Great calamities afflict the East. Let us hope that they approach their termination, and that the prudence and cordishity of all the Powers will find the means of satisfying what religion, policy, and humanity, may justly demand. The naval force, which, under these circumstances, I have stationed in the seas of the Levant, has accomplished the object which I contemplated. Our ships have always effectually protected my subjects, and often they have afforded to mistortune a timely aid. A destructive scourge desolates a portion of Spain: I have prescribed, and I will maintain the rigorous precautions which protect our cosses and frontiers from the contagion. He take a view of our domestic state, what motives have we not to bless Providence. The sensible progress of industry, agriculture, and the arts, attests that of communere; and very soon new channels, by raultiplying the means of communication and of trakic, will extend the general good to all parts of the kingdom. The properity of the finances, the intelliginel exposition of the public accounts, and fidelity to engagements, have consolidated public reveal and the return of internal and external trangullity, have already admitted of a diminution in one of co-operation, you have powerfully contributed to all this good. Let us persevere in the wise measures to which such prosperous results must be attributed. Let us persevere in that unity of views which has no efficaciously defeated the vigilance, and rostrained the last efforts, of the spirit of trouble and disorder. In this, the repose of Europa is not less interested than ours. It is thus that all the generous sentiments will be developed, with which I know your hearts abound; and that you will establish, upon the gratitude, the love, and the respect of my subjects, the Throne, which protects the libertles of all."

Paris. Nov. 1.—The Moniteur has published a Royal Ordi-your neares abound; and that you will establish, agon the gratitude, the love, and the respect of my subjects, the Throne, which protects the liberties of all."

Paris, Nov. 1.—The Moniteur has published a Royal Ordinance annulling the sentence, par contunace, passed upon Count Bertrand by a Council of War on the 7th of May, 1816, and reinstating him in all his forfeited ranks, rights, and privileges. The same paper contains a Royal Ordonnance, incorporating the Gendarmerie d'elite with the Royal Guards.

Dr. Mazet, one of the French Physicians, sent to Barcelona, died on the 22d ult. a victim to the yellow lever.

Nov. 4.—Sir Charles Stuart and Lady Londonderry set off yesterday from this capital for Calais; the foru er to receive His Majesty the King of England on his passage to return to his kingdom.

On the 2d the King gave an audience of leave to the Marquess de Latour Maubourg, Ambassador to Constantinople.

New. 5.—The Duke de Angouleme sets out this morning for Lille, to meet the King of England at that city. His Royal Highness is accompanied by the Duke de Damas, the Duke de Guiche, and his Secretary.—Baron Sturmer, the Austrian Ambassador to Constantinople, is arrived in Paris.

The latest accounts from Spain announce, that the yellow fever is making great ravages in Andalusia and Catalonia.—News from Barcelona, of the 25th October, announce that within four days the mortality is less and the number of the sick diminished, though the temperature keeps up to twelve degrees (of Reaumur.)

Faankroba, Nov. 1.—His Highness Prince Metternich is expected here to-morrow. On the 30th October, a Dejartation from our Senate went to Giessin to compliment His Majesty the King of England on his passage through that town.—Several Greeks, among whom is the young Prince Gregory Ypeilanti, arrived here yesterday, from Kischineto, in Bessarabia, on their way to Paris to finish their studies.—It is a firmed that the result of the conferences between the three Ministers (Prince Metternich, the Majesty yesterday, from Kischineco, in Bessaraum, on their way with inish their studies.—It is affirmed that the result of the conferences between the three Ministers (Prince Metternich, the Marquess of Londonderry, and Count Lieven) leaves no doubt of the continu-Londonderry, and Count Lieven) leaves no doubt of the continuance of peace.

Baussells, Oct. 30.—We learn from the frontiers of France that they have redoubled their surveillance, to prevent the introduction of fureign manufactures. Within these last few days, a seizure of contraband English merchandize has been made, in the environs of Dunkirk, by the revenue officers.

Hambura, Oct. 31.—Besides the detachment of our cavalry sent to the mouth of the Elbe, to prevent communication between the shore and ships from infected places, similar measures are adopted on the coasts of Holstein, Hamover, and Oldenburg.

Hambura, Oct. 24.—Some persons who had drawn on themselves His Majesty's di-pleasure by those conduct during the occupation of the kingdom by the enemy, and who had been on that account forbidden the Court, have received permission to appear there.

Augustus, Oct. 27.—Letters from Commenting. The influsion between the James and the 17 yearning. The influsion between the James and the 17 yearnings.

ence of the English Minimer (Lord Strangford), at Constantinople ence of the English Minister (Lord 'strangford) at Constantinople is greater than ever: he has eaten vital the Grand Seignor several times, an honotir never before enjoyed by any diplomatic personage. Accounts from St. Petersburgh to the 13th of October, mention that the town of Uralsk, the capital of the Ural Cossacks, was hurnt to the ground on the 23d d July; 1,728 houses, two Churches, and a Tattar mosque were destroyed.

Vianna, Oct. 23.—According to the most recent intelligence from Constantinople, a new Russian Minister was expected there. The Turks extol the conduct of Lord Strangford, the English Ambassador as mediater between Russia and the Porte. It is said, he has assured the Piwan that peace should not be interrupted; however, nothing positive is known respecting the state of the negociations between the two Powers.

Vence, Oct. 20.—Two of our principal commercial houses have received from Trieste the news that Tripolitza, the capital of Pelopoanesus, has surresdered to the Insurgents by capitalistion. Besides animunition and provisions, it is said that they have found there also a greatiquantity of money. The surrender of this place puts at the disposal of the insurgents 14,000 men who carried on the siege.

The Divan has taken a very important resolution. An order has been issued, which strictly prohibits all Turkish soldiers from leaving their corps and returning to their homes. This order has been already published to the corps composed of Asiatic troops, stationed near Constantinophe, under the Pacha of Brussa; and it has been declared to them, that present circumstances do not allow of their returning home for the next winter.

MOLDAVAN FRONTER, Oct. 5.—The cause of the Greeks in Moldavia seems to be quite ruined. The Turks, who have no resistance to fear, plumder all over Moldavia where any thing is to lee found, and are to remain this winter at Jassy. It is certain, indeed, that as soon as the Turks leave Moldavia, the Hetarists will return to it; 6,000 of them are between the Dniester and Madaid, Oct. 19.—The accounts received to-day of the progress of the epidemic are not so satisfactory as inight have been hoped. In Malaga, it was generally believed that the evil would be extinguished, and for the present no lears were entertained. It is not known that the contagion has appeared in any other part of Andalosia. At Maquinenas, the epidemic was considered to be extinguished. At Barcelons and Tortosa, this dreadful scourge continues to rage in the most frightful manner.

Account of the number of deaths, &c. in the city of Barcelona, Barcelonetta, and the hospital, from the 13th to the 16th inst.:—Now cases, $70; cured, 73; deaths, 197; number of sick on the 17th, 523.—The physicians in Barcelonetts being still sick, no return has been obtained of the number of new cases, &c. in that place; but it is stated, on the authority of the Commissary, that the number of deaths there decreases, and that the health of the place number of deaths there decreases, and that the health of the place number of deaths there decreases, and that the health of the place is improving.

BARCELONA, OCT. 21.—We have now a prospect of soon being freed from the dreadful maindy with which we have been afflicted for some time past. The notice from the Board of Health to-day contains but a very few new-dases: and, ere the lapse of a week or a fortnight, the fever, most probably, will have entirely subsided, when Te Deum will be sung. In the mean time, the communication between this place and the interior is still cuit off.

Private letters received in town yesterday, from various parts of Spain, and particularly from Tortosa, announce the pleasing intelligence that the rains had already commenced, and that the fever was abating.—The same letters add, that this dreadful maindy had communicated itself to the cattle, and out of a flock of 300 sheep 75 only remained.

CADIZ OCT. 16.—The Board of Health has published a notice respecting the yellow fever at Puerto St. Maria, Xerxes de la Fron-

Cadiz, Oct. 16.—The Board of Health has published a notice respecting the yellow fever at Puerto St. Maria, Xerxes de la Frontera, and Lebrija. The fever is scated to be of a much less malignant character than on former occasions. The number of sick at Puerto St. Maria (in the town and hospital) on the 12th, was 222; the deaths on that day were 10. At Xeres, on the 13th, deaths, 2; sick, 17. At Lebrija, on the 12th, sick 31.—At Cadiz, there was no new case of yellow fever. The number of deaths in that city, from eight in the morning of the 11th till the 15th, were 35 in all. A dreadful storm of wind and rain, accompanied by thunder and lightning, took place at Marseilles on the 21st ult. Three days previously, on the 18th, snow fell on the mountains of St. Baume; an event unprecedented at so early a period in the environs of Marseilles.

Marseilles

Maneilles.

Stylles, Ocr. 14.—The Magistrates of this city have published a notice, to contradict a report that had been circulated, of the yellow fever having manifested itself in the quarter of Trinns; the patients who were supposed to have that disorder have been examined, and found to have only bilious fevers, such as are common

The last advices from Constantinople confirm these which had previously announced hostile movements on the part of Persia against the Sublime Ports. It appears that one of the soms of the Schah has marched against the Pachalik of Bagdad, with a force Schah has marched against the Pachalik of Bagdad, with a lorce of $61,000 men.

ROTTERBAM, Nov. 2.—A letter from Batavia, of 25th June, makes no mention of the cholera marbus, whence it is hoped that the ravages of that disorder have crassed.

HAGUR, Nov. 2.—Second Chumber of the States General.—The Minister of Finance was introduced by the Committee nominated for the purpose, and presented, in the name of his Majesty, two Projects of Law. The first Project contained the Budget of the extraordisary expences for the year 1822, which are fixed at the sum of 18,688,856 florins, being 2,37,677 florins below the astimate of the same expences for the year 1821. His Excellency drew the attention of the Chamber to this important reduction. To cover unforeseen expences for the year 1822, it is proposed to place a million of florins at his Majesty's disposal.

**Expenses of Chamber to the posal.**

Kineston, (Jamaica,) Sept. N.—The heavy floods of rain on Tuesday evening has greatly injured the streets and lanes. The bridge over the gully, on the windward road, near the residence of Joseph Barnes, Esq. was broken down, and is impassable for carriages. The water in King-street was at a greater height than has been known for many years. An immense quantity of water, greatly exceeding that of the storm of 1815, flowed down the old road leading to King-street, as also down East-street, which is much injured. That part of the bank of the aqueduct at the race course, which was not built of stone was nearly carried away.—There was likewise a great flood in the Spanish town road. These partial injuries, however, are of little consideration, when the great benefit these rains will otherwise confer on the country generally, after so long and so severe a drought, is considered.

A violent gale of wind was experienced at Cape Haytien on the 13th of September, which blew down several buildings, and much dainage was done to the shipping. All the vessels at Gonaives were driven on shore. Several vessels were also driven on shore at Aux Cayes during the gale.

THE KING

THE KING.

His Majesty set out from Hanover on the 29th ult. having first taken the most affectionate leave of the Duchess of Camberland, of the two Princes George of Cumberland and Cambridge, and the Princes and Princess of Salms. His Majesty was attended down the steps to his carriage by the Ministers, the General Officers, and the whole Household, to whom he addressed himself in the most gracious manner, and gave his positive priorities again to visit his German dominions next Summer. The Marquis of Conyngham was in His Majesty's carriage. The most respectful silence prevailed among the crowd of spectators in the court-yard of the Palace, and the most cordial wishes for his health and happiness accompanied their befored Sovereign.—The following are some particulars of the latter days of the King's residence in Hanover.

On the 25th, His Majesty dined with the Duke of Cambridge. A countless multitude had assembled before the Palace to see the King. As the guard endeavoured to keep off the crowd, his Royal Highness gave permission for as many people as the inner court could contain, to be allowed to pass through the Palace, that every one might age the King. No was in the dining-room on the ground floor. Thus a great number of people in succession were admitted through the Palace. After dinner, His Majesty, accompanied by the Landgravine of Heese Homburg, and the Ducheses of Cambridge and Cumberland, went to the Theatre.—On the 27th, His His Majesty set out

Majesty inspected the Royal Stud, and dined that day in private Majesty inspected the Royal Stud, and dined that by in private. On the 20th, he gave an audience to General Count Tauenies, and had the Members of the Public Corporations of this city presented to him by the High Chanquerial in the presence of the Ministers of State. The Marquis of Londonderry, Frince Medernich, the Count and Countess of Lieven, and the Maquis of Conyadiam, were invited to ding with the bust they was a concert at the Palace. His Majesty has appliant the Duke Charlee of Brunswick Colonel of Cavalry, a statute, the three regiment of Hussap of the Guards; and Duke Augustia William of Brunswick Captain in the same regiment. His Majesty has also milegated the sentence of some criminals, and pardoned others, which was the control of the Captain in the same regiment. His Majesty has also milegated the sentence of some criminals, and pardoned others, which was the capital. It is called Rothenkirche, and lies about the English miles from Einbecz. His Majesty travelled with specificand was received by the people at each of the Lowns and viluage on the route, with the best exhibitions of affection. At Patitionary the young maisless of the village met the Royal carriage at the simple pretiest of them presented His Majesty with a poem; he took the cilildren into his carriage, and gave them a kiss each. Every village and town on the route was illuminated in the evening. The miners of His Majesty's mines, and the suncltars of the Herb mountains came down to this place to display themselves beight the King. His Majesty left Hothenkirche soon after-aime colonial took King. His Majesty left Hothenkirche soon after-aime colonial took King. His Majesty left Hothenkirche soon after-aime colonial took King. His Majesty left Hothenkirche soon after-aime colonial took King. His Majesty left Hothenkirche soon after-aime colonial took King. His Majesty left Hothenkirche soon after-aime colonial took King. His Majesty left Hothenkirche soon after-aime colonial took his manufactured to the colonial took his soon and the s actness to the measure of music.

Then came the Carousel. A band was stationed at the end of the ground opposite to the tribune, which continued to play suitable airs during the performance. The Knights then entered two between, and each pair having proceeded to the front of the tribune. airs during the performance. The Knights then entered two by two, and each pair having proceeded to the front of the tribung according to ancient ecremonies, made obeisance to the Knight. They then galloped on and bore off the ring with their lances. Having for a moment held the ring on the point of the lance in the air, the Knight threw down the lance, and seizing a dart, smote of the head of a seracen: instantly loosening his pistol, he fired at the head of a moor, and it fell to the earth: the Knight then quickly drew his sweld, and piercing a saracen's head, bore it alok a triumph through the air. The Knights sext rude a complicated ballet according to the rules of horsenmanship, and gave equal proofs of skill as in the former exercise. The master of the school next led a house without a rider, which, with long reins, he taught to move in several of the complex movements of the Spanish school. Prince Fugger, the leader of the band of Knights, was presented to his Majesty, when his Majesty congratulated him on the skill which he and his brother Knights had displayed, and desired that he would express those sentiments to them.

One of the Ro-al carringes, open at the top, was there are the circus, in which his Algiesty took his east, and accompanish the circus, in which his Algiesty took his east, and accompanish the grapher of the people in every street amounced the appearance of the Royal carriage. Having arrived at the Museum, the King and the Princesses alighted, to view the curiosities of the University. The applause of the people in every street amounced the appearance of the Royal carriage. Having arrived at the Museum, the King and the Princesses alighted, to view the curiosities of the University. The applause by the Sudents from without.

After a delay of about half an hour, His Majesty through the windows was hailed with shouts of applause by the students from without.

Majesty through the windows was hailed with shoutes of applicately the students from without.

After a delay of about half an hour, His Majesty travelling carriage, and slowly proceeded out of the town, and the shouts of the people. An escort of the students accompanied the Royal carriage out of the town. A salute was fired by the cannons on His Majesty's leaving the gate. While His Majesty was leaving the riding-school, the students shouted a winet: they then formed in the same order as on their entrance, and marched to the Contibefore the Library and Museum, when they announced His Majesty arrival with the same feelings. Their hand played Height unserm Kornig, heil! and the students sting it aloud. During the progress of His Majesty through the various towns of Germany, the people were emulous in shewing their loyalty. On Wednesday the Dist ult. in the evening he arrived at Cassel, previous to which His Majesty took leave of his Hanoverian subjects. The Duke Cambridge accompanied the King to the borders, where the Burnetter took an affectionate leave of each other. The escont turned to Munden, and the Royal carriage was taken under the care of a troop of Hessian husears. His Majesty drove rapidly into the heautifully situated city of Cassel; in the great square of the town several regiments of cavalry and infantry were drawn up to do honour to the King of Great Britain. The carriage drove the Palace, when the Elector, currounded by this Court, most, the town several regiments of cavalry and infantry were drawn upto do honour to the King of Great Britain. The carriage drove of the Palace, when the Elector, surrounded by his Court, most, superbly dressed, received His Majesty immediately on his entrance. His Majesty took refreshments. The Electress and the Court were in readiness to pay him every honour. A hand of most excellent immediates to pay him every honour. A hand of most excellent immediates by payed God ease the King, and several other besutiful airs under the windows of the Palace. A little supertwelve o'clock His Majesty set out from Cassel, accompanied in his carriage by the Duke of Cumberland and Sir W. Knighton, It would have hear gratificate earth. Patition block has been his carriage by the Duke of Cumberland and Sir W. Knighton It would have been gratifying to every British subject, who has spark of loyalty in his breast, to have heard the praises bestored on the King by the most disinterested observers, men of different countries and different ranks, who had no purpose to serve, and serve in every respect, impartial. Amongst the expressions of respect, that of the Prussian Scheral Officers to each other sing not the least remarkable—"Yes," said they. "this is indeed the King of Great Britain."—At Marburg, the Landgrave and Landstarvine of Hesse-Homburg, took an affectionate leave of His Majesty. Immediately after His Majesty's arrival in Wetzlar, he was waited upon by the Prussian General Thielemans, and by the Minister Inschalebon, on the part of the Prussian government to pay to him every hongur during his stry in the Prussian Riesish provinces. His Majesty arrived on the north side of the Rhine, at Ehrenbreitstein, aarly on Friday evening (24 inst.) and viewed the fortifications of Ehrenbreitstein, and of the three other forts on the Rhine, heside the city of Cobleutz. The cannons from each forthy a royal salte, announced the passage of the Monarch of Great Britain over the Rhine. The soldiers were drawn out to receive him, and vis thousand an mere required arms as His Majesty enterched the state of the state o

IRELAND.

DISTURBED DISTRICTS.

IRELAND.

DISTURBED DISTRICTS.

(FROM FALLENER'S DUBLIN JOURNAL OF MONDAY.

The intelligence received this morning from Limerick, Cork, and other quarters, present no feature indicating any change of conduct in the peasantry of the south and west of Ireland. We may rather say, that they are daily becoming more nudacious, and it appears to us, that the military have no influence beyond the spot on which they stand, not even te half the range of a musquet abot. On Friday morning, Mr. Riedy was proceeding to his, farm from the town of Newcastle, and when not more than two hundred yards distant from the barracks, two armed men jumped from a quarry and attempted to shoot him with pistols. By presence of mind he was enabled to make his way back to the town without injury; but the attempt to murder him at this particular spot, within cry of the soldiers, shews the daring, desperate spirit of the wretches.

The Limerick Chronicle says, a further outrage was committed in open day, on Sunday last, the 28th ult. at Rossmore, in this county. Mr. Shelton being confined to his room, and whilst family prayers were reading therein, the house was surrounded by an armed party of insurgents without disguise; they locked up the servant men who had been at the stables, then attempted to get in at the back door, which, providentially, was well secured. They then proceeded to the front, discharged a loaded firelock into the drawing-room, and demolished every pane of glass therein with a second shot; plundered four stand of excellent arms, with a quantity of armunitiston, made up for a different purpose to what it will be applied to. Mr. Shelton, jun. fired on them from an upper window; one must be wounded, as a short gun the fellow had at the time fell from him. The villains having previously secured the ammunition, prevented further firing on them—the alarm bell having been sounded, caused a quick retreat. It is with feelings of deep horror this attack must be perused; at so early an hour, one in the afternoon, not a disguised perso in our County, but we sincerely trust (from the wigilant and active measures now adopting) to were this evil crushed in its infancy, and that any act calculated to disregard the haws, or disturb the peace of the country, will be instantly put down, by a co-operation of the Magistracy, with the very efficient force now employed for that purpose, and thereby prevent its growing into that stace, which has for a considerable time disstraced our neighbouring County. Country of Wastwaath.—An account of a most serious nature had ust reached us: that of a meditated attack on the life of an industrious mechanic, a native of Scotland, and a blacksonith by trade, who a few years since, came to this country, in the employment of Richard M. Reynell, of Reynella, Esq.; during his residence with that gentleman he was marked by the lawless associations that infest this country, us an object for proscription, and repeated attacks were made on his life and property; so much so, that he was to blived to leave his situation, and for better security, removed into this town, where he pursued his usual avocation. About a month since, he engaged in the employment of the Earl of Longford, when, no sooner was it known to those infatuated wretches, than his destruction was contemplated, and an emissary dispatched to put their sanguinary designa into execution; on the evening of Friday, the 25th ult. a shot was fired into his house, evidently with a design to murder him, but providentially had not the desired effect. The Earl of Longford, always alive to the interest, peace, and welfare of the county, is making every exertion to discover the perpetrators of this outrage, and has offered a liberal reward for that purpose.—IFeutmenth Journal.

On Thursday night last, a new dwelling-house that had been lately erected on the lands of Walshestown, within two miles of this town, by Mr. Edward Tuite, farmer, was maliciously set on fire and totally consumed, together with several asticles of farniture, and eighty barrels of oats that had been sto

LAW INTELIAGENCE.

COURT OF KINGS BENCH.

Turdan.—Hayward v. Horner.—This cause was tried at the last Assizes for Essex. It was an action under the Game Laws, for using a setting dog for the purpose of killing game. In the evidence it was proved that the dog had not been used for that purpose. It was proved that the defendant had a setting bitch and two half bred setters, and that he had been seen shooting with the setting bitch two years ago—a period long before the time mentioned in the declaration. A servant of the defendant was called, who stated that his master had a setting dog, but that it was dead long before the time stated in the declaration, and that at the period mentioned the ein—last season—his master never used the bitch for that purpose. The Learned Judge held that as the law then stood, no person could keep a setting dog or pointer without coming within the meaning of the Act.—Mr. Gurney moved for a Rule to shew cause why the verdiet should not be set aside, and a nonsunt entered. The Learned Counsel said, that he made this motion by the direction of the Learned Judge, who observed, that he should feel satisfaction if he (Mr. Gurney) succeeded.—Granted. Wennesday.—The Court were occupied in hearing motions for new trials of no interest.

Trundan—Rethardson v. Sir Thos. Neave and another.—The plaintiff, Mr. William John Richardson, was arrested in the county of Essex upon a writ directed against William Richardson. He stated to the officer that he knew nothing of the plaintiff, and that his name was William John Richardson: the officer, however, detained his prisoner two days is custody. It appeared eventually that the whole proceeding was malicious, and that the writ had been fraudulently sued out by some person unknown; and Mr. Richardson, not content with such explanation, brought his action of damage for the taking and detention.—The defendant pleaded in justification that a writ had issued against the plaintiff, setting out no name. The Lord Chief Justice left it to the Jury, whether the plaintiff (whatever h fendant was entitled to their verdict.—The Jury found for the defeadant.

Mr. Scarlett now moved for a new trial. The writ, the learned Counsel said, upon which the plaintiff was a rested, was a copius at satisfuciends in , but it did not frise out of any judgment obtained against the plaintiff, nor had Mr. Richardson ever pleaded by the name of William Richardson, or admitted such to be his name. He submitted, upon the authority of decided cases—"Chadwick v. Clipstone," 8th East; "Craufurd v. Thatchwell," 6th Term Reports; and "Smith v. James," 2d Taunton—that the plaintiff, having in no way acknowledged his name to be William Richardson, could not lawfully be arrested by that name; and that to such an arrest no justification could be sufficient.

The Court thought the question was one of very great importance.

plaintiff, having in no way acknowledged his name to be William Richardson, could not lawfully be arrested by that name; and that to such an arrest no justification could be sufficient.

The Court thought the question was one of very great importance. If a mistake in the name made the officer a trespasser, the consequences in the administration both of civil and criminal justice would be most scrious.—Rule granted.

COURT OF CHANCERY.

Tuesday.—This being the first day of Term, the Judges, according to custom, breakfasted with the Lord Chancellor, and afterwards proceeded in state to Westminster.

Murray v. Rundell.—This was an application on the part of the plaintiff; for dissolving an injunction of the Vice-Chancellor, by which the plaintiff was restrained from publishing a certain work on the art of cookery.—The plaintiff; it appeared, had received the manuscript, as a present from Mrs. Rundell, and contrary to his expectation, it turned out a profitable concern; in consequence of which, he presented her with a cheque for 1501.—On the part of the defendant, Mrs. Rundell, it was contended, that as there was not an assignment of the copyright, with the formalities required by the 41st of Geo. III. namely, the signature of two witnesses, the copyright did, at not time, vest in the plaintiff. The defendant permitted the work to be published until such time as she thought the plaintiff fully indemnified for his expences. Now that 14 years had elapsed, the time at which his right, even if he had been a purchaser under the Act, would have expired, he thought it but just that his client should be placed in the same situation as if she had sold the copyright.

The Lord Chancellor said, the only question was, whether that Court, as a Court of Equity, had a right to enjoin Mr. Murray from publishing the work. The plaintiff said, that the copyright was in him. He (the Lord C.) was not aware under what form, or in what shape the original copy was delivered. If she had done no more than collected a number of receipts that the idea of being useful. In the preface, she deprecated censure, as she was to receive no profit. The manuscript was given to Mr. Murray, as appeared from her own letter, under the idea that she was to receive no emolument; and with this impression on his mind, he published it at all hazards. After thus encouraging hin to print and publish the book, with various additions, at his own risque, he was not to be told, at the end of 14 years, that his profits were sufficient to indemnify him, and that he had nothing mere to do with the copyright. The Court could not grant an injunction to acknowledge a right, but it often refused one to restrain the exercise of a right claimed, and left the matter to be decided in a Court of Law. He was of opinion, that, this was a case in which strict law must decide between the parties.—The injunction, therefore, to prevent the plaintiff from publishing the work was dissolved. WEDNESDAY.—Contempt of Court.—Sealey. Barlow.—In this case, an application was made to the Court for the committal of Thomas and Joseph Barlow, for contempt of the Great Scal, in having carried off Miss Seale, a ward of this Court.—The young lady is but 19 years of age, and on attaining the age of 21, will be entitled to a fortune of 7,0001. The defendant, Joseph, is a toolmaker, and Thomas, worked for him as a journeyman. Miss S. who lived with her aunt at Deply, attracted the notice of the defendant Thomas, who had become acquainted with the expectations, and he accordingly paid his addresses to her undiscovered for some time. At length, the aunt of the young lady became acquainted with the fact, and the defendant, Thomas, was refused admittance to the house, and at the same time informed, she was not of age, and a ward of the Court of Chancery. This had no effect, and on the 8th of October, they cloped, and contrived to clude pursuit for some time. In this state of affairs, information of what had happened was transmitted to the nucle, resident in London, and an application was made to the Master of the Rolls, who directed a Writ of Habeas Corpus to issue to bring up the body of the young lady. They had been pursued from Liverpoot to Stanley, in Derbyshire, where the solicitor, virceiving them in the act of stepping into a cimies, look horse and pursued them. On overtaking the classe, the answer he received from the defendant, was the "crewed of his whip," and a sort of defiance.—Three weeks subsequently the order of the Master was served on the defendant, Thomas, requiring him to surrender up the young lady, which was acceled to, after keeping the solicitor waiting for shout two hours. On the road to London the defendant, Joseph, was alledged to have boasted that he had been the founder of the plan for courrying Miss Scale off; that it had cost him one hundred guinean; and that he was aware that she had been made a ward of the Court by a "Billoof Reviver."—She had, however, been delivered over to the care of her uncle on arriving in London, and now lived with him.—The order was made for their committal.

THUBBDAY.—In the case of Scale v. Barbas, for contempt, it was requested by the Coursel, as the affidavits disclosed matter not fif for the public ear, that his Lordship would hear them in private, which his Lordship consented to .—After being absent for about an hour, his Lordship returned into Court, and said that though the Court was in the habit of hearing cases in private, when both parties consented to it, yet he had felt and in the course of proceeding upon a motion for commitment for contempt. He thought it right, bowever, to say, that he extremely approved of the conduct of Mr. Roupel in asking, and of Mr. Ching in consenting, that the affidavits hould have made it a very painful task to perform h one, and granted the rule.

VICE CHANCELLOR'S COURT.

Monday.—Ord v. Noel and others.—A Bill had been filed in this case to compel the defendant to perform the conditions of a specific contract, but on hearing it, his Honour had dismissed the petition without costs. The defendant being indebted to Messra. Coutts and Co. in a large sum of money, conveyed to Mr. Stewart Majoribanks and others, certain lands, &c. in trust for the payment of this debt. Messra. Coutts and Co. trustees, authorized the disposal of the lands. Sir Gerard Noel, the father of Mr. Middleton Noel, one of the defendants, went to the place of sale, and distributed printed hand-bills, stating that a good side could not be made, and cautioning bidders that they would be purchasing a suit in Equity; this notice had the effect of preventing the individuals from bidding for the lots. The lands, &c. were then, contrary to the advertisement, put up in one lot, and sold to the plaintiff for 22,000.

Mr. Bell moved, this day, to file a Bill of review. After hearing arguments, his Honour, as it was a question involving important principles affecting such proceedings, took time to consider

The only Warehouse in London for the new Preush Stripes in every shade of colouring, for Drawing Room Purniture, Beds, Librarien, &c. is Miles and Edwards's, No. 134, Oxford-street, nearly opposite Hanover-square.—Several thousand Pieces of the heat Town printed Chints Furnitures, Morreus, Merino Damaska, &c. at nearly half their former prices.—N.B. Not connected with any other Honse.

"Advertisement.]—Packet Navigation.—In a late Paper, we made some observations on the rapid progress of Steam Navigation. We enlarged greatly on the speed, the certainty as to time, and the case and accommodation of a steam-boad, in preference to those of an ordinary packet, and we did not heatistate to predict the inevitable ruin of the latter conveyance. We also stated, that excursions to the North, by sea, would now become parties of pleasure, instead of being undertaken with pain, from a motive of irksome economy. But, great as the advantages of steam-vessels have been in river enviragion, and in traversing nation channels, we find that we have overrated their powers, and that they have come into contact with a description of packets which have arrested their progress. We allude to the justification only fitted up with the mimost elegane e and convenience for passengers, but have also established so high a character for sa ety and dispatch Several steam-vessels have lately been fitted out by opulent and respectable companies for the trade, and no expense has been spared in either their machinery or other equipments to render them complete in every part. These vessels becan to sail between London and Leith in June or July last—the novelty of the convenience few many passenger to them, and, among others, some of those who were formerly accommodation for the respectable companies for the trade, and no expense has been spared in either their machinery or other equipments to render them complete in every part. These vessels becan to sail between London and Leith in June or July last—the novelty of the convenience drew many passeng the hair; it is so pre-eminent, that medical men of the first eminence pre-scribe it, and in all cases where the hair has fallen off from premature decay, such as fevers, accouchement, or other illness, change of climate, perspira-tion, intense study, &c. it is warranted to restore it to its original thickness and beauty; for dressing the bair, it is far preferable to oils, extracts, or po-matums, making the hair softer and more glossy, and giving it such strength and classicity, that it retains its carl during excelse, or in damp weather. Pric 33.64; 10s.64.; and one goinea.—Also, Atkinson's Vegetable Dye, well known as the only infallible article which changes gray or red hair on the Price 38.64; 108.6d., and one guines.—Also, Atkinson's Vegetable Dye, well known as the only infallible article which changes gray or uch hair on the head, or whiskers, to an auburn or black, so permanent that washing, &c. instead of removing, renders more durable. Price 38.; 108.6d., and one guinea.—And Atkinson's Androsla! Soap, made by a new process, removes redacks, hardness, and unevenness from the akis, prevants its chapping, and makes it soft, white, and even. Price 18. a square, or 108.6d. a doren.—Sold at 44, first, its, and the same of the state of the same of the s

NOTICES TO CORRESPONDENTS THE

Much inconvenience having armen from the partial publication of John Rull on Saturday Eventuay, such publication will hence-forth be discontinued, and the Paper in fature regularly published at Foun o'Cuock covry Sunday Morning.
Our epologies ure due to an OLD FRIEND of ours; his handwriting is vertainly rather difficult to decypher—and he is no five right in his conjectures, that the person he aliedes to, has nor always compared his MS. with the preof. Boery care shall be taken for the future as he destres. The lines "Here's a health," aroust inserted, because we believe the fault attributed to the here of them is in some degree corrected.

The election of the Country laureate is received; but as genius. like that of its author, is uncertain, we should like to have all of it before we begin to perkish.

MBRCATOR is entitled to vier warmest thanks, his offer is most gratefully accepted; and his judicious observations duly appro-

Home is not a man for us

The hint of Vanitas shall be altended to.

A. O. P. in our next.

The subject altuded to by PROPRIETAS has been me sideration of Parliament, to whom he may look for relief with confidence.

We beg to inform Mr. C. L. that William Shakespeare was born at a town called Stratford-upon-Avon, in Warwickshire, and is the author of Hamber, Macberts, and several other popular dra-matic pieces—a fact of which Mr. C. L. appears to be wholly

The Banyam Hymo — Anecdotes of Mr. Huncombe — Playfair — Vertham A. B. — A Brother Bull — Constructions on the Portu-guese Notion — Young Bull — Timoloon — Audex — Por and Chook'd Shanks, have all been received.

The Letter from ILCHRSTER shall be attended to.
An Associate's Letter shall be taken into consideration.

We rejaice to hear that a Subscription is on foot for the family of Captain Phillips, of the Minerva of Carmarthen, who was labely drowned. The widow is left destitute with five children, and we have no doubt that the public will sympathize with nor loss. It does honour to the Merchants of the city of Bristol.

that they have come forward on the occasion.

It appears more extraordinary than that Sir Robert Wilsonshould have been mounted on a horse lately the property of the Direct of York, that Miss Chevely (who is the King's Housekeeper) at Buckingham Palace, should continue to invite and receive at dinner Lady Wilson and her family. In ordinary life, we know how a man would act tacards a servant who chose thus to fly in his face.

We will enquire into the fact alluded to by the Loyal Freeholder of Somersetshire.

We are requested to observe, that the subscription money for Wilson walkel was received by Mr. Barrett, the Barket, has been removed from the house in which he was a partner, by desire of the rest of the firm! that they have come forward on the occasion.

SON which were received by MR. BARNETT, the Banker, and goen removed from the house in which he was a partner, by desire of the rest of the firm!

Commentator shall have fair play.

The time is past for doing that eshich Britaricus suggests.

Mr. Wriort, Bookseller, of 46, Fleet-elreet, has handed a letter to us, addressed to him analymously, at the receipt of which he appears much furried. We think, in justice to this person, it may be right to state distinctly, that Mr. Wriort has not, nor ever had, any share, concern, or interest whistever in this Paper.

We are requested to inform Domine Felix shat it is not Alderman Thorre, of Oxforn!

Criticis first letter was burnt long before we received his second; but as use have discovered him by the kindness of one of his own friends, we shall let him of, provided he does not induce his acquaintance to take a similar line of correspondence with himself, in which case we will seriously shew them up together.

We hope Aunt Anne has got the better of her slight indisposition; we draw one bottle of nasty Port-wine, not without giving her health to amselves us a toast, and wishing her the greatest passible luck.

I very a hand have told us his asse... Lindy cannot love him sin-luck.

INFELIX should have told us his age—LIDDE cunnot love him nincerely if he is so "under cow" at MANNA.

We beg to inform DANON that it only took us one how and thirtyme minutes to construct he passage which he mished us to go over; our translation will doubtless smell of the lamp, for it was done by might.
We think Ma. Rogers is wrong—there are no such things as "Aasen haired pigs;" and what he meuns by the epithet we cannot

The INDIAN has been received, and is thunked.
"Lines to a Windmill near Highbury" are not quite mited to

"Lines to a Windmill near Highbury" are not quite swited to our Paper.
We think Mas. Seares too consemptible for notice; but certainly, if she is to be made a card of, she, like Wilson, becomes worthy of our attention; we shall, therefore, (if any tom-foolery is attempted about her during the next week), shew up all the persons, MALE and FEMALE, who choose to espouse her cause.
Bught disputed uplinting Hykspirm Fkiphirm Riwdh dir skint.
87465. rkpifts 612.—T.—T. L. 84.—MPRODIENDLATWELEMOT!!!
BRUATUM in lust Sunday's Paper.—For "little Major Aylett" read "little Cross of Maria Theresa;"—the epithet little applying to the Order, and not to the gallant Officer in question.

A Menday's Edition, containing the Latest News, the Stock Inco, the London Markets, and the State of the Country Markets by that Morning's Post, is published at Three o' Clock.

PRICE OF STOCKS AT THE CLOSE, SATURDAY.

FRENCH FUNDS, Nev. 7.
3 per Ct. Con. 22 Sept. . 89-35 | Bank Sh. Div. 1 July . 1592-50
Recon. Div. 22 Sept. . . . 99-50 | Ex. Lond. 1mo. 25-45 3mo. 25-25

JOHN BULL.

LONDON, NOVEMBER 11.

ABOUT eight o'clock on Thursday morning the Venus arrived in the harbour of Ramsgate, when the Pier was crowded with persons anxious to welcome the King on his arrival from a foreign country. About nine o'clock the cannon announced the arrival of His Majesty in his Royal yacht.

SIR WILLIAM CURTIS and his nephew proceeded to welcome the King, who approached from the yacht to the and the Chronicle; and it must therefore be acknowledged, allore, in a host strong by Sir Charles Paget, and seerounded by many other boats. The sailors cheered His Majesty as he passed over to the quar, and at a quarter before ten o'clock His Majesty was welcomed to the land by the applauses of the thousands on the pier and quay His Majesty bowed repeatedly to all around.

The Royal carriage was drawn up immediately before SIR W. CURTIS'S house, and His Majesty set off instantly

An outrider arrived at the King's Palace, in Pall Mall, about five minutes before six o'clock, Thursday evening. announcing the King's areas approach. At five minutes past six, His Majesty entered the Palace-yard. We have great satisfaction in saying that His Majesty was in the full enjoyment of health, extremely cheerful, and conversed most affably with the Gentlemen in waiting to receive him.

About a quarter of an hour after His Majesty's arrival, the cannon in St. Japies's Park discharged a double Royal salute.

To show the state of Whig feeling, we have only to observe the new system adopted by their press, of quoting, and thereby adopting the sentiments of the most decidedly. radical papers, on foreign, as well as domestic policy. The Chronicle copies this week from one of the most unprincipled of those obscure Sunday prints, which accumulate the venom of the week to pour it out with greater effect on one day, a tirade against ministers for not involving the country in immediate hostilities with Russia, In former times, it asserts, that " England would never have acquiesced in the monopoly of interference with Turkey, "which Russia now claims; because our old invariable sopolicy of supporting the Turks against the Russians was founded on the single metive—and good policy it was-" of checking the encroachments of the latter." Que would naturally suppose, that as this has been our invariable policy, it is recommended by these sagacious Whig oracles to persevere in it. But no, it is urged that England, to be consistent with herself, should turn her arms, not against the Russians, but against the Turks; and with the Greeks march to Constantinople, and plant upon her walls " the standards of united Greece and Brithin." How this is to be achieved, this Bell-the-Cat does not conflescend to explain; but evidently the sage and his compurgator in the Chronicle, take for granted that Russia would " acquiesce in this monopoly of interference with Turkey," and that all Europe would stand by to see fair play, and by no means interfere to spoil the sport which presents itself to the imagination of these sanguine-or we might say, sanguinary politicians, It would be well if these amateur statesmen could be induced to recollect their former sentiments upon such topics; and the ammenent they derived from a proposition of Long deven Pool's to march to Paris which was only damped by the fulfilment of his Lordship's threat, spoiling the joke of at least ten years standing among the Whig wags.

Perhaps the Chronicle thinks the march to Constantinople shorter than one to Paris, and that the convenience of water-carriage, must necessarily ensure its success. But the memory of the writer, we apprehend, is shorter than either, or, at least, he calculates upon the shortness of ours, or otherwise, certain difficulties might have presented themselves to him in this view of his subject, for he caused have forgotten amongst other curinent services bestowed upon the country during the powerful combination of a Whig administration (enduring, alast only one year, one month, one week, and one day!) that a British fleet under one of our bravest commanders, SIR JOHN DUCKWORTH, was actually dispatched to this same Constantinople, to demand what they had not efforded him the means to enforce in the event of refusal, and to threaten "this planting of stand-" ards," and certain other accompaniments, which it was physically and morally impossible for him to effect.

The gallant admiral was instructed to demand the surrender of the whole Turkish fleet, stores, ammunition, &c. And the alternative, in case of refusal, was to batter down the capital about the ears of the unfortunate Grand Seignor. The Turk (most impiously) laughed at the threat, and the brave DUCKWORTH, being wholly unsupplied with the means of following up the meaace, was compelled, for the first time in his noble career, to turn his back upon an enemy, and, as he tells us, " reduced by the planners of this miserable expedition, to make his escape, lest he should be entirely cut off in his retreat from the Hellespont!"

In order to afford a supply of matter for the home man ket, the Chroniele treats his readers with a copious extract from the Scotsman; and a compendious remedy is proposed for the murders, fires, and rapes in the disturbed districts of Ireland. The latter, of course, are considered as the natural ebullitions of a high national spirit, created by the corrupt and wilful transgressions of the present Government. We are left to infer that Ministers like this sort of thing, and encourage it, as they did the Manchester riots. and the Cato-street conspiracy. Strange beings these Ministers must be!-they are every day trying to cut their own throats, and yet continue to disappoint their expectant successors by going on living - and what is worse, going on in place. They are, however, clearly implicated in the present sanguinary proceedings of the Irish peasantry, according to the testimony of the Scotsman the supposed and may be effectually applied, to cut that the root and brand

The glober, we are told, "that ready and perpetual re-" source of weak and vindictive legislators" (the guillotte is considered preferable by the wise, energetic, and mile assertors of liberty) " has grouned under the weight of en-" minals." That is to say, the application of punishe to criminals (for they do not deny the fact of their being such) is a proof of a weak and vindletive legislations; such) is a proof of a weak then fairly tried, and if "has failed;" the real criminals, lowards whom the gib ber or the guillotine may be rendered equally available. without any fear of reproach as " weak or windictive led. "gislators," are the Orangemen, or, in other words, that Protestants of Ireland. " The Orangemen ought," mice claims the Chronicle, with a holy fervour, that seems h tended to annihilate time and space, and at once to seat h patrons and employers in the full plenitude of power "The Orangemen ought, as is well observed, not to kind " quested to forbear from making an ostentatious display "their political superiority; they ought to be deprived of it " and compelled to submit to the martification of seeing the " Catholic countrymen placed on TEP BAME LEVEL themselves!!" ere, fine kial femansan

Whether this remedy may hereafter be added. not for us to determine; but for gentlemen, who are so sensitively alive to the evils of coercion, and who, as WHIGH are so tenacious and clamorous for the Constitution, and the whole Constitution, as settled in 1688, it cannot be deal nied that the proposition is rather of a curious nature; and more especially, as it would only transfer (as the natural result of their own reasoning) the disposition to cut through commit rapes, and plunder habitations, from one mi men to another.

en to another.

But the consistency of the Whigs is past to the consistency of the whigh the consistency of the whigs is past to the consistency of the whigs is past to the consistency of the whigh the consistency of the whigh the consistency of standing. They cannot, even to serve a present purpose: call the fathers of our Revolution, or the Whigs of the succession, downright blockheads; but they go as near the wind as possible, by qualifying the praise hitherto bestowed, upon them:-- " Parliament having allowed a foreign sove-" reign to ascend our throne" -- (very decently, and as trule put)-" and to retain dominions independent of the country, all the rest" (that is, his MAJESTY's visit to Hanover, and his unfortunately glorious reception) " for " lows as a matter of course." - Why, then, notice it at all -merely for the truly Whig purpose of offering an insultation the Sovereign. "Some of our contemporaries" (that its "the jacobin press) are very much at a loss to reconcile the Irish and Hanoverian speeches of his Majesty with each other. In the former his MAJESTY told the people of " Ireland that his heart had always been Irish, and in the "latter, to the people of Hanover, 'I have always been see " Hanoverian-I will live and die a Hanoverian; and His " MAJESTY's advisers are called upon to explain these con-"tradictions!"-Before we proceed farther, it may be at well to observe, that we have only Newspaper authority. for the actual expressions imputed to His MAJESTY, and consequently that the probability is, His MAJBSTY never used them; for we may venture to appeal to such of our readers as have ever had the opportunity of comparing facts, to which they have themselves been eye or ear witnesses, with the Newspaper report of them, whether it has ever occurred in a single instance, that they have been truly or correctly given. If any paper claim to be an exception to this general rule, we do so; not by making vague or vapouring professions, like our contemporaries, but by referring to the notorious fact of our having drawn down upon our luckless heads, the vengeance of the press for a "speaking the WHOLB truth," and letting out (we shall do more in this way by and bye,) " the secrets of the presson-house" the slavery and subjection, alas, too real, of the slavery and subjection, alas, too real, of the slavery and subjection, also, too real, of the slavery and subjection and the slavery and subjection of the press for a specific subject to the subject t our once boasted free press! But enough of this for the present. Allowing the report of His MAJESTY's speecher in Hanover and Ireland to be strictly and literally correct, (and our main reason for believing them to be so, is their perfect propriety and fitness to the occasion), in what, we me ask, can they be said to contradict each other? Is the human heart so parrow and circumscribed in its conformation tion, as to admit but one single object of attachment?-and, must it necessarily limit its affectious to it, by excluding all others?

In LOVE, indeed, this may be said to be the though we have rarely heard of a man so wholly abstracted as to forget to take his dinner, (for more than one day least), because he was enamoured of a pretty-face. At all events, Love (without offence be it spoken) is a disease of the heart—or in more delicate phraseology, the heart thus circumstanced, is not in its natural state. There is, a too, such a thing as sickness at heart, and we are much mistaken if His MAJESTY'S reception in Ireland, as wells as at Hanover, has not tended to propagate this disease to a very considerable extent among a certain portion of his very loyal subjects. This it is, that jaundices every object. to the vision of Whiggism—which being more conversant with contradiction than consistency, is incapable of viewers ing or estimating high and honourable conduct in its true.

In sober truth, so far from any real contradiction principle on the face of these two short addresses, they are perfectly consistent, and proceed upon the self-same principle to illustrate one of the distinguishing features of a British Sovereign in the exercise of his historical contradiction. a British Sovereign in the exercise of his high functions. They contain a repetition of the same sentiment, varied: only according to the several circumstances of time and place—the general expression of his paternal feeling and affection towards every class and description of his subjects. " In England his MAJESTY has never lost an occasion of declaring and illustrating this attachment to the interests.

(2) The people - and the man and common at mons. In Ireland as a component, and a very impuriting portion of the empire, the KING in person repeats in par ticular those appearances of affection. He avows himself an Irishman at heart as far as their interests are concerned and his fatherly care can be effective in securing them. His MAJESTV proceeds to visit another portion of his do minimiss which, "since Parliament have allowed him to retain," even the Chronicles of the Whigs cannot deay him the right of governing—the influence of his mild and paternal sway, operating to produce an universal en-thusiasm upon his appearance among them, he plodges himself to protect their interests, and to be to them, what he has ever been; as sincere and affectionate a protector, as if he were actually their native born Prince and to live and die a true HANOVERIAN KING. This is the real import of what was said upon the occasion, and nothing but the tortuous and envenomed obliquity of Whig intellect, can twist them to mean any thing else.
Have these gentlemen, by the bye, never heard, and that too amid cheerings and greetings of hiccups and broken glasses, his Highness of SUSSEX, according to the season of the year, declare the pride he felt in being an Irishman or a Scotsman, when Sovereign of the Buttle on St. Patrick's day, or the anniversary of the Scotch Saint? they have not, we most assuredly have; and we find no fault with this most innocent of all the delusions practised upon such accasions

But, to descend lower in the scale of society, let us ask these worthy catechists of Kings and Governments, whether, because they weep and howl over ministerial profligacy and imbeellity in the administration of Irish affairs, they consider their claim to our gratitude, for their exertions as English patriots, lessened by being shared with our fel-low-countrymen on the other side of the water? Or let them inform us what would become of the GREYS, the GROSVENORS, and FITZWILLIAMS, who, as occasion requires, boast of their undivided affection for half a dozen counties at once, and demand the suffrages of their tenants and dependants, in return for their constant and exclusive attention to each—as they become objects of interest to THBM SELVES? What would be the fate of the itinerant orators and patriots—the HUMES, the WILSONS, the MOORES, and HUNTS, under such privations, who, as nobody (happily for them) knows where or how they were born or bred, profess themselves brethren and townsmen in every district or village where they can obtain a hearing, or and gulls to receive them? Nay, how, without this license, could BROUGHAM have avowed himself, at three different times, a native of Cumberland, Northumberland, and Carlisle, he being a Scotsman.
We seriously apprehend, that his MAJKSTY's advisers will be deaf to the call of these Whiggamores, to explain away the grave constitutional offence afforded by the enthusiasm of affection and admiration evinced by all ranks of people out of the circle of their immediate influence. We have therefore felt it to be our duty to shew that no explanation is necessary. We cannot, however, part from these grand inquisitors, without affording to our readers a farther specimen of Whig liberality, to which we are sure they will find it difficult to produce a parallel, except at the glorious King-killing period to which the assassing darkly alludes:—

"It is when his MAJESTY returns to these Kingdoms that ' must look to Ministers for the display of all their wisdom, and all "their:discretion: Acit is dangerous to go beyond the Revolution " for precedents, and his Markety is the first King who has taken " a fancy to yisit all the three realms, we have had since that event, "they must act by the unguided light of their own understanding "in appearing the contention, which, like that of the tribes of "Israel and Judah, for their respective interests in the house of " Jrsss, is likely to take place in these Kingdoms. The Irish have already got the heart of his Majesty, but the Scots and English "are yet to be satisfied. As the Scots are a calculating people "will they be satisfied with the head? The share for John Bull

"after this double allocation, we leave for Ministerial ingenuity." The share for JOHN BULL we take to ourselves, and we will boldly and fearlessly affirm, that if any thing can more especially endear a Sovereign to the people of England, it is his personal acquaintance with them-his personal knowledge of their true state, and his personal communi-cation with the various divisions of his cupire. Those very reptiles, who maligned, and calumniated, and lam-pooned our late venerable Monarch, for too much devoting himself to the duties of domestic life, and impigusly held him up to public reproach, for sequestering himself, like an Eastern despot, within the wells of his seraglio, are an eastern despot, within the waits of his seragilo, are now equally clamorous in their rude criex against our patriotic and high-minded Sovereign, for mixing with his people, and evincing, by every act of his life, his devotion to their interests, and his equal affection for all classes, orders, and descriptions of his subjects.

"Improbis, aliena virtus sempér formidolosa."

We have publicly expressed our determination not to bully the poor Chronicle, now that it has fallen under our castigation; and we most certainly should not have violated the promise made to ourselves, of letting that unhappy fournal "die quiet," but that our duty calls upon day, amounting the death of the Countess of LAUDER DALE.

After the many asseverations of its "honourable" course, we cannot suspect that the Chronicle could have been base or malignant enough to have made up this story merely to wound the feelings of those connected with Lord LAUDERDALE; although we know enough of the nature of the Chronicle, and of the dire mortification of the Whigs, at his Lordship's manly and independent conduct upon the trial of the wretched QUEEN CAROLINE, to give them full credit for any underhand scurrility and masked malevolence, which we might find levelled at his Lordship's familie in the conduction of the trial of the conduction of th mily, in the obscene and abominable columns of the Whig-Radical press. But yet, we think, base and unfeeling as the publication of the history of her Ladyship's death is, it is marked by less atrocity than that by which a decided Whig attack would have been characterized. We, therefore, exonerate the Chronicle from any intentional attack upon the pence of this noble family; but in doing so, we f the bire of faction than Whig fools, we think must be the more disagreeable to the said journal. The Whigs glory in their cunning, lying, and trickery, but they are very sore upon the subject of incapacity; and here the Chronicle is in a clost stick.

As the as the fact goes, lavis this :- The Chronicle printed published, on Saturday, the 3d inst. a circumstantial matter-of-fact LIE, and that with a most imposing air of authority, and a minuteness, as to time and circumstance, perfectly staggering. If the Chronicle knew it was a falsehood, which half London believes it did, where shall we find words to express our horser at the style of attack upon private individuals which it has adopted stand if, on the contrary, the Morning Chronice, after having worked away for forty years in the manufactory of falsehoods, has been unable to distinguish a genuine authenticated account of an event, from the hoax of a merry-hearted traveller, what an unparalleled ass the Chronicle must be.

It is only necessary to look at the "original letters from the Continent," which appear in the TIMES, and the " interesting articles of domestic intelligence," which are to be found in the CHRONICLE, to estimate duly and fairly the authenticity of their general information, and the high respectability of their constant correspondents.

IT is certainly very entertaining to observe the shifts and expedients to which the Chronicle is compelled to have recourse, in order " to keep well" with both ends of his fac-The hue of his paper varies, according as if is made up from doers at the east and west end of the town : at present, the noble and learned contributors are relaxing from their toils, and washing themselves in the sea, or living upon each other in the country. The leaders of the Counmon Council, therefore, have the press in their hands, and are too shrewd and cunning not to turn it to good account.

When the editor, or rather, the junto, or sub-committee of the Whigs, would elevate their leaders into superior beings, for people to wonder at-and when they have exhausted the little that is to be urged on the score of talents they assail us poor Tories, (as, for the sake of calling them-selves Whige, they term us); for not paying more deference to the family claims of sertain bereditary gulls to Whig-gism. We are repreached for not falling down before these golden calves, and worshipping opinions rendered sacred by the creed of * all the Russings, and all the Howards." But when the wise men of the cost are to be concluded, these Aristocratic airs are to be abandoned; and as Monday last brought back with it certain reminiscences, and it may be presumed, some regrets, that so great and compendious a scheme for getting rid of Kings and Parliaments at a blow had failed, that duy was to be devoted to the lower extrehad failed, that day was to be devoted to the lower extre-mities of the huge Leviathan of Whiggery. Accordingly, after a long preparatory tirade against Priests and Nobles, (which, by the bye, if our memory be correct, is taken al-most verbatim from the pages of Pere du Cheme) we are in-structed that "property will have its influence in all coun-tries—it is a substantive power;" (whether this alludes to the draper, or the druggist, we know not) "but" he goes on to say, "the pride of birth requires to be supported by general oninion, and this is not an age to constant again. general opinion, and this is not an age to constant any nick shadowy pretensions? —What say yeto this, my Lords of Badword and Norrolk? Ye Grassendra, Wenn worths, and Cavendishes? Why this sweeping editor will not leave you a leg to stand on! He tells you that the son of a victorious rebel, may indeed have something to boust of—but that your grandsires go for nothing, so far as you are concerned; and that WAITHMAN, or WILSON, or HUME, or PETER MOORE, or WADDINGTON him stand higher in the scale of society, as being able at least to say and do something for themselves. But this is no concern of ours: to recoucile Whig opinions is a task which Whigs alone have sufficient boldness to attempt.

It is a part of our duty, however, to notice them, and this is the only aid we use disposed to afford them.

Monday, indeed, as we have before observed, was a pro-pitious day, to the more legitimate branch of the "good old and we find these extracts, made with peculiar good taste, from an obscure poet, whose only claim to the notice even of the Morning Chronicle, appears to be an instinctive turn to disloyalty and ribaldry. The first, an unmenning and wanton stack upon the Chergy, is elegantly beaded " Black-punrds!" The second, a gross and revolting description of stews and gaming-houses, is re-commended to the notice of its female readers, under the title of "Good Company!" and the third, is a naked piece of sheer blasphemy, given for the simple purpose of making a sans-culotte triumph over a Priest, by a joke which Joe Miller had anticipated by at least a century. Alas, poor old Chronicle!

THE MILITARY MOUNTEBANK.

WE have been taxed with unfairness, because, in our view of SIR ROBERT WILSON'S services, we did not particularly notice the certificates which he has published of his good conduct with the Russian armies in the campaigns of 1813; and this charge has received some kind of colour from an error of the press, which states SIR ROBERT WILson to have been in London, all the years between 1809 written 1813 shewed that 15 was a mere error of the press; in truth and in substance, the accusation against us is unjust; we alluded to these certificates, with all the consideration which they deserve. English orders, and certificates themselves, are not as valuable as they ought to be-but Fo REIGN Orders, we all know, can be had for money; and FOREIGN certificates can behad by asking for. We have proof. WHICH WE CAN PRODUCE when necessary, that SIR ROBERT WILSON has been a CENTIFICATE HUNTER—that he has solicited for a specified object, some of those certificates, which he has now published as tostimonials of his merit. What language can we use to a person calling himself a British soldier, who begs certificates for one purpose, and then publishes them for another—but we ask pardon; though at first sight different, the objects are in truth the same—VANITY and VALE GAURY!— VANITY' too, which wife obliged to the infinite many are more limits util DROBERT's alleged guilbalth in divide nervice, whenever spidity is and thin; an Whig'knaws are more likely sound his modesty will permit him to state the time and place his modesty will permit him to state the time and place when he was within reach of the enemy's bayonets: until then, we shall take the liberty of calling his verbose and high-sounding foreign certificates HUMBUG, and of repeating the epigrammatic truth of the song in our last number

And thus he can produce us, of the battles he has seen, Certificates on paper—HAPSHO NUNE UTUN MIS SEEN!

On the subject of his pretended knighthood, the most impudent quackery we ever have witnessed, we beg to add a word or two. We are prepared, not only to shew the law in this ease to be against any such assumption, and that WILson, having taken an opinion, knows it to BE so! but we can also show the PRACTICE to have been, in EVERY cuse save that of Wilson and his six compeers, absolutely destructive of his ridiculous claim. We have collected instances of every foreign order, by which it will be shewn that even the higher rank of COMMANDER of these orders, never was supposed to confer the title of SIR, which WILson assumed from having worried the Austrian Government to give him the lowest order of Maria Theresa. But, to avoid tediousness, we shall confine ourselves to one or two instances exactly in point:—Colonels ABERCHOMBIE, RENAELL, WOODFORD, PONSONBY, and HERVEY were recognised in the London Gazette of the 25th Sept. 1819, as Knights of MARIA THERESA; but did any one of these TRULY gallant Officers ever pretend to call themselves by the title which Wilson has assumed? Look at the gallant PONSONBY—a Whig in Parliament, but a Tory in the field—covered with wounds, left for dead, and reported in the Gazette among the killed in the immortal field of Waterloo! honoured, without delay or solicitation, with the cross of MARIA THERESA, why does he not call himself SIR FREDERIC?—because he knows he is not entitled to that appellation; and because he possesses that true dignity of haracter, which makes him despise such a mountebank honour; and because he has, besides, a REAL SPLENDOUR of public service, which wants no aid from the timel of FALSE titles, or the bolster of MENDICATED certificates.

TO JOSEPH HUMB, ESQ. M. P.

Sir,-in all matters of calculation you are quoted upon us by your employers, the Whig-radicals, as the most regular and accurate accountant in the British Empire, and this in the very face of documents which prove you the errantest hungler in Christendom.

Dulness is by no means injurious to the line of political conduct you have chosen to adopt, and unlike my LORD GROSYENOR, your wit is by no means likely to prove pre-judicial to your memory. I have taken the liberty before of awakening a few recollections in your mind, and though from a respect for her age and sex, I have abstained from commenting upon your conduct to your mother, the erockery-seller at Montrose, I must, in justice to your high public character, enquire of you (by way of begin-ning a series of unpleasant yet wholesome questions) why you left England so very suddenly in the early part of 1809?

As your very rapid retreat upon the occasion I allude to, and, I believe, it was from Bath you " bolted," though not a matter of figures is a subject of much speculation.
Now, I happen to know why you went off—but warned by the high respect for the freedom of the Press, evinced by your friend BENNETT, and the Whigs in general, I do not choose to communicate my knowledge—gou know, and I know (and it is quite sufficient for me to know, that you do know, that I know) what the cause of your "flitting

(you understand the word) really was. I have laughed at you as a pluralist, and every body has laughed at you as a Statesman and a financier, except the "CITY OF LONDON," who are laughed at by all the country; I have even kept back many anecdotes of you, of which I have a store—the dealings in Kurwah at BUNDLEcund, while you were a military assistant-surgeon; the whole history of your appointment; the 2001, premium, and, indeed, all the worst points of your character; but bear me harmless for speaking the truth, and I will put the world in possession of ALL THE PACTS which led to your departure from England in 1809.—Yours, RI'LL

FASHIONABLE MOVEMENTS.

MR. WILBERFORCE from CHRIST CHURCH to CANT-LEY. in YORKSHIRE.

MR. PETER MOORE, to COVENTRY.

Ma: R. Gordon, to his Seat, Bumstead, in Cambridge-MR. and MRS. WILDE, from town, on a visit to DR.

KITCHINEB, at COOKHAM. Her LIGHNESS the PRINCESS of CUMBERLAND, from KING-STREET, SOHO, to LUDGATE HILL.

MR. GRANT, from SEEFORTH to EYE, in Suffolk.

DR. LUBHINGTON, from MAIDENHEAD to BURY.

MR. SHERIPF WATTHMAN to BEVERLY. LADY MORGAN, from ITALY, to the ISLE OF WIGHT, to cat. PUFFIN'S EGGS. ALDERMAN THORPE, from the MANSION HOUSE to PUDDING-LANE.

The following is an extract of a private letter from Halifax, N.S. October 17:—

October 17:—

"We were sadly frightened here about a fortnight ago, by the arrival of several vessels, all from Scotland, and bringing accounts of the assassination of the King in Dublin. These reports, poured into Halifax by way of New Brunswick, Prince Edward's Island, and Picton, were so minute and particular, as evidently to have been fabricated for some specific purpose. We are now, however, satisfied he is alive and well, and are anxiously looking out for the September mail.—The Quein's death was here hailed as most welcome intelligence. Some of us are in a kind of mourning, but it is any thing but general."

We make this extract from an evening paper, in order to mark a

We make this extract from an evening paper, in order to mark a curious coincidence as to time, between the date of the alleged asassination of His most gracious Massarv, and the intended visit of the late Queen to Scutland, whence it appears the rumour was EXCLUSIVELY received. The subject is too important to be treated lightly or cursorily, and is of a pature to induce us to use the greatest caution in touching upon it; but it is a fact not generally known, though worthy of consideration, that so entirely political was the WILSON now finds to be attended with "recation of spirit."

Quexy's project of visiting Edinburgh, that his Grace the Duku Wilson now finds to be attended with "recation of spirit."

of Broroan, the East Gare, and the East Grovenos, had actually support the spirit of Broroan of Start and the East Grovenos, had actually support the spirit of Broroan of Start and the East Grovenos, had actually support the spirit of Start and Start and the East Grovenos of Start and Start a We are fully prepared to enter Intoan examination of StR I ally started for the North, to rally round her intended Count.

THEXTRE.

DRURY LANE has kept the lend throughout the Summer, and has taken it in the Winter Season. A new musical piece in two acts called MAID or WIFE, was produced at that Theatre on Monday, of which the following is a brief entline :-

Sir George Rakewell (Mr. Elliwron), a married Baronet, af-setting extreme fondness for his wife, is, however, but an hypocrite a respect of fidelity. He has a lively active valet, Ready, (Mr. Hagley), to whom he promises an annuity, provided he shall re-Bir George Rakeneell (Mr. Ellistron), a married Baronet, alfecting extreme fondness for his wife, is, however, but an hypocrite in respect of fidelity. He has a lively active valet, Ready, (Mr. Hagley), to whom he promises an annuity, provided he shall remain single, having himself an objection to married servants. Ready has however, privately, married Formy (Miss Coveland), who lives on Sir George's estate. Lady Rakessell (Miss Surreson) goes on a visit to a relation, and the piece opens with a scene between Sir George gives all his servants permission to go to a fair in the neighbourhood, and sets off himself in search of Found, whom he had accidentally seen. Ready determines to be master in the absence of Sir George, orders dinner, and the chariot for a drive. A scene enaues between him and Found, and she goes home to dress. Sir George returns after his unsuccessful search, Found comes of Sir George returns after his unsuccessful search, Found, comes in once more, which Sir George is persuaded was a plan of Ready's to surprise him agreeably. Sir George laments the absence of his servants, which will prevent his entertaining Found, but is again surprised by the anaouncement of dinner and the chariot, which he also attributes to Ready's attention. The latter, apprehensive of consequences, dispatches a messenger to Lady Batesell, to say Sir George has been taken dangerously ill; some extremely comic incidents and situations ensue. Ready's jealousy, and his desire to preserve his annuity, afford room for much effect, and the author avails himself of it. Lady R. arrives—discovers—Frany—demands to know who she is?—Ready declares her his wife, which delights Sir George, believing it an invention. His marriage is however ultimately proved, and Sir George dismisses him, but appoints him to be his steward, the grand object of Ready's ambition. ambition.

It will appear that much is not to be made out of these materials, which are French; it has been always observed by those conversant with modern French dramatic literature, that hardly any our French piece will be sufficiently strong in the translation to be successful upon our

The French are naturally a very theatrical people, they live in their play-houses, they are intimately acquainted with the manner and particular humour of each actor, and a single part, or at most a single incident satisfies them, provided the character is elaborately developed and well suited to the peculiarities of the favourite player. With us it is different, and although we follow the hero of a farce with great interest and amusement, a single part, or a single incident will not keep its ground with us.

We should be understood here, to speak of comic-pieces, The melo-drama and spectacle of the French, which to say truth, are held by the French themselves in a very secondsate estimation, and confined to the ambigu-comique, are intricate and generally interesting, and almost literal trans-lations of many of them have succeeded greatly upon the London stage. But wherever farces have been borrowed from the French, of late years, it has been found necessary to blend two or three, to make even a two act afterpiece sufficiently solid to hold together in the stormy seas of Covert Garden or Drury Lane.

MAID: or, WIFE," has the fault of filmsiness, and yet not to such an extent as many of the popular things of Paris; and, to do justice to the actors, we must say, whatever weakness we might have discovered in the drama in ordinary hands, ELLISTON and HABLEY covered by their performance.

ELLISTON, in SIR GEORGE RAKEWELL, WAS more like what he was some years since, than we remember lately to have seen him, and MR. HARLEY was as good as he This gentleman's acting is the perfection of mediocrity, and as a proof of his inferiority to most of those upon whose styles he has founded his own, he is always best when he is least like himself,

MISS COPRLAND, from the Surrey Theatre, made her first appearance on this stage, in a part called FANNY. She sang a song very prettily, but we cannot help thinking that it is hard upon MR. DIBDIN to rob him of her services, if they were of any importance to his concern, for we are inclined to believe that the addition of her talents to the Drury Lane company, will not be felt in the same proportion as her loss may be deplored from Saint George's

The dinner scene was infinitely too long, and we should give to that part of the farce the appropriate advice " to cut," if the manager wish the audience to " come again."

Upon the whole, however, the piece was quite successful; it is by a gentleman, who (as is the fashion now) has assumed a name to write under. This name is LIVIUS, to him also is attributed the composition of part of the music, and we must certainly say, that if it be a first attempt, which we very much doubt, it is highly creditable to a beginner.

MUNDEN, that incomparable and unequalled comedian, whom, last year, we, in our ignorance, consigned to the tomb, has re-appeared in proprid persond, in the part of POST-OBIT in REYNOLDS's entertaining play of Folly as it Plies.

The Cocknies, as we have before taken occasion to ob serve, have uniformly set their faces against MR. REYNOLDS (which must have been a source of great mortification to that gentleman), and have designated his comedies as five act farces; and accordingly the TIMES of Monday, true to the doctrines of its foggy adherents, attacks Folly as it Flies in the cant strain of the School of Mud; but all the writing of all the newspaper critics in the world will go but a very little way to convince the town that there is either vice, or folly, or had taste in laughing very heartily at comic incidents, sharp dialogue, and capital acting. We put it to any of the auditors at Drury Lane to say, whether they have seen, in any of the productions of the few last years, during which REYNOLDS (grown rich) has ceased to write any thing, (unless indeed we except two or three tragedies), other people than ourselves may be induced to turn a favour-able look to the sister theatm. Nothing can be worse pelicy than thus running one play night after night, and so grievously is it felt by fenters and holders of free minissions that we have heard it said, with what truth we know not that many of these persons exert themselves to condemn pieces which are produced, lest they should be doorned, by their success, to have them represented "every evening till further notice."

It may be just necessary to add, that the TIMES of Miny day, with its usual correctness, announces that Dring Lane Theatre was open last Sunday evening, while wa trust, for the sake of PRTER MOONE's morality and LISTON'S licence, is as untrue as most of the amount contained in that paper usually are.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Extract of a private letter; dated Augsburg, Oct. 29.—" The King, when he ass the young wit of the Packe of Cambridge for the first sime, asked him if he centid speaks, the infant immediately replied, God save the King!" Theeday, the Duke of Clarence, according to annual custom, gave a featural to his tradespeople, at Hampton Court, on which occasion his Royal Highness grarted them the Indulgence of having the whole range of Hushey Park for a aporting excursion.

The Duke of Vork arrived in town on Monday, from Chevely, the seat of the Duke of Rutland. Tuesday, his Royal Highness held a Levee as Communicate in Chief.

The Duke of Welliugton attended a meeting of the Hampshire Lieutenancy at Winehester, on Friday se'nnight, and afterwards viewed, the County Gool and Bridewell, and the mill erected theyein, to beep the prisoners to hard Isbour.

The Marquis of Londonderry arrived in town on Thursday, and arrangement but iness at the Foreign Office; also with Viscount Sidmonth, at the Home Office.

Sir William Cartis, last week, gave an elegant entertainment, at moith at the Home Office.

Sir William Curtis, last week, gave an elegant entertainment, at his marine residence; on the East Cliff, Ramsgate, at which Prince Esterhazz, and a distinguished party were present.

The Bank Clerks selected for retirement, took leave on the last of October The number amounted to 150.

On Wednesday, a Court of Directors was held at the East India House, when Captain M. Hamilton was sworn into the command of the ship Duniz, consigned at Rambour and China of the ship Dunira, consigned to Bombay and China.

It is said that a new Court of Chancery and a new Court of King's Bench will be built in a line with the Court of Common Pleas, opposite Heary VII.'s Chapel, with a stone fronting all round, to correspond with the original plan. They will occupy the scite of the two present interspeciate coffee-houses, and open into Westminster-hall.

minster-hall.

We understand same a daily gaper) that one of the Cashiers of the Navy Pay Order, who some time back received ten days leave of absence to go to designate, has disappeared, leaving behind him a deficiency of 49,400.

Accounts have been received of the rafe arrival at Madraa, on the 14th June last, of General Sir Alexander Campbell, his family, and saile.

Accounts have the second of the rafe arrival at Madras, on the 14th June last, of General Sir Alexander Campbell, his family, and suite.

The preparations by highering St. James's Park with gas are now in a considerable state of forwardness; and consequently in a very short time an intolerable and most disgussing nuisance will be converted to a great public convenience and advantage.

A supplement to Tuseday Night's Gazette 1-ss been published. It contains dispatches from the Government of Boinbay, dated March 10, and April 3, 1821, with enclosures; and related to the successful opporations of the expedition under Major-Gen. Smith, in the Red Sen, against the Beni Boo Ali Arabs. This success, however, was not obtained, we regret to add, without considerable tome. Captain Parcy, of the Bombay European regiment, was killed in a night attack which the enessy made upon the force under General Smith, on the 10th of February; while Lieut-Colonel Cox, commanding the left Brigade, was dangerously, and Lieutenans Watkins and Burnet; of the Bombay European Regiment, were severely secunded. At the date of the dispatches they were all doing well. The left Brigade, was dangerously, and Lieutenans Watkins and Burnet; of the Bombay European Regiment, were severely secunded. At the date of the Zi March, and Assistant-Surgeon Gowan, of the 1st Battalicn, 7th Regiment, was killed. The following Officers were wounded:—Lieutenant Madden, 6th Regiment, severely; Lieutenant Cuppage, ditto, slightly; Eneign Malkin, same regiment, slightly. The loss of the enemy was much more considerable. The pirafical tribe of Beni Boo Ali is considered as effectually put down, while all our demands have been fully complied with, and the British Factory at Moche, placed on that respectable footing on which it ought alone to stand.

The Agay—General Deden, Horse Guarda, Nov. 1821.—The Commander in Chief has observed that the King's Regulation is generally neglooted and evaded, which enjoins Colome's and Company of the Standard Colome's and Company of

The Anny.—General Order, Horse Guarde, Nov. 1821.—The Commander in Chief has observed that the King's Regulation is generally neghoded and wader, which enjoins Colome's and Companying Officers of Corps to limit their regimental bands to one sericant for a master, and one musician for each troop or company; and that a number of men are now taken from the ranks and employed as musicians, to an extent that is equally injurious to the efficiency of the service, as it is a hardship upon those who are subjected to the expense attending this unanuthorsed briegalitrity. It is always painful 40 the Commander in Chief tarobserve a neglect of his Majesty's regulations; and His Royal Highness feels it the more necessary to put a stop to this abuse, under the present reduced state of the regimental establishments; which calls for the efficiency of every man as far as it is possible to effect it. But atthough the establishment of troops and companies in each regiment is reduced, yet it is not the wish or intention of His Royal Highness to place the bands upon a sale below what has been hitherto thought essential for the due performance of the duty required of cheen; and they may accordingly' be will maintained to the regulated extent of a serjeant-master and ten numicians. But Colonels and C muanding Officers of Corps are enjoined, and commanded, and held responsible, that his number shall not be exceeded under any circumstance, excuse, or arrangement whatever; and such men as are now, in contradiction to the King's regulations, elothed and maintained as Musicians beyond this number, must be immediately replaced in the ranks. General Officers are called upon, at their periodical inspections, to see that the letter and spirit of this order are strictly complied with—By command of His Royal Highness, the Commander in Chief,

The 18th and 19th regiments of light dragoous have recently been disbanded at Newbridge in Ireland. The 2d Ceylon regi-

The 18th and 19th regiments of light dragnous have recently been dislanded at Newbridge in Ireland. The 2d Ceylon regiment is referred to be disbanded—We imderstand a provisional liattalion is to be forward from the troops at the depot in the Isle of Wight; for the duties of Portsmonth garrison: the 15th regiment will in consequence be ordered on another service. The military force in Ireland is to be increased.

NAVAL APPOINTMENTS.—Captain the Hon. George Trefusis is appointed to command the Redwing; 18 guns, lately returned from the St. Helena station; Captain Joseph Nourse looses his pendant in the Andromache, 44 guns; Captain Thomas Webrridge is appointed to the Driver, an 18 gun sloop, in the room of Cartain Charles Reid, come on half-pay, having, served the stipulated period of peace service; Lieuterant John White (B), is appointed to command the Sylvia revenue cruiser, in the room of Lieuterant Kennedy.

dwring which Reynolds (grown rich) has ceased to write any thing, (nnless indeed we except two or three tragedies), at which they have felt so free an inclination to laugh, as at the revival of Saturday.

Munden's talents mellow by age—they lose none of their strength, but, if possible, increase in richness. We were quite delighted at the reception be met with, which appeared, as indeed it must have been, as truly gratifying to his feelings, as it was honourable to his professional talents.

It is quite agreeable to us to be able to pisle Drury

Lane, which we formerly declined noticing. If Covent Garden persists in the Extent for a week or two longer, amply found in every kind of provisions and comforts, and delighted with the security and executives of their security and executives of their security and executives of their security solution, had proved themselves most lively solution, Nov. 9.—The Rev. William French, D. 17.—10. Of Seam College, who on Sunday last elected Vice-Chanceller, this University for the year ensuing. The following stealers were on Wednesday last admitted Masters of Arts:—G. W. Tan Esq. of Triaity College; the Rev. T. Robertson, St. John's College; the Rev. B. Hanbury, and the Rev. R. H. Formby, I. College; the Rev. B. Hanbury, and the Rev. R. H. Formby, I. College; and the flet. H. Hubbard, Catherine Halk.—On Sunfamoraing the first level. H. Hubbard, Catherine Halk.—On Sunfamoraing the gradies of the ligh wind, an immense Lombardy population northwest corner of the Fellows' garden, St. John's College; and the west corner of the Fellows' garden, St. John's College; the Rev. B. Hanbury, and the Rev. R. H. Formby, I. College; and the west corner of the Fellows' garden, St. John's College; the Rev. B. John's College; the Rev. B. John's College; the Rev. T. Hubbard, Catherine Halk.—On Sunfamoral its supposed to be about 200 years old. A swallow was for in the Isollow of the trunk, in a torpid state.

On the cast side of Whitcomb-street, near the wester to the Mewa, the workmen discovered on Wednesday morn about 11 feet below the surface, a portion of an old wall, about feet thick, composed of Kentish rar, stone. There were also feet thick, composed of Kentish rar, stone. There were also feet the Chipsteed Church, five miles from Croydon; Wednesday mext, at Brown Ash Hill, eight miles from Croydon; Wednesday mext, at Brown Ash Hill, eight miles from Croydon; Thursday us at Brown Ash Hill, eight miles from Croydon; Thursday us at Brown Ash Hill, eight miles from Croydon; Thursday us at Hore miles from ditto.—Surrey Fox Hounds, to-morrow, at Kenthree miles from Croydon; Wednesday next, at ditto; San eight miles from ditto.—Surrey Harriers, to-morrow, at Kathere miles from Croydon; Wednesday next, at ditto; San Addington, three miles how and the eight miles from ditto.—Surrey Harriers, to-morrow, at Kenthree miles from Croydon; Wednesday next, at ditto; Sannest, at ditto.

Thadk.—In addition to the accounts we latefy published a improved state of trade in every part of the country, we are happy to state, that the manufactures of Leeds, Sheffield, &c. are so much more flourishing than they were, every hand is employed, and wages have risen.

In some parts of Yorkshire, and counties more and the already considerable fails of snow.

Custous Mistaur.—At a parish dinner in Salver, a since, after the audit of the parish accounts, the churchs wards unfortunately for him, entered the room some time after the diang, had been on the table, which drew from him the following exclusion:—"Worse than hogs! No grace!" which having had been on the table, which drew from him the following exclusion:—"Worse than hogs! No grace!" which having heaving in ill-humour, was sareastically answered by a blunt prenter —"Oh, yes; Grace was said before the grome was considered in ill-cart driving from Skinner-street towards Newgatz-street in his cart driving from Skinner-street towards Newgatz-street to look at it. This trick he repeated several times, so that to look at it. This trick he repeated several times, so that to look at it. This trick he repeated several times, so that to look at it. This trick he repeated should be able to accer whether or no it was the proper ticket for the day, and finding carter driving on, he ran to the honde's head; exized the weight insisted on being satisfied. The earter commenced a sasult upon the toll-taker with his whip, and injured his accuracy, as to render it necessary subsequently for him to proce assistance from a surgeon.—The Jury found the presence of another in mediately sentenced him to pay a fine of the day and finding carter driving on the coll-taker with his whip, and injured his accuracy, as to render it necessary subsequently for him to proce assistance from a surgeon.—The Jury found the presenc

Bow-Struct.—On Monday, Mr. Williams, one of the local of the Oxford coach, was charged with carrying one passenger up than is allowed by Act of Parliament, on the 19th of October. the inquiry, it appeared that the october.

How-Struct.—On Monday, Mr. Williams, one of the Struct canch, was charged with carrying one passenger was then is allowed by Act of Parliament, on the 19th of October. In the inquiry, it appeared that they have conclude the inquiry, it appeared that they apply for his fare, he could not be considered as a a ger, fas, in fact, he was his driver, or bisistant. The Magin however, convicted the proprietor in the spensity of 2012.

On Tuesday, R. Wood, a loop, 19 years yeld, was charged was a convenience of the proprietor of the spensity of 2012.

Matrock, the complainant, had a dispute wift Wiod, about on red worselved, used in the businesse of their masses, when the resource of the convenience of the convenien

Neapolitan Revolution took place, when her master's house was burned to the ground, and both he and her husband murdered; she escaped to Malta. The Government procured a passage for her to England, where she arrived in the hope of finding her father.—An officer was sent to the War Office, who soon returned with the intelligence that her father (who served in the regiment, as stated) had died soon after his return to England, leaving no arrears either of wages or prize-money.—The Lord Mayor said he would consider of some means of disposing of her; and ordered that, in the mean time, she should be kept in the Compter, and be well taken care of Grithwath.—William Whitaker Court was charged by Mr. Mills, whose son, a boy about 14, had been very dangerously wounded by the contents of a gun barrel, discharged by the prisoner on Monday evening in Fleet-market, where a number of disorderly boys and others were assembled, letting off fire-works, &c.—Mr. Mills stated, that his child had been sent on an errand towards that quarter, and was unfortunately passing at the time the prisoner fired the gun barrel, and received its contents immediately over the right eye; by the violence of the explosion the os frontis was fractured, so as a expose the brain, and the child's eye dreadfully lacerated, and almost destroyed. He was taken to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, where he still remains, according to the surgeon's certificate, in a very dangerous state.—The prisoner, who was in tears during the whole of the examination, seemed deeply affected at the consequence of his imprudence. He protested that it was entirely an accident; that he did not know the unfortunate sufferer, and did not point the berrel at any one. He had fired it off once before, and had no suspicion of any accident; there were several other boys letting off pistols and fire-works, and the watchmen standing by offered no molestation.—The Alderman remanded the young man until the state of the sufferer should be known, giving directions that he should not be put amo

PROVINCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

PROVINCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Alexarorap.—On Tuerday last, two beautiful little birds, kingfishers, were caught in this neighbourhood, by a boy, who, it appears, secured them in the act of fighting, and while they were so intent on their engagement, that they did not perceive his approach.

Corres.—Upwards of 50 convicts were last week sent on board the transports lying in our harbour. As this party was proceeding through Barrack-street, the mother of one of them handed him two bladders of spirits, which he concealed until he got on board one of the transports, and in the night he and a companion of his drank so profusely of this liquid, that one was found dead the next morning, and the other is in an almost hopeless state.

Hererord.—On Tuesday, the 30th ult. the harriers hunted a hare, when, being hardly pressed, dashed into a pool called Hell Hole, in the river Wye. On the opposite side stood a Baptist Divine angling without success. The huntenan's halloo roused the Rev. Gentleman, who, seeing the hare, patiently awaited her landaing, but in attempting to catch her, he missed his aim—and the animal, alarmed, began to swim back towards the dogs which were graping at her in the pool, when the preacher skilfully threw his line, hooked poor puss in one of her legs, and rescued her from a watery grave, for shother day's sport.

Drayron.—At our fair, the Elephant and Castle I.-n was so much thronged with farmers and others, that the kitchen floor foll into the cellar with a tremendous crash, and precipitated nen, women, and furniture, all below. Fortunately no lives were low. A sailor dropped from a room window, and halled those above with —"Brother measurates, keep your hold above:" another, with a wooden leg, could not be prevented from descending, crying out, "Let me go; d—n it, I can only break t'other leg."

Liverrool.—On the night of Saturday (the 3d inst.) a dreadful gale of wind from the N.W. accompanied with rain, commenced about one o'clock, and continued without intermission until about five o'clock. Severa packet, from Dublin for this port, was also driven on shore near Hoylake, and we understand has filled with water. The passengers and crew were fortunately saved.

Lincaster...—Radical Teracity—It is understood from good authority, that Joseph Jones, who was executed here on Saturday, the 20th ult. for burglary, and who had been for years the leader of a most desperate gang of burglars, was one of the poor innocent ereatures asserted, by the Radicals, to have been killed on the 16th of August, at St. Peter's Field, when dispersed by the military; that he was one of the missing, and was said to have been secretly luried at the Mainchester Infirmary. He acknowledged, previous to his execution, that he was one of the persons who attended at the meeting, for the purpose of reforming the State!

Liwes.—In the chalk, near Lewee, Mr. Mantell discovered, a few days ago, three vertebres of the celebrated fossil animal of Mastricht. This is the first instance of the remains of that oviparus quadruped being found in this country, or in any part of the Continent, excepting in St. Peter's Mountain, near Maestricht. Monrose.—Lat week as a farmer, with his sister, were riding in a cart, near Kincardine O'Niel, the former was thrown out, and so severely injured, that he expired in a few minutes afterwerds. And on Friday se'might, on the Wind-nill Brae, in this neighbourhood, a farmer from Dee-side was rode over by his cart, and died on Sunday last in the hospital, in consequence of the bruises and injury he sustained.

Musselnershe in Mineselburgh, where he was apprehended.

MUSJEINTROM.—Lately, a man a's conded from Manchester, with a considerable sum of money belonging to his employers, and was traced to a house in Musselburgh, where he was apprehended. Having made considerable resistance, the officer was forced to fire his pi-tol at him, when at the instant an assistant unluckily came in between; the ball however bloke his arm, and lodged in his side. In the confusion the culprit leaped the window and escaped. The ball was ensity extracted from the man's side, but amputation of the arm was deemed necessary.

Newastle.—On Saturday se'rnight, as Edward Buckham was driving a cwrt, laden with manure, on the road near Bullocksteads, there being three empty carts returning from Newcastle market behind him, the driver of the last, Wm. Brown, a farmer's son, when about 200 yards from the dung cart, set off at a gallop, passed the other two carts, which continued their usual pace, and drove his cart directly upon Buckham, who had retreated behind his own vehicle for eafety; the shaft of Brown's cart was forced through his body, clothes and al., and the end was broken eff short, protruding both ways! He died instantly.

Wallingroup.—An inquest was taken last week, on the body of a man, name unknown, who was found hanging to a tree at Sandford; in his pockets were found a pocket and neckhandkere/jiefs, a paper box, a knife, and two pieces of paper, on which were written the page of the page of the page of the page, on which were written the page of the page of the page of the page, on which were written the page of the page of the page, on which were written the page of the page of the page, on which were written the page of the page of ford; in his pockets were found a pocket and neckhandkere; less, a paper box, a knife, and two pieces of paper, on which were written, the words "malt"—"hops"—" ale," and several figures. He had called, in the evening, upon a woman named Clark, at the Turnpike, to beg a little water to drink, as he was dry, but the woman did not give him any. He appeared about 50 years of age, a both lusty man, about five feet two laches high, very dark swarthy complexion, asid dark hair. The Jury returned a verdict, "that the deceased was found langed; that in their opinion he lung himself: but whether he was deranged at the time, or otherwise, did not appear in evidence."

self: but whether he was deranged at the time, or otherwise, due not appear in evidence."

I'XBRIDGE:—On Tuesday, at a petty Se-sions here, two informers aid information against Mesers. Heron and Co. coal-merchants, brisending out a quantity of coals to a gentieman at Hillingdon, or sade, not having a perfect bushel measure with the same. The idendants were convicted in the penalty of 40s, and costs. As the nformers were leaving the town they were attacked by a great number of the inhabitants, amongst whom were some of Heron's corkinem, and pelted with dirt, blood, and filth of the worst decription. The Magistrate produced assistance and quelled the iot by taking a number of the offenders into custody, who were sumined the same day before the Bench, and ordered to find bail panswer the charge of the informers.

Conexen's Inquest: -On Wednesday alternoon an Inquisition Gonesea's Enquerre—On Wednesday afternoon an Inquisition as taken at the Northumberland Arms, Charlotte-street, Tot-inham-contri-road, before Mr. Stirling, jun. (who officiated for is father; the laster being unable to attend on account of the in-iry he sustained by the accident the preceding day), on the body f Mr. William Margion, aged 86—Ann, Gordon deposed, that he was house keeper to Mrs. Catherine Saint Paul, at the Vicar-ge-house, Putney. She knew the decented. He possessed conderable property, although he lived in the greatest obscuricy, and would let no person but witness enter his room, the door of which he kept padlocked inside, for fear of being robbed. He always laid on his bed in the day time, and sat ap at night, without any fise, and burning a lamp. Saturday evening, shout seven o'clock, witness called on the deceased, who was then very much indisposed. On witness leaving him, he duried her to lock him in the room and take the key with her. She did lock him in and put the key in her pocket, and on her going next day, about two o'clock, she found the deceased lying on his led with his clothes on quite dead. He had made his will about elx months and, wherein he had appointed her as executrix to his property, which was divided between witness and the nephew and niece of the deceased.—Mary Frow, the niece of the deceased, deposed that her uncle for the last 11 years never took his clothes off, in which he carried large sums of money, sewn up in different parts of his garments. On the night previous to his death, he sent for one oyster, half a pint of beer, and a pennyworth of figs, which he ate, and after drinking the porter, laid himself down on the straw, where he was found dead. Verdict—Died by the Visitation of God-and Horses, Holborn, on the body of H. Garling, aged 70, who destroyed himself by cutting his throat with a razur. The deceased was a hair-dresser, residing in Holborn, and had lately been in a melancholy state. Verdict—Temporary Derungement.—On Tuesday evening, an Inquest was held at the George and Dragon, in Vine-street, Horseferry-road, on the body of Caroline Hollis, the wife of a wheelwright, living in that street, who was found hanging by the neck, from a nail stack in the wall of the noon, between nine and ten o'clock on Manday morning. Two individuals, who lived in the same house, proved that she occasionally indulged in drinking; and that latterly she had been seen and heard speaking to herself; from which circumstance they thought her intellects deranged. On Sunday she dined at Borne with her husband and two childre and would let no person but witness enter his room, the door of which he kept padlocked inside, for fear of being obbed. He always laid on his hed in the day time, and sat up at night, without Lewis, of Lisia-street, who was left with two children younger than herself: they began to play with the fire, which caught the deceased's clothes, and she was burnt to death. The Jury condemned the gross neglect of persons having the care of children, leaving them unprotected in a room where there was a fire. Verdict—Accidentally burnt.—Sunday night, Mr. John Allen, who resided in Brandon-street, Walworth, went to bed as usual, and on the following morning, was found suspended by a rope, from the tester of the bod. Verdict of the Jury—Temporary Derungement.—On Monday, an Inquest was held at the Lord Cornwallis Tavern, Blackfriars-road, on the body of Peregrine Flicker, who put an end to his existence by taking poison. The deceased quarrelled with his wife in a very serious manner. In his passion he threatened destruction to himself and every one else. He went to a druggist's, and purchased two ounces of laudanum, and drank it in the street. Verdict—The deceased took poison in a fit of derangement.

NEW and ESTABLISHED SPORTING BOOKS.

Just published, elegabily printed in 8vo. on fine wore paper, and illustrated with numerous Cute, price 14s, in hoards, a New Edition of TYHOUGHTS on FOX and HARE HUNTING; an a Series of Letters to a Friend.—By PETER HECKFORD, Esq. The Publishers hog leave respectfully to recommend the present Edition of Mr. Beekford's valuable work to the notice of Sporting Gentlemen, which will be found to surpase all preceding Edition in elegance of paper, printing, and illustration. The Author's Notes, also, which have long been omitted, are here introduced, and render this Edition peculiarly desirable.

"r. Beckford, in his Book entitled "Thanshes an Manneth and the second of t paper, printing, and illustration. The Author's Notes, also, which have long been omitted, are here introduced, and render this Edition peculiarly distrable.

" r. Beckford, in his Book entitled " Thoughts on Hunting," has so well described our present practice of Hunting, and given such solid and rational active on the subject, that his Treatise has, from the date of its publication, become a general Text Book: indeed, all persons that delight in Field Sports should be in possession of it."—Scott's British Field Sports.

London: Printed for Sherwood, Neely, and Jones, Patermoster-rew; of whom may also be had,

2. Au RSSAY on HUNTING: in which a great variety of most important information is communicated under the heads Hunting, Lawfighres, Benefits, Pleasure, Passime, Game, Seent, Hounds, the Horse, Huntsman, Sagacity, &c. &c. Third Edition. In 8re. 7s. beards, in 4to. 12s.

3. BRITISH FIELD SPORTS; embracing practical Instructions in Shooting, Hunting, Coursing, Racing, Fishing, &c.; with Observations on the Breaking and Training of Dogs and Horses; also, on the Management of Fowling-pieces, and all other Sporting Implements.—By W. H. SCOTT. Second Edition: degantly printed, and illustrated with upwards of Sixty highly-finished Engravings. Price il. 15a. beards, demy 8to. or on royal paper, with proof plates, 31.3c.

4 A PRA TICAL ESSAY on BREAKING and TRAINING the ENGLISH SPANIEL, and POINTER: with Instructions for Shooting Flying.—Ity W. DOBSON, Esq. of Eden Hall, Cumberland. Second Edition, in 8rc. 10s. 6d. beards.

5 The SPORTEMAN'S REPOSITORY, comprising a Series of highly-finished Engravings, representing the Horse and the Dog in all their varioties; executed in the line manner, by JOHN SCOTT, from Original Painting by Marshall, Reinagle, Glipin, Stubbs, and Cooper. By the Author of "British Field Sports."—This work is beautifully printed in 4to. and is sould line with 40 highly-finished Cooper-Plate Engravings, and numerous Wood Cuts. Price Sguineas, in beards: it may be had in six parts, 10s. 6d. each earh; 8. The SPORTSMAN'S PROGRESS; a Poem, descriptive of the Pleasures derived from Field Sports: with Thirteen Wood Cuts. Price 1s Pleasures derived from Field Sports: with a ninees wow own.

3. SOMERVILE'S celebrated Poem of THE CHASE; to which is an nexed, his Poem of Field Sports; with Memoirs of the Author, and an Essay on the Chase, hy EDW. TOPHAM, Esq. Hiustrated with Engravings by Mr. SCOTT. Price 6s. in boards.

3. The ANGLER: a Poem, in Ten Cantos; comprising proper Instructions in the Art, with Rules to choose Fishing-rods, Lines, Hooks, Floats, Baits, and to make Artificial Files; Receipts for Pastes, &c.—Ry T. P. LATHY, Esq. With upwards of Twenty Wood Guta. 18s. &d. boards.

9. SPORTING ANECDOTES, original and selected; forming a complete De ineation of the Sporting World.—By PIERCE EGAN. Price 9s. in bds.

10. The SPORTEMAN'S VOCAL LibBRARY; containing nearly 46s of the best Songs relating to Hunting, Racing, Shooting, Angling, Hawking, the best Songs relating to Hunting, Racing, Shooting, Angling, Hawking Archery, &c. Price 9s, in boards.

Archery, &c. Price 9. in boards.

Just published, the Third Edition, considerably improved, price 6s. bds. of TMHE TRADER'S SAFEGUARD, and COUNTING-HOUSE GUIDE; containing the Lawarelating to Masters, Apprentices, Clerks, Shopmen, Journeymen, Manufacturers, &c.; setting up and exercising of Trades, &c.; Billis of Exchange and Promissory-Notes: Bankruptcy; Contracts and Agreements for the Bale and Purchase of Goods; Warranty, Payment, and Fellvery of Goods; Carriage and Booking of Goods; Warranty, Payment, and Fellvery of Goods; Carriage and Booking of Goods; Warranty, Payment, and Eulevier, Portugation of Contracters to others, and entering into Securities for their Conduct; with a variety of other topics, indispensable to be known by every Person connected with Tade.—By JOHN ROLLE, Esq. Barrister at Law.

London: Printed for Sheywood, Neely, and Jones, Paternoster-row.

VINTER COUGHS, &c. The ANODYNE EXPECTO-Y INTER COUGHS, &c.. The ANODYNE EXPECTOY RANT LOZENGE fare recommended to the Public as a Medicine of unrivaded effercy in the Cure of Coughs, Asthmas, Sura Throats, &c. &c. The Proprisons on at consider an enlegium necessary, a single trial laving invariably established their superior caims in the Cure of the above Complaints. Sold by the Proprietors, Howe and Co. &c. Tichborn-street, spaceite the County Fire Office; Sanger, 159, Oxford-street; Hawkins, 11, Old Bond-street; Ward, Holtoris; Stradling, Royal Exchange; and most respectable Medicine "enders, in boxes, at 1s. 14d. each. OOKING GLASSES AND SURNITURE.—Several large SECOND HAND PLATES, are now on Sale, at COOPER & SON'S Manufactory. 93. Bishops at afreet, Within.—Some of the larger sizes are admirably adapted for large disting rooms and cleatent drawing-rooms. A large assortment of rich Bishohod Chimney, Pier, and Cheval frances, with New Glasses of superior colour and brilliancy; the prices reduced beyond all former precedent. Plate Glass for Windows, Carriages, &c.—This article may also be manufactured as high as 130 by 72 Inches, 120 by 80, or to any given dimension. Noblemen, Gentlemen, Burveyors, Proprietors of Hobels, and others, will find this Warehouse deserving attention, from its extensive Variety of excellent Cabinet and Chair Work. The upholstery arrangements display some new specimens of peculiag neathers and elegance, with the still greater advantage of economy in life charge. Furniture delivered to any part of the country, without risk olinjury, or expence of packing.

**DATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP.—In to any part of the country, without risk of injury, or expence of packing.

DATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP,—In contemplating the lives and property that have been carriaced to the use of candles, it is natural to cone inde, that it has either been found discult to invent a complete substitute, or that it has either been found discult to invent a complete substitute, or that its injuritance has excaped observation, and it is not a triding gratification to the Patentee, that, in this invention he has so far succeeded in the at capit as to produce a light that embraces every perfection, and is alike applicable to every domestic ve, and can be so regulated as to suit every occasion. Its safety is such that maperson on seeling it can doubt for a moment its security against dar er of fare, and, learing any motion without agitating the fame, renders it lighly valuable as a movin slight. As a Chamber or Night Light, it can be regulated to burn the angest or shortest night, giving a never-failing brhame fame, ready at the smorent it is wanted, disappearing in the morning without smoke or smell, superseding the Bed Caudle, and, in its peneral use, a preserver v. a carpetsfrom tailow or wax; the price, in neat Japan Standa, libs, and in bison ze, its, to 20st. The same principle apples, and the Lamps equally portable, on peclestals, varying in sire and elegance, for the dining table, sideboard, study, bracket, door, or familight, &c.; and also Glass Green Hanging Lamps, for the hail, stairease, passage, conservatory, drawing room, mantlepiece, lustres, &c.; and for the accommodation of those who have aquare, vase, or other hall lauthorus, the burners of which are substructed this principle to such, with all its advantages, at 12s. to lish, each. Families in the country, who wish to avail themselves of this exportantly, have only to send the exact size of the aperture at the tortom of the lanthern is which the burner is introduced. It is a most evential acquisition in all those Lamps, that they require no attention w PATENT ECONOMICAL and UNIVERSAL LAMP.

prompt attention.

ARTIFICIAL TRETH, on an unprecedented principle.—Mr. GRAY, Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, continuous to supply the loss of Teeth, on the successful system introduced by himself in 1813, which has been found to answer all the purposes of the human Teeth, in mastication, articulation, appearance, &c. and to remain perfectly secure is their place sby the pressure of the almosphere; thereby avoiding pluming to stumps tying, twisting wires, or fastening aprings to the adjuding Teeth, or any attachment whatever to the remaining Teeth; and consequently, after the surface of the aprinced by the wearer with the greatest famility. To those who require whole or halfacts, Mr. Gray undertages, at his own risk, to furnish pieces whichs hall answer all the purposes above described, without the incumbrance of the aprire laprings, which are resumly attached to such pieces.—25.01d Burlington-atreet. 25.Old Burlington-street.

-38.0ld Burlington-street.

LALL'S sublime TURKISH PASTE, CIRCASSIAN and FACE POWDER.—The above elegant preparations, which are sequineersally approved by Ladies of the first rank and fashion, as the most innocent and beautiful assistant to nature, by imparting to the skin that soft and inconceivable fairness, is new prepared, in the highest state of pen fection; the Proprietor having lately imported a quantity of the necessary ingredients, will prevent in future any possible disappointment.—One Pound Note Packages, containing two layer Pots and two Packets of the Powder, or four small Pots and four small Packets, are forwarded to fill parts of Town or Country, and warranted to arrive safe.

N. B. Observe the above are only to be had of the most respectable Dealers of Perfumery or Milliners in the Country, in single Pots, at los, foil and Said day and the Pewder in Packets, & ed. and ls. 6d. and should be arked for in the name of the Proprietor, whose signature is on the outside of each.—Patent Violet Soap and Chemical Laboratory, No. 28, Hadlew-street, Burton Crescent, London.—J. B. HALL.

DURGHSS's NBW SAUCE for general purposes, having given Burton Crescent, Lendon.—J. B. HALL.

DURGES's NBW MAUCE for general purposes, having given burton great approbation, and the demand for it continuing to increase JOHN BURGES and SON begunest respectfully to offer this their best acknowledgments to the Public for their liberal patronage of the same: its utility and great convictioned in all climates, has recommended it to the most strictlight and great convictions, who have all spiken highly in the resemmendation.—It is prepared by them ONLY; and for preventing disappointments to families, all possible care has been recorted to, by each bottle being sealed upon the cork with their firm and address, as well as each label having their signature, without which it cannot be genuine.

JOHN BURGESS and SON'S long established and nuch-esteemed ESENCE of ANCHOYEE, continues to be prepared by them after the same manner that has given the greatest satisfaction for many years.—Warehouse, 107. Strand, corner of the Savoy-steps, London.—The original Fish-Sance Warehouse.

GOUT, RHBUMATION, COUGITS, and COLOS,

IFE PILLS, entirely Vegetable, discovered by the Rev. C.

A CARRINGTON, Vicaro Berkeley, one of his Majesty's Deputy Licuteauts, &c. for the County of Glosses.er.—By encreasing the energy of the brain, and pouring new Ble and vigour into the constitution, they exable nature to make incredible efforts for the expulsion of disease, be one organic destruction,—In Colds, Coughs, Rheumatism, Atonic Gout; in Female Complaints; in Flatulenes, Stekness, and Pains of the Stonned; in Nervota Affections; the bursting agony of sudden Grief, or the deep Heart Acly of settled melancholy; in every Sparmodic Pain, from the sightest Cramp to the most exerculating Cholic, their stupendons success obscures all former romedies. Even in the most agglavated cases of Gout in the Stomenhythey often arrest the progress of Death, and had to a recovery; they restore the digality of man and parent the enfeebled and suwary volaries of Hessure.—Sold, in Boxes, at is, idd. and 4s. 6d. each, by Harry and Son, Brisol, (a libout whose Name on the Stump, they cannot be Genuin-); also by W. Sutton and Co.; Barclay's; Butter's; and Sanger, 15.; Oxford street, London; and by all other Medicine Venders in Tows and Courry.

TARENCH PERFUMERY.—Jean Devenders's ESPRITE GOUT, RHEUMATICAL COUGHS, and COLDS

by all other Medicine Venders in Tows and Country.

TRENCH PERFUMERY....JEAN DEVERTAUR'S ESPRIT DE LAVANDE AUX MILLEPLEURS, processes all the balmy fragrance of the freshest flowers; its aromatic, cephalic, and nervine virtues are instantly diffused through the most spacious apartments, while the fragrance of its scent revives every person around.—Notid in bettles, prince 2s. 6d. and 5s. at the Depot for French Perfumery, 2o, tembard-street, London; where is to be had JEAN DEVEREAUX'S MONTPHLLIER SOAP for rendering the complexion delicately amooth, clear, and even; imparting a virifying grateful perfume, and giving to the skin a most descious feel and luxurfouls brilliancy. Price 2s. 6d. per packet.—Noid retain 68, Cornhail; No. 9, Regent-street, Pall Mali; 129, Oxford-street; 59, St Jamos's-street; 22, Hatton Garden, and wholesale by Price and Gornell Perfumers to His Majesty.

ET A gratuitous sample (on a handker-hief) of Jean Devereaux's celebrated Esprit de Lavande aux Milletieurs, will be presented to any Ludy or Gentleman, which will prove its pleusing and refreshing progerties, by applying to any or his Agents, or at his Depot, No. 25, Lombard-street, London.

The DUKE of YORK and LORD ERSKINE.

THE above Prince has often remarked that his Lordship looks like Lord Erskine himself when he wears his own Itair. His Lordship has used the RUSSIA Old upwards of Tweive Years, which has always preserved his Hair; but Ladies and Gentlemen ought to be as particular as Lord Erskine, in laving it from the Pro, rieter, or from a respectable Vender, then the will be auter to have it required.

preserved his Hair; but Ladies and Gentlemen outsit to be as particular as Lord Erskine, in having it from the Pro, rictor, or from a respectable Vender, then they will be sure to have it genaine.

Thousands of Ladies and t-entlemen have a good Head of Hair by using Prince's celebrated Russia Oil. But some Ladies being personeded to see other Oils, they soon found the difference, as their Hair began to fail of, or getting grey. In short, Prince's celebrated Russia Oil is the best Oil for dreasing, Pfeserving, and promoting the growth of Hair, and if used constantly, not a tlair will fall off or turn grey; clears the Scarf, and keeps the Head and Hair clean, and by using it reculatly for a few months, will restore the Hair on the bald part, if the seast igns of roots are remning, which has been proved by hundreds.

Ask for Prince's Bluesia Oil, at 4a, the small buttle; or a bottle, containing the quantity of nearly five small ones, at 11s, which he a great sawing; and observe "Prince" on the wrapper and scale of each bottle; without, it is not genome, and cannot answer the purpose.

Sold wholesale, retail, and for expertation, by the sole Proprietor, A. Prince, Off removed to No. 9, Poland-street, Oxtord-street, near the Pantheon; and by Mr. Smyth, Perfumer to his Majesty, New Bond-street; and by most principal Princers and Siedleine Venders.

Proved by Afficially, before, the Lord Mayor of London, that A. Prince is the original Proprietor of the Russia Oil; therefore if any Perfumer, Medicine-vender, Hair-dresser, or any one size, sells Russia Oil, that is not Prince's, they are impostors, as they sell commetricity to their customer, and cannot answer the purpose.

Eff. Ladies and dentlemen will be particular, as there are unprincipled.

annot answer the purpose. R.F. Ladics and fertlemen will be particular, as there are unprincipled Transa la townard-country who sell connected, and my they are genome

LURD MAYOR'S DAY.

IOND MAYOR'S DAY.

On Friday, being what is termed Lord Mayor's Day, the Right Hon. Christopher Magnay, the new Lord Mayor, with the Corporation, in the city barges, proceeded to Westimister to invite the Judges to the civic banquet and Guidhall. In the Court of Exchequer, Baron Graham addressed his Lordship on the duties of his office. He did not doubt that the worth individual would be prompt to repress every disorder; but the eye of the Chief Magistrian the court of the county of the county, in such of the county, in county o

Mr. Curlewis, of King-street, Covent-Garden.

Fast Salling. — The Victory steem yacht left the Custombouse on Sunday last, about a quarter past eight o'clock in the morning, and, after encountering a hurricane, arrived at Margate 25 min. after three, the same afternoon, having performed the voyage in six hours and three-quarters, being at the rate of about 15 miles an hour. The same yacht left Margate at six o'clock on Tuesday morning for Ramsgate, and toyed from thence a dismasted ship, called the Nimble, from Sinyrua, to Standgate Creek, before six o'clock the same evening, and again returned to Ramsgate before five o'clock on Wednesday morning, when she took in tow another dismasted vessel, called the David, Capt. Donaldson, and brought her up to the London Docks before midnight the same day. This yacht, and the Royal Hero, were both in readiness to attend his Majesty from the Continent, if their services had been required, particularly the Royal Hero, with whose performance the King was so much delighted upon his trip to the Continent, as to command it to be designated "Royal Hero."

On Thursday, being the Princess Augusta's Birth-day, the morning was ushered in with the ringing of bells, and in the evening there was a grand Ball in the Town Hall, at Windsor.

On Friday the Duke of York paid a visit to the King at his Palace, in Pall Mall, on his arrival in England.

OLYMPIC THEATRE, Newtastle-street. Strand.—To-Morrow, MONDAY, Nov. 12, 1821, and following Evenings, will be presented a new Extravaganza of Fun, founded on a popular production of Fancy, and interspersed with a variety of Airs and Graces, called LIFE in LONDON.—Tom. Mr. Baker—Jerry Hawthorne, Mr. Oxberry. To conclude with TEREZA TOMKINS; or, the PRUITS of GENRVA!

On Thursday will be produced a New Tragedy, in one Act, the principal Characters by Mr. Oxberry, Mr. Taylenre, Miss Healey, and Mrs. Pearce.—And on the Saturday following, Mr. H. JOHNSTON, and Miss S. BOOTH will be introduced in a new Burletta, called ZORAYDA; or, Scenes in Pashionable Life.

NEW LINEN HOUSE, CORNER OF CAVENDISH-STREET, OX FORD-STREET.

THE very general complaints of the want of durability in IRISIT LINEN, induced the Proprietors of the above Establishment, some time ago, to determine ou a personal inspection of the principal Linen Districts of Ireland, and by purchasing Cloth in the grey state, and actually superintending the Bleaching of the same on the old plan, fairly on the Grass, without the use of Acids, they have great satisfaction in amounting their complete success and first arrival of Samples, which for beauty of Colour and Pabric cannot be equalled. The Prices are settled, from its advancing by original numbers to the finest quality. A quantity of Sheetings upon the same plan, particularly a few Pieces considered superior to Bussia. The Patent Double Damask Table Cloths, all sizes to three yards long (none larger being made), to be had only at this House. Also every description of Goods usually kept by the best shops, upon the very first term.

N.B. The new Linens will not be sold in less quantities than a Piece, and N.B. The new Linens will not be sold in less quantities than a Piece, and without abatement, T. COATS and Co. No. 141, Oxford-street, corner of Cavendish-street.

MPROVED SPECTACLES, at reduced Prices.—GEORGE SCOTT, Optician and Mathematical Instrument-maker, 4, Butcherinillane, Newgate-street, bega leave to acquaint the Public, that he has an extensive and superior ASSORTMENT of SPECTACLES, with the less telar Peblies and Glasses, carefully selected, and salpred with the greatest accuracy to near and distant sight. Also, coloured Glasses, of superior quality, highly recommended by the faculty for the aid and protection of weak sight, from the force of light, heat, nod dust.—Mathematical Instruments of all descriptions manufactured on the latest improvements.

& J. SIVEWRIGHT are selling undrawn Turkers and Shares at their Offices, 37, Cornbill, 33, Haymarkets and 11, Hall on, where they sold and shared in the Last Lottery, 4,421, $25,000; Two Prizes of $4,000, &c. &c.

Rich Wheel. All Money. Two of £80,000 | Three of £5,000 ! Two of £2,000 ! &c. &c. Not Two Blankwise a Frize. 6,500 Tickets already Drawn. £30,000 Money! for the first Arawn Frize Second Day. 50th This Month (Nevember).—Tickets and Shares are also selling by their Ag-nts.

ADELPHI THEATRE, STRAND.

By Authority of the Right Hon. the Lord Chamberlain.

PAC-MORROW, Nov. 13, Tugsday, 13, and Wednesday, 14, 1821, will be presented (28th time) a new Comie Burietta, in Three Acts, entitled CAPERS at CANTERBURY! Capt. Somerville, Mr. Wrench; Jacob Grogram, Mr. Wilkinson. After which, the favourite Ballet of L'AMOUR; or, Wilks NO POISON. To which will be added, an entirely new Burietta, translated from the French, called The MARRIED BACHELOR; or, MASTER and MAN. To conclude with (19th time) a new Grand Melo-Dramatic Burletta, in Three Acts, selitled The CORSAIR'S BRIDE! An entirely new Burletta, in Three Acts, will be produced on Thursday next.

GDIPUS, by Sophecles, increases in popularity. It will be repeated until further actice.

ROYAL WRST LONDON THEATRE,

Tottenham street, Charlotte-street, Fitsroy-square.

TO-MORROW, and every Evening, CDIPUS. (Edipus, Mr. Huatley; Jocasta, Mrs. Glover. After which, an Interlude called SEPARATION, in which Mrs. Glover will perform. To conclude with a Drama entitled the WEDDING RING, in which Mrs. Foote will make ber first appearance. (Edipus, is published, as adapted for representation, and may be had at the Theatre.

may be had at the Theatre.

JUST RECEIVED FROM BRISTOL.

JUST RECEIVED FROM BRISTOL.

1. The Design.—II. The Reasons Why.—III. The Blue Pill.—IV. Introduction to "the Age of George the Third."—V. The political Opinions of Mr. Tristram Shandy, his Pamily, and Friends.—VI. Modern Knighthood.—VII. The Draper, or Diaper Knight.—VIII. Irish Conciliation.—IX. Horace, Ode 7. initiated.—X. Sia Rebest Wilson's Combistrondence and Reasons for his Discussal from the Amp.—XI. The Devil and Dr. Watson.—XII. Message to Mr. Hume, from Twenty-nine Thousand Nine Hundred and Ninety-nine British Officers.—XIII. Parody on Hamlet's Sofiloquy, by Lignum Vite; or, "Wood to the Line."—XIV. Elegant Extracts, consisting of "Generosity to a fallen Buemy; A Traveller's Life; Akthentic Biography; Interesting Dialgue; Modern Travells: Repentant Sinners; The Captive Princess; Audi alteram partem; Trifling Mistakes; Unfounded Suspicions indignantly repelled; A Libel on the Magistracy of the Kingdom.—XV. Finance Report; The Quarter's Revenue.—XVI. The Apricultural Report.

A Finance Report; The Quarter's Revenue.—XVI. The Agricultural Report.

This novel Periodical was first published on the 1st Nov. and is punctually supplied on the first Day of every Month, by Messra, F. C. and J. Rivington, Bo ksellers Dayrandinary to the King; St. Paul's Church-yard, and Waterloo-place. Price 2s.

ITALIAN LITERATURE.

THE following useful Works have been recently published by Lackington Hughes, Harding, Mavor, and Lepard, Pinsbury-square.

PERE DESLE ABBATE METASTASIO, Scelte da Leonardo Nardini, ad uso degli studiosi della lingua Italiani. Nuova edizione, riveduta da Gio Desgostini, Professore di Lingua Italiani. Nuova edizione, riveduta da Gio Desgostini, Professore di Lingua Italiana, e gia Masatto di, S. A. R. la defonta Principessa Carlotta di Galles, 2 tom with a beautiful Portrait of Metastasio, engraved by Wright. Price 10s. 6d.

2. IAA GERUSALEMME LIBERATA, di TORQUATO TASSO, con Note, ossia splegazioni di luoghi alquanto occuri, e citazioni di passi imitati dagli antichi Riveduta da Gio Desgostini. Nuova edizione, with a fine Portrait of Tasso, 2 tom 10s. 6d.

3. ORLANDO FURIOGO di ARIOSTO, 4 tom. 11.

4. GIL BLAS, tradotta dal PIETRO CROCCHI, 4 tom. 11. Is.

5. LITURGIA OVVERO FORMOLA DELLA PREGHIERE PUBBLICHE SECONDO L'USO DELLA CHIESA ANGLICANA, col Salterio di DAVIDE. Traduzione Italiana corretta, ed aumentata da GIAMBATTESTA ROLANDI; Con aggiunta di Rime Saere. Elegantly printed.

6. SELESCTIONS of CLASSIC ETALIAN BONTEN.

BATTRSTA ROLANDI; Con aggunta of time Shere, siegamy printed, price 6s. bound.

6. SELECTIONS of CLASSIC 4TALIAN POETRY, from the most celebrated works of Tasso, Ariosto, Dente, and Petrarch, for the use of Students in the Italian Language, exhibiting the grammatical order of the words in the eriginal, and Hustrated with English Notes, by T. B. DEFFERRARI 2 vols. 12mo. price 14s.

7. GRAGILIA'S ITALIAN ORAMMAR, on a very simple and easy plan, price 5s. EXERCISES adapted to the above Grammar, price 4s. COLLECTION of ITALIAN LETTERS, by GRAGILIA, price 6s.—Also, GRAGILIA'S ITALIAN DICTIONARY, price 7s.

27 The above order of Italian Ecisool Books, by Sig. Graglia, is recommended to Poptle in that language, from the simplicity of the terms by which his plan of teaching is explained.

INDEPENDENCE OF MEXICO.

THIS important occurrence is predicted with almost prophetic accuracy, is a work entitled MEMOIRS of the REVOLUTION of MEXICO, by Mr. ROBINSUN, and published by Messrs. Lackington, Hughes, Harding, Mayor, and Lepard, Finsbury-square.

In this interesting performance the causes leading infallibly to the independence of that wast empire, are deseloped with a measurity hand; the military and political transactions which marked its struggle are faithfully narrated; and remarks and suggestions of the deepest importance to the commercial interests of this country, arising naturally out of this new era in the History of Spanish America, are ably and distinctly pourtrayed.

DELL ON THE HERTHER Acc. Sec. Med. 124.

In the History of Spanish America, are ably and distinctly pointrayed.

BELL ON THE URETHRA, &c.—8vo. bds. 12a.

TREATISE on the DISEASES of the URETHRA, VESICA URINARIA, PROSTATE and RECTUM. By CHARLES BELL, Surgeon to the Middlesex Hospital; and Lecturer of Anatomy in the School of Great Windmill-street. A New Bdition. With Notes, containing the Criticisms of the Elitors of the Foreign Editions, and the Opinions of Foreign Authors on these Diseasea. By JOHN SHAW, Surgeon; Demonstrator of Anatomy in the School of Great Windmill-street.

2. A DESCRIPTION of MR. CHARLES BELL'S MUSEUM of NATURAL and MORBID ANATOMY, in Great Windmill-street, exhibiting slorily, the arrangement of the Collection, and pointing out the most remarkable subjects to the attention of the visitor.—4to. 2s.

3. An RSSAY on the PORCES which MOVE the BLOOD, as distinguished in their Laws from those of Lead Matter. By CHARLES BELL, Surgeon to the Middlesex Hospital, &c. &c. &c.—1mm. boards, 2s. 61.

4. A MANUAL for the STUDENT of ANATOMY; containing, rules for displaying the Structure of the Human Body. By J. SHAW, 8vo bds. 10s.

5. A MAP of the INTERNAL BAR: copied from the drawing used in the Lecture Room of Great Windmill-street, explanatory of the course of vibrations through the several cavities. Coloured 7s. 6d.—London: printed for Burgess and Hill, Medical Booksellers, 5s, Great Windmill-street, Haymarket.—N. B. A Medical Circulating Library and Reading. Room.

DONSOLATION to the TREMULOUS WRITER.—The Public may look to this most singular and unique invention with confidence, as an inestinable source of confort to those who experience any difficulties in the command of the pen, accasioned by tremour in nervous affection, heat of climate, agitation of spirite, excess, or over exertion, was new from age or otherwise, injury of the thumb or fingers by sprain or otherwise, even to the less of part. This happy relief exists in a little FN-STRUMBNT, the appearance of which, when in use, escapes observation, is capable of giving firmness, confidence, and freedom, and cannot fail to assist the deciping powers of a good peauman, and materially improve the performance of a bad one. It is hothoused by the patronage and recommendation of Surgeon Astley Cooper, and other highly respectable professional gentlemen; in addition to which it may not be improper to queste the involuntary expressions of two scientific and first writing-masters, viz.—Dr. Kelly: "How exhauntinary that, so long as this world has existed, this has not been produced before; it will not only give relief to the tremulous, but is capable of assisting a good writer." Mr Tomkins: "Millions yet unborn will hees the invention." A few minutes practice will prove its efficacy, and it has this advantage over all medicine, its power increases in use, and one prescription will last for He. Medic in clastic gold; price 2 guineas. Sold for the patentee, by T. Pearce and Co. 568, facing the front of St. Clement's Church, Strand. Lotters from any part of the country, post paid, will UNS, by the most esteemed London Makers.—Messrs. KENT.

UNS, by the most esteemed London Makers.—Messrs. KRNT, AVRRY, and VINCENT, No.63, Bond-street, corner of Brock-street. Hanover, square, beg to acquaint Noblemen and Sportamen, they have now for SALE, the hest and most externive STOCK of Double and Single Barrelled GUNS in the Kingdom; among which are about 100 of Joseph and John Manton's, and a proportionable Assertment of all the other approved John Manton's, and a preportionable Assignment of all the other approved Makers, viz. Wm. Smith, Purdy, Moore, Stavens, Wilkhason, Mortimer, Rgg, Forsyth, Nock, Clark, &c.; the whole of which are warranted, and if not approved, may be exchanged within twelve mouths. Also Travelling, Holster, and Pocket Pistols, from 14s. a pair upwards. The greatest price given for allkinds of Fire Arms, Swords, &c.

TICH WHEEL—ALL MONEY PRIZES!—2 of £30000; 2 of £1,01%; 4 of £500, &c. &c. And a full proportion of Smaller Prizes, making NOT TWO BLANKS TO A PRIZES 5,500 Tickets were drawn the First Day, and above is the State of the Wheel for the SECOND DAY, NOVEMBER 20, when the First-drawn Prize will receive £30,000 MONEYH!

Tickets and Shares, warranted undrawn, are Selling by HAZARB and Co. the Contractors, at their old-established and fortunate Odice, 93, Royal Exchange; 26, Cornbill; and 324, Oxford-street; where they Sold, in the Last Lettery, No. 15,702, a £21,000; £6,054, a £15,000; and ALL the £30,000 Prizes in a former Lottery.

TTATE OF THE CAPITALS.—2 of £30,000; 3 of £5,000; 2 of £2,000; 2 of £1,000; 4 of £500; NOTTWO BLANKS TO A PRIZE!—SWIFT and Cs. at their Old and Fortunate Offices, No. 11, Poultry: 12, Charing Cross; and 31, Aldgate High Street, are Selling Undrawn Tickets and Shares for the Second Day of Drawing, being the 30th OF TUN PRESENT MONTH, when the First Drawn Price will receive £30,000

WAYPE, Furrier to the King, late of Panton-street, Haylo market, and the Surlington Areade, has the bonour to acquaint the Neblity and Public in general, that he has REMOVED to more extension Premises is REGENT. STREET, near the County Fire-office, where he salicits a coutinuance of their favours.—C. W. has manufactured a large assortment of all descriptions of rich and elegant Furs into the most tables, able articles of dress for the season.

LONDON MARKETS

CORN EXCHANGE, FRIDAY, Nov. 9.

There has been a good supply of Wheat this week, and some quantity remained over from Monday, hence the trade was exceedingly dull, and only the finest parcels supported that day's prices; the ordinary sorts are certainly cheaper. Fine Barley sells on quite as good terms, but the coarse ordinary kinds are fulls, per quarter lower. The Oat trade is extremely dull, and rather cheaper than otherwise. In Beans and Pease there is no alteration to notice.

mon to notice.
RBTURN I	PRICE of GRAI	IN, on board Ship, as under.
Reser Red Wheat (no	T 40. 40.	Maple
Min.	w/103. 184.	Diaple
Pine	600 000	Old
ž		Ula
Ryo	984 914	Food Oats
Raylay	400 040	2 mm Cadacoco
Balle)	230 . X18.	Fine
Malt	480 000	Petatoe ditao
Pine.	000.	E arest to wasting
Pune		PMIC
Hog Peaser,
4844 48 414181 B 44 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4	T	A CONTRACTOR OF THE PARTY OF TH

HE GENERAL AVERAGE PRICES of BRITISH CORN, as twented weekly from the Inspectors in the Maritime Cities and Towns in Espand and Wales, according to the Garette of the 20th of October, calculate in Gallana.

orneral average write governs imperiation.

Wheat, 55s id—Barley, 26s 7d—Oats, 20s 1d—Rye, 24s 4d—Beau, 25s 1d

Pease, 31s 19d.

	D AND SILVER.
Portugal Gold, in Coin 0 0 9 p. es. Foreign Gold iff Bars 3 17 103 New Doubloons . 3 13 6	New Dollars . 0 4 92 p.s. Silverin Bara Stand 0 4 11 New Louis, each . 0 0 0
COURSE OF EXCHA	NUB FRIDAY , Not. 9.
Amsterdam 12 14 C.F.	Trieste
Ditto at Sight 12 11	Madrid 36 Cadis M
Rotterdam 12 15	Bilbon 354 Barcelana . 1
Antwerp	Seville 334 Gibrattar 2
Hamburgh 37 10 -	Lieghern 47 Genes
Altona 37 11	Venice 27 60 Malta
Paris, 3 days Sight 25 60	Naples 394 Palerma
Ditto 25 90	Lisbon 50 Oporto y
Bordeaux 25 90	Rie Janeiro 46
Frankfort on Main 156	Bahia
Petersburg — 3 U	Dublin 04 per cent.
Vienna 10 18 Ess.fle.	Cork 9

Petersburg 10 18 Es. Se. Cork 9 per cest.

Vienna 10 18 Es. Se. Cork 9 per cest.

COMMERCIAL REPORT,

FROM THE 29 nn october to the 10 nn November.

Business within the last fortnight has been very uninteresting. The importers have manifested a strong disposition to realize which has had the effect of depreciating several commodities. This remark is particularly applicable to Rums, about 1,000 puncheon, principally Jamaica, were disposed of by the hammer last week. Choice marks, 20s. to 30s. Over proof brought from 2s. to 2s. 40 per gallon, which were considered fair prices, whilst those of grester strength, but of ordinary quality, only brought from 1s. to 4s. per gallon, being a reduction of from 7s. to 4s. per gallon, with a stock bordering upon 40,000 casks (and when 15,000 is considered a fair average quantity), there does not appear any among ground for much amendment; notwithstanding, the currency is low beyond precedent. Yesterday there was some revival of demand, and in some instances, a trifling advance reakted. The West India Dock Company, have reduced the reat from 3t. to 3b. Midding 34s. to 38s. Good, 61s. to 68s. Fine 72s. to 77s. to 23s. Midding 34s. to 38s. Good, 61s. to 68s. Fine 7s. to 77s. to 23s. Midding 34s. to 38s. Good, 61s. to 68s. Fine 7s. to 77s. to 23s. Midding 34s. to 38s. Good of 1s. to 68s. Fine 7s. to 77s. to 23s. Midding 1st. to 61s. to 68s. Fine 7s. to 77s. to 23s. Midding 1st. to 61s. to 68s. Fine 7s. to 77s. to 23s. Midding 1st. to 61s. to 68s. Fine 7s. to 77s. to 23s. Midding 1st. to 61s. to 68s. Fine 7s. to 77s. to 23s. Midding 1st. to 61s. to 68s. Fine 7s. to 77s. to 61s. to 68s. Fine 7s. to 77s. to 23s. Midding 1st. to 61s. to 68s. Fine 7s. to 77s. to 61s. to 68s. Fine 7s. to 77s. to 61s. to 68s. Fine 7s. to 77s. to 61s. to 68s. fine 1st. to 61s. to 68s. Fine 2ss. to 77s. to 61s. to 6

			LIC PU
STOCKS.	Mon.		Wed.		Fred.	, Se/.
Bank Stock		240	240	236 }	•	-
3 per Cent. Reduced	j	773	773	76	i	1 771 1
3 per Cent. Consols		764	78	77		77.5 84
34 per Cent Consols		875	872	874	;	-
Consols for Account	=	78	781	78	=	701 11
4 per Cent. Cousols	Hollday.	0.5	96	96	Holiday	96
5 per Cent. Navy	a	111	iiit!	110	E	110 111
Bank Long Annuities	1 - 4	193	191	193	1 - 4	197-16 1
India Bonda	1	70 D	71 0 4	·	١.	70 71
Exchequer Bille, 2d		5 p	4 p	5 p	l	4.6
Ditto, 2id					Į.	-
Onmium			_		ĺ	-

BIRTHS. On Thursday last, in Great Geo e-street. Westminster, the Last

C. King, Esq. of a son.

There are more Russian Princes and Princesses in London than in Peterburgh. The birth of another Russian Oil Prince on the 7th Inst.

At his Grace's seat, Goodwood, the Duchess of Richmond, of a son. In Upper Brook-street, the Countess of Waldegrave, of a son. On Wednesday, at his house, in Hill-street, the Lody of N. W. Ridler Colono, Esq. M. P. of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

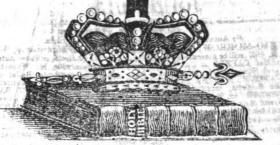

On Friday, Nov. 2, at St. John's Church, Cheater, by the Rer. William Hocknei Molineux, the Rev. disorge Hennsing, of Hampton, Middleed, is Elizabeth, second daughter of Win. Yate, Esc. of Boughton, Chesbire.

On Wednesday, the 7th inst. at the Abbey Church, Shrewbarr, bita Rev. W. O. Rowland, Mr. John Fred. Chutton, of Craven-street, Straid, solicitor, to Lettita, daughter of Mr. Roger Hughes, of Althrey Wood Hosse, Wresham.

Wrexbein, On the 28th ult. at Brusseils, Colonel Berringess, to Mrs. Dickloson. On the 2d inst. Capt. Libanus Tilsley, of Militard, Montgomeryshire, to bis-abeth, daughter of J. Webster, Esq. of Woodsers, At St. Antrews, Auckland, on Wednesday, see hoight, Captain Clusteibuik, of the 55th regt. of Poot, to Mary Ann, ranagest daughter of the late flow.

LONDON: Printed and Published by R. T. WEAFER, at No. 11, JOHNSON'S QUURT; FLEET-STREET, where only Communications to the Editor, (post paid) are received.

Digitized by Google

BULL.

" FOR GOD, THE KING, AND THE PEOPLE!"

No. 49.

The state of the same

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1821.

Price 7d.

NEW MUSIC.—THE CORONATION.

THE OVERTURE, with the favourite AIRS in the GRAND CORONATION, as performed with unbounded applause at the Theatre Royal Drury Lane, composed and arranged for the Piano Forte, by T. Cooke, price 3s.—Published and sold by Chappell, and Co. Music Sellers to His Majesty, No. 5a, New Bond-street.

Majesty, No. 50 New Bond-street.

COTTISH RONDOS, for the PIANO FORTE, by J. F. BURROWES. No. 1, price 1s. 6d.; Goolding and Co. 20, Soho-square. NEW MUSIC FOR THE PIANO FORTE.

IS MAJESTY'S WELCOME HOME, a First Set of naw Quadrilles, in which are introduced the celebrated La Gogue and La Gavotine: also King George the Fourth's Hanoverian Valce, as danced at the Foreign Courts, selected and arranged, with proper figures, by Oswald Johnstone, price 4s. Le Tour de Hanover, Rondo a la Valce, composed by J. W. Holder, Mins. Bac. Oxon, price 3s. Operatic Air. No. 10, "My native Highland Home: Air by Bishop, arranged by J. W. Holder, price 3s. Fourth Pantasie, by F. Ries on the Air," and has she then failed in her truth" price 4s. Fitth Fantasie by ditto on the Air, "Come live with me," by ditto, price 3s. Fitth Fantasie by ditto and the Air, as a Rondo, by ditto, price 3s. Philbs. Strike home." Introduction and Variations by J. P. Burrowes, price 3s. 6d. A Second Edition of the Coronatism Divertimento, by J. Parry, price 3s. - Published by Goulding, D'Almaine and Co. No. 29, Soho-square.

price 3s. 6d. A Second Edition of the Coronatism Divertimento, by J. Parry, price 3s. Published by Goulding, D'Almaine and Co. No. 20, Sobe-Square.

**EW MUSIC.**—KIALLMARK'S universally-admired Variations on the Piano Forte, by D. Bruguier, price 3s. The celebrated German Air. Miss Silectrani's Recreation, surpend admired as a Piano Forte Lesson, arranged as a Duett for the Harp and Piano Forte, by the Author, John Paddon, price bs. —Latour's favourite "Le Retour de Windsor, arranged as a Duett for two Performers on the Piano Forte, by D. Brugnier, price 5s.—The popular Hungarian Air, arranged with interesting Variations, for two Performers on the Piano Forte, by J. Jay, M.D. price 3s. —Boleddiens favourite Overture, "Dn Calife de Bagdad," arranged as a Duet for two Performers on the Piano Forte, by T. Goodban, price 4s. —The above Duetts are particularly recommended to the notice of the Musical World, being arranged by the first Masters of the present are, —London: Pub lished by May. New and Co. Music Sellers to her Royal Highness the Duchess of Kent, 17, Old Bond-street, where may be obtained every New Musical Publication.

**POREHGN MUSIC.**—T. BOOSEY and Co. Importers of Forreign Music, 28, Holles street, Oxford-street, respectfully inform the Nobi ity and Public, that they have just published (gratis) a CATALOGUE of CHOICE COMPOSITIONS of the most admired FOREHGN COMPOSERS, of which they have just published (gratis) a CATALOGUE of CHOICE COMPOSITIONS of the most admired FOREHGN COMPOSERS, of which they have lately published correct and elegant editions, including the latest Productions of Beethoven, Hummel, Moscheles, Steibelt, &c. for the Piano Forte; and of Berbiguier, Gabrielsky, and Romberg, for the Flate. This Catalogue also contains all the Operas of Mozart, Possini, &c. arranged for the Piano and Voice, the Foreign correct, elegant, and cheap Editions.

**NEHOLSON**, 1st Fantasia with "La ci darem," and "Roslyn Castle," 4s. — Michael Schole Schole Schole Schole Schole Schole Schole Schole Schole Sc

KUHLAU. Three Grand Trios, for Three Flutes, Nos. 1, 2, and 3:

KUHLAU. Three Grand Trios for Two Flutes, with "Di tanti," Vars. 6s.

YAUDANO Two ditto for ditto, with "Sul Margine d'un Río," Vars. 3s. 66.

TULOU. Aria, with Eight Variations for Two Flutes, Op. 20 3s.

NICHOLSON, "LE BOUQUET;" or, FLOWERS of MELODY, as Solos or Dues, No. 12, completing the First Volume of this admired work GABRIELSKY, Six Duets for Two Flutes; brilliant, but not difficult, Op. 52; in Two Books ...

Six Themes, with brilliant Variations (one Flute only) 4s.

Grand Trio, for Three Flutes, Op. 34

KUHLAU. Three Grand Trios, for Three Flutes, Nos. 1, 2, and 3: prices 5s. 4s. and 3s. 6d.

WEISS. Grand Pot Pourri, for Three Flutes, with favourite Airs, 4s.

WILKINS: Fifteen Scotch and Irish Airs, harmonived for 3 Flutes, 4s.

IGF The last Number of Nicholson's PRECEPTIVE LESSONS is engraving.

NEW MUSIC.—Just published.

"WF FRE a' noddin at our house at hame," a favourite Scotch Ballad, with Variations for the Piano Porte, composed by Perdiuand Ries, price 3s. Second Polonaise Duet for two Performers on one Piano Forte, Op. 93, composed by ditto, price 4s. A selection of the most avourite Airs in the Ballet of Nina, arranged as Duets for the Harp and Piano Forte, with Flu'e Accompaniment (ad. lib.) by Bochsa, price Ss.
"My Lodging is on the cold Ground," Irish Melody, with Variations for the Harp by ditto, price 3s. 6d. Jonelli's celebrated Chaconne, with an Introduction, adapted by J. B. Gramer, price 2s. 6d. Grand Triumphal March in the Tragedy of Coriolamis, as a Duet for two Performers on one Piano Forte, composed by T. Cooke, price 3s. "France, belovel native Land," Song, suns by Mrs. Bland in the Entertainment of Monsteur Tomon, arranged by ditto, price 1s. 8d. A Treatise on Harmony, with practical Examples, and Thirty Studies in all the Major and Minor Keys, composed by Charles Fraderick Horn, in Three Books, each 5.—London: published by, and to be had at, the Royal Harmonic Institution, Lower Saloon, Argyli Rooms, Regent-street.

**CARDS of Terms of a respectable CLASSICAL BOARDING.**

CARDS of Terms of a respectable CLASSICAL BOARDING SCHOOL for YOUNG GENTLEMEN, in the Neighbourhood of Camden Hill, Keysington, may be had at Messrs. T. and G. Underwood, Booksellers, 32, Fleet-street, and at Mr. Hailes's Buseum, Piccadilly.

IFE IN PARIS.—The FIRST NUMBER of this WORK, containing Coloured Characteristic Plates, Drawa and Engraved by Mr. GEORGE CRUIKSHANK, was published on the 15th Instant.—The SECOND NUMBER will appear on the FIRST of DECEMBER.

TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.

AND GUARDIANS.

LONDON SOLICITOR, who has been Five Years in Business, and has, from the extreme respectability of his connexion, attained unusual progress, is in immediate want of an ARTICLED CLERK of good Education and diligent Habits. The Clerk would have more than common opportunities for self-improvement, as the whole of the Business would pass directly under his own eye, nuder the constant personal superintendance of his Master. None need apply whose references will not bear the stric est scrutiny. Premium to be regulated by the Habits and Abilities of the Pupil, and the means of his Parent or Guardian.—Letters, addressed (post paid) "E. B. at Mr. Weedon's, Law Stationer, Cursitor-street, Holburn," will meet with respectful attaction. spectful attention.

SUICIDE.—THIS EVENING, an ATTEMPT at SUICIDE PROVIDENTIALLY ARRESTED, will be practically improved in a SERMON, at St. Antholin's, Watling street, by the Rev. S. PIGGOTT, A.M. by the express desire of Mr. G. Furneaux, who lately st of himself at White Conduit-house. Service to commence at a quarte before Seven. If The Sermon will be published To-morrow morning by J. Robins and Co. Ivy-lane, Paternoster-row, place 18.

In the press, and early in December will be published, in 3 vols. 12mo.

In the press, and early in December will be published, in 3 vols. 12mo.

IR ANDREW WYLLE of that U.K.—By the Author of "Annals of the Parish," &c.

Printed for T. Cadell, Strand, London; and Win. Blackwood, Edinburgh; of whom may be had,

2. The AVRSHIBE LEGATBES, 12mo. 7s.

3. The ANNALS of the PARISH, 12mo. 8s.

Just published, in I vol. 8ro. with Plates and Wood Cuts, price 14s boards,

A COURSE of LECTURES on Drawing, Painting, and Engraving, considered as Branches of Elegant Education.—By W. M. CRAIG, delivered in the Royal Institution on successive Seasons, and read subsequently at the Russ-Il Institution.

Printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, London.

Just published, in 2 vols. post 8vo. price 12s. boards,
APPINESS a Pale for the Grave and the Gay.

Bringed by Frincis Wesdey, 10, Stationers court, Ludgate-street; of whom may be had, recently published.

2. NO FICTION, Fifth Edition, 2 vols. post 8vo. price 12s. boards.

NINE ORPHANS!—NO FATHER—NO MOTHER!

ONDON ORPHAN ASYLUM.—Your VOTES and INTEREST are most carneally requested for AFFRED BOREMAN.—His Father was a very respectable resident in Bucklershur, in the Manchester trade, and died a few weeks since ander the most dis ressing circumstances, leaving a Widow (who is since dead) and Nine Children utterly destitute.
Proxies thankfully received by Mrs. DANN, Hackney, and T. B. AVBLING, Truman's Brewery, Spitalfields.

THE WHOOW BOREMAN AND FAMILY.

A PPEAL is made to the PUBLIC on behalf of the Wideling of the North Street of the Wideling of the PUBLIC on behalf of the Wideling of the North Street of the Wideling of the North Street of the tisement) and the Proxies or Votes of any Lady or Gentleman, subscribers for this Charity will be thankfully received by Mr. Aveling, at Truman's Brewery, Spitalields.

"The unifort inter Mother died on Wednesday the 14th Instant.

"Donation's referred by Sir Win Curtis, Bart, and Co. Bankers, Lombard street, and by Mr. Aveling as above.

The following additional Subscriptions have been received:

John Martin, Esq. M. P. 210. 0 B. and B.

James Webb, Esq. 10 0 B. and B.

Wr. T. Robarts, Esq. 10 0 B. and B.

Wr. T. Robarts, Esq. 10 0 B. Mr. Charles Soames 1 George Paton, Bsq. 5 1 B. Mr. Forster 1 George Paton, Bsq. 5 1 B. Mr. Forster 1 George Paton, Bsq. 5 1 Br. F. Forster 1 George Paton, Bsq. 5 1 Br. F. Forster 1 George Paton, Bsq. 5 1 Mr. Z. Levy, jun. 1 Solomon Sheldon 1 0 Mr. Z. Levy, jun. 1 Solomon Sheldon 1 0 Mr. A. C. 1 Mr. George Fraas 10s. 6d

Swaine 1 0 Mr. George Fraas 10s. 6d

Swaine 1 0 Mr. George Fraas 10s. 6d

Ray 1 0 L. W. 1 John J. awreace 1 0 A. C. G. 1 John J. awreace 1 0 A. C. G. 1 John J. awreace 1 0 Mr. T. Biake 2 1 Mr. W. Hitchcock 1 0 Mr. T. Biake 2 1 Mr. W. Hitchcock 1 0 Mr. T. Biake 2 1 Mr. W. Hitchcock 1 0 Mr. T. Biake 2 1 Mr. C. C. S. 2 1 Mr. W. Hitchcock 1 0 Mr. T. Biake 2 2 1 Mr. C. C. S. 2 1 Mr. C. H. W. Hitchcock S. A. Vardon Toppin Mr. T. Blake H. Balland Thomas Gribble, Jun. 1 0 Z.S. 1 0 Mr. T 1 0 T 1 0 W B 2 0 R.S. T. C. B. D. and T. L.

Just published, price 3s. 12mo, boards,
COUNTRY PARSON'S FIRST OFFERING to his MOTHER CHURCH; in Nine Pastoral Sermons.
Printed for J. Parker, Oxford; F. C. and J. Rivington, St. Paul's Churchyard, and Waterloo-place, London; and J. Upham, Bath.

LAST NIGHT'S GAZETTE.

At the Court at Carlton-House, the 14th of November, 1821, present, the King's Most Excellent Majesty in Council, it is this day ordered by His Majesty in Council, that the Parliament he proregued from Thursdaythe twenty-ninth day of this justant November, to Thursday the third day of twenty-ninth day of this instant November, to Thursday the third day of January next.

WAR OFFICE, Nov. 16, 1821.

1st Regt. Drag. Guarda.—To be Lieuta.—Cornets T. Alcock, vice Treviltian, and N. C. Knatchbull, from the lat Drags. vive Stephenson.

3d Ditto.—To be Capts.—Lieuta. J. Rolland, vice Evans, and E. Methold, from the 19th Licht Dragoons, vice Stracey.—To be Lieuta.—Cornet and Lieut. Hon. G. R. Abercrumbie, vice Rolland.

4th Ditto.—Lieut. N. L. Beamish, from half-pay of the Regiment, to be Lieut, vice Slocock.

6th Pitto.—Cornet J. S. Brynier, to be Lieut. vice Dunne, and P. Wiss, Gent. to be Cornet, vice Brynier.

2d Regt. of Drags.—Prevet Lieut. Col. T. P. Hankin, to be Lieut. Col. vice Clarke: Capt. J. Grey, from the 10 h Light. Drags. to be Biglor, vice Hankin; Gornet J. F. S. Clarke, to be Lieut. vice Trater; C. S. Smith, Gent. to be Cornet, vice Clarke.

4th Regt. of Light Drags.—Lieut. W. Nepsan, from the 16th Light Drags. to be Capt. vice Nordiffe.

6th Regt. of Drags.—To be Capts.—Cupt. G. Randall, from half-pay of the Regt. vice Douglas, and Capt. B. Waydacote, from the 43d Root, vice Kersteman.

7th Regt. of Light Drags.—To be Lieuts. Cornet. Nord of Relight Waydacote.

Th Regt. of Light Drays—To be Lieuts.—Cornet Earl of Belfast, vice Seymour, and Cornet Hon. E. S. Pery, from the 6th Drays, vice Chichester. 6th Ditto—To be Lieuts.—Lieut. W. Murphy, from half-pay 26th Light Drays, vice Samey; Cornet R. S. Hewett, vice Mayer; Cornet and Adj. A. J. Stroment. Seymour, and Cornet Hon. E. S. Pery, from the 6th Drags, vice Chichester. 8th Ditto—To be Lieut.—Lieut. W. Murphy, from hali-pay 26th Light Drags, vice Saney; Cornet B. S. Hewest, vice Mayer; Cornet and Adj. A.J. Stammers.
9th Ditto—Cornet J. Y. Scarlett, from the 18th Light Drags, to be Lieuk vice Lord G. Bentinck.
10th Ditto—Lieut. T. Otway, to be Capt., vice Grey, and Cornet R. S. Conway, Viscount Beauchamp, to be Lieut. vice-Burdett 11th Ditto—Lord. J. N. Creighton, from the 17th Foot, to be Capt vice Elliott, and Lieut, W. White, from half-pay 28th Light Drags, to be Lieut., vice D. Allingham.
12th Reg. Lt. Drag.—Capt. G. F. Erskine to be Maj. vice-Bridger, and Lieut W. Hav to be Capt.
15th Ditto—Cornet W. Scott, to be Lieut. vice Penuingtan.
16th Ditto—Cornet W. Scott, to be Lieut. vice Penuingtan.
17th Ditto—Cornet W. Hontronery to be Lieut. vice Penuingtan.
17th Ditto—Cornet W. Pott to be Lieut. vice De L'Etang. To be Cornets. W. Penu, Gent. vice Raven, and Eusign Hon. N. H. C. Massey, from 17th Foot, vice Pott.
18th Dito—Lieut. A. Bacon, from 13th Lz Brag, to be Capt. vice Luard, and Cornet J. Lestie to be Lieut. vice Niskett. To be Cornet—A. Shewell, Gent. vice Scott, and G. Lyon, Gent. vice Laing.
19th Dito—Lieut. J. Gowdie to be Capt. vice Hummersley. To be Lieut.—Cornet G. Mecham, vice Method), and Cornet A. W. Dashwood, vice Gowdie. To be Cornet—H. A. O'Neill, Gent. vice Mecham.
1st or Gret. Regt. Foot Guards—To be Lieut. and Capts.—Lieut. G. Thornton, vice Powell, and Lieut. Hon. F. H. Needham, vice Gronow. To be Ensign and Lieuts.—See. Lieut. Hon. F. M. Needham, vice Gronow. To be Ensign and Lieuts.—See. Lieut. Hon. F. M. Needham, vice Gronow. To be Ensign W. Fludver, vice Needham.
Cold-stream Regt. Foot Guards—To be Lieut. J. Montague to be Lieut.—Col vice C. Plenderlenth.
2d Ditto—Lieut. R. M'Carthy, from the 39th Foot, to be Lieut. vice Proctor. 3d Ditto—Lieut. R. M'Carthy, from the 39th Foot, to be Lieut. Vice Sphultze.
2th Ditto—Lieut. R. Armstrong to be Capt. vice English, and Cornet Hon.

sign G. W. Rothe to be Lieux, vice remains and respective Rothe.

14th Regt of Poot—To be Lieuts.—Braikh W. Keowen, vice Newenham; Enslen J. M. Wood, vice Akenside; Lieut. R. Ware, from the 39th Foot, vice Jenour. To be Enslen—R. Nayler, Gent. vice Keowen.

15th Ditto—Lieut. J. V. Temple, from half-pay of the 33d Foot, so be Lieut.

15th Ditto—Lieut. J. V. Temple, from half-pay of the 32d Poot, to be Lieut vide Armstrong.

16th Ditte—Brev. Lieut.-Col. A. Hamilton, from the 2d Ceylon Regt. to be Major, vice Vandeleur.

17th Ditto—Capt. W. Elliott, from the 11th Lt. Draz, to be Capt. vice Creighton. To be Lieuts.—Eusign E. O'Halloran, vice De Moor, and Ensign J. Carrathers, vice Pickeriog. To be Ensigns—R. C. Moffatt, Gent. vice O'Halloran, W. S. Moncrieffe, Gent. vice H. N. C. Massey; Gent. vice O'Halloran, W. S. Moncrieffe, Gent. vice H. N. C. Massey; Gent. Cadet C. Forbes, from the Royal Military College, vice Carrathers, 19th Ditto—Lieut. C. B. Forbes, to be Capt. vice M'Donald; Ensign H. H. Rose, to be Lieut. vice Forbes; J. D. Cogan, Gent, to be Ensign, vice Rose, 21st Ditto—Major J. T. Leahy to be Lieut.—Col. vice Noo'h, dec.; Capt. R. Gorden, to be Major, vice Leahy.

24th Ditto—To be Lieut.—Ensign G. Murray, vice School, appointed to the 57th Foot; Ensign.—H. W. Hartley, vice Berwick, appointed to the 13th Drag.—To be Ensigns.—Ensign W. ampbell, Grom half-pax, 71st Foot, vice Murray; W. M. Hopper, Gent. vice Hartley; Gent. Cadet, W. Buckley, from the Royal Mil. Coll. vice Hopper, whose appointment has not taken place.

28th Reg. of Foot-Lieut. E. H. Bridge nan, from the 21st Foot to be Capt. vice Kidd rice Kidd.

29th Ditto—Ensign R. S. Sitwell, to be Lieut. vice Penrose.

30th Ditto, — Marecheaux, Gent. to be Ensign, vice Paton.

31st Ditto—Lieut. W.S. Taylor, to be Capt. vice Ryan; Cornet J. Laing, from the 18th Lt. Drag. tobe Lieut. vice Taylor.

34th Ditto—Ensign F. Stanford to be Lieut. vice Bower, appointed to the 14th Foot.—To be Ensigns.—Gent. Cadet D. Costello, from the Royal Mil. Coll. vice Stanford: Ensign W. Belford, from the 10th Foot, vice Adams.

38th Ditto—Lieut. C. K. Procter, from the 2d Foot to be Lieut. vice M'Carthy.

39th Ditto—Lieut, A. G. Spiersito be Capt, vice Dundas; Easign Hen. H. R. Molyneux, from the 85th Foot, to be Lieut, vice Spiers.

41st Ditto—Lieut, H. D. Townshewd to be Capt, vice Tallou.—To be Lieuts.—Lieut, J. Dawson, from the 53d Foot, vice J. Mompesson; Ensign N. E. Smith, vice Townshend; Lieut, Hon. W. Horne, from half-pay 3d Foot Guards; vice Caldwell.—To be Ensign.—L. Tallon, Gent, vice Smith.—To be Adj.—Lieut, J. Cochran, from half-pay of the Reg, vice Smith, appointed Quartermaster.—To be Quartermaster.—Lieut, J. Smith, vice G. Thrower.

43d Regt. of Foot—Capt. T. Kersteman, from the 8th Drags, to be Capt, vice Whichcote.

43d Regt. of Foot—Capt. T. Kersteman, from the 6th Drags, to be Capt. vice Whicheote.

47th Disto—Lieut. P. Dundas to be Capt without purchase, vice Fetherston; Ensign W. D. Deverell to be Lieut. vice Dundas.—Gent. Cader D. Williams, from the Royal Mil. Coll. vice Brown; Gent. Cadet E. M. Frome, from the Royal Mil. Coll. vice Brown; Gent. Cadet E. M. Frome, from the Royal Mil. Coll. vice Brown; Gent. Cadet E. M. Frome, from the Royal Mil. Coll. vice Brown; Gent. Cadet E. M. Frome, 5th Ditto—Capt. N. Wodehouse to be Major, by purchase, vice Campbell; Lieut. Lord G. Bentinck, from the 9th Lt. Drags to be Capt. by purchase, vice Wodehouse.

51st Ditto—Ensign E. Matthews, to be Lieut. by purchase, vice Simpson; E. Williamson, Gent. to be Easign, by purchase, vice Matthews; Lieut. C. W. Tyndale to be Adj. vice Powell.

52d Ditto—Y. Young, Gent. to be Ensign, by purchase, vice Blois.

53d Ditto—Capt. M. Young, from half-pay of the Regt, to be Capt. vice T. Emery; Ensign H. Gravto be Lieut. without purchase, vice Davies.

55th Ditto—Major J. Skerrett, from the 76th Foot, to be Lieut.—Col. by purchase, vice Frederick.—Lieut. F. H. Hall, by purchase, vice Daviell; Br. Major M. Prager, from Sub-Insp. of Millfin in the Ionbur Islands, vice White, to be Capts.

55th Ditto—Ensign E. Coventry to be Lieut without purchase, vice Carmichael; J. M. Gregor, Gent. to be Ensign, vice Coventry.

to be Capts.

59th Ditta—Ensign E. Coventry to be Lieut. without purchase, vice Carmichael; J. M' Gregor, Gent. to be Easign, vice Coventry.

58d Ditto—Lieut. H. D. Campbell to be Capt. by purchase, vice Boxall; Ensign H. W. Stewart to be Lieut. vice Campbell; P. H. Mitchell, Gent. to be Ensign, by purchase, vice Stewart.

67th Ditto—Er. Major G. Bunce. from half-pay 24th Lt. Drags. to be Capt. rice Bray.—Lieut. M. Schooff, ir m 24th Foot, vice Rowan; Easign J. Paton, from 30th Foot, vice Marriott, due; to be Lieuts. without purchase.

69th Ditto—Ensign F. G. D'Arcey, Marquess of Carmarthen, from half-pay Royal West India Rangers, to be Ensign, vice Jenour.

71st Ditto—Lieut. R. Law to be Capt. by purch. vice Armstrong; Ensign G. H. Lightbody to be Lieut. by purchase, vice Law; A. C. Gregory, Gent. to be Ensign, by purchase, vice Law.

72d Ditto-Lieut.C. F. Maclean from the 77th Foct, to be Capt. by pur-72d Ditto—Lieut. C. F. Maclean from the 77th Foct, to be Capt. by purchase, vice Fletcher.

76th Ditto—Capt. R. B. Coles to be Major, by purchase, vice Skerrett.
79th Ditto—Lieut. R. Burdett, from the 10th Lt. Drags. to be Capt. by purchase, vice Mylne; Lieut. D. Campbell, to be Add. vice Cowen.
8th Ditto—Knsign Hon. C. Boylers be Lieut. by purchase, vice Mansell; Gent. Cadet L. S. Demay, from the Royal Mil. Cell, to be Ensign, by purchase, vice Boyle.
85th Ditto—J. Wetherall, Gent. to be Ensign, by purchase, vice Molyneux.
86th Ditto—Capt. M. Creach to be Ensign, by purchase, vice Molyneux.
86th Ditto—Capt. M. Creach to be Major, by purchase, vice Molyneux.
86th Ditto—Capt. M. Creach to be Ensign, by purchase, vice Mulliams to be Lieut. by purchase, vice Williams.
87th ditto—Asst.-Surg. W. Brown, from balf-pay 24th L. Drag. 10 be Aast.
88th ditto—Asst.-Surg. E. M'Iver, from balf-pay 9th R.V. Batt. to be Asst.
89th Ditto—Lieut. C. O'Neil, from balf-pay 93d Font, to be Lieut. vice 83th ditto—Asst. Surg. B. M'Iver, from half-pay 9th R.V. Batt. to be Asst. Surg. vice Bartlett.

89th Ditro—Lieut. C. O'Neil, from half-pay 93d Font, to be Lieut. vice Ware; C. Arrow, Gent. to be Basign, without purchase, vice Norcott; Lieut. Lleut. C. S. Naylor to be Adj. vice Cannon.
9lat Ditto—Brev. Lieut. Col. G. Rochfort, from half-pay 160th Foot, to be Major, vice Barrington; Lieut. J. W. Dunne, from the 6th Drag. Guarda, to be Capt. by purchase; vice Gun; Lieut. A. Buchan to be Adj. vice Scott; Basigu J. Miller, from half-pay 7th West India Regt. to be Quartermaster, vice Manley; Surg. R. Ayton, from half-pay Royal West India Rangers, to be Surg. vice Douglas.

92d Pitro = Lieut. Col. D. Williamson, from half-pay 4th Foot, to be Lieut. Col. vice Neynoe.

Rife Brigade—Brevet bleut. Col. J. Fullarton, to be Major, vice Leach.

Col vice Neymon.

Rife Brigade—Brevet Meut. Col. J. Fullarton, to be Major, vice Leach.

To be Capta.—Eleut. W. W. Stephenson, from 1st Dragoon Guards, vice Trayers, and Meut. W. N. Orange, vice Fullarton.

To be First Lieut.—See Lieut. C. L. Boileau, vice Orange.

To be Sec, Lieuts.—G. Townley, Gent. vice Boileau, and C. Danieil, Gent. vice Ambergt.

To be Sec, Lieuts,—G. Townley, Gent. vice Boilean, and C. Daniell, Gent. vice Amberst.

2d West India Regt.—Lieut. A. Findlay, to be Captain, vice Parsonage.

2d Geylon Regt.—Lieut. J. H. Slade, from the 12th Light Drags. to be Capt. vice Hamilton.

BREVET.—Lieut. Gen. F. Baron Hompesch, to be General in the Army. To be Majors in the Army.—Captains G. Cobbe of the Royal Artillery; F. Gordon, ditto: G. Nicholis, 66th Foot, and J. Longden, 33d Foot.

BANKRUPTCIES SUPERSEDED.

FIGES, T. and R. G. LONGCROFT, Romsey, common-brewers.

LANGSTAFF, W. Liverpool, merchant.

SCHMAECK, A. Bury-court, St. Mary-axe, merchant.

TWIGG, J. Cheapskle, warehouseman.

BANKRUPTS.

BANKRUPTS. BANKRUPTS.
ANDREWS. E. Worcester, booksel er.
BRYAN, W. L. and GUNNELL, G. Poultry, printers.
CATTELL, W. Titton, Worcestershire, miller.
COUTES, J. Weobly, Hereford, tanner.
COOPER, W. Liverpool, draper.

COOPER, W. Liverpool, draper.
DAVIDSON, T. and MILLIGAN, J. Liverpool, merchants.
EYRE, W. Cockspur-street, trunk-maker.
GREEN, G. and J. and S. Sheffield, merchants.
GOTOBED, W. Stretham, Isle of Ely, butcher.
GRAHAM, Sir R. Bart. RAILTON, J. and J. and YOUNG, J. London.

erchants. GREEN, G. and J. and S. Shoffield, edge-tool-manufacturers one chants.

GREEN, G. and J. and S. Sheffield, edge-tool-manufacturers.

GA'E, M. A. Liverpool, tailor.

HAYDON, L. and HEN DY, J. K. Welheek-street, auctioneers.

KINNER, W. and S. Nothing-hill, Middlesex, stage-coach-proprietors.

KIPPEN, D. Stangate-wharf, Lambeth, timber-merchant.

MATCHEWS, T. High Holborn, linen-draper.

MURRAY, J. Parkhead, Cumberland, butter and bacon-dealer.

MURRAY, J. Parkhead, Cumberland, butter and bacon-dealer.

MURRAY, J. Parkhead, Cumberland, butter and bacon-dealer.

NEEDHAM, R. Queen's-buildings, Brompton-road, silversmith.

ROBINSON, W. and R. Worthing, commun-carriers.

RICHARDSON, F. Cheapside, warehouseman.

RAILSTON, J. North Shleida, ship owner.

SHERVIN, J. Burslem, fromponger.

SPENCER, T. Gray's-lim-lane, livery-stable-keeper.

STREETS, W. Aldermanhury, gallpon-nanufacturer.

NORTHCOTE, C. S'oke-upon-Trent, Staffordshire, manufacturer of cart'seaward, NORTHCOTE, H. S. Lime-street, wine-merchant.

SIMISTER, J. and R. and J. Birminghams, button-makers.

SANDERS, J. M. Ipswich, frommonger.

TILLS, W. the elder, Mistley, Essex, merchant.

TUESDAY'S GAZETTE.

TUBSDAY'S GAZETTE.

The names of those who were nominated for Sharifs, by the Lords of the Connell, at the Exchequer, on the marrow of 81. Martin, in the second year of the reign of King deorge the Pourth, and in the year of outlord one theusand eight hundred and twenty-one:—Bedfordshire—T. C. Higgins, of Turrey, Eeq.; C.J. Meteslif, of Roxton, Eaq.; P. A. Lantour, of Stanghton, Eaq.—Berkshire—A. E. M. Attins, of Engatun Liste, Eaq.; Sir G. Eaxt, of Hall, place, Bart, ic. Fuller, of Filberts, Eaq.—Buckinghamshire—B. Way, of Denham, Eaq.; J. Norris, of Ugenden-house, Eaq.; J. Drummond, of Denham, Eaq.—Cambridge-shire and Huntingdonshife—B. J. Addish, of Babraham, Eaq.; Sir C. E. Nightingale, of Engature Bartinghamshife—B. J. Addish, of Babraham, Eaq.; Sir C. E. Nightingale, of Engature Bartingham, Eaq.; Eachire—C. Wickstood, of Haideloy, Eaq.; H. Brocke, of Church Minchall, Eaq.; E. Hanley, of Pensonsky-hall, Eaq.; T. J. Phillips, of Landew, Eaq.; D. Howell, of Prideaux, Eaq. Derbychire—P. Gell, of Hopton, Eaq.; J. Toplia, of Wirksworth, Eaq.; B. Heathords, of Littlewer, Eaq.—Deronahire—Bir T. F. E. Drake, of Nutwell-court, Bart; T. Bewen, of Plymouth Dock, Eaq.; B. B. Dickinson, of Tiver-Cop, Eaq.—Deronahire—Bir T. F. E. Drake, of Nutwell-court, Bart; T. Bewen, of Plymouth Dock, Eaq.; B. B. Dickinson, of Tiver-Cop, Eaq.—Derochabire—A. Bain, of Predfetcher, Eaq.—Hord, Copyre, of Cophall, Eaq.; P. Dubana, they outside the Standard Eaq.; P. Dubana, they outside Eaq.; P. Harty of Charley, Eaq.; J. Smith, of Standard Eaq.; P. P. Harty of Parkhouse, Eaq.; Eaq.; P. Harty of Parkhouse, Eaq.; Eaq.; P. P. Harty of Parkhouse, Eaq.; P. P. Publand, of Parkhouse, Eaq.; P. P. Publand, of Parkhouse, Eaq.; P. P. Publand, of Parkhouse, Eaq.; P. P

PARTNERSHIPS DISSOLVED.

PARTNERSHIPS DISSOLVED.

Baker and Saunderson, Lombard-street, (ne trade.)—Messrs. Hitchon, Wakefield, woolstaplers.—Wells and Powell, Birmingham, innholdera.—Smithies and Hyde, Stayley-bridge, (no trade.)—G. and H. Robinson, Little Dean, Gloucestershire, iron-masters.—Eckersley and Ambler, Wigan, calleo-manufacturera.—Sanderson and Kemp, Park-steet, Grosvenor-square, coal-merchants.—Wall. Looker, and Bodenham, Abchurch-lane, dealers in sugar.—Jones, Mather. Parkes, and Mather, Jun. Buckley, Flintsbire, manufacturers of fire bricks.—Weld & Louthin, New Bond-stueet, tailors.—Gill & Bell, Norwich, cabinet-makera.—W. and W. Withers, Jun. Holt, Norfolk, attorneys.—Cliffe and Homewood, Jun. Steward-street, silk-manufacturers.—Haughten and Spittle, Chapel-street, Grosvenor-square, hurse-dealers.—M'Loan and Fynney, Liverpool, lace-dealers.

BANKRUPTCY ENLARGED.

BANKRUPTCY ENLARGED. WILLIAMS, H. Plough-court, Lombard-street, mer

BANKRUPTS.
ESBEN, J. Stangate-street, Lambeth, slater.
HALL, C. G. and H. B. Grovenor-street Wast, Pimileo, carpenters.
MILLAR, A. Cardigan place, Vauxball-ruad, tallow-chandler.
DIVIDENDS.

DIVIDENDS.

Dec. 15, J. Smyth, Maldstone, coal-merchant.—Dec. 4, T. Mulligan, Bath, silk-mercer.—Nov. 27, R. Hodgsen, Fleet-street, oliman.—Nov. 17, C. Mackenzie, Caroline-street, Bedford-square, merchant.—Dec. 7, J. Peet, Ashton, hinge-manufacturer.—Dec. 4, J. Sanders, Ivybridge, tanner.—Nov. 20, G. J. Swain, Mansell-street, Goodman-S-delds, warzhouseman.—Dec. 5, T. Bury, Exeter, factor.—Dec. 6, J. Marshall, Gainsburgh, drugglet.—Dec. 6, J. Smith, Sudbury, upholsterer.—Dec. 4, J. Boyce, Bordesley, near Birming-ham, brass-founder.—Dec. 4, G. Houghton, Hersules-buildings, Lambeth, builder.—Dec. 14, H. Huntriss, Liverpool, merchant.—Dec. 11, H. Smith, Blackburn, cotton-manufacturer.—Dec. 10, J. Burleigh, Bristol, brass-founder.—Dec. 11, J. Woods, jun. Portsea, baker.—Dec. 8, J. Toxer, Alderman's walk, and W. C. Brown, Stonebouse, merchant.—Dec. 13, B. Hebbe, Reddridge, timber-merchant.—Dec. 4, H. Trollope, Reading, linen-draper.—Dec. 4, J. W. Sowerby, Fish-street-hill, marchant.—Dec. 4, W. Marshall, Regent-street, Westminter, mason.—Dec. 4, F. C. Lilley, Copthall-buildings, tailor.

CERTIFICATES-Dec. 4.

J. Pitts, Hereford, wheelwright.—J. Henshaw, Gloucester-place, Portman-equare, stationer.—T. H. Ainsworth, Halliwell, calico-printer.—H. Moseley, St. George in the East, Staffordshire, warehouse-keeper.—J. Fee, Kingston-upon-Hull, broker.—R. Consitt and R. Lee, Kingston-upon-Hull, merehants —J. Penn, Birmingham, soap-boiler.—W. Jackson, Bristol, corn-factor.—W. Ansell, Cambridge, cabinet-maker.—J. Lee, Noble-atteet, jeweller.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—A letter, which was inserted some time ago, in the public journals of London, announced, that the English who visit France met with great difficulty respecting the re-embarkation of the horses which they brought with them. This is only correct with respect to entire horses and mares.—Geldings, on being taken out of France, are subject only to a tax of 15 francs per head. But with regard to those which remain prohibited, conformably to the laws of the 15th of March, 1791, and the 7th June, 1820, we are informed, that the French Administration has just given instructions to the Customs' offices to reserve in favour of travellers the right of taking back with them their horses of whatever denomination they may be, their identity being previously insured by a registry, minutely detailing the animals' description. A meeting yesterday took place in the Champs Elysees, between Mr. Norton, attended by George Ferguson, Esq. and Lieut.-Col. Hunter, of the Grenadier Guards, attended by Captain Gronow, of the same regiment. The parties were to fire by signal: Mr. Norton fired without effect, upon which Lieut.-Col. Hunter discharged his pistol in the air. Upon this the seconds put a stop to all further proceedings, conceiving the result to have been perfectly satisfactory to Mr. Norton's honour, and equally so to the honour of Lieut.-Col. Hunter.—Gallignani's Messenger.

Nov. 11.—A letter from Spain, of a very recent date, contains the following sentence:—"I have learned from the War Department, that the Russian envoy, received three days ago, intelligence of the peace of that Power with the Porte; sacrificing, said the Emperor, his own interest to that of legitimacy."—Gazette de France.

The Journal de Paris states:—"A letter from Bâle, dated the 9th instant, announces to us that General Rapp died at six o'elock on the morning of that day, at his country seat of Reinweiler, four

The Journal de Paris states:—"A letter from Bale, dated the 8th instant, announces to us that General Rapp died at six o'clock on the morning of that day, at his country seat of Reinweiler, four leagues from that town.

